The Board of Works last night received a petition from twenty-six teamsters who have drawn stone for the city. They have asked that their wage of $3.00 a cord be increased to $3.50. A deputation had arranged to be present, but they were all absent except Mr. E. J. Hickey, who made up for the deficiency of numbers by a strong plea.

Mr. Hickey stated that the teamsters had been talking over the matter and they were all agreed that three dollars a cord was too small a price for drawing stone from three to four miles. "It should be four dollars," he said, "but it is better to have a half a loaf than no bread, so we split the difference." Some of the teamsters had to buy the stone and Mr. Hickey himself had to pay $25.00 for a fence in which there were about 100 cords. One half a cord a load was, in Mr. Hickey's opinion, good work, especially when the stone was drawn to the lower crusher. Two trips a day was about the average, and Mr. Hickey said that this rate left but a small wage for the teamsters after the expenses incurred in drawing the stone had been met. He hoped that the Board would see their way clear to making the increase as required. The question will be decided later.

RAILWAY SIDELINES.

The building of the Grand Trunk Pacific from ocean to ocean is not all. It won't long be a single line trailing across a continent, but it will throw our steel traffic tentacles at scores of points, widening its area of transportation service. Montreal will be connected by a line southward; Ontario via North Bay waill be connected at Abitibi. A line will be built from the Soo to the main line. A line is already built to connect it with Port Arthur; and, at different points along its route across the prairie, feeding lines will be driven into virgin territories, north and south. A despatch from Vancouver, B.C., says that, "Apart from rushing the main line construction in the north this year, the Grand Trunk Pacific is about to formulate plans for building branch lines in British Columbia on a scale of magnitude never dreamed of by the public." One line is intended to tap the Crow's Nest Pass coal deposits in East Kootenay. It will be an extension of the G.T.P. branch lines in Alberta. Meanwhile the main line east of Prince Rupert will be pushed with all possible expedition in the spring. What the C.P.R. has become as a factor in national development, the new Transcontinental line will become. It has as great resources to draw upon, as great trade avenues to open up and develop. There is room for both. The more that both thrive the better it will be for Canada.

The total of capital invested in the 22,152 miles (1907) of railway in Canada $1,171,9937,808.

THE OPENING SESSION.

To-day the first session of the eleventh Parliament of Confederated Canada, opened with due formalities at Ottawa. It is probable that the session will be a comparatively short one. There are few contentious subjects of legislation. The only subject that is likely to excite much intensity of discussion is the proposed revision of the rules of parliamentary procedure, with a view of preventing so much waste of time and money implied in lengthening the duration of sessions, as noticable in that of last year. This is a subject that well could, in the public interests, be dispassionately discussed. It is not a party question, it is one in which, having regard to the dignity and usefulness of parliament, both sides are interested. The party in power at present, may, in the course of time, be the party in Opposition, and will in that case have to be governed by the rules laid down for the general regulation of parliamentary procedure. It is suggested that a joint committee might be intrusted with the task of formulating rules which, while effectively safeguarding liberty of speech would conduce to a prevention of loss of time by vexatious and expressed obstruction. The two new treaties recently negotiated with the United States, will doubtless receive interested attention, and in regard to these no difference of opinion should exist, except as to the extent and thoroughness with which Canadian interests will be served and protected. The progress of the All-Red Line negotiations and the cable reform proposals of Hon. Rudolph Lemieux will excite interested discussion. It is also likely that Parliament will be asked to provide for the extension of the boundaries of Quebec, Ontario, Manitoba and Saskatchewan and unless some of the provinces assume unreasonable positions, this matter will not present much difficulty. There will be introduced important legislation in reference to insurance, which, with the information elicited, should not be difficult to agree upon. Another important measure to be dealt with is the bill making the giving or receiving of secret commission, either in transactions between the Government and private individuals, or between private individuals, unlawful. The measure will have to be ingeniously devised that will thoroughly prevent the exercise of the human anxiety for gain. There is reason to believe that the practice of gift giving to secure preference is not confined to the Marine Department; that it permeates very largely municipal and private dealings throughout the country. The falling off of revenue makes it probable that the estimates will be gauged pretty closely to the reduced national income, and indispensable public requirements. Many minor matters will have to be dealt with, but, on the whole, it is expected that the sessional duration will not be as unduly prolonged as it was last year. The Opposition returns to the House strengthened and deprived of its most contentious elements. It will not feel the need of so energetic self assertion. If both parties unite in an earnest rivalry as to which can best serve national, instead of party interests, we may expect a comparatively short, harmonious and useful session.

The closing session of the Tenth Parliament of Canada had a duration of 235 days—the longest session in the history of the country. The shortest session was the second session of the Second Parliament—1813—sixteen days.

LICENSE REDUCTION.

The recent license reduction which has taken place in Toronto, and the agitation for similar action which is taking place elsewhere, leads the Toronto Star to trace the progress which we have been steadily making in this province looking to the curtailment of the liquor traffic.

In 1874 the total number of licenses in the province was at the 6,000 mark. It was cut down in that and the succeeding four years until in 1878 it had fallen to 3,750. In the next five years it rose again until it was over the 4,200 mark in 1883. There were heavy reductions in the years from 1883 to 1887, by which time the number of licenses had been cut down to 1,850 for the whole province. Then followed a reaction. In the two years 1883 and 1889 the number of licenses rose again until it almost reached the 3,000 mark. Since 1889 the reduction though it has never been as rapid as it was in the preceding periods of reduction, has been steady; the number of licenses has fallen year by year, until it is now at the 2,200 mark.

Looking back over the thirty-five years it is seen that the lowest point was reached in 1887, in the Scott Act era, and that the local option campaign of recent years is again bringing the curve down close to that point. It is also to be noted that the total number of liquor licenses in Ontario to-day is not much more than one-third of what it was in 1874. The census of 1871 found the population of Ontario at the figure 1,620,851. The census of 1901 found it at 2,182,947. It is assuredly some hundreds of thousands greater now than it was eight years ago. Yet, with a population which it is surely within the mark to estimate as 50 per cent. greater than its population in 1874, Ontario has to-day, speaking roundly, only one liquor license for every three that it had in 1871.

The record is a gratifying one, and will be accepted as indicating progress towards temperance reform despite any plausible arguments of a contrary kind. If the liquor-selling interest did not believe that fewer licenses meant decreased consumption there would not be such determined opposition to efforts at reduction, and if the temperance reformers did not believe that fewer drinking places meant lessened temptation and an improvement of the places in which liquor is sold they would not strive as energetically as they do for a reduction in the number of licenses.—Brantford Expositor.

$35,000,000 LOST IN DAIRYING.

Dairymen will find something to interest them in the report of the dairy herd competition, carried out under the direction of the Western Ontario Dairymen's Association, given on page five of this issue.

There were ten herds in this competition altogether. None of the herds contained less than eight head, while there were twenty in one of those in the contest. The average money returns per cow obtained for butter fat or milk supplied dairy factories during six months, from the herds in competition, ran from $30.70 in the case of the poorest to $68.50 in case of the best. No less than seven out of the ten gave an average return of well over $50 per cow in the six months. If the returns for these seven herds could be figured up for the whole year it is probable it would be found that in not one of the lot was the average return per cow less than $65, or at least $25 over and above cost of feed. If all the dairy cows of Ontario could be brought up to that level—and there is no reason why they should not—the total returns from the milkers of the Province would be $35,000,000 a year more than they are now. In other words, $35,000,000 a year of the possible returns from dairying are now being lost.—Weekly Sun.

The Dominion Government last Monday achieved its concluding electoral victory. The Liberal candidate, Mr. F. T. Congdon, was elected member for the Yukon by a majority of 4,200. There were three candidates in the field.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The Mail and Empire will make a fault in its opponent one way or the other. It condemns the Government for giving a bonus to civil service employees after the elections instead of before, when as it asserts candidates could hold out promises of the bonus as a bait for votes. If the bonus had been granted before the elections the organ would have called it a corrupt appeal to the support of the electors.

Professor Walter F Wilcox states that one million two hundred and fifty thousand divorces have been granted in the United States within forty-two years. This, says Goldwin Smith in Weekly Sun, is absolutely astounding. He reckons that one marriage in every twelve now ends in divorce, and that before the end of the century, unless the divorce rates decrease, there will be one divorce for every two marriages; the country at the same time will be filled with the children of divorced parents. Such a state of things would be a complete desecration of marriage, and almost a dissolution of the community.

The bona fides of the Whitney Government is not proof against pressure. The Government promised to grant no more liquor licenses in New Ontario; but a license has been given a hotel in Englehart. No doubt hotel accommodation is needed, but a promise is a promise. The Government will doubtless seek to justify its want of faith with the temperance people in this matter, but it has established a precedent which will not consistently prevent its yielding to other places in New Ontario that want licenses. It is, however, not a question of whether licenses are less desirable than "blind pigs," but of want of good faith.

The increase of Ottawa's municipal assessment last year was nearly six million dollars—$6,830,186. If this increase is a material one, not evolved from the judgment of the assessor, the capital is doing well and sharing in the progress which prevails throughout the Dominion. Ottawa seems destined to become an important and beautiful city, of which all Canadians can be proud. A good deal of its beauty is due to Sir Wilfrid Laurier, who has expressed his ambition of making "Ottawa the Washington of the north." But why comparison? Why not be content with making it the Ottawa beautiful of Canada, without any reference to the capital of a foreign and commercially hostile country?

A guard boat in Hong Kong Harbour in an unguarded moment fired two shots upon a British steamer for loafing a raft. The captain, single handed and armed with a revolver, boarded the guard boat, arrested the commander and turned him over to a British gun boat. This action, while it did not indicate lack of courage, was perhaps a perfectly safe one. The British officer with the authority and power of the Empire behind him, was, perhaps, more terrible to the Chinese officer than an army with banners of another nation. Of a piece with this is the deed more than once repeated, of a Northwest Mounted Policeman invading, single-handed, a hostile Indian camp to arrest a malefactor. It was not so much the pluck and firearm, the Indians dreaded as the power they represented. Right on our side and authority, are powerful allies.

FIVE PEOPLE ARE BURNED TO DEATH

Mrs. Engle and Four Children of Kronan, Sask., Perish.

FATHER AND SON ESCAPE

While Father Is Away at Milestone House Catches Fire and Five Lose Their Lives In the Flames—Mother Sacrifices Herself In Effort to Rescue Her Little Ones—Son Made Brave Efforts.

Kronon, Sask., Jan 21.—While Frank Engle, a well-to-do farmer, was absent from home, fire destroyed his home, his wife and four children, the eldest 10 years of age, perishing in the flames.

One boy, 16 years old, who slept downstairs, escaped. The mother, who also slept downstairs, attempted to rescue the children that were asleep upstairs, but was suffocated before she could reach them. The boy who escaped made three unsuccessful attempts to rescue the family, but was driven back each time, the stairs giving way in the last attempt.

The first started about one o'clock yesterday morning from an overheated stovepipe. Mr. Engle was on a business trip to Milestone.

Rector Called Into Court.

Islington, Jan. 21.—A sensation was caused yesterday when it was stated that the trouble between Rev. T. S. McGonigle of St. George's Church, and his churchwarden, A. B. Cooper, is to be aired before Magistrate P. Ellis at West Toronto on Monday next at 10 a.m. The rector is charged with having threatened an assault on Mr. Cooper last November, when differences existing between the two culminated one Sunday morning in an exciting altercation just outside the church. Mr. Cooper charges that the rector raised a heavy cane and threatened to brain him. He says he is now afraid to be out of his house after dark, and last week he made application to Crown Attorney Drayton for a court hearing.

'Quake Tragedies.

Smyrna, Asiatic Turkey, Jan. 21.—Another earthquake was experienced here at ten minutes past two o'clock yesterday morning, but no damage was done.

News of the effects of the shock of Tuesday continues to come in slowly. Over 300 dwellings were destroyed in villages in the Phocaea district, 25 miles northwest of Smyrna, but only a few persons lost their lives. At Menemen two persons were killed and ten houses collapsed. A number of buildings collapsed at Casaba.

The local authorities have sent out doctors, tents and food.

Town Clerk's Predicament.

St. Boniface, Man., Jan. 21.—Certain papers connected with the poll having been turned over to the town clerk, Joseph Labarge (including poll books) by Magistrate Turenne, he could not find them when wanted by the parties interested in the prosecution of the poll officers in connection with the alleged improprieties in the municipal elections. The mayor and seven out of the eight councillors' rights to sit are being challenged in the courts. Accordingly, Labarge has been arrested, charged with stealing the documents.

Increases for Civil Servants.

Ottawa, Jan. 21.—A deputation of the outside civil service in Ottawa asked Hon. Sydney Fisher if they were to be included in the increase of salaries. Mr. Fisher said it was not intended. Each Minister must deal with their separate Departments. The different Ministers will now be approached.

"WOMEN!"

" Are You Nervous?"

The results of modern civilization are evidenced in an increase of nervous disorders. It could not be otherwise with the way we eat, drink, lose sleep, and keep up a continual round of excitement. The work, the worry, the excitement, all tell upon the nerves till they cry out in revolt, and will not be placated till a remedy such as come along with their nerve-strengthening and energizing properties, and restore them to their normal condition.

MILBURN'S

Mrs. Wm. Levi, Markdale, Ont., writes: "I had for several years been troubled with nervousness, and, like many others, spent lots of money on medicine that did me no good. I was so bad that the least noise would make me jump and my heart would thump so you could hear it plainly and I could not lie on my left side at night. I saw a few testimonials of others and decided to try Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, and to my great joy and surprise they completely cured me and it only took six boxes to do it. I have a neighbor, Mrs. Rickett, and I induced her to try them and they effected a cure. I can endorse their use for anyone afflicted as I was."

Price, 50 cents a box, 3 boxes for $1.25, at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

GRAND TRUNK CENSURED.

Grimsby, Jan. 21.—A verdict strongly censuring the Grand Trunk for not giving proper protection to the crossing, and recommending the Railway Commission to take necessary steps to safeguard it was brought in at 6.45 p.m. yesterday by the coroner's jury in the enquiry into the tragedy early last Saturday morning, whereby five persons lost their lives.

The jury were out one hour and 15 minutes. J. H. Campbell represented the crown, while Solicitor Pope and James Nixon, district passenger agent, appeared for the railway. The town hall was crowded.

"That the said William Wilson, Ida Wilson, George Teeter, Jennie Gertrude Teeter and Gordon Nelson came to their deaths from being struck by a Grand Trunk express on Depot street crossing at 2.55 a.m. Saturday, Jan. 16, 1909.

"We exonerate the train crew from any responsibility.

"We censure the Grand Trunk Railway for removing the night watchman from the said crossing at only a single track, culpable negligence in view of the past accident, together with the former jury's verdict in not protecting the said crossing with a watchman and gate and thus preventing recent accident.

"We also consider it is an extremely dangerous crossing and recommend the Railway Commission to take steps at once to have the said crossing properly protected."

AN AGED PRISONER.

Toronto Negro, 110 Years Old, Charged With Non-Support.

Toronto, Jan. 21.—One hundred and ten years of age, and arrested for non-support of his wife is the strange plight of William H. Morgan, an old slavery days negro, who is locked up in the Court street station.

He says he was born in slavery and has been "sold on the block like a horse" three times. He was first sold at the age of 20 years for $2,000, when he was, to use his own phrase, "a good-lookin' nigger." Eighteen years later, having been once sold in the meanwhile, he was disposed of for $1,000.

Newfoundland and the Treaty.

London, Jan. 21.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—It is understood that the whole question of the fisheries treaty now rests with Newfoundland, whose chief objections are that she considers any pecuniary claims in respect to fines inflicted on American vessels for breach of colonial regulations shall be decided by colonial courts. The United States desire that the matter shall be included in the pecuniary claims treaty, which is now being negotiated. Newfoundland also holds that Americans have no right to fish in inlets on the west coast of Newfoundland.

A Council of Arts.

Washington, Jan. 21.—President Roosevelt created a council of fine arts and directed that hereafter the heads of active departments, bureaus and commissions, before any plans are formulated, for publication, or grounds, or for the location or erection of any statue, must submit the matter to the council and follow their advice, unless for good and sufficient reasons the President directs otherwise.

Montreal, Jan. 21.—Much comment is being made on the street concerning remarks made by the Rev. Father Dugas, S.J., chaplain of the Montreal Jail, in the course of his sermon to the prisoners.

The preacher, it appears, referring to a certain class of men who work against religion, denounced Godfrey Langlois, M.P.P. for St. Louis division, as a Free Mason.

Mysteriously Murdered.

New York, Jan. 21.—While seated in the basement of his home reading a letter from a son now in Sicily, Giovanni Cardinello, one of the wealthiest Italians of the South Brooklyn colony and whose nephew, Jos. Cardinello, was mysteriously killed in Coffey Park some time ago, was shot and killed. Two shots were fired.

Dropped Lamp, Burned to Death.

Vancouver, B.C., Jan. 21.—The town of Cumberland, Vancouver Island, came near being wiped out on Tuesday night by fire. A blaze started in James Scott's room. He allowed his lamp to fall, and was burned to death. Three small business places were burned. Loss will be $50,000.

New Canadian Loan.

London, Jan. 21.—A Dominion Government loan of six million pounds sterling, redeemable in ten years at the price of 99 1-4, with interest at 3 3-4 per cent., with the option to redeem in five years, has all been underwritten and will shortly be on the market.

A double funeral will take place today.

Winchester, Jan. 21.—J. B. Hill, a sectionman on the C.P.R., was struck by an eastbound freight and instantly killed yesterday a short distance from the station. He with three others had just removed a hand-car.

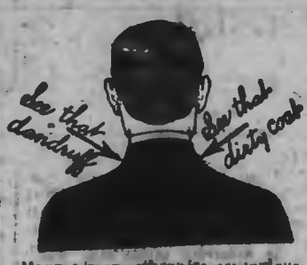
Jilted Woman Gets $300.

Toronto, Jan. 21.—The Assizes' jury yesterday awarded Margaret Ann Walker $300 damages, the amount spent on trousseau, against Daniel Wheatley for breach of promise.

Anti-Jap Legislation Deferred.

Sacramento, Cal., Jan. 21.—By a vote of 43 to 34 the Assembly decided yesterday to hold up all Japanese legislation until next Wednesday.

A FILTHY CONDITION



Many a man, otherwise scrupulously clean, is dandruff dirty! The small, persistent germs of dandruff working all day as well as night are constantly throwing off the small white dandruff scales which, falling on the shoulders of a coat, give it a filthy appearance which is repulsive to the friends of the victim.

Many men allow this condition to exist because they believe there is no cure for dandruff; they have tried various so-called cures with unsatisfactory results, and naturally condemn all.

The famous prescription called Parisian Sage is put up in America, but only by the Giroux Mfg. Co., of Buffalo, N.Y., and Fort Erie, Ont. It is for sale in Peterborough by Wm. Madill, who guarantees it to cure dandruff in two weeks, or money back.

Parisian Sage is guaranteed to do more: it will make short, thin hair grow long, lustrous and luxuriant; it will stop hair from falling out; it will cure all diseases of the scalp. Wm. Madill guarantees it — every bottle of it. The price is only 50 cents, and if you want to stop the filthy dandruff flakes from lodging on your coat and disgusting your friends, get a bottle at once.

CONSERVATIVE CAUCUS.

Mr. Borden's Supporters Won't Hear of His Resignation.

Ottawa, Jan. 21.—The Conservative caucus last night declined to hear the word resign from R. L. Borden. Nearly all the party followers were present. Mr. Barnard, who defeated Hon. Wm. Templeman in Victoria, B.C., presided. Joseph Russell, M.P. for East Toronto, was at a live stock show. He called on Mr. Borden during the day.

Mr. Borden told his followers that he had been through two elections and he asked them to call a meeting, which he would not attend, to discuss the leadership. In the meantime he placed his resignation in their hands.

"Undoubtedly," said Mr. Borden after the caucus, "we have the strongest opposition man for man since 1896."

FIFTY LIVES ARE LOST IN ACCIDENT

Explosion on Chicago Water Tunnel Job Has Appalling Result.

NINETY-FIVE MEN AT WORK

Ignition of Powder, Supposedly In the Powder House Near Crib Structure, Is Cause of Disaster, Which Blows to Pieces or Causes the Drowning of Workmen—Crib Was a Mile and a Half From Shore.

Chicago, Jan. 21.—Blown to pieces by exploding powder, burned to death by the resultant fire or drowned in the icy waters of Lake Michigan, was the fate yesterday of some 50 workmen who were working on a submarine tunnel at a wooden crib, a mile and a half from shore.

The crib was used in the construction of a new submarine water tunnel connecting with the south side shore of the city at 73rd street. It is known that 95 workmen were employed in the crib and the connecting tunnel at the time of the explosion, which started the fire and blew or drove the men into the water.

The explosion is thought to have had its origin in a small powder house about 100 yards from the crib structure proper.

The drowsy attendant on shore was brought into action by a violent ringing of the telephone bell, and this was the message which set on foot the work of rescue:

"The crib is on fire. For God's sake send help at once or we will be burned alive. The tug——"

At this point communication ceased. Through the fog an occasional burst of flames and an unmistakable odor of smoke made it known to the watchers on shore that the telephone message was in earnest.

Men Jumped Into Lake.

The tug T. T. Moreford, in charge of Capt. Johnson, at anchor within a short distance of the imperilled crib, was the first to get into the work of rescue. The ice made it impossible for the tug to reach the improvised pier, but a small boat was used to carry the injured to the steamer and to rescue those who had plunged into the waters of the lake rather than brave the flames which were raging on the crib structure. After several hours of heroic work 39 workmen were rescued.

When the fire tug Conway and its crew had finally quenched the flames 50 bodies had been carried to the shore and placed in morgues in South Chicago awaiting identification. The bodies of the victims in the majority of instances were unrecognizable, and the contracting firm gave out a list of missing, which probably will be about the same as will be announced as the official list of the dead when the coroner has completed his investigation.

MUST HELP PAY FOR SHOVELLING THE SNOW

Radial Railway Co. Commence This Winter as Per Contract.

If the city is yet visited with heavy snow storms which block the streets and necessitate removing the snow, the Street Railway Company will have to pay twenty-five per cent of the cost. Heretofore the city has shouldered all the cost, the company simply sweeping and plowing the snow clear of the tracks. So far this winter there has been no occasion for shovelling the streets clear.

APPEARING OLD.

Acts as a Bar to Profitable Employment.

You cannot afford to grow old.

In these days of strenuous competition it is necessary to maintain as long as possible ones youthful appearance.

It is impossible to do it without retaining a luxurious growth of hair.

The presence of dandruff indicates the presence of a burrowing germ which lives and thrives on the roots of the hair until it causes total baldness.

Newbro's Herpicide is the only known destroyer of this pest and it is as effective as it is delightful to use.

Herpicide makes an elegant hair dressing as well as dandruff cure

Accept no substitute—there is none. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to the Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich. Two Sizes 50c and $1 McDermid & Jury, and Payne's Drug Store, Special Agents.

LOCAL OPTION MEETING.

A large and very enthusiastic meeting of the Temperance and Moral Reform League was held on Tuesday afternoon. Several important questions were up for discussion. It was reported that an effort was being made to side-track the issue, by trying to get the temperance workers to undertake a campaign for license reduction instead of a local option campaign. This was very briefly disposed of, as it was soon evident that there was an unanimous feeling against any such step. A motion was put and carried with great enthusiasm in favour of proceeding vigorously with the local option campaign. The meeting was representative of the different denominations and of all sections of the city, and reports received were unanimously to the effect that the prospects for carrying the by-law were most encouraging.

The matter of financing the campaign was reported upon. Friends of the movement are given the opportunity of assisting in this campaign in any convenient way. The work to be prosperous and successful must be thorough, and will require the generous support of all interested.

Outdoor Canada For January.

The January number of Outdoor Canada appears with an attractive two-colour cover typical of Canada's winter season and an index page leaden down with titles of good things. Among the leading articles is the story of a Musk-ox Hunt, entertainingly told by that King among explorers of Canada's north lands J. W. Tyrrell. John T. Hall of Medicine Hat, Alberta, writes of a Christmas Broncho Busting—a form of entertainment arranged for the benefit of the Medicine Hat General Hospital and furnishing before its conclusion at least one additional patient for that institution. A "gripping" tale of the Northern Ontario Woods comes from the pen of Pollough Rogue in The Ombabika Pack, accompanying which is a clever frontispiece illustration by Arthur Heming, the well known Canadian artist—The Timber Wolf. Roden Kingsmith discusses sport in his usual breezy style. Montreal's Winter Carnival gets a pen picture as well as several illustrations, and the regular departments of the magazine are well represented. The number is in every way a most creditable one, showing that the new management is determined to make of Outdoor Canada what it has good right to be—an ever increasing, interesting and successful magazine.

Aldermen Are Interested In Proposed Electric Line

Railway From Cobourg to Stony Lake Stirs Up Board of Trade and if it Comes to the Lake an Effort Will be Made to Bring it Through Peterborough.

MAY GO VIA HAVELOCK.

A wide awake interest in the line of street cars that is proposed from Cobourg to Stony Lake has been stirred up among the aldermen and they manifested it last night at the Board of Works meeting. Ald. Buller stated that he had read the account in the paper that an electric line was proposed over this route by Bewdley or around the eastern end of the lake. If such were the case he thought an effort should be made to have it come this way.

City Clerk Armstrong stated that the American capitalists who are building a large concern at Cobourg are behind the proposed line and he had spoken with one of their representatives recently. The latter had stated that they intended to go around the lake at each end at least Mr. Armstrong gathered this idea from their brief conversation. There is plenty of money it is said, behind the scheme, and hence the aldermen are anxious to bring the line through Peterborough if it is laid at all.

There have been frequent statements about the feasibility of such a line as a rapid trip could be made from Rochester or Toronto to Cobourg and then directly to the Kawartha's popular resorts.

VISITS PETERBOROUGH AFTER AN ABSENCE OF 45 YEARS

Mr. Isaac Kennedy, who was one of the old settlers in this country, came back a few days ago from Los Angeles, where he has been for a good many years in business. Mr. Kennedy came to this country from Ireland in 1855, the same year as the Russian War. He is a veteran of the Fenian Raid in 1865, after which he was married in 1869 at Warsaw. From here he went to Cleveland, Ohio, living there for about sixteen years, after which he moved to Kansas and went into the cattle business, having about three hundred head of that famous beef. He sold out and moved to Los Angeles, California, and formed a company known as the Lloyd Shovel Iron Company, which founded two stores, one at San Francisco and the other at Los Angeles. They sold out to the Waterhouse and Leslie Company just a few days before the earthquake, in which everything was lost. Mrs. Kennedy was in the city at the time that it happened and they lost all their household goods and their clothes. Mr. Kennedy was himself in Los Angeles, but as soon as he heard of the catastrophe took the first train for San Francisco, witnessing the aftermath of the disaster.

Los Angeles had only 15,000 people when Mr. Kennedy went there and now it has a population of 310,000 inhabitants. Everything there is up to date and he says he has never seen more beautiful stores than those there. One of the largest jewellry stores is owned by the Montgomery Bros., an old Peterborough firm.

Mr. Kennedy leaves here next week for his home in the land of flowers and sunshine, after having visited all his old friends.

His many friends and acquaintances in the city will be sorry to hear of the serious illness of Rev. Father John B. Collins, of Detroit. He is suffering from blood poisoning, the cause of which is related in the following despitch from Detroit:

On Sunday Rev. Father John B. Collins, assistant priest at St. Ann's Church, Detroit, after counting the collection over rubbed his hand over a small sore on his neck, with the result that he is now seriously ill with blood poisoning. Father Collins has been in St. Anne pirish just one year. He is a native of Lindsay, Ont., and a member of the Basilian Order, being for several years treasurer of St. Michael's College, Toronto, and Sandwich College, Detroit.

Rev. Father Collins is well known in Peterborough. His brother was here on Tuesday, attending the funeral obsequies of the late Father O'Connell.

FARMERS REFUSE TO SIGN AN AGREEMENT WITH OIL COMPANY

A last effort was made yesterday afternoon to lease the land of a few farmers west of the city who have refused to grant to Mr. Chas. Dettman's gas and oil company the use of the lands. Mr. R. H. Leary in company with Mayor Rush, Alds. Bradburn and Gillespie drove out to the farms in question yesterday afternoon and endeavoured to persuade the farmers who hold out to come to terms, but the committee failed to make any progress whatever. The farmers refused flatly to sign the agreement and there was nothing to do but to give the task up as hopeless.

Mr. Leary has had a letter from Mr Dettman instructing him to lease a block of from 500 to 1000 acres between this city and Lindsay and as near Peterborough as possible and will commence to-day to obtain the lease of the land in question.

Mr F. W. Miller returned last night from Brantford where he has been with his son Walter, who was injured in the recent wreck near Guelph. The latter is progressing favourably and will be home as soon as possible it is not likely that he will play hockey again this winter. While in Brantford Mr. Miller met the agent of the G. T. R. on Tuesday. He was trying to make an early settlement with Marks and Miller, the two hockey players who were injured and the substantial sum which was offered the Peterborough boy in settlement for the injuries he received was accepted. The arrangements the G. T. R. had made were satisfactory and were considered fair by Mr. Miller, who was looking after his son's interests.

CLOSE BIDDING AT OTONABEE SALE

Large Attendance Yesterday at Farm of Mr. Grey.

A splendid sale of farm stock and implements was held yesterday in Otonabee, at the home of Mr. Jas. Grey, lot 7, con. 12. The number of buyers and bidders was exceptionally large and the result was that the business was carried on rapidly and good prices were received. Mr. John Haggart was auctioneer and conducted the sale in a most satisfactory manner. There were nine horses and thirty head of cattle sold, besides all the implements and everything that was purposed for sale. An interested bidding was carried on for a mare by two Otonabee farmers that was of unusual interest. They were Mr. Thos. Thompson, from the vicinity of Hiawatha, and Mr. Robt. E. Deyell. The mare was finally sold to the former for $224.

One-fifth of a cent a cup is certainly an economical drink, and yet this is all that "Salada" Tea costs. One pound costing 40c. will make over 220 cups of the purest and most delicious tea in the world. 118

The forty-second annual tea and concert in connection with the Indian Reserve at Chemong, was held last night at the town hall in the village and was an unqualified success. Letter Of Gratitude To All Who Helped Mr. F. J. Farthing

The Peterborough people who interested themselves in Mr. F. J. Farthing and started a subscription to send him home to England in hopes that he would recover from tuberculosis, signs of which were very evident in his appearance, will be pleased to learn that he arrived safely and is enjoying the balmy weather of English springtime. Mr. F. W. Miller, who received the contributions showed the following to an Examiner reporter from Mr. Farthing:

Dear Mr. Miller,—Just a few lines to let you know that I arrived at our home in Plymouth quite safely yesterday, after a rather stormy trip across. The weather became a lot milder soon after we put to sea and taking it all through, we had rather a pleasant trip. My friends were very shocked to see how thin I had become and insist on my taking a rest and trying to build up again, before attempting to do any work again. I have nothing but the most grateful thanks to tender to the kind people of Peterborough for their generous help. My mother and sister also wish to tender their sincere thanks to all who so generously helped me during my illness and since have so nobly assisted me back again. The weather is very mild here now, though dry and the spring flowers are in bloom in the garden, so I find no difficulty in keeping out of doors nearly all the time. Again thanking one and all for their kindness, believe me,

Yours truly,
FRED J. FARTHING.

The New Methodist Church At Lakefield Is Dedicated

Has Been Cleared of All Debt—Sunday's Services Were Led by Rev. H. M. Manning—Splendid New Church for Worshippers

CONCERT MONDAY NIGHT.

Examiner Special.

Lakefield, Jan. 20.—Sunday and Monday, January 17th and 18th, 1909, were red letter days in the history of the Lakefield Methodists, when their beautiful new church was dedicated to the worship of Almighty God.

Just fifty years ago Methodism was implanted in Lakefield, services being held in private homes and in the school house, under the pastorate of the late Rev. Edward Roberts and Rev. David Hardy. Four years later, in 1862, they erected their first place of worship.

In 1869 it was necessary for them to enlarge their building, and again in 1881, at the time of the union.

For some time the Methodists have felt the need of a new church, and under the able leadership of their present pastor, the Rev. John Bedford, it has come about.

Last spring the old church was pulled down and a new one erected upon the same site.

The congregation may well feel proud of their new church. It is built of block cement and presents a very fine appearance. It has very handsome windows, two of them being given in loving memory of their father and mother by the children of the late John C. Sherin and wife. The auditorium is very beautiful and with the gallery, will seat some 500 or 600 persons. Room is left in the choir loft for a pipe organ when they hope to install in the near future. Underneath the auditorium is the Sunday School room, with its usual class rooms, etc.

The sermons on Sunday morning and evening were preached by Rev. S. T. Bartlett, the new General Secretary for Sunday Schools and Epworth League work, and a former well loved pastor of the congregation. The services were crowded and all were delighted with the earnest, thoughtful words of the speaker.

The good fellowship which exists between the various churches was shown by their presence. In the morning, and Rev. Alfred Jones, of the Baptist Church, assisted in the services, and his congregation attended en masse.

In the evening the Presbyterians attended and the place was packed to its utmost capacity.

At the close of the sermon a statement was given, showing that the building and cost some $12,200, and that some $8,000 had been paid, leaving a deficit of some $4,000. It was further stated that the Hon. Senator Cox had promised an additional $1,000 if the debt could be wiped off during Mr. Bedford's pastorate.

The collections and offerings for the day amounted to nearly $2,000.

At the close of the morning service the Rev. Mr. Manning, chairman of the district, led in the solemn dedicatory services.

At 2.30 an Epworth League and Sunday School rally was held, when the Revs. Manning and Bartlett delivered bright, interesting addresses.

The music throughout the day was of a high order.

Monday evening again the church was packed, when, after a sumptuous repast, served by the Ladies' Aid of the church, as only they know how to do it, an unusually interesting evening was spent.

Music, recitations and bright, happy speeches by resident clergymen and other ministers combined to make a pleasing programme.

Rev. Mr. Bartlett then appealed to the people, asking them to try and wipe off the entire debt.

The people responded nobly and in a short time the required sum was given.

When it was announced that the Lakefield Methodist Church was free of debt the large congregation rose to their feet and sang feelingly, "Praise God From Whom All Blessings Flow."

Shortly afterwards the meeting was dismissed with prayers by Rev. Mr. Manning.

PARLIAMENT OPENS YESTERDAY AFTERNOON

FEW MEMBERS ARE ABSENT

Fielding, Sir Fred. Borden, W. L. M. King and Dr. Sproule Are Only Ones Missing at Ceremony of Choosing Presiding Officer — Sir Wilfrid Believes In Electing Speaker For Rest of Political Life.

Ottawa, Jan. 21.—Charles Marcil, M.P. for Bonaventure, was elected Speaker of the eleventh Parliament of Canada which opened yesterday afternoon. There was no other business. This morning the Commons was summoned to the Senate Chamber to listen to the announcement of the sessional program.

Mr. Marcil was Deputy Speaker of the last Parliament and custom decreed he should have a step up. There was practically a full House when the clerk asked the members to choose a presiding officer. Hon. W. S. Fielding is in Paris, Sir Frederick Borden is on the ocean, Mackenzie King is in China, and Dr. Sproule had not arrived from Markdale, where he is having a stock sale. These were practically all the absentees. Hon. Mr. Templeman has no seat.

When Sir Wilfrid Laurier made his entry, after the Commoners had arrived from the Senate Chamber, the Liberal benches broke into loud applause and the galleries, which were not filled, looked down in admiration.

Of the importance of the Speaker's position, said Sir Wilfrid, it was superfluous to say a single word, but in the case of the member selected for the chair, to the qualities that might be expected of him, integrity, dignity, fairness and impartiality, there would be an additional recommendation if he had also the experience of the same or similar duty. In the British House—the Mother of Parliaments—there was an unwritten law that decreed that once a Speaker always a Speaker. This was calculated to produce the high measure of efficiency that characterized the holder of the position.

Sir Wilfrid regretted that we had not advocated a similar rule. In the early part of his political career, when he was leader of the Opposition, he had made the suggestion to Sir John Macdonald, and in the last Parliament he had discussed it with the then Speaker, who had replied that while the honor was great, the sacrifice was greater, and unless there was a change in the methods of proceedings, it would be impossible to adopt the English system. The British House placed the Speakership on equal terms with judicial positions, with a salary of $5,000 a year, and on retirement a pension of $4,000 a year and a peerage. We could not give a peerage; as to pensions, he had a vivid recollection that they were not popular.

It was not in accordance with our traditions to re-elect a Speaker for a second term. But it was a tradition that the member who was next to the Speakership should be called to the chair, and the House was fortunate in having in Mr. Marcil a man of the highest character. As chairman of the committee of the whole House he had discharged his duties with grace, dignity, fairness and marked ability.

Sir Wilfrid hoped Mr. Marcil would give satisfaction to both parties, and keep the scales of justice without fear or favor.

R. L. Borden said the Prime Minister had described very truly and forcefully the position of Speaker and was inclined to share the regret that all the traditions surrounding the office of Speaker in the British House of Commons had not been adopted here. Mr. Borden recollected being in England in 1895, when there was a great deal of discussion as to whether Sir William Gully should be re-elected Speaker, but in the end he was re-elected without opposition.

In this country conditions were somewhat different and possibly it was not regarded as practicable to carry out the condition obtained in the Imperial House, but he thought that in other respects, such as the dignity and importance surrounding the office, we had not been behind. He agreed with the Prime Minister that the office must be judicial.

As to Mr. Marcil, Mr. Borden observed that as Deputy Speaker he had conducted himself with dignity and impartiality.

"I don't propose," the Opposition leader went on, "to affirm or deny what has been paid—I have not the evidence—but as far as the system of offering bribes to constituencies is concerned, it is a vicious one—(Opposition cheers)—and as far as I am concerned, I lifted up my voice in favor of the prohibition of that by statute. The whole question may be discussed later on in a more complete way.

"I will say nothing more on that now, but I desire to say that the very judicial qualities with which the Speaker is invested, would negative the idea that a person in the position could be a suppliant for favors."

The Cassels' Report.

The resolution of Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Hon. William Paterson was carried unanimously and Mr. Marcil was escorted to the chair.

Speaker Marcil thanked the House, expressing the hope that he would be supported in his efforts to discharge his duties in an impartial manner.

Mr. Borden was told by the Premier that the report of Judge Cassels on the Marine Department had not been received, but would be to-morrow or the day after.

Mr. Borden also expressed anxiety in regard to recent treaties. The Prime Minister replied that the waterways treaty would be taken up and tabled as soon as received.

He fined Hogan, however, $25 or one month for carrying a revolver.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, Jan. 20.—(Special.)—At the Canadian Pacific Live Stock Market this morning the offerings were 750 cattle, 300 sheep and lambs, 310 hogs and 100 calves. Owing to the continued small supplies of cattle coming forward of late, and the fact that butchers have only been able to secure sufficient stock to fill their actual wants, there was an extra large gathering of buyers, and, as they all wanted some beef, the demand was good and active trade was done. There was no change in prices, but the undertone to the market was strong, and if the stock offered had been of a better quality they would no doubt have realized more money. A feature of the trade was the demand for export account, and the price paid for the choice cows and $3.65 could have easily been made for choice steers, weighing from 1250 to 1300 lbs., but there was none of this class on the market, consequently buyers had to fill their wants with a lower grade at 5¼c. The butchers paid from 3¾c to 5¼c for steers, 4c to 4½c for good cows, 3c to 3¾c for common cows, and 2c to 4½c for bulls, per lb. There was a good enquiry for sheep and lambs, but owing to the limited supply trade was rather quiet and prices ruled firm. Sheep sold at 3¾c to 4c, and lambs at 5½c to 6c per lb. The undertone to the market for hogs remains strong, and prices are steadily tending towards a high level, as the demand is in excess of the supply coming forward. Sales of select lots were made at $7.25 per 100 lbs., weighed off cars. The demand for calves was good at prices ranging from $3 to $10 each, as to size and quality.

Disappearing Home Life.

The flat dweller ought not to keep a dog, prefers not to keep a cat, cannot have a garden, has no chance of keeping house, has no possible place for memories and, most emphatic of all, has no use or accommodation for babies. Although it may be possible to make homes without kittens or babies or flowers or memories or cupboards, the spirit of home is hard to woo and win without any of them.—Fortnightly Review.

DAINTY SCALE.

On one of the smallest pair of scales ever made for use in the open air a California jeweler has weighed the soul of a fly and a pencil mark. At least he has found the difference in weight between the body of a living fly and of the same fly dead. This he has chosen to call the soul of the fly, though more cynical observers have declared the difference is but the weight of the gases which escaped from the body of the dead insect.

The scale works within a watch case, and its dial is the face of the watch, marked off into what its inventor, J. L. Liedler, calls "degrees." Each one of these degrees represents a weight of one four-million-nine-hundred thousandth of an ounce.

The balance between the weight of a fly living and a fly dead—i. e., the weight of the fly's soul—was twenty-three of these degrees. Several flies were weighed under similar circumstances, and all showed exactly the same difference in weight between life and death.

The scale works on the tension principle. Inside there is a scale, and in a glass arm extending from one side of the dial there is a balance. The operator screws the delicate spring up to a point where the object in the pan of the scale just balances and then reads the pointer on the dial. The spring is more delicately adjusted even than the finest watch, and the whole instrument requires as great care as the finest chronometer.

Taking a slip of paper and weighing it, Liedler will then make a short mark with a pencil on the paper and, weighing it again, find exactly the weight of the mark made by the lead in the pencil. A mark precisely one-quarter of an inch in length made with an ordinary soft pencil weighed just forty-five degrees, more than the soul of the fly.—Popular Mechanics.

Wise Red Men.

William Hanley, a well known Duluth cruiser and timber man, tells a good story of Indians and the importance of personal publicity to a redskin. Hanley was in charge of a big drive on the St. Croix river, and in the vicinity of Taylor's falls a big jam occurred. Among the drivers were half a dozen Indians. They were good men on the river and held up their end with the white men. One day while inspecting the jam Hanley passed the six Indians. In a spirit of good nature he hailed the Indians and said:

"Break that jam, boys, and I'll put your names in the paper."

"Ugh!" responded one after a pause. "Six Indians dead in paper, but we no see it."—Duluth News-Tribune.

Outcasts In Kaffir Kraals.

In the districts of Zoutpansberg and Transkei, Cape Colony, live small groups of white men, cut off from civilization, on the borders of or even within the native reserves. Degraded whites actually squat on the grounds of Kaffir chiefs. Many of these settlers are of British descent, and in some cases this state of affairs has lasted for twenty years. All ideas of law, order and authority have vanished, and in the case of a native rising there would be no choice for these outcasts except murder or active complicity in the rebellion.—Johannesburg Progressive Monthly.

Not Grasping.

"What a grasping fellow you are, Hawkins! You've bothered me about this bill fifty times in ten days."

"You wrong me, Jarley. I'm not grasping. I've bothered you about the bill, I admit, but I haven't been able to grasp anything yet."

WAS IN BED FOR THREE MONTHS.
PEOPLE SAID SHE HAD CONSUMPTION.
Read how Mrs. T. G. Buck, Bracebridge, Ont., was cured (and also her little boy) by the use of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup.
She writes: "I thought I would write and let you know the benefit I have received through the use of your Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. A few years ago I was so badly troubled with my lungs people said I had Consumption and that I would not live through the Fall. I had two doctors attending me and they were very much alarmed about me. I was in bed three months and when I got up I could not walk, so had to go on my hands and knees for three weeks, and my limbs seemed of no use to me. I gave up all hopes of ever getting better when I happened to see in R.R.R. Almanac that Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup was good for weak lungs. I thought I would try a bottle and by the time I had used it I was a lot better, so got more and it made a complete cure. My little boy was also troubled with weak lungs and it cured him. I keep it in the house all the time and would not be without it for anything."
Price 25 cents at all dealers. Beware of imitations of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. Ask for it and insist on getting the original. Put up in a yellow wrapper and three pine trees the trade mark.

RUNNING ATHLETICS HOCKEY

CHANGES IN CITY LEAGUE TEAMS; TWO GREAT BATTLES TO-NIGHT; RETURNS OF THE LINDSAY GAME

There is great interest being taken in to-night's City League games, and there promises to be a big crowd on hand when the first game is called. The ice is in fine shape and some lightning hockey should be seen. The announcement that the returns of the game in Lindsay will be given out at the rink has been received with delight by the fans, who will be unable to get away for to-night's game and who will be able to hear the news at Brock street, while watching the City League games.

There is every prospect of there being two splendid games. Both the Belmonts and T. A. S. are confident of winning the first battle, and it will likely be hard fought from start to finish. Both will have changes in their line-up from the teams that represented them last week, and are expected to be much stronger. The Belmonts state that they have lost their last game, and as the Abstainers claim the same, there is every reason to expect a hard battle.

Lakefield have taken out certificates for Joe Quigley, Norman A. Moore and C. L. Campbell, so that it is likely that they contemplate making some changes in their line-up for to-night's game with the West Ends. The latter are confident of taking the game from the Lakefield's and at any event the kids are bound to make it close. The West Ends will be in much better shape than they were the first time out, and with three of the Junior O. H. A. team on their line-up they promise to be a pretty awkward proposition for the team from Lakefield.

George Street and T. A. S. Juniors will meet in the junior game, which will be played as a curtain raiser to the big games.

Mr. W. E. Wasson will referee the senior games.

Goal—McFadden.
Point—Cahill.
Cover—Crough.
Rover—Quigley.

Goal—Halpin.
Point—Wade.
Cover—C. Dobson.
Rover—Rose.
Centre—McNirn.

MANY PEOPLE GOING TO LINDSAY TO-NIGHT FOR THE BIG HOCKEY GAME

There is much excitement over to-night's game in Lindsay, and already a large number of fans have signified their intention of accompanying the team on the special G. T. R. train, which will leave the G. T. R. station at seven o'clock sharp, and will return immediately after the game. This will enable the fans to reach Lindsay in plenty of time to get a place in the rink, and the probabilities are that one of the largest crowds which ever left Peterborough upon a hockey excursion will go up to help the boys to victory in Sengogville to-night.

That it will be a game worth going miles to see is a certainty, as both teams are playing the fastest kind of hockey and the old rivalry will serve to make the excitement more intense. Lindsay expects an easy victory, but they will find out their mistake before the game is in progress very long. The Petes are playing some hockey just now and will make to-night's game just about as interesting a struggle as the Midgets have been up against in their hockey career. If the team shows the form they did in Belleville the other night, with the forward line working together, and every man checking back like a fiend, looking at it from here that Lindsay forward line is going to have its troubles breaking loose from Peterborough's advance guard. And the defence should be able to take care of Mr. Koyle, on those famous rushes of his, so that Lindsay will have to travel some even on their own ice, to beat the Petes. Trainer Milburn has his team in good shape and they will go the distance to-night all right. It will be a grand game and the local fans should not miss the opportunity provided them to witness the battle.

The fare for the round trip has been placed at $1.05, the train leaving sharp at seven o'clock.

HOW LONGBOAT AND SHRUBB ARE TRAINING FOR THE BIG RACE

New York, N.Y., Jan. 20 — Because the great white way was too distracting, Tom Longboat's training camp has been moved from Gotham to Allenhurst, N.J., a jumping off place, 40 miles from the scene of festivities. Because curious people bothered him half to death, while doing training stunts, Alfred Shrubb has also moved over to Montclair, N.Y., 20 miles out of the big village.

There you have the reason why the wonderful Canadian Indian and his most dangerous opponent are not in New York to-day.

Mrs. Longboat is staying here with relatives.

What Longboat has been doing in the way of training here is hard to discover. Of course, Pat Powers says he is faithful, but athletes who know the Indian say that he did not commence real training until last Wednesday.

That Shrubb is training and in the pink already was easily ascertained, for the Englishman has been working daily from seven miles upwards. That he can go the distance the wise guys here will wager on, and he has been clocked 18 and 20 miles in good times within the week. His feet, which bothered him in the relay race, have rounded into shape and on the soft track should not bother him.

The betting here is at evens, but there isn't much doing, for New Yorkers like a good bet, and they cannot figure either man as a cinch.

LINDSAY EXPECTS BIG CROWD FOR TO-NIGHT'S GAME WITH PETERBORO

The Lindsay Free Press says of to-night's game:

To-morrow evening the Midgets will meet the Peterborough fast hockey seven on the local Lindsay street rink, and a good game should be the result.

The Peterborough bunch this season has been greatly improved from the past seasons and on the other hand the Midgets will again use their regular line-up, which has this season (similar to Peterborough) passed through the games without a single defeat. The Midgets have proved a fast bunch to carry Lindsay on their blue and white uniforms and deserve much encouragement this season again for the coming finals.

The rink is expected to be crowded for the game, the south side of the rink being principally devoted to the visitors. The game will start on time, 8.15, to-morrow evening, as the visiting team will come to town on the regular G. T. R. 6.23 train.

PETERBORO' CURLERS REACH THE FINALS IN THEIR DISTRICT

Peterborough curlers are in the finals to-day in group 5 of the Tankard competition as the result of beating Brampton in Toronto yesterday. A despatch says:—

In group 5 Peterborough had the bye for the morning and in the afternoon won from Brampton who had beaten Parkdale in the morning round. Queen City beat the Aberdeens at both ends, and Scarboro' Maple Leafs won from Bobcaygeon by a remarkable score, 27 up on one rink, and 9 down on the other.

In the afternoon Peterborough won from Brampton in a good game, and the surprise of the day occurred on Granite ice. Here the Scarboro' Maple Leafs found the soft game quite suitable, and walked away from the crack pair of Queen City rinks. W. G. Dennis beat the famous "Bob" by 23 to 10, while Horace Thomson walloped H. A. Hanley by 20 to 9. This puts the Leafs into the final against Peterborough to-day. The scores—

Peterborough		Brampton
Dr. Wightman		C. Allan
W. J. Thompson		C. J. Pickham
D. Davidson		Jas. S. Follis
J. H. Conant—17		T. Trautman—10
R. Carson		W. C. Young
G. L. Hay		J. S. Beck
S. T. Medl		Geo. A. Peaker
Sam Ray—15		Rev. Dr. Burns—14

PETERBORO' TEAM FOR LINDSAY GAME

Boys Will Leave on 5.30 Train in Order to be in Good Time for the Game.

The Peterborough intermediate O. H. A. team had a splendid practice last night in final preparation for to-night's big game in Lindsay. The team all shaped up well and are in splendid condition for the battle. The team will leave on the regular 5.30 o'clock train to-night in order to reach Lindsay in plenty of time to prepare for the game. The team will line-up as follows:

Goal—Derocher.
Point—Glover.
Cover point—Moore.
Rover—Ray.

Lively Battle at Brock Street Rink Last Evening.

The Novel Ti and Fresh Air Clubs had a lively battle at Brock street rink last night, the Novel Ti team winning out by 7—1 and leading at the half way house by 3—1. The game was hard fought and decidedly scrappy in character there being many Johnson-Burns mix-ups during the struggle. The teams were as follows:

F. A. C.	Novel Ti.
Goal
J. Logan	Halpany
Point
G. Barrie	Staunton
Cover Point
P. Richardson	H. Foy
Rover
S. Tisdale	Allen
Centre
H. Chambers	Gale
L. Wing
G. Geoffrey	Thompson
R. Wing
N. Hopkins	Wade

The Fresh Air Club has sent the following communication in regard to the game:

The F.A.C. were defeated last night by the Novel Ti, the score being 6 to 1. The F.A.C. were somewhat handicapped, having to play against the city league men and the referee, S. Wade, who helped the Novel Ti out considerable. Only two men played out of Novel Ti. After the game the captain of the Novel Ti admitted that the referee was dirty on the F.A.C.

BIG CARNIVAL FOR MONTREAL THIS YEAR

Elaborate Preparations Are Being Made to Make the Event a Success.

The most elaborate feature of the programme at the Ice Palace during the Montreal Carnival of Winter Sports, from February 10th to 20th, will be the display of fireworks, the contract for which has been awarded to the T. W. Hand Fireworks Company, of Hamilton, Ont.

The display will consist of immense bomb shells and rockets. There will be domed arches of rockets, cross fires of rockets, flights of many rockets fired at the same instant, rockets with all the colour combinations. There will be bomb shells fired from immense chilled steel mortars, twenty inch shells, twenty-four inch shells, thirty inch shells. The spread from these immense shells within the entire visual field with clouds of stars. In many cases there will be flights of from five to ten shells fired simultaneously. Some of the flights will be all red, others all green and still others all electric. There will be shells that burst in the air several times, King Edward shells, comet shells, steamer shells and shells of every colour, and in fact there does not seem to be any kind of large bomb shells that has been omitted from this programme.

The effect of all this will be augmented by the snowshoers, who, dressed in the characteristic costumes, will arrive in great numbers with their coloured torches and bombarding Roman candles, to assail the defenders of the palace. Taken altogether we should say that the storming of the Ice Palace in February 1909 will go on record as the most magnificent spectacle that has ever been seen in Canada.

ANOTHER BIG DAY AT CURLING RINK

Towns in District No. 2 Will be Represented Here.

Next Tuesday will be a big day in curling circles here, as the district cup games will be played off in the new rink then. The skips for the two local rinks are R. Hicks and T. F. Matthews. Mr. Matthews' rink will be composed as follows: M. Fyfe, D. Hall and P. Lang. Mr. Hicks will have Mr. H. Foote as his vice-skip, but the other two have not been selected.

The towns included in District No. 2 are Peterborough, Lindsay, Beaverton, Oshawa, Keene, Colborne, Fenelon Falls, Bobcaygeon, Lakefield, Bellerille and Port Hope. All these places will not have rinks here but there will be a good day's sport anyway.

HOCKEY

The Manitoba Free Press says of the last Maple Leaf-Edmonton game:

Whitcroft, Deeton and Miller, all of whom starred in the series at Montreal lived up to their reputations. They out-played their checks and ripped through the local defence in irresistible fashion. Hugh Rose, the Portage lad, was the seventh man on the ice. Slated for cover point, he was really a fifth forward, playing right up behind the line all the time. This might look like poor judgment, but as a matter of fact it proved a most effective system, as the whole bunch of them checked back so well that the Leafs seldom got going.

Whitcroft's men played hockey every minute they were on the ice. When not engaged in carrying the puck towards the opposing goal they were hustling back to defend their own citadel. And they could both skate and handle their sticks in a manner that drew forth applause from spectators long accustomed to seeing artists on the blades. Their combination play was effective. Sometimes it was a three man, and sometimes only two, but always there was another man following up to grab the puck in case it was poked back.

Miller, the curly-headed chap on the right wing, was the spectacular player of the bunch. He reminds one very much of "Sox" Gritlis, as he is about the build of the Kenora star, and plays with the same dash. Whitcroft is faster than he was a few years ago, and much more effective around the nets. Deeton is the right man for centre.

Referee Ed. Livingstone reported yesterday to the O.H.A. that Cobourg played last night's junior game at Whitby under protest, owing to the poor lighting of the rink. One of the lights went out before the game commenced and two others spluttered a lot during the game. Mr. Livingstone says it was miserable lighting, though just as bad for one team as the other.

A special wire from Toronto was received this afternoon stating that the Peterborough teams in the tankard games in Toronto had gone down to defeat in the finals of the first round by 48 to 20 points in the games played this morning against Scarboro Leafs.

BOWLING

That there should be no class distinction in bowling was emphasized last week, when Harry Cheatham, who has been a consistent high roller, stuck in a total of 650. He was rolling in Class C, or the novice division, and his team made the high total of 2,793, getting two games over 900. Very few of the alleged crack teams reach the 2,600 mark, and when it is considered that only green bowlers are eligible to participate in the Class C contingent, the performance is all the more remarkable.

The Aurora Borealis.

The aurora borealis, or northern light, is something that we have all heard about, but very few, perhaps, can give any explanation of it. No one definitely knows what causes it, but the scientists are pretty well agreed that it is due to electricity. They believe that the light is made by the recomposition of the positive and negative electricity always in the upper and lower strata of air, respectively. M. Lenstrom made an interesting experiment in Finland in 1882, his object being to determine the nature of the aurora. He had the peak of a mountain surrounded by a copper wire, pointed at intervals with tin nibs. When he had charged the wire with electricity a yellow light appeared on the tin tips, and an examination of the light by the spectroscope revealed the greenish yellow ray that is a marked feature of the aurora. This evidence among scientists is almost convincing, for it is by means of the spectroscope that we discover the constituent parts of the sun and the stars.—Exchange.

"Thou Diest on Point of Fox."

Fox blades were celebrated all through the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries for their excellent temper, and mention of them is frequent in English drama. This is their history:

There was a certain Julian del Rei, believed to be a Morisco, who set up a forge at Toledo in the early part of the sixteenth century and became famous for the excellence of his sword blades, which were regarded as the best of Toledo. That city had for many ages previous been renowned for swordmaking, it being supposed that the Moors introduced the art, as they did so many good things, from the east.

Julian del Rei's mark was a little dog, which came to be taken for a fox, and so the "fox blade" or simply "fox" for any good sword. See "Henry V.," act 4, scene 4, "Thou diest on point of fox." The brand came to be imitated in other places, and there are Solingen blades of comparatively modern manufacture which still bear the little dog of Julian del Rei.—London Notes and Queries.

NO PROTECTION FOR "VET" SURGEONS

Letter From Subscriber on This Subject Has Been Received.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir,—In regard to the notice I see in the Examiner, dated January 19th.

"James G. G. Badgeley has resolved to tempt fate by asking to be allowed to practise law, without the usual qualifications. Even veterinary surgeons were denied this privilege last session."

The veterinarians were not. But a man asked to be admitted to the profession as a veterinary surgeon to which he was not entitled.

It is time now that the veterinary surgeon, who has earned his diploma and honours at college, should not be classed with—(I will not say quacks)—"but non-professional men and have the rights that belong to us—protection—the same as medical doctors have.

NEW PROPRIETORS OF McCOLLUM RESTAURANT

The announcement was made today that Fowler's restaurant had changed hands and had been secured by Jacobi Bros., of St. Catharines, who will take possession on Monday next. These gentlemen have conducted a successful business in St. Kitts and will put into their local branch the same principles that have won them success. This is the McCallum stand, and the proprietors state that they will win a reputation as good, if not better, than that restaurant enjoyed. Apart from the usual restaurant service they will establish a quick lunch counter, which should meet with public favour here. Speaking with a representative of the new concern to-day he told the Examiner that a feature of their catering to the public's wants one of their aims was cleanliness. They also would convince their customers that their coffee is a specialty and should win a name for the new restaurant. They will also cater to banquets, luncheons and dinners, and altogether will conduct a clean modern restaurant business. The store will be remodelled and several changes made.

WOMAN MEETS HER DEATH IN FIRE

Quebec, Jan. 21—Mrs. J. O. Tilt, can was burned to death in a big fire on John street in which the Fashion Craft Building and the dry goods stock of Plamondon & Pare were damaged to the extent of over $50,000.

How It Happened.

"I lost a ten dollar umbrella this morning."

"So? Leave it on a car?"

"No. I met the owner on the street, and he recognized it."

THE CURSE OF INDIA.

The Blight of Caste Hangs Like a Pall Over the Land.

The curse of India is caste. It is a damper to all ambition, a dead weight to all progress. Until the country shakes it off India will remain without hope.

Over the door of the great Jain Temple at Ahmadabad are written the words:

"Low-caste servants and dogs are not allowed to enter here." A traveler has declared the temple and the words to be an epitome of India.

Castes were originally divided into four, the Brahmins, or priests, coming first, the warriors next, then the farmers and traders, and finally the Sudras, slaves or common laborers. Each caste has since become divided into many sub-divisions and grades, each grade and each class despising that beneath it and viewing that of a higher rank with servile veneration, fear and awe.

The Brotherhood of Man, as taught by the founder of Christian faith, is not recognized in India. A man born in a low class may degrade himself to a lower caste, but by no act of self-sacrifice, heroism, or nobility can he elevate himself. The only gate to a higher caste, they believe, is by reincarnation.

A Sudra's son will be a Sudra, and all the children of his coming generations for years to come. A Sudra is classed with dogs, and a person of higher caste would rather eat with dogs than touch one of this loathed class, a member of which may not pray in the temples nor even listen to a reading of the sacred books.

A Hindu may not touch one of a lower class, eat from the same bowl, nor sit with him, recognize him, assist him if he be starving or receive help if he himself is in distress.

Should a Brahmin see a Sudra dying of thirst, the inviolable rules of his religion would forbid him to hand him a drink of water lest he defile himself.

TRIAL BY ORDEAL BARRED.

Sir Percy Girouard Is Trying to Stop It In Northern Nigeria.

Apropos of recent accounts of trial by ordeal in Northern Nigeria, it is interesting to note that the energetic administrator of that Outpost of Empire, Sir Percy Girouard, has just issued a proclamation with the laudable intention of endeavoring to put a stop to practices such as those alluded to by our correspondent. The provisions of the proclamation, which are of a drastic character, prohibit trial by ordeal of sasswood, esere-beau, or other poison, boiling oil, fire, immersion in water, exposure to the attacks of crocodiles or other wild animals, or by any ordeal which is likely to result in the death of, or in bodily injury to, any party to the proceeding. Any person who directs or controls or presides at any such ordeal renders himself liable, on conviction, to imprisonment for ten years; and, if convicted, to suffer the death penalty. Moreover, any person who makes, sells, or assists or takes part in making or selling, or even has in his possession for sale or use any poison or thing which is intended to be used for the purpose of any such trial by ordeal renders himself liable, on conviction, to a fine of £50 or to imprisonment for six months. And any person who accuses or threatens to accuse any person with being a witch or with practicing witchcraft, or any person who represents himself to be a witch, or to have the power of witchcraft, renders himself liable, on conviction, to a fine of £5, or to imprisonment for six months.

Women Smoke Less.

The sign that "Ladies May Smoke" has been taken down from the cafe of a popular London hotel and inquiries set on foot show that the popularity of the cigarette—at least in public—among fair smokers is on the wane.

"There was a time when ladies thought it smart to smoke in public," said the manager of the hotel, "but, as far as I can judge, the idea is less prevalent than it was. At any rate, ladies certainly smoke less than they did. We do not object to their smoking after luncheon and dinner, but very few now take advantage of the permission. We do not, however, permit ladies to smoke at tea time, and I may say that I offended a lady the other day by sending a request to her that she would dispense with her cigarette at tea."

A similar opinion as to the waning popularity of the cigarette among women was expressed by the manager of another London hotel, where again smoking by ladies after dinner and luncheon is not forbidden.

The Plays Mixed.

During one of his tours when the late Sir Henry Irving was playing "Twelfth Night" in New York, he revealed absent-mindedness, and greatly amused the members of his company and the audience. As Malvolio, he was expressing surprise at a remark of Sir Toby.

"Do you know what you say?" he asked.

To his surprise a roar of laughter echoed through the house, and his stage associates were convulsed.

He repeated the line putting undue emphasis on the pronoun, and again the audience shouted with laughter.

It was not until after the performance he learned that quite unconsciously he had been parodying the well-known words of "The Private Secretary." His only explanation was that it was done in a bit of forgetfulness while thinking of the other play.

Shaw to Stead.

Some time ago in London Mr. Stead wanted to gather about him some of the brains of Europe and then make a trip around the world in the interests of everlasting peace. He asked G Bernard Shaw to be one of the party, which invitation most men would have thought a compliment, but Mr. Shaw said: "My dear Stead, I have far more work to do than kings and queens, but if you will bring a collection of rulers to my house in Adelphi Terrace I should be very glad to talk to them any morning."

Just a Bit.

His friend—I hear that you are a head of the company.

Guilty Director (absentmindedly)—Ah, yes; about $100,000.—Harvard Lampoon.

Why She Was Absent.

A teacher in one of the girls' schools on the lower east side recently had the following excuse for absence handed her by one of her pupils:

Dear Miss—It gives me much pleasure to write to you, because I have a worryment, and you should please excuse my Annie, who does not come by you because she has to go to the hospital with her sister's sore eyes.

The Accommodating Patron.

"Shall I send this or will you take it?" asks the affable drug clerk after filling the prescription.

"You may send it and then I will take it," suggests the accommodating patron.

MUSKRAT KILLED ON GEORGE STREET

Seen in Front of Grafton's Clothing Store.

A story was told to a reporter this afternoon of a muskrat being killed on George street. The story went like this:—

Last night between twelve and one o'clock, a well known young man was walking down George street when he saw a large Muskrat swimming towards Hunter street. It looked as if it had been disappointed in not getting into Mr. Barrie's store and was going to see if Mr. Lech would give it a night's lodging. But it has not got that far yet, as this young man thought he would spare its feelings, knowing full well that no stores were open at that time of night, gave it a gentle kick and I passed from this world for evermore.

The possible "rattiness" in connection with this incident may exist in the actual presence of the odorous rodent or in the imagination of the informant.

TWO MEN DROWNED BY DRIVING INTO AIR HOLE NEAR TRENTON; THEIR WIVES HAD NARROW ESCAPE

Special to The Examiner.

Trenton, Jan. 22—David Frederick and Gilbert Brook with Mrs. Frederick and Mrs. Brook started to drive across the ice last night about ten o'clock for home some five miles distant. When about 400 yards from shore they drove into a hole where men had been cutting ice. David Frederick and Gilbert Brook with the horse, were drowned. Mrs. Frederick and Mrs Brook were saved. The night was very dark. The bodies of the drowned men were recovered.

FARMER DID NOT DELIVER MEAT; PAID $15.25 FOR HIS NEGLECT

John Kerr was fined $5 and costs, amounting to $15.25, at the police court this morning on the charge of having appropriated to his own use, without any excuse, the sum of $2.00, the property of Ed. Waterman.

The affair arose from the purchase of a quarter of beef last Saturday. Mr. Waterman purchased the meat for $5.50, and gave Mr. Kerr $2.00 to bind him over to delivering it. He did not get the meat, neither did the man return the money. Mr. Waterman had written down his name in Mr. Kerr's book. Mr. Geo. McCarroll, Mr. W. J. Moore and Mr. Thos. Young corroborated Mr. Waterman's evidence, as they were near the sleigh of meat on Saturday and saw the transaction.

Mr. Kerr stated that at noon that day he gave his book to his brother-in-law, while he had driven. The brother-in-law lost the book and the name and addresses were then unknown to the defendant. He admitted having taken no steps to find out Mr. Waterman's address, nor did he leave the money at the police station, and on Wednesday when he came into the city he sold the meat and again made no effort to return the money.

Magistrate Dumble said that intentions had to be judged by actions and in this case there was no evidence to show that he tried to give the money back.

Mr. Kerr said that he would have come in again on Saturday. He did not remember Mr. Waterman, but he thought that the latter would remember him.

Mr. Kerr had not elected for trial as he was unacquainted with proceedings, but afterwards expressed himself satisfied with the judgment and paid over the money.

HAVELOCK COUNCILLOR BEATEN WHILE ACTING AS PEACEMAKER

On Thursday evening of last week Councillor Wm. Griffith, of Belmont, who resides in town, was most brutally assaulted while endeavouring to make peace between a party of brawlers. Jason Roe, of Belmont Howard Peters of Peterborough, and Jno. McArthur of Seymour, were engaged in an altercation on the street when Mr. Griffith happened along and attempted to officiate as peacemaker. Without warning of any kind McArthur is said to have approached Mr. Griffith from behind and dealt him a blow from some instrument which rendered him unconscious. The unfortunate gentleman fell into the gutter of Roe and was brutally kicked and maltreated. He came to his senses in a few minutes and attempted to regain his feet, when he received a kick under his eye which caused him to again lapse into a state of coma. The rowdies then disappeared and now warrants are out for their apprehension on a charge of assault.

GAS IGNITED BY SPARK CAUSED BY STEEL STRIKING ON ROCK

What might have been a very serious thing happened this morning on Charlotte street. The gas works pipe has a large leak in it, and the men have been working for the past two days in uncovering it. This morning they were lucky, or unlucky, to find it, for in prying out one of the rocks with a steel bar a spark ignited the gas, sending a flame quite a distance out of the hole. They immediately set to work to smother out the flames with water and fine dirt. This, however, was not accomplished until the hole was about half full again. After the flame was put out they had to set to work and dig it all out.

Rev. Dr. O'Brien Underwent An Operation At The Hospital

The many friends of Rev. Dr. O'Brien will be pleased to learn that he is resting as easily as might be expected after undergoing an operation at St. Joseph's Hospital yesterday afternoon which it is believed has been entirely successful. The ligaments of his knee in the fall were torn and the operation was for the purpose of sewing them together. It was performed by Dr McKeown of Toronto and Dr Gallivan of this city. The injury Rev. Dr. O'Brien received is very painful and of a rather serious nature. It is believed that it will be about two months before he is able to be around again, and it is earnestly hoped that when he has recovered his walk will not be affected.

G. T. R. Lakefield Line May Be Extended To Young's Point

At the present there are indications of three railway lines to Lakefield. There is the Peterborough Radial Railway's proposed extension, the line spoken of from Cobourg to Kawarthadom and lastly the G.T.R.'s plans to extend their Lakefield line to Young's Point. This latter extension has been spoken of before but has been kept rather quiet. It is known that the company's surveyors have gone over the ground and the extension of their line to the Point would greatly improve its efficiency and give its patrons a better service in getting to Stony Lake. Such are three proposed plans but it is another question which of them will be carried out.

CAT WITH BRAIN STORM KILLED BY P. C. NEWHALL

P. C. Newhall received a strange call over the telephone recently. A woman informed him that her favourite "tabby" had an attack of brain storm, and was travelling around the house in a frenzy.

It was evidently a serious case of cat "dementia," and the officer went forth to investigate. He was told that pussy was under a sofa and when he moved it to get at the cat it sprang out at him, catching to the breast of his coat, and giving him a bit of a start. He quickly gave the infuriated feline a tap with his baton and then took it by the tail out of doors where another blow on the head dispatched poor puss.

LORD NORTHCOTE TO SUCCEED EARL GREY

Toronto, Jan. 22.—A London cable says it is stated on good authority that Lord Northcote will succeed Earl Grey as Governor-General of Canada.

CHARGES WERE INVESTIGATED

Fire, Water and Light Committee Held Long Session Last Night—Much Evidence Received.

AGAIN ON MONDAY NIGHT

The Fire, Water and Light Committee had a long session last night, when they met for the purpose of investigating the charges preferred against Chief Howard by ex-Ald. Johnston, chairman of that committee of last year. There were present Mayor Rush, Aldermen Butler, Hicks, Morgan, Turner, Gillespie, Duffus, Metheral, Bradburn, Duncan and McIntyre. Ald. Butler, chairman of the committee, had charge of the investigation.

The following witnesses were examined: W. H. Taylor, Jas. Weir, Reynolds, Albert Craig, W. Metherall, Arch. McBride, Jos. Perrin, Frederick Rank, John Wright, John Hetherington, Frank Adams (City Treasurer), Ald. Johnston, George Hawes and Chief Howard.

The charges preferred against the Chief by Ald. Johnston were in part of having entered the Fire Hall under the influence of liquor, of wantonly beating one of the horses, of not being at the hall as required by his instructions, and several other charges of a minor nature. After one o'clock the investigation was adjourned until Monday night.

Last night the various witnesses were examined along the lines of the charges and Chief Howard also gave his explanation in rebuttal. The rest of the evidence will be taken on Monday night, and the report of the Committee to the Council will determine whether or not the charges were warranted and sustained.

THE GRAND TRUNK THAT IS AND IS TO BE.

The good old Grand Trunk carries a green old age and seems to be developing a renewed youth. It is described in a statistical record, Heaton's Annual, as having "1035 miles of double track, and the largest double track railway in Canada and the longest continuous track railways in the world." It is certainly one of the greatest of railway systems anywhere and is continuously expanding. The grand total mileage of the Grand Trunk and Grand Trunk Pacific, including lines under construction and contemplated, will eventually amount to 13,895 miles, and adding steamship lines, 15,134 miles. To this total the great outstanding enterprise of the National Continental and Grand Trunk Pacific will contribute very largely, and the company is showing great enterprise in making known its work, and what it means in national development widely known. A recent number of The Graphic, London, Eng., contains a three-page reference to the Grand Trunk Pacific. The article is entitled "The Progress of Empire; How Towns are Made in Canada." It is very finely and beautifully illustrated and the letter press, subtitled "Girdling the Earth," is admirably sympathetic in spirit, showing the importance of the Grand Trunk Pacific in the scheme of the "All-Red Route and its influence in developing the marvellous resources of the Canadian West. A page is devoted to photo-reproduction showing "how a new town grows in a night in Canada"—on the completed section of the new railway. Prince Rupert the new occidental metropolis, in posse, is especially lavoured and it is pointed out that the line terminating there will bring "Liverpool two days nearer the far East than it is by the shortest route to-day." The indications are that the completed Grand Trunk Pacific and Transcontinental will add a splendid chapter to the romance of Empire-building of which Canada has been, is, and will continue to be, the theatre.

A DISAGREEMENT IN POLICY.

Mr. Borden, leader of the Opposition, has received a vote of confidence from his supporters in the House. Does that imply that the Conservative press shares this confidence? The Mail and Empire is ostensibly loyal to Mr. Borden, but it does not think him important enough to make itself familiar with the leader's platform, or does not think the latter worth much. Recently the Mail and Empire, as was its duty, as a party organ, denounced the Transcontinental Railway Commission in these words:

"The appointment of this Commission was a gross breach of the principles of representative government. It removed the control of the expenditure from Parliament and placed in the hands of of a secret irresponsible body. . .

Compare this with plank No. 8 of Mr. Borden's Halifax latform, which received the endorsation of the Mail and Empire, though it some way escaped the endoration of the country. This plank reads:

"The operation of and management of our government railways by an independent commission, free from party control or influence."

Here Mr. Borden expressly advocates what the Mail and Empire denounces "a secret irresponsible body." The organ advocates an opposing policy to that of Mr. Borden, but libels its character and mistates the relations of the Transcontinental Railway to Parliament. It is directly responsible to Parliament through the Minister of Railways and Canals. Every dollar of money expended under the Commission is checked and investigated by the Auditor-General. In addition every contract is put up to public tender and competition invited, and the Commission reports its acts to Parliament. It is the duty of Opposition members and journals to criticise the actions of the government, but its very like excess of zeal to invent the premises of the argument of condemnation. There should be a sufficiently definite Opposition policy to avoid a contradiction between the chief organ and the leader.

WESTERN HOMESTEADING.

We in Canada the past year or more have had a touch of hard times emphatic enough to be felt and to be unpleasant, but the touch has fallen more lightly upon us than almost any other country. There has been a considerable decrease in our revenue but the tide is on the flow again. We have had a bountiful harvest from coast to coast, and although the tide of immigration has somewhat slackened as compared with last year, there has been an increased practical appreciation of the agricultural capabilities of our Great West. Though 1908 was a slightly inactive year in the matter of immigration, the number of homestead entries, representing actual settlers and tillers of the soil, was in excess of any preceding year. This was no doubt influenced by the fact that the new Dominion lands act, which among other things opens up to settlement millions of acres which have reverted to the Government from the vast railway grant area, for years exempt from homesteading by Conservative legislation, went into force on September 1st, last. The total number of homesteads entries last year was 49,154, or 19,718 more than in 1907. Of these 31,139 entries were made in the last four months of the year, September's share being 14,279. This increase means a great impetus to the development and progress of the West. The United States has contributed largely to it, and the Winnipeg Free Press estimates that the total number of homesteaders from that country who, having made their entries last year, will take up their homesteads this year, will reach 20,000. Taking each entry as representing on the average five persons, Canada gets a total of 100,000 new settlers of a most desirable class from this source alone. If each family brings into Canada $1,000—not an extravagant estimate—there will be added to the wealth of this country $20,000,000.

Even if the flow of immigration from the Old Country this year is not large the coming season will be a lively one in the new provinces, as it is reasonable to suppose that last year's homesteaders will lose no time in commencing to make homes for themselves.

The policy of building up the West by railway construction, which, necessary and important as it is, is, if the conditions can be separated, less important than building up a strong citizenship.

THE LAYMENS MOVEMENT.

Referring to your comments on the Laymen's Missionary Movement, will you let me point out one element of its success in Canada. It is that, whereas the movement in the United States is for purely foreign missions, in Canada all the churches have insisted that the pressing needs of our North-west are our first care. In consequence, when the movement began here, a clear understanding was come to that the North-west missions were to be included. Speaking for myself, I do not want in the least to ignore the extraordinary opportunities in the East, which it is nothing short of folly to neglect. But as a Canadian, and realizing that the immigration into the North-west amounts to nearly a quarter of a million per year, I feel that if we do not, in the next five years, hand our missionary efforts towards coping with its requirements, we will find the most progressive part of Canada has slipped away from our influence. And if so, Canada, as a whole will be unable adequately to do its share for foreign missions. I think our plain duty requires us just now to place the North-west first among our missionary responsibilities. The Missionary Society of the Church of England devotes about 75 per cent. of its income to the North-west and while it does not neglect the foreign field, it is making every effort to afford Church privileges to those who settle in Western Canada. I do not doubt that all the other churches are doing the same. Hence the Laymen's Missionary Movement is becoming a national one, and will I trust be of the greatest service to our own country.

It is a pleasure to know that our churches are taking this attitude towards missions. It is the proper and patriotic stand to take and not inconsistent with our interest and recognition of the importance of foreign mission enterprises. But as every man's first duty is to his home and home interests, so the first duty of the Canadian Churches is to look after the unprovided elements of our rapidly increasing population in the West. It is our duty to provide the Christian privileges and influences necessary to make our new citizens, good citizens—representatives of the highest form of Christian civilization. In so doing we shall be indirectly contributing to the foreign mission movement. We shall build up strong Christian countries, which will constitute elements in the spread of the Gospel to those who are without its light.

Hunting a Homemaker.

By LULU JOHNSON.

Copyrighted, 1908, by Associated Literary Press.

A mere toddler of a boy stood on the bank above the railroad track. In his hand was a stone. Aiming blindly, he tossed the stone upon the track, and it snuggled against the gleaming rail.

In less than forty-eight hours that stone, tossed by a baby hand, had thrown Wall street and the money market of the country into a panic.

The single track of the little western road afforded rough traveling. Not many of the travelers aboard that particular train even noticed the somewhat harder jolt when the car wheel struck the stone.

But Gilbert Fairbain, smoking a "good night" cigar as he leaned alone against the railing of the observation car's platform, felt the jar—and then felt nothing more.

And it was two weeks before Wall street learned that Fairbain, the one man who could have stopped the panic, had been found beside the tracks and removed to a farmhouse on the quarter section nearest the road.

For ten days he had been unconscious, and for two days or more he had been in no condition to be left alone. There was but one inmate of that farmhouse besides himself, and she had been too busy nursing him to make the trip to the nearest town to report that he had been found.

As soon as his whereabouts had been discovered the lonesome little town was overrun with people. Grave and learned physicians from the east were hurried westward on special trains and a regiment of nurses attended them, but Fairbain waved them all away.

"I don't need you," he said irritably. "Little Mrs. Bodington pulled me through without a lot of palaver or thousand dollar doctors to help her. Leave a couple of nurses to wait on her, and the rest of you go away."

"There is an excellent hospital not fifty miles from here," suggested the family physician. "I can look after you with better assurance of successful treatment."

"Sugden, you're an ass," declared Fairbain irritably. "This little woman nursed me single handed through an attack of brain fever. I guess she can attend to the convalescence."

"I will not undertake to be responsible for the consequences," said Sugden, with ponderous emphasis.

"You don't have to be," was the acrid response. "You are going to be packed out of here, the whole lot of you. I've spent most of my life with a doctor on one side of me and a lawyer on the other. I'm sick of it all, and I'm entitled to a rest."

He looked contentedly about the tiny room. The outlook from the narrow paned windows was dreary, and the room itself was walled with rough plaster and decorated with cheap prints in homemade frames.

The bed on which he rested was a wooden affair with a cotton mattress and coarse cotton sheets, but the sheets were immaculately clean, and there was an air of hominess about the place that Fairbain had not known in years.

He closed his eyes contentedly and dozed off. Sugden, mindful of his fat fees, waited in deferential silence during the half hour the nap lasted. Fairbain's glance fell first on him as his eyes opened again.

"You still here!" he cried. "Sugden, if you don't take the first train back to New York I'll make you sue for whatever I owe you and I'll take it on appeal and appeal until you spend every cent you ever made off of me. Now get out of here."

Sugden took his departure, vowing that his patient was insane, but Fairbain only smiled contentedly and turned to the sweet faced woman who sat beside the bed.

"That's the way to talk to those sharks," he declared. "I have a headache, and Sugden gives me something to make it worse. Then he doctors me for the new 'disease' and sends in a bill a yard long. This is the time I fooled him."

"I am glad that you were not moved," said the woman softly. "I think that the excitement would have been bad for you."

"It is not the trip I was dreading," admitted Fairbain frankly. "I like it here, and I want to stay a little while. My secretary will stay over in town and bring my important mail every day, and the two nurses will relieve you of the watchful nights.

"If you want anything else, buy it or hire it or something. Wilson will give you what money I need. Wilson is a fine fellow," he added. "He came into my office this fall as a clerk, and I took a fancy to him and made him my confidential man. He took to the job as though he had known me and my affairs since he was born."

"It must be very nice to have some one to do your work the way you want it done," she said softly. "I am glad that you are so pleased with him."

"I'm pleased with him," said Fairbain meaningly, "so long as you are not too well pleased with him. You won't be pleased with him?" he pleaded.

"No more than I am now," she promised, and with that Fairbain was content. He was convinced that money was omnipotent and that even here on the prairie it could purchase the love of the little woman who had made him so comfortable.

Fairbain was in love with his newly found home comforts rather than with the woman herself, but this he did not know, although, when there was no longer any pretext for prolonging the stay, he spoke bravely enough.

"I need you very much," he said earnestly. "I have a house that covers half a square in the most expensive residential district in New York. I have three yachts, something like a dozen automobiles and all that sort of thing, but I have no home. Not since I was a boy have I realized what home was like. My wife was no homemaker, and when she died I never dared repeat the experiment with the women in the set I lived in. You are different. For years I have been hungry. Don't you think that you can come and make it for me?"

The little woman paused for a moment and scanned the face of the multimillionaire as earnestly as though she had not devoted weeks in that pursuit.

There was no ardent affection in tone or look. Fairbain discussed the matter with as much feeling as though he was discussing the making of some railroad deal with his fellow magnates. He was not the young lover, but the elderly widower in need of a homemaker.

The girl—she was little more than that—nodded her head in an affirmative.

"I'll make the home for you, but not as your wife. I am not a widow, you see!"

"I am married," continued the girl hurriedly. "I married when I was on the stage. I married a boy who never had had a home, and I made one for him—out here where nothing matters. He was home hungry. I knew that I would spoil all his chances if I married him. I also knew that he would spoil his own chances if I didn't, so I married him.

"After our boy was born—that was the second year we were here—he went back east and took a name that was neither his nor mine to show his father that he was able to work for the woman he loved. I am married to your son, Mr. Fairbain. I guess you've forgotten that Gregory married Martha Bodington. From what Gregory told me, you called me everything but my right name at that last interview."

"Perhaps I did," was the shamefaced reply. "I guess I did not know what I was saying, and I'm certain that I didn't know the sort of a girl I was talking about."

"We'll forget that now," offered Martha. "Let the past be forgotten for the sake of the boy."

"But Gregory?" asked Fairbain.

"There," Martha pointed out over the prairie, where the secretary was to be seen riding across the section with the mail.

"And Wilson is Gregory? You mean to say I didn't know my own boy when I hired him?" asked Fairbain, with a chuckle. "To think that all the time he has been here I've been fretting because I feared that you might learn to love him. And all that time you were married to him. I'm rather glad, my dear, that I made my second marriage by proxy, so long as you will make a home for Greg and the boy and me."

"I was so afraid that you would recognize Greg," said Martha as she regarded the tall figure of the secretary with a look of frank admiration.

"He assumed an excellent disguise," reminded Fairbain. "I never thought to find my son a worker, my dear. That's another thing I have to thank you for," and Fairbain sighed with relief. He had found a home while retaining his domestic independence, and the son for whom his heart cried out was restored to him again.

Changes in Boston.

In 1636 one of the suburbs of Boston was Newe Towne, which in 1638 was changed to Cambridge and as the seat of Harvard university has an international reputation today. Since the early lines were fixed Cambridge obtained by annexation a part of Charlestown, but has ceded land to the towns of Waltham, Brighton, Watertown, Belmont and West Cambridge, the latter now known as Arlington.

The Boston of 1630, called Tri-Mountain, was very different from the Boston of today. Its area was not extensive, although it included the larger portion of Quincy, out of which the town of Braintree was made at a later period. The first annexations to Boston were Noddles island (East Boston) and the territory now covered by Chelsea.

In 1640 Boston lost its rights in Quincy, which were acquired by the town of Braintree. Subsequent additions to Boston have been Roxbury, Dorchester, West Roxbury, Brighton, Charlestown and a part of Brookline.

As an independent municipality Charlestown, which was settled as early as Boston, gave birth to Somerville, Woburn, Malden, Stoneham and Mulford and furnished land to Cambridge.—Boston Post.

Value of the Architect.

The members of a country club, the building and decoration of whose clubhouse had been placed entirely in the hands of the architect, even to the minutest furnishings, found themselves in need of new window shades and a few other small household necessities Instead of buying the things themselves, they sent for the architect to come out and look things over and order appropriate fittings.

"That is not at all an unusual case," said the architect. "I can show you houses that I planned more than twenty-five years ago that have never been furnished with so much as a new chair without my being consulted first. Having deferred entirely to my judgment in the first place, those confiding patrons are afraid to trust their own taste in the smallest matter, and they will probably continue to ask my advice in every little detail of decoration as long as they occupy the house."—New York Globe.

Earl Grey Reads Speech From Throne at Ottawa.

HOUSE FORMALLY OPENED

Inauguration of Eleventh Dominion Parliament at Ottawa Proves to Be Brilliant Affair Despite Bad Weather—Speech Refers to Trade Improvement; U.S. Treaty and Quebec Tercentenary.

Ottawa, Jan. 22.—There was the usual display of militarism and feminine attractiveness at the formal opening of Parliament yesterday afternoon. "The Hill" attracted a great throng of spectators, the arrival of Earl Grey and Government House party, attended by a mounted escort, being witnessed by several thousand people who had not been favored with tickets of admission, while within the Senate chamber there was a brilliant assemblage of Supreme Court judges in ermine robes, staff officers, privy councillors and members of Parliament and Senators, with several hundred charmingly attired ladies who occupied the Senatorial chairs and galleries.

On the return of the Gentleman Usher of the Black Rod, accompanied by Hon. Speaker Marcil and the members of the lower House, Earl Grey read the speech from the throne.

Sir Wilfrid then moved that the speech from the throne to taken up on Monday, some of the Ministers having expressed a desire to recess to-day.

"But why delay?" queried George E. Foster, and Sir Wilfrid acquiesced in the suggestion that the House get busy at once. Therefore the first business to-day is the address in reply, moved by Todd of Charlotte, N.B., and seconded by Turcotte of Quebec Centre.

When Sir Wilfrid moved the adjournment, R. L. Borden asked when the public accounts and Auditor-General's report would be brought down. The Premier said it was not customary to produce state documents before the consideration of His Excellency's speech, but since the Opposition leader desired it and Mr. Paterson had them ready, he had no objections.

Speech From the Throne.

The speech from the throne was as follows:

Hon. Gentlemen of the Senate:
Gentlemen of the House of Commons:

In welcoming you to the performance of your duties at the first session of a new Parliament, I desire to acknowledge with devout thankfulness the abundant harvest with which Divine Providence has again blessed us.

The Quebec Tercentenary festivities in July, which were honored by the gracious presence of His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, as representing His Majesty, marked an epoch in the history of the Dominion. The generous support given to this national celebration by the Federal Parliament and Provincial Legislatures, and by the peoples of Canada, of the other dominions and of the United Kingdom, emphasized the community of sympathy which binds the various parts of the British Empire to each other, and to the throne and person of His Majesty the King. The presence of representatives from the United Kingdom, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa, Newfoundland and from the great and friendly republics of France and the United States, with the ships of war of the three nations, served not only to add lustre to this occasion, but to provide an assurance of increasing amity and peace.

U.S.-Canadian Treaty.

I have much pleasure in announcing that a treaty relating to the great lakes and other international waterways has been agreed upon between His Majesty and the Government of the United States of America, and is now awaiting ratification. Both countries are to be congratulated on having arrived at an amicable settlement, which, I trust, will remove during the lifetime of the treaty many vexed questions from the field of controversy. The treaty and papers relating thereto will be laid before you in due course.

A little more than a year ago the whole civilized world entered into a period of commercial, industrial and financial depression, which may not yet have completely spent its force; signs there are, however, that it is gradually passing away. While it is hardly disputable, that owing to the abundance and elasticity of her resources, Canada has suffered less than other nations, this depression has seriously affected our trade, producing an appreciable shrinkage in the public revenue, and calling for exceptional caution in the administration of our national affairs.

The rapid settlement of the new provinces call for new lines of transportation. The construction of the trans-continental railway has been vigorously pressed forward during the last year. The line was open for the carrying of the crops from Winnipeg to the Battle River, a distance of 675 miles.

Hudson Bay Route.

Four parties have been at work since August last. Upon the report it will be possible to reach a decision as to both the route to be followed and the approximate cost. The provisions of the Dominion Lands Act of last session, for the sale of preemptions and purchased homesteads, has created a new source of revenue, that will be sufficient to bear the cost of the railway to Hudson Bay without burdening the ordinary revenue.

From Sept. 1, when the Act came into force, until Jan. 1, sales of preemptions and purchased homesteads have amounted to over two million acres, all subject to homestead settlement conditions.

The total volume of immigration has not reached the high figure of previous years, but the number of those seeking homes on our unoccupied lands, has been fully maintained during the last season, and, owing to the ever closer supervision of the immigration branch of the public service, the character of these new inhabitants of Canada seems to be of the highest, and promises no small attention to the wealth of the country.

The Government of the United Kingdom having expressed its willingness to include a representative of Canada among its delegates to the conference held at Shanghai, to investigate the opium trade, my Government has been pleased to welcome an offer so significant of Canada's growing importance and on its recommendation the Government of the United Kingdom has accordingly appointed a member of the Dominion Parliament to be a member of the commission.

Representatives of Canada participated lately in the permanent establishment and organization of the International Institute of Agriculture, with its headquarters at Rome, an event of interest to our country, in whose economic system agriculture plays so great a part. It is gratifying to note that among the forty-eight states adhering to the Institute, recognition of Canada's agricultural importance was shown by election of our representatives to some of the highest offices of the institute.

The Sicilian Calamity.

The appalling calamity which has befallen Sicily and Southern Italy, and caused a total destruction of life and property absolutely unprecedented and unequalled in the long series of historic disasters, has induced my Government to offer assistance for the immediate relief of the hundreds of thousands of sufferers, who were helpless against famine and all its consequent horrors. I confidently hope you will approve its action.

In pursuance of an announcement made during the concluding session of last Parliament, a commission was appointed to examine the various lines of railway connected with the Intercolonial Railway, and which might become valuable feeders thereto. The report of this commission has been received and will be placed before you.

The commissioner appointed for investigating the conduct of officials in the Department of Marine and Fisheries has concluded his labor, but has not yet reported. His report, however, is expected at an early date, and when received will be placed in your hands.

A measure will be submitted to you, based upon similar legislation enacted in 1908 by the Parliament of the United Kingdom, aiming at the repression of the payment of secret commissions and gratuities both in public and private business.

You will be asked to consider measures relative to insurance, the civil service, immigration, naturalization and other subjects.

Gentlemen of the House of Commons:

The accounts of the last year will be laid before you. The estimates for the coming year will be submitted at an early date; they have been prepared with a due regard for economy consistent with the requirements of the public service.

Hon. Gentlemen of the Senate:
Gentlemen of the House of Commons:

I pray Divine Providence that it may guide your deliberations, and that they may tend to a further increase in the prosperity of our country and the well-being of our people.

To Be Dyspeptic Is To Be Miserable.

Dyspepsia is the prevailing malady of civilized life. It is largely due to gross errors in diet, over-eating, too free indulgence in stimulants and over-taxing the stomach with indigestible food, eating too rapidly without chewing the food sufficiently, indulging in hot biscuits, pastry, pickles, confectionery, etc.

Constipation, headache, heartburn, sour stomach, distress after eating, belching of wind, faintness, and fullness and distention of the stomach are a few of the many distressing symptoms of the poor, weary dyspeptic. Burdock Blood Bitters regulates the stomach, stimulates the secretion of the saliva and gastric juice to facilitate digestion, removes acidity, purifies the blood, and tones up the system to full health and vigor, and thereby cures dyspepsia and all its tributary diseases.

Mr. Amos Sawler, Gold River, N.S., writes:—"I was greatly troubled with dyspepsia, and after trying several doctors to no effect, I commenced taking Burdock Blood Bitters and I think it is the best medicine there is for that complaint."

C. P. R. LINES WILL BE SPREAD IN WEST

Six Million Dollars Will Be Spent in West This Year.

MEANT TO OFFSET G. T. P.

Greatest of Proposed Improvements Will Be New 150 Mile Road Joining Macleod and Calgary—Lacombe Tuxford Line to Be Added to Edmonton Alternative Line, According to Mr. Whyte.

Montreal, Jan. 22.—After a conference between Wm. Whyte and Sir Thomas Shaughnessy, the C.P.R. has decided to spend six millions in the west this year.

This will include 250 to 300 miles of new road, and docks at Fort William. The new line decided on is east of the present line from Macleod to Calgary, opening up the great wheat section of Alberta. It will join the Macleod-Calgary line near High River.

It is evident that the company intend to meet the railway policy of the Alberta Government and also head off to some extent the enterprises of the Grand Trunk Pacific.

In addition to the brief official statement handed out yesterday morning, Mr. Whyte stated last evening that the new lines, including those initiated last year, which will be proceeded with, will amount to between 250 and 300 miles of railway in the prairie regions.

The most important new feature in the program is the construction of a new line north of Lethbridge, running towards Calgary, but considerably east of the present line in Alberta, connecting Macleod and Calgary, and opening up a most important wheat belt hitherto without railways, directly traversing it and giving much desired connection to extensive settlement areas in the High River Valley.

North of the main line again there is another exceedingly fertile belt, which is to be traversed by a new line running north and south, forming a junction with the Tuxford Lacombe line, of which a large part is now built. This new line will join the Lacombe line at Alix. The portion of the Lacombe Tuxford line that is to be built this year is from Stettler to Ghost Line Creek, the section from Stettler to Lacombe having been already built. It will be an important step towards the completion of the line that crosses the prairies diagonally in a northwesterly direction from Moose Jaw.

This, in Mr. Whyte's opinion, expresses a very liberal policy as far as Alberta Province is concerned, and the company asks for no Government aid in its projects, either as subsidies or bond guarantees.

It is likely that the present summer will witness the completion of the line that provides the alternative route from the east to Edmonton. It has now been carried east from Wetaskawin, where it joins the Calgary and Edmonton line to Battle River, and the bridge over the Battle River has been completed. East of that there still remains a gap of 150 miles, which will be the object of this year's attentions.

FIRST SIGNS ARE IN THE BACK

Best Not to Neglect Nature's Danger Signals When Kidneys are Involved

ANYONE CAN PREPARE IT

Take care of backache. A great many cases of kidney complaint are reported about here; also bladder trouble and rheumatism.

An authority once stated that pain in the back, loins or region of the kidneys is the danger signal nature hangs out to notify the sufferer that there is something wrong with the kidneys, which should receive immediate attention. Only vegetable treatment should be administered and absolutely no strongly alcoholic medicines, which are harmful to the kidneys and bladder.

The following prescription, while simple, harmless and inexpensive, is known and recognized as a sovereign remedy for kidney complaint. The ingredients can be obtained at any good prescription pharmacy and anyone can mix them: Compound Kargon, one ounce; Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Shake well in a bottle and take teaspoonful doses after each meal and at bedtime.

This preparation is said to restore the natural functions of the kidneys, so they will sift and strain the poisonous waste matter, uric acid, etc., from the blood, purifying it and relieving rheumatism. Backache will be relieved, the urine will be neutralized and cleared and no longer a cause of irritation, thereby overcoming such symptoms as weak bladder, painful frequent and other urinary difficulties.

For Government-Owned Elevators.

Ottawa, Jan. 22.—Dr. Schaffner, member for South Manitoba, will give notice of a motion in favor of Government ownership of grain elevators at Port Arthur and Fort William, and also of transfer elevators between those points and the Atlantic seaboard.

License Board Abolished.

Brantford, Jan. 22.—The Government has abolished the license board for South Brant and has given the duties of Inspector Markle to Inspector McCann of this city. Two license boards will act in place of three as formerly for this county.

Miss Pauline Gilley of East Orange, N.J., received a purse valued at about $2,000, which she lost in Newark while shopping. Frank Sullivan, striking hatter, who returned it to her, said he picked it up on a sidewalk.

Fire destroyed Boese & Schmidt's general store, Richardson's harness shop and Webb & Burr's office store, at Vanda, Sask., yesterday. Most of the stock was saved except Richardson's, where the fire started.

For Government Ownership.

Scallion's resolution to endorse the principle of Government ownership of elevators, was resumed. The motion passed by a standing vote, with only seven dissentient delegates.

Thus does the greatest farmers' organization of the west commit itself irrevocably to a great principle of an experimental character.

He said he thought nothing pending in Congress or any of the differences between himself and Congress were of half the importance of the Japanese-California question.

OVERWORKED

Boston Trained Nurse Seeing the Good Vinol Did Her Patients, Tried It Herself With Splendid Results.

"I was completely prostrated from overwork. I had no appetite, could not sleep, my kidneys, liver and bowels became inactive, and as I grew weaker I could not retain either medicine or food on my stomach and raised blood. The doctors said my condition was critical.

"As I had seen Vinol prescribed for my patients with such remarkable results, I decided to try it. After the first bottle I began to improve. I continued its use, and soon began to sleep and eat well; every organ in my body was strengthened and became normal, until it seemed good to be alive and I was restored to perfect health and strength.

"I advise all my patients who need strength, rich, red blood, and flesh tissue to take Vinol, as it is so far superior to old-fashioned cod liver oil, emulsions, or other tonics."—Elizabeth M. Cremond, Boston, Mass.

For nine years a nurse in hospital and private cases.

The reason that Vinol has such power to heal and strengthen is because it contains with tonic iron all of the curative, medicinal and strength-creating elements of cod liver oil.

Try Vinol—your money will be returned if it fails to benefit. McDermid and Jury, druggists, corner of George and Charlotte sts., also Payne's Drug Store, corner of George and Simcoe sts.

BURNS' BIRTHDAY BANQUET.

Secretary Chambers, of the Burns' Birthday Celebration Committee, is quite jubilant over the sale of tickets. He is sanguine that it will be the most successful society event of the kind held in Peterborough. The toast list, speeches, musical programme and menu will contribute to make a most enthusiastic evening for all the admirers of the great Scottish bard.

Camp Clan Alpine, C. O. S., with its energetic president and officers are determined that their national poet's birthday shall be fittingly honoured in Peterborough this year.

Capacity Of Church Not Large Enough For Increased Membership

The annual meeting of the Murray Street Baptist Church was held last night in the basement of the church. This meeting was very largely attended by the heads of the different societies.

After devotional exercises, the minutes of the last meeting, which was held a year ago last night, were read. The pastor read his letter to the people and after that the reports of the different societies were listened to. The first one read was that of the clerk of the church, in his report was shown that the total membership of the church was 414. The second was that of the secretary which showed the receipts and expenditures of the past year, the receipts being $5,200 from all sources.

The report of the finance committee was next read and it was voted that this report be sent back to be revised. The fourth report was that of the Sunday School. This report made mention in grateful terms of the following teachers and officers, Mr. Dunlop, Mr. Elcome, Miss Louden and Miss Mary Garbutt, who had been present on Sundays during the past year. Nine scholars were also mentioned, Wilmot Browett, Helen Blade, Alice Hardwicke, Charlie Hardwicke, Amy Rathbone, Willie Hardwicke, Bena Hardwicke, who had attended 52 Sundays. Norman Brovet Morgan Cottingham, Walter Garbutt, Mildred Martin, May Stabler, Stanley Rathbone, Ethel Hardwicke and Bessie Elcome had attended 51 Sundays, and Doris Rathbone and Victor Bullied had attended 50 Sundays.

Special mention was made of Chas. Hardwicke who has been present every Sunday for eight years and Willie Hardwicke for five years.

The Mission Circle report for the past year showed an expenditure on account of missions of $256.10.

REV. J. R. WEBB,
Pastor of the Murray Street Baptist Church.

The report of the secretary of the Ladies' Aid Society was very encouraging, the treasurer's report showing an expenditure of $89.25 and receipts $167.73, leaving a balance of $79.48 to carry on the good work during the present year.

The report of the Willing Workers evidenced what an amount of good work was being done by this band of young ladies. The receipts of the Mission Band were $40.95 and the expenditures the same, also the report of the Baby Band was read; it was very short and was as follows—

Number on roll	34
Membership fees	$1.50
Foreign Missions	$1.50
Home Missions	1.50

The reports of the Boys Club, the Young People's Union, Music committee, the improvement Fund and the Fellowship Fund were read and adopted. After that the election of officers for the church took place and resulted as follows—

The two new deacons elected were Mr. R. Harding and Mr. P. White. These hold office for three years.

Church clerk—Mr. Downham.

Treasurer — Mr. T. F. Matthews, was elected again to hold office, having already been treasurer for twelve years.

Finance Com.—Mr. Geo. Cochrane, Mr. V. Eastwood, Jas. Montgomery, R. Harding and Porter White.

Fin. Sec.—Mr. W. Aldridge.

Ushers—Messrs. R. Harding, Geo. Cochrane, Harry Blade, Wilfred Shiner.

Charity board representative.—W. Aldridge.

Treasurer of Fellowship Fund—D. Scott.

Music Com.—F. Matthews, Mr. Routley, Mrs. Hunter, Mrs. Ellis, Miss Webber.

Asst. clerk of church—Mr. Harding.

Baptism Com.—Mrs. Cottingham, Mrs. Pringle, Mrs. Ellis, Mrs. Martin.

When this work was accomplished the following resolution was unanimously carried.

Whereas we have thankfully recognized the fact our church membership is increasing year by year, until the actual membership is now greater than the seating capacity of the building and that our Sunday School has grown to such a number as can not be assembled in our school room with any degree of comfort or efficiency—be it resolved that the church be requested to meet on Tuesday, evening Feb. 2nd, to consider the whole matter of accommodation both for our congregation and Sunday school.—Unanimously carried.

It was also mentioned that the pastor's salary was increased from $1200 to $1500 per year.

The meeting then adjourned.

PETERBORO' CURLERS LOST IN THE FINALS

Were Defeated Yesterday Afternoon by Scarboro Maple Leafs.

Peterborough's curlers returned from the Tankard competition in Group No. 5, in Toronto, having been defeated in the final by the Scarboro Maple Leafs. A despatch says:

Though the temperature was several degrees above the frost line yesterday, the curlers engaged in the Ontario Tankard primaries in groups 1 and 5 decided to go as far as they could, even with soft ice. Consequently, the final in group 5 was played at the Granite Rink, and the Scarboro Maple Leafs will come to town as the group representatives when the Tankard finals are played next month. The Leafs got their stones on the ice, which was easier to say than do, and both rinks were always in the lead against Peterborough.

The score:

WEDDING BELLS

TELFORD—METCALFE

A pretty wedding was quietly solemnized at the residence of Mr. Robt. Telford in Smith township on Wednesday afternoon at 4.30 o'clock, when his daughter Miss Jessie May Telford was united in marriage to Mr. George Metcalfe of East City. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. G. Potter of St. Andrew's church.

The young couple were unattended and the wedding was a quiet one, although the many handsome gifts that were received testified to the great popularity of the young couple. Mr. and Mrs. Metcalfe left after the ceremony for their home in East City.

"RATEPAYER" WRITES ON POWER QUESTION

Discusses the Problem in Connection with the Securing of Industries

To the Editor of the Examiner,—

Dear Sir,—I read with considerable interest the forecast of the industrial city council campaign for the boosting of industries in Peterborough. This is certainly a step in the right direction. But first of all we must begin at the right place, and that is the price at which we can obtain horse power. When it comes to a quotation of $18 or $20 per horse power, our goods are too high a price, and thus we are not in the market. Cheaper light and cheaper power is one of the greatest panaceas for the people of Peterborough. Give us horse power at the right price and there will be no need to create the office of Industrial Promoter or Commissioner for industries and tax the people for the payment of the same. Give us power at $10 or $12 per horse power and there will be found a number of men in Peterborough who will take hold of locating industries in this city without asking the ratepayers' assistance. If there is money to be paid for the locating of industries in Peterborough let the same be paid to any person who has the ability to locate industries here on a certain basis.

As regards the tabulation of option prices on factory sites, it should have a tendency to keep down the balloon prices that are sometimes asked for pieces of land, when the owner thinks there is a big chance of a sale, providing the council would not tabulate any piece of land above its normal or taxable assessment value.

SONS OF ENGLAND BANQUET

25th Anniversary of the Opening of Lodge Lansdowne Celebrated—A Large Number Present

The banquet and entertainment held in the S. O. E. Hall last evening to commemorate the twenty-fifth anniversary of the establishment of the order in Peterborough, was in all respects an unqualified success. The tables, most tastefully arranged, decorated with flowers and loaded with the choicest delicacies that Mr. Hooper could provide, presented a pleasing picture which was, no doubt, appreciated by all. Flags and festoons covered the walls. About one hundred guests enjoyed the banquet and the subsequent concert, amongst them being many of the fair sex, who added not a little to the pleasure of the evening, by gracing the proceedings with their presence. Too much praise cannot be accorded to the committee who had the arrangements for the banquet and concert in charge, for to them the success of the evening was largely due, viz., Messrs. S. A. Oke, Taylor, Wood, Wareham, W. Skinner and Harry Long.

At the conclusion of the repast the guests moved to the lodge room to listen to the excellent and diversified programme provided for them by the committee in charge. Mr. E. A. Peck, the chairman of the evening, a former officer of the lodge, opened the proceedings with a short speech, in which he sketched the history of the formation of the lodge in Peterborough. On August 12th, 1883, Lodge Lansdowne had been started, the number of charter members being twelve. The changes that had been wrought in the succeeding years had been many, but whilst only one of the original twelve members, viz., Bro. Henry Manley, was now living, he was glad to state that several of those who had joined shortly afterwards were still moving amongst them, hale and hearty, and doing good service for the order. Amongst them were the well known figures of Bros. Tivey, Gunn and Taylor.

Lodge Lansdowne had well justified its existence. It had not only helped many a lonely young Englishman to the enjoyment of the benefits accruing from membership in the order, but had proved of vast service in keeping them united in bonds of brotherhood with their kinsmen beyond the sea. The lodge membership now numbers 97, and although thousands of dollars had been paid out of the funds of the lodge towards the payment of sick dues, there was a substantial balance at the bank, and the lodge was prosperous.

Mr. Peck's speech was greeted with hearty cheers.

Following is the programme:

Opening remarks from chairman.
Instrumental solo—Mrs. Greenslade.
Duet—"The Battle," etc., Mr. King and Mr. Greenslade.
Recitation—Mr. Johns.
Banjo solo—Mr. F. Clark.
Solo—"For the King," Mr. Greenslade.
Recitation—"Leg o' Mutton," Mr. Tivey.
Solo—"Clang of the Hammer," Mr. King.
Reading—Mr. Johns.
Solo—"Long Live the King," Mr. King.
God Save the King.

1884—A. G. Compigne.

Y.M.C.A. JUNIOR BOYS' CONCERT

Enjoyable Affair Last Night—Good Programme of Apparatus Work and Burlesque Events.

A LARGE ATTENDANCE.

A large number of the friends of the boys of the Y.M.C.A. were present at their exhibition in the gymnasium last night. The programme had been well arranged and there were no dull moments. It combined very creditable apparatus and formation work, with burlesques such as the ladies' (?) walking match which were great mirth producers. The boys, in their regular gym. work, demonstrated careful training and a physical condition that always attracts the admiration of an audience. Mr. Collings has brought the juniors to a stage of proficiency that won many complements last night, and if the boys continue their work they should be well fitted to meet the demands which entrance into business life will make.

The Business Boys defeated the School Boys in the ball hustle and the obstacle race, both of which were warmly contested. The latter particularly held the interest of the audience until the last lap had been completed. The pillow fight was well put on and proved a very amusing affair, the blind efforts of the boys to land bag each other with pillows caused many a laugh. The sack basketball race was also a laughter provoker, and the whole programme was a credit to the boys and to those who arranged it.

Mr. Collings looked after the boys on the floor and kept the different events moving rapidly with the result that there were no delays.

The following programme was presented:—

Running Formations — Junior School Boys.
Ball Hustle — Business Boys vs. Junior School Boys.
Blindman's Pillow Fight.
Dumbbell Drill — Business Boys.
Obstacle Race — Business Boys vs. School Boys.
Ladies' Half Mile Walking Race.
Apparatus Work — Collegiate Boys.
Potato Race — (Heats).
Sack Basketball — (First Half).
Potato Race — (Finals).
Sack Basketball — (Second Half).

FINANCIAL SUCCESS OF A PETERBORO' BOY

The Canadian Courier prints on its first page, accompanied by a portrait of "E. R. Wood, Vice-Pres., Dominion Securities Corporation," the following reference to a former well known resident of Peterborough:

When Mr. George A. Cox, now Senator, began his business activities in Peterborough he discovered Mr. Edward Rogers Wood. Mr. Wood was a telegraph operator as Mr. Cox had been and that probably supplied the bond. To-day, it would be difficult to say which is the greater man, since both are distinguished. Senator Cox has, however, the years and the honour of a long record. For a young man, Mr. Wood has made remarkable strides. The story of his success would make a business romance of unusual interest. The son of an Irish schoolmaster, a former G.N.W. operator, is now manager of the Central Canada Loan Company, and the Dominion Securities Corporation, besides being director of the Bank of Commerce, Canada Life, Sao Paulo, Mexican Power, Crow's Nest Coal, and National Trust Company. It was a great climb up the ladder for the Peterborough youth, but he is still active, still smiling-faced, still courteous and calm under all circumstances. He is the Canadian authority on "bonds," a subject which is discussed on another page in this issue.

LAKEFIELD'S FINANCES REVIEWED BY EX-REEVE

Mr. F. J. Moore Writes in Regard to Some Criticisms Made by Mr. Kidd

The following letter was handed to the Examiner last Saturday too late for that day's issue. It was overlooked and did not appear as was intended on Monday 19th.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir—It is rather out of my line to enter the field of newspaper discussion, as I have neither the time nor the disposition to do so, and my excuse for now troubling you is to be found in the false statements and misrepresentations made by some of those seeking the suffrages of the electors in our recent municipal elections, and especially the statements made by Mr. Kidd in the town hall on the night of the elections.

I understood that Mr. Kidd stated that the council of 1908 collected some $1600 more taxes than previous councils, and by imputation at least conveyed the idea that the council had in some mysterious way filched or squandered the money and that it could not be properly accounted for, but, that he had made the discovery that $500 to $800 of that money had been put away under Moore's mill in the form of a town pump, and that the expenditure was not in the interests of the town, and that this with the council's general financial mismanagement of a like nature was largely the reason why the electors had selected him as their Reeve for 1909. Mr. Kidd knows well that it was the Temperance people alone who elected him and he gives them scant credit for placing him in the lead.

Now Mr. Editor, I am not going to dispute the eminent executive and financial ability of Mr. Kidd. That is well known, but, I think that a man of his pretentions, should at least take reasonable precautions to acquaint himself with the facts before he presumes to impugn either the motives or actions of his fellow citizens.

It was very much against the wishes of the council that our printed financial statement for 1908 was not in the hands of the ratepayers before the close of the year but the reason for its delay was entirely beyond the council's control, but, statements of all receipts and expenditures were offered to and were easily within the reach of any one who wished to become acquainted with them, so that there was no excuse for anyone to make mis-statements or go on a mission of discovery to find the facts.

One year ago when our planing mill was burned, the town pump with its piping etc., was burned with it, and last spring when we rebuilt, we concluded to install a pump of our own and for that purpose I bought from the Dickson Co a very powerful pump which had been little used for $125. Mr Green offered me $450 for it. I could thus have made a clear cash profit of $325 on the transaction but we needed a pump and I concluded to keep it.

The council meanwhile came to the conclusion that the village ought to own the pump so that it might be available for fire protection as well as for supplying the water tank, and notwithstanding the offer of Mr Green and his further statement that if I bought a similar new pump from him, he would charge me $1000 for it I handed it over to the village for $334.32 which was exactly what the pump and its overhauling and equipment and installing cost me. But this price is amazingly short of the $800 which seems to have so disturbed the mental equilibrium of our financial critic, who in spite of these facts seemed to wish to convey the idea that the council of 1908 had buried some $800 of the taxpayers money under Moore's mill for the benefit of that firm.

I have been honoured with the confidence of the ratepayers as their representative in the council for upward of 20 years and although I have not always been able to see eye to eye with my fellow councillors, I have invariably acted in what I conceived to be the best interests of the Municipality and I challenge Mr. Kidd or anyone else to show to the contrary.

I may also be allowed to point out that as a result of this transaction a double line of hose may now be attached to the hydrant installed at the water tank, each throwing a stream equal to the fire engine at its best and without the delay of firing up, and if a similar hydrant were place at Mr. Casement's corner or at the turn of Queen street the same thing could be done there, and with 2600 feet of hose available and our fire brigade in good working order the village would enjoy a fire protection which it has never yet known, and would be able to obtain a substantial reduction in their fire rates, and this was one of the objects the council had in view.

If the village or council is not satisfied with the bargain I shall gladly pay them what the pump and its installing and equipment cost them and at once resume tax ownership.

In regard further to this $1,600.00 which our would-be Critic claims has disappeared except "on paper," you will have observed that the financial statement of 1907 shows a balance on hand of $124.81, but when we assumed office $we had to pay the County rate of 1907 amounting to ....$ 753.06 also accounts due to 1907 amounting to 50.00

making 803.05
From this deduct the balance on hand 124.81

and we find a deficit from 1907 which we had to pay off 678.24
To this add discount on Debentures sold 422.75
Shortage in Sinking Fund to meet Debenture By-Law No. 145 ..... 1,469.33
Lawsuit of previous Council re Regent street vs. Baptie 115.00
Excess of School Taxes in 1908 over 1907 .... 162.00
Excess in Debenture Rate of 1908 over 1907 .... 77.78

This makes an unusual expenditure of $2,925.10
over which we had no control, and if to this we add pump ... 334.32
Hydrant, piping, etc. 167.86
New hose 247.66

and this is not all, but is sufficient to show that the extra collection of $1,600 taxes over 1907 will go but a short way towards paying the uncontrollable expenditures of 1908.

And while our financial condition is better to-day than it has been for years, yet with a debenture debt of over $26,-000.00 to be provided for, with accruing interest year by year, our Council will do well to not ignore those annual expenditures "on paper" unless they purpose to largely increase our taxes.

The financial statement is now out and every rate-payer is entitled to a copy and may receive one by calling at the office of the Clerk.

Yours respectfully,
F. J. MOORE,
ex-Reeve.

"A MAN AND HIS MATE"

Hilda Spong, in "A Man and His Mate," briefly portrays how a strong minded, brilliant, educated woman may be changed from a being all mind and lacking in sentiment and passion, to one who has thrown her mental balance and judgment to the four winds of heaven, and becomes a loving, passionate, clinging savage. In modern plays the ordinary method of regeneration is by elevating the principal character, but here Mr. Durant has idealized a cold woman, an exotic, if you please, reduced to the level of the primitive woman, whose character is not tainted in the transition and made withal more lovable, more human. The plot is vivid, the situations of the second and third act thrillingly realistic.

Miss Hilda Spong, one of our most brilliant actresses, plays the principal female role. Miss Spong has a personality that makes immediate conquest, rich temperamental force, graceful carriage, refined womanliness, and infusing and over-topping all, an unmistakable atmosphere of intelligence. Of the two and one-half hours required to produce the play, Miss Spong is upon the stage almost every minute, and she plays Betty Brackenridge magnificently. Her comedy scenes are delightful, and in the second and third acts, that demand wild outbursts of rage and scorn, she is superb. This is a distinct revelation to theatre-goers, who will recall her beautiful work in the Pinero, Jones and Esmond English comedies with the Daniel Frohman players. Miss Spong's work in the last two acts alone should make of "A Man and His Mate" a success.

Miss Spong and her very capable company opens at the Grand Opera House Peterborough, Wednesday, January 27th, for one night's engagement, and as herself and her new play have attracted large and delighted audiences elsewhere, it is but reasonable to look for a like result here.

THE FEBRUARY ROD AND GUN.

Varied in its contents, but redolent throughout of the many delights of the Canadian winter, the February number of "Rod and Gun and Motor Sports in Canada," published by W. J. Taylor, Woodstock, Ont., brings with it the breeziness attached to this particular season of the year. The record of a fine snowshoe tramp, an Indian tale of a moose race on the ice, the story of a winter in Northern Ontario and an article on Snow Blindness by Martin Hunter, an ex-Hudson Bay Factor, show how many sided are the beauties of the Canadian winter and how thoroughly the inhabitants of the Dominion appreciate and enjoy them. A fine Illustrated account of the Qualification Climb of Mount Hermit, in connection with the last meeting of the Alpine Club of Canada, is contributed by D. B. Taylor, who has been touring the West as a representative of the Magazine since that event. It is evident from this article that the spirit of the mountains seized the writer and made him an enthusiast. One of the best papers written by Mr. Bonnycastle Dale, "Chief Canim Tikope of the Skagits," with the author's illustrations, tells of an old Indian Chief out in Vancouver Island, who makes canoes with primitive tools and disposes of them at unheard-of prices. Notes on the last deer season, a couple of grave indictments against the alleged inefficiency of the Ontario Fish and Game Department, one of the Rev. A. Murdoch's capital hunting stories, Some Old Time Reminiscences of Old Ontario, intensely interesting as telling of pioneer days, and stories of camping and fishing trips, are some of the further papers making up a number strong in every department of outdoor life with which the magazine deals. It is Canadian throughout, imbued with the spirit of the Dominion, and all good.

IT WOULD RENDER THE TRIAL USELESS

Gompers, Mitchell and Morrison Refuse to Be Pardoned.

MUST FIGHT BATTLE OUT

In Striking Statement U.S. Labor Leaders Sentenced for Disobeying Injunction in Bucks' Stove Case Declare That Clemency Would Upset Whole Result of Their Struggle in Labor Interests.

Washington, Jan. 23.—"We have not asked, and will not ask, for clemency, and we hope our friends will not urge us to pursue such a course. Loving liberty as free men do—as we do—it cannot be difficult to appreciate what incarceration in a prison would mean to us.

"To ask pardon would render useless all the trial and sacrifice which our men of labor and our friends in all walks of life have endured, that the rights and liberties of our people might be restored.

"Such a pardon would only leave the whole case in confusion and it would have to be fought over again from the beginning."

This is some of the language used in a remarkable statement signed by Gompers, Mitchell and Morrison in the current number of The American Federationist, in formal protest against the action of Justice Wright in sentencing them to imprisonment for contempt of court in the Bucks Stove and Range case.

PROFESSOR DIES SUDDENLY.

Rev. Prof. Mackenzie of Presbyterian College, Montreal, Is Dead.

Montreal, Jan. 23.—The collegiate community was shocked yesterday afternoon to learn of the sudden death of Rev. Prof. Mackenzie of the Presbyterian College. He was 46 years of age and a native of Lucknow, Ont.

He died soon after entering his room at the college following the lunch hour. Deceased was to have officiated this evening at the induction of the Rev. Mr. Dickey, pastor of Crescent Church.

He leaves a wife, four daughters and a son.

Quebec Cabinet Changes.

Montreal, Jan. 22.—Jeremie Decarie, M.P.P. for Hochelaga, was sworn in yesterday as Minister of Agriculture, replacing Hon. Jules Allard who takes the Lands and Forest Department.

Hon. R. Roy, Provincial Secretary, will be appointed to the bench and will be replaced by Dr. L. J. Lemieux, M.P.P. for Gaspe, and brother of the Postmaster-General. Dr. Pelletier, M.P.P. for Sherbrooke, will be Speaker of the Assembly, and it is again stated that Achille Bergevin, ex-M.P.P. for Beauharnois, will be appointed to the Legislative Council.

Are Farmers Slovenly?

London, Jan. 23.—T. C. Martin, editor of The Dundee Advertiser, a member of the commission which visited the Dominion in 1908, addressing the Farmers' Club at Dundee, said that in Canada cultivation was by no means perfect, and there was a good deal of slovenly work allowed. Weeds were abundant.

Another impression he formed was that Canada was going to be a sober nation. He did not remember one banquet of the many he attended at which alcoholic liquors appeared.

Woman Lawyer to Defend Murderer.

New York, Jan. 22.—If Miss Mary Coleman, a lawyer, can convince Judge Tompkins that her client, J. B. de Tierre, an inmate of the Matteawan Asylum, is sane, she probably will be the first woman in the United States to defend a man accused of murder. De Tierre has written a book of aphorisms, which Miss Coleman thinks should convince the court of her client's sanity.

Huge Land Grant Opened.

Denver, Col., Jan. 22.—The Sangre de Christo land grant, one of the oldest made by the Mexican Government, has been thrown open to settlers after having been in the possession of the Costilla family for more than a century and a half. It comprises 600,000 acres and was ceded by the Government of Mexico to the head of the Costilla family before the territory was acquired by the United States.

MR. SLOAN RESIGNS.

Comox-Atlin Number Gives Up His Seat In Commons.

Ottawa, Jan. 23.—William Sloan, M.P. for Comox-Atlin, B.C., has placed his resignation in the hands of Speaker Marcil, and announcement of the fact will be made on the opening of Parliament to-day.

Mr. Sloan makes way for Hon. William Templeman, who was defeated in Victoria. The election will be held early in March. It is unlikely that there will be any opposition to Mr. Templeman, though no one can tell what may happen in British Columbia.

Mr. Sloan said last night that he had resigned "for the good of British Columbia."

Profit on Coinage.

Ottawa, Jan. 22.—The public accounts for the fiscal year ended March 31 last year, were presented yesterday to Parliament.

Receipts on account of consolidated fund were $66,064,505; expenditures $76,641,451. Expenditures chargeable to capital totalled $30,429,906, while other expenditures were for railway subsidies $2,037,029; for bounties $2,787,354. The net debt was $277,900,859, an increase of $14,288,998.

The year ended March 31, the Government made a profit of $294,288 upon its silver coinage, and $4,411 upon its copper coinage.

Masonry in Canada.

London, Jan. 22.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—Lieutenant-Governor Fraser planted two Canadian maple trees in the public park at Peebles. Referring to the honorary membership conferred on him by Kilwinney Lodge, he said they thought a great deal of Masonry in Canada.

Introduced by a Scotsman, it now extended all over Canada. In every town, village and hamlet there were to be found brethren practicing the principles of the order in deed as well as word.

Cannot Decide.

London, Jan. 23.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—At Cape Town, the union convention surmounted every difficulty except that of location of the capital. Cape Town and Pretoria are contestants for the honor. Cape Colony has 12 votes, Transvaal 8, Natal and Orangia 5 each. Natal favors Pretoria, but Orangia is hopeful that Bloemfontein may be chosen. As a compromise is doubtful, the position is delicate, as without a capital the people of the Transvaal may not accept union.

Washington as a Mason.

Fredericksburg, Va., Jan. 22.—The Fredericksburg Lodge of Mason, which possesses the Bible on which Washington was initiated, passed and raised, and also the records showing when he was given his degree in that lodge, has been somewhat annoyed recently by a story which was given wide publicity to the effect that the lodge of Antiquity of Montreal, Canada, is the possessor of the Bible on which Washington was obligated as a Mason.

Let Corporations Vote.

Montreal, Jan. 22.—The civic legislation committee of the City Council will, at the next session of the Legislature, recommend that the charter be so amended as to allow corporations to vote in civic affairs.

The desire is that all corporate bodies represented by their president, shall be allowed to vote in all wards where the corporation pays taxes.

Big Elevator at Fort William.

Fort William, Jan. 22.—The Western Elevator Co., represented by Mr. Read, late president of the Consolidated Elevator Co., has asked the city for exemption from taxation for a period of ten years on an elevator they intend to construct here early this year. The request was granted and a bylaw will be submitted.

To Stop California Racing.

Sacramento, Cal., Jan. 23.—The Walker-Otis Race Track Bill passed the House yesterday by a vote of 21 to 10. A motion to reconsider was made, which delays the sending of the bill to the Senate, where the real test on the bill will occur. The measure is similar to the New York law.

Prisoner's Break For Liberty.

Canton, Ohio, Jan. 22.—Frederick Hodgkin, arrested for attempted burglary, jumped from a window in the court-room and landed in the street below, a distance of 20 feet. Detective Patterson fired several shots, but none took effect. Hodgkin was traced to a church three blocks away and caught.

Farmer Cuts Throat.

Guelph, Jan. 22.—David McMillan, aged 58, a well-known farmer of Erin Township, committed suicide by cutting his throat yesterday. He had been confined in the Guelph Sanitorium for several weeks.

Jap Consul Recalled.

Ottawa, Jan. 22.—Seizuburo Shimizu, Japanese consul-general for Canada, has been recalled by his Government to take over an important post in the Japanese Foreign Office at Tokio.

CATTLE MARKETS.

LONDON, Jan. 21.—London cables for cattle are steady, at 12c to 13½c per lb., dressed weight; refrigerator beef is quoted at 10½c to 10¾c per lb.

Toronto Live Stock.

TORONTO, Jan. 21.—Receipts of live stock at the City Market, as reported by the railways for Wednesday and Thursday, were 147 carloads, consisting of 2149 cattle, 3021 hogs, 1777 sheep and lambs, 115 calves and 8 horses.

Exporters.

Export steers, of which there were very few on sale, and scarcely any of heavy weights, sold at $5 to $5.40, and one sale was reported at $5.50. Prime quality steers were in demand, and more of them would have found ready sale. Dealers report some available space on the boats for next week, and it looks like a fairly good demand for shipping cattle of the right kind at Monday's market at the Union Stock Yards. Export bulls sold from $3.75 to $4.75, and $5 per cwt. for one or two of extra quality.

Butchers.

Prime picked cattle, steers and heifers, sold at $4.80 to $5 per cwt., but they were scarce, probably not more than a carload out of the 2149 cattle on sale; loads of good, $4.40 to $4.60; medium, $3.75 to $4.25; common, $3.50 to $3.65; cows, $2.50 to $4.25; canners, $1.75 to $2.25.

Feeders and Stockers.

H. & W. Murby report a fairly brisk trade this week in feeders, and the large receipts made it easier to buy steers which otherwise would have been used up by the butchers. The above firm bought about 200 head, but were open for many more. Steers from 800 lbs. up seem to be most in demand, and prices will remain steady to strong for anything with quality. Below are quotations: Best feeders, 900 to 1000 lbs. each, at $3.80 to $4.25; best stockers, 700 to 900 lbs. each, at $3.40 to $3.80; medium stockers, 600 to 800 lbs. each, at $3 to $3.40. There is some enquiry for short-keeps, but the demand for exporters has put this class out of reach of the ordinary buyers.

Milkers and Springers.

Fair deliveries of milkers and springers met a moderately good demand. A Montreal buyer was on the market, which helped to steady it up, otherwise there would have been some drovers lose some more money. Prices were about steady at $30 to $55 each, with four or five at $60.

Veal Calves.

About 100 calves found ready sale, as there is a good demand for them at firm prices. Prices ranged from $3 to $7 per cwt., with a prime new milk-fed vealer worth a little more. But there are few of the latter class coming on the market these days, as farmers prefer to sell the milk or make it into butter.

Sheep and Lambs.

There was a moderate delivery of sheep and lambs for the two days, 1777 all told. Sheep sold at $4 to $4.50 for ewes, and $3 to $3.50 for rams; lambs, $5.50 to $6 for the bulk of offerings, and a little more was paid for a few selected ewes and wethers.

Hogs.

Mr. Harris reported selects fed and watered at $5.50 at the market and $6.25 for lights. Prices seem to be higher at many points in Ontario, as many of the drovers reported having paid $6.25 to the farmers, and having received $6.35 to $6.40 f.o.b. cars at country points.

DEATH LIST GROWS

Victims of Chicago Disaster May Number Seventy.

Chicago, Jan. 22.—That the list of 50 known dead will probably be increased to 70 or even more, developed yesterday in the official investigation of the burning of the temporary wooden crib in the lake, one and a half miles off the shore of South Chicago, on Wednesday.

Most of the workmen died at the mouth of the shaft. Surrounded by fire and with a wide stretch of icy water between them and the shore, they sought but failed to reach safety by going down into the submarine tunnel, where they suffocated.

WORST WRITER IN EUROPE.

Cunninghame-Graham Has Reputation of Writing Worst Copy on Record.

Mr. Cunninghame-Grahame, who unsuccessfully advocated the candidature of Mr. Keir Hardie for the Lord Rectorship of Glasgow University—he described him as being ten times more widely known and one hundred times more respected than Lord Curzon and Mr. Lloyd-George — glories more in having in his day been hailed as "comrade" by blacksmiths, miners, and artisans than in all the heritage of learning and fine Scots blood which has come down to him from the days of his ancestor, Robert Bruce. Mr. Cunninghame-Graham has been a cattle rancher, and on his return home bewildered his friends with his facility with a well-known trick learned in Mexico. Standing a man against the trunk of a large tree, he would ride round the tree at full speed on a fiery Mexican mustang, throwing knives with such extraordinary dexterity that one by one they formed an outline on the trunk round the living mark. Mr. Cunninghame-Graham has been spoken of as the worst writer in Europe, and he attributes it to an accident in South America. A young horse he was riding crushed him against a tree, and injured his hand. Manuscript of his has defied a whole newspaper staff, from editor to office boy, to decipher. One of the most unexpected, yet pleasant accidents in which "C.-G." has figured occurred in Spain. A train by which he was traveling was delayed for a whole afternoon owing to a collision. A fellow passenger offered to play a violin to wile away the time, and, of course, he was thanked for his kindness. The violinist was Sarasate. So it can easily be imagined how the time went—only too quickly. Mr. Cunninghame-Grahame once had to act as interpreter and mediator between a shipload of Basque emigrants and a drunken Scotch crew.

Womanly Logic.

"Never," groaned the picture dealer, "never try to argue a woman into believing that she ought to pay a bill when she thinks otherwise. I tried it this morning—presented a bill for some stuff ordered two months ago. Here was the irrefutable logic:

"'I never ordered any pictures.'

"'If I did, you never delivered them.'

"'If I did, I never got them.'

"'If I did, I paid for them.'

"'And if I didn't I must have had some good reason for it.'

"'And if I had of course I won't pay.'"

Could Not Perform Household Duties. Doctors Attended Without Avail.
Mrs. Arch. Schnare, Black Point, N.B., writes: "For years I was troubled with weak back. Oftentimes I have lain in bed for days, being scarcely able to turn myself, and I have also been a great sufferer while trying to perform my household duties. I had doctors attending me without avail and tried liniments and plasters, but nothing seemed to do me any good. I was about to give up in despair when my husband induced me to try Doan's Kidney Pills, and after using two boxes I am now well and able to do my work. I am positive Doan's Kidney Pills are all that you claim for them, and I would advise all kidney sufferers to give them a fair trial."

Great Discovery after 2000 years.

Two thousand years ago the usual method of healing skin injuries and diseases was to apply certain essences and juices obtained direct from various healing herbs and roots. The gladiators of ancient Rome and the athletes of Greece adopted this means of healing their injuries, and with wonderful effect. A gladiator would emerge from the ring having sustained terrible cuts and bruises, yet on the application of his favourite herbal balm, within a few days he would again be ready for combat.
As centuries rolled by, the secret of making these herbal extracts was lost, and ointments and salves made up of animal fats took the place of the pure herbal balm.
Zam-Buk, the great balm which during the past few years has revolutionised the system of skin-healing, was produced by returning to the idea of the ancients, that man's best medicaments must be found in herbal extracts.
In the investigation which followed, the necessity was seen for entirely excluding the rancid fats and coarse minerals from which most modern ointments are compounded, and sticking closely to nature.
Scientific inquiry eventually centred round the peculiar properties of certain vegetable saps and juices. These extracts from rare herbs had, it was found, a curious power that enabled them when spread on the broken skin, to knit the edges of tissues together—in short, the power of healing injuries in a marvellously natural way, and of annihilating any germs of disease harboured by wound or pore.
The choice of the right herbal juices and their refinement comprised the next step, after which came the more difficult problem of finding out just the exact proportion of the different ingredients which would give the best healing results. Early disappointment and costly experiments are often the forerunner of famous discoveries, but at length, when success arrived, the investigators found themselves in the possession of a substance of fine consistency, of slight yet agreeable odour, and unique for its marvellous healing, soothing and antiseptic value. The original medicinal power of the respective ingredients was found to have been multiplied many times by reason of the scientific and novel manner of their combination as they exert in Zam-Buk.
Careful tests established the exceptional value of the new balm, its constant reliability, and its unvarying success even in certain obstinate cases of eczema and ulceration.
From the first Zam-Buk has born out in practice what its discoverers expected of it from a practical standpoint. In four continents it has now become the favourite household balm. Cheap substitutes made up to look like Zam-Buk, and sold at so-called "cheap" rates, are constantly being produced, but the careful housewife, the mother, bearing the responsibility and the welfare of her ailing children, or the bread-winner, who once wastes money on them never repeats the experiment. There is no "cheapness" in nature. If one wants her treasure her price must be paid, and now people don't waste money on "cheap" imitations.
Zam-Buk, so pure yet so powerful, is good for young and old. The delicate skin of babes benefit from its application and it is widely used by nursing mothers for the rashes and chafings of very young children. Men of experience and of great attainments in varied walks of life have tested it, and speak of it in the highest terms.
Dr. Andrew Wilson, whose name as a scientist is familiar all the world over, in one of his recent medical works ("Homely Talks on First Aid") says: "Wherever a box of Zam-Buk is handy the preparation may be relied upon as an antiseptic dressing which requires no preparation and has the particular advantage of possessing unique healing properties."
Mr. Frank Scudamore, the great war correspondent says: "Zam-Buk cured me of blood-poisoning, which caused severe ulcers. It is a splendid healer, and I hope its merits will become even more widely known."
Mr. R. F. Perry, Justice of the Peace, of Goldfields, B.C., says: "Zam-Buk cured me of a skin rash of five years' duration, which no doctor had been able to relieve."
For skin eruptions, scalp sores, ulcers, abscesses, poisoning, cold sores, chapped places, frost bite, blistering, chafing, ringworm, etc., Zam-Buk is without equal. For piles it is the best remedy yet discovered. It relieves the burning, stabbing, throbbing pains, and gives ease. Almost all druggists and stores sell Zam-Buk at fifty cents per box, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price.

PELERBORO' BEATEN AFTER HARD FOUGHT BATTLE IN LINDSAY LAST NIGHT BY SCORE OF 7 GOALS TO 3

Lindsay Won the Contest With the Petes Playing Four Men to Seven —125 Fans From Peterborough Saw the Battle.

WAS GREAT EXHIBITION.

Although the score was 7—3 against them the Peterborough intermediate O.H.A. team left the ice at Lindsay last night with the feeling in their own minds and in the opinion of their supporters that with any measure of luck they would have won out, and with the Lindsay team and crowd realizing that they had had a very narrow escape from defeat on their own ice. It was a hard fought, close checking, but not rough, contest, played at a pace that considering the soft ice was remarkably fast, and the Petes had every bit as much of the play as had the winners. They scored the first goal and were ahead by 1—0 until well into the first half, when three of the Peterboroughs were penalized and Lindsay banged in three goals, practically winning the victory at that stage. Outside of that period the Petes were holding their own in a fashion that made Lindsay decidedly nervous, and in fact they did not rest easy until time was called. The score at half time was 4—2 in favour of the Scugog team.

Referee J H Moxon, of Toronto had considerable to do with the defeat of the Petes and his work will long be remembered by the players and the fans who saw the game. It was so bad that the Peterborough club have notified the O.H.A. that they will play no more games with him as referee. Previous to the game they had asked that Moxon be not appointed for the Lindsay game, as their opinion of him, formed in other games of the club in which he has officiated, had not left much confidence in the minds of the Peterborough management that he was a fit man to handle the game in Lindsay. As it developed their lack of confidence was justified by the way in which he carried out his duties last night. The penalties he handed out to Peterborough for the most part were undeserved and in putting three off at once for offences that could not be seen from the side had a direct effect upon the result of the game.

The ice was in no shape for hockey. The mild weather had reduced it into a pulpy slush through which it was almost impossible to carry the puck, and combination was practically out of the question ,while the shooting of both teams suffered. The conditions seemed to bother the Petes more than it did the Lindsay team and they were unable to get away with any of those three and four man combinations that distinguished their play in Belleville. The heavy going did not suit the forward line at all, Ray the lightest man on the ice being especially handicapped. Their inability, owing to the ice conditions, to play combination affected the Petes and it was evident on fast ice that they will be a very different team.

Considering the state of the rink the game was a remarkably good exhibition of Canada's winter pastime. The pace from start to finish was hard and fast. Both teams dug in from the beginning ,putting every ounce of energy that they possessed in to the struggle, and the result was a bang-up battle all the way that had the crowd on tip-toes with excitement. There was no let up in the play, the teams hammering along at a clip that was surprising in view of the conditions and the game throughout was of the most interesting character. It was never rough although the checking was necessarily close and hard.

On the play there was little to choose between the teams. Both were forced to adopt individual tactics, it being almost an impossibility to develop any team work in the slush, and the Petes shone just as much individually as the winners. At certain stages they had far the best of the going and altogether gave Lindsay a remarkably hard fight for the victory. Neither on the forward line or the defence had the winners anything on their visitors, who worked desperately all the way in the face of heavy odds. Peterborough should defeat Lindsay in the return game which will be played here next Tuesday night.

One hundred and twenty-five fans accompanied the team to Lindsay, leaving on a special train at 7 o'clock, and they rooted lustily all the way for the Peterboroughs. Even when Lindsay was in the lead they kept up the cheering and shouted back defiantly at the Lindsay crowd, "Wait until we get you at Peterborough next week." The Lindsay people turned out en mass for the game and there was a great crowd in the rink when the battle commenced. The presence of so many people had its effect upon the ice and it grew rapidly worse during the evening.

All the Peterboroughs worked like Trojans for victory and there were no particular stars. It was almost impossible to carry the puck more than two or three feet at a time and even the players skated over the rubber owing to the slush. Derocher played a splendid game in goal, getting in the way of a multitude of shots, many of them at short range and there could be no fault found with his work. Glover and Moore made a defence that was extremely hard to beat and this is amply evidenced by the fact that only one of Lindsay's goals was scored when the Petes' defence was intact. It was while the Petes were playing short-handed owing to Moxon's bad decisions, that the damage was done. Both checked hard and rushed frequently, Moore, especially in the second half, getting away with some telling rushes. The going did not suit Charlie Ray, both in spite of that the little rover played fine hockey, and never let up for a moment, either in his attacking operations or in coming back to help the defence. Wallie Parnell was effective and useful in centre, putting up a fine game, while Dusty and Rose along the boards were in the thick of the fray all the way and looked after their checks well, giving them few opportunities.

Of the Lindsay line Stoddard and Randall were the most effective. Stoddard did not seem bothered to any great extent by the slush, and got in some fine rushes, while Randall did good work along the boards. Koyle did not shine in the first half, contenting himself with long shots, which did no damage. He opened up in the second period however, and did some useful rushing. Newton was good in the nets and Sullivan at cover point checked hard.

It was exactly 8.30 when Referee Moxon called the team together and started the fray, before an audience that packed every part of the rink. Peterborough rushed at the start, Ray and Rose combining from the face off and carrying the rubber as far as Sullivan, who relieved with a rush to centre. Moore secured and with Dusty as a partner in a neat rush, carried the puck down towards the Lindsay goal, but were checked before a shot could be made. Stoddard rushed nicely for Lindsay, but lost the puck, and Parnell securing, swept down on the Lindsay nets with a pretty rush. His shot was blocked by Sullivan, but Ray scooped one in from the side in two minutes, giving Peterborough the lead for the only time during the game. And that bunch of camp followers made their presence known.

Peterborough were having more of the play than were the homesters and there was a worried look on the faces of the Lindsay team, as minutes passed without a score. Lindsay got several opportunities but Derocher was in the way. Stoddard got almost in on the net when the Petes goal keeper waded out and took the rubber from him, saving a score. Peterborough came back hard and Dusty hit the post with a shot from well out. A difference of an inch would have meant a goal. Glover got his skate tangled up with Sullivan's in checking the Lindsay man, and both fell. Then Referee Moxon sent Glover to the fence, much to his surprise, and the indignation of the Peterborough crowd. Peterborough, however, succeeded in holding Lindsay back until the Petes' point was back on the ice, and up and down on the slushy ice travelled the rubber, with both teams working at top pressure, and with neither having much advantage. It was at this stage that Moxon began to imagine that he was a second edition of Santa Claus, and started to give the game away to Lindsay. Dusty stopped the puck with his foot as Stoddard shot it ahead of him, and the Lindsay rover fell over it, with the result that the referee sent the Petes' left wing away for two minutes, saying that he had tripped Stoddard. Every one else in the rink saw that it was an accident. Hardly had Dusty climbed over the boards when Parnell and Randall slashed at the puck together and immediately the Peterborough man was sent after Dusty. Play had just re-commenced when Moore was benched for a clean body check, and there were three Petes on the fence for no cause whatever. Lindsay saw their opportunity and made good use of it. The defence moved up with the forwards and the whole team waded in on the Peterborough nets. Derocher, Glover, Rose and Ray, all that Referee Moxon left of the team on the ice, worked heroically to hold them out until the men got back, but it was no use. Playing seven against four Lindsay forced matters. Five Lindsay men came up together and bore in on the nets, Randall tying the score with a shot from close in, after fourteen minutes of the first half had elapsed.

Peterborough 1, Lindsay 1.

They came right back from the face off, and although the remnant of the Petes did all they could they could not keep them out, Taylor putting his team ahead in thirty seconds.

Peterborough 1, Lindsay 2.

Stoddard, of the Lindsay team, was penalized for tripping, and Dusty climbed back just before Randall scored again for Lindsay in thirty seconds, shooting from outside Glover, and the score was Peterborough 1, Lindsay 3.

Then Peterborough's full team were back and with the teams on even terms again, the play resumed the close, hard fought nature that had prevailed at the opening. Moore was sent away again, this time for slashing Stoddard's stick, but playing a man short Peterborough had the best of the argument. Parnell made one of the prettiest rushes of the night, carrying the puck around the Lindsay net for a shot which Newton picked out with his stick. Rose was on hand, however, and smashed one past Newton on the rebound in five minutes.—Peterborough 2, Lindsay 3.

For the remainder of the half the play was hard and fast, and it looked as if the figures would not be altered before the breathing spell. A half minute before time was up, however, Randall got away for a pretty dodging rush and scored for Lindsay in 4 1-2 minutes.—Peterborough 2, Lindsay 4.

The ice was even worse in the second half, the water starting to come up after the slush had been cleaned off. Just after the opening of the half Stoddard received a bump on the nose which caused a delay of some minutes. Peterborough pressed and Ray nearly scored on a pass from Dusty. His shot was blocked, however, and the puck travelled back towards Peterborough's goal. Glover was sent away for what cause could not be seen, and while he was on the fence Lindsay scored again in ten minutes. Taylor shot from the wing and although Derocher stopped it he could not clear in the slush, and Taylor following it in, banged the rubber into the net.—Peterborough 2, Lindsay 5.

Two minutes after, Taylor again scored for Lindsay, shooting one in from a scrimmage and the score was —Peterborough 2, Lindsay 6.

Peterborough did not take long to get one back. The forward line rushed together, Ray carrying the rubber. He was tripped and fell and Dusty who secured the puck also went down, but shoved one past Newton ,while lying on the ice in thirty seconds.—Peterborough 3, Lindsay 6.

Peterborough again rushed and Dusty was clean through when Sullivan tripped him ,averting a goal. The Lindsay defence man was sent off for two minutes for the offence, but he saved a counter.

Parnell got another sentence soon after for slashing. Dusty got hit in the mouth and the game was stopped until he was patched up. Moore was again sent away and with him off Randall scored on a shot from the side on a pass from Taylor, in twelve minutes, leaving the final score—Peterborough 3, Lindsay 7.

LAKEFIELD REQUIRED 20 MINUTES OVERTIME TO WIN GAME OF SEASON

T. A. S. Seniors, 5; Belmonts, 0. Lakefield, 3; West Ends, 2.

The above were the results of the two Senior City League fixtures at the Brock Street Rink last night, and the win that the Cementville villagers registered was the hardest earned in their memory. It required twenty minutes over time to settle the question and, without robbing them of any of the honours of their victory, it was nobody's game until the last minute had ticked away.

The large crowd that witnessed the double header waited almost to an individual to see the finish of the latter game, and everybody must have been satisfied that they had got their money's worth. At intervals the reports of the Lindsay game were given out and for a time it looked as if the locals were going to win out. The effect of the report of the final score was somewhat dimmed by the interest in the concluding game of the double header. The ice became heavy towards the last and at times during each game the play might have been well accompanied by the "Dead March."

There was only one score in the first half of the Belmont-T. A. S. ray, and that came after fifteen minutes hard playing, when young Loughlin, by a nice end rush tallied for the Abstainers. Four more were added in the second half, the Belmonts failing to land one.

Loughlin, 15 mins.
Cahill, 45 secs.
Giroux, 11 mins.
Giroux, 4 mins.
Quigley, 3 mins.
Penalties — Wuram, Myers 2, Giroux, Quigley 2, Eccelestone 2.

The teams lined up as follows:

Goal
Crough	Devell
Point
Cahill	Myers
Cover Point
Quigley	Ecclestone
Centre
Giroux	Hall
L Wing
Henry	Waram
R. Wing
Galvin	W. Waram
Rover
Loughlin	Wilson

Referee—Ernie Wasson.
Time keepers—Picard and Ray.
Penalty—Harvey Staunton.

Cyril Giroux was working all the time for T. A. S., and was the main strength in the forward division. He also followed back well. Crough stopped everything that looked dangerous in a clever style. Cahill, Quigley and Coughlin were also in the limelight.

For the Belmonts Myers and Bobby Hall were most effective, but the latter was bothered to some extent by cramps in his legs. Ernie Wilson worked hard at rover.

In both games Ernie Wasson was there with a microscope for offsides and any inclination to undue strenuosity. He kept the games clean and was entirely impartial.

Lakefield vs. West Ends

The ice was too soft for fast hockey by the time the West Ends and Lakefield appeared, but even then the game was easily the most interesting that has been seen this year. Flashes of two men combination were attempted at times, but the going was too heavy and single rushes were most prominent. Quinn delighted the fans by his speedy jaunts when he could break away from the close vigilance of McNirn and Pentland. These two, with Rose, for West Ends, and Wade coming out now and then kept the interest at top notch all the way.

Connie Halpin was not to blame for the loss, for those that got past him were a very small percentage of the number he stopped. He proved a reliable guard to the West Ends' citadel. Croft did not have many to stop. Lakefield defence helping him a whole lot. Wade played a strong game and for Lakefield. Simpson and the Sabatino brothers were working hard.

The teams faced each other as follows:

West Ends.	Lakefield.
Goal
Halpin	Croft
Point
Wade	M. Sabatino
Cover Point
Dobson	Quinn
Rover
Rose	Simpson
Centre
McNirn	T. Sabatino
Right Wing
Short	Morin
Left Wing
Pentland	Quigley

Referee—Wasson.

Rose scored first for West Ends after ten minutes' play, but Simpson evened up in two minutes.

There were no other goals scored for the rest of the regular time. Ten minutes overtime found the result the same, but in another extra ten the tie was broken, Morin and T. Sabatino carried the puck in on the West End goal and the latter found a loophole. Lakefield scooped another from a mixup and cinched the game. To show that they were still going strong Pentland and Wade got away for a pretty bit of combination and Pentland scored. Time was called shortly afterwards.

LINDSAY WILL BE ON SPECIAL TRAIN FOR THE GAME ON TUESDAY

Lindsay will play the return game with Peterborough here next Tuesday, and the indications are that the contest will be one of the fastest ever seen on the local rink. The Petes are confident of reversing the score of last night's game, and the fans from here who saw the contest are equally certain that the result will be different when the two teams meet again, especially if the ice is hard. The Peterboroughs had just as much of the play last night as had Lindsay, and with a referee who had any idea of fairness would have undoubtedly won the contest. When the teams clash here there will be a battle royall and a record crowd will be on hand for the struggle. The Lindsay club will run an excursion to Peterborough by special train on Tuesday night, and expect to bring down some two hundred rooters, which will tend to make things lively. It will be a great game.

BLAKE AND HARRISON WILL MEET HERE IN A WALKING MATCH

The people of Peterborough will have an opportunity of seeing a walking match next week, when Jim Harrison, Peterborough's well known pedestrian, will clash with J. E Blake, the American colored champion, in a six hours' walk that should be about the hardest contest of its kind ever seen here. The two will look up in the Auditorium Skating Rink on Saturday of next week, and will walk three hours in the afternoon and the same time at night. Blake has many admirers in Peterborough, who will want to see him in action again, and no doubt, there will be a large attendance. Those who saw the walk here last spring will remember the hard battle between the two men, in which Blake defeated Harrison by one lap, after a six days' race, in which the battle between the two for second place was the feature. For the last three days they followed each other around as if they were tied together, and proved the most evenly matched pair in the race, so that it will be certain to be a hard grinda when they meet next week.

In the evening there will be a tug-of-war contest between the champion Quaker pullers and a picked team from Auburen for a handsome silver trophy.

The walking match will be for a side bet of $100 and a division of the gate receipts.

JUNIOR CITY LEAGUE GAME

George Street Methodists Defeat T.A.S. Juniors in a Close Game at Brock Street Rink Last Night

GOOD CROWD SAW IT.

In the Junior City League game last night, played prior to the senior bouts the T.A.S. Juniors lost by the narrow margin of one goal to the Methodist seven. The score of 3-2 is evidence of the difference between the strengths of the two teams. The T.A.S. started the scoring in the second half, neither teams having drawn blood in the first. Their lead did not last long, for George street took three in a row. The young Abstainers put up a good finish, Gorman notching the last goal just before time was called.

The game was a fairly good exhibition of hockey. Lack of combination was evident; the Methodists, however, had the biggest share of what was done in this respect, but for the most part it was individual work. A little more hockey and less scrapping, slashing and tripping on the part of some of the juniors and there is a promise of them turning out good men in a few years. On the whole the game was fairly clean and Bobbie Hall's decisions were fair and impartial. Crokery for the T.A.S. and Denison on the other side played cleanly and were always on the ice. Milloy, Pratt and Rightmeyer were very effective for their respective teams. They lined-up as follows:—

T.A.S.	George street
Goal
Callaghan	Meldrum
Point
Kennealey	Rightmeyer
Cover Point
Heffernan	Denison
Rover
Coughlin	Geale
R. Wing
Gorman	Halpany
L Wing
Corkery	Davidson
Centre
Millow	Pratt

Referee: Bob Hall.

NOVEL-TI MANAGER'S OPINION OF GAME

Dear Sir,—I notice in your issue of the 21st inst., the report of a hockey match between the Fresh Air Club and Novel-Ti Hockey Club, accompanied by a communication from the Fresh Air Club. I thought we were playing with sports and am sorry to see the Fresh Air Club take their defeat in the spirit shown by their communication.

I think it is very unsportsmanlike to make the statement they do regarding Mr. S. Wade, who kindly acted as referee, and very wrong of them to put words in my mouth which I did not speak.

I wish to state also that the membership of Novel-Ti Hockey Club is not limited to the employees of the Novel-Ti Company.

In conclusion will state I thought we were playing the Fresh Air Club, but the defeat they took changed their title to Hot Air.

Thanking you for your valuable space, I remain

Yours very truly,
H. A. FOY.

Peterborough, Jan. 22, 1909.

P. S.—We accept the challenge of the Fresh Air Club for another game in the near future with our regular line-up, which includes four fourteen year old boys.

A LINDSAY VIEW OF LAST NIGHT'S GAME

A Lindsay despatch says of the game:

Lindsay, Jan. 2.—Before a crowded rink to-night the Lindsay intermediates made their fourth straight victory by defeating the fast Peterborough septette by the score of 7 goals to 3. The half-time score was 4 to 2. The extreme mild weather made the ice very slushy. Nevertheless the game was the fastest seen here this season. Peterborough scored the first goal after about ten minutes of play. They then started rough-house tactics, and three Peterborough men were penalized in quick succession. With only four men on the ice, the locals scored twice in short order, and notched the third while two Peterborough players still decorated the fence. Moore and Parnell were the worst offenders. Koyl on the defence and Randall, Stoddard and Taylor on the forward line were the best for the locals, while Dusty, Parnell and Moore were the stars for Peterborough. Referee Moxon of Toronto, ruled impartially, and penalized quickly any attempt at rough play. The Peterborough team was accompanied by a large contingent, who came up on a special train.

LANG & MAHER
Clothiers and Furnishers to Men Who Know

AS SUGGESTED BY NORAH.

By Matilda Henderson Wheelock.

Copyrighted, 1908, by Associated Literary Press.

Ordinarily the merry clatter of pans and kettles and the cheerful swish of soapsuds as Norah's dexterous hands manipulated the dishcloth formed an enlivening accompaniment to the tender strains of "Kathleen Mavourneen" or the rollicking melody of "Rory O'More."

But this morning no fresh young Irish voice caroled forth through the open window above her kitchen table, and the corners of Norah's wide red mouth had a pathetic droop, wholly out of keeping with a nativity which unequivocally proclaimed itself in every feature.

Even the clatter and swish had a subdued sound, as though the pots and kettles and the soapsuds, realizing that sorrow had invaded their domain, were thus tendering a seemly acknowledgment.

This explains how it came about that another sound, also subdued and likewise indicative of acquaintance with sorrow, came floating in through the window and fell suddenly on Norah's ears.

This was nothing more nor less than a muffled sob, and a single glance through the window sufficed to show that it had proceeded from the hammock swung in the shade of the big crab apple tree in the back yard.

This hammock, supposed to be Norah's own particular retreat in her hours of leisure, was now occupied by a tumbled heap of pink gingham, which lay with face forlornly buried in a weather beaten pillow.

Norah watched for a wondering moment the ebullition of childish woe, then dried her hands, wiped her eyes with a corner of her apron and hastened down the kitchen steps in the direction of the hammock.

A deeper burrowing of the head into the pillow, a louder and more soulful sob and a more vicious output of the long, black leg rewarded her initial inquiry as to the cause of anguish so acute.

But presently the story came out—Aunt Beth had broken her promise!

Norah did and furtively wiped away two fresh tears as she made a sad little sound in her throat indicative of assent. For was there not to be a dance in the evening, and wasn't she herself to have gone?

And now—well, now she wasn't going, and something that she knew in her heart would have been said tonight would never be said now!

Well, after promising positively more than a week ago that she, the aggrieved one, should go to this picnic in Uncle Larry's machine along with Uncle Larry and Aunt Beth herself she, the aforementioned untrustworthy Aunt Beth, had calmly announced not half an hour ago that, so far as she and the aggrieved one were concerned, there was to be not only no picnic, but no Uncle Larry!

Now, the aggrieved one knew that "uncle" had been up to date merely an honorary title and that not for some months yet was Uncle Larry to have come into full possession of the aggrieved one as a really and truly niece.

This had been a matter of minor import, since it hardly seemed possible that the emoluments ensuing from the possession of a truly uncle could be greater than were those of one so privileged as to own an Uncle Larry in prospectu.

Supplies of candy and motor rides could scarcely in any case be more steady. There hadn't as yet been any picnics, for this was the first of the season. And now there wasn't ever going to be any picnic and no truly Uncle Larry!

As this edict of Aunt Beth, with all its potential consequences, came back to her afresh the aggrieved one, emitting a particularly vociferous wail and giving muscular vent to her despair in a final vicious kick, flung herself out of the hammock upon Norah's own grief burdened breast.

"Why, Norah, you're crying too!"

The aggrieved one's sobs underwent a sudden cessation as she became aware of this heretofore unheard of lachrymal proceeding on the part of happy Norah.

"I—I can't help it, miss. I'm so—so sorry—for Miss Beth," sobbed Norah, making a futile attempt to stanch the flow of tears on the corner of the long suffering apron.

Sorry for Aunt Beth! This was an entirely new and rather absurd view of the situation.

"Why, Norah! What are you sorry for Aunt Beth for?"

"Because—oh, miss, because she don't mane it! She don't iver in the worrid mane a worrd av it!"

More wonders! Not mean it! Why, if this were true and Aunt Beth really didn't mean it, then there wasn't anybody to be sorry for. The aggrieved one's voice had a sudden joyful note of hope.

"Oh, do you think she didn't really mean it, Norah? Then whatever made her say it?"

"Och, belike 'twas jist a foolish quarrel—jist a foolish, foolish quarrel—an' now she's like to ruin her whole loife be not givin' in! That's the way gurrls be—they'll be dyin' to make oop, but it's die they will before they'll give in! An' the men be jist as bad, for they'll tak' her worrd for it an' sthay away, whin if they had anny sinse at all they'd know the poor gurrl was givin' the lie to her own hearrt an' they'd mak' her own oop to it! Och, poor Miss Beth! All she wants is for him to mak' her own oop—an' it's cryin' her purty eyes out she is this minnit, I'll be warrsin'!".

The aggrieved one slid to the ground and stared for a moment in open eyed amazement at the expanse of green gingham flung in an abandon of misery over Norah's bowed head. Then she turned, scurried around to the front and tiptoed softly up the stairs.

It was indeed as Norah had predicted. Aunt Beth was crying her eyes out. A big brown eye applied to the keyhole corroborated the small ear's testimony. Aunt Beth must certainly be very, very sorry indeed if her present apparent misery were any indication of the depth of her penitence.

Having fully satisfied herself upon this point, the aggrieved one, again on tiptoe, retraced her way to the lower hall, listened at the farther end until the rattle of pans and kettles proclaimed the resumption of Norah's interrupted duties, then sped swiftly down the path to the barn and through a passageway into the alley. Nor did she stop until she had traversed a distance of some blocks.

The door of the ornate garage which was her destination stood open. Uncle Larry and the chauffeur were doing something to the big machine.

Presently the gloom gave partial way to a look of bewilderment, and this in turn to the dawn of a half comprehension, which kaleidoscopic point being reached he stooped, caught the aggrieved one in his arms and set her in the toanneau of the machine.

"Now tell me all about it," he said. "Who doesn't mean what, and what authority have you for supposing she doesn't mean it?"

"Aunt Beth. Norah said she didn't mean it."

The big wrench in the hands of the chauffeur suddenly ceased manipulations, an intricate part of the machinery seeming at the moment to demand close and silent scrutiny.

"Norah said girls were all like that; they'd be dying to make up, she said, and wouldn't. An' she said the men ought to make 'em, an' if they had any sense they would. She said she knew Aunt Beth would be crying her eyes out, an' she was, Uncle Larry, for I slipped upstairs an' she was on the bed with her handkerchief up to her eyes, an' she was crying like anything. An' Norah cried so hard herself you'd 'most think she was the one that had quarreled with you an' wanted to make up an' wouldn't. An' please, Uncle Larry, won't you make Aunt Beth let you keep on being my uncle? An' she'll go to the picnic, too, if you'll make her. Norah says that's all she wants—just to have you make her!"

"I'll drive the big car myself this afternoon, Nolan," said Uncle Larry. "And if you care to come over to the picnic later in the afternoon and stay for the dance in the evening you may take the runabout."

Sparring.

"Will you take me to the theater tonight?"

"Yes, if you want to go."

"Do you want to go?"

"I wouldn't go unless you really wanted to go."

"Don't you want to go?"

"Of course, if you want"—

"But I wouldn't think of taking you unless you want to see the play."

"And I will not go unless you want to go."

"But you are the one to say whether you want to go."

"Of course I see now that you do not want to go, and in that case we will stay at"—

"I do want to go, though, if you want to go."

"Then, of course, you won't say whether you want to take me, so I suppose we shall stay at home."

"On the contrary, if you want to go, we go. If you don't want to go, we don't go. Now what do you say?"

"I say that if you want to go with me I want to go."

About this time he looked at his watch and found that they could not possibly reach the theater before the beginning of the third act.—Lippincott's.

Clever Thought.

When a certain country storekeeper, who was also the postmaster of the borough, began the transaction of business one morning about a year ago he found that the safe in which were kept the postage stamps had been robbed during the night and promptly reported the matter to the proper authorities. The latter decided, after an investigation, that restitution should be made for the stolen stamps, but that the expense of repairing the damage to the safe would have to be borne by the storekeeper, which was accordingly done.

Some time later a second robbery was committed and reported, as before, as the result of which there was another investigation, which disclosed the fact that the stamps had been abstracted on this occasion without any violence to the safe.

"But how was it done?" asked the inspector, somewhat puzzled. "The safe does not seem to be injured at all."

"I made up my mind I would not be caught again," replied the postmaster slyly. "I left it open."

Closed.

"Are you going to the same hotel at Palm Beach this winter?"

"Good Lord, no! I came away last year and forgot to tip the head waiter."—Cleveland Leader.

A Huge Forest.

The British Colonial Office recently sent out an expert to report on the Kenia forest, in the East Africa protectorate. He found the forest to be 287 miles long by eight broad, and to comprise 1,000,000 acres of timber, valued at $115,000,000 for the wood alone.

Governor Narrowly Escapes Drowning

Sir M. Nathan, the Governor of Natal, who, at Durban, has unveiled a statue of Sir John Robinson, the first Premier of Natal, has seen a good deal of rough service in his time. He joined the Royal Engineers in 1880, and five years later took part in the Nile expedition. He is the first Jew to be appointed a Colonial Governor, and when sworn in for the Government of Hong Kong, conformed the rites of his faith by going through the ceremony with his head covered. One day Sir Matthew, while on his way home from Hong Kong, fell into a harbor when entering a sampan from a P. and O. steamer, but was rescued, after some difficulty, none the worse for his unpleasant experience.

CHATS ABOUT FAMOUS BOOKS AND THEIR AUTHORS

By F. M. D.

In dealing last week with the works of that wonderful genius, Christopher Marlowe, mention was made of his great dramatic poem, "Faust." Most of us have at some time or another in our lives been enabled to witness the great drama of this name rendered immortal by the illustrious Goethe, but comparatively few of us have taken the trouble to acquaint ourselves with the life of its hero, who was undoubtly not a mythical but absolutely a living and breathing entity, like ourselves. That such a being as Faust had an existence we have incontrovertible evidence. That he was a man, also, deeply versed in various sciences, we also know, but that he was possessed of diabolical powers, acquired by selling his soul to the evil one, nobody, outside a lunatic asylum, possibly, is likely to believe.

The Deeds Attributed to Virgilius

The story of his wonderful achievements makes an excellent fairy tale, but bears on the face of it evidence of having been borrowed from the accounts of the early astrologers and soothsayers, amongst whom tradition places Virgilius, the great Latin poet. The history of his wonderful deeds is contemporaneous with that of the early fathers of the Church. There is a Dutch version of the original, still extant, entitled "A Pleasant History concerning the Life and Death of Virgilius and of the wonderful works he did by Necromancy, and with the help of the Devil." In this history is recorded how he outwitted a demon by tickling his vanity and asking him to demonstrate how he had managed to squeeze himself through a small hole from which Virgil had rolled away the stop-gap. On the devil passing back through the hole, the poet, so goes the story, promptly rolled the stone over the hole again.

Virgil is reputed also to have enchanted an hostile army; to have built palaces and gardens, more splendid than the famed Hesperides, and also, to have founded the city of Naples. How the name of the great poet came to be mixed up with these exploits is past telling. The stories that are told of him, extravagant as they are, were firmly believed by men of the highest rank in Theology and Science, and one can easily see, how in such a period of lying and superstition, the tales that did duty for him would be foisted on the shoulders of such a man as Faust.

The middle ages teem with the wonderful deeds of Astrologers and Magicians. There were the Alchymists, also, who searched for the Philosopher's stone and the Water of Life, whose great precursor had been Geber, who flourished far off in the 8th century, and who numbered amongst his followers Alfarabi, Avicenna, Albertus Magnus, Thomas Aquinas, Raymond Lulli, Roger Bacon, Paracelsus, Dr. Dee and Cagliostro, the Corsican. Then flourished also the Magnetisers, who boasted of being able to transplant diseases from the human frame into the earth, by means of the magnet. Paracelsus, who is supposed by some to have founded the Rosicrucian cult is also looked upon as having been the first of the magnetisers, and may thus be claimed, as being, in an indirect way, the originator of mesmerism.

Faust, the subject of this notice, was the friend of Paracelsus, and is mentioned by Melancthon, the German theologian, and friend of Luther, as having lived at or near Wittenberg. According to the best calculations of historians, he was born about the close of the 15th century, and was the son of a peasant. Possessed of great natural talents, he fought his way through life, and attained to the degree of a doctor of Theology. Religious researches, however, seem to have wearied him, and abandoning them, he took up the study of medicine and surgery, and from that, finally betook himself to that of magic. His extensive learning was quite enough to earn for him in those days, the name of a necromancer, and ere he had figured long in the public eye, he gained the additional reputation of having sold his soul to the devil, and gained thereby the services of a familiar named Mephistopheles.

Faust's Compact With the Evil One

In a book dealing with this life his bargain with Belial is set forth as having been made in the following terms:

"To wit.—I, Johannes Faustus, D.D. et. M.D., hereby acknowledge with my own hand, for the further assurance of this deed; that in consideration of the manifold services and instructions of every kind, not to be obtained from any living mortal, I accept for my familiar and faithful demon, the demon Knight Mephistopheles, late charge d'affaires to the infernal Prince of the Orient, but now subject to all my demands. Item. On the other hand I do hereby bind myself to him, after the expiration of four and twenty years from the date of this deed that he may deal with me as he shall judge best; to govern, to handle, and to misguide in all that appertains to my life and soul, my food and my blood, renouncing all Christian communion upon earth and all hope of celestial inheritance. Amen. As additional confirmation of the same I consent to sign this contract with my own hand, as witness below in my own blood, being at this present time of sound mind and understanding to write and bequeath.

JOHANNES FAUSTUS, D.D. et M.D.

Doctor of Divinity and of Medicine etc., experienced in all the elements and arts.

The story tells of all the visits paid by Mephistopheles to the doctor and how that pleasant friend tells him in plain language that hell is not a reposeful region, and that he need not hope for cooling streams and shady groves when he gets there, as its heat consumes everything, as a faggot is burned in the oven.

It tells also how Belial, in order to provide a happy diversion to his victims, appeared one day in the doctor's study, uninvited, and brought some of his leading devils with him, Ashtaroth, Zathanas, Dithyranne, Drachus and Kebele, and that on their departure the study swarmed with gnats, scorpions, hornets and wasps, who severely maltreated the doctor and drove him into the fields.

Pranks of Faustus

Many of the tricks he performs are on a level with those performed by that delight of German children, the impish Howleglass. He interviews the Emperor Charles the Fifth, bewitches the knight by sticking antlers on his head, swallows a load of hay, takes money from a Jew, conjures up Helen of Troy, lectures upon Homar to his students and parades before their astonished eyes the heroes of antiquity; recovers from the seas the wrecked Comedies of Terence and performs dozens of other wonderful things too numerous to mention. At last comes the final reckoning. Let us quote from the volume:

"The students' chamber was next to that of Faustus, and they could plainly hear a grievous piping, hissing and whining, just as if the house was full of snakes and other poisonous reptiles. Next they heard the doctor's room give way, upon which repeated cries of 'Help! help!' were uttered in a half-drowned voice. At length it became broad day and the students went in a body to the doctor's chamber. He was no longer to be seen, but traces of his brains were seen on the walls, and different parts of the room were sprinkled with his blood. A solitary tooth was also found. Outside the house they found his corpse. The gruesome story ends with the accompanying admonition. "Let every Christian instead of slipping his neck into the noose as he did, keep his eyes steadfastly fixed upon heaven, and honour, love and worship its Supreme Ruler with all his mind, with all his heart and with all his soul. Amen."

Sophy of Kravonia

by

ANTHONY HOPE

Author of "The Prisoner of Zenda"

Copyright, 1908, Anthony Hope Hawkins

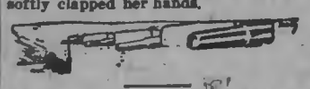
"'Impossible' has become 'Immediate,' sir."

"And 'Sergius Stefanovitch' 'Nikolas Stafnitz,'" said the prince. He looked at Sophy for confirmation, and she softly clapped her hands.



Chapter Sixteen

THE troops of the garrison and their allies, the scum of the streets, thought that they had scored a great victory and inflicted deep humiliation on the unpopular martinet who ruled and harried them. They celebrated the event with noisy but harmless revels, and when Captain Hercules was seen about again—he submitted to a fortnight's confinement to barracks with feelings in which thankfulness, though not gratitude, predominated—he found his popularity with them greater than ever. But in the higher circles—the inner ring—of the party he served his reception was not so cordial. Stenovics would not see him. Stafnitz saw him only to express a most uncompromising judgment on his conduct.

Yielding in appearance, in point of substance the Prince of Slavna had scored heavily. The big guns were ordered from Germany. The prince had the money to pay for them, and they were to be consigned to him. These were the guarantees which he had asked from Stenovics. When the guns came—and he had agreed to make an extra payment for early delivery—his situation would be very different. With trusty men behind them it would go hard with him if he were not master of Slavna, and he had already obtained the king's sanction to raise and train a force of artillery from among his own men in Volseni and its neighborhood. The men of Volseni were proof against Mistitch's bragging and the subtle indulgence by which Stafnitz held his power over the rank and file of the army. They were true to the prince.

The idle king's family pride was touched. It was the one thing which could rouse him. At his son's express request, and at that only, he acquiesced in the release of Mistitch and his satellite Sterkoff, but he was determined to make his own attitude clear and to do what he could to restore the prestige of his family. The prince said dryly that the prestige would profit best of all by the big guns. The king was minded to supplement their effect by something more ornate. He created a new order and made his son grand master of it. There was no harm in that, and Stenovics readily consented. He declared that something more must be done for the lady to whom his son owed his life. To be made keeper of the tapestries might be a convenient recompense, but was not honor enough. Stenovics declared that any mark of favor which his majesty designed for Mlle. de Gruche might most properly be hers. Finally the king instructed Stenovics to concentrate all his energies on the matrimonial negotiations. A splendid marriage for Sergius with a German princess would enhance and strengthen the prestige more than anything else. Stenovics promised zealous obedience and withdrew full of thought. The order was an easy matter, and honors for Sophy did no harm. The marriage was ground much more delicate. It touched the "bigstake" which Colonel Stafnitz had so emphatically warned the general not to play on the bad hand dealt to him by Mistitch's blundering. But, with the big guns in position and the sturdy men of Volseni behind them, would a good hand ever come?

There were but three in the inner secret of the scheme, but they were three of the longest heads in Kravonia. Countess Ellenburg was a pious woman and of exemplary demeanor; but, as Markart told Sophy, women are ambitious, and she had borne the king a son. Stenovics saw himself cast aside like an old glove if Prince Sergius came to the throne. Stafnitz was a born fisher in troubled waters and threw a skilful net. Twice before in the country's history intrigue had made revolution and changed the order of succession in the house of Stefanovitch. The three waited on chance, but the chance was not yet. If the king were at enmity with his son or if there was a demise of the crown while the prince was not on the spot to look after his interests, there might lie the opportunity. But now the king was all cordiality for his heir apparent; the prince was on the spot; the guns and their Volsenian gunners threatened to be on the spot, too, ere long. It was not now the moment for the big stake.

King Alexis was delighted with his new order, and the grand master's insignia were very handsome. In the center of a five pointed star St. Michael slew the dragon—a symbol perhaps of Captain Mistitch! But the king had not done yet. There was honor for the prince's friends too. Men should know that service to the royal house was meritorious in proportion to the illustrious position of that house. Zerkovitch stood forward and was made chevalier of the Cross of Kravonia. The occasion cost Zerkovitch the price of a court suit, but for Marie's sake he bore the outlay patiently. Then the king, having refreshed himself with a draft which his valet Lenage brought him [illegible] turned to his most pleasing task. The keeper of the tapestries was called from her place in the circle beside Marie Zerkovitch. Colonel Stafnitz had not noticed her standing there, but now he gave a little start. The figure seemed familiar. He turned his head round to Markart, who was just behind him. "Yes, that's her," Markart whispered in answer to the question in the colonel's eyes. The eyes flew back to Sophy instantly. There, too, was set the gaze of Countess Ellenburg, for Sophy was in full beauty that day. She, too, loved toys, and her ancient hatred of the name to which she had been born must be remembered. Her eyes glowed, and the red star glowed on her cheek. All her air was triumphant as she courtesied to the king and then stood erect and proud to hear his gracious words.

Gracious his words were for her deed and gracious his smile for her comely beauty. He could at least look a king—no man denied him that—and speak in kingly phrases. "A service unmatched in courage and immeasurable in importance to us and our royal house, the preservation of our dearly loved son and only heir." Countess Ellenburg looked down her nose at that! For such an act did he confer a patent of nobility on Sophy and for greater honor gave her as title the name of one of his own estates, together with a charge on its revenues equal to her new dignity.

He ended and sank back in his chair Her prince came forward and kissed her hand before them all. Countess Ellenburg bowed condescendingly. A decorous murmur of applause filled the hall as, with shining eyes, Sophia, Baroness Dobrava, courtesied again very low.

So, as Sophy Grouch had gone, went Sophie de Gruche!

"She's delighted, poor child!" whispered Marie Zerkovitch, but only Julia Robins, in England, far away, heard the full torrent of Sophy's simple, childlike exultation. Such a letter went to her that night, but there was stuff in it besides the baroness' paean.

Her prince came forward and kissed her hand.

"What's that you've got on your cheek?" asked young Alexis, with engaging candor. His finger pointed at Sophy's face.

So quaint an interruption to the stately formality of the scene struck people's sense of humor. Everybody laughed—even Countess Ellenburg. Sophy's own laugh rose rich and merry. Her ignorance or carelessness of etiquette betrayed itself. She darted at the pretty boy, caught him in her arms and kissed him, answering, "That's my luck—my red star."

"Your luck!" he said softly and continued to look at the mysterious sign after Sophy had set him down again. The little scene was told all over Slavna before night, and men and women talked, according to their temper, of the nature and the meaning of the red star. If only the foolish think about such things, even the wise talk.

The king left his chair and mingled with his guests. His movement was the signal for a general relaxation of ceremony. The prince came across the room and joined Sophy, who had returned to Marie Zerkovitch's side. He offered the baroness his congratulations, but in somewhat constrained tones. His mind seemed to be on something else. Once or twice he looked inquiringly at Marie, who, in her turn, showed signs of restlessness or distress. A silence followed on Sophy's expression of her acknowledgments. The prince glanced again at Marie and made up his mind to speak.

"You've done me the kindness I asked?" he inquired of Marie.

Marie picked at the feathers of her fan in unhappy embarrassment. "No, sir; I haven't. I—I couldn't."

"But why not?" he asked in surprise.

"I—I couldn't," repeated Marie, flushing.

He looked at her gravely for a moment, then smiled. "Then I must plead my own cause," he said and turned to Sophy. "Next week I'm leaving Slavna and going to my castle of Praslok. It's near Volseni, you know, and I want to raise and train my gunners at Volseni. We must be ready for our guns when they come, mustn't we?"

His eyes met hers, eager glance exchanged for glance as eager. "Our guns!" whispered Sophy under her breath.

"Marie here, and Zerkovitch have promised to come with me. He'll write what ought to be written, and she'll cook the dinners." He laughed. "Oh, well, we do live very simply at Praslok. We shall be there three months at least. I asked Marie to persuade you to come with her and to stay as long as you could, but she's disappointed me. I must plead for myself."

The changing expressions of Sophy's eyes had marked every sentence of his speech, and Marie marked every expression of the eyes. They had grown forlorn and apprehensive when he spoke of leaving Slavna. A sudden joy leaped into them at his invitation to Praslok.

"You'll come for a little? The scenery is very fine and the people interesting."

Sophy gave a low laugh. "Since the scenery is fine and the people interesting, yes, monseigneur."

Their eyes met again, and he echoed back her laugh. Marie Zerkovitch drew in her breath sharply. With swift insight she saw and foresaw. She remembered the presentiment under whose influence she had begged Sophy not to come to Kravonia. But fate had weighted the scales heavily against her. The Baroness Dobrava was here.

"You'll come for a little?"

A simultaneous exclamation of many voices broke across their talk. At the other end of the room men and women pressed into a circle round some point of interest which could not be seen by Sophy and her companions. A loud voice rang out in authoritative tones: "Stand back! Stand back and open all the windows!"

"That's Natcheff's voice," said the prince. Natcheff was the leading physician of Slavna. "Somebody's fainted, I suppose. Well, the place is stuffy enough!"

Markart emerged from the circle, which had widened out in obedience to the physician's orders. As he hurried past the prince he said: "The king has fainted, sir. I'm going to fetch Lepage." Two or three other men ran to open the windows.

"The king fainted! I never knew him to do that before."

He hastened to where his father lay, the subject of Natcheff's ministrations. Sophy and Marie followed in his wake through the opening which the onlookers made for him. The king showed signs of recovering, but Natcheff's face was grave beyond even the requirements of his profession or of his patient's rank. The next moment Lepage came up. This man, the king's body servant, was a small, plump person, who had generally a worthy, impassive, uninterested manner. He looked rather uninterested even now, but his walk was very quick, and he was soon aiding Natcheff with deft and nimble fingers.

"This is strange, Lepage," said Natcheff.

"Has it ever happened before?"

Then Lepage did look up. He appeared to consider and to hesitate. He glanced once at the king before he answered.

"It's the third attack in two months," he said at last.

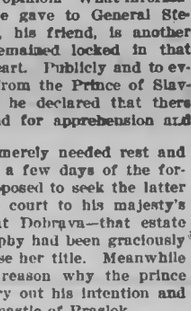
"You never told me!" The words shot sharp from Natcheff's lips.

"That was by his majesty's peremptory orders. He'll be angry that I've told you now."

"Clear the room!" ordered Natcheff shortly.

Slavna had plenty to talk about that night. Besides the Baroness Dobrava's red star there was the fainting fit of King Alexis! The evening bulletin was entirely favorable. The king had quite recovered. But many had heard Lepage's confession and seen the look that it brought to Natcheff's face.

Stenovics and Stafnitz rode back from the palace to the city side by side. The general was silent, immersed in deep thought. Stafnitz smoked his cigarette with a light, rather mocking smile. At last, when they were almost opposite the terrace of the Hotel de Paris, Stenovics spoke.



"The time is short."

"It looks like the handwriting on the wall," he said.

"Quite so, general," Stafnitz agreed cheerfully, "but at present there's no evidence to show to whom besides the king himself the message is addressed."

"Or what it says?"

"I think that's plain enough, general. I think it says that the time is short."

He watched his companion's face closely now, but Stenovics' mask was stolid and unmoved. He said nothing. He contented himself with a sullen grunt.

"Short for the king!" pursued Stafnitz, with a shake of his head. "Short for the prince perhaps! And certainly, general, uncomfortably short for us!"

Stenovics grunted again and then rode on some while in silence. At last, just as he was about to part from his companion, he made one observation:

"That might become of importance, no doubt, general," said Stafnitz, smiling still.

Chapter Seventeen

DR. NATCHEFF amply reassured public opinion. What information he gave to General Stenovics, his friend, is another matter and remained locked in that statesman's heart. Publicly and to everybody else from the Prince of Slavna downward he declared that there was no ground for apprehension and that the king merely needed rest and change. After a few days of the former it was proposed to seek the latter by moving the court to his majesty's country seat at Dobrava—that estate from which Sophy had been graciously bidden to choose her title. Meanwhile there was no reason why the prince should not carry out his intention and proceed to the castle of Praslok.

Mother Gave Her Child Away.

Had Given up all Hope of Living. Heart Trouble was Cured by Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills.

Mrs. Andrew Savoy, Grattan's, N.B., writes:—"In the year 1905 I was taken sick and did not think I could live any length of time. My trouble was with my heart and people told me that nothing could be done for a case like mine. I consulted the very best doctors but they could do me no good. For seven weeks I could hardly cross the floor. I had no pain, but was so weak nobody in the world can believe how I felt. I had given up all hopes of living and had given my little girl to my sister-in-law.

"One day a friend came to see me, and calling me by name, said, 'Lizzie, if I were you I would try a dose of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills as they are good for heart trouble.' My husband got me a box, but for two days I was not feeling any better, but on the fourth day my husband said, 'I believe those pills are doing you good.' I was able to say, 'Yes, I feel a good deal better this morning.' He said, 'Well, I will get you another box right away.' I took two boxes and three doses of the third one, and I was perfectly well and have not been sick since then.

"I will never be without them in my home for God knows if it had not been for Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, I would not have been alive now."

Terrible Effect of La Grippe

How many people there are who know from bitter experience the evils which follow in the train of La Grippe! The whole system is run down, appetite entirely fails, there is a continual feeling of languor and weakness, and life seems scarcely worth living. In many cases the lungs are attacked, and the victim gradually declines, until prematurely carried off by the dreaded "white plague."

What would not the sufferer give to know of a SURE remedy—of some medicine that would not only arrest the disease, but build up the wasted system, and restore permanently the lost health and strength; in a word, give new life and hope? SUCH A TONIC IS PSYCHINE.

Mrs. Hope (née Cattle), of Morpeth, writes: "My lungs were in a terrible state, I had had La Grippe, and it had settled on my lungs. I kept steadily getting worse, and got so low that I was confined to bed, and could not even sit up. I consulted several doctors, but they said nothing could be done for me. Then I started taking PSYCHINE and it has certainly done wonders. I am now as strong as I was before my sickness, and can truly say that PSYCHINE saved my life." Such testimony as this is convincing.

If you are suffering in a similar way, and have almost despaired of ever recovering the health you once enjoyed, why not send for a sample bottle of PSYCHINE and test it for yourself? There is no reason why you should not be restored. PSYCHINE has proved the sovereign remedy in hundreds of other cases. Why not in yours? PSYCHINE is sold by all druggists and dealers at 50c. and $1.00 a bottle. LIFE IN EVERY DOSE.

AFTER TREATMENT

He was surprised at how the sores healed—"I took your NEW METHOD TREATMENT for a serious blood disease with which I had been inflicted for twelve years. I had consulted a score of physicians, taken all kinds of blood medicine, visited Hot Springs and other mineral water resorts, but only got temporary relief. They would help me for a time, but after discontinuing the medicines the symptoms would break out again—running sores, blotches, rheumatic pains, looseness of the hair, swellings of the glands, palms of the hands scaling, itchiness of the skin, dyspeptic stomach, etc. I had given up in despair when a friend advised me to consult you, as you had cured him of a similar disease 8 years ago. I had no hope, but took his advice. In three weeks' time the sores commenced to heal up and I became encouraged. I continued the NEW METHOD TREATMENT for four months and at the end of that time every symptom had disappeared. I was cured 7 years ago and no signs of any disease since. My boy, three years old, is sound and healthy. I certainly can recommend your treatment with all my heart. You can refer any person to me privately, but you can use this testimonial as you wish." W. BISMARCK'S LIMIT.

In the "New Bismarck Reminiscences," just issued by Professor von Eisenberg of Berlin, there is a record of how many bottles of champagne and cigars Bismarck consumed before the great breakdown of his physical system some ten years' gentleman to his retirement from the chancellorship.

"Dr. Schweninger had just taken the sick prince in hand, trying to save him from an untimely grave," says the author, "when I called upon him at his country place near Hamburg.

"Bismarck told me of the strict regimen as to food and drink to which he was now subject and added: 'Well, I suppose 10,000 bottles of champagne and 100,000 cigars are all a mortal can stand. I have always been a giant as to stature and stomach, and such, I now find out, were my limits. More's the pity.'

"'Why, your grace,' I said, 'you cannot have drunk as much as that in your busy life.'

"'Oh, yes, I've been figuring up,' replied the chancellor. 'During my long diplomatic service and my career as a statesman I never drank less than two bottles of champagne for dinner. That counts up in the long run, and imagine the quantities of brandy, beer, red wine and white wine and cordials that I have put away besides—enough to float a battleship.'

"'As to cigars, before this sickness came on I never threw away a stump until a new cigar was lighted. When I traveled from Hamburg to Berlin or from Frankfort to Berlin, for instance, I never left off smoking for a single moment.'"

Growing Tobacco in Maine.

It has apparently remained for Pope Gibbs to demonstrate in his own garden, situated about a mile from the Soldiers' home in Togus, that tobacco can be successfully grown in Maine. Last year Mr. Gibbs raised about eighty pounds of tobacco from seventy-nine plants. This year he raised very nearly the same amount from only thirty-five plants, the season being much more favorable for the growth of t. plant. Mr. Gibbs had no difficulty in disposing of the tobacco which he raised last year and which was generally conceded to be of excellent quality. He cured it in his barn, which has a ventilator and where by opening the doors he was able to get the current of air necessary for the best results, the conditions being quite as favorable as in the best tobacco curing plants of the south. The opinion was very generally expressed last season that while Mr. Gibbs was successful in raising tobacco in this state it would not be possible to mature the seed here. This year he has disproved this idea by maturing a tobacco stalk more than seven feet high, with an exceptionally well developed cluster of seeds.—Kennebec Journal.

Persian Justice.

Porto Rican English.

The English language may be steadily encroaching upon the Spanish in Porto Rico since our occupation of the island, but at least the Porto Ricans seem to be making some rearrangement of the new tongue so that it may conform somewhat to Spanish ideas.

For instance, in a recent issue of a San Juan paper there appears the announcement of a "mitin" to take place at such and such a time and at such and such a place, a political "mitin," in fact.

Which, in case there are readers who are still mystified, is a good, rapid transit version of our friend, "meeting" arranged to suit Spanish eyes and throats.

Only a Common Cold,

BUT IT BECOMES A SERIOUS MATTER IF NEGLECTED.

Pneumonia, Bronchitis, Asthma, Catarrh or Consumption is the result. Get rid of it at once by taking Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup.

Obstinate coughs yield to its grateful soothing action, and in the racking, persistent cough, often present in Consumptive cases, it gives prompt and sure relief. In Asthma and Bronchitis it is a successful remedy, rendering breathing easy and natural, enabling the sufferer to enjoy refreshing sleep and often affecting a permanent cure.

Mrs. Henry Smallpiece, Brudenell, Ont., writes:—"I was always subject to a cough and could get nothing to relieve me until I saw an advertisement of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup and thought I would try a bottle, and when I had taken a few doses I found I was getting relief, and when I had finished it I was cured. I procured a bottle for my baby, who had a cough, and a few doses cured him. I would advise anyone having a cough, to give Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup a trial and I am sure they will never be without it."

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup 25 cts. per bottle at all dealers. Put up in yellow wrapper, and three pine trees the trade mark. Refuse substitutes. There is only one Norway Pine Syrup and that one is "Dr. Wood's."

JELLYFISH.

In Tropical Waters This Queer Creature Is at Its Best.

Few marine animals seem at first glance to betray less intelligence than the jellyfish. Up with the tide and down with the tide, carried along by this or that current, moving with the eddy of a backwater hither and thither, the jellyfish has become almost a synonym for helplessness. Scientifically, of course, the popular idea of the jellyfish is wholly mistaken, but it is perhaps only in tropical waters that it is found in the perfection of intelligence. In the south Pacific round the islands of Polynesia and as far south as the upper portion of the North island of New Zealand there is a jellyfish that not only knows where it wants to go, but is even provided with a sail which it can and does hoist or lower at will. The sail, like the rest of this curious animal, is almost transparent; but, unlike the body of the fish, which is of the usual gelatinous construction, the sail is a membrane almost as hard as shell. Round about the Ellice group the navigating fish is often found with a sail measuring five inches across, and it navigates the shallow island waters with the skill of a pilot, steering in and out of snaggy places and avoiding obstructions both above and below the surface with unerring skill. Like its cousins in home waters, this navigating jellyfish has the power of stinging its natural enemies, and its sting is fatal to other fish and dangerous to man.—London Standard.

An Unpleasant Visitor.

A frightful shape loomed up before the nearsighted eyes of the frightened professor. It was of heroic size, it stooped a little, its arms were unusually long, its forehead was retreating and its feet were bare and very broad.

"You have taken great liberties with me," said the shape. "You refer to me on every possible occasion, ascribing to me characteristics of which I know nothing. You have a reprehensible way of shifting to my shoulders a great many problems that are too much for your limited mind to grasp. Come, now, what do you mean by it?"

"I've never seen you before," stammered the professor. "Who are you?"

The shape haughtily drew itself up.

"I am the primitive man!" it cried in a terrible voice.

And the professor is understood to be running yet.

"An Awfu' Lesar."

Sir Archibald Geikie, the distinguished geologist, who will probably succeed Lord Rayleigh as president of the British Royal Society, tells a good story in his capital book of "Scottish Reminiscences." "I was quite sure you had been in our neighborhood," a friend said to Sir Archibald. "I met the old farmer of G——, who had a strange tale to tell me. 'Dod, Mr. Caithcart,' he began. 'I ran across the queerest body the ither day. As I was comin' by the head of the clough I thocht I heard a wheen tinkers quarrellin', but whan I lookit doon there was ae wee stoot man. Whiles he was chappin' the rocks wi' a hammer, whiles he was writin' in a book, whiles fechtin wi' the thorns, and misca'in them for a' that was bad. When he cam up frae the burn, him and me had a large confab. Dod! he tell't me a' about the stanes, and hoo they showed that' Scotland was ance like Greenland, smoored in ice. A very enterteenin' body, Mr. Caithcart, but—an awfu', awfu' lesar.'"

World's Record Map.

The Establishment Committee of the London County Council proposes to produce a map of London, with squares one-eighth of a mile in area, and with parks and open spaces colored green. It is to be hoped that the children of London will be permitted to play on the "green spaces."

A Wonderful Autograph Book.

Sir Donald Currie, head of the Castle line of steamers, has enjoyed the intimate friendship of many celebrities, besides numerous r alties. Amongst his proudest possessions is one of the late Lord Tennyson's pipes, probably the only one now in existence. "Keep it," said Mr. Gladstone, when Sir Donald showed it to the statesman. "It will be precious some day." Equally precious is the great shipowner's wonderful autograph book, which contains the names of half the royalties in the world.

Harvest Superstitions.

After the rice harvest in Ceylon the priests take a little old god, called Marwil, down to the river. A hole is dug where the water is shallow and into this is crammed a bag of dry rice with the god placed on top. The saturated rice expands, forcing the image upward, so that in about 15 days it comes to the surface and is welcomed as a new god with acclamations of great joy.

THE LONDON BLACKMAILER.

His Business Increasing — How to Treat Him When Threatened.

The business of blackmailing is industriously pursued in London. The number of infractions of the moral law by the well-to-do and wealthy men and women of the English capital who stand well before the public furnishes subjects for the blackmailer. Sometimes it is a man, sometimes a woman who relies upon extortion of the guilty for a living.

A police magistrate of London, speaking on the subject, said:

"Demanding money by menace is a form of crime which seems to be very much on the increase in London. The growing laxity of morals leads to an increase of those who thrive on the victims. To-day if a man sustains improper relations with a woman and he or she has means and a blackmailer becomes aware of it a series of threatening letters are sent out. The party levied upon gives up to prevent exposure. If he fights his name and address appear in the newspapers to his undoing. Fear of this prevents a large number of prosecutions, hence the blackmailers flourish and escape punishment. Now the remedy is to prohibit printing in the newspapers the names of those charged with transgressing the moral law and to give the hearing behind closed doors where the public would be excluded. This would put a stop to blackmail.

"The blackmailer when he starts after his victim should be treated with contempt. The one thing the assailed should not do is to pay money. That would be fatal and would not secure peace, for demand after demand would be made as long as the victim had any money left. He should either consult the police or tell one or two reliable friends or see a lawyer. The blackmailer is always a coward. He runs whenever the victime resents his rascality. He is the most contemptible of criminals and he knows it. Hence a little display of fortitude will get rid of him."

Laying a Ghost.

This "ghost" story was among those omitted from Mr. Stead's famous collection: There was an ordinary cupboard door that always mysteriously creaked open at five minutes before midnight unless it was kept locked, and when it was kept locked it groaned and rattled instead precisely at the same hour. Then came along a spook expert, who discovered that at five minutes before midnight the fast express train passed along the highroad a mile away from the house and set in motion some vibratory wave that acted upon the cupboard and scared a whole household.

Luck.

"Do you believe there is anything in luck?" asked the young man.

"Yes," answered the home grown philosopher. "There is a lot of intelligence and perseverance in it."—Exchange.

Plain Facts About the Hair

It is the duty of every one who is interested in hair preservation to learn enough about the subject to tell whether an advertisement for a hair remedy is reasonable or unreasonable. In this connection, the United States Post Office Department has begun a much needed campaign against false and misleading statements in advertisements in general. While this work is highly commendable and should be greatly extended, still at the same time it tends to paternalism rather than to personal self-reliance. If YOU know that the claims of a hair remedy are unreasonable and untrue, that knowledge will save you money and prevent disappointment.

The trouble lies in the fact that certain over ambitious Proprietors employ advertising writers who do not know the composition of the remedies they write about, and even if they did, they are not expected to know the therapeutic action of the various ingredients. Two very familiar and oft repeated statements are, that the hair must be watered and fed just like a plant, and that the colour of the hair, once destroyed, can be restored, by natural process. While both of these statements are false in every particular, it requires some little knowledge of the hair follicle to understand why the statements are false.

The hair follicle is a pear shaped sack in the scalp that holds the hair root. At the bottom of the hair follicle and extending up into it for a short distance, is a nipple shaped projection that remains in the scalp when a hair root is forcibly pulled out. This projection is the hair papilla from which the hair "root" grows. The continuous addition to the bottom of the hair root, forces the hair proper out through the scalp.

The hair papilla is surrounded by the hair root, which thus takes a bulbous form. Above the hair root or bulb—which occupies about three-fourths of the entire follicle—is the neck of the hair follicle, below which the most penetrating fluids known to Medical Science cannot penetrate. Therefore the story of feeding the starved and impoverished hair roots with an external application is all a myth.

The short portion of the hair follicle above its neck opens somewhat like a funnel and is filled with the outer scalp skin. Opening into this outer portion are the highly important oil or sebaceous glands which, from their location are most exposed to disease. When these oil glands become infected with a certain microbic growth (the cause of dandruff) there is hair disease and finally hair death. Fortunately this outer portion of the hair follicle can be treated by carefully rubbing into the scalp a suitable remedy. What remedy should be used? Manifestly one that will destroy the growth that causes dandruff, itching scalp and falling hair.

Newbro's Herpicide is the first remedy that was prepared for the particular purpose of destroying this invisible vegetable growth. In fact, it is called the "ORIGINAL remedy that kills the dandruff germ." Newbro's Herpicide was not made until after Prof. Unna, of Hamburg, Germany (ask your doctor about him) discovered that dandruff is a highly contagious disease caused by a microbe. The almost marvellous success of Newbro's Herpicide has caused advertising writers to claim germicidal properties for other hair remedies, many of which were on the market years before Prof. Unna's discovery.

Do you think that this new claim for old remedies is a reasonable one? Remember, that the hair gets its life, colour and strength direct from the blood, and that good blood, deep breathing and sunlight favour hair development. Out-door exercise, to insure free circulat on on the scalp, also scalp massaging for the same purpose, are very helpful. Worry, indigestion and sedentary habits oppose hair growths, while the dandruff germ will actually destroy the hair, unless it is eradicated and kept out of the scalp with Newbro's Herpicide.

YOUR MONEY will be refunded if Herpicide is not as represented.

Send 10 cents in stamps to the Herpicide Company, Dept. L, Windsor, Ont., for sample and booklet. Two sizes: 50c and $1.00. At Drug Stores. When you call for Herpicide, do not accept a substitute. Applications at Prominent Barber Shops.

BISMARCK'S LIMIT

In the "New Bismarck Reminiscences," just issued by Professor von Blaring of Berlin, there is a record of how many bottles of champagne and cigars Bismarck consumed before the great breakdown of his physical system some ten years previous to his retirement from the chancellorship.

"Dr. Schweninger had just taken the sick prince in hand, trying to save him from an untimely grave," says the author, "when I called upon him at his country place near Hamburg.

"Bismarck told me of the strict regimen up to food and drink to which he was now subject and added: 'Well, I suppose 10,000 bottles of champagne and 100,000 cigars are all a mortal can stand. I have always been a giant as to stature and stomach, and such. I now find out, were my limits. More's the pity.'

"'Why, your grace,' I said, 'you cannot have drunk as much as that in your busy life.'

"'Oh, yes, I've been figuring up,' replied the chancellor. 'During my long diplomatic service and my career as a statesman I never drank less than two bottles of champagne for dinner. That counts up in the long run, and imagine the quantities of brandy, beer, red wine and white wine and cordials that I have put away besides—enough to float a battleship.'

"'As to cigars, before this sickness came on I never threw away a stump until a new cigar was lighted. When I traveled from Hamburg to Berlin or from Frankfort to Berlin, for instance, I never left off smoking for a single moment.'"

Growing Tobacco in Maine.

It has apparently remained for Pepe Gibbs to demonstrate in his own garden, situated about a mile from the Soldiers' home in Togus, that tobacco can be successfully grown in Maine. Last year Mr. Gibbs raised about eighty pounds of tobacco from seventy-nine plants. This year he raised very nearly the same amount from only thirty-five plants, the season being much more favorable for the growth of the plant. Mr. Gibbs had no difficulty in disposing of the tobacco which he raised last year and which was generally conceded to be of excellent quality. He cured it in his barn, which has a ventilator and where by opening the doors he was able to get the current of air necessary for the best results, the conditions being quite as favorable as in the best tobacco curing plants of the south. The opinion was very generally expressed last season that while Mr. Gibbs was successful in raising tobacco in this state it would not be possible to mature the seed here. This year he has disproved this idea by maturing a tobacco stalk more than seven feet high, with an exceptionally well developed cluster of seeds.—Kennebec Journal.

Persian Justice.

Porto Rican English.

The English language may be steadily encroaching upon the Spanish in Porto Rico since our occupation of the island, but at least the Porto Ricans seem to be making some rearrangement of the new tongue so that it may conform somewhat to Spanish ideas.

For instance, in a recent issue of a San Juan paper there appears the announcement of a "mitin" to take place at such and such a time and at such and such a place, a political "mitin," in fact.

Which, in case there are readers who are still mystified, is a good, rapid transit version of our friend, "meeting" arranged to suit Spanish eyes and throats.

Obstinate coughs yield to its grateful soothing action, and in the racking, persistent cough, often present in Consumptive cases, it gives prompt and sure relief. In Asthma and Bronchitis it is a successful remedy, rendering breathing easy and natural, enabling the sufferer to enjoy refreshing sleep and often affecting a permanent cure.

Mrs. Henry Smallpiece, Brudenell, Ont., writes:—"I was always subject to a cough and could get nothing to relieve me until I saw an advertisement of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup and thought I would try a bottle, and when I had taken a few doses I found I was getting relief, and when I had finished it I was cured. I procured a bottle for my baby, who had a cough, and a few doses cured him. I would advise anyone having a cough, to give Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup a trial and I am sure they will never be without it."

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup 25 cts. per bottle at all dealers. Put up in yellow wrapper, and three pine trees the trade mark. Refuse substitutes. There is only one Norway Pine Syrup, and that one is "Dr. Wood's."

JELLYFISH.

In Tropical Waters This Queer Creature is at Its Best.

Few marine animals seem at first glance to betray less intelligence than the jellyfish. Up with the tide and down with the tide, carried along by this or that current, moving with the eddy of a backwater hither and thither, the jellyfish has become almost a synonym for helplessness. Scientifically, of course, the popular idea of the jellyfish is wholly mistaken, but it is perhaps only in tropical waters that it is found in the perfection of intelligence. In the south Pacific round the islands of Polynesia and as far south as the upper portion of the North island of New Zealand there is a jellyfish that not only knows where it wants to go, but is even provided with a sail which it can and does hoist or lower at will. The sail, like the rest of this curious animal, is almost transparent; but, unlike the body of the fish, which is of the usual gelatinous construction, the sail is a membrane almost as hard as shell. Round about the Ellice group the navigating fish is often found with a sail measuring five inches across, and it navigates the shallow island waters with the skill of a pilot, steering in and out of snaggy places and avoiding obstructions both above and below the surface with unerring skill. Like its cousins in home waters, this navigating jellyfish has the power of stinging its natural enemies, and its sting is fatal to other fish and dangerous to man.—London Standard.

An Unpleasant Visitor.

A frightful shape loomed up before the nearsighted eyes of the frightened professor. It was of heroic size, it stooped a little, its arms were unusually long, its forehead was retreating and its feet were bare and very broad.

"You have taken great liberties with me," said the shape. "You refer to me on every possible occasion, ascribing to me characteristics of which I know nothing. You have a reprehensible way of shifting to my shoulders a great many problems that are too much for your limited mind to grasp. Come, now, what do you mean by it?"

"I've never seen you before," stammered the professor. "Who are you?"

The shape haughtily drew itself up.

"I am the primitive man!" it cried in a terrible voice.

And the professor is understood to be running yet.

"An Awfu' Lesar."

Sir Archibald Geikie, the distinguished geologist, who will probably succeed Lord Rayleigh as president of the British Royal Society, tells a good story in his capital book of "Scottish Reminiscences." "I was quite sure you had been in our neighborhood," a friend said to Sir Archibald. "I met the old farmer of G——, who had a strange tale to tell me. 'Dod, Mr. Caithcart,' he began, 'I ran across the queerest body the ither day. As I was comin' by the head of the cleugh I thocht I heard a wheen tinkers quarrellin', but whan I lookit doon there was ae wee stoot man. Whiles he was chappin' the rocks wi' a hammer, whiles he was writin' in a book, whiles fechtin wi' the thorns, and mischin them for a' that was bad. When he cam up frae the burn, him and me had a large confab. Dod! he tell't me a' aboot the stanes, and hoo they showed that Scotland was ance like Greenland, smoored in ice. A very enterteenin' body, Mr. Caithcart, but—an awfu', awfu' lesar.'"

World's Record Map.

The Establishment Committee of the London County Council proposes to produce a map of London, with squares one-eighth of a mile in area, and with parks and open spaces colored green. It is to be hoped that the children of London will be permitted to play on the "green spaces."

A Wonderful Autograph Book.

Sir Donald Currie, head of the Castle line of steamers, has enjoyed the intimate friendship of many celebrities, besides numerous royalties. Amongst his proudest possessions is one of the late Lord Tennyson's pipes, probably the only one now in existence. "Keep it," said Mr. Gladstone, when Sir Donald showed it to the statesman. "It will be precious some day." Equally precious is the great shipowner's wonderful autograph book, which contains the names of half the royalties in the world.

Harvest Superstitions.

After the rice harvest in Ceylon the priests take a little old god, called Mareii, down to the river. A hole is dug where the water is shallow and into this is crammed a bag of dry rice with the god placed on top. The saturated rice expands, forcing the image upward, so that in about 15 days it comes to the surface and is welcomed as a new god with acclamations of great joy.

THE LONDON BLACKMAILER.

His Business Increasing — How to Treat Him When Threatened.

The business of blackmailing is industriously pursued in London. The number of infractions of the moral law by the well-to-do and wealthy men and women of the English capital who stand well before the public furnishes subjects for the blackmailer. Sometimes it is a man, sometimes a woman who relies upon extortion of the guilty for a living.

A police magistrate of London, speaking on the subject, said:

"Demanding money by menace is a form of crime which seems to be very much on the increase in London. The growing laxity of morals leads to an increase of those who thrive on the victims. To-day if a man sustains improper relations with a woman and he or she has means and a blackmailer becomes aware of it a series of threatening letters are sent out. The party levied upon gives up to prevent exposure. If he fights his name and address appear in the newspapers to his undoing. Fear of this prevents a large number of prosecutions, hence the blackmailers flourish and escape punishment. Now the remedy is to prohibit printing in the newspapers the names of those charged with transgressing the moral law and to give the hearing behind closed doors where the public would be excluded. This would put a stop to blackmail.

"The blackmailer when he starts after his victim should be treated with contempt. The one thing the assailed should not do is to pay money. That would be fatal and would not secure peace, for demand after demand would be made as long as the victim had any money left. He should either consult the police or tell one or two reliable friends or see a lawyer. The blackmailer is always a coward. He runs whenever the victime resents his rascality. He is the most contemptible of criminals and he knows it. Hence a little display of fortitude will get rid of him."

Laying a Ghost.

This "ghost" story was among those omitted from Mr. Stead's famous collection: There was an ordinary cupboard door that always mysteriously creaked open at five minutes before midnight unless it was kept locked, and when it was kept locked it groaned and rattled instead precisely at the same hour. Then came along a spook expert, who discovered that at five minutes before midnight the fast express train passed along the highroad a mile away from the house and set in motion some vibratory wave that acted upon the cupboard and scared a whole household.

Luck.

"Do you believe there is anything in luck?" asked the young man.

"Yes," answered the home grown philosopher. "There is a lot of intelligence and perseverance in it."—Exchange.

Plain Facts About the Hair

It is the duty of every one who is interested in hair preservation to learn enough about the subject to tell whether an advertisement for a hair remedy is reasonable or unreasonable. In this connection, the United States Post Office Department has begun a much needed campaign against false and misleading statements in advertisements in general. While this work is highly commendable and should be greatly extended, still at the same time it tends to paternalism rather than to personal self-reliance. If YOU know that the claims of a hair remedy are unreasonable and untrue, that knowledge will save you money and prevent disappointment.

The trouble lies in the fact that certain over ambitious Proprietors employ advertising writers who do not know the composition of the remedies they write about, and even if they did, they are not expected to know the therapeutic action of the various ingredients. Two very familiar and oft repeated statements are, that the hair must be watered and fed just like a plant, and that the colour of the hair, once destroyed, can be restored, by natural process. While both of these statements are false in every particular, it requires some little knowledge of the hair follicle to understand why the statements are false.

The hair follicle is a pear shaped sack in the scalp that holds the hair root. At the bottom of the hair follicle and extending up into it for a short distance, is a nipple shaped projection that remains in the scalp when a hair root is forcibly pulled out. This projection is the hair papilla from which the hair "root" grows. The continuous addition to the bottom of the hair root, forces the hair proper out through the scalp.

The hair papilla is surrounded by the hair root, which thus takes a bulbous form. Above the hair root or bulb—which occupies about three-fourths of the entire follicle—is the neck of the hair follicle, below which the most penetrating fluids known to Medical Science cannot penetrate. Therefore the story of feeding the starved and impoverished hair roots with an external application is all a myth.

The short portion of the hair follicle above its neck opens somewhat like a funnel and is filled with the outer scalp skin. Opening into this outer portion are the highly important oil or sebaceous glands which, from their location are most exposed to disease. When these oil glands become infected with a certain microbic growth (the cause of dandruff) there is hair disease and finally hair death. Fortunately this outer portion of the hair follicle can be treated by carefully rubbing into the scalp a suitable remedy. What remedy should be used? Manifestly one that will destroy the growth that causes dandruff, itching scalp and falling hair.

Newbro's Herpicide is the first remedy that was prepared for the particular purpose of destroying this invisible vegetable growth. In fact, it is called the "ORIGINAL remedy that kills the dandruff germ." Newbro's Herpicide was not made until after Prof. Unna, of Hamburg, Germany (ask your doctor about him) discovered that dandruff is a highly contagious disease caused by a microbe. The almost marvellous success of Newbro's Herpicide has caused advertising writers to claim germicidal properties for other hair remedies, many of which were on the market years before Prof. Unna's discovery.

True Detective Stories

THE LUCK OF A SEXTET.

BY A. L. DRUMMOND, FORMERLY CHIEF OF THE U. S. SECRET SERVICE.

(Copyright, 1909, by A. L. Drummond and A. L. Benson.)

This story has to do with certain incidents, amusing and otherwise, that arose from the efforts of six Irishmen to restore prosperity along the New York docks in the summer of 1875. The Irishmen were stevedores, and, times being bad at their trade, they started a mint. Let one of them get a genuine trade dollar, half dollar or quarter to use as a pattern—or as a "daddy," as they called it—and they would turn out "shiners" in abundance. But such were the vicissitudes of fortune that the lack of a "daddy" often plunged them into poverty.

It was during such a period of unfortunate financial depression that I first met James Maher, or "Brock" Maher, as he was called.

Maher was a big, raw boned fellow, perhaps fifty years old, leader of the band. An old counterfeiter had offered to introduce me to him, and we found him one evening sitting on a truck in a dark corner near the Battery. Left to ourselves, he told me his story.

"Me frind," he said, "you come to me at a most unforchinit time. This is the sixt' of July. On the Fort' I got drounk, came home in a horrible condition, and while I was a-sleeping it off me old woman went through me clothes. And not a dollar or a cent did she leave me."

"That's bad, 'Brock,'" said I, "but such a thing ought to trouble you less than it would almost anybody else. You can make your own money."

"I can, can I?" he replied with feeling. "How the divvle can I make me own money when I haven't a 'daddy' to me name? Tell me that."

I couldn't tell him, and he went on:—

"Now I'll tell ye what to do, me frind. Ye're like meself—ye want money and ye don't want to wor-rk too hard fer it. If ye had come to me any time but this I could 'a' sold ye all ye could carry. But just now, as I said, I'm on me uppers. I haven't an ounce iv lead, and if I had a ton I couldn't mak a nickel for the lack of a 'daddy.' Now, I'll tell ye what ye do. Give me eight or nine dollars and come back here in two days and I'll have ye all the nice 'shiners' ye want."

I didn't like the idea of furnishing a man capital with which to commit crime, merely for the purpose of arresting him, so I told him I did not have the money with me and did not know, just then, where I could get it. I told him, however, that I expected to get a little money soon, and we parted good friends.

When I went back to the office I related the conversation to Chief Washburne, and he asked me why I didn't give Maher the money.

"I didn't give it to him," said I, "because if I had done so, and afterward arrested him, his attorney at his trial would have cross examined me something like this:—

"'Where did you first meet this defendant?'

"'Down on the docks.'

"'What was he doing?'

"'Sittin on a truck.'

"'Did he tell you whether he was out of work?'

"'Yes. He said he was.'

"'Did you give him any money?'

"'Yes.'

"'Was anything said with regard to what use the money you gave him was to be put?'

"'Yes.'

"'What was to be done with it?'

"'He was to use it to make counterfeit money.'

"'Then you found an idle man sitting on the docks and furnished him with money with which to become a criminal. Is that it?'

"And I should have been compelled to say, 'Yes.'"

"Well, I guess you are right," said the chief. "We'll go over to the United States District Attorney's office and see what advice we can get there."

We saw one of the assistant attorneys, and he was most emphatic in his declaration that I should have given Maher the money for which he asked. He finally went so far as to tell me to do it.

"I'll do nothing of the kind," said I, "no matter who may tell me to. If Maher can be caught in no other way than this he will never be caught by me."

The chief stood by me, and this means of getting evidence was definitely abandoned.

A few days later, however, the man who had introduced me to Maher told me that "Brock" wanted to see me—that he had raised a few dollars with which to buy materials and now had some counterfeit trade dollars to sell. A night was set for me to meet him, and I found him sitting on the same old truck, near the Battery.

"How are ye, Tom, me boy," said he (I was known to him as "Tom Moran"). "I wonder if ye are still broke, as ye was the other night? I hope ye have money with ye this evening, as I've got something good."

"Something good, eh," said I; "let's see it?"

"Don't be so fast, me boy," said the old man. "I want to know first have ye any money?"

"Well, Buck," I said "I'm sorry to say that I am in about the same financial condition that I was when I saw you the other time. But my sister has a gold watch, and I know where there is a pawnshop. I hate to hock the girl's ticker, but I'd rather do it than to miss anything."

"And how long would it take you to go home and get the watch?" asked the old man.

"Oh, I've got it with me," I said, pulling out my wife's watch, a timepiece worth about $17, that I had pawned in such emergencies, I don't know how many times.

"Well get to yo[illegible] uncle's in a hurry," said Buck. "Raise every dollar ye can and come back. I'll wait for ye; and I can tell ye now, me boy, that I've got something good."

I left him sitting on the truck while I went to the nearest pawnshop, returning in a little while with a pawnticket, which I showed him, and $7.

"Now, I'll talk business," he said. Pulling out a shining [illegible] dollar from his pocket, he held it before my eyes. "The Sicritary of the Trizury himself," he continued, "couldn't tell this coin from one of his own. His money and mine are like the peas in a pod. The only difference is that he charges ye a hundred cints on the dollar for his, while ye can have mine for a quarter of that. How much do ye want?"

I told him I would invest the whole $7 with him, and he rummaged around in his pockets until he had counted out and handed over to me twenty-eight trade dollars, each as bright as a new tin can.

"Stand 'em as you would water," said he, "for there's plenty more where these came from. And whin ye want more, remember that I'm the man who can give them to ye."

JAMES MAHER, ALIAS BROOK MAHEN.

ON AN OLD TOUCH DOWN NEAR THE BATTERY.

I told the old man I should never forget him, and we parted. I went home and marked each of the dollars with my initials, so that I could identify them in court. The next morning I looked up the informer who had introduced me to Buck and told him I wanted him to put me in touch with the rest of the band, one at a time, as quickly as possible. Maher's confederates were Michael Boyle, Bernard Quinn, James McGrath, Michael Tague and another man whose name I have forgotten. Maher and McGrath were manufacturers of counterfeit. The others were "shovers," or distributors.

Before night I had been introduced to Michael Boyle, and had made an appointment to go out with him the same evening to "shove." The art of "shoving" is to go into as many places as possible, make the smallest purchase consistent with appearances, pass out a piece of counterfeit money and get good coin in change. Saloons and cigar stands are usually selected for this purpose by those who deal in counterfeit silver coins. And the practice is for one man to go inside and turn the trick while another waits outside to watch for the police.

A little after nightfall I met Boyle and he gave me a counterfeit half dollar with which to begin my operations. I had already provided myself with perhaps fifty fifty-cent shin plasters that he didn't know about, and while he was outside a cigar store waiting for me I bought a nickel cigar with a shinplaster and received forty-five cents in change. In the middle of the block he overtook me and I turned over to him, by agreement, forty-five cents. Boyle then gave me another counterfeit half dollar which, as soon as I entered a cigar store I marked, paying for my purchase with another shinplaster.

Before we quit business that night, I had spent every one of my shinplasters and had in my possession as many of Boyle's counterfeit dollars. Then we divided up the change that I had turned over to him. I also gave him half of my cigars, and he went home, presumably feeling that the evening had been profitably spent.

At one night intervals I went out with the other members of the band. From McGrath, a manufacturer of counterfeit, I bought some half dollars and quarters, while with each Tague and Quinn I spent an evening "shoving."

Having obtained enough evidence, as I believed, to convict the whole crowd, the next thing was to get them under arrest. More than that, the arrests must all be made within a few hours of each other, otherwise the taking of one into custody might cause the others to flee. So I made an appointment with each one to meet me at a certain hour on a certain day, representing to each one that I was about to make a considerable investment in counterfeit. And I arranged that secret service men should cover each meeting point and arrest the man with whom I might be.

The first meeting came off at eleven o'clock in the morning. I was standing on a corner talking with James McGrath and we were discussing whether we should go into a saloon to conduct our transaction when a man stepped up to McGrath and told him he was a prisoner. At the first sign of trouble I took to my heels. For the purpose of completely deceiving McGrath, one of the officers gave chase and eventually caught me. McGrath had just been locked in a cell at the Broecker street station of the secret service when my captor and myself, panting hard, entered the front door. I was led past McGrath's cell, in order that he might see me, and locked up. But in ten minutes I was quietly let out the back way to keep my next appointment.

At two hour intervals during the afternoon I was arrested with Boyle, Tague and Quinn, respectively, in each case sprinting for my liberty and eventually being captured, locked up—and released. All were then under arrest but old Brock Maher himself, and my appointment with him was for nine o'clock at night. He was a little ahead of time, and I found him waiting for me. I at once broached the customary subject of where we should go to make our deal when a Secret Service man tapped him on the shoulder and told him he was under arrest.

Maher didn't think so. He was a powerful six footer and instantly began to fight. The other five counterfeiters having been arrested, there was no necessity for me to run in this case, and I closed in upon Maher with the others. In the midst of the scuffle I saw an opportunity, while the rest were serving as targets for his fists, to grab him by the throat. Harder and harder I shut down upon him, until finally, gasping and almost black in the face, he ceased to struggle, and handcuffs were put on him.

The next morning the six prisoners met at breakfast in the station house.

"Have inny av ye seen Tom Moran?" asked McGrath. "Poor Tom! He was with me when I was pinched, but I haven't seen him since he was locked up."

"Tom was with me when I was caught," said Quinn.

"Ye don't say so," said Boyle, in amazement. "He was with me too."

"Well, Tom himself pinched me," said old Brock Maher, and then the other five for the first time realized how they had been trapped.

"I knew ye were a copper the first time I saw ye," said McGrath, when I saw him the next day.

"Of course you did," I laughingly replied; "that's why you sold me those counterfeit halves and quarters."

"Well, ye did me no dirt when ye fooled me," said old Brock, with his customary good humor, "and I bear ye no grudge. Ye did yer jooty, and to show ye I think none the less of ye I'll shake yer hand."

One by one the cases came to trial and convictions followed as rapidly as the juries could go through the forms prescribed by law. I was feeling very good over the outcome, when one day I met Louis F. Post, attorney for the Irish sextet. Post, by the way, is now the editor of the Public, a single tax publication issued in Chicago.

"Drummond," he said, "I am going to free every one of those counterfeiters that you convicted."

I laughed as if I thought he were joking, as indeed I did, and he continued:—

"There is no joke about it. The indictments in those cases are not worth the paper upon which they are written. In every one of them is omitted the phrase required by law, 'then and there, with intent to defraud.' I am going to make a motion before the trial judge to set the convictions aside and discharge the defendants. And, under the law, he can do nothing but grant the motion."

Investigation proved all that Post said to be only too true. He procured the reopening of the case, made his motion, the convictions were set aside and all of the prisoners except McGrath, who had broken from the Ludlow Street Jail and stowed away on a steamship bound for England, were discharged. McGrath, by the way, was captured as his ship was descending the Delaware River, and he received a short term for breaking jail. The others went absolutely free.

I was unspeakably angry. Before the cases against the prisoners were dismissed I mentioned the name of the man who drew the indictments to the trial judge and pleaded for an opportunity to tell of an instance in which I knew the man in question had been corrupt in a small way.

"I once knew this lawyer," said I, "to substitute cheap three-for-a-nickel cigars for five hundred twenty-five-cent smuggled Havanas that had been turned over to him as evidence by the customs authorities. When I went to his office to get the cigars to take them back to the customs office I noticed the substitution and called his attention to it. 'What difference does it make?' he asked. 'It makes this difference,' I replied, 'that I will not return the substitutes.' And I refused to take them. I presume he has them yet, if he has not destroyed them or given them away."

The Judge listened to me intently, but the prisoners were, nevertheless, discharged. Post, by the way, was never suspected of being in collusion with the attorney. In the first place, Post is honest. Furthermore, he was not the attorney for the counterfeiters when the indictments were drawn.

Thus it came about, as a grotesque conclusion to these ludicrous cases, that the only counterfeiter who was punished was imprisoned for breaking from a jail in which he was illegally confined. And the last humorous feature was afforded when a German juror, who had voted to convict one of the Irishmen, stepped over to me in the courtroom and said:—

"You fool these Irishmen mit your talk about being a counterfeiter, but you could never fool me. Why? You have gray eyes. I have looked long, but I never yet see a man with gray eyes who gets into trouble and goes to jail. Believe me."

That was thirty-three years ago, and my observation since the German made this remark convinces me there is considerable truth in what he said.

LATEST IN POPULAR SCIENCE

THE ART OF WINE TASTING.

THE mere evidence of the senses is not rated very high by those accustomed to rely upon exact scientific measurement. Occasionally, however, the senses take their revenge. In the analysis of certain foods, for instance, facts too delicate to reveal themselves to the chemical analyst may be detected by the nose or tongue of an expert. Especially is this true of the analysis of teas or wines.

A recent French writer enumerates some of the precautions that must be observed by a good wine taster. He must, in the first place, have been tasting for some little time, and he must not be a smoker. Certain powerful flavors alter the taste of the wine entirely and must be avoided. Such are the salt relishes used to revive a jaded thirst, and even the nuts and cheese recommended by some to lovers of good wines. The expert taster must approach his task with virgin palate. He must try only one wine at a sitting and must drink water after each taste to prepare himself for the next.

Some tasters even go so far as to rinse the throat first with vichy and then with pure water. The wine is then first inspected, then smelled and finally tasted. The inspection may show various things. New red wines, for instance, are bright, older ones are more yellowish. Old wines are always clear, when good, but slight cloudiness is not necessarily a bad sign in new ones.

The odor test is very important, as the bouquet reveals many secrets to the expert, who can often tell by it the precise region where the wine was made, besides detecting adulteration, if any has been attempted. The tasting proper, which comes last of all, also depends very largely on the sense of smell, as we are told by the physiologists and also on that of feeling, by which the expert's tongue, for example, distinguishes between a rough and a smooth or velvety taste. The real sense of taste tells the tester whether the wine is sweet or bitter and enables him to make other similar distinctions.

The wine is well spread over the mucous surface of the mouth in tasting and is retained until warmed. If it is swallowed too soon much of the effect is lost. Often, too, a young wine that tastes somewhat thin and rough at first reveals after an instant that it has body and gives promise of delicacy.

SENDING PICTURES BY WIRELESS.

THE first application of wireless telegraphy is to the transmission of pictures, a feat already accomplished in this case over ordinary telegraph wires. The [illegible] apparatus, which is the invention of a Danish electrician named Knudsen, dispenses altogether with the use of a substance electrically sensitive to light, such as silenium, which is commonly employed in such apparatus.

The picture to be transmitted is previously so prepared as to raise the dark portions above the level of the lighter parts, forming a low relief. In the case of a photographic plate, for instance, a metallic powder, which will adhere to the damper opaque parts and not to the transparent places, may be dusted on.

In the sending instrument a style travels rapidly over the picture and closes an electric circuit whenever it is slightly raised by passing over the parts in relief. The current thus caused to flow actuates the wave generator, and the wave ultimately reaches the distant receiving apparatus, where it so acts as to press down a pencil, making a black mark. As this receiving pencil has a motion precisely corresponding to that of the style at the transmitting end, a mark will be made at all places corresponding to the raised or dark portions of the original picture, which will, hence, be exactly reproduced. This apparatus may be adapted to any system of wireless telegraphy. It will send a picture 10x12 inches in size in fifteen to twenty minutes.

THE X-RAY IN THE STUDY OF DIGESTION.

THE processes of digestion have been studied of late by means of the X-ray, the food being made opaque to the ray by mixing bismuth with it, so that its progress may be observed by taking successive radiographs. What may be learned by this method is illustrated by the recent reports of experiments on the action of morphine on the stomach. It has long been known that this drug retards digestion, but the X-ray reveals the fact that this action takes place almost entirely in the stomach. When the food reaches the intestine the morphine has no further effect upon it. It appears, therefore, that the morphine acts by retarding the natural churning motion that plays such an important part in stomach digestion, and therefore causes the process to occupy a longer time than usual.

THE ANCESTOR OF THE POTATO.

FROM which of the known species of wild potato did the cultivated variety arise? This question has long puzzled botanists. A short time ago potatoes equal to those of commerce were said to have been produced from a wild variety in France; but it was finally proved that these came, in fact, from part of a cultivated tuber that had been accidentally mixed with the wild ones. More lately it has been asserted that another wild species, grown in the experimental gardens of A. W. Sutton, of Reading, England, has spontaneously shown properties resembling those of the cultivated potato. It has been thought that this wild variety had perhaps been accidentally crossed with the ordinary tuber, or that, as in the case cited above, it was not really a wild species, but an escape from cultivation. Microscopic examination of the pollen grains, however, shows that these have all the characteristics of the wild vegetable, and it therefore seems probable that we have here the ancestor of the familiar "Irish" potato. Special interest attaches to this discovery because the wild species appears to be immune to the potato disease. It may thus be possible to breed an edible white potato that is much less susceptible to disease than the one that is now grown.

THE USE OF MOTOR TRUCKS.

WHEN motor trucks and delivery wagons were first introduced predictions were heard on all sides that the horse, except for pleasure traction, would disappear from city streets in a few years. This result seems still far off. Many of those who have adopted motor delivery report dissatisfaction with the system, and this deters others from adopting it.

The trouble, according to a recent writer, is sometimes that the wrong type of vehicle has been adopted, sometimes that those in charge of the service are incompetent. In one case, we are told, the adoption of electric trucks by a large brewery has resulted in financial loss simply because the drivers' wages remain the same, and the men are unwilling to handle twice or thrice as many barrels as before. Hence they see to it that the speed of the service is not improved.

In another instance where electric traction failed to satisfy it was found that the motors were improperly wired. Drivers of motor trucks frequently run them too fast over rough pavements to the great injury of the mechanism. The moral of all this is that those who intend to use motor delivery should have competent advice. Different types of vehicle will be required for light deliveries with frequent stops and for heavy loads with long hauls. Change to mechanical traction often enables a merchant to handle a larger volume of trade, and this more than offsets the increased running expense.

AT DEATH'S DOOR

Doctors had to give her Morphine to ease the pain

For seven years I suffered with what physicians called a "Water Tumor". I would get so bad at times that I could hardly endure the pain. I could neither sit, stand, nor lie down. Hypodermics of Morphia had to be given me or I could never have borne the pain. Many physicians treated me, but my cure seemed hopeless, and my friends hourly expected my death. It was during one of these very bad spells that a family friend brought a box of "Fruit-a-tives" to the house. After much persuasion I commenced to take them, but I was so bad that it was only when I had taken nearly two boxes that I commenced to experience relief. I kept up the treatment, however, and after taking five boxes I was cured, and when I appeared on the street my friends said, "The dead has come to life." And this seemed literally true because I certainly was at death's door. But now I can work almost as well as ever I could, and go camping and berry-picking with the girls.

I will be glad if you will publish this testimonial, if it will further the interests of "Fruit-a-tives." They should be in every household. Yours very truly,

MRS. JAMES FENWICK.

Through the whole country around Enterprise, Ont., people are talking about this wonderful cure. By their marvellous action on the Kidneys, "Fruit-a-tives" cured Mrs. Fenwick when the doctors said she could not be operated on and was doomed to die.

"Fruit-a-tives" cured Mrs. Fenwick when all else failed. Try them for your trouble. 25c. and 50c. a box, at dealers or sent postpaid on receipt of price. Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

ON THE REBOUND.

By GARFIELD MACNEAL.

Lillian Treadwell awoke on the morning of her thirtieth birthday to the sickening consciousness that she was an old maid. She parted the cretonne curtains of her bed, curtains covered with red roses, suggestive of summer sunshine, and turned her eyes toward the window. Rain beating against the panes and dull gray sky proclaimed a cheerless November day. She sighed. Then, stretching out a shapely arm, she took a silver hand mirror from the nearby dressing table and carefully studied her features. In the language of Shakespeare, she saw "no deeper wrinkles yet," face long and oval, patrician in outline and expression, skin rather olive, eyes brown, deep and luminous, a mouth generously molded and a wealth of brown hair. On the whole, it was a notable face and one of character.

Dropping the mirror on the bed, she called "Lois!" A French maid, neat, trim and smiling, appeared with the breakfast tray.

"My thirtieth, Lois. But thank you just the same."

"Ma'm'selle is still young, and already fame has come to you. And when your novel is published the world will be at your feet," said Lois, with a comprehensive sweep indicating the world.

"Oh, yes, the novel!" murmured her mistress, sitting up and starting in on her coffee and rolls, while the maid laid a bundle of letters and manuscripts on the bed.

Miss Treadwell opened the one bulky package and looked at the accompanying letter. It was from a great publishing house formally expressing regret that they were unable to accept her novel.

She gulped down something in her throat. Her novel declined—her first really original work, to which she had given the leisure hours of six years! Truly, this was a most delightful birthday gift.

"Lois," she said, and her voice trembled—"Lois, my novel has been declined."

"Ah, ma'm'selle, I am too sorry"—with quick sympathy—"but some other publisher will accept it."

Her mistress shook her head. "I shall not send it out again. I shall stick to hack work. I can at least make a living at that." Then she added reflectively, "My life has been a failure."

Lois protested. She worshiped her mistress. "Ma'm'selle has been successful. You have a pretty apartment and everything you want."

"Other women, too, have pretty apartments and everything they want."

"Ah, yes, but they did not work for them," said Lois, with a worldly shrug, as she went in response to the electric bell, which at this moment buzzed loudly in the hall.

She reappeared with a huge white box. "Flowers, ma'm'selle, and a note," she said gayly.

Miss Treadwell cut the ribbon that held the box and disclosed a mass of violets. They seemed to look up at her tenderly, yet shrinkingly, as she bent over them. With a sigh of pleasure she took the note and studied the bold handwriting of the superscription. Her heart jumped. Surely it was Jack's! Dear old Jack had remembered her!

She slit across the end of the envelope while her fingers trembled and eagerly unfolded the paper.

"Dear Lillian," she read, "may I hope that this remembrance of your birthday will prove that I have not forgotten you? I have been in town two days. I secured your address from C.'s Magazine and send these flowers to warn you that I am coming to invade your sanctum sanctorum and talk over old times. Always your friend, Jack Ainsworth."

She started up, scattering letters and manuscripts on the floor. "Lois," she said decidedly, "I want you to lay out my new morning gown, the sea green one with the train."

Sitting down at her dressing table, she began a careful toilet. Her thoughts were busy with the past. Jack had been her girlhood friend in the little inland town where they were both born and bred. Again she was twenty-four and he was twenty-six. Why had he never spoken? She knew he loved her, and perhaps she had loved him, too, then. But when her mother's death left her alone in the world she was seized with the desire to come to New York to try her fortune. Jack had advised against it, but a strange perversity made her deaf to his warnings.

At first they had kept up a correspondence. Soon even that link was broken as she was drawn more and more into the absorbing whirl of newspaper and magazine work. For five years no letters had passed between them. To be sure, she had heard of him indirectly—how he gradually forged ahead from clerk in the railroad office to manager of the whole system, and she had been glad for his sake.

And now, after all this time, they were to meet. She wondered what he would be like. Doubtless he had lost the fresh boyish beauty she so well remembered. He was past thirty now, she reflected with a sigh. Doubtless, too, his career as a man of affairs had made him brusque and cold. She had visions of bearded cheek and chin and perhaps glasses. Horrors! Had it really come to that? Well, she would live in the old days and pay no attention to externals.

When at last Lois announced that Mr. Ainsworth was in the drawing room she swept to her mirror and surveyed the graceful figure reflected there. Her gown of sea green fell in shimmering folds. Her hair was done beautifully, and some of the violets were clasped in the silver girdle at her waist. She could not fail to be satisfied.

This consciousness helped her to enter the drawing room with the perfect self possession of a woman of the world. With outstretched hand she greeted him as if they had parted but yesterday.

"Jack! How good of you to come to see me on my birthday and to send me these lovely flowers!" turning to a center table where the violets were displayed.

Jack Ainsworth gasped. Could this elegant woman, with her perfect hair and silvery voice, be his old friend?

"Lillian," he said, still grasping her hand, "is it really you?"

She smiled, and it was her old smile.

"Yes, Jack, it is I. You see, I am going the way of the world."

"Nonsense! You are perfect!" he cried vehemently.

She was no less charmed. There was no evidence of beard or glasses, though the boy had grown into the man—tall, athletic, clean shaven, with strong jaw and deep voice. His honest gray eyes feasted on her beauty. She flushed.

"Tell me what you have been doing all these years, Jack," she said finally.

"Oh, working hard and following your career!"

"Yes," she said, "you have done well for yourself, and I am proud of you. As for my career, it has not amounted to much."

"Lillian," Ainsworth said, leaning forward eagerly, "do you know that you have not written a line I have not read! You ceased to write to me, but I did not forget, dear."

Miss Treadwell had forgotten the rain and the unfeeling publisher.

"Tell me, Jack, what brings you to New York?" she asked.

"I have been elected vice president of the road and must live here," he replied.

"Then I suppose you will marry and keep up an establishment?" with a pretense of lightness.

"I don't know," he said dubiously. "There never was but one girl for me, and she—she has achieved fame. She would not think of giving up glory to become the wife of a railroad man."

A feeling long dead woke in the woman. "But she might be willing, Jack, if you asked her," she said almost wistfully. "She might gladly give up all her false glory to find real happiness."

"If I thought that," said Ainsworth breathlessly, "I'd ask her in a minute."

She thought of the novel, of the hack work, of the loneliness of her life which this friend of the past brought sharply before her.

"Jack," she said, "I've decided"—she paused, then went on rapidly, fingering the violets in her belt—"to give up literature for good."

Ainsworth started forward. "Do you really mean it, Lillian?"

"Yes, I do," she replied bravely.

"But why?" he inquired, doubting, puzzled.

She looked up at him, and he read it in her shining eyes.

He leaped forward and folded her in his arms, crushing the violets in his eagerness. "My darling!" was all he could say in trembling tones.

As for Miss Treadwell, with that embrace came the realization that woman was not made to live on mind alone.

"Lois," she called after a little "bring me the manuscript of my novel!" She took it from the wondering maid and turned to Jack, with a radiant smile. "Come," she cried gayly—"come to my study fire and help me make dust and ashes of my literary pretensions."

Courtesy in Business.

The man who solicits your advertisement, the salesman who has samples to exhibit, the life insurance agent whose hair trigger tongue pleads eloquently for your family, even the seductive canvasser who tries to inveigle you into buying a history of the world in twenty-five volumes, can be listened to for a courteous minute or two and politely dismissed without seriously clogging the wheels of business. Perhaps they may really have something worth while to offer. Above all, the tellers and the cashiers of every bank needs course in the art of gracious expression. Why should the depositor of money be regarded with frowning suspicion and why should his mistake in indorsing checks wrong side up or his failure to have his books balanced regularly call forth shouts of correction instead of a few words of kindly instruction? After all, he is only ignorant or only forgetful. No dark scheme for defrauding the bank lurks behind his failure to follow the bank's rules. Courtesy is its own reward. Japanese Calendar.

Reference is frequently made to the floral calendar of Japan. What this calendar is is explained in the Housekeeper. The Japanese are extremely fond of all flowers, and they have therefore made a calendar from them, giving to each month a favorite blossom or leaf.

Thus the pine, the emblem of lasting prosperity and life, belongs to January, and its branches are used to decorate all houses on New Year's day.

To February belong the blossoms of the plum tree, which stand for purity, and the beautiful blossoms of the peach tree, to which young girls are compared, are associated with the month of March.

Next the cherry blossom, the most beloved of all flowers, is held to belong to April, and to May are assigned the gorgeous clusters of the wistaria vine.

The iris flower, to which are compared the strength and beauty of young boys, belongs to June, and July has the glory and perfume of the water lily. The flowering hibiscus tree attaches its beauty to the month of August, while September lays claim to the exquisite charm of the azalea.

The royal flower of Japan, the chrysanthemum, which forms a part of the crest of the imperial family, belongs to the month of October, while to November is given the maple leaf, admired for its decorative quality.

Finally, with December is associated the beautiful camellia, which blooms in the gardens even in the midst of snow.

AT DEATH'S DOOR

Doctors had to give her Morphine to ease the pain

For seven years I suffered with what physicians called a "Water Tumor". I would get so bad at times that I could hardly endure the pain. I could neither sit, stand, nor lie down. Hypodermics of Morphia had to be given me or I could never have borne the pain. Many physicians treated me, but my cure seemed hopeless, and my friends hourly expected my death. It was during one of these very bad spells that a family friend brought a box of "Fruit-a-tives" to the house. After much persuasion I commenced to take them, but I was so bad that it was only when I had taken nearly two boxes that I commenced to experience relief. I kept up the treatment, however, and after taking five boxes I was cured, and when I appeared on the street my friends said, "The dead has come to life." And this seemed literally true because I certainly was at death's door. But now I can work almost as well as ever I could, and go camping and berry-picking with the girls.

I will be glad if you will publish this testimonial, if it will further the interests of "Fruit-a-tives." They should be in every household. Yours very truly,

MRS. JAMES FENWICK.

Through the whole country around Enterprise, Ont., people are talking about this wonderful cure. By their marvellous action on the Kidneys, "Fruit-a-tives" cured Mrs. Fenwick when the doctors said she could not be operated on and was doomed to die.

"Fruit-a-tives" cured Mrs. Fenwick when all else failed. Try them for your trouble. 25c. and 50c. a box, at dealers or sent postpaid on receipt of price. Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

ON THE REBOUND.

By GARFIELD MACNEAL.

Lillian Treadwell awoke on the morning of her thirtieth birthday to the sickening consciousness that she was an old maid. She parted the cretonne curtains of her bed, curtains covered with red roses, suggestive of summer sunshine, and turned her eyes toward the window. Rain beating against the panes and dull gray sky proclaimed a cheerless November day. She sighed. Then, stretching out a shapely arm, she took a silver hand mirror from the nearby dressing table and carefully studied her features. In the language of Shakespeare, she saw "no deeper wrinkles yet," face long and oval, patrician in outline and expression, skin rather olive, eyes brown, deep and luminous, a mouth generously molded and a wealth of brown hair. On the whole, it was a notable face and one of character.

Dropping the mirror on the bed, she called "Lois!" A French maid, neat, trim and smiling, appeared with the breakfast tray.

"My thirtieth, Lois. But thank you just the same."

"Ma'm'selle is still young, and already fame has come to you. And when your novel is published the world will be at your feet," said Lois, with a comprehensive sweep indicating the world.

"Oh, yes, the novel!" murmured her mistress, sitting up and starting in on her coffee and rolls, while the maid laid a bundle of letters and manuscripts on the bed.

Miss Treadwell opened the one bulky package and looked at the accompanying letter. It was from a great publishing house formally expressing regret that they were unable to accept her novel.

She gulped down something in her throat. Her novel declined—her first really original work, to which she had given the leisure hours of six years! Truly, this was a most delightful birthday gift.

"Lois," she said, and her voice trembled—"Lois, my novel has been declined."

"Ah, ma'm'selle, I am too sorry"—with quick sympathy—"but some other publisher will accept it."

Her mistress shook her head. "I shall not send it out again. I shall stick to hack work. I can at least make a living at that." Then she added reflectively, "My life has been a failure."

Lois protested. She worshiped her mistress. "Ma'm'selle has been successful. You have a pretty apartment and everything you want."

"Other women, too, have pretty apartments and everything they want."

"Ah, yes, but they did not work for them," said Lois, with a worldly shrug, as she went in response to the electric bell, which at this moment buzzed loudly in the hall.

She reappeared with a huge white box. "Flowers, ma'm'selle, and a note," she said gayly.

Miss Treadwell cut the ribbon that held the box and disclosed a mass of violets. They seemed to look up at her tenderly, yet shrinkingly, as she bent over them. With a sigh of pleasure she took the note and studied the bold handwriting of the superscription. Her heart jumped. Surely it was Jack's! Dear old Jack had remembered her!

"Dear Lillian," she read, "may I hope that this remembrance of your birthday will prove that I have not forgotten you? I have been in town two days. I secured your address from C.'s Magazine and send these flowers to warn you that I am coming to invade your sanctum sanctorum and talk over old times. Always your friend, Jack Ainsworth."

She started up, scattering letters and manuscripts on the floor. "Lois," she said decidedly, "I want you to lay out my new morning gown, the sea green one with the train."

Sitting down at her dressing table, she began a careful toilet. Her thoughts were busy with the past. Jack had been her girlhood friend in the little inland town where they were both born and bred. Again she was twenty-four and he was twenty-six. Why had he never spoken? She knew he loved her, and perhaps she had loved him, too, then. But when her mother's death left her alone in the world she was seized with the desire to come to New York to try her fortune. Jack had advised against it, but a strange perversity made her deaf to his warnings.

At first they had kept up a correspondence. Soon even that link was broken as she was drawn more and more into the absorbing whirl of newspaper and magazine work. For five years no letters had passed between them. To be sure, she had heard of him indirectly—how he gradually forged ahead from clerk in the railroad office to manager of the whole system, and she had been glad for his sake.

And now, after all this time, they were to meet. She wondered what he would be like. Doubtless he had lost the fresh boyish beauty she so well remembered. He was past thirty now, she reflected with a sigh. Doubtless, too, his career as a man of affairs had made him brusque and cold. She had visions of bearded cheek and chin and perhaps glasses. Horrors! Had it really come to that? Well, she would live in the old days and pay no attention to externals.

When at last Lois announced that Mr. Ainsworth was in the drawing room she swept to her mirror and surveyed the graceful figure reflected there. Her gown of sea green fell in shimmering folds. Her hair was done beautifully, and some of the violets were clasped in the silver girdle at her waist. She could not fail to be satisfied.

This consciousness helped her to enter the drawing room with the perfect self possession of a woman of the world. With outstretched hand she greeted him as if they had parted but yesterday.

"Jack! How good of you to come to see me on my birthday and to send me these lovely flowers!" turning to a center table where the violets were displayed.

Jack Ainsworth gasped. Could this elegant woman, with her perfect hair and silvery voice, be his old friend?

"Lillian," he said, still grasping her hand, "is it really you?"

She smiled, and it was her old smile.

"Yes, Jack, it is I. You see, I am going the way of the world."

"Nonsense! You are perfect!" he cried vehemently.

She was no less charmed. There was no evidence of beard or glasses, though the boy had grown into the man—tall, athletic, clean shaven, with strong jaw and deep voice. His honest gray eyes feasted on her beauty. She flushed.

"Tell me what you have been doing all these years, Jack," she said finally.

"Oh, working hard and following your career!"

"Yes," she said, "you have done well for yourself, and I am proud of you. As for my career, it has not amounted to much."

"Lillian," Ainsworth said, leaning forward eagerly, "do you know that you have not written a line I have not read! You ceased to write to me, but I did not forget, dear."

Miss Treadwell had forgotten the rain and the unfeeling publisher.

"Tell me, Jack, what brings you to New York?" she asked.

"I have been elected vice president of the road and must live here," he replied.

"Then I suppose you will marry and keep up an establishment?" with a pretense of lightness.

"I don't know," he said dubiously. "There never was but one girl for me, and she—she has achieved fame. She would not think of giving up glory to become the wife of a railroad man."

A feeling long dead woke in the woman. "But she might be willing, Jack, if you asked her," she said almost wistfully. "She might gladly give up all her false glory to find real happiness."

"If I thought that," said Ainsworth breathlessly, "I'd ask her in a minute."

She thought of the novel, of the hack work, of the loneliness of her life which this friend of the past brought sharply before her.

"Jack," she said, "I've decided"—she paused, then went on rapidly, fingering the violets in her belt—"to give up literature for good."

Ainsworth started forward. "Do you really mean it, Lillian?"

"Yes, I do," she replied bravely.

"But why?" he inquired, doubting, puzzled.

She looked up at him, and he read it in her shining eyes.

He leaped forward and folded her in his arms, crushing the violets in his eagerness. "My darling!" was all he could say in trembling tones.

As for Miss Treadwell, with that embrace came the realization that woman was not made to live on mind alone.

"Lois," she called after a little, "bring me the manuscript of my novel!" She took it from the wondering maid and turned to Jack, with a radiant smile. "Come," she cried gayly—"come to my study fire and help me make dust and ashes of my literary pretensions."

Courtesy in Business.

The man who solicits your advertisement, the salesman who has samples to exhibit, the life insurance agent whose hair trigger tongue pleads eloquently for your family, even the seductive canvasser who tries to inveigle you into buying a history of the world in twenty-five volumes, can be listened to for a courteous minute or two and politely dismissed without seriously clogging the wheels of business. Perhaps they may really have something worth while to offer. Above all, the tellers and the cashiers of every bank needs course in the art of gracious expression. Why should the depositor of money be regarded with frowning suspicion and why should his mistake in indorsing checks wrong side up or his failure to have his books balanced regularly call forth shouts of correction instead of a few words of kindly instruction? After all, he is only ignorant or only forgetful. No dark scheme for defrauding the bank lurks behind his failure to follow the bank's rules. Courtesy is its own reward. It pays in personal satisfaction, in minimizing friction, in making friends and in raising you in the eyes of your business associates.—Scientific American.

Japanese Calendar.

Reference is frequently made to the floral calendar of Japan. What this calendar is is explained in the Housekeeper. The Japanese are extremely fond of all flowers, and they have therefore made a calendar from them, giving to each month a favorite blossom or leaf.

Thus the pine, the emblem of lasting prosperity and life, belongs to January, and its branches are used to decorate all houses on New Year's day.

To February belong the blossoms of the plum tree, which stand for purity, and the beautiful blossoms of the peach tree, to which young girls are compared, are associated with the month of March.

Next the cherry blossom, the most beloved of all flowers, is held to belong to April, and to May are assigned the gorgeous clusters of the wistaria vine.

The iris flower, to which are compared the strength and beauty of young boys, belongs to June, and July has the glory and perfume of the water lily. The flowering hibiscus tree attaches its beauty to the month of August, while September lays claim to the exquisite charm of the azalea.

The royal flower of Japan, the chrysanthemum, which forms a part of the crest of the imperial family, belongs to the month of October, while to November is given the maple leaf, admired for its decorative quality.

Finally, with December is associated the beautiful camellia, which blooms in the gardens even in the midst of snow.

A QUEER WOOING.

Whistler's Offhand Wedding and the Bride's Scant Trousseau.

Labouchere's claim that he brought about the marriage of Whistler is thus recorded in the "Life of Whistler:"

I believe I am responsible for Whistler's marriage to the widow of Mr. Godwin, the architect. She was a remarkably pretty woman and very agreeable, and both she and he were thorough bohemians. I was dining with them and some others one evening at Earl's Court. They were obviously greatly attracted to each other, and in a vague sort of way they thought of marrying. So I took the matter in hand to bring things to a practical point.

"Jimmy," I said, "will you marry Mrs. Godwin?"

"Certainly," he replied.

"Mrs. Godwin," I said, "will you marry Jimmy?"

"Certainly," she replied.

"When?" I asked.

"Oh, some day," said Whistler.

"That won't do," I said. "We must have a date."

So they both agreed that I should choose the day, what church to come to for the ceremony, provide the clergyman and give the bride away. I fixed an early date and got the then chaplain of the house of commons, the Rev. Mr. Byng, to perform the ceremony.

It took place a few days later.

After the ceremony was over we adjourned to Whistler's studio, where we had prepared a banquet. The banquet was on the table, but there were no chairs. So we sat on packing cases. The happy pair when I left had not quite decided whether they would go that evening to Paris or remain in the studio.

How unpractical they were was shown when I happened to meet the bride the day before the marriage in the street.

"Don't forget tomorrow," I said.

"No," she replied; "I am just going to get my trousseau."

"A little late for that, is it not?" I asked.

"No," she answered, "for I am only going to buy a new toothbrush and a new sponge, as one ought to have new ones when one marries."

Reading in Bed.

"Boys and girls under eighteen should be strictly forbidden to read in bed," says the Lancet, on the authority of Dr. Hugo Feilchenfeld of Berlin, who declares that in the case of young persons whose eyes are not fully developed the practice is likely to induce myopia. While young people run the greatest risk, the Lancet thinks that reading in bed is undesirable for persons of any age and states that "in the case of aged, anxious, worried and bedridden people, to whom it would seem cruelty to deny what may perhaps be almost their only luxury, for fear of inducing some slight error of refraction, care should be taken that the light is sufficiently brilliant, the eyes being shaded from it, and that the patient lies on his back with head and shoulders raised."

Seattle, Jan. 24 — "It will unquestionably be the most beautiful exposition ever held in the world, and the remarkable progress you have made so far ahead of the opening date amazes me," said Charles Dana Gibson, the creator of the "Gibson Girl," after a trip over the grounds where the West is building the Alaska Yukon Pacific Exposition, which will be held in Seattle from June 1 to October 16th, 1909.

Mr. Gibson stood at the head of the Cascade Court, the central decorative feature of the grounds. Straight in front of him, but eighty miles away Mount Rainier, the highest mountain peak in the United States, reared its head until its snow covered crest was lost in the white fleecy clouds that hovered around it. To the left the Cascades made a rugged outline against the sky, and to his right the Olympics rose to majestic heights from the shores of the Pacific Ocean. Away off to the North-west the Selkirks carry a sea of snow capped peaks to the distant horizon. In the distant foreground, through stately pine trees that have so far withstood the march of progress, Lake Washington glittered. It was a December morning, but Mr. Gibson and Norman E. Hapgood, editor of Collier's Weekly, who was with him, wore in their button holes roses they had plucked as they strolled over the exposition grounds.

The Government of Canada will have its building at the exposition completed and ready to receive exhibits by the latter part of April, thirty days in advance of the opening day. With the possible exception of the State of Washington, Canada will have the most complete display of agricultural and horticultural products exhibited at the 1909 Fair.

Recent advices received by the Exposition management from the Canadian Exposition Commissioner, states that the work of collecting and assembling the exhibit of the Government of Canada has been under way for several months, and it will be the most elaborate and comprehensive display ever undertaken by the Canadian Government at any exposition. In the exhibit particular attention is given to the agricultural resources of the country, and both British Columbia and Eastern Canada will be fully represented in the display.

In addition to the exhibit of the Canadian Government, the Canadian Pacific Railway will have a building and exhibit at the exposition.

As British Columbia is directly adjacent to the exposition, the exhibit from this section of Canada will furnish the larger portion of the exhibit. The mineral resources of British Columbia will be fully exploited and there will be exhibits of every known mineral found in this section.

Canada will also make a comprehensive display of its dairying, and will be a strong contender in the exposition live stock show. The exposition management has appropriated $100,000 for premiums in this department, and blooded stock from all parts of the United States and Canada will be shown. Already a number of the best known breeders of Canada have made applications to enter stock. The live stock show opens Sept. 27 and closes Oct. 20. This late date was arranged in order to allow two of the larger circuits to close in Seattle during the exposition.

MAKES ASTONISHING CURES

There is just one way to cure dyspepsia and stomach troubles, trivial or serious and that is to tone up or put energy into the stomach walls, so that they will be able to properly mix or churn the food.

Mi-o-na tablets quickly arouse the stomach from its inaction and in a short time it is able to do its work properly.

Harry Dodd, of Bridge street, Hastings, Ont., says: "For seven years I had suffered and spent much money doctoring, but all to no avail. I could eat but very little, as the food would ferment and sour, making gas, which caused serious heart depression. I was in constant misery, sour gas would belch from my stomach, I was languid and weak and had no ambition. I did not feel like going anywhere or seeing anyone. There was a constant dull pain in the pit of the stomach. I was unable to sleep, was nervous, restless and would awake more tired than on going to bed. I tried Mi-o-na and soon found relief, and in less than six weeks Mi-o-na had completely cured me.

Wm. Madill, the druggist, sells Mi-o-na tablets at 50 cents a large box, under a rigid guarantee to do all that is claimed for them or money back.

The Senate's Hole in the Wall.

When the nineteenth century was as yet only half grown, senators applied customarily for their toddies at the so called Hole in the Wall, a small circular room just off the postoffice of the upper house. The latter body then occupied what is now the chamber of the supreme court, and the postoffice was across the main corridor of the building on the same floor. When a wearer of the toga found himself in need of a "snifter" he had only to cross over to the mails department and pass through it to the little circular room aforesaid, which was about the size of a pantry. The Hole in the Wall was the first senate restaurant, and the bill of fare for edibles was short, though to the point. There was ham, guaranteed to have been smoked for six months, a veritable sublimation of the pork product; there were corned beef and bread and cheese, but very little else. They served, however, as an accompaniment for the fluids, and when the Hole was crowded, as was often the case, senators ate their sandwiches outside, in the postoffice.—Washington Post.

The Cold Iron Duke.

There are two characteristic stories of the great Duke of Wellington's cold nature to be found in the recollections of Lionel Tollemache, newly come from the press. When one of the duke's sons was ordered abroad with his regiment he was naturally affected at the parting with his father because he might never see him again. Not so the Spartan parent. "On his making the announcement, the duke, who had been reading, damped the son's emotion by saying shortly, 'Good-bye, Charlie, good-bye'; and, taking a last look before leaving the room, the son was mortified to see that the father appeared to be as intent on his reading as ever." The second anecdote concerns a naval officer, a near connection of the duke. His ship was lost and he was drowned; but all Wellington said when the news was brought to him was, "That's the second ship he has lost."

His Mother-in-law Won.

By one of those queer marriage settlements sometimes made in England a young man agreed to pay his wife's mother $100 on the first day of each year. He settled in Canada, and when he came to make the remittance he deducted the amount of the postage and sent her only $99.84. The mother-in-law insisted that she must have the other 16 cents, and after they had quarreled by mail about it for a month or two she had her attorneys bring suit against him in the Ontario courts. She made him pay, too, and stuck him for the cost of the action, though she was obliged to fee her own lawyers. The total expenses of this sixteen cent lawsuit were said to be exactly $612, most of which fell upon the economical son-in-law.

A Good Qualification.

The mystery of the negro mind is illustrated by a story which the Philadelphia Record prints. John, the colored applicant for the position of butler in a family living in one of the fashionable suburbs of Philadelphia, strove to impress his would be employer with his entire fitness for the place.

"Oh, yes, suh," he said, "I'a sholy well educated, suh. I's passed a civil service examination."

"Indeed," responded the gentleman, "that is very fine, I'm sure, but I can't say that that will be of any particular value to me in a butler."

"No?" said the surprised applicant. "It shose is strange how gemmen's tastes do differ. Now, Mr. Williams," naming his former employer, "he say, 'John, one thing I deman' in civil service to mah guests,' an' he done gave me a xamination ri' there, suh, an' that's the truf."

Then the gentleman saw a great light. He replied:

"Yes, you are quite right, John. Civil service is a very important and rather unusual virtue, so if you have passed that examination I think we'll consider you engaged."

A Mogul Hero.

Here is a little vignette of Babar, the first of the great moguls. At eleven he succeeded to his kingdom of Ferghana. His father was accidentally killed, and "I," says the boy, "immediately mounted in great haste and, taking such followers as were at hand, set out to secure my throne." He succeeded in holding it, nearly lost it by trusting a traitor who was "the best player at leapfrog he had ever seen" and actually lost it by grasping at the possession of Samarkand. Then came two years of wandering. Then he got Ferghana again and lost it a second time by trying to make his Mongol soldiers restore their loot to the peasantry. And all this before he was seventeen! Thirty-two years later he died, the last scene being the most striking of all. His darling son Humayun was desperately ill. Only some great sacrifice could save him, said the doctor. He entered the chamber, walked round the bed three times, saying, "On me be thy suffering," and a few days afterward died.—London Spectator.

The Dogskin Wouldn't Go Round.

Hungary swarms with barristers. It is the greatest ambition of the Hungarian peasant to make one of his sons an advocate.

The son of a small farmer in the neighborhood of Budapest was sent by his father to the law school of that town, but either from lack of parts or the necessary application he was plucked in the qualifying examination.

Not daring to return to the paternal abode empty handed after all the money that had been spent on his education, he conceived and executed the plan of forging a legal diploma. The father was not, however, so ignorant as not to be aware that such diplomas are always written on parchment—kutya-ber (dogskin)—in Hungary.

"Why is your certificate not made out on kutya-ber?" asked the old man.

"The fact is, father," coolly replied the youth, "there are more barristers than dogs in Hungary, and so there is not enough kutya-ber to make diplomas for us all."—London Answers.

Gam's Dry Humor.

When the gallant Welsh captain David Gam was sent forward by Henry V. to reconnoiter the French army before the battle of Agincourt he found that the enemy outnumbered the English by about five to one. His report to the king is historic:

"There are enough to be killed, enough to be taken prisoners and enough to run away."

This quaint forecast of the result of the battle at once spread through the camp, and doubtless every yeoman archer of the valiant company felt an inch taller. We know that it was almost literally justified by the event. Poor Gam's dry humor was equaled by his courage. He was killed while in the act of saving the life of his prince.—London Standard.

A Savings Bank account is the best safeguard against misfortune, being always ready and available, and earning interest all the time.

FIGHT IN THIS CITY

As Far as the Number of Licenses is Concerned Peterborough is Most Important in Local Option Campaign.

THE BY-LAW TO BE TRIED.

Examiner Special

Toronto, Jan. 23. — Peterborough will be the chief battle ground of this year's local option campaign, at least so far as the number of licenses involved is concerned. If the by-law should carry in the seven towns and cities where a contest has already been definitely decided upon, no less than eighty-five licenses will be cut off. Only fifty-five bars were doomed in the twenty-two municipalities where local option carried on January 4th of this year, many of these places being townships with few licenses.

Municipality.	Licenses.
Peterborough	23
Brantford	20
Cobourg	12
Collingwood	10
Port Hope	9
Picton	7
Brampton	4
Total	85

In all these places a contest was planned last year, but had to be dropped for various reasons. In Brantford, for instance, the by-law was blocked by the council. Now a temperance council has been elected. Two of the licenses at Cobourg are summer licenses.

WRITER STATES THAT MIDNIGHT RATS ARE SEEN BY REVELLERS

The Examiner has received a picture post card inscribed with a reference to the "rat" article in yesterday's issue. The picture is particularly appropriate and illustrates the case well. It represents "Left at the Post." A man that had been out on a jollification had reached the meandering stage, and was leaning against a lamp post. His clothes are all awry, cuffs, overcoat sleeves watch pendant from his vest, collar held by the back button, in other words a drunk. His cane is on the ground and nearby is a dead rat. On the reverse side the following lines are written—

To the Editor of the Examiner,—

Dear Sir—It might be remarked that local option would be a good thing for those people who see rats on George street between the hours of 12 and 1 o'clock. I, myself, have not met a rat or mouse on George street since I quit drinking.

Yours, etc.,

ACTION FOR DAMAGES AMOUNTING TO $60.00 WAS DISMISSED

The aftermath of an affair in the long swamp this side of Bridgenorth was heard in Division Court yesterday. The plaintiff, Beattie, claimed $60.00 damages from young Nicholls, the other party in the case. Judgment was given in favour of the defendant, whose counsel, Mr. R Ruddy, pleaded that the hearing in the criminal court was final and was upheld.

HIT BY A SWITCH BOARD LOCAL YOUNG MAN WAS BADLY HURT EN ROUTE FOR MATCH AT LINDSAY

John Wise Was Leaning From the Train Near Omemee When the Accident Happened—Head Was Cut.

SEVEN STITCHES NEEDED.

John Wise, son of Mr. Frank Wise, superintendent of the Little Lake Cemetery, was the victim of a very painful accident on Thursday night, while on his way to Lindsay to see the Intermediate O. H. A. game between Peterborough and the Scugog team. He left with the Peterborough team on the 5.30 G. T. R. train, and as the train was nearing Omemee he went on the platform ready to descend to the station as soon as it was reached. He was leaning out from the car to look ahead, when his head came in contact with a switch board, force of the blow sweeping him off the steps and he fell heavily to the ground beside the train. A very nasty cut was inflicted over the right eye by the blow and the wound bled profusely. He managed to climb on to the rear platform of the train there and remained there until the train reached Lindsay, when he went to the office of Dr. Brown and had the injury attended to. It was found necessary to use seven stitches in closing up the gash.

In the meantime his friends had gotten off at Omemee to look for him and missed the train, having to wait at that point for the special which came along about 7.30 o'clock.

THE WELCOME RAIN

The abundant rain that accompanied this year's January thaw was its most beneficent feature and is of untold benefit in relieving to a large extent, the water famine which has long prevailed. The rainfall of the last two days amounts to two and a half inches and will go far towards filling the streams that feed our sources of water power and remove the uncertain supply of motive force for our factories, which have been somewhat inconvenienced by scarcity of power, naturally incident to only one inch of rainfall since last June—two and one half times less in seven months than we have had in the last two days.

FORMER PETERBOROUGH MAN WAS BADLY HURT IN A RUNAWAY ACCIDENT

Examiner Special.

Havelock, Jan. 21. — Frank Coon, formerly of Peterborough, now of Havelock, got badly shaken up today by a runaway accident. He had been to the planing mill for some lumber, when the shafts of the one-horse sleigh became unfastened. The horse ran away taking Mr. Coon and the sleigh with him, and collided with a load of wood on the road throwing Frank off. He received a nasty cut under the eye, besides other bruises.

CHIEF ROSZEL AND LAWYER GORDON ENGAGE IN A TILT OF WORDS IN COURT

Chief Roszel and Mr. G. N. Gordon had a little wordy tilt at the police court this morning, causing a ripple of laughter from the ever-punctual regulars at the Chief's morning receptions. The cross fire arose out of the fact that Mark Pengelly, who was charged with stealing 6 chickens from Margaret Hurd did not plead nor elect, and the prosecution were not prepared to proceed with the case. Chief Roszel wanted a week's remand and Lawyer Gordon who appeared for the accused, raised an objection.

"It is simply an abuse, the way the Chief asks for enlargements of a week at a time."

Magistrate Dumble interjected with very likely a double meaning, "Yes, this court is abominably run."

Mr. Gordon stated that he did not think his client could get bail and it certainly was not fair to lodge a man in gaol for a week until the prosecution were ready.

"He will come out far better looking than he is now; it will do him good," the Magistrate remarked.

Chief Roszel explained that he had to go back 18 months to another chicken stealing affair.

"Well, it's pretty slow going if it takes you 18 months to work up a case," was Mr. Gordon's parting shot, and Pengelly waits the week.

HEAVY FINE IMPOSED ON YOUNG MAN WHO STARTED FRACAS IN RAILWAY COACH

Fined $20 and costs, amounting in all to $28.45, a young man paid rather dearly for his interfering with Conductor Johbitt on Thursday night, returning from the hockey match in Lindsay. G. T. R. Detective W. E. Scott, who was in the car at the time, gave rather damaging evidence, showing that the accused had interfered and generally made a nuisance of himself in the coach.

"When a man makes himself drunk and plays the fool he must pay the shot." No other evidence was taken.

THE MASTER PAINTERS OF CANADA MAY HOLD ANNUAL CONVENTION IN THIS CITY

At a special meeting of the Master Painters' Association of Peterborough held on Thursday evening, in the hall on Simcoe street, it was decided to endeavour to have the next annual convention of the Master Painters of Canada, which meets in July of this year, held in Peterborough. The association has a big membership and some 300 or 400 delegates would be present for the convention, so that it will be recognized that their coming to Peterborough would be very beneficial to the city. At the meeting it was decided to write to the executive in regard to the matter, and also to send a deputation to Hamilton to the meeting of the executive which will be held in Hamilton on January 28th, when the question of where the convention will be held will be decided.

Mr. E. V. Hobs, of Toronto, was present and gave the members a practical demonstration of analysing lead and colours. His remarks were interesting and instructive and were listened to with close attention.

CASE IN DIVISION COURT

Wilbert Barcroft paid $35.00 to a barber in the city to learn the business. Judge Weller gave judgment in his favour, the barber having to return the money to his would-be apprentice.

JUNIORS TO PLAY GAME IN OSHAWA

Local O. H. A. Youngsters Have Still a Chance to Win the Round.

The Peterborough Junior O. H. A. team will journey to Oshawa on Monday afternoon and expect to beat the homesters although they realize that Oshawa are liable to prove an awkward proposition on their own ice. The Petes are by no means out of the running yet as by winning their next three games they will be in a three cornered tie with Port Hope and Cobourg. The local kids are in good shape and count on a victory on Monday.

JUDGMENT AWARDED TO ROBT. SMITH FOR WORK ON THE SEWER FROM SCHOOL TO ROMAINE ST.

Counsel for Defence Says a Few Things Against the Board of Education on Their Pressing the Work.

CONTRACT WAS SUBLET.

At the Revision Court sittings yesterday Robert Smith was awarded his claim against McGregor and Reid for work done on the line of sewer between the King Edward School and the now famous Romaine street bungle. The Board of Education had let the contract to McGregor and Reid, and they in turn sublet it to Mr. Smith. Afterwards there was some repacking to be done and Mr. Smith finished this. The Board later had a manhole built at the junction of the branch sewer and that on the street. There was still a leakage and no payment was made McGregor and Reid for the repacking, and in turn Mr. Smith did not get his wages. However, the Judge awarded him his claim and it was intimated that McGregor and Reid should also have collected their money from the Board. Mr. R. F. McWilliams, who represented the plaintiff, scored the manner in which the Board of Education had passed forward the erection of the sewer. There was rapid cross fire between Mr. McWilliams and Mr. D. W. Dumble, who indirectly defended the Board of Education. The former stated the building had been built too low and without levels for the engineer, with the result that a proper floor could not be obtained when sewer on street was was laid. Considerable interest was manifested in the case.

SIMPSON TO MEET HAYES.

In a letter to Joe Hay, Tom Eck states that Fred Simpson will likely meet Johnny Hayes in Newark over the Marathon distance in three weeks. Simpson is coming along in grand style. He did 10 miles in 58 mins. a few days ago against a strong wind over an icy board walk and was not exerting himself. Eck states that he expects Simpson to be yet a good beater. He is running an exhibition 5 or 6 miles to-night in Newark as a preliminary to the relay race in which Longboat meets Spring and Hallen.

BULLETINS OF THE RACE IN NEW YORK

Will be Received at the Big Lindsay-Peterborough Hockey Game.

One of the features in connection with the Lindsay-Peterborough hockey match here on Tuesday night will be the fact that bulletins of the great Marathon race in New York between Tom Longboat and Alfie Shrubb will be received at the rink and will be announced to the crowd. Arrangements are being made for a complete list in service direct from New York and the crowd will be kept informed of the progress of the race which is causing so much excitement in the world of athletics.

AMUSING INCIDENT IN WHICH LOCAL VOCALIST FIGURED PROMINENTLY

The Toronto Saturday Night says of Miss Helen Davies, of Peterborough:

An amusing incident occurred at the first concert of the National Chorus on Monday evening last. After the singing of Miss Helen Davies in Bridge's "The Flag of England," an usher rushed down the aisle with a large bunch of American Beauty roses. Miss Davies, who was threading her way out through the orchestra, did not see him, nor did Dr. Albert Ham, who was leading her off the stage. The audience gave her a recall, but the usher who had stationed himself beside the organ, absolutely concealed from her by the musicians on the platform, refused to make a move. Some of the players tried to solve the situation, but as they were mostly foreigners they failed to make themselves understood. The audience saw the situation and recalled the singer again without succeeding in budging the usher from his post, where he held the bouquet aloft.

Finally the situation got too much for the nerves of Mr. Frank Morley, secretary of the Board of Trade and one of the founders of the National Chorus. Speeding down the aisle with the swift glide of a panther, he ordered the youth to go and give the bouquet to Miss Davies the next time she came out.

The usher obeyed, but in a grudging way, for he remarked: "Well, she's supposed to come over here where I am."

THE TIT-BIT OF THE HOCKEY SEASON WILL BE LINDSAY-PETERBORO GAME

The tit bit of the local hockey season will be dished out to the fans on Tuesday night when the Lindsay Midgets will be here to do battle with the Petes. A victory for the visitors will give them the championship of the group, as that they can be depended upon to put up the hardest kind of a battle while on the other hand Peterborough must win to keep in the running, and it is certain that the locals will play the game of their career knowing what depends upon the result.

The weather man is expected to provide keen ice for the game as the present brand of late soft stuff is not expected to last until Tuesday night. Lindsay claim to be at their best with the going good while it is certain that the Petes do not relish ice as it was served in Lindsay on Thursday night. Both teams are in the best of shape and it will be a battle royal with one of the biggest crowds in years to cheer the teams along. Lindsay will be down with a big bunch of noise producers on a special G T R train and there will be enough excitement crammed into two hours to last the season out.

NEW HOME IS NEEDED

Inspector in His Report on Protestant Home Does Not Think Any More Should be Expended on Building.

THE COUNCIL SHOULD HELP.

The government inspector who recently visited the Protestant Home, has the following report of the conditions there:

On inspection the beds and bedding, halls, dormitories, closets and drainage were found satisfactory. The ventilation is not good and can never be made good in a building so poorly adapted for the purpose of a Home. The building is old and one upon which it would not be prudent to make any expenditure for much improvement.

The old people at this Home are carefully looked after and the management is excellent, those in charge being evidently faithful and kind in looking after those committed to their care. All the inmates seemed cheerful and contented.

An effort should be made during the current year to provide a new building for this Home.

The city of Peterborough should come to the assistance of the Board with a liberal grant, for at present there are several old men in the county gaol who should be provided for elsewhere.

It is understood that the management of the Home is very anxious to see a new building erected. The Home has an endowment of $22,000 as a result of the generosity of the late Mrs. Nicholls, which would be sufficient to maintain the building while there would be no expense in securing a site, as the property upon which the present Home is situated is owned by the Board.

THE ELECTRIC CAR LINE FROM COBOURG TO PETERBOROUGH MAY FOLLOW THE ROUTE OF THE OLD RAILWAY FROM THE LAKE FRONT

The proposed electric railway from Cobourg to the Kawartha Lakes through Peterborough, a charter for the carrying out of which has recently been applied for to the Legislature has aroused much interest in this city and the scheme is being eagerly discussed by the citizens who realize the importance of the project and the benefits that would accrue to Peterborough from its completion.

A number of well known local gentlemen in discussing the proposition hit upon a plan that on its face looks entirely feasible and which it is said could be carried out without difficulty. The suggestion is that the road bed of the old Cobourg-Peterborough railroad, which formerly ran from the Lakeshore port to this city, crossing Rice Lake on a bridge between Harwood and Hiawatha, and running through the township of Otonabee to Peterborough be used. It was pointed out that the adopting of this plan would provide a road bed for the line at a small cost as no levelling or grading would have to be done, as in the case of employing another route. The road bed of the old line still survives and it is said would require very little work upon it to make it suitable for the purposes of an electric road.

Of course the bridge across Rice Lake is long since gone, only the piers remaining to show where it once stood, but the difficulty of the passage from Hiawatha to Harwood could be overcome by the use of a ferry between the two points which could either carry the electric cars across or else bring the passengers from one side to the other. By adopting this scheme the cost of extending the line around the end of Rice Lake and through Bewdley, running across the townships of North and South Monaghan to Peterborough would be done away with.

The benefits that would result from the building of the line from Cobourg to Peterborough can easily be seen. It would put Rice Lake on a firm footing as a summer resort, not only from a Peterborough point of view, but for tourists as well. With a trolley line reaching the lake from Cobourg and Peterborough it would make the trip there much more comfortable and convenient. Eastern states people could come to Cobourg by steamer and be at Rice Lake a few minutes after on the trolley line, whereas now they have to drive the distance, making it very inconvenient.

For Peterborough people it would make Rice Lake much more easy of access than it is at present. Business men could send their families there for the summer and spend the week end with them conveniently, being able to reach the city in plenty of time for business, by using the electric cars.

It would also result in a larger number of people from the Rice Lake district coming to Peterborough to do their business and in this way the city would benefit.

The new road, if gone ahead with, should prove a most profitable investment.

CANADA AND PARLIAMENT.

The work of the Parliament of the Dominion began at Ottawa on Thursday. While minor matters and matters of detail should receive adequate attention, from the nature of things, it is evident that the scope of parliamentary action has a wider range. There is no room for the "little Canadian" spirit, nor the "Little Canadian," by which is meant the man, public or private, who has no faith in the future, or intelligent knowledge of the resources and capabilities, of Canada.

The philosophers enjoin upon us the duty of knowing ourselves; that should include our country or we are unfortunately ignorant, and cannot appreciate our responsibility as citizens towards it. In no vain glorious, but in a truly grateful and solemn spirit should we learn and speak of the extent and greatness of its resources.

It will be information to many Canadians, that this country is greater in area than the United States, by about 178,000 square miles, with only one-twelfth of the population; that Canada is larger than thirty United Kingdoms with only one-seventh of the population; that Canada is almost as large as Europe and twice as large as British India; that this Dominion is one-third the area of the British Empire and yet half this area has not been partitioned into provinces. Only one-quarter is occupied less than one-twelfth is under cultivation, and one-third is unexplored. One can travel, every foot on Canadian soil—from Vancouver to Halifax—a distance greater than the breadth of the Atlantic from Halifax to Liverpool. These facts which should be known to every school boy should be known to those who decry the country and throw discouragement upon enterprises aiming at its development.

To estimate and encourage ourselves in aiming to achieve the possibilities of the future, a knowledge of what our achievements have been will not be without its help.

To go back only twenty years. Then our total revenue was only $36,000,000, our expenditure slightly more, our net debt was $234,000,000, and Canadian credit good. Our total trade was only $200,000,000 a year, The Canadian Pacific, which has since built up a new Dominion in the West, was still in the stage of struggle, the Transcontinental was undreamed of, and our total production of minerals was only $2,000,000.

What has been done is shown in part by the fact that last year Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta produced grain crops totalling 233,000,000 bushels and contained over three million horses, cattle and sheep. The minerals produced in Canada last year showed a growth in value from $2,000,000, twenty years ago, to $86,000,000. Last year our total trade was $650,000,000, the total revenue was $96,000,000, with a surplus of $19,500,000 and the total debt approximately $290,000,000.

In expansion of this encouraging comparison it may be mentioned that twenty years ago with one-third less revenue, with no Saskatchewan or Alberta, with merely a nominal western grain crop and production of minerals, with development practically at a stand-still, the net debt of Canada was $234,000,000. This year, after adding to the wealth producing area of Canada, two provinces, each larger than France or Germany, and double the size of Great Britain, and yielding 200,000,000 bushels of grain; with a revenue of $96,000,000, a total trade three times greater, with the assets of Canada practically doubled, with its machinery of development vastly improved, the total debt in twenty years from 1888, is only $290,000,000 or an increase of $50,000,000. The debt increased on an average of two and one-half millions a year, while the revenue showed an average increase of three millions per year.

And what we have done is merely a beginning. We are only nicely started on the path of progress. With a great improvement in our transportation facilities, with a vast western expanse awaiting profitable exploitation, with Northern Ontario and Quebec made contributaries to the national total of wealth, with a thousand miles of the Transcontinental railway completed and the remaining 2,800 miles well under way, we can see great things in the future. Besides the areas of North-west crop lands tributary to the Transcontinental, we have 150,000,000 acres yet to be opened. To open up these, to make them factors in the trade and commence and wealth production of the Dominion is work for four statesman, in which every citizen can give sympathetic support. What Canadians must learn, publicists as well as public, is to hold an abiding faith in the future of the country, and each do his share in meeting the requirements of patriotic statesmanship and patriotic citizenship.

If in this spirit Parliament enters upon, and discharges, its duties, the coming session will add its share to the legislation whose trend is to bring about the realization of the great future which lies before the Dominion of Canada.

In figures $300,000,000 of a public debt is formidable, but not in relation to the almost unbounded resources of the country and natural potential wealth. A capable financier could take a block of the land brought into market by the building of the Grand Trunk Pacific and so manage it as to pay off Canada's national debt.

A PROSPEROUS YEAR.

The annual report to the Directors of the Toronto Savings and Loan Company, presented at the annual meeting, yesterday, and printed in this issue, reveals results of a very successful year's operations. The net earnings of the year after payment of debenture interest and management expenses amounted to $96,583.81. Adding last year's balance of profit and loss of $35,725.18 makes a total of $132,308.99 available for distribution. This was apportioned to the payment of four quarterly dividends, at the rate of 6 per cent. per annum, and, a very satisfactory feature, the payment of a two per cent. bonus upon the $1,000,000 of paid up capital, amounting to $20,000. The Reserve Fund was also strengthened by the addition of $30,000 bringing this fund up to the satisfactory total of $650,000, equal to 65 per cent. of the paid up capital stock of $1,000,000. These distributions left $22,308.99 to be placed at the credit of Profit and Loss. General prosperity has marked the operations of the year; payments on the company's investments have been satisfactorily met and rentals have been properly paid. The general results are of an all round gratifying character and reflect credit upon the efficiency of the local management.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The Manitoba Legislature is called to meet on February 4th.

The Public Accounts inform us that the amount expended last fiscal year on capital account upon the Trent Canal was $343,176.05.

The revenue from hydraulic rentals collected in Peterborough last fiscal year and deposited to the credit of the Receiver-General was $2,701.04.

Last year the Royal Mint of Canada, made a profit of $284,228 upon its silver coinage, and $4,111 on its copper coinage, a total of $288,339. At this rate it will not take the mint long to pay for itself; the public accounts stating that the expenditure upon it last year was $219,899.84.

Hon. Mr. Foster evidently intends continuing his verbose contribution to the bulky ponderosity of Hansard. The first day of Parliament, out of seventy-eight notices of motion and questions, thirty-three stand in Mr. Foster's name.

Hon. Mr. Foster evidently sees his chances for holding down the Finance Minister's place on the Treasury benches, still far away. He gives notice of an intention to advocate a larger participation of Canada in the defence of the Empire, presumably by helping build navies and maintain armies—maintaining a larger share of the burden of Imperial defence. This is all very nice as sentiment, but evidently Mr. Foster feels he is not responsible for making ends meet; not perhaps that that would make very much difference; Mr. Foster has never been very careful on that score, or if he were he concealed his solicitude very successfully in scoring a beautiful record of deficits.

GOWGANDA

Cobalt special leaving Toronto 10.15 p. m., daily, makes direct connection with stages reaching Elk Lake next afternoon. Full information from W. Burton, G. P. & T. A. fdlf

WANTS FAMILY SEAT.

Sir Edward Gordon Johnston Taking Steps to Acquire His Estate.

The report is current that steps are being taken by Sir Edward Gordon Johnson and some friends, who are acting in his interests in the matter to acquire the old Johnson family manor house and grounds at Rougemont, near Chambly, Quebec, as a family residence.

The manor has historical and other associations which impart an interest to it that few buildings around Montreal possess. For generations it represented all that was left of the vast estates that were owned by the first Sir Wm. Johnson chiefly on the Mohawk River in New York State. The great domains that Sir William owned were confiscated by the United States Government at the close of the war of the American Revolution as a punishment for his loyalty to the British crown.

The Canadian patrimony was never great as compared with the huge Mohawk crown possessions, but it with the house that stood where the end of the Bonsecour market now is, once formed the city residence of the succeeding baronet, was the remnant that remained with the family of wealth that had it passed on intact with the title would probably have equalled even that of Rockefeller.

Sir Edward, who is still a clerk in the office of the auditor of agencies of the C.P.R., and looking as bright and cheerful as if he possessed all the millions that his ancestor might have had if he had taken the other side in the war, said recently, he was not yet in a position to state what action is being taken with a view to the recovery of the estate which the last baronet allowed to pass out of his hands; but he hopes the efforts now being made in that direction will be successful. A number of the family relics, including pictures and silver are in the Chateau Ramsey.

NO HURRY-UP WAGON.

It is a remarkable fact that Winnipeg, now a city of over a hundred thousand people, has not a single police patrol wagon. When a drunken or disorderly person is arrested on the streets of the western metropolis, the policeman simply grabs the man and drags and hustles him along to the "coop," leaving his own beat unguarded in the meantime. One has only to recall some of the stirring arrests made in by-gone days in one's little old home village to realize the excitement of such a scene. The Winnipeg newspapers, however, say that the people there are disgusted with the degrading spectacle of helplessly intoxicated people being hauled along the sidewalks of the city, and an agitation is on foot for the inauguration of an urban police system.

This is an excellent illustration of the fact that the west is growing so rapidly in a physical sense that conventional clothing can't be made fast enough to fit it from day to day. But the west needn't worry about that. As long as its sturdy growth continues—and nothing can stop it—it will have all the essentials of civilization, even if it has to do without a few of the frills for a while.

A MOTHER'S AID IN THE NURSERY.

Every mother should be able to treat the minor ailments of her little ones. Prompt action may prevent serious illness—perhaps save a child's life. A simple remedy always at hand is therefore an absolute necessity, and there is nothing else so good as Baby's Own Tablets. These Tablets promptly cure all stomach and bowel troubles, break up colds, cure simple fevers, expel worms and make teething easy. Good for the new born baby or the well grown child, and guaranteed to contain no opiate. Mr. L. W. Smith, St. Giles, Que., says: "I have used Baby's Own Tablets for constipation and other ills of childhood, and find them the best medicine I have ever given my little ones." Sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Wanted to Match Him.

An Englishwoman temporarily residing in Toronto assured the writer that such a thing as a debt on a church is unknown in England. He is not one of the sort who easily "rests assured," and has since learned from another Englishwoman, whose acquaintance with churches is probably more intimate, that upon the parish church which she attended in Lancashire, a debt, dating from the time of Oliver Cromwell, was only recently paid in full. Travelers' tales of the marvellous are more interesting when the narrator's imagination, rather than his innocence, is brought into play.

This recalls the story of a Canadian lawyer, who, while in England, consulted a celebrated specialist with the object of relieving the anxiety of his friends at home.

Having inquired the amount of the doctor's fee, he placed the gold coin on his palm, covered it with the other hand, and invited the physician to match him.

"But, I don't understand," gravely replied Sir Andrew, perhaps beginning to suspect that he had overlooked some symptom in the case.

"Oh, we always do that in Canada. Doubles or quits, you know. We'll match to see if you get two guineas or none."

No doubt Sir Andrew made a note of this extraordinary colonial custom, but he didn't choose to speculate.

Not the Line, but "Central."

Minnie—You've got your nerve to say "busy" to so many folks instead of trying to get the number they want for 'em.

Grayce—It ain't no lie, though. Most of the time I am busy when I say that.—Kansas City Times.

BLACK KNIGHT

is a revelation to housekeepers. Nothing like it has ever been made before.

It means less work, because it does not get dull or brown, and is so easily applied.

It means less work, too, because just a few rubs bring a bright, brilliant polish that always looks fresh and clean.

If your dealer does not handle "Black Knight" send his name and 10c for full sized can. 7A

Toronto Savings and Loan Company

ANNUAL GENERAL MEETING

The Annual General Meeting of the Shareholders of the Toronto Savings and Loan Company was held at the Head Office of the Company, No. 437 George Street, Peterborough, on Friday the 22nd day of January, 1909, at two o'clock p.m.

DIRECTORS' REPORT

The Directors submit herewith their Twenty-fourth Annual Report, showing the result of the business for the past year, accompanied by the Balance Sheet to the 31st December 1908.

The Gross Earnings for the year amounted to $191,579 61, and after the payment of Interest on Deposits and Debentures, and all expenses of management, there remained a Net Profit of $96,583.81. To this amount has been added $35,725.18, the balance carried forward from last year, which makes a total sum for distribution of $132,308.99.

This amount has been disposed of in the following manner:

(1) By payment of four Quarterly Dividends of 1½% each, equal to 6% for the year, amounting to	$60,000.00
(2) By Bonus of 2% for the year on $1,000,000 Paid-Up Capital	20,000.00
(3) By Addition to the Reserve Fund	30,000.00
(4) By Amount carried forward to Profit and Loss Account	22,308.99

The above addition to the Reserve Fund increases that account to $650,000.00, making it now 65% of the present Paid-up Capital of $1,000,000.00.

All payments maturing during the year on the Company's investments have been satisfactorily met, and the rentals from the property owned by the Company have also been promptly paid. The books, accounts and securities of the Company have been carefully examined by the auditors and their Report is attached to the Financial Statement.

W. G. MORROW,
Managing Director

The usual resolutions were passed, after which the following gentlemen were elected Directors for the ensuing year:—

PRESIDENT:
HON. GEO. A. COX

VICE-PRESIDENTS:
W. G. MORROW, Esq., and RICHARD HALL, Esq.

DIRECTORS

F. W. MORSE TENDERS HIS RESIGNATION

Vice-President of G.T.P. Suddenly Leaves the Road.

NEWS CAUSES SENSATION

Charles M. Hays Says There Was No Friction Between Him and General Manager, But Enmity of Contractors May Have Forced the Move —Leaves For Trip In Mediterranean—Dramatic Departure.

Montreal, Jan. 23.—The Dominion Government, having absolutely declined to trust any longer with F. W. Morse, vice-president and general manager of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, that gentleman has placed his resignation at the disposition of the board of directors, who will consider, and, no doubt, accept the same without delay, while Mr. Morse has sailed for the Mediterranean.

Although he left New York Thursday, the resignation was not known generally in the city before five o'clock yesterday afternoon, yet so sudden a move on the part of so well-known a railway man did not fail to create almost a sensation in railway circles.

Charles M. Hays, president of the Grand Trunk Pacific, gave out a statement last evening to the effect that there was no friction between the president and vice-president, and that he regretted the departure of Mr. Morse, and that the work of the general manager would be always considered as a tribute to his ability and knowledge as a railway man.

It is quite probable that several things contributed to create this misunderstanding. In the first place, every contractor in the country was an open enemy of Morse, and again the supporters of the Ministry were being generally rubbed down the wrong way by him. It was stated many times that Mr. Morse was too partial to American contractors.

The manner of his departure was exceedingly dramatic. Yesterday afternoon, about five o'clock letters written on board the train between Montreal and New York were delivered to a number of friends in this city, saying that Mr. Morse had resigned, and that he would explain his position at a later date. J. W. Stewart, the G.T.P. contractor on the first 100 miles east of Prince Rupert saw Mr. Morse in New York last Thursday, and although he told him that he was sailing for the south of Europe. Mr. Stewart was the last to believe that Mr. Morse had really vacated his position.

Governments Can Charge Libel.

London, Jan. 23.—The British Law Journal, discussing the action brought in the United States against certain newspapers for the publication of alleged libelous matter in connection with the purchase of the Panama Canal from the French company, says that there is ample justification and precedent for proceedings for libel by or on behalf of a Government. The paper finds basis for this action in the common law and cites a number of precedents in 1905.

Cheap Theatres a Menace.

Montreal, Jan. 23.—The Montreal fire department has opened a strenuous campaign against the local picture houses, of which there are some sixty odd. Most of these shows are carried on in ordinary store rooms, where there are no precautions against fire. The fire captains, in inspecting the places, have found the back doors in many cases nailed up, and in other cases blocked with snow.

Zeppelin's New Airship.

Friedrichshafen, Jan. 23.—Count Zeppelin is building another airship which will bear the name of Zeppelin II., which he expects to be finished by the end of March.

Heretofore the gas has been discharged within the cigar-shaped covering, but with the new airship tubes will reach upward discharging it into the open air, thus preventing danger of explosion.

Chinese Students For 'Varsity.

Toronto, Jan. 23.—Through the British authorities in China, a proposal has reached the authorities of 'Varsity here that a limited number of Chinese students should attend 'Varsity.

It is proposed that 'Varsity should grant the Chinamen scholarships, or, at least, a reduction in the fees.

Chinese now attend United States universities.

Montreal Graduate Made Rector.

Washington, D.C., Jan. 23.—Thos. J. Shahan of Hartford, Conn., it is stated in well-informed circles, has been selected to succeed Bishop Dennis J. O'Connell as rector of the Catholic University of America.

He was born in Manchester, N.H., in 1857 and graduated from Montreal College, Canada, and studied also in the American College in Rome.

Texas Woman Freed of Murder.

Wichita Falls, Texas, Jan. 23.—After six hours, the jury in the case of Mrs. Walter Allen, wife of a wealthy business man, charged with killing another woman, returned a verdict of not guilty.

The contention was made that Mrs. Allen could not control her actions when she saw her husband seated in a buggy with the woman.

British Pensions Costly.

London, Jan. 23.—The official figures on the old-age pensions granted up to Dec. 31 last show that the total number of pensions granted was 596,038, costing £7,450,315 per annum.

To Watch Parliament.

Brandon, Jan. 23.—At the closing session of the Manitoba Grain Growers' Association it was decided to maintain a representative at Ottawa during the present session of the House of Parliament to watch the interests of the grain growers of the west.

FARMERS' WIVES TELL WHAT THEY KNOW ABOUT PE-RU-NA.

Now Perfectly Healthy.

Mrs. Magdalena Winkler, Route 5, Westminster, Md., writes:

"I thank you very much for your advice. I can safely say that Peruna and Manalin have saved my life.

"When I wrote to you the first time, asking your advice, my condition was so poor that I did not expect to live through the winter, but now I am perfectly healthy.

"I cannot praise your medicine enough, and I recommend it to others."

Catarrh of Stomach.

Mrs. Mary Allen, Route 6, Franklin, Tenn., writes:

"I am glad to be able to tell you that I am well of catarrh of the stomach, for which I am sincerely thankful to you for your advice. If it had not been for Peruna I would never have been well.

"I had three physicians. One of them told my husband that he could not cure me.

"I had been sick about nine months when a friend asked me to try Peruna to gratify her; so I commenced taking it.

"I can eat and walk and work. Everybody says I look as well as I ever did.

"Oh, you don't know how thankful I do feel to you.

"I have got several other people to take Peruna. I praise it to everybody."

Indigestion and Nervousness.

Mrs. Lenora Bodenhamer, R. F. D. 1, Box 99, Kernersville, North Carolina, writes the following letter to The Peruna Drug Manufacturing Company:

"I suffered with stomach trouble and indigestion for some time, and nothing that I ate agreed with me.

"I was very nervous and experienced a continual feeling of uneasiness and fear.

"I took medicine from the doctor, but it did me no good. I found in one of your Peruna books a description of my symptoms. I then wrote to Dr. Hartman for advice. He said I had catarrh of the stomach.

"I took Peruna and Manalin and followed his directions and can now say that I feel as well as I ever did.

"I hope that all who are afflicted with the same symptoms will take Peruna, as it has certainly cured me."

For Children's Colds.

Mrs. Henry Martin, La Motte, Ia., R. R. No. 1, writes:

"After suffering for some time with sore eyes I was advised by a friend to try Peruna, which I did at once.

"The first bottle relieved me, and after using four bottles I was entirely cured.

"I do recommend Peruna to all who are afflicted with catarrh. I have found it to be a great remedy also for coughs and colds of children; a dose at bedtime will relieve them from coughing all night. I always keep it on hand, and recommend it."

Catarrh for Seven Years.

Mrs. T. Frech, R. R. No. 1, Hickory Point, Tenn., writes: "I am happy to tell you that I am cured of catarrh. I have followed your good and kind advice faithfully. I bless the day when I wrote you of my condition, and I will always praise Peruna. I think it is one of the grandest medicines on earth.

"Having been afflicted with catarrh and stomach trouble for seven years, and after having tried four different doctors they only relieved me for a little while. I gave up all hope of being cured. I only weighed one hundred and thirty pounds, and was so weak I could hardly get around the room.

"I was induced to try Peruna, and to my great surprise I am now entirely well. My weight is now one hundred and eighty-eight pounds, my health never was better in my life, I shall always praise Dr. Hartman and his remedies."

The Farmer's Wife.

Who is in a better position to know than the farmer's wife herself what is required in the farmer's home? She must meet its troubles, solve its problems, ward off disease, nurse the sick, she must do all these things herself, and she learns by valuable experience what is best and what is not best.

In numberless farm homes Peruna is relied upon as the family medicine. Peruna books are consulted in health and disease. Peruna is used as a preventive as well as a corrective in disease.

The wives of the farmers of the United States constitute a solid phalanx in favor of Peruna. Against this testimony the slanders of a few critics will not prevail. One sensible mistress of a farm home who has used Peruna knows more about Peruna than all the magazine critics in the world.

Peruna in Her Home.

Mrs. Anna Linder, R. F. D. No. 5, Dassel, Meeker Co., Minn., writes: "For two years I suffered with that terrible disease, chronic catarrh.

"Fortunately I saw your advertisement in my paper and I spoke to my sister about your medicine. She wrote to you and I got your advice free of charge. I took Peruna and am well and a mother of two children.

"I owe it all to Peruna. I would not be without that great tonic for ten times its cost, for I am well and strong now, and cannot speak in too high terms of its value as a medicine."

In a letter dated June 12, 1906, Mrs. Linder writes: "I cannot express my thanks enough to you for all the good your medicine has done for me and my family.

This spring I took cold and it settled in my kidneys. At first I thought it was kidney trouble.

"I took Peruna as directed on the bottle and in a few days I was all right, so I owe my health to Dr. Hartman and his remedy."

Miserable With Catarrh.

Mrs. Hettie Green, R. R. 6, Iuka, Ill., writes: "Last November I had catarrh, and felt so miserable, I thought that I would go into consumption.

"I tried so many doctors and medicines, but nothing did me any good, only Peruna.

"After I began the use of Peruna I began to improve in every way.

"My head does not hurt so much, my stomach is all right, my bowels are regular, my appetite good, my complexion clear, my eyes are bright, and I am gaining in flesh and strength.

"I think Peruna has no equal as a catarrh remedy."

PUBLIC CONSCIENCE A CURE FOR GRAFT

Exonerates Higher Officials in the Marine Graft.

SUGGESTS BUYING BOARD

Recommends an Expert Purchasing Staff to Buy Supplies For Department—Agents Underpaid and Sorely Tempted In Handling Such Large Sums of Money—Late Mr. Prefontaine Blameless.

Ottawa, Jan. 23.—That the entire business of purchasing supplies for the Government should be entrusted to a board of experts.

That officials on small salaries are subjected to temptations of which the ordinary citizen knows little or nothing.

These are the observations in chief which Judge Cassels makes upon his investigation into the Marine Department. The report was tabled in the Commons yesterday by Hon. L. P. Brodeur, Minister of Marine and Fisheries. The evidence fills 14 volumes of about 150 pages each.

Incidentally Judge Cassels exonerates the late Hon. Raymond Prefontaine and Hon. James Sutherland, as Minister of Marine, from any responsibility for the existence of graft and over-payment in the Department over which they presided, and gives Hon. Clifford Sifton a clean bill of political health in the matter of contracts with the Department.

"I am not here to judge Mr. Prefontaine or his policy or the manner in which his Department was administered," says Judge Cassels. "There are but two places where I would consider any reflections are cast upon him. The one I have referred to in dealing with J. F. Fraser, the other in a statement made by Mr. Gregory in his defence given at Quebec. He stated in reference to Davie who gave for a period of about eleven years to Mr. Gregory the sum of $500 per annum, that he was very friendly with Davie, but did not think that a reason for him to ask for anything, and when his Minister did try and get some money out of those who can afford to pay it," he replied that the only honorable man he could trust himself with was Davie, and if he would lend him the money he would take it."

"Before concluding, I may be pardoned if I make a few observations.

"In the first place, the chief remedy for amelioration of the conditions I have sought to portray lies in the awakening of the public conscience.

"Secondly, capable and efficient officials should be adequately remunerated. Mr. Gregory, in the control of nearly one million dollars per annum, received a salary of $2,200 per annum; Mr. Harding, in the control of about $300,000 per annum, a salary of $1,800 per annum. Mr. Parsons, in the control of about $700,000 per annum, a salary of $1,000 per annum. It is an easy matter for those in affluent circumstances to hold up their hands in horror; they have not been in a position to be tempted.

"Thirdly, the abolition of the patronage system in the Department of Marine and Fisheries is a long step in the right direction."

In suggesting a remedy Judge Cassels says:

"Would it not be feasible to appoint a board of say three competent men, assisted by inspectors conversant with ruling market prices to act as purchasing agents for all the Departments? The office of the Auditor-General is a very valuable and necessary one, but to leave the matter to him alone is only to lock the stable after the horse has been stolen."

In the case of Harding, the agent at St. John, who borrowed money from contractors right and left, Judge Cassels says: "I would like to take as lenient a view as possible. He is evidently a man respected and with warm personal friends. He was for years in very straitened financial circumstances. His financial transactions with those having contracts or other dealings with the Department were numerous. At the same time while the transactions were numerous, in the main they consisted of accommodation afforded by his friends, money advanced to him.

Do You Get Drunk?

Nashville, Tenn., Jan. 23.—The first surprise of the Carnack trial came yesterday when affidavits were filled by the state attacking the competency of one of six jurors chosen J. I. Leigh, on the ground that he was drunk on the day he was chosen.

Each talesman thereafter was asked whether he drank and whether or not he got drunk.

One man said he drank often, but got drunk only when he had nothing to do. He declared his last was fully sixteen years ago. He was rejected by the state.

A panel of 500 talesmen has been exhausted.

ROBBERS LOOT TRAIN.

Dozen Men Held Up Freight and Carry Off Merchandise.

Niagara Falls, N.Y., Jan. 23.—A gang of masked men, about a dozen in number, held up a freight train on the Rome, Watertown & Ogdensburg branch of the New York Central near the brow of the Lewiston Mountain about three o'clock yesterday morning and succeeded in getting away with several wagon loads of loot. It is believed the robbers had boats in waiting near the Lewiston docks and have made their escape into Canada.

Train, No. 38, westbound, had left Model City and was pulling up the long grade at the Lewiston Mountain. There were 54 loaded cars in the string, with three engines. About a mile and a half west of the station several men, wearing masks, boarded the train and set the brakes. As the train came to a standstill the crew of one of the engines walked back to ascertain the cause. They were met by two men with drawn revolvers and told to keep quiet. The other members of the crew, failing to get a report, also came back, and were covered.

In all the train crew consisted of ten men. A trio covered these men with their guns, while the others proceeded to pilfer the cars. A car filled with general merchandise the robbers ransacked. They then forced the crew to uncouple the first engine, climb aboard and run up the track, while they made their escape.

The spot where the hold-up occurred is one of the loneliest on the line. The robbers had waited some time for the train and had broken into the little station at Lewiston Heights and made themselves comfortable. The teams used by the robbers were found just below the Village of Lewiston, near the river's bank, yesterday morning. They had been stolen from two farmers.

Farmer Loses His Leg.

St. Catharines, Jan. 23.—An H. G. & B. electric car between Beamsville and Grimsby at 6.15 o'clock yesterday morning ran over Frank McLean, farmer, aged 40, cutting off his left leg, and injuring the other foot badly. The accident occurred about quarter of a mile from the spot where five people were killed Saturday morning by the G.T.R. flyer, and McLean is a brother-in-law of Mrs. Teeter, one of those victims.

New Fruit Tree Peril.

St. Catharines, Jan. 23.—"Unless this new gummy fungus growth on peach and cherry trees is checked at once it will prove an even greater menace to the fruit trees than the San Jose scale," was the statement made at the meeting of the Farmers' Institute on Thursday night by Walter Armstrong, scientific fruit farmer, of Queenston.

Trade Agent In Ireland.

Prospects For The 1909 Fair Are Bright And Encouraging

Annual Meeting Held Yesterday Afternoon----Mr. Robert Leary Again Elected President---Reports From Last Year Most Satisfactory---President Gave an Address.

The annual meeting of the directors of the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition was held yesterday afternoon in the Council Chamber, when reports of the fair last year were presented and arrangements were made in a preliminary way for the coming year. Everything at present is bright and after the success of last season it is expected that the good work will be continued and that the fair in 1909 will be far ahead of anything that has yet been held in Peterborough.

Those present were Messrs. I. Payne, John Brown, W. B. Stewart, S. A. Oke, J. H. Garbutt, S. F. Redmond, J. R. Bell, W. E. Conway, Wm. Collins, Dr. King, Dawson Kennedy, R. Leary and J. J. Turner, Sr.

The president's report was given by Mr. Robt. Leary, who acted as chairman. He reviewed the past year, referring to the fair which had been a good success and might have surpassed expectations if the weather on the third day had been like that of the other two. However, the balance was encouraging and the fact that the entry list had been large seemed to point to much better conditions and prospects for next autumn, when the seventh annual exhibition will be held.

He would not advise any expenditure of a large amount on the present buildings. The by-law had been defeated, but the president thought that a sum of money would be voted to the purchase of other grounds at a later date, when there would be no demand for anything like $30,000. The city would like to see a good exhibition and would undoubtedly lend a substantial assistance when the time comes again. In the meantime they would have to do the best they could, and make a combined effort this year with everything conducted to the entire satisfaction of those with whom the directors have business in the holding of the fair.

Officers Elected

The election of officers followed and Mr. Leary was again appointed unanimously to the presidency, this being his third term. He acknowledged the compliment in a few well chosen words, and expressed the hope that the season would bring a success that would eclipse past exhibitions.

The officers elected are as follows:
Hon. Pres.—Mr. T. E. Bradburn, M.P.P.
Hon. Vice-Pres.—Hon. J. R. Stratton, M.P.
Pres.—Mr. Robt. Leary.
1st Vice-Pres.—Mr. J. H. Garbutt.
2nd Vice-Pres.—Mr. S. F. Redmond.
Sec.-Treas.—Mr. F. J. A. Hall.
Hon. Directors—Mayor Rush, the Warden of the County, Messrs. D. Hughes, Charles, Ed. M. Elliott, D. W. Dumble, J. H. Larmonth, J. A. Sexsmith, M.P., Jas. Thompson, M.P.P., and R. R. Hall.

The Directors are Messrs. Geo. E. Elliott, S. Deyell, W. B. Stewart, J. J. Turner, Sr., John Brown, Dawson Kennedy, James R. Bell, R. Vance, J. O'Shea, Wm. Collins, G. A. Gillespie, W. E. Conway, Jas. Baptie, S. A. Oke, F. W. Jones, Dr. King, J. A. Storey, John Cox, D. Cruikshanks, C. Moore, Ald. Phelan, Ald. Buller, D. B. Denison and S. Milburn.

A by-law was passed on motion of Mr. Wm. Collins and Mr. J. J. Turner, increasing the number of directors to twenty-four and the list was then made out.

The auditors were re-elected. They are Messrs. Robt. Fair and A. A. Hollingshead.

Mr. F. J. A. Hall presented his report as secretary-treasurer, as follows:

The dates for the exhibition this year were decided upon, the 16th, 17th and 18th of September meeting with general favour. Another feature that helped considerably last year was the excursion from Picton. Ald. Gillespie suggested that an effort be made to induce the same excursion party to make Peterborough their destination, and he also stated that an attempt might be made to bring others here on one of those dates. On motion of Messrs. Turner and Collins, the former step was decided upon.

In conclusion an unanimous vote of thanks was passed to the Mayor and aldermen for the use of the council chamber for meetings, to the press of the city for the liberal support they have given the exhibition, and also to all those who had assisted the directors last year.

LA GRIPPE'S VICTIMS

Left Weak, Miserable and a Prey to Disease in Many Forms.

La Grippe starts with a sneeze—and ends with a complication of troubles. It lays the strong man on his back; it tortures him with fevers and chills, headaches and backaches. It leaves him a prey to pneumonia, bronchitis, consumption and other deadly diseases. You can avoid La Grippe entirely by keeping your blood rich and red by the occasional use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. If you have not done this, and the disease lays you low, you can banish all its evil after effects with the same great blood-building, nerve restoring medicine. Here is proof of the wonderful power of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills over disease:

Mr. P. E. Paulin, Collector of Customs at Caraquet, N.B., says:—"In the winter of 1907 I had a very severe attack of la grippe, which broke me down entirely. I had to take to bed for several weeks. During that time I employed a doctor, but without benefit, fact I seemed to be getting worse and worse. I did not sleep; suffered from night sweats and had no appetite. I was really a physical wreck. On a former occasion I had used Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for general debility, with great benefit so I decided to again try them. I sent for half a dozen boxes and began to use them at once. When taking the second box I began to feel quite a change in my condition. I was able to walk about the house and my appetite was improving. From that on I gained strength every day, and before the six boxes were done I was able to return to the office and attend to my work. Now I enjoy the best of health, and although 63 years old, am feeling quite young. I think Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a splendid medicine for troubles of this kind."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a blood-making, nerve-restoring tonic. In this way they cure anaemia, indigestion, rheumatism, neuralgia, St. Vitus' dance, and partial paralysis. They are the best medicine in the world for the ailments of girlhood and womanhood. Sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Brockville, Ont.

ACTUAL FIGURES VINDICATE CANADA'S CLAIM TO THE TITLE OF "THE GRANARY OF THE EMPIRE"

Over One Billion Acres Form the World's Great Farm—Position of the British Empire Compared With the Rest of the World.

CROPS THAT ARE RAISED.

The position of the British Empire as regards the rest of the world treated as a mammoth farm is strikingly shown in the official return of the Board of Agriculture issued recently. The following shows the area of the world (in acres) under crops:—

British Empire
Area under crops (acres)	307,600,000
Cattle	77,300,000
Sheep	173,800,000
Pigs	8,200,000
Horses	7,600,000
Rest of the world
Area under crops (acres)	1,020,000,000
Cattle	202,500,000
Sheep	240,000,000
Pigs	119,300,000
Horses	63,300,000

In addition to the 1,327,600,000 acres from which crops are taken, immense tracts are included in the world's farm for grazing purposes. Thus, in Australia only 9,600,00 0acres of land are under crops, but grazing land is used by 82 million sheep and 9,200,000 cattle.

Enormous Crops

Some idea of the crop which is raised from the immense acreage under cultivation may be gained from the following comparison showing the acreage under wheat and the crop therefrom:—

	Acreage
British Empire	36,000,000
Europe	124,000,000
America	60,000,000
	Crop in quarters
British Empire	65,000,000
Europe	220,000,000
America	107,000,000

It is interesting in connection with the world's wheat crop to note that, with the exception of the Netherlands, the United Kingdom produced more wheat per acre sown in 1907 than any country in the world. Here is a list of the world's best producing countries:—

	Bushels per acre
Netherlands	38.40
United Kingdom	33.98
Germany	29.62
New Zealand	27.19
France	23.59
Ontario	21.96
Poland	16.14
United States	13.60
Argentina	11.09

In addition to wheat, the world's farm produced the following:—

	quarters
Rye	183,000,000
Barley	130,000,000
Oats	110,000,000

Agricultural Expansion

It is impossible to state exactly how much poultry the world possesses, but the figures available are as follows:—

	Fowls
Denmark	11,555,000
France	54,103,000
Germany	55,396,000
Netherland	4,935,0 0
Norway	1,640,0 0
United States	234,000,000
Canada	16,500,000
	Geese
Denmark	188,000
France	3,520,000
Germany	6,239,000
Netherland	34,000
Norway	7,000
United States	5,500,000
Canada	396,000
	Turkeys
Denmark	58,000
France	1,968,000
Germany	351,000
Netherland	11,000
Norway	4,000
United States	6,500,000
Canada	545,000

There were no definite figures for Great Britain, but Ireland possesses 17,663,000 fowls, 1,838,000 geese, and 1,651,000 turkeys.

One of the most striking facts made clear in the figures is the vast field for agricultural expansion there is within the confines of the British Empire. Thus while in Europe one in every three acres of land is cultivated, in Canada, which has a total area of more than the whole of Europe, only one acre in every 121 is under cultivation.

Britain's Granary

Canada's claim to the title of "the granary of the Empire," is vindicated by the following statement of the yield in bushels last year of the three prairie provinces:—

	Wheat
Alberta	5,242,085
Saskatchewan	43,540,091

UNSOLICITED PRAISE OF THE NORDHEIMER PIANO

Really partial as the French section of music is, it far surpasses the British section. But if a taint of shame mantles he Briton's cheek as he leaves the French department, it is deepened when he enters Canada. That a large country like France should beat us may be tolerated, but here is one of our own colonies which surpasses us. In the number of exhibits, and the way in which they were displayed, Canada leave the Mother Country far in the rear. Pianos are shown by Nordheimer of Toronto; Williams of Oshawa; Mason & Risch of Ottawa; Bell of Guelph; Leach of Montreal; Gerhard Heintzman of Toronto; and Newcombe of Toronto. Those that we tried were excellent in tone and touch, though one or two needed tuning after the voyage. The Nordheimer pianos, in particular, need fear no comparison as far as uprights go, with any competitor, and it is a matter for congratulation that such excellent instruments are manufactured in Canada. The chief point in which Canadian, like American, pianos are lacking is in the cases; possibly they suit the Transatlantic taste, but refined beauty of design is conspicuous by its absence. Reed organs, some with two manuals, and with pedals are shown by the Karn and Thomas Organ Companies.—London England, Musical News, July 25th, 1908.

BRITISH CHAPLAIN'S FATE

After long and tiring work the ruins of the house of the British chaplain, the Rev. C. B. Huleatt, were discovered on New Year's Day. The rescuing party, under Lieut. Pavin, of the British cruiser Minerva, worked until late at night, but found no one. The work was resumed at daybreak with fresh energy. In the evening another shock of earthquake rendered the work still more dangerous. Ten minutes later Mr. Huleatt and one child were found in bed, crushed but recognisable. Death had been instantaneous. All the Huleatt family are known to have perished.

The above is an extract from a paper lately received, recounting some of the casualties in the Messina earthquake. Mrs. Huleatt was well known to a lady living in Peterborough.

TRUTH ABOUT PRINCE RUPERT

British Newspaper Speaks of the New City of the North—Trade May Be Recovered.

HAS BRIGHT PROSPECTS.

Mr. E. P. Osborn, special commissioner for the English illustrated weekly Canada, gives some facts about Prince Rupert regarding which he thinks more lies has been told than about any city that ever yet sprung up in the west.

The harbour is the finest in Canada. It is formed by a perfectly-protected curved inlet sixteen miles long, a mile long, a mile broad, and twenty-six fathoms deep on an average. The bottom has good holding for anchors, and there is thirty feet of water at hte lowest tide, by the temporary wharves. The nature of the approach from seaward has been criticised in certain quarters. But all such criticisms have been finally disposed of by Captain J. F. Parry, R. N., of H. M. S., Egeria, which is making the Admiralty survey of the entrance. He says — "It is no breach of etiquette on my part to state that the result of the survey is entirely satisfactory in so far as the approach to Prince Rupert from seaward is concerned." That ought to be enough for the political variant of the modern 'Ananias'.

Of course the real Prince Rupert is not in being yet. Until the townsite is sold—probably in May—permanent buildings cannot go up. Nearly everything there now will be swept away when the plans of the engineers are carried out. Prince Rupert is bot to be a checker-board city. To my mind, that is a great point. You can't get a picturesque city on the rectangular plan. Those who know Detroit with its radiating avenues know how pleasant it is to get away from the particular form of the square deal. Prince Rupert is to have places and parks—which will prevent a line running far—and undulating avenues and hills crowned with white edifices. It will not be one of those dull, decorous cities, where a boy and a girl can't lose themselves in case of necessity.

• • • •

The soil, which overlies solid rock, is made of decayed vegetation and is damp and peaty. Many of the present buildings are set on piles; they look like packing cases on sticks. There are two really good hotels, and a number of dollar-a-day propositions where they give the guests "good, square meals," and ask them to sleep in bunks as in French Canadian communities. At present it is a dry town, the sale of liquor being forbidden in view of the railway construction work going on there. It is said they make a kind of cider for the use of citizens suffering from a chronic thirst. But nobody offered us any. Whoever wishes to get "full" must go to Port Essington, several hours' voyage, where a perpendicular person is regarded with suspicion. When I was there I asked a man with a face like a tombstone, who was reclining on the wharf, why the whole population was celebrating the occasion. "That's so," was his only reply. Port Essington, a miniature Seattle, will be put out of action when Prince Rupert makes its real start.

• • • •

Of course, Prince Rupert is bound to become a great seaport. It will be served by the shortest and by far the easiest freight route on the continent, and the sea journey from Prince Rupert to Yokohama is 400 miles shorter than the Vancouver route and 600 miles shorter than the distance between San Francisco and the Japanese port. Naturally Prince Rupert will be the distributing point for all Northern British Columbia—a country richer in mineral resources than the more developed southern half—for the Yukon Territory and for all the Alaskan shoreline. It will eventually recover for Canada all the trade with the north that was lost to Seattle, a live city whatever its faults, during the Klondyke boom. Also it must become a great centre of lumbering, canning and the manufacturing of fishery products. Just outside the harbour is the finest halibut fishery in the world—an asset which has not yet been realized to any extent. Good progress has been made with the grading of the first 100 miles eastward on the G. T. P. and next summer the tracklayers should be at work.

AFTER FIVE YEARS OF SUFFERING

Dodd's Kidney Pills Effect Another Grand Cure in Nova Scotia.

Mrs. Margaret Brady Tells How They Relieved Her of Rheumatism and Made Her Stronger in Every Way.

Green's Brook, Pictou Co., N. S., Jan. 22.—Special—That diseased kidneys are the cause of the ills from which so many women suffer and that they are cured completely and permanently by Dodd's Kidney Pills, is once more proved in the case of Mrs. Margaret Brady, of this place.

"For five years," says Mrs. Brady when interviewed regarding her sickness and cure, "I was ill with kidney and liver complaint, which caused rheumatism, neuralgia and heart flutterings. My nervous system was affected and my blood seemed to lack vitality.

"I tried medicines and was under the doctor's care, but received no benefit till I used Dodd's Kidney Pills and Diamond Dinner Pills. They relieved me of rheumatism and made me stronger and better in every way. These remedies and no other cured me."

Was this a legitimate way for this man to make his living?

Should the state maintain all persons who are born with infirmities, which makeit impossible for them to maintain themselves?

Are our laws righteous which forbid begging?

Verse 4 — If you want to impart spiritual benefit, can you do it more effectually by looking the person straight in the eyes?

Verse 5 — Does effectual teaching or helping others depend as much upon the person taught, or needing help, as upon the teacher or helper?

Verse 6 — Was it an advantage, or a disadvantage, that Peter and John had no money to give?

Was it an advantage or a disadvantage to the lame man that Peter and John had no money?

Would a church do better work if it did not give money to the poor, but instead gave them the things they needed most?

Need the lack of money, or ability, ever prevent any man from doing the work in life which God has appointed him to do?

If we invoke the name of Jesus in the work to which we are appointed, what effect will it have upon the accomplishment of our work?

Verse 7 — By what power was this lame man healed?

What reason is there for the belief, that the power of God generally works in conjunction with human effort?

Verse 8 — Would it be wise or not, if we made more outward demonstration in returning God thanks for the wonders of his love?

DO FAT FOLKS WORRY?

Most thin people would say, no. Most fat folks, yes. They have all the causes for worry thin people have, and one other—their fat. Fat mortifies women because it spoils their appearance, and it distresses men, for it affects their activity. A few are afraid of it. There are few fat members of either sex who would not gladly dispense with 30 to 50 pounds if they knew how.

The "how" is my excuse for taking up this newspaper space. Although very few fat folks know it (and those who do are no longer fat), there is a very simple method of reducing safely. All one has to do is take after meals and at bedtime one teaspoonful of the following simple receipt, which any druggist will fill for a few cents: One-half ounce Marmola, 3-4 ounce Fluid Extract Cascara Aromatic, and 4 3-4 ounces Peppermint Water, and the trick is turned.

This is a certain cure for "fat folks' worry," for it does away with all necessity for exercise or dieting. It never causes wrinkles or stomach disturbances, and 12 to 16 ounces, I am told, is by no means an unusual amount of fat for it to take off daily.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

Miss Lina Dreschler-Adamson's recital in the Conservatory Music Hall a week ago last night was both delightful and successful. For a while Miss Adamson did not play in her best form but on the night of the recital she played better than I have ever heard her. In the first place her programme was admirably chosen and arranged. Everything suited her and pleasingly complemented the other numbers. It is difficult to say which was the most interesting number she played. I wanted to hear all of the "Bruch Concerto," but of course it is too long to play at a recital where variety of schools is necessary, but what she did give us, the slow movement, was thoroughly enjoyable.

She is most sincere and direct, so absolutely free from mannerisms that there is a seeming lack of individuality in her interpretation, but to me that is an added charm. I like the "Locatelli Sonata" very much. It is graceful and well written and unaffected. So many Schubert songs lend themselves so readily to transcription that when as well rendered as the Wilhelmj arrangement of the "Ave Maria," one almost prefers the transcription. Miss Adamson was compelled to bow several times after it and finally respond to an encore.

The "Spohr Concerto" for two violins was another interesting number, in which Miss Dreschler-Adamson played with her daughter. I was like the almost gorgeous odour of lavender in its quaint old-fashioned style. Its purity of form was as refreshing as a cool nook on a hot day. Of course the two players were perfectly en rapport. The Godard "En Regardant le Ciel" and Sitt's Scherzo-Tarantelle" are taking programme pieces and closed a delightful evening.—"Melos" in Saturday Night.

Enjoyable Banquet Held By The Carpet Weavers

Many people were present on Friday evening at the banquet given in the Grand Hotel by the Carpet Weavers' Association. This affair was a great success both financially and socially. Many of the carpet weavers took part in the programme which was a very long one, but none the less acceptable for that.

The hall was beautifully decorated with flags and flowers, and the menu was a most excellent one. During the supper a presentation was made to Mr. Hall, the secretary of the Association, of a beautiful carving set. This was presented by the vice-president, Mr. A Giles, and in a few well chosen words he pointed out that Mr. Hall had been untiring in his labours for the good of the members of the Association, and for the promotion of the banquet. Mr. Coley was also one of the promoters of the banquet and also proved a very acceptable chairman. He has been a prominent union man and official for the past 25 years in this country.

A large toast list was also one of the features of the evening. Letters of regret at their inability to be present were read from the organizer of the Textile Union, Mr. C A Miles, and Mr. H E Wadley, manager of the Brinton Carpet Factory in this city. A large number of ladies were present to lend their grace to the assembly. Songs were sung by Miss Beatrice Hawthorne, Mr. Fred Hall, Mr. R Murdock, Mrs. Sydney Yarrington, Mr. Daniel Ferguson, Miss Lily Hawthorne, Mr. Bert Farley, Mr. A Giles, Mrs. W Hall, Mr. E Yarrington, Mr. T Monk, Mr. G Skelding, Mrs. A Giles, Mr. W Jackson, Mr. E Stanfield, Mr. J Skippen and Mr. T Edwards.

At the conclusion of the programme the hall was cleared for dancing which was largely indulged in.

The banquet is noticeable as being the first that the association has ever held in this city and without exception it was a very great success. The enjoyable evening was brought to a close with the singing of the National Anthem.

President—Edward Coley.
Vice-Pres.—Alfred Giles.
Rec. Sec.—Walter Hall.
Fin. Sec.—Edgar Yarrington.
Conductor—David Ferguson.
Warden—Emmot Stanafield.
Executive Committee—Henry Reid, George Skelding, Herbert Bourne, Alfred Aston, Thomas Monk.

At a meeting of the Cyzicus Sanctorum No. 24, O O H and P, held last night in the I O O F hall, the following officers were installed—

V G Hy—E J Dormer
V F—M J Kirn

G H—Wm Robertson
G C G—E G Poole.
G H E—Thos. Duncan

The installation ceremony was performed by Acting Supreme Monarchos Frank Wise, assisted by Supreme Symposiarch of the North East, R. J. Matchett and Acting Supreme Vizier, Jas. A. Fully. After the officers were duly installed, nine aspirants for membership into this Ancient and Honourable order were introduced and taught the sublime lesson of humility. During the performance of this imposing ceremony the seating capacity in the spacious hall was taxed to its utmost. The music dispensed by the Sanctorum Orchestra was of a very high order and was greatly enjoyed by the audience. After the ceremony, light refreshments were partaken of, after which the members dispersed.

RECEPTION OF BELMONT CLUB

A very enjoyable affair was the first reception of the Belmont Club, held on Friday night in their cosy and commodious Club Rooms. They were at home to their friends and a large number of the young people of the city took advantage of the opportunity of sharing in the hospitality of the club, the members of which proved themselves capital hosts. The patronesses were Mrs. Percy McLean, Mrs. Frank Schneider and Mrs. G. L. Stevens. These ladies also assisted the club men in receiving and entertaining their young lady and gentlemen guests.

The handsome furnishings of the rooms (which were opened only a few months ago, met with pronounced approval and many compliments were paid the committee who selected the designs. Music and refreshments enhanced the enjoyment of the evening, and no detail was overlooked in making the event a most delightful one. The members of the Belmont Club have established themselves as hosts and future events of a similar nature will be looked forward to with pleasure.

THE COMPREHENSIVE EDUCATION OF THE FASHIONABLE GIRL

An Initiation Into the Details of Printing

Explaining the Intricacies of a Newspaper Press

EDUCATION for the fashionable girl of the present day means far more than it did a generation ago. Learning includes every branch that a woman could possibly have use for in her future. Even the expensive boarding and finishing schools now have their fads and their innovations just as the public educational institutions are said to have—if a departure from the cut and dried curriculum can be called an educational novelty. And while some of these unusual and strictly modern classes may not find unqualified favor with parents and pupils, there is one at least of the new studies which has met with great success in its introduction among regular class features in several of the schools for fashionable girls who are being educated in or near New York city. This educational novelty is a practical study of great industries, public buildings and institutions, not in the old fashioned way of listening to lectures or seeing the workings of such an organization by means of pictures and lantern slides, but this new branch of learning is taught by having the girls make personal visits to these places of interest and by the careful and intelligent investigation of the inner workings of the great machinery which turns out a battle ship in an incredibly short time, publishes a great daily newspaper or does any of the wonderful achievements characteristic of these progressive modern days, and become familiar with conditions which might otherwise remain a mystery to them.

COLLEGE boys have enjoyed these advantages; but it has not been the general rule for school girls to be given practical instruction of this kind. But teachers now believe that one thorough observation lesson is worth much more than a semester of class lessons. It teaches them a different side of industries and opens up to their minds a world of new ideas and thoughts. The girl who understands this phase of the industrial world has a mental equipment which is of inestimable value, no matter what walk in life she may follow after her school days are over. She gets a different viewpoint and one which is far more sensible, intelligent and useful than the average girl acquires from a sheltered and long distance study of the vital affairs and machinery of a great city. The knowledge students gain in this way of studying could never be acquired in any other manner, and it is far more interesting than the average book study.

If you have never accompanied one of these observation classes on its regular visit to the city then you do not know how eagerly the young students listen to and absorb statistics and explanations together with practical demonstrations, a combination sure to make an indelible impression upon their active young minds. They ask intelligent questions and remember the vital points of a great organization as well as those of the machinery of a huge plant.

SATURDAY is the day usually chosen for one of these educational tours. An early start is made from the suburban school, for there is a great deal to be crowded into a few hours, and perhaps the visits and the study classes do not manage to meet oftener than twice a week. Small groups of girls are the most satisfactory to handle in every way. The students get a better idea of the practical subject under discussion and observation when there are only eight or ten to see and hear. Then, visiting the city institutions and places of interest is not like accompanying a nature study class through country roads and over unfrequented paths. The rush of traffic and the crowds of people make it difficult for the school guide and chaperon to conduct his flock through the streets. Even the practiced courier might well quail before such an undertaking. Some schools employ women for this duty, while men who lecture at the school are occasionally called upon to chaperon a party of girl students on an education tour to some metropolitan institution. It was a man instructor who brought a small class of girls from a nearby fashionable school to visit the HERALD Building and to study at close range the intricacies of editing, publishing and distributing a metropolitan newspaper. The teacher guide himself had had several years' experience as a practical printer and editor and was therefore able to explain in his own way the details of machinery and copy. The class arrived early. School girls are used to rising before the wheels of a great city are set fairly in motion for the day, and when there is an hour's ride by train preliminary to the observation lesson an extra early start is necessary. Besides the day set aside for observation classes is not given up wholly to study; a little play is permitted, but that comes later.

FIRST the class visited the composing room, where different types were handled and studied; then the working of the linotype machine was carefully explained as two or three were manipulated by skilled operators; next the girls were introduced to the mysteries of "making up" a great daily. A visit to the photographic department, the art department and to the stereotyping rooms gave them an excellent idea of the illustration work of a daily and weekly magazine publication, while the actual printing as accomplished by the gigantic presses used for both color work and type was left till the last, like the cream of the day's lesson. Probably not one out of a hundred such school girls would think of the practical side of publishing or would take advantage of the opportunity to visit stereotyping and engraving rooms or to see a daily sheet run off the press, if it were not for this new branch of study.

Studying the Process of Electrotyping

THE observation class lasts from one to two hours, the time taken up by the study depending upon the industry under discussion. Of course, it is impossible to get a really accurate knowledge of any plant or organization in such a short time, but the ideas acquired in this kind of rapid study are of a different kind from those gathered in books, and any special place of interest can be revisited by any members of the class who show a desire to supplement their small knowledge with greater.

The navy yards and forts within a few hours of New York, including West Point, are down on the list arranged for observation classes. So also are some of the most important skyscrapers, factories, museums, galleries, the aquarium and the gardens in and about the city. The museums and galleries would naturally be included in the art class studies, yet they can be looked at from an institutional side, and girls can learn a great deal from a practical demonstration of exhibitions and ways of exhibiting historic and modern works of art.

One great advantage of going to a school in or near New York city is the tremendous opportunities it offers for rare and valuable study. Nowhere, in this country at least, can a girl get more than she can in New York if properly and intelligently shown how to study the material at hand. It has always been said that the girl who lives in New York knows less about her own surroundings than the stranger does who makes occasional visits to the metropolis, but under the new order of things the school girl, at least, is no longer as ignorant in this as she used to be.

WITH the end of the practical study or demonstration the class does not disband. On the contrary, the close of the lesson is the signal for an afternoon of play in the city. It means luncheon followed by a matinee, concert or the opera and a rush for school afterward, or possibly a dinner in town if the opera or concert is late and there is not time enough to make the railroad trip back to school for the dinner hour. Instead of an indoor entertainment there are foreign quarters of the city which are a never ending source of interest to the student of human nature, sociology and hygiene. Of course, girls cannot be expected to spend all of their visiting day in serious discussion of the problems and progress of civilization. They must have a little recreation and amusement, and it is safe to say that they can be counted on to find amusement almost anywhere and upon nearly every occasion. It is the thing which keeps them fresh and young and interested in their doings and surroundings. Therefore when they visit the Italian quarter, the Chinese quarter or the Syrian or the German quarter to learn more about our coming citizens and how they live one need not be surprised to find that they have also learned where to buy novel and attractive Italian sweets, odd bits of ivory carvings not to be found in the larger shops or that they have seen interesting features of routine factory work which have escaped the eyes of the more practical demonstrator. It is their way of seeing things, and it all helps to make the observation day pleasanter and of more real value to the mind developing under the careful guidance of instructors and disciplinarians.

FURS FOR THE SCHOOL GIRL.

IT is to be sincerely hoped that the winter just commenced will be an unusually long and extraordinarily severe season, for never, it may safely be said, has there been a time when furs were more fashionable. Fur wraps, hats, stoles and muffs must be as numerous in the winter's outfit as are the gowns themselves; nor is there any age that can escape the craze this year, for even the veriest infant in her perambulator must be completely encased in soft, cosey squirrel or gray astrakhan before she can be taken out for her morning constitutional.

Furs this year are decidedly voluminous in effect, all boas and wraps being unusually large, while the coats and wraps are more than ordinarily long and full. As too large a boa, however, tends to take away from the natural height of the wearer, the furs now fashionable for young girls are somewhat smaller—not quite so all enveloping as are those designed for older women. Both the long boa and the short, wide cape are worn this year, and it is difficult to say which is the smarter of the two styles. A girl somewhat undersized for her age will find the long stole or boa more becoming, while to a tall, slender figure it is safe to say that any design will be becoming.

Of the long neck pieces the most attractive are those made of two separate skins, the heads joined together in the centre of the boa. The stoles are worn either with the heads in the middle of the back or over the right shoulder, with one end thrown back to the left and the other falling down in front. In lynx, pointed fox and all long haired furs these double stoles are especially pretty, but they are also smart in such skins as mink, sable, ermine, &c.

For school wear a stiff little fur tie of astrakhan or perhaps brown caracul is excellent, and with a simple style of dress is exceedingly pretty. This year these tiny ties look especially well, as they help to carry out the long straight lines of the Directoire models. Lined with white fur—fox, lynx or caracul—the black fur will not rub off and soil the collar, and this white lining is an excellent thing for the girl whose shoul waists are finished with neat white collars of embroidered linen or batiste.

There is nothing stiff in any of the fur boas or muffs this year, unless perhaps the small cravats and their muff of caracul or astrakhan. The majority of muffs are composed of one or two entire skins, with head, tail, claws and all remaining lined with chiffon or satin and only laid over an under muff covered with satin or brocade in black or the exact shade of the fur, if it be black or gray.

White fox and lynx are still altogether the most fashionable furs for a young girl to wear with her afternoon street costume. Surely there is nothing more becoming than a full white boa, and with its large flat muff a set of white fur is often depended upon to brighten a gown of somber shade.

SOCIAL AMENITIES FOR THE SCHOOL GIRL

TELEPHONES have so important a place in the social life of to-day that there is quite as much etiquette in regard to them as there is to other matters. Take the word itself, for instance. We began by calling it "telephone" as a matter of course, and always in speaking of using it referred to it as "telephoning." But this soon became corrupted by the lazy and slipshod into "'phone" and "'phoning," which pleased the ears of many and were widely adopted until among certain classes they are firmly established as the accepted parlance when referring to, or to the use of, the most indispensable invention of the age.

But the language of the polite world does not admit of abbreviations of any sort. In good society any form of slovenliness is abhorrent, and to speak in a slipshod way indicates an untidiness of speech as distasteful and as little to be tolerated as untidyness of person or of dress. And, consequently, well bred people from one end of the country to the other say "telephone" and look askance at the person who shortens it.

When you are calling up your friends, to greet them with "Hello" is as bad form as it is to say "'phone" or "'phoning." "Hello" belongs strictly to the business world and has no place in the social, either at the telephone or at any other place. You should say "Good morning" by way of greeting at the telephone, just as you would at home or in your friend's home, or the street, or wherever you encounter one another. If another member of the family than the one to whom you especially wish to talk answers the telephone do not be so discourteous as to ignore her by asking at once for the other, but exchange a few remarks with her first and then let her know that you wish to talk with another.

It is not etiquette for girls to telephone to men at their places of business or at their clubs, nor should they call them up at their homes unless for a particular reason, as giving them an informal invitation. So much inviting of an unceremonious character is done by means of the telephone nowadays that it is quite proper for girls to take this method of reaching young men, always, provided they do not try to get them at their places of business.

There is a great convenience in giving invitations over the telephone, for it means that they are accepted or declined at the moment and one can plan accordingly. But the verbal invitations extended must be followed by a note—that is, when the invitation is accepted. Of course, if it is declined the matter is ended. But when you ask your friend to anything over the telephone and he or she accepts, the correct thing is to write a note at once corroborating the matter. If your mother has allowed you to ask a young man to dinner, for instance, you write that your mother and you are so glad to know that he can dine with you on such a night and at such a time, mentioning the date and hour. The note should be brief to the point of one sentence covering the matter, and its object is, as no doubt you see, to fix beyond any possibility of mistake the day and time in the other's mind. So many errors of time and place have occurred through the giving and taking of telephone invitations, to the utter confusion of hostess and guest, that fertile Madame Grundy, ever alert to keep well oiled the wheels of social life, has invented this manner of meeting the situation, so now it is obligatory that you follow your telephone invitation by a note.

Girls think that they may call up their girl friends at any time of the day and evening, but this should not obtain, and it is very bad manners for to recognize that there are hours when families should not be disturbed and that households differ in regard to such hours. To call any one from a meal to talk to you at the telephone is very ill bred. It interrupts the progress of the meal not only for the one you call away but for the others, and though your young friend may not mind, her parents dislike it, and you not only show bad manners but a great lack of consideration for them when you do it.

Many women have stated hours for being "get-at-able" at the telephone and give the time out to all their friends, the popular hours being between nine and ten or ten and eleven in the morning. If you know that such a person has such an hour you must never, except in dire necessity, call her at any other time. Women usually have their maids answer their telephones and bring them the name of the person calling before they personally respond. Girls who have their own maids do this also and, indeed, in the homes of all fashionable persons a servant is delegated for the purpose of taking the responsibility of the telephone quite as much as another has the care of the front door.

It is not etiquette for the person called to the telephone to end the conversation. If a friend calls you you must remain until she says goodby. It is not proper for you to say it any more than you would if she were making a call in your house. Some people never seem to know how to break off a telephone conversation, and they are just the same people who never seem to know how to go, even after they get started from a room. But, being well mannered, you would never think of pushing them out, and neither can you push them off the telephone, which is precisely what you would do if you said goodby first. When you call them up there is another matter. The tables are turned, the initiative lies with you, and you end the conversation as it pleases you.

SOME PRACTICAL AND USEFUL HINTS.

NEW TRAVELLING BAGS.

OLD fashioned carpet valise sizes and shapes are being revived in the new travelling bags, which, despite their impressive proportions, are wonderfully light of weight and capable of accommodating an incredible amount of small luggage. They are developed in black and dark hued seal and morocco, the new auto pelt and in natural pigskin.

Black sole leather travelling bags have patent kid covered frames, gunmetal ornaments and moire or satin linings of the same neutral tint.

Regulation motoring bags of auto leather, of alligator, pigskin and walrus pelt are from ten to twelve inches in dimensions, are fitted with brass clasps and hinges and lined with heavy linen precisely matching the shade of the outside.

Calf alligator, soft and tender as an infant's palm, is made into attractive looking nine inch carriage bags of dark or shaded brown, lined with matching kid or leather. Rather smaller carriage bags are developed of real seal or English morocco in all the fashionable colors and lined with suède of glacé kid.

Pigskin shopping bags have narrow straps buckling near their top and bottom edges. These must be undone when the bag is opened, but for the shopper's convenience a change purse is set underneath a rather prominent flap let into the top of the frame. Other bags of this character, minus the straps and buckles, have deep outer flaps, one of which is lifted and folded over when the main portion of the bag is opened. Underneath the other side flap is a handkerchief pocket.

Velvet soft are the pin sealskin hand bags, which come in every fashionable color. The favorites of the moment are in the taupe and London smoke shades. They have silver and gold mountings and are lined with silver or gold colored satin or moire.

Taupe and tan colored leather, pin seal and morocco belt bags are studded with steel nail heads, arranged in disc or in conventional designs. More elaborate belt bags are of pin seal embroidered in shaded silks.

Lizard leather is once more to the fore for carriage and hand bags. They are fitted with handkerchief pockets, that folding bill purses, memorandum tablets, card cases and change boxes in addition to the omnipresent vanity mirror and powder puff receptacle.

NECK BOWS OF HANDKERCHIEFS.

THE girl who likes to have a lot of dainty little bows for the neck which are so universally worn now can make for herself a delightful variety of them, with very little trouble, by using pretty handkerchiefs for that purpose. There are many very pretty, inexpensive handkerchiefs that give a wonderfully good effect when pleated up, and then, of course, there are exquisitely fine ones at much higher prices. Almost any fancy handkerchief will make a pretty bow.

There are several shapes in which they can be made. The most generally used way is to cut the handkerchief straight across, with one piece a little longer than the other. Then sew the two raw edges in a seam, with the right side of one piece reversed so that the shorter piece will fall over the longer. Make a fan pleating of each, the top of the pleating at the seam being very narrow. Tack the shorter one over the longer, and the bow is finished.

Another way to use a handkerchief is to cut it across, just as for the first bow, and make a fan pleating of one half. Then cut off each of the other two corners, making a little triangle of each, and gather the cut edges up very tight. This will make two little butterfly ends, which must be sewed together with a tight little loop of linen around the centre and the whole sewed to the top of the pleated piece.

FLOWER PIN CUSHIONS.

ONE of the latest things in pincushions for girls' dressing tables is a flower pincushion. It is something a girl can make for herself or as a gift for a friend, and she can make it quite simple or in a very elaborate effect if she so chooses. Almost any flower can be chosen to match the room, but it is wiser not to choose anything so difficult as a full blown rose. The most satisfactory and by far the easiest to make are the comparatively flat flowers, such as violets, wild roses, daisies, asters and pansies.

A rather small cushion can be made with only one flower (larger than nature) or a larger cushion can have three or four flowers. The cushion itself is round and rather flat and covered with silk or satin in the desired color. The flower is sewed on the top, entirely covering it, and is made of satin ribbon. The width of the ribbon depends on the size of the flower to be made. Each petal is made of a piece of ribbon gathered at the ends to form the shape of the petal. The number of petals necessary for the flower must be made and all of them sewed together in the centre, the sewing being covered by a group of French knots of yellow, green or white embroidery silk.

The pins are, of course, put in the cushion underneath the flower petals, so it can be kept quite dainty and fresh if a little care be taken not to muss the ribbon in putting the pins in or taking them out.

FANCY HAT PINS.

FANCY hat pins prove that all manner of daintily quaint designs may be evolved from composition imitations of jewels and rare stones. Many of these are quite as effective as if the materials used were genuine.

Ball top pins are exceedingly popular, and for the school girl none is more practical than real or imitation tortoise shell in light and dark shades, in amber, smoked glass, jade, the Oriental reds, blues and greens of Japanese lacquered metal or wood; Dutch, German, Indian and sterling silver; gun and bronze metal and plated gold.

Scarab hat pins are of lapis lazuli, while in Russian and Roman intaglio and Oriental compositions are cabochons, cubes and spikes, which are uniquely decorative.

Tassel hat pins are made of tiny rhinestone, pearl, moonstone, coral, amethyst, garnet, turquoise and emerald beads, and the same effects are employed on the butterfly tops of gold and silver webbing.

Sterling silver pins in ball, loop, spike and bow knot effect are enamel or "jewel" set, and among the hand made pins are some sprinkled over with tiny amethysts and emeralds.

BORDENITES WASH THEIR DIRTY LINEN

THE B. C. ELECTION MESSAGE

Laurier In Counter Attack During Debate on Speech From Throne Lays Bare Story of Opposition Leader's Telegram Regarding Asiatic Expulsion In British Columbia—Geo. E. Foster Has His Say.

Ottawa, Jan. 23.—The debate on the address is not as a rule remarkable for its relevancy to the subject matter of His Excellency's speech, and the discussion with which the House entered upon the session yesterday was more irrelevant than usual. As a legacy of the general election, the Opposition apparently found themselves with a considerable quantity of soiled political linen on their hands, and this Mr. Borden, with the assistance of Mr. Foster, proceeded immediately to wash. As has so often happened in the past, all that the Leader of the Opposition succeeded in doing yesterday was to bring trouble upon his own head. The Prime Minister is too old a Parliamentary hand to be taken unawares. Mr. Borden's attack was met by a counter-attack, the immediate effect of which was to place the Opposition entirely on the defensive, and to lay bare a chapter in the history of the last election of which more will probably be heard.

Mr. Borden resorted to figures and blamed it on the gerrymander. If we had proportional representation which, previous to 1896, Sir Wilfrid strongly favored, the Government would have a majority of 4.04, or without the Speaker, 3.04. According to Sir Wilfrid's logic, the last election had been fought on the most infamous gerrymander ever penetrated, each Conservative member representing 6,630 votes, while each Liberal represented 4,411 voters. No doubt the right hon. gentleman, with his sense of honor, would redress the grievance.

Mr. Borden declared that the length of the session would depend upon the early bringing down of important legislation. In previous sessions most important bills had been produced after long delays. He would be willing that a rule should be adopted to provide against bringing down bills after two-thirds or three-quarters of the session had passed. The exceeding great length of the sessions had the tendency to keep out of Parliament men who would be a credit to it.

Mr. Borden briefly referred to the Sicilian earthquake and passed on to contrast paragraphs taken from the speech in 1906, when prosperity was apparently confined to Canada and in 1909 when the depression is world-wide. The depression he thought would be well worth the price if it taught the gentlemen who sit on the Treasury benches economy.

Mr. Borden noticed the promised reappearance of the insurance bill. He trusted a measure in the public interest would be placed upon the statute books.

The Opposition Leader averred that the Cassels' investigation was restricted — it should have touched every spending department of the Government. When any question was put whether the increase in price of supplies had any relation to contributions to the campaign fund of the Liberal party, objection was always taken that the scope of the enquiry did not cover that.

Mr. Borden attacked the system of offering public works as bribes to constituencies. This was bribery tenfold more flagrant than the bribery of individuals. He promised that the Opposition would give consideration to the program of legislation, to the end that the session might not be delayed.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier, in opening, congratulated the Opposition Leader on the well deserved compliment paid him by his followers in confirming him in his position.

The policy of the Opposition on the Asiatic question was short-sighted, imperilling and jeopardizing the best interests, not only of Canada, but of British Columbia itself. He had no quarrel with the opinion that we should have a white Canada, but the parties differed as to the methods of bringing this about.

"We endeavored," said Sir Wilfrid, "to reach the same conclusion by negotiations and diplomatic action."

Mr. Borden's policy was the same as the Government's in respect to a white British Columbia, but this policy had been supplemented on the coast. Here was a telegram from Mr. Borden to one of his supporters: "The Conservative party stands for a white Canada, the protection of white labor and the absolute exclusion of Asiatics."

"I didn't send it," protested Mr. Borden.

"Then if he didn't one of his followers obtained his seat by false pretences," said Sir Wilfrid, who declared the telegram was a fac simile, but Mr. Borden denied the authorship of the concluding portion.

Later in the debate Mr. Borden explained that the alleged telegram as read by Sir Wilfrid was brought to his attention by Mr. Templeman. It was sent to The Victoria Colonist and by him to Mr. Cowan to be read at a public meeting.

The Liberal party had come back from the Maritime Provinces with the same strength as before, continued the Premier, and in Ontario the swinding was exactly the same. They suffered in Manitoba. This was "no credit to the Opposition," but due to the fact that the voters' lists had been "outrageously juggled." Likewise it was not to the discredit of the Government that the party lost in British Columbia. That was the only province in which the election had been fought on principle. In Ontario and other provinces there was simply an appeal to certain prejudices.

Replying Mr. Borden on the matter of the bribery of constituencies, Sir Wilfrid declared Mr. Borden was the most intolerate briber in Canada. He did not bribe constituencies, but whole provinces.

Hon. Mr. Foster was the next speaker. He declared that the Conservative party would never give adherence to a policy that abrogated the right to say who should be admitted to our shores. During the campaign Sir Wilfrid had offered no strong note as to the tone of public life, but at Sorel and Niagara Falls had thanked God he was no purist. "Every scalawag who has taken his 50 per cent. will say "Amen to that!" said Mr. Foster.

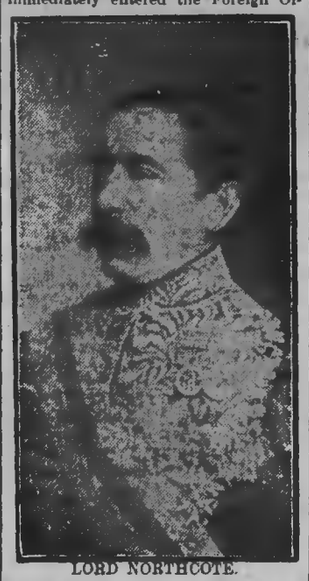
Discussing the marine investigation Mr. Foster dealt with the Marine enquiry and called for the resignation of Hon. Mr. Brodeur.

LORD NORTHCOTE NEXT?

Rumor Says He Will Succeed Earl Grey.

London, Jan. 23.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—The Canadian Associated Press is informed that Lord Northcote is to succeed Earl Grey as Governor-General of Canada. Lord Northcote is already one of Britain's great pro-consuls.

Graduated from Oxford in 1869, he immediately entered the Foreign Office and was attached in 1871 to the special mission of Lord Ripon, which resulted in the settlement of the Alabama claims. From 1900 to 1903 he served as Governor of Bombay, and from 1903 to 1908 as Governor-General of Australia.



LORD NORTHCOTE.

On his way home to England from the Antipodes last fall he paid a visit to Canada. Lady Northcote is an adopted daughter of Lord Mount Stephen.

Wrote Letters to Get Money.

Whitby, Jan. 23.—With tears flowing freely, Mrs. Rachel Hubbard of Uno Park, New Ontario, admitted to Police Magistrate Harper yesterday the writing of threatening letters to John Wakeland of Cannington and David J. Adams, banker, of Port Perry, in this county. This was in reply to the magistrate's question if she ad anything to say before he committed her for trial.

The evidence showed that there had been a land deal over forty years ago between the Hubbard woman's husband, before she married him, and Wakeland. She had heard it talked about, and in the dire straits of their present circumstances, in a wild country fifty miles north of Cobalt, had thought thus to get some money.

Captain Pauley a Millionaire.

Toronto, Jan. 23.—A syndicate composed of New York, Boston and Montreal capitalists offered Capt. Pauley eight hundred thousand dollars in cash for his claim in Gowganda. The Pauley claim is one of the show claims of the district, and being only 40 chains from the Mann and Armstrong properties, he can show native silver stripped for over 300 feet. Captain Pauley gave an option last night to the president of the Equitable Insurance Co. for $1,500,000, retaining one-quarter interest.

Absolute Right to End Her Life.

Chicago, Jan. 23.—A remarkable letter was left by Miss Alice Law, aged 26, an editor employed by a local publishing firm, who committed suicide yesterday by asphyxiation.

The letter is addressed "To all whom it does not concern," and states: "I am ending my life because I am seized with an acute disinclination to live, and I believe I have an absolute right to end my life if I wish. The struggle is too hard. There is too much work, too much monotony, too much weariness, and not enough art, music, recreation and rest."

Priest Is Absolved.

Cleveland, O., Jan. 23.—After fifteen years' rebellion against the authority of the Catholic Church, Rev. Father Antono P. Kolaszewski, has returned to the fold and has been forgiven and granted absolution.

He was the pastor of St. Stanislau's Church, and his parish was one of the largest in the city. He had some trouble with the late Bishop Horstmann and organized an "independent" Catholic church. His excommunication by the Pope followed.

Russian Loan a Success.

Paris, Jan. 23.—The new Russian loan has been a great success. It has been many times over subscribed, and is already selling at a premium of 2 per cent.

MISERY IN STOMACH WILL VANISH

Your Stomach Trouble Will Be Cured Before You Realize It

If what you just ate is souring on your stomach or lies like a lump of lead, refusing to digest, or you belch gas and eructate sour, undigested food or have a feeling of dissiness, heartburn, fullness, nausea, bad taste in mouth and stomach, headache—this is indigestion.

A full case of Pape's Diapepsin costs only 50 cents and will thoroughly cure the worst case of dyspepsia, and leave sufficient about the house in case some one else in the family may suffer from stomach trouble or indigestion.

Ask your pharmacist to show you the formula plainly printed on these 50-cent cases, then you will understand why dyspeptic trouble of all kinds must go, and why they usually relieve a sour stomach or indigestion in five minutes. Get a case now and eat one Triangule after your next meal. They are harmless and taste like candy, though each contains power sufficient to digest and prepare for assimilation into the blood all the food you eat; besides, it makes you go to the table with a hearty, healthy appetite; but, what will please you most is that you will feel that your stomach and intestines are clean and fresh, and you will not need to resort to laxatives or liver pills for biliousness or constipation.

This city will have many Diapepsin cranks, as some people will call them, but you will be cranky about this splendid stomach prescription, too, if you ever have indigestion or gastritis or any other stomach misery, and eat just one Triangule of Diapepsin.

TOWN HAS NO HOTEL.

Grimsby's Only Inn Closes Because of Local Option Bylaw.

Grimsby, Jan. 23.—Last night Grimsby is without accommodation for the traveling public.

On Jan. 4, when the result of the vote on the repeal of local option was made known, J. W. Vandyke took down the sign from in front of the old and favorably known hostelry, the Lincoln House, and closed it up. This left the business all in the hands of the Village Inn, one of the best equipped and conducted houses in Western Ontario. The owner, Mr. Hewitt of Chicago, intimated to the local optionists that if he could not supply his guests with everything in the line of accommodation that they wished he would close the house, too.

Last night the shutters were put up and everything is dark within. There will be no place for a traveler to get a meal or a fed unless the local option people make good their ante-election promises of a temperance house, conducted on the joint stock plan, which is unlikely.

Saving on Text Books.

Victoria, B.C., Jan 23.—Finance Minister Tatlow, at the opening of the Legislature, announced a surplus of $1,388,380 for the fiscal year ending last June, the fourth and largest surplus yet.

Since last July, when the Government established free text books, the Government has saved the thirty-five thousand school children of the province $27,340 for supplies. For these the Government, buying them at cost, paid $17,300 and $7,600 for distribution and the salary of the staff. The system will be less costly every succeeding year.

Fell From Train.

Galt, Jan. 23.—Yesterday afternoon, shortly after the C.P.R. express had passed west, a sectionman on the road between Dunfries and Ayr stations discovered a man lying by the side of the track in a semi-unconscious condition. He proved to be James Sullivan of London, who had fallen from the train. His condition is said to be serious.

Burglars Start Fire.

North Bay, Jan. 23.—Early yesterday morning fire was discovered in the east part of the store of Begg Bros. drygoods merchants. The new paid fire department confined the flames to the department in which the fire originated. There is evidence that an attempt was made to burglarize the premises. Loss $8,000.

MOHAMMED.

Halabi, the founder of Islam, was born at Mecca in the year A. D. 570. He died June 8, 632, at the age of seventy-two. He assumed the titular name of Mohammed, which means, according to some authorities, the "predicted Messiah."

One of the most extravagant relations which can be found in any language is credited to Mohammed. Speaking of the sights he beheld when "transported to heaven," he says: "I saw there an angel, the most gigantic of all created things. It had 70,000 heads, each head had 70,000 faces, each face had 70,000 mouths, each mouth had 70,000 tongues and each tongue spoke 70,000 languages. All were employed in singing God's praises."

When Mohammed first announced his divinely inspired and appointed system the Arabs demanded supernatural proofs of his commission. "Moses and Jesus," said the Arabs, "wrought miracles in the testimony of their divine authority. And if thou art indeed a prophet of God do so likewise."

"It would be tempting God to do so," replied Mohammed, "and bring down his anger, as in the case of Pharaoh."

As the story is told in Brewer's "Phrase and Fable," the Arabs were not satisfied with this answer, and Mohammed then commanded one of the numerous eminences near Mecca to come to him. The mountain not stirring at Mohammed's bidding, the prophet exclaimed: "God is merciful! Had the mountain obeyed my words it would have fallen on us to our destruction.

"I will therefore go to the mountain."

A Sporting Parson.

The inhibition of a hunting rector by his bishop reminds a correspondent that the Rev. Jack Russell, the famous west country sporting parson, was once cited to appear before the bishop of Exeter to answer charges of neglecting his spiritual and parochial duties, and he was also remonstrated with for keeping and following a pack of hounds. The charges were proved unfounded, and Russell refused to give up the sport, which he continued to pursue almost to the day of his death in 1883, at the age of eighty-eight. Besides being an insatiable hunter, he was, as his biographer pithily remarks, "a stanch supporter of Devonshire wrestlers, an admirable sparrer and an enthusiastic upholder of the virtues of Devonshire cider and cream." And in the pulpit he tried to reform conduct rather than to expound doctrine and was a stern denouncer of bad language, strong drink and "the filthy habit of smoking."—St. James' Gazette.

REVIEW OF BOWLING SITUATION SHOWS MARKED IMPROVEMENT IN THE WORK OF THE LOCAL BOWLERS

Waram's Big Score Was One of the Features of the Past Week —Last Night's Games Went to The Examiner B.

STANDING OF LEAGUE.

That the fascinating indoor game of ten pins has come to stay in Peterborough is putting it mildly. Bowling is one of the oldest games in the world, though it is not the intention of the writer to trace back the ancient pastime from its antediluvian origin or enumerate the many improvements that have been made, even in the past few years. The game is simply an evolution of skittles, and skittles probably had its origin in prehistoric days, when the ancestors of Darwin put up sticks to pelt with stones. From that primitive method skittles emanated and then came nine pins and the more modern game of ten pins. However, what the writer started off to say is that the great indoor game never really reached its present vogue until within the past few years, during which period it has made great strides, particularly say, in the last five years or so, since the introduction of the present regulation alley.

Twenty years or so back ten pins was a pastime confined to saloons or hotels. And there are many old bowlers in Peterborough who still have a keen recollection of the period when there were bowling alleys in such institutions on George and other streets here. To-day such immense strides has the pastime made, that it is now played in palatial halls and has ceased entirely to be an accompaniment of anything that pertains to the liquor traffic. On the contrary, it has become a scientific, healthful pastime that all classes and both sexes find exhilarating, vigor and muscle promoting.

There is no game freer from vice, freer from anything approaching violation of the law, either of manly sportsmanship or goodfellowship.

There are still, however, a great many misinformed people, who have a vague impression that there is something sinful or iniquitous in the game, who still associate it with something objectionable they know not what. However, even many of these doubting ones are coming around to a more rational view of the game and are beginning to agree with its devotees that there is no cleaner, purer, wholesomer game than ten pins. It is brain food for the overworked business man and pleasurable relaxation for the working man, unalloyed amusement and recreation for all, free from gambling, drinking and everything objectionable.

Peterborough has had regulation standard alleys for less than a year but so quickly have the bowlers adapted themselves to the new conditions that the Electric City now numbers among its players some of the best trundlers in the Dominion. This fact is demonstrated nearly every week by the showing made by Peterborough devotees of the game against a number of commercial men who come down here periodically on business, and who always manage to spare enough time for a game or so against local talent. Among these travellers are numbered some of the best bowlers in Toronto, and that means the Dominion, as practically all the ten pin records of the country are held there. For example, this week there were several crack Toronto bowlers in town, and with a couple of exceptions they came off second best in their games against Peterborough opponents.

Within a couple of weeks at least one five man team will go up to Toronto for a match game there against one of the best city teams, and there will be many surprised bowlers here if the Peterborough contingent does not do a little more than hold its own in the game there and the return contest here.

There is at present in existence a city league, comprising twelve teams, and while the scores are not quite so large on the whole as those of Toronto, still they do not suffer much by comparison, particularly when allowance is made for the fact that Toronto has had three years' start on us with regulation alleys, and a similar start in the matter of league bowling. And right here let it be said that the best individual bowlers are not always the best in league or match games. Just why this is so will take a lot of explaining, but the fact remains that it takes a great deal of practice to perfect one's self in league work.

However, we are making great progress in that branch of the art, and every week sees an improvement, as reference to the various league scores will show. The progress along this line is indicated by the great work of Billy Waram, in a league game this week, the Belmont captain putting up a single score of 254, just about as good as anything they can show in Toronto, if not a trifle better, while George Cairns' 600 score for three games, will compare favourably with the league showing elsewhere. Then as to team work, one only has to look at the showing of the bankers, who are now second in the league standing, but whose team is about as good as anything witnessed on Canadian alleys. True, we haven't any world's records to boast of, but Peterborough has a number of individual bowlers who would be a credit to any city.

Recently league matters have been lagging a trifle preparatory to the opening of the second half of the season, which starts in a couple of weeks, but with the improvement already shown it is not an extravagant prediction when one says that Peterborough bowlers will have to be watched by the delegation from other cities when they go up to the Canadian tournament in Hamilton in March next.

A controversy has been raging for some time past as to who is the best bowler in Peterborough and several of the cracks secretly harbour the thought that the honour should rest with them. Certainly there are about a dozen who might contest for the championship and the writer intends taking up the merits of each at a later date. In the meantime the question bids fair to settle itself in a competition which is now in progress for individual trundlers, but even then the winner of the championship emblem will discover that there are still other dissatisfied ones ready to go after him for the challenge trophy.

In the meantime new bowlers are being created every day and if one is interested he will find it worth while to follow up the scores and compare closely the work of the various contestants in league and other games of the match and practice variety.

Besides being the best indoor game in existence it might be said in closing that bowling is also the most uncertain and it is this element of luck that is one of the games most attractive features. The veriest tyro may at any time beat the crack, and the inexperienced roller always stands a fair chance of carrying off the honours. For example take the work of the Examiner B team which bowled the Iroquois last night. With one exception the Examiner trio are new bowlers, while the Iroquois are all old hands at the game and could without any disparagement to their opponents of last night, easily beat them, according to form, in individual combat. Yet the poore team, judging them, of course, by all known standards, just simply romped away from their rivals, taking two of the three games. By every known rule or law the Iroquois should have won, yet they didn't, and that's one of the reasons why bowling is so popular.

The scores last night follow—

THE INOCULATION OF SEED.

From Farm and Dairy.

The Ontario Agricultural College has in press a bulletin from the bacteriological laboratory, giving the results of work on the inoculation of seed with bacteria to increase the chances of the crop. This work has been in progress since 1905, and has increased in amount each year. It has been known for many years that the nodules or tubercles on the roots of alfalfa, clovers, peas, beans, etc., are inhabited by bacteria that have the power of taking nitrogen from the vast amount in the atmosphere, and storing up this most valuable fertilising element in the plants, thus enriching the soil when these plants are plowed under.

In the college laboratory these bacteria are cultivated under artificial conditions, their full power of nitrogen accumulation being conserved, and these cultures, as they are called, may be applied to the seed to be sown. On old established fields where clovers or alfalfa have been previously grown, the soil is well supplied with these desirable bacteria, and the use of artificial inoculation would be of little benefit. On new ground, however, or where the crop to be sown has not been successfully grown before, the inoculation of the seed usually helps to secure a better stand. During 1908, over 2,100 of these cultures were sent to farmers all over the Dominion and to five foreign countries. The results as reported by the farmers, and compiled in the forthcoming bulletin showed that the inoculation of the seed was beneficial in 63 per cent. of cases tried. Many farmers tried the cultures on old established fields, and as was to be expected the results here showed no increase in the crop from using the cultures.

During the coming spring, the college will send similar cultures for alfalfa, red, white, and alsike clover, peas, beans, and sweet peas, the only cost to the farmer being a normal charge of 25 cents for each culture sufficient for 60 pounds, or less of seed. The cultures, of which there is but one size, are sent in glass bottles with full directions for their use. Applications should be addressed to The Bacteriological Laboratory, O. A. C., Guelph, and should be sent at once so that ample provision may be made by the college to supply all demands. The kind and amount of seed to be inoculated and approximate date of seeding should also be stated in the application.

"A WIFE'S ALLOWANCE."

From Farm and Dairy.

In a recent issue of Farm and Dairy there appeared an article entitled, "A Wife's Allowance."

Judging from my own observation, the average countryman's wife has the free use of the pocket book and in most cases is more anxious to sacrifice her own personal comfort in order to make a home than is her husband. She is generally the harder worker of the two.

I called at a neighbor's the other night about eight o'clock, expecting to find them looking over the week's papers or talking of the morrow. Instead the young mother and daughter were out milking cows, and afterwards did a big ironing, so that the four little girls could go decently to Sunday school. So it is all over the country.

I have just received a card from a friend announcing the burial of his wife, whose girlhood days in England had been spent in comparative ease and comfort. She came to Ontario twenty years ago to marry the man she loved. She had put in eighteen years of hard work, caring for her little ones, with never a holiday, and with little hope of seeing the old home, or parents, again.

Many are going to the lonely west, there to spend years in a little shack, with but few of the comforts of life. In many cases the husband is not in a position to furnish any luxuries whatever. The furniture must be plain, and gifts small indeed.

A young mother said to me the other day, (and their savings bank account would average about $1000 a year), "See what my husband brought me from Brantford. You know he always tells me to get what I want, but it was so thoughtful of him to remember me by bringing home these flowers."

I was dining with an acquaintance in the city not long ago whose whole possessions would amount to but a few hundred dollars. He complimented the wife upon preparing the meal, and actually gave her a kiss when parting. Theirs was a happy home. But he was an Englishman. Whoever heard of a Canadian kissing his wife a year after marriage? I have seen apparently happy wives weep because of the lack of the little attentions which they had a right to expect from their husbands.

Surely it would be well for the husband to give his wife a part of the allowance he promised her during his courtship days.

Let him remember how he always wished for her company at entertainments or outings. How careful he was to clean his clothing or shoes before entering her home, and let him plan ahead so that she may go and see her parents and friends once in a while. Last, but not least, though the wife may be the mother, she is still pleased to hear a word of praise, or have a kiss now and then.

"BANDANNA" PILLOWS.

From Farm and Dairy.

A Montreal friend admired very much the pillows I had on my lounge. When I told her they were bandanna handkerchiefs she could hardly believe it. Secure the ones having the palm leaf pattern; they are not exactly square, but I made the pillow the same shape as the handerchief. Make a full ruffle; allow twice the difference around your pillow, and make very full at the corners. This ruffle I made of turkey red calico. I used the same kind for a high back rocking chair. Make for the seat the same as for the sofa pillow, and if it is too large, make a tuck on the wrong side of the handkerchief, leaving the border so it will show all around the edge.

For the back I took one handkerchief. This was the right length but too wide, so I narrowed it by a wide tuck, leaving it just the right width to have the border show all around. Put a padding back of this.

For the head rest take another handkerchief; buy a very soft roll of cotton, taking off the border, but leaving the ends long enough to gather inside of the border. Now, you have a handsome cover, and one that is easy to launder when soiled.—A Country Girl.

WRITER ON VENTILATION.

From Farm and Dairy.

"Ventilation for Dwellings, Rural Schools and Stables," is the title of Prof. F. H. King's latest book recently to hand. The book is a brief treatise which is intended to reach parents, teachers and officers of rural and other elementary schools, and the owners and caretakers of all classes of live stock, and lay before them the foundation facts and principles underlying the growing and imperative demand for a more nearly adequate supply of pure air than is being continuously maintained in the vast majority of homes, offices and stables to-day.

Owners and caretakers of live stock will find the treatment of stable ventilation, in this work, sufficiently explicit and illustrative to enable them to readily and effectively solve their own problems. The book should be in the hands of all. It can be obtained through Farm and Dairy at the regular retail price of 75 cents a copy postpaid.

LOCAL OPTION CAMPAIGN FOR PETERBOROUGH

The matter appearing in this space from time to time is furnished by the Temperance and Moral Reform League of this City, who have arranged for its Publication.

LOCAL OPTION IT IS

A vigorous and sane campaign for the formation and education of public opinion.

As already published the Temperance people of Peterboro are pronounced in their determination to have the Saloon banished. It is of no service to the City; it is ruinous to the individual, and to the home; it is the cause of much disorder, lawlessness, and debauchery; and no one has been found to publicly espouse its cause, or to enumerate any favourable qualities it possesses.

Every citizen interested in the Temperance cause may help by sending clippings, short original articles, or pointed and brief letters of information to the office of the "Temperance and Moral Reform League", 173 Simcoe Street.

WHAT LOCAL OPTION IS

A campaign having been determined on in Peterborough, explanation of what Local Option is, may not be out of place. There is a very general impression abroad that this law is apart altogether and distinct from the License Law. Such is not the case. This is simply a part of the License Act. The law gives the council of any municipality the right to pass a by-law prohibiting the granting, in that municipality, of licenses, for retail sale of liquors, provided that before being finally passed, the by-law has been duly approved by the electors in the manner provided for in the Municipal Act.

Full provision is made in the Liquor License Law for the enforcement of that by-law, and all the machinery that is provided for the enforcement of that Act comes into operation, for the enforcement of the Local Option By-law, and when it has once been duly passed, the penalties imposed upon persons breaking the Law are just the same as those provided for infringement of the License Law, when it is in operation. In short, Local Option simply enacts that no licenses shall be granted in a municipality adopting it, leaving the machinery for enforcement as effective as before.

Under the License Law all citizens of Peterborough, except 21, are prohibited from selling liquor. Local Option places the 21 on same basis.

THE PETITION

In order that the council of any municipality may be under obligation to prepare and submit to the electors a Local Option by-law, there must be presented to that body, prior to a certain date, fixed by a law, a petition signed by at least one-fourth of the qualified voters of the municipality, appearing on the last revised voter's list. The signing of such a petition does not constitute a vote in favour of Local Option, nor does it necessarily commit the person signing, to support the by-law. It is simply a declaration, that the question should be submitted to the people, to be dealt with as they deem best. This is one of the questions, that the law has put into the hands of the voters, and the petition is merely a request, that they be given an opportunity of expressing themselves. A ratepayer who believes that it is proper that this opportunity should be given, can with a clear conscience, sign the petition, whether or not he has made up his mind to support or oppose the by-law.

DO NOT BE DECEIVED

It was reported at Tuesday's meeting that friends of this movement have been approached by those opposed and influences have been used to get them to give pledges, that they would not sign the petition, for the submission of the by-law. All friends of Temperance, indeed all citizens are asked to be on guard, against any such action. As has been pointed out elsewhere to sign the petition is simply to ask that the voice of the people be heard, and surely every person should favour such a reasonable request?

FINANCING LOCAL OPTION

At the meeting Tuesday afternoon, the question of securing the necessary funds to meet the cost of the Campaign, received consideration. A subscription list has been started and friends of the movement are asked to subscribe such sums as will enable the committee to carry on the campaign with vigour. It was pointed out that the expense will be considerable. Rooms have been rented, and furnished, space has been secured in the local papers, light and fuel have to be provided, and a good deal will have to be spent on printing. The League will look to the various churches for contributions, and so far has been much encouraged. Mr. A. Brown, the Treasurer, will be glad to receive contributions from those desirous of helping, at his office, 396 Water Street.

HAVELOCK

In the list of places adopting Temperance Legislation was the Village of Havelock, which decided with a large majority, to join the procession toward happier homes and cleaner lives, by abolishing the bar. It was freely said, that the voters of the "Railroad Village" were too intellectual a class to tie themselves up by any such "fool legislation." They have given their answer, and it is to be hoped that those who professed so high a regard for the electors are satisfied.

When Havelock comes into line on May 1st., there will be but two licensed houses in Peterborough County.

We have it on good authority that there will be at least 100 places in which the fight will be waged, during this year. Among them are two of the cities, Peterborough and Brantford. None of the cities in Ontario have heretofore undertaken a canpaigm for the abolition of the bar, and our efforts will be watched with interest.

TELEGRAPHIC SERVICE TO MONTREAL BROKEN

Messages Had to be Sent by Phone as Wind Storm Blew Down the Telegraph Wires.

All lines, telegram and telephone, were out of business last night east to Montreal. There was a big wind and rain storm in the Province of Quebec on Saturday night, and after 10 o'clock the service was closed. Communication was established on Sunday for a while, but as the storm had not subsided it was soon broken off.

The wind was so strong that it blew over a number of poles, and where the poles were not wrecked the rain froze on the wires and snapped them.

All C.P.R. messages were sent to Montreal on the 10.15 train last night.

ARCHBISHOP SWEATMAN OF TORONTO PASSED AWAY YESTERDAY SPECIAL SERVICES AT ST. JOHN'S

Touching Reference Was Made by Rev. Canon Davidson, While the Choir Sang Special Music—Had Often Visited Peterborough

THE BELLS WERE TOLLED

The announcement that Archbishop Sweatman of Toronto, primate of all Canada had passed away at his home in Toronto yesterday, was received with regret and sorrow by the members of the Anglican church in this city to whom he was well known and by whom he was much loved. Rev. Canon Davidson of St John's Church, received the first message and the services in St John's church were marked by special music and references to the death of His Grace.

The late Archbishop of Toronto had been in ill health for some years, but it was not until last week that he was seized with an attack of pneumonia, which gradually grew worse until his death came yesterday. He was seventy-six years of age and was born in England receiving his education at Cambridge University. Some thirty years ago he was appointed Bishop of Toronto, and three years ago became Archbishop.

He had visited Peterborough many times and had a large circle of friends here. He had performed many confirmation services in this city and was invariably greeted with large congregations when he officiated in any service.

Rev. Canon Davidson at the evening service in St. John's church last night made a touching reference to the death of the Archbishop whose many good qualities were eulogised. The choir and congregation sang two special hymns, 'Peace, Perfect Peace' and 'On the Resurrection Morning' while the choir rendered a special anthem. The opening voluntary was "O Rest in the Lord" from the Elijah.

At the conclusion of the service the organist, Mr. Dovey, rendered "the "Dead March in Saul" while the choir and congregation stood in their places. While the congregation was retiring the bell of St John's church was tolled. The recessional was the Funeral March from Beethoven's Grand Sonata in A Flat.

HORSE, BUGGY AND OCCUPANTS FALL FROM THE MARK STREET BRIDGE BUT ESCAPE UNINJURED

Mr. and Mrs. Brown, of Otonabee, had a very narrow escape from serious injury yesterday at noon, that they will not soon forget. They were driving north on Mark street, immediately after leaving church, and were north of Hunter when the horse they were driving became frightened at an umbrella and shied violently. They were passing the bridge over the creek at the time and the buggy skewed and almost before the occupants could realize their peril, it had tipped over and horse, vehicle and occupants had swept over the edge of the bridge and fallen in a heap on the bed of the creek below. Spectators of the accident hurried to the scene, expecting to find that Mr. and Mrs. Brown were seriously hurt, but they discovered to their surprise that neither was injured in the least and that the horse had escaped unhurt, while the only damage to the outfit was that the harness was slightly broken. Willing hands succeeded in rescuing the horse and buggy and getting them to the surface again.

Passes Suddenly Away At 96 Years Of Age At The Home Of Her Son In Ennismore

With her years drawing nigh the century mark, and enfeebled from advanced age, Mrs. John Sullivan, 96 years, one of the pioneer women of the Township of Ennismore, passed away rather suddenly on Sunday morning, at the home of her son, Michael Sullivan. She had been rather poorly in health for some time but her death was unexpected. The late Mrs. Sullivan had taken a light breakfast and about nine o'clock was sitting in a chair, when without warning she was overcome by faintness, from which she did not recover.

The family is one of the oldest in Ennismore, Mrs. Sullivan and her late husband having come out in 1825. They shared in the early industry which was required to bring the township to its present position. Mrs. Sullivan's maiden name was Bridget Corkery. She was married to John Sullivan when she was about twenty years of age, her husband predeceasing her thirty years ago.

The surviving members of the family are three sons, John C., of East City, and Michael and Patrick of Ennismore; also three daughters, Mrs. John K. Galvin and Mrs. Martin Leonard, of Ennismore, and Miss Kate, of this city.

The funeral will be held to-morrow morning at nine o'clock from the residence of Mr. Michael Sullivan, lot 10 con. 6, Ennismore, and proceed to St. Martin's Church and from thence to St. Martin's Cemetery.

LUMBERMAN TOOK DEADLY POISON FOR COUGH MEDICINE IN DARKNESS OF ROOM

Minden, Jan. 23—An event which seemed miraculous occurred at Robertson Bros.' camp recently. One of the brothers, George, who had been spending Sunday at his home in the village, was retiring for the night, and took two swallows of what he thought was cough medicine since it was in the place where the cough medicine usually sat; and finding he had made a mistake, he lit a lamp, to find that he had taken aconite, which of course he knew was deadly and quick poison. The camp was soon aroused, and mustard and lard caused immediate vomiting, which saved his life. Medical aid was soon had, and all that remains now is the memory of a close shave.

ONE OF THE OLDEST RESIDENTS OF MILLBROOK PASSES AWAY

Examiner Special.

Millbrook, Jan. 25.—One of the oldest and best known residents of Millbrook passed away this morning in the person of Mr. Thomas Gillespie Kells, who died at his home here after a lingering illness. He had been at the point of death for some days past and his demise was not unexpected. The late Mr. Kells had been a lifelong resident of Millbrook, having been born here seventy-one years ago. He was widely known and highly thought of not only in Millbrook but in the surrounding district, his many amiable qualities having endeared him to all who came into contact with him.

The deceased was unmarried and the only surviving close relatives are his two sisters, Miss Annie and Miss Mary Kells, both living in Millbrook, and his niece, Miss Amy Kells, who lived with him.

The funeral will take place on Wednesday afternoon at Millbrook. Mr. Kells' many friends in Peterborough will regret to learn of his demise. He was well and favourably known in this city.

THE ANNIVERSARY OF ROBERT BURNS

To-day, Scotchmen the world over, celebrate the birthday of their great poet, Robert Burns, a man who above all others, has helped to cement those ties of nationalism and kinship which were called into being by the heroic deeds of Wallace and the bloody victory at Bannockburn.

The memory of the ploughman—poet, indeed, is to-day enshrined not only in the hearts of his countrymen and of those who owe allegiance to the same king, but in the hearts also of those many millions, who, whilst severed from the old land in respect of civil government, still speak the same tongue and take pride in the glories of a common literature.

Probably, no country in any age, has so passionately cherished the memory of any man as Scotland has the memory of Burns. Monarchs who have ruled honestly and well have been forgotten; warriors have fought and won great battles and their names have passed away with the empires for which they bled. The humble Ayrshire poet has outstripped them all, for the years go by, yet the power of his poetry, instead of failing in its influence, is increasing year by year. The reason is not far to seek—Burns' poems more than any others, appeal to the human heart. Especially do they appeal to Scotchmen, for, as a true poet of the people, he depicts all their faculties and foibles. But the greatest claim that Burns has on the love of his countrymen, lies in the fact that he has Scotticised poetry, and thereby as Rossetti has said, drawn all the hearts of his countrymen like the draught of a roaring, fiery furnace.

Sir Arthur Helps has well said that "the milestreams that turn the clappers of the world arise in solitary places." One such took its rise in a humble cottage in Alloway, and with Scotchmen to-day, we turn our eyes in love and reverence to that spot, whence sprung the stream of melody that has so delighted and soothed the world.

SMITH STREET BRIDGE.

In another column of this issue is found an interesting letter dealing with the desired character of a new bridge across the river at its intersection with Smith street. Without subscribing to the opinions expressed or pronouncing upon the merits of the arguments advanced, we may say this much. The letter is written by a gentleman, who does not wish to be conspicuously indicated, and his professional acquirements and engineering ability invest what he says upon the subject with an authority commanding attention and respect. His letter is well worth reading carefully.

It may be said of his contentions that the plea for durability should not be altogether ignored. A bridge that should serve generations would not be out of place in a scheme of permanent structures, which should be the aim of municipal corporations. Neither should the considerations of beauty and dignity be lost sight of. The new bridge should be worthy of its environment. It practically connects one of our most beautiful parks with one of the most beautiful and unspoiled stretches of river shore. The western shore comprising the river front of the park is attractive, to the bridge site itself and below that the stretch of bold river bank stockaded with growing trees and sweping in a green bend to Water street is susceptible of treatment, at little cost of means or effort, that will urbanize and heighten its natural beauty. The whole surroundings of the bridge are attractive, and the practical elimination of the lumbering industry, on a large scale at least, and in this vicinity, will prevent the interference of commercialism with aesthetic improvement which should include a bridge worthy of the possibilities of the situation.

At any rate the main idea of permanence should not be lost sight of. False economy has caused the erection of two bridges at Hunter street, with the necessity of another not very remote and a mistake should not be made at Smith street. As to a concrete bridge at this point, if its cost will not be greatly in excess of a fairly permanent steel structure the idea might well be taken, at least, into serious consideration.

Universal experience, endorses the wisdom of the old saw—"What is worth doing is worth doing well."

SUGGESTIONS FOR IMPROVEMENT.

In forwarding his report on the Marine Department inquiry Judge Cassels says in part:—"Before concluding, I may be pardoned if I make a few observations. I am aware that what I am going to say is not within the scope of my duty as defined. I am also aware that I have not the practical knowledge to guide me as to the feasibility of putting into practice my views. No harm, however, can come from my observations.

"In the first place, the chief remedy for the amelioration of the conditions I have sought to portray lies in the awakening of the public conscience. If the public generally could be brought to view with abhorrence graft and abuse of trust on the part of those administering the public moneys and property, the end of such abuses as have occurred in the past would be in sight.

"Secondly—Capable and efficient officials should be adequately remunerated. Mr. Gregory, in the control of nearly one million dollars per annum, received a salary of $2,200 per annum; Mr. Harding, in the control of about $800,000 per annum, a salary of $1,800 per annum; Mr. Parsons, in the control of about $700,000 per annum, a salary of $1,600 per annum. It is an easy matter for those in affluent circumstances to hold up their hands in horror. They have not been in a position to be tempted.

"Third.—The abolition of the patronage system in the department of Marine and Fisheries is a long step in the right direction. It is, however, important that, while the purchasing of supplies, etc., should be controlled by an able man like Mr. Boutre, a thorough and systematic inspection of the agencies, should periodically be made, in order that the necessity of the requirements demanded should be inquired into, and also with a view to ascertaining if the supplies reach their proper destination. According to the evidence, a saving of about $100,000 per annum would be effected in the Marine and Fisheries Department alone by the change. Are there not other Departments administered by the Government which could be dealt with in the same manner? Would it not be feasible to appoint a board of, say, three competent men, assisted by inspectors conversant with ruling market prices, to act as purchasing agents for all the departments? The office of the Auditor-General is a very valuable and necessary one, but to leave the matter with him alone is only to lock the stable after the horse has been stolen."

FINANCES OF THE DOMINION.

The best test of the financial condition of Canada is the ratio of the annual revenue to the expenditure chargeable year by year to revenue account. In a general way, the situation may be regarded as satisfactory if the expenditure is kept well within the total of receipts, so that there is a surplus each year to set off as capital against the public debt. For the last complete fiscal year, that ending on the thirty-first of March, 1908, the consolidated revenue amounted to $96,854,505, and the expenditure to $76,641,451, leaving a surplus of $19,413,054, the largest surplus in the history of the Dominion. As the expenditure on capital account amounted to $30,429,906, while the debt was increased during the year by only $14,288,999, it is apparent that over sixteen millions were paid out of revenue to keep down the net debt. This is an excellent use of the yearly surplus, and so long as the country can make such a showing its credit will remain unimpaired in spite of seemingly lavish expenditures on public works.

It is instructive to note how the receipts have increased during the past few years under the operation of the Fielding tariff. The year 1906-7 is omitted because in it the change in the dates of the fiscal year was made, the tabular view is as follows:

1898-99	46,741,249
1899-1900	51,029,934
1900-01	52,514,701
1901-02	58,050,790
1902-03	66,037,968
1903-04	70,669,872
1904-05	71,182,738
1907-08	96,854,505

It is objected, as a matter of financial policy, that the increasing annual revenue is proof that too much is taken from the people, the answer is manifold: the Fielding tariff materially reduced taxation by extending the free list, by reducing the customs duties on many articles that are either necessaries or comforts of life, and by extending a substantial preference to British manufactures, and in this way bringing down the cost of all imports of the same classes. For reasons well understood by students of taxation, the lowering of the duties became the chief promoting cause of the increase of revenue. Another important cause was the increase of population by the policy of drawing immigrants into the Dominion to make homes for themselves, especially in the West. No matter how large the revenue may be it is not burdensome, and so long as there is a public debt to be reduced it is expedient to devote the annual surplus to paying it off.

The statistics of the national debt are just as interesting as are those of the annual revenue. For the years of the Fielding tariff period the net debt has been:—

1898	263,956,398
1899	266,273,446
1900	265,493,806
1901	268,480,903
1902	271,829,089
1903	261,606,988
1904	260,867,718
1905	266,224,166
1906	267,042,977

In view of the fact that in these twelve years enormous amounts have been spent on capital account, the increase in debt is quite inconsiderable, and this is to be explained by the fact, already mentioned, that by means of surplus revenues the country has been to a great extent paying its way as it goes. The debt will for the current fiscal year, and also for the next three years, increase more rapidly on account of the National Transcontinental Railway, but so will the population, and after the present depression disappears there is no reason to doubt that the increase in the annual surpluses will be at a higher rate than ever before.

If more were needed to show how comparatively unimportant is the growth of the public debt, one need only turn to the column showing the net interest on the debt and the average annual rate per cent. With the broken year 1906-07 omitted, the figures are:—

	Net Interest.	Ave. Rates.
1896	$9,202,659	$3 66
1897	9,003,303	3.63
1898	9,264,661	3.52
1899	9,016,594	3.52
1900	9,023,120	3.54
1901	9,083,711	3.50
1902	9,047,186	3.45
1903	8,992,380	3.51
1905	8,674,385	3.40

It is not necessary to point out the fact that the improvement of the credit of the Dominion varies inversely as the rate of interest; that is to say, the improvement of credit is the explanation of the lowering of the rate, and the lowering of the rate is the indication of improvement of credit. No other country of any importance can show such an exhibit. All that is needed to keep credit high is to cut down annual expenditure chargeable to revenue, and thus keep surpluses to set off against debt.—Globe.

Mattie's Milkman.

By MURRAY FIEL.
Copyrighted, 1908, by Associated Literary Press.

Miss Jeannette's objection to Gene Carman was his profession. He was night editor on a morning paper, and he came home anywhere between 2 and 6 o'clock in the morning.

Miss Jeannette was country bred, and for forty years she had accepted without question the dictum that those who were out of night were no better than thieves and robbers.

Just what was the difference between thieves and robbers Miss Jeannette did not know. She knew only that those were the only sort of persons who were out when decent folk should be abed, so when her pretty niece, Mattie Boyer, gave evidence of more than a passing interest in Carman she very promptly frowned upon the young man and warned Mattie that she must have nothing more to do with the Carmans, mother and son.

The latter lived on the floor above Mattie and her maiden aunt, and kindly Mrs. Carman had been a tower of strength to Miss Jeannette when she and Mattie had first come to the city to live.

She had pointed out the best places at which to trade and helped Miss Jeannette to get an obnoxious tenant on the lower floor out of the house and had initiated both the elder and the younger woman into city ways generally.

Naturally it had hurt the old lady when the Boyers had terminated their friendly relations without word of warning, but a hint from Mattie to Gene soon set matters right.

"HEIN'S STUCK ON ME SHAPE AND SENT ME A MASH NOTE."

Mattie was accustomed to Miss Jeannette's sudden whims, and she assured Gene that presently there would be a turn of the tide in his favor. Meanwhile she had to obey Miss Jeannette's prohibition against seeing Gene, so the only communication they held was by means of notes.

Every morning when Gene came home from his work he found a note stuck in the wide mouth of the empty milk bottle beside the Boyer doorway. The milkman came through the house later, gathering up empty bottles and leaving the filled ones.

To any person who chanced to pass it would appear to be a note of instructions to the milkman, but to Gene, coming home tired and sometimes disheartened, the little blue envelopes were like mental cocktails.

The same bottle would not serve as his postoffice as well, for Miss Jeannette took in the milk.

The best that Gene could do was to leave his letters in the candy store on the corner, where Mattie could get them when she returned from her work.

Had Mrs. Carman been willing to act as messenger the problem would have been far more simple, but the kindly old lady would have nothing to do with the affair.

She was hurt that the friendship should be so suddenly terminated and still more hurt that her son should be regarded as ineligible. She wondered at his lack of pride that he should still want to marry Mattie in spite of Miss Jeannette's prohibition, and she was most ostentatiously neutral.

For a time the milk bottle postoffice answered its purpose excellently well. Miss Jeannette went to bed early and let Mattie close the house, so that the latter set the bottle out in the hall every evening.

But one morning Gene did not come home as usual. There had been a sensational accident, and all the men on duty had been rushed to the scene. Even the men on the desks who could be spared were sent out, Gene among them.

It was nearly noon when he at last reached home, so exhausted that not once did he think of the letter. Mind and body were numb, and he did not dream that another man was reading the letter intended for him and was gloating over its contents.

Mattie's letters were not affectionately personal. She knew the danger of the missives falling into other hands, so she wrote vague notes of good cheer.

In the missing one there was an allusion to the long wait for love's culmination, and this gave to Butch Cassidy, the milk boy, the idea that the young woman with the glorious blue eyes was very much interested in him.

"I bet she seen me somewhere on Sunday," he mused. "She's a pippin, but I guess I'm some apples myself when I get me new harness on. It's a darned shame that she didn't pipe up a couple of weeks ago. She'd have put it all over Slim Bleecker's girl at th' ball of th' Milk Wagon Drivers' association. The Lady Flirts give their blowout a week from Thursday, and that's the day after pay day. I wonder would the little dame give a look."

Butch was a firm believer in the adage that "faint heart ne'er won fair lady," so as soon as his horse was stabled and his routine ended he made for the flat house in which the Boyers lived.

He was somewhat taken aback when Miss Jeannette answered the bell. Mattie worked only in the afternoons, reading to an invalid, and generally it was she who paid the bills on Tuesday morning when Butch made his regular round.

"Where's the little lady?" demanded Butch, determined to brave it out. "I want to say suthin' to her."

"My niece is out just now," was the severe response. "I understood that she paid your bill yesterday."

"Bill be blowed," said Butch politely. "This is a personal game, see? I got me money yesterday. I want to make a date wit' her. Get that over your think plate?"

"You?" cried Miss Jeannette in disgust.

"Sure," was the easy response. "She's stuck on me shape and sent me a mash note. I ain't wise up to all her talk, but that's clear. Give a look."

Moved to anger by the incredulity in Miss Jeannette's look, he produced the note, now sadly soiled. "You ain't just what I'd pick for a mommer-in-law, but I guess I'll have to take you wit' th' rest of th' furniture."

Miss Jeannette had lived in dread of a misalliance for Mattie, and now her worst fears seemed about to be realized.

She gave another long, comprehending look at the unshaven young driver and, with a little groan of horror, sank to the floor in a faint.

Butch promptly took his departure after giving a frightened ring on the bell of the flat next door, trusting that some one might come to the woman's relief. He could not know that they had all gone out, so it was Mrs. Carman, summoned by a piano agent, who brought Miss Jeannette back to consciousness. Miss Jeannette clung to her convulsively.

"Did you see that milk wagon driver?" demanded the shuddering Miss Jeannette. "My dear Mrs. Carman, that man is going to marry Mattie. I have heard of young girls eloping with their father's coachman, but with the driver of a milk wagon! Do you know that Mattie actually has been writing letters to him?"

A gleam of comprehension came into Mrs. Carman's kindly eyes. She knew that Gene had come in late that morning, and she could guess the rest. Here might be an opportunity to make things come out all right.

"I suppose that Mattie admired his appearance," she suggested gently. "Young girls very frequently do fall in love with a fine physique, and I recall that the driver is very athletic. If you had not interfered with Gene and she"—

Miss Jeannette grasped her arm. "It's not too late," she declared. "Tell your son that I will make any apology he demands. Perhaps if they see more of each other Mattie will forget this mad infatuation."

"I am quite sure that she will," declared Mrs. Carman comfortingly. "I will speak to Gene and ask him for your sake to try and regain Mattie's love."

Miss Jeannette gave her rescuer a grateful glance, and the little woman withdrew to sit patiently on the front step to warn Mattie when she should return. There Gene found her when he came out to go to work, and he listened in great amusement while his mother explained the situation.

"Of the two evils you are the less," she reminded smilingly. "If Mattie will only play her part well and consent to gradually forget her milkman you have won."

"I don't like being the lesser of Miss Jeannette's two evils," declared Gene happily as he bent to kiss his mother's wrinkled cheek, "but to save Mattie from her milkman I am willing to be even that, dear."

Books of Reference.

Newspaper editors like to answer questions addressed to them by their readers if they are not too hard—and they deem themselves as arbiters rather than as accessories to a misdemeanor when they are appealed to for information "to decide a bet." But they wonder sometimes why certain questions are put to them for arbitrament when the answers are to be found in one of three very accessible books—an almanac, a grammar and a small dictionary.

These are books of reference that ought to be in every home library, however small. We guess that they are, but that they are sometimes dusty with misuse or out of easy reach on a top shelf. It is well to have an almanac, a dictionary or an atlas handy when you are reading your newspaper. By consulting them frequently the reader will find his daily paper relates his early historical studies to present events and makes his touch with the world closer and more significant. DON'T BLAME HER

For she cannot help it. Women are often sores, irritable, hysteric, and declare they are driven to distraction at the slightest provocation.

Men cannot understand why this should be so. To them it is a mystery because in nine times out of ten this condition is caused by a serious feminine derangement.

A remedy is necessary which acts directly upon the organs afflicted, restoring a healthy normal condition to the feminine system, which will quickly dispel all hysterical, nervous and irritable conditions. Such is

RUSSIAN BANDITS IN LONDON'S HEART

British Capital Has Sensational Chase After Robbers.

TWO KILLED; SCORE HURT

Russian Desperadoes Hold Up Automobile Containing Wages of Employees at Rubber Factory and Are Pursued in Trolley Car by the Police and Armed Civilians—Both Captured; One Dead.

London, Jan. 25.—Two persons were killed and 21 injured at Walhamstow, a suburb of London, as the result of a sensational attempt on Saturday by two Russians at highway robbery.

The men were run down and surrounded by a posse and one of them finally committed suicide. The other attempted suicide, but did not succeed. He is now in a critical condition at Tottenham Hospital.

Two of their victims, a policeman and a boy of ten, lie dead, while five of the injured are seriously wounded.

London is breathless over the sensational introduction into its precincts of the Russian revolutionary methods. It was thought at first that the assassins were Italians, but the injured bandit admitted last night that he is a native of Riga, Russia, and came to England two years ago. One of the revolvers used by the men was found to be the same type as that used by Russian revolutionists.

The bandits, who evidently were intimately acquainted with the routine in the payment on Saturday of the employes at a rubber factory in Walhamstow, held up an automobile containing the employes' wages, at the entrance to the works, and made off with the money. They were followed by a few employes and a gradually increasing crowd of police and civilians, some of whom were armed.

The police jumped aboard a trolley car and the bandits, finding themselves closely pursued, jumped aboard another and forced the driver, with a revolver at his head, to send the car along at full speed.

One of the men ran to the rear of the car and repeatedly emptied his revolver at the pursuers. Reinforcements of armed police on foot, bicycles and horseback, joined in the chase and fusilades were fired for a mile.

The cars went thundering down the track, with the mounted and bicycle police straining every effort to keep up with the pacemakers. Nearing the Tottenham marshes, the bandits made the motorman slow down, and jumped off, seized a milk cart and made for the country district.

An automobile was pressed into the service by the police, and it was rapidly overhauling the assassins when they took to the marshes.

The pursuit through this treacherous ground was difficult and dangerous, but eventually the police succeeded in overtaking one of the men, who, finding his position hopeless, turned his weapon upon himself, inflicting a dangerous though not a fatal wound. The other man failing to reach Epping Forest, took refuge in a cottage, which the police, now reinforced by duck shooters who were in the vicinity, first fusiladed and then stormed. They found the assassin dead on the floor. He had sent a bullet into his head.

The wounded man was identified as Paul Hefeld of Riga. He had been a seaman. The other, who was known as Jacob, is said to have been a prominent Russian revolutionist.

Runaway Girl's Strange Bed.

Poughkeepsie, N.Y., Jan. 25.—While pursuing a cat Saturday night a small boy discovered living under a stoop in Peekskill, Grace Powers, 15 years old, who had disappeared five months ago, to evade capture by the police on a charge of theft.

The young girl had burrowed a bed in the ground and was garbed in burlap bags, which served her both for bedding and clothes. For nearly five months, during which time she had remained hidden in her strange retreat, she had crept out at night and stolen scraps of food from neighboring houses. She was removed to the Peekskill Hospital.

Carrie Nation In London.

London, Jan. 25.—Carrie Nation invaded London Saturday night and caused a scene at Oxford Music Hall. She was ejected.

To Suffer From Headaches Makes Life Miserable.

It takes a person that has had or is subject to headaches to describe the suffering which attends them.

The majority of cases are caused by constipation and dyspepsia. The dull throbbings, the intense pain, sometimes in one part, sometimes in another, and then over the whole head, varying in its severity by the cause which brings it on, purely indicates that there is something the matter with the stomach or bowels. To the fact that Burdock Blood Bitters reaches every part of the system is due its success in relieving and permanently curing headache. It has proven a specific for the malady in all its forms.

CONSTIPATION AND HEADACHES.

Mrs. Allison E. Brown, Summerfield, N.B., writes:—"I have been troubled with Constipation and Headaches for a long time. After trying different doctors to no effect, a friend asked me to try Burdock Blood Bitters. I find I am completely cured after taking three bottles. I can safely recommend it to all."

NATURE A VERY SKILFUL PHYSICIAN

Puts Up Her Medicines in Most Tempting Form.

Have you ever tasted anything more delicious than the fresh, ripe, luscious fruits? These are Nature's medicines.

A regular diet without fruit is positively dangerous, for the system soon gets clogged with waste matter and the blood poisoned. Fruit Juices stir up Bowels, Kidneys and Skin, making them work vigorously to throw off the dead tissue and indigestible food which, if retained, soon poison the blood and cause Indigestion, Headaches, Rheumatism, Neuralgia and a host of other distressing troubles.

But there is a quicker way to stimulate the organs to do their work properly. Take one or two "Fruit-a-tives" tablets every night, besides eating some fresh fruit every day. "Fruit-a-tives" combine the medicinal properties—many times intensified—of oranges, apples, prunes and figs, with the best tonics and internal disinfectants added.

Their action on Bowels, Liver, Kidneys and Skin is as natural as Nature's own, but quicker and more effective. Sold by all dealers—25c. for trial box—50c. for regular size—6 boxes for $2.50. Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

CANADIAN NORTHERN PLANS

Road Will Make Three Extensions In Alberta.

Edmonton, Alta., Jan. 25.—As a result of a conference between the Rutherford Government and D. D. Mann, the vice-president of the C.N.R., is in a position to state there are three extensions to be decided on. The Government has not yet stated what will be the basis of the guarantee, but it is understood that it will be practically the same as that of the Saskatchewan Government.

At as early a date as possible a line will be projected from Edmonton northwest to Fort Assiniboine on the Athabasca River, and eventually to Lesser Slave Lake and the Peace River Crossing. This will tap the great north country.

It is understood that the C.N.R. will build a line from a point near the eastern boundary to Edmonton, north of the Saskatchewan River. This branch will open up the country northeast of Edmonton.

The third line will probably run from Strathcona to Calgary, making a wide detour to the east to Penetae, that great area where settlers have been flocking in in increasing numbers each year. All three lines will have terminals in Edmonton. Other lines will undoubtedly be built by the C.N.R., but it was not known Saturday what direction they will take.

BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES.

Headed by Princess Louise (Duchess of Argyll) London women are working as recruiting agents for the new Territorial Force.

The Earl of Leicester died at his ancestral home, Holkham Hall, Wells, Norfolk, England. He was the patriarch of the English peerage, having been born in 1822.

While practicing with the junior hockey players at Port Arthur Thomas Friday received a cut across the eye which was so badly injured that it was necessary to remove the ball.

Constable Thurlow caught a man giving the name of Joseph Dutton in the Western Clothing Store in Port Arthur, and found he had about $200 worth of goods sacked, ready for removal.

Mayor Tom L. Johnson, although supposed to be politically dead so far as the mayoralty is concerned, by the failure of his three-cent fare operation of the city's traction system, is to try for the mayoralty next fall.

Bye-Election In B. C.

Ottawa, Jan. 25.—The writ for the Comox-Atlin bye-election was issued on Saturday. The returning officer will fix the date, which will probably be early in March.

Conservatives here expect the return of the Minister of Inland Revenue will be contested, though this will of course depend on conditions in the constituency.

The debate on the address will be continued to-day by Ralph Smith (Nanaimo), and Goodeve (Kootenay) and Taylor (New Westminster) will also speak. It is hoped to wind up by 6 o'clock, but several new members from other provinces want to break the ice, and consider this the best chance that will come along for some time.

It is rumored that Joseph Martin, K.C., will be asked to run as an Independent candidate.

Arnprior and Pontiac Railway.

Ottawa, Jan. 25.—Application will be made to Parliament this session for the incorporation of the Arnprior & Pontiac Railway Co., with power to build and operate a line of railway from the Pontiac Pacific Junction line between Quyon and Campbell's Bay, southerly across the Ottawa River to Fitzroy Harbor, and thence westerly via Arnprior to a point on the Kingston & Pembroke Railway at High Falls, also from Fitzroy Harbor easterly to a point on the Canadian Pacific Railway at or near Britannia, and to a point on the Grand Trunk at or near South March, with power also to construct a passenger and railway bridge across the Ottawa River at the Chats Falls.

Firemen Must Be Bigger.

Albany, Jan. 25.—The fire-fighters of New York City are not tall enough, nor do they weigh enough. The state civil service commission has issued an edict at the request of Chief Croker of New York, that in the future all firemen must be one inch taller and weigh five pounds more than is required at present, or 5 feet 8 inches, and 140 pounds, respectively.

Murder In Kansas City.

Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 25.—Stephen P. Hood, agent for the Fidelity & Casualty Co. here, was shot and killed by Walter Blanton in the office of the company on Friday evening. Blanton surrendered.

DEATH OF ANGLICAN PRIMATE OF CANADA

Rev. Arthur Sweatman Passes Away in Toronto.

BISHOP NEARLY 20 YEARS

Eminent Churchman and Educationist Succumbs to Pneumonia In His Seventy-Fifth Year—Was Unconscious When the End Came—Family Were Present—Came From England In 1850.

Toronto, Jan. 25.—After a week's illness the death occurred yesterday afternoon, shortly after one o'clock, of His Grace, the Most Rev. Arthur Sweatman, D.D., L.C.L., Lord Archbishop of Toronto, Primate of All Canada and Metropolitan, in his 74th year. Pneumonia was the cause of death.

The end came peacefully at the See House, Howland avenue. His grace has not enjoyed the best of health for the past two years, and on his return from the induction of Bishop Farthing as Bishop of Montreal, he betrayed symptoms of illness. Although nothing serious was anticipated, his family prevailed upon him not to attend last Sunday's services at St. Alban's Cathedral. On Monday His Grace was suffering apparently from a severe cold. Dr. Harrington and Dr. Grassett were called in, and diagnosed the illness as bronchial pneumonia. Mid-week it was thought that improvement had set in, but on Friday there was a turn for the worse and on Saturday it was reported there was only a "fighting chance."

Rev. Canon MacNab said last night that on Friday morning Archbishop Sweatman received "the blessed sacrament." The archbishop was able to participate in the service and derived much comfort from it. He began to fail noticeably late on Saturday afternoon.

Canon MacNab said that he was with the archbishop at 4 o'clock yesterday morning. At 7 o'clock he gave the archbishop the commending prayers of the church for the dying.

Yesterday morning about an hour before daybreak Canon MacNab said he was with the archbishop. He turned on the electric lights so that he could see to read to him. The archbishop gazed around and asked: "Am I dead? Is this death?" These were the last words the archbishop said.

After that the archbishop lapsed into unconsciousness and remained so until the end.

There were present when the end came John, Stanley and Charles, sons of the archbishop, and a daughter, Miss Gladys, with Canon MacNab and the faimly physician, Dr. A. J. Harrington. Mrs. Walter of Kingston, another daughter, arrived later in the afternoon.

No arrangements have as yet been made for the funeral.

His Grace the Most Rev. Arthur Sweatman, M.A., D.D., D.C.L., was born Nov. 19, 1834, in London, England. The son of an eminent London physician, the late Dr. John Sweatman of Middlesex Hospital, his early education was obtained in private schools. His Christian ministry may be said o have commenced in 1849, when, at the age of 15, he engaged in Sunday school teaching in the parish of Christ Church, Marylebone.

After several years passed as a student at University College, London, he graduated in 1859 from Christ's College, Cambridge, with the degree of B.A., obtaining high honors in mathematics, in which he was graded senor optime. In 1862 he proceeded to the degree of M.A.

Ordained deacon by Bishop Tait of St. Paul's Cathedral in 1859, and priested the following year in the Chapel Royal, Whitehall. He then took the curacy of Holy Trinity Church, Islington.

Dr. Sweatman came to Canada in 1865 to assume the headmastership of the newly-founded London Collegiate Institute. Three years later he was married in England to Miss Garland of Islington.

In 1871 he became mathematical and science master in Upper Canada College. He then became rector of Grace Church, Brantford, where he was also made examining chaplain to the Bishop of Huron. In 1873 to 1879 he held the offices of clerical secretary to the Synod of Huron and secretary to the House of Bishops.

In 1874 he became headmaster of Hellmuth College, and two years later rector of Woodstock and Archdeacon of Brant.

He was consecrated Bishop of Toronto May 1, 1879, in St. James' Cathedral. In the same year he was honored by his alma mater, Cambridge, with the degree of D.D., jure dignitatis, and in 1882 Trinity University, Toronto, made him D.C.L.

Dr. Sweatman was destined for the highest honor in the gift of the Canadian church, and his election as Archbishop and Metropolitan and Primate of all Canada on Jan. 16, 1907, was received by laity and clergy alike with every evidence of sincere satisfaction and hearty approval.

DROWNED IN GULLY POND.

Two Hamilton Boys Lose Lives While Skating.

Hamilton, Jan. 25.—James Wright, 2 Mill street, nine years of age, and John Taylor, 157 North Bay street, 13 years old, were drowned on Saturday morning in one of the Caroline street gullies in rear of the Grant Spring Brewery.

Although the area of the gully is not large, the water is 20 feet deep. The boys were skating, and the ice, weakened by the thaw, gave way.

Taylor's body was recovered almost immediately, but all attempts to resuscitate him were in vain. The body of his unfortunate chum was not found until two o'clock Saturday afternoon.

When the boys sank, a youth named Roundtree managed to get them both out, but the ice gave way under the trio, and Roundtree had all he could do to save himself. He was exhausted when he managed to crawl out.

Taylor was still living when he was rescued the second time, and if anybody versed in giving the proper kind of treatment had been there his life might have been saved.

TWO FISHERMEN DROWN.

Broke Through Ice Near Deseronto—Cries Were Heard.

Deseronto, Jan. 25.—Two fishermen named Rubin Lindsay and Frank Kimmerly were drowned near here on Friday night.

They were crossing the ice about 11 o'clock going to their fish shanty near Foresters' Island when the ice gave way, letting them both through.

Their cries were heard by some other fishermen near by, but by the time they were reached they had gone down for the last time.

Boy Drowned at Brantford.

Brantford, Jan. 25.—Johnny Leitch, the six-year-old son of Mrs. T. J. Leitch, widow of a former Hamilton druggist, was drowned in the canal here yesterday afternoon.

The little fellow wandered from his grandmother's residence and met with unknown companions, with whom he ventured on the thin ice covering the canal. He went through, and firemen were unable to recover the body.

His mother identified a cap which caught on the ice as that of her son. She is a resident of London, and was here on a brief visit to Mrs. John A. Leitch.

Within three days two men have been drowned at Picton, two men at Deseronto and two boys at Hamilton by breaking through ice.

New Railway Planned.

Havelock, Jan. 25.—A scheme by which the mining property in East Peterboro will be made very valuable is under consideration at the present time. In link with it is a plan to run a direct line to the Kawartha's popular summer resorts, and thus make those lakes the most popular in the country.

An application will shortly be made to Parliament for an act to incorporate a company for the purpose of constructing and operating an electric line between Cobourg and Havelock.

There is plenty of money behind the scheme.

Woman Badly Burned.

London, Jan. 25.—Mrs. Mary Weaver, an aged woman who lives alone at the corner of Wellington road and Clarke street, South London, was found in her home on Thursday evening in an unconscious condition, suffering from terrible burns to both her feet.

The reaction of coming into the hot room from outside and sitting down close to the fire caused her to faint, and in falling from her chair her right leg and foot fell directly against the hot stove.

Must Carry All Freight.

Atlanta, Ga., Jan. 25.—Common carriers cannot legally refuse to accept shipments of a certain commodity in order that they may better handle another, and the prompt handling of the latter gives it no imperial rights over the other products of a state. This is the law and its interpretation, as laid down by the Supreme Court of Georgia, in a case appealed by the Ocean Steamship Co., against the Savannah Locomotive Works and Supply Co.

Bump For Harriman.

Washington, Jan. 25.—That President Roosevelt's recommendation of an appropriation to reimburse E. H. Harriman for the expenditure of about $2,000,000 by the Southern Pacific Railway Co. to control the overflow of the Colorado River into Salton Sink, a few years ago, will be disregarded by Congress now appears probable.

Governor Wasn't Lost.

Winnipeg, Jan. 25.—A few days ago a local paper printed a statement to the effect that the Legislature could not be summoned owing to the absence of the Lieutenant-Governor, whose whereabouts were unknown. There was no truth in the announcement.

His honor left on a trip to the south some weeks ago, and was in constant communication with Winnipeg.

He returned to the city on Thursday, and the date of the opening of the Legislaure was thereupon announced as Feb. 4.

Senate's Gala Night.

Ottawa, Jan. 25.—The vice-regal drawing-room held in the Senate chamber Saturday night was one of the most largely attended in recent years. His Excellency, in full court uniform, and Countess Grey took their places on the dais and between the hours of 9 and 10 received upwards of 500, a large number being debutantes. After the drawing-room, Mrs. Marcel held a reception in the Speaker's apartments.

MESSRS. P. CONNAL & SONS CHRISTMAS WINDOW DISPLAY

The Canadian Grocer of January 15th has the following complimentary reference regarding the design of Messrs. Connal & Son's Christmas window display which was awarded second prize in Class I in the recent Holiday Window Dressing Competition:

The second prize window in Class I. won its place more because of the novelty of arrangement and the new ideas presented rather than for any fine decoration effects. A taking feature of this window, too, is that practically everything bears a price ticket. In describing the window, Connal & Son say:

"The idea of the window was to emphasize the quality of our goods as the Queen of Quality. The central figure, a beautiful doll, dressed in royal robes, with a crown of gold on her head, stands under a light canopy made of light framework trimmed with silver paper, with a white sateen curtain as a background. The roof is made from paper covered with silver paper. The ridges of roof are trimmed with holly, with silver tinsel hung in loops along the eves as a finish. The floor of the window was built up at the back with steps leading down to the front of the window. The whole was covered with white sheet cotton batting. Along the front of the window are arranged nuts of all kinds, with price tickets attached. On the steps were placed fancy table raisins in kind with a price card on it. A clothes basket filled with California seedless oranges placed on each side of the queen's canopy completed the window."

The Grocer also prints a very clear double column half tone reproduction of the Connal window.

CARD OF THANKS.

VALUES IN WAGES IN CANADA.

Ottawa, January 25 — The Census and Statistics Office issues to-day the results of a report for the year ended December 31 ultimo, on farm land values in the Dominion, the values of farm animals, and the averages of farm and domestic wages.

The average value of farm land for all the provinces is $35.70 per acre. In five of the provinces it is under $30, being $27.30 in Manitoba, $25.00 in Nova Scotia, $21.40 in New Brunswick, $20.40 in Saskatchewan and $18.20 in Alberta. In Prince Edward Island the average is $33.70 per acre, in Quebec $41.90, in Ontario $47.30 and in British Columbia $76.10. Values are high in the last named province owing to the comparatively large extent of farm land there in orchard and small fruits.

The average value of horses at the end of the year is $46.00 for ones under one year, $100.00 for ones of one to under three years, and $143.00 for ones of three years and over. Horses of the last class are below an average of $120 in Prince Edward Island, Nova Scotia and Alberta; in New Brunswick, Quebec and Ontario they are about $140.00, and in Manitoba and Saskatchewan they are $170.00 to $176.00. Milch cows have an average value in the Dominion of $34.00, ranging from $29.00 in Prince Edward Island and New Brunswick to $36.00 in Ontario and $37.00 in Saskatchewan, but in British Columbia the average is $48.00. Other horned cattle have an average value over the Dominion of $9.00 for ones under one year, $21.00 for ones of one to under three years, and $32.00 for ones of three years and over. These averages are generally close for all the provinces, but the highest values are given for Ontario and the Western provinces.

The average value of swine is given as $5.86 per 100 lb. live weight, being lowest in Manitoba, Saskatchewan, and Alberta, and highest in Quebec, Ontario and British Columbia. Sheep are given an average value of $5.23 per head for the Dominion, and are below the average in the Maritime Provinces, Quebec and Saskatchewan.

The total value of farm animals computed on the foregoing averages and the number of animals on farms in June was $530,000,000. The June price of wool for the Dominion was 18 cents per pound.

The average wages of farm and domestic help for the Dominion per month was $24.80 for males and $13.50 for females, and $208 per year for males and $130 for females. The highest averages are reported for the Western Provinces, where they reach about $300 per year, for males, and $160 for females. In Ontario and Quebec the average for males is about $240, and for females $120 per year.

HILDA SPONG,

MEMBERS OF TEST DEPARTMENT OF C. G. E. CORDIALLY WELCOME THEIR NEW FOREMAN, MR. WAGNER

Enjoyable Function at Coleman's on Saturday Night — Splendid Banquet Followed by Toast List and Music — Favourable Augury for the Future Work.

A POPULAR FOREMAN.

If mutual respect and cordiality between the foreman of a department of any business establishment and those under his direction, are prophetic of its success, the future work of the Test Department of the C. G. E. should be of the most satisfactory nature to all concerned. The sentiments, indirectly expressed but none the less evident, at the splendid banquet tendered Mr. Robt. E. Wagner, the new foreman of the Test Department, on Saturday night, displayed a harmony of feeling and a spirit of geniality that augurs well for the future relations in that very important branch of the C. G. E. Works.

Mr. Wagner is recently from Schenectady, but he has already won the esteem of those in his charge and the completeness of the affair on Saturday night simply manifested the fact that Mr. Wagner has already established his popularity as foreman of the Test.

Those Present

The banquet was held at Coleman's and its success is in no small degree due to the careful and dainty manner in which each course was prepared and served. The following sat down to the tempting spread, which was done full justice to:

Messrs. R. S. Cotton, H. Dextutel, C. Lappe, W. G. Hall, S. W. Cannift, R. E. Wagner, G. H. Thornton, of the Transformer Department; J. W. Mackie, H. Fairweather, W. Hatton, C. E. Sisson, of the Engineering Department; H. B. Whyte, G. S. Stewart, B. Millar, Herbert L. Sheen, H. N. Bennett, H. D. Moss, J. Lowes, H. V. Maynard, J. H. Caster, F. W. McNeill, D. W. Richmond, T. Eardley-Wilmot and an Examiner representative.

The Toast List

In more ways than one this banquet was the most successful ever held under the auspices of the Test. The provision made for the inner man was all that could be desired, but the afterpart surpassed previous functions. Under the spell of My Lady Nicotine's soothing charm the post prandial speeches were most appropriate and not a dull moment ticked by. Mr. S. W. Cannift, as chairman, filled that position in a very capable manner, with the result that the interest was unabated until the last echo of the National Anthem had died away, at an hour bordering closely to that which ushered in Sunday morning.

The following is the list of toasts honoured:

The King—proposed by Mr. Hall, and honoured by the singing of God Save the King.

Canada—proposed by Mr. Lowes and responded to by Mr. Sisson.

Our Guest—proposed by Mr. Maynard, responded to by Messrs. Warner of the Test, Thornton of the Transformer; Theobald of the Press.

The Ladies—proposed by Mr. Caster and responded by Messrs. Stewart and Lappe.

The Test—proposed by Mr. Hatton and responded to by Mr. Whyte.

Our Host—proposed by Mr. Cannift and responded to by Mr. Coleman.

Musical Programme

Vocal Solo—Mr. Moss
Anecdotal—Mr. Cotton
Vocal Solo—Mr. McNeill
Vocal Solo—Mr. Fairweather
Vocal Solo—Mr. Mackie
Recitation—Mr. Sheen

The accompaniments were played by Mr. Harry Theobald.

Mr. Mackie sang splendidly "The Skippers of St. Ives," and "The Clang of the Forge." Mr. Fairweather sang "The Trumpeter" in a pleasing manner and Mr. McNeill's songs were very much enjoyed.

The Speeches

Mr. C. E. Sisson made a capital speech in his response to the toast to Canada. He dealt briefly but pointedly with the splendid progress we have made and stated that ever in the electrical business as an example, was her importance being recognized by the other nations.

Mr. Wagner in his speech, thanked the members of the Test for the cordial greeting they had extended to him in his new position. He hoped they would always operate harmoniously together for the best success of their department and the works. He pointed out the importance of the Test and gave a description of that in which he had been employed in Schenectady. He impressed upon the young men the necessity of accuracy, economy and neatness in their work. He again thanked them for the reception they had given him and expressed the hope that the good feeling would continue.

"It certainly will" in chorus.

Mr. Thornton also spoke well and interestingly.

This account would scarce be complete without reference to the toast to the ladies. Messrs Caster, Stewart and Lappe said all the nice things that they could think of, and these were many.

Mr. Coleman thanked the young men for the manifest appreciation of his services and sang two songs. The latter was "Rising Early in the Morning" which required the full chorus. Before "God Save the King" was sung, the graduates from McGill and S. P. S. gave a few remin iscences of their Alma Maters by several college songs and yells, forming a grand finale to an evening that everyone enjoyed.

THE PRIVATE SECRETARY

ADVERTISING THE CITY OF HULL

Company Offers to do so if the City Will Fix Assessment for New Industries.

At present the Council is considering the question of arriving at some plan of placing Peterborough's facilities before outside manufacturers looking for new locations. The following proposal of Senator W. C. Edwards, president of the Hull & Ottawa Power Co., to advertise Hull may be of interest locally.

Senator Edwards said that they were willing to advertise the city at their own expense, if the Hull Council would make a fixed reasonable assessment for new industries. They owned a large portion of land along the river front, and it was probable that the C.P.R. would run a spur line from the Interprovincial Bridge to the Chaudiere.

PETERBORO' GAINING GROUND MUSICALLY

Writer States Progress Has Been Made and Predicts Welcome to Toronto Orchestra if They Come Here.

Not all musicians are aware of the interesting phase through which the Toronto Symphony Orchestra is now passing. The work of past seasons has given to it much valuable experience, and the preliminary and important work of organization and the assembling of the various parts into one harmonious unit has been through the hard work of many owners of the enterprise, successfully accomplished. It now remains for the orchestra to place itself both financially and artistically in the same class as its great prototypes on this continent and in Europe. Only those in immediate contact with the problems to be solved in carrying out this idea have any conception of the difficulties to be overcome, but there is not the slightest doubt that is due time the orchestra will attain the required strength. In this connection it is interesting to learn that plans are being formed to give an orchestral concert in Peterborough in the course of two or three weeks, which many friends of the orchestra in that city think should be an unqualified success. Peterborough is rapidly gaining ground as a musical centre, and there is every reason to believe that a first class attraction of this kind will receive the support it deserves. When the Toronto Symphony Orchestra has increased its repertoire of fine orchestral works so that engagements may be taken at short notice, there is no doubt that it will be heard in towns and cities all over Canada and in the United States. In the meantime perfection in every undertaking is considered of more importance than continuous appearances of inferior merit, and the high ideals of the conductor will be satisfied with nothing but the best of effects.—Toronto Globe

WORKED IN THIS CITY.

The story of how men in any enterprise climb the ladder of success is always instructive and inspiring. It is full of human interest, that quality which arouses the indifferent to action, the struggling to renewed effort, and the successful to greater achievments.

Not very many years ago Walter H. Cottingham was weighing putty and nails in the retail hardware store of McKee & Davidson, in Peterborough; a few days ago he was elected president of the entire Sherwin-Williams organization, one of the greatest business concerns on the globe. At fifteen years a junior clerk; at forty-three occupying the highest office that the directors of an establishment which ranks foremost in the paint and varnish world of two countries, can bestow.

How did he rise? He had no influential friends, wealthy relatives or other levers sometimes used to give men a lift, and Walter H. Cottingham is a Canadian, of whom his countrymen are proud. As a boy he possessed enthusiasm and the ability to see the essenital things in whatever he undertook. He had the gift of imagination. The most renowned leaders in any line of endeavour have been visionaries, and Mr. Cottingham always dreamed of future prominence and power with all the enthusiasm of youth. To-day he pays tribute to imagination as an integral element of success. "Factories of air must precede factories of brick and warehouses exist first in the imagination," is one of his business maxims. He has travelled the rough road to eminence alone and is a splendid example of that class who always excel the self-made man. He believes there are two things which largely determine a man's success in business — his knowledge of his own business and an intimate acquaintance with human nature.

The little village of Omemee, a few miles north of Peterborough, was his birth place. His first job was with the hardware store in Peterborough where he spent one year, after which he was attracted to Montreal with its greater field of operation. It was during the first five years of his residence in that city, working with a comission merchant in hardware and paints, that he gained preliminary knowledge of the paint business and its great possibilities, as well as his comprehension of human nature.

In 1887, Mr. Cottingham launched out in the troubled sea of commerce as an independent maker of gold paint and other specialties. So modest and unostentatious was this undertaking that scarcely a ripple was raised on the commercial ocean. Failure and shipwreck were predicted for him and his enterprise. He received lots of advice, by far the larger part of which was to stay on shore where it was at least safe. Columbus got the same advice continuously from the day he stood the egg on end until he picked up the seaweed floating off the American shore. In the new firm Mr. Cottingham was manufacturer, salesman, buyer and most of the incidental positions that go to make up the staff of a manufacturing concern. But he wasn't so poorly equipped as a casual glance at his establishment or a Dun report would have us believe. He made his own paint; he knew what was in it, and consequently, could sell it without misgivings. His stock of enthusiasm was inexhaustible, and his faith in himself and his proposition strong and unwavering.

At the age of 35 years (1891) Mr. Cottingham was a miniature captain of industry. The following list of industries in which he was at that time interested will show what good use he made of his time. He was proprietor of Walter H. Cottingham & Co., makers of paints and varnishes; senior partner of Cottingham, Robertson & Co., package dyes dyes and dye stuffs; proprietor of the Windsor Chemical Co., makers of gold paint and gold specialties; proprietor of the St. Lawrence Canoe and Boat Co., makers of and dealers in canoes, boats and fittings; director of the Non-Chemical Laundry Co. It then occurred to him that he was getting his eggs distributed in too many baskets, so he gathered them all into one basket and devoted his energy to watching that basket. He saw the increasing demand for paint and varnish, so the Walter H. Cottingham Co. grew and flourished under his now focussed attention. They secured selling agencies for the leading English and American paint and varnish makers, among them the Sherwin-Williams Co. This arrangement had not been long in force before the energetic manager saw the opening for the manufacture in Canada of high-grade goods, and following up this idea he induced the Sherwin-Williams Co. to join with him in manufacturing their goods in Canada. The firm name was now changed to Walter H. Cottingham Co., Limited, and a subsidiary company was organized for the manufacture of varnish, it being called the Cottingham Varnish Co. The goods, which, under his new arrangement he had undertaken to make and sell were the highest priced in the United States, and higher than any other brand sold in Canada.

In 1896 the Walter H. Cottingham and the Cottingham Varnish Companies were merged with the Sherwin-Williams Co., and they had by this time become such important factors in the Canadian paint and varnish market that under the new arrangement, the proprietor was made a director of the Sherwin-Williams Co., and manager of the Canadian business. In this capacity Mr. Cottingham displayed the keen business acumen and power of organization that marked him as a general of commerce. He immediately attracted and held the attention of the home office at Cleveland, and, when the business demanded a man who could properly guide and aid its further growth, all eyes were turned to Montreal. In 1898 Mr. Cottingham was appointed to the general managership of the entire company, to which, in 1903, was added the title and responsibilities of vice-president. A few days ago, at a meeting of the directors held in Cleveland, he was appointed president of the entire Sherwin-Williams' organization, both in the United States and Canada, Mr. Williams retiring from the presidency, and being made chairman of the board.

During the 12 years that Mr. Cottingham has guided the destinies of the Sherwin-Williams Co. their operations have largely increased, and he, while still a young man, has the gratification of knowing that the reputation and sales of his company are yearly growing under his guidance.

Trunk Of Boots And Shoes Actually Contained Whiskey

It Was Destined for Millbrook But Was Intercepted at the G. T. R. Station and Figured To-day in a Police Court Case.

ENLARGED UNTIL FRIDAY.

It a trunk of "boots and shoes" had found its way to local option Millbrook on Friday last when opened at its destination its contents would have been found to have been transformed to whiskey. The disclosure, however, was made at the police court this morning, when a charge against Mr. Alex Elliott for unlawfully selling Liquor to a person who bought it to resell, was heard. It appears that the trunk was delivered to the G.T.R. station and that Mr. Croaker, proprietor of the Queen's Hotel, Millbrook, in his anxiety to find it, aroused suspicion at the station, as did also the fact that it came from a liquor store. This was increased when Mr. Croaker said the trunk contained boots and shoes.

First Witness

Mr. W E Scott stated that he was a detective on the G.T.R. "I have seen Mr. John Croaker, of Millbrook. He is a hotel keeper. I saw him at the station on Friday and thought he was acting queerly as if looking for something he could not find. He finally found this trunk. I heard him ask the baggageman to check it to Millbrook. It was overweight and was therefore not checked. It weighed 226 lbs. I heard him tell the baggageman that it contained boots and shoes. The baggageman told him to open it and if it contained boots and shoes he would check it, if not, he wouldn't. He admitted that it did not contain boots and shoes and that it came from A. Elliott's."

I said, "I guess that's whiskey, you would like to take it back,' and Croaker replied "yes." "I showed him my badge, and he said, "I guess I'm caught." He left the baggage-room then. Of my own knowledge I do not know what it contains.'

To Mr. Gordon witness said he had been told on saturday that Croaker conducted a hotel. "No one pointed out Croaker's actions to me at the station," witness said. "I noticed him myself. It's my business to notice all-sorts around stations." Mr. Gordon remarked to witness that Mr. Croaker was not a hotel keeper.

P. C. Meharry's Evidence

John Meharry, police constable, was next examined. "I saw Mr. Croaker on Friday night, Jan. 22, at the G. T.R. station. I asked him if his name was Croaker and he said yes. I told him I was a policeman. He asked me what they were going to do about that trunk. He said his solicitor had told him that the law would not allow us to hold it. He said he had four cases of whiskey and a jar that contained 21-2 gallons of the same. He told me he got it at Alex Elliott's. He said it would have been better if he had let the trunk go to h—. I went to Millbrook on Saturday and served him with a subpoena. I found him in the bar room of his hotel, the Queen's. I saw his name on small bill heads, stating that he was proprietor. I saw one bottle labelled whiskey. There was a lot of other stuff; I don't know what it was. I saw people drinking. The place was conducted like any ordinary hotel. I paid 40 cents for my dinner and two other men who had also had dinner, paid 25 cents each. Geo. Raper is the bar tender. He said they had no license and would not likely get it again in Millbrook.

John George was sworn and stated he was a baggageman at the G.T.R. station. His evidence was in part as follows:—"I had my doubts about the trunk and I checked it instead of Mr. Calder, whom he had asked to have it checked. He told me he had boots and shoes in the trunk. I understood the trunk had come from Alex Elliott's, and I said it was strange that it should be filled with boots and shoes, coming from there. He admitted to Mr. Scott that he was caught.

The trunk came from Millbrook on Jan. 13th. It was light at that time. I think there was something in it although I don't know what it was. I think I have noticed this trunk before. I could say I have seen it three times."

Box Opened

Other witnesses were called among them being Mr. Kenney, Mr. Wm. Closson, driver, for retail department; Robert Graham, an employee of bottling department in the wholesale business. Nothing particularly exciting was produced. The box was opened and was found packed with pint bottles of the long variety, each filled to the neck. There was also a demijohn that contained the 2 1-2 gals. The case was enlarged until Friday as requested by both parties.

First Shot In The Local Option Campaign Fired Last Night

One of the opening guns in the local option campaigns that is being started in Peterborough was fired last night in St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, by Rev. Robt. Pogue, who delivered the first of a series of sermons on "Temperance," from the text, "And the times of this ignorance God winked at, but now commandeth all men everywhere to repent." Acts 17:30. Rev. Mr. Pogue showed that the time has come when people will be held responsible by God if they do not work for the abolition of the liquor traffic.

One hundred years ago people allowed slavery because they did not realize its harmful influences. One hundred year ago even ministers opposed the expenditure of money for foreign missions. Those times have passed. Peoples eyes were opened, they saw conditions as they were, they drove out slavery and now are supporting foreign missions liberally. One hundred years ago, also, there was much ignorance in regard to the liquor traffic. It was believed that liquor was beneficial in many ways. Ministers thought they preached better if they had two glasses instead of one before the service. Drunken mobs attended weddings, and it was believed that liquor was a necessity to every social function. The observance of the Lord's Supper in Presbyterian circles was generally followed by a Thank giving service at which whiskey flowed like water.

Of late years we have found conclusively that the effects of alcohol are injurious instead of beneficial; that it stunts the growth, causes insanity, poverty and crime. Insurance companies would rather insure a total abstainer than a heavy drinker. People who now do not realize the demoralizing and disastrous effects of the liquor traffic are wilfully ignorant, and will be held accountable by God for their ignorance. Every one who recommends the use of liquor or who, by his vote, favours its continuance is doing incalculable harm to his fellow men. Every man who uses it as a beverage is guilty in the eyes of God, because he wastes his intellect and strength which were given him by God to be conserved for.

While all moderate drinkers are not drunkards, all drunkards were once moderate drinkers. Moderate drinkers may become drunkards. Our forefathers did not realize that alcohol increased the appetite for liquor. We do. Thus there is only one thing we should do and that is to abstain.

The Liquor bill of the United States is now almost $1,500,000,000 annually. Protest is raised because we talk of spending two or three millions for missions, and yet, we send many times that to the coffers of the rum sellers. It is our duty to try to secure the utter annihilation of the liquor triffic. It has brought nothing but crime and misery. Wherever it goes it fills prisons and mad houses, creates brothels and gambling houses and translates roughshod on wives and little children. It should be destroyed as we would shoot a mad dog. We would not try to reform the dog, we would get rid of him. The only consistent thing to do with the liquor traffic is to get rid of it.—

REPUBLIC SANK NEAR THE HARBOUR

Liners Republic and Florida Disabled Off Nantucket.

BROUGHT AID BY WIRELESS

Huge Liners Carrying More Than 1,150 Passengers Are Involved In Remarkable Accident In Which Six Lives Are Lost—Seven Big Ocean Liners Went to Scene of Accident —Republic Is Under Water.

New York, Jan. 25.—The drama of the sea, which, for more than 24 hours the whole world has practically simultaneously witnessed through the agency of wireless telegraphy, and which has not been without tragic features, ran through its last sensational scenes with the sinking of the Republic Sunday night when almost safe in harbor.

The ramming of the White Star liner Republic in a dense fog early Saturday morning by the Lloyd Italiano line steamship Florida off Nantucket Light, Mass., has been followed by a series of events constituting one of the most remarkable of ocean mishaps on record.

No less than seven ocean liners—the Baltic, New York, Furnessia, La Lorraine and Lucana—and the two crippled ships—Republic and Florida—are figuring in this stirring story.

The 442 passengers of the Republic have undergone two transfers on the open sea, first to the crippled Florida on Saturday morning and again early yesterday to the commodious Baltic, which is bringing also the 900 and more passengers from the disabled Florida.

With the great human cargo of 1,650 rescued persons, besides her own list of 930, the Baltic will arrive at New York early in the morning. The Republic, believed at one time to be safe, has gone down, and is under water near New York.

The Florida, with her bow rent from the terrific impact with the Republic, is slowly steering under her own steam for this port, convoyed by the American liner New York.

Six persons lost their lives in the collision. The message of Capt. Ransom of the Baltic to the White Star Co. in this city gave the names of the dead passengers as Mrs. Eugene Lynch of Boston and W. J. Mooney, a banker, of Langdon, N.D. The injured are Mrs. M. M. Murphy, wife of the financial agent of the Union Central Life Insurance Co. of Grand Forks, N.D., and Eugene Lynch of Boston.

Mr. Mooney and his wife, with Mr. and Mrs. Murphy, were bound on a pleasure trip from the west to the Mediterranean, and occupied state rooms on the top deck on the starboard side. Mr. and Mrs. Lynch occupied an adjoining stateroom, No. 23.

The steamer General Putnam has been chartered by the company, and will go alongside the Baltic when she reaches quarantine this morning.

Details of the collision at sea in the dense fog came fitfully by wireless yesterday from many receiving stations along the New England coast line. The story, though in brief, told how the passengers of the Republic and the Florida spent many anxious and uncomfortable hours following the wreck, and not until 8 o'clock yesterday morning, when all were safe and sound on the Baltic, did they have a feeling of security.

Duel With Knives.

Newark, N.J., Jan. 25.—William Pollak, a 14-year-old schoolboy at Summit N.J., is suffering from a dangerous knife wound over the heart, which he says, was received in a duel with a classmate, Arthur Tappan, 16 years old.

Both boys, Pollak asserts, were rivals for the affections of a girl member of their class, and they fought a duel during the noon recess with pocket knives.

Schooner Goes Down.

Vancouver, B.C., Jan. 25.—Bound from Callao to Port Townsend, in ballast, the four-masted schooner Sequel arrived in the Straits of Juan de Fuca during a gale Friday midnight. Capt. Jamieson apparently mistook the Pachena light for Tatoosh and headed between it and Cape Beale. Driving into the storm, the schooner struck, and the two aftermasts going by the board, killed the skipper's wife and child.

Who Owned the Lynx.

Deseronto, Jan. 25.—Thos. Naphin of Tyendinaga, set a trap and caught a lynx. Sidney Lucas came along, saw the lynx, shot it, and sold the skin for $12. Now Naphin is prosecuting him for taking which it is alleged did not belong to him. Lucas will be tried before Magistrate Bedford of Deseronto next week.

Loss by Earthquake.

Rome, Jan. 25.—Deputy Nitti, who is known as an economist, said in the course of an interview yesterday that the loss at Messina through the earthquake he estimated was in the neighborhood of $173,000,000, and the loss at Reggio $100,000,000.

Messina Shaken Again.

Messina, Jan. 25.—A very strong earthquake shock was felt here at 5.30 o'clock Saturday morning. The shock was undulatory and vertical and lasted eight seconds. The wall of a church and the broken walls of several houses were thrown down.

Poison on Rose.

Chicago, Jan. 25.—Robert Wahl was accused on Saturday of having expressed a desire to kill his wife by the use of a poisonous perfume placed on a rose. The accusation was made in a suit for separate maintenance filed by Mrs. Wahl. The defendant is a noted chemist and president of the Wahl-Henius Institute of Fermentology. Several alleged affinities are named by the wife, who lives in the Pattington apartments 1,664 Graceland avenue.

Northcote Not a Probability.

Ottawa, Jan. 25.—In official circles in Ottawa little credence is given to the report cabled from London, to the effect that Lord Northcote is to succeed Earl Grey as Governor-General of Canada. It is pointed out that Lord Northcote is a Unionist, and it is improbable that a Liberal Government will appoint a Conservative to one of the most honored positions in its gift.

Fire-Fighter Hurt.

Tillsonburg, Jan. 25.—Fire broke out in T. C. Walker & Sons' carriage shop at 5.35 Saturday night. By the efforts of the firemen the blaze was confined to the west end of the building. Damage by smoke and water will be considerable. Harry Malcolm, one of the firemen, was overcome by smoke and fell down a ladder. His head was bruised and leg injured.

Mild In the West.

Winnipeg, Jan. 25.—Following the cold spell of the past two weeks, the west is experiencing exceedingly mild weather. A chinook has cleaned up the snow in Alberta.

It has even reached eastern Saskatchewan and Manitoba. Saturday night considerable rain fell in Winnipeg, an unheard of occurrence in the month of January.

Big 'Quake In Turkestan.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 25.—Although reports from observatories in Russia tell of recording earth shocks on Saturday, which is thought to have centered somewhere on the Russian side of Pamirs, Turkestan, no direct news has been received that would serve to fix the location in any definate place.

For 'Quake Sufferers.

Messina, Jan. 25.—The American relief ship Celtic arrived here on Saturday, and was warmly welcomed by the authorities and the population. The Celtic landed two hundred tons of fresh meat, two hundred and seventy tons of assorted foods, and forty-six thousand eggs with the understanding that thirty tons of the supplies be given out daily. The Celtic will proceed to Reggio.

Mariners Overcome.

Vineyard Haven, Mass., Jan. 25.—Two members of the crew of the barge Boston are dead, and Capt. George King of Perth Amboy, N.J., is lying at the Marine Hospital with no hope for his recovery, as the result of being overcome by coal gas in their little cabin.

Profited by Public Ownership.

St. Thomas, Jan. 25.—The light, heat and power department of the City of St. Thomas, owned by the city, paid a profit of more than $16,000 for the year. The waterworks, also the property of the city, paid a profit of $16,000.

Overcome by Coal Gas.

Port Arthur, Jan. 25.—Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cattanach, Dufferin street, were found unconscious from coal gas Saturday morning. Cattanach soon recovered, but his wife is still unconscious, and fatal results are feared.

Chileans In Royal Navy.

Santiago, Chile, Jan. 25.—The restriction on naval officers serving in the British navy having been withdrawn, a limited number of Chilean officers will shortly proceed to England.

Possibly the chap who growls about the wash day dinner would have found it more pleasing to his taste if he had done the washing.—Success.

IMPRESSING ISABEL.

By ELLIOT WALKER.

Copyrighted, 1908, by Associated Literary Press.

"I'm sure I don't know how I am ever to get out of this scrape." The girl peered helplessly from the antiquated shed, shuddering at the thunder crashes close on the heels of every flash of lightning.

A deluge of rain swept across the wild pastures. The brook, fifty feet away, roared between its alder lined banks.

Upon her wide hat fell a steady dribble from the leaky roof, and her thin dress was fast dampening in the mist driven shelter.

She forced a laugh. Isabel Lynn was not easily daunted. Of course it was lonely and wet and very shattering to the nerves, but she was perfectly safe. Oh, yes; let her thank her stars to be secure under the friendly boards.

Suddenly a gasp broke from her.

She shrank back. Something was coming with leaps through the high weeds growing rankly at the corner of her retreat. Through Isabel's startled brain tore thoughts of dangerous animals. The near mountains might hold anything. She cowered into the farthest corner. Surely the thing would go by.

But it didn't. It dashed under the shed, with a loud snort, blowing and shaking vigorously, then stood gazing at the storm, and words came to Isabel's horrified ears in a steady stream of disgusted wrath.

"Well, if this doesn't beat me! Look at my shoes! Look at my new flannel suit! My hat is ruined! The next time I go trailing around on the trail of a girl I'll know it. Foster Allston, you're an unmitigated ass. I guess the charming Miss Lynn will not have the pleasure of meeting you! Girls! Bah! I'll take the first train home. I wish I'd never heard of her."

"So do I!" sounded a voice in his rear.

The man jumped and wheeled. He saw a slender, white gowned figure straighten up, take a forward step and then halt. A clap of thunder drowned his exclamation. Then his jaw fell.

"Did you speak, sir?" indignantly.

"I—I tried to. Really, I—I am overjoyed to—to be here, Miss Lynn. Of course you are—you—that is—bless my soul! So unexpected, you know. Quite a shower."

He cut a ridiculous figure in his staring embarrassment, pulling off the wrecked straw hat, bowing in his soaked garments, greatly at loss for words, woefully conscious of what he had said. And he knew that Isabel Lynn had heard him as a model of courtesy and easy manners.

He scraped a hesitating toe in the dirt, smiling idiotically. Was it for this—his fifty mile journey?

"Isabel is extremely particular and sensitive to first impressions," his Aunt Julia had said. "Here is your letter of introduction, Foster. It's silly to go crazy over a photograph, but go ahead. She is worth it. Everything depends upon the way she is approached. I've praised you to her up to the skies."

The girl stepped nearer, eying him in scornful amusement. Her eyes were bright with ill concealed desire to humble. The dampness had curled her disordered hair in bewitching rings about her white forehead. Roses shone in the smooth cheeks where sarcastic dimples played.

Allston thought he had never seen a more lovely face nor one so unreadable. Idly swinging her hat, she surveyed him curiously, with a chilling hauteur, which stung him to steadiness and a reckless impulse to retort.

"When one summers at a farmhouse and takes long strolls an occasional wetting must be expected, Mr. Allston," said Isabel evenly. "You shouldn't mind your new suit or your shoes. Dear me, how childish! I have heard that you could afford to disregard trifles. I wasn't to blame. You needn't have 'trailed' me."

Allston regarded her in silence.

There was more than a hint of disappointment in Isabel's tone. Had she been prejudiced in his favor only to react sharply at his boyish outburst?

Surely some humor lay in the situation. Couldn't the girl see it? He reflected dismally that many women never forgive slighting remarks, even when uttered in unmeaning carelessness.

The cool voice went on.

"I suppose they told you at the house that I was over this way?"

Foster nodded.

"And you never imagined I might be in this shed?"

A head shake.

"You must have had me very much on your mind. Were I a big man seeking a lost damsel my idea would be to keep my eyes open for the shelters to which she would sensibly run, not lose my wits in selfish consideration of raiment and then anathematize the lady." She laughed cuttingly.

Allston's countenance was reddening.

"Why don't you speak?" The uplift of her chin was a challenge for his reply. She would laugh and forgive him after sufficient reduction.

"I'm thinking," said Allston slowly. "I'm trying to make out what chance I have of—of—" He paused, hesitating.

"Oh!" Isabel looked down, then up. A strange darkness was settling down upon the earth. Both had forgotten the storm, now grumbling back from the south. The man stepped out in the rain. In a moment he returned. His face was set in hard, worried lines.

"You'll put on my coat and we'll get into the open," said he decidedly. "I may be a fool, but I know something of cloudbursts. This building isn't safe. Quick!"

A sharp command, a clutch beneath her arm, then a rapid hoisting over rough ground, through a pelt of huge drops, to a low stone wall, and Isabel, breathless, felt herself pulled to her knees, while a strong arm clasped her firmly.

Forgetting all save the recognition of superior strength and judgment, appalled by the murky blackness, the reverberating shocks of heaven's artillery thundering over the hills, she nestled against him, with a little cry, as before her frightened gaze a broad sheet of flame showed bending trees flattened to earth and a distant rail fence flung into flying wreckage.

The man held her more tightly with an unconscious pressure. His face was set and steady, tense in his watching, yet filled with that bold, half smiling light seen on the visages of those who fearlessly face danger.

The next bright flare found her eyes meeting his in a look as rapid and intense as the lightning itself. The girl smiled at him as his breath drew in sharply.

"Down!" shouted Allston. "Flat! It's coming. Shut your eyes and hang to my neck."

Isabel did. In the roar of the elements she clung blindly to him, conscious only of a deafening noise and a sense of collapse.

The hush following was broken by Allston's laugh.

"Thought so," he uttered. "Look! Our shed is a heap of sticks, Miss Lynn. That miniature cyclone hit it just right. Well, well, if I hadn't happened to think so much of my clothes"—

"Don't!" said the girl. "Don't, please!"

The man solemnly consulted his watch.

"If we hurry," he observed, "I can get you home and catch my train."

Isabel caught his sleeve.

"No," she whispered softly. "I'd rather you would miss it."

* * * * * * *

Allston's Aunt Julia was speaking of his engagement a month after a bedraggled couple surprised the occupants of a certain farmhouse.

"I don't understand how Foster managed it so quickly," she said. "I find my letter of introduction was not used. He must have made an excellent impression the minute he met Isabel."

Napoleon and the Roman Law.

Napoleon I. had an extraordinary mind. He appeared never to forget anything he cared to remember and assimilated information as the stomach assimilates food, retaining only the valuable. An incident will illustrate this remarkable quality of his mind.

When forming the "Code Napoleon" he frequently astonished the council of state by the skill with which he illustrated any point in discussion by quoting whole passages from memory of the Roman civil law. The council wondered how a man whose life had been passed in camp came to know so much about the old Roman laws. Finally one of them asked him how he acquired his knowledge.

"When I was a lieutenant," Napoleon replied, "I was unjustly placed under arrest. My small prison room contained no furniture except an old chair and a cupboard. In the latter was a ponderous volume, which proved to be a digest of the Roman law. You can easily imagine what a valuable prize the book was to me. It was so bulky and the leaves were so covered with marginal notes in manuscript that had I been confined 100 years I need never have been idle. When I recovered my liberty, at the end of ten days, I was saturated with Justinian and the decisions of the Roman legislation. It was then I acquired my knowledge of the civil law."

Smoke Preventive.

Kerosene lamps sometimes will smoke in spite of great care given them. Placing a small piece of rock salt close to the flames, inside the cup, will prevent smoke as well as seem to brighten the flame somewhat.

To Remove Odors.

An unpleasant odor in a room may often be removed if an onion is finely cut and placed on a saucer in the corner of the room. The onion will absorb many unpleasant odors, such as paint.

The Talking Cheese.

A grocer's shop window in a London suburb displays the following notice:

"Our Gorgonzola Speaks For Itself."

NO WOMAN
CAN BE STRONG AND HEALTHY UNLESS THE KIDNEYS ARE WELL.

When the kidneys are ill, the whole body is ill, for the poisons which the kidneys ought to filter out of the blood are left in the system. Then how important it must be to see to it that this system of sewerage be not clogged up. Those who have never been troubled with kidney trouble know not the misery and suffering which those afflicted undergo.

Doan's Kidney Pills are a specific for all kidney troubles. They begin by healing the delicate membranes of the kidneys and thus make their action regular and natural.

They help the kidneys to flush off the acrid and poisonous impurities which have collected, thus clearing out the kidneys, bladder and all the urinary passages.

Doan's Kidney Pills are entirely vegetable, and may be safely taken by young and old.

Let Doan's Kidney Pills do for you what they have done for thousands of others, that is, cure you.

Mrs. M. Bryanton, Spring Valley, P.E.I., writes: "I was troubled with my kidneys for two years. They were so bad at times I could not cross the floor for the pain. RUNNING ATHLETICS HOCKEY

BOTH TEAMS EXPECT TO WIN TO-MORROW NIGHT'S HARD BATTLE

The greatest interest is being taken in to-morrow night's game with Lindsay and unless all indications fail there will be one of the biggest crowds on hand that ever saw a game in Peterborough. The feeling around Peterborough that the defeat of the locals last week was due not to the superiority of the Lindsay team, but principally to the weird work of Referee Moxon, has increased the interest in the return game, and the excitement when the two teams get together will be at fever heat. From Lindsay comes the boast that the Midgets will bring home the bacon, as it is claimed in Scugogville that Goosie Taylor's aggregation are thoroughly at home when the sliding is good and they have no fear of the result, at least that is what they would like to have the people of Peterborough believe. Local fans, however, knowing that the Petes are best on hard ice feel that they will take a lot of beating, if the weatherman sees fit to hand out something in the frost line. There will be no changes in either line-up, the same two teams will battle it out again to-morrow night. Everything depends upon the game. A win for Lindsay will give them a district, while a victory for the locals puts them in a position to get upon an even footing with the Midgets by beating Cobourg twice. A big crowd of noisy fans will accompany the Lindsay team, coming on a special train, and they will make things lively. Altogether it is likely that there will be a very busy cup of tea. It is not known yet who will referee, but it is certain that it will not be Moxon. The secretary of the local club has written the O. H. A. to the effect that if that individual is ever sent to referee another Peterborough game the team will simply refuse to play.

SHRUBB-LONGBOAT RACE IS OFF UNTIL A WEEK FROM NEXT FRIDAY

The announcement from New York that the Shrubb-Longboat race is off until February 5th, will be received with regret by the sporting public of Peterborough who, like athletically inclined people all over the continent, have been looking forward to the result of the race. There had been so much trouble experienced in arranging the affair, and so much super-heated atmosphere was expended by both principals and their friends that the public heaved a sigh of relief when it was announced that at last the two would come together. Ever since the date was set the race has been the principal subject of discussion in athletic circles, and the public were impatiently waiting for the race. Now comes the disappointing intelligence that Shrubb has developed inflammation of his great toe and the race is off on that account until a week from next Friday to allow the injured member to come around again. As far as Longboat is concerned he is, no doubt, glad of the delay, as if the reports from the other side are to be believed, he would not have been in the best of condition to meet such a man as Shrubb, a brainy well trained and ambitious runner, to whom victory is worth the trouble of preparing himself for the battle.

KEENE TEAM DEFEATED NORWOOD IN TRENT VALLEY LEAGUE GAME

Keene, Jan. 21st—The first game between Norwood and Keene in group No. 1 Trent Valley League was played in Keene last night before a very large and appreciative audience, resulting in a victory for the home team. The half time score being 4-3 in favour of the home team, and when the curtain dropped on the finish of the last act Keene had netted 5 more and Norwood only one.

It was a fine game of hockey and Keene won on their merits their pretty combination bringing them a goal whenever necessary.

Every man played his game and there was never a slow minute, the boys going the full time without a stop. The game was a very clean exhibition, only three men being penalized, one of the home team and two of the visitors, these resulting in accidental trips.

Russell Pearce the official referee, handled the game with satisfaction to both teams and his decisions were never disputed.

R. Weir and "Kruger" McCarthy were always in the lime light for the home team, while Doherty for the visitors played a wonderful game in goal.

The Keene line up was as follows:
Goal—T Dean.
Point—J Dixon
C Point—H Dinsdale
Centre—R Weir
Rover—"Kruger" McCarthy
Forwards—S. Dinsdale and George Welsh

STANDING OF THE CITY HOCKEY LEAGUE

Strathconas and Lakefields are Tied for the Leadership.

There will be two lively games in the City League this week, when the T. A. S. will clash with the Lakefield seven, and the West Ends will endeavour to take a fall out of the champion Strathconas. Both games should be hard fought and interesting, and much depends upon the result. Following is the standing of the teams with the goals scored by each.

	Won.	Lost.	Goals for.	Goals against.
Straths...	2	0	22	4
Lakefield	2	0	16	4
T. A. S...	2	1	9	9
West Ends	0	2	3	5
Belmonts	0	3	4	32

THE JUNIOR GAME WITH OSHAWA OFF

The junior game in Oshawa tonight between Peterborough and the homesters, had to be called off on account of the mild weather, there being no ice for the battle. The locals were ready to go, but the weather man is evidently determined to be as disagreeable as he can. No date has been decided upon for the game, but it will not likely be played until next week. The locals are to play in Port Hope on Thursday night, but an effort has been made to switch it until Friday night on account of the City League games. Four members of the junior team belong to the West Ends City League seven, and the latter would be handicapped in the event of the juniors having a game the same night.

LONGBOAT WAS BEATEN IN VERY SLOW TIME

Lost to Hallen and Spring in a Ten-Mile Relay Race.

Newark, N. J., Jan. 23.—Special.—Tom Longboat, the Indian runner, lost the ten-mile race at Essex Troop Armoury here to-night, running against Bob Hallen and Mike Spring, each of whom ran a five miles relay. At the finish Longboat was nearly a lap behind and seemed to lack vim to make a spurt. The track measured twelve laps to the mile. The time made by Hallen and Spring was 58.49.

Longboat's performance did not please the crowd, and his apparent disinclination to exert himself was the chief cause. Hallen gained a lap on him right at the start and Spring took up the running with that advantage. Longboat made a weak effort to regain the lost ground at the end of the race, but only made up twenty or thirty feet.

BOWLING

"Civis" Writes Letter Upon The Smith Street Bridge Problem

Sir,—I was surprised to see in your issue of Thursday last that the newly elected Board of Works had instructed our City Engineer to prepare plans for a 'cheap' bridge across the Otonabee on Smith street. From the general tenor of the report it appeared as if the 'cheaper' the structure the better it would suit some of them.

On reading over the list of names of the members of the Board of Works one is doubly surprised to think that these gentlemen should exhibit so little foresight and lack of grasp of modern requirements as to ask for a 'cheap' bridge.

Of all things to shave and skimp on in order to save a few dollars in first cost, a bridge should be the last as hundreds of lives will be dependent on its security every day of its existence.

Do our representatives on the Board and the general public comprehend just what is meant by a 'cheap' bridge. Perhaps not. Let us look at it.

The City Engineer Mr Hay last year made plans and estimates for bridges with an 18 ft and 24 ft roadway and submitted them to the council. Leaving out of account the 24 ft. bridge, let us consider the 18 ft. one as for a city bridge, a roadway any narrower is out of the question.

When the Engineer made up his estimate, one would suppose that he must have included the cost of a lot of frills and fancies which could be just as well left off and still have a good substantial but plainer structure. This must have been the case for surely no one would wish him to cheapen the bridge by making it lighter and hence weaker, and unsafe.

As a matter of fact, Mr Editor, this was not the case. Mr Hay's estimates included the cost only of bare necessities for a modern first class highway bridge built to carry a fifteen ton road roller. Surely no city is going to put up a bridge which will not carry its own road roller over it. The Dominion Government specifications require a structure capable of carrying 100 lbs per square foot of floor area and at the same time to safely carry across a rolling load of 20 tons. Surely then the city of Peterborough can not afford to build a bridge of less strength than that proposed in the original estimate. Let it be distinctly understood then that any paring of the cost is done at the expense of the carrying capacity and safety of this bridge.

I am aware that certain persons claim to have other estimates in which they try to show that a much less sum than that required by the Engineers estimate is sufficient. These however, need be given little consideration. The engineer has careful measurements and soundings of the river, knows the nature of the bottom and the character of the stream. Thus he has a good idea of the cost of unwatering, and building piers and abutments, which nobody else has. His estimates also for the steel trusses were based on actual quotations by a well known Canadian Bridge Co. This being the case, Mr Editor, we must accept his figures as the most reliable available. All others are mere guesses and are not worthy a moment's consideration.

Mr Hay's estimate for the 18 foot bridge with two sidewalks was I believe, about $37,500 and this must be taken as the approximate cost of a first class structure. Peterborough is no "cheap John" town and her aldermen should, and I believe, will realize that fact and not attempt to erect a junk shop affair which would only be a laughing stock for outsiders and a disgrace to the city.

All talk about building a bridge for the Street Railway is entirely aside from the question of a modern structure for modern highway requirements must be stronger than necessary to carry our street car traffic. This street railway bogy is no more real than any other fairy tale.

Now granting, as all who stop to intelligently consider the question, must do, that a first class bridge is required, another question comes up for consideration, viz. the relative merits of steel trusses, and reinforced concrete arches. Mr Hay's estimate makes the cost of the two types about equal and this year the city buys cement for 63 cents a barrel cheaper than last, which would decrease the cost of the concrete bridge by about $2300; so that cost of the two kinds may be left out of the question, the advantages, if any, appearing to be with the concrete. Outside of cost, however, there is no comparison. The advantages are all with the concrete bridge. A steel structure would require painting about every three years at a cost of about $450.

But most important of all, from the day it is erected, steel deteriorates and decreases in strength and is comparatively short lived. On the other hand concrete costs absolutely nothing for upkeep and only gets stronger with age. A steel truss is an eyesore while a concrete arch bridge such as that for which the City Engineer has prepared the plans is a 'thing of beauty' and will be to this city if built 'a joy forever.' It will be a strong rival of the lift lock as an attraction and object of interest to visitors.

Just consider for a moment the location of the Smith street bridge it will join two of the city's most beautiful and most used parks, and is practically a park bridge. In the United States almost no other type of bridge but the concrete arch is now used in a public park. To erect a "cheap" structure at this place, would be a crying shame and the city would be sorry for it only once, but that would be as long as the bridge existed. The late Mrs Nichols was public spirited enough not only to present these beauty spots to the city but to provide for their being kept in such perfect condition for the benefit of the citizens that we are envied by all the other towns of the district. Surely then our city fathers will rise to the occasion and not only refuse to do anything to detract from the beauty of these spots, but when they have the opportunity, add to their attractions, especially when it will be so much to their interest to do so from other reasons altogether.

Another and very important point in favor of the use of concrete is the fact that nearly all the money spent on it would be left here in Peterborough for the benefit of our merchants and industries of various kinds. If steel were used the raw material would be bought in the States from Carnegie. It would be manufactured probably by a bridge company in Montreal or Hamilton, and erected by them with their own workmen, and all that Peterborough mechanics would get out of it would be the building of the piers. On the other hand if a reinforced concrete bridge were built only the comparatively small sum of about $5500. would leave the city and would be for steel rods which would likely be rolled in Canadian mills. The cement would come from Lakefield, a suburb of the town. Outside of these two small items every cent would go to Peterborough industries or Peterborough workmen and would remain right here in the city. A large number of carpenters would be employed for a great part of the summer as well as skilled concrete workers and laborers, and idle men would not be standing around the streets as they were during the past summer.

Now Mr Editor, even supposing a concrete bridge cost say 30 per cent more than a steel one, which it does not, which would be better, for the city to pay $130, to itself on $100, to an outsider. Let the mechanic and workman, of Peterborough consider this.

Some weeks ago a letter appeared in your columns attempting to decry the use of concrete for this bridge, but to any one at all acquainted with the question the objections raised were hardly worthy of serious consideration. It was stated, that concrete was only an experiment, and that we have no knowledge of its durability. The fact is, that concrete, made by the Romans thousands of years ago from a natural cement, much inferior to modern Portland cement is as good today as ever. It is used almost universally today the world over. The pillars in front of the court house in Victoria park were built thirty-five years ago of concrete and are as good today as ever.

It was said also that concrete bridges were not used on streams of this size. The fact is it is used in the United States, in France and Germany on rivers, in comparison with which the Otonabee is only a brook. I have before me descriptions of a concrete arch bridge over a river 700 feet wide, with 90 ft roadway, 30 ft above low water. Another bridge over a river 1000 feet wide with banks 50 ft. high, has a 16 feet roadway. The water during the spring floods rises about to the crowns of the arches of these bridges. The Otonabee is nothing in comparison. Even in a steel bridge the only part in contact with the water, viz. the piers, would be concrete anyway. Enough said on this point.

It was stated also that concrete bridges were not being generally used. Such a statement is laughable. One company alone in the United States, has erected over five hundred bridges without failure. Railways are every day replacing steel bridges only fifteen to twenty years old by concrete. New railways are using concrete bridges wherever possible.

It was stated that there are none in Canada. The town of St Thomas has just completed a concrete arch bridge of 116 ft span and this is the fourth such bridge. Smith street bridge would only require 100 ft spans.

Other objections such as the talk about the expense of erecting a complete bridge of wood first for forms only to take down afterwards are equally ridiculous. As well talk of erecting derricks for a steel bridge. No matter if a dozen wooden bridges had to be first built it is the total cost only that counts.

To summarize, Mr Editor, a few of the advantages of a concrete arch bridge are as follows:

1 Nearly the whole cost left in Peterborough.

2 No expense for painting or repairs.

4 It grows stronger as it grows older. All others grow weaker.

5 It will be safe with any load ever put on it.

6 It is a permanent improvement, a part of the geology; once built, built for all time.

7 Last, but not by any means least, "It is a thing of beauty and a joy forever."

Keeping these advantages in mind it must be remembered that the cost is not estimated to be any greater, if as great, than a steel bridge to fill the requirements. Peterborough is an exceptionally favorable position to build a cheap concrete structure as it has an unlimited supply of good gravel close at hand and a remarkably cheap contract for cement.

It is to be hoped that the Aldermen the Board of Works and the citizens generally will consider this question seriously and not make a mistake which they will certainly regret. The Board of Works is composed of intelligent men who, I think only need to see the problem in its proper light, in order to authorize a structure that they and the citizens generally can take pride in, and which will stand for generations as a monument to their good sense.

Thanking you Mr Editor, for your space, I am,

Yours truly,
CIVIS.

The Mad Race To Gowganda Described By An East City Man

Mr. David Conroy, With the Peterborough Party, Who Were First on the Ground, Writes to Tell of the Journey to the New Cobalt.

PROCESSION WAS UNIQUE.

Mr. David Conroy, Jr., of East City, who is in the Gowganda District, north of Cobalt, with a Peterborough party, composed of Messrs. Michael Conroy, Frank O'Connor, John McLernan and John O'Brien, in addition to himself, sends the following newsy letter to his father, Mr. David Conroy, sr., East City:

Dear Father,—Have not had any time until to-day to tell you how we are getting along. As I anticipated we were the first in Gowganda. The road was finished at 10 o'clock and we had our tents pitched at 11. We are certainly the pioneers of Gowganda. We got here on Thursday last and to-day there is a town of 2,000 population, and 25 buildings being erected. None of us know where we are at yet, but are living in hopes. This is a great country, good land, good timber and more silver than Cobalt has. There is, unexplored, 25 square miles of silver. I have two prospectors going out for me next Wednesday. There are about 300 per day going through; coming from no where and going to the same place.

We got all our cattle killed yesterday and it proved quite a hard job, but I think it will come out all right. We are selling it for a big price by carcass. We bought a pair of oxen and harnessed them up with horse harness. They have done splendid work for us. This is the greatest experience I ever had in my life, combining millionaires and bums equally starving alike and going like mad night and day.

The greatest sight I ever saw was the race to Gowganda, with our party ahead; 28 head of our beef cattle on the lead, breaking the snow to allow the teams to follow; next came Jack McLernan's team with his sleigh and stove, having a fire in it to cook on the way and to keep us warm in our turn; following came Michael Conroy with the oxen on a jumper loaded with hay and oats; then came "Chub" with the four dog team hitched to a toboggan. Then John O'Brien, with his team, the government inspector and I bringing up the rear.

One hundred teams came after us, loaded with provisions and goods of all sorts; people of all nationalities. On crossing a marsh our last teams broke through the ice, leaving 200 yds. of open water. We managed to bring our band out safe, but you can imagine the experience the other people behind us had on seeing the water before them. I learned after that they had all to camp on the roadside to wait for the frost to freeze it over, which came after four days' delay. We are starting this afternoon to build our camp in Gowganda which will be finished in 3 or 4 days. There is a great future ahead of this district, as it has, without any doubt the greatest silver camps in the world.

We endured considerable hardships as we slept in tents since we left Elk Lake, the thermometer often going down to 40 and 50 degrees below zero. Much responsibility is taken from me as Uncle Michael and "Chub" are looking after the affairs concerning the store, as I am attending to the mineral claims. The surroundings around here appear to be splendid farming land, when cleared.

McKenzie & Mann are building a railway from Sudbury to Gowganda and expect it will be completed before September next.

Will write you more particulars when our camp is completed.

"DAVE."

Financial Statement Of St. Paul's Church Is Satisfactory

St. Paul's Presbyterian Church has made great strides during the past year, as the annual reports will show when presented at the congregational meeting on Wednesday evening next. The amount of money raised during the year from envelope contributions and open collections is over $7,000, which is an increase of $1,800 made up by $1,500 more through envelopes and $300 in open collections. For missionary purposes and all others schemes of the church raised by all branches there is a total of between $12,000 and $13,000, which is a big increase over last year. The financial statement for the year was circulated in the congregation yesterday, and it is indeed a very gratifying statement. The Board of Managers were not only able to meet all current expenses and demands, but also paid off $1,000 on the mortgage. Considering the depression in the times this is exceptionally good. The church membership was increased by 111, about equally divided between members by certificates and by profession of faith.

On Wednesday evening, from six to eight o'clock, the ladies of the congregation will serve tea to all the members and adherents of the church and a full attendance is looked for. The business meeting will be held afterwards.

In Washington the Hepburn law argument is being made before the Supreme Court and the government has put forward some strong arguments in this case and those who have been sure that the railways would win their point, do not now feel so certain about it. The buying that has been manifest in Con. Gas during the past week, or so, is very attractive and we have no doubt that those who buy this stock and hold it will be able to sell at a handsome profit.

Money is very cheap and that is about the best bull argument the market has. We see no reason to change our opinion on the market, and still advise purchases of B. & O., Penna., Ills., Central, the Hill stocks, and Mo. Pac. on any temporary reaction. The industrial list is still under bear pressure and seems to be a sale on rallies. The closing was dull and a trifle heavy.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.

(Furnished by J. N. Barber.)

New York, Jan. 25—The market opened fairly active and generally with stronger tendencies to-day. There was not much in the way of news over the week end to cause traders to take any definite side. At the same time there was practically no accumulation of commission house orders and foreign houses did a fair amount of selling here. Toward noon time the market became decidedly dull, and uninteresting and, in fact,

FULL-BLOOD INDIANS FAST DISAPPEARING

Special Agent Says That in Three Generations the Last of Them will be Gone.

Examiner Special

Helena, Jan. 26 — Special Agent Samuel Cone, who is here as a witness before the Grand Jury and who has spent the greater part of his life among the Indians, says:

"Three generations more and I don't believe there will be a real Indian left in the country.

"White men's clothing and houses have signed the death warrant of the Indian," continued Mr. Cone. "Consumption and other diseases of a civilized people have a foothold on every reservation in the country, and the ranks of the full bloods are being decimated rapidly. This is particularly true of the older Indians who roamed the plains and the mountains before the creation of reservations and who have not been constitutionally fitted for the changed environment.

"A MAN AND HIS MATE"

New and Virile Play at Grand Opera House on Wednesday, January 27— One of the Season's Best.

Hilda Spong, who is announced to appear here shortly in H. B. Durant's new play "A Man and His Mate," is known in Australia as the

HILDA SPONG.

Ellen Terry of the Antipodes, and no artist who has ever played in that part of the world has so strong a hold on the affections of its inhabitants. In London, which is her birth-place, her success was so unusual that Arthur Pinero wrote "Trelawney of the Wells" especially for her, and in it she won the lavish praise of her own countrymen, and although it is five years since she played in England the British papers are constantly printing paragraphs about her for the sake of "Auld Lang Syne."

Although Miss Spong has played many roles by the leading writers of dramatic literature, she has never found a part that so exactly fits her as Betty Brackenridge in "A Man and His Mate," and she is so enthused over it that it half the joy it gives her to play it reaches her audiences they may be sure of realizing the best the present day stage has to offer.

PETERBORO' GIRL IN SERIOUS CONDITION FROM BICHLORIDE OF MERCURY POISONING

Examiner Special.

Toronto, Jan. 26.—Miss Alice Howell, aged twenty-one, of Peterborough, a roomer with Mrs. Hawkins, Alice street, was taken to St. Michael's Hospital this morning, suffering from bichloride of mercury poisoning. Her room mate says that they returned to the house at four o'clock this morning from a party, and Miss Howell said something about being tired of life. She said she was going to take some headache tablets, and soon after complained of pains in the stomach. The after effects of this poison are sometimes fatal, and the girl is in a critical condition. She boarded with Mrs. Hawkins since before Christmas. She came to the house then, saying she was out of work but had been employed by Featherbone Novelty Company. She did not look for work at once, but went to visit her parents in Peterborough, returning a short time ago.

CHARGES AGAINST CHIEF HOWARD BROUGHT TO A CLOSE LAST NIGHT; COMMITTEE'S RECOMMENDATION

"The Best Interests of the City Will Not Be Served by His Remaining at the Head of the Fire Department," Reads Motion.

SESSION WAS LONG ONE.

Moved by Ald. Hicks, seconded by Ald. Morgan,—That this committee —report to the council that to Chief Howard is due the credit for the organizing of the permanent brigade in the face of many obstructions, but while doing so and after, we would judge from the evidence produced, that the Chief has been extremely indiscreet, and his actions have left him open to criticism to such an extent as to convince us that the best interests of the city will not be served by his remaining at the head of the Fire Department.

The above motion passed at 11.45 o'clock last night by the Fire, Water and Light Committee represents the finding of that committee in the inquiry arising from the charges laid against Chief Howard by Ex-Ald. W J Johnston, and the council will have to take what action they see fit upon the recommendation of the committee.

Most of the evidence upon the charges had been heard last week and the only one upon which evidence was taken last night was in connection with $8.22 over pay given to Fireman McBride in July of last year. McBride had returned the money to Chief Howard, and there was no evidence to show that it had been paid back to the City Treasurer. Chief Howard claimed that the money had been given to Albert E. George, who was on relief duty for one week in July, but was not able to locate George in order to have him give evidence on the point. Firemen Brumwell, Hayes and Grange were called by the committee last night, and all three stated that there had not been any one by the name of George working in the fire hall to their knowledge. There was a long discussion over the matter among the four members of the committee present, i. e., Ald. Butler, chairman; Ald. Turner, Hicks and Morgan.

Ald. Butler expressed himself as being in favour of giving the Chief another chance and announced that he would so vote in the council. He would not, however, block any motion that the committee might desire to pass.

Ald. Turner opposed the motion, which finally carried, for a long time. There was a doubt in his mind he said, and he wished to have added to the resolution a qualifying cause to the effect that the committee did not think the best interests of the city would be served by Chief Howard's remaining at the head of the Fire Department unless he showed improvement in his conduct during the next six months.

On the other hand Ald. Morgan did not think the motion went far enough although he finally decided to second it.

Ald. Hicks said that his opinion was summed up in the resolution he had moved. If the council decided to give the Chief another chance, he would be satisfied, but that was his opinion.

Ald. Turner finally decided to support the motion, seeing that there was no possibility of changing it, and the recommendation of the committee as given above was unanimously passed shortly before mid-night.

FAST EXPRESS LEAVES RAILS SEVENTEEN PASSENGERS HURT

J. N. Barber, (Special)

Cashocton, Ohio, Jan. 26.—A fast express on the Pennsylvania Line was wrecked early to-day at Adam's Mills, eight miles from here. Two Pullman cars left the track, and seventeen passengers were injured, but nobody killed, according to the latest reports. Doctors and nurses are being hurried from this place.

The Pittsburg and St. Louis express train, No. 44, eastward bound, ran off an embankment. The accident occurred at 5.45 a. m., caused by a broken rail, which failed to hold the heavy train running at top speed on the curve.

C. P. R. ENGINEER BADLY SCALDED BY EXPLOSION OF A REGISTER

Edward Tout, a Canadian Pacific freight engineer, residing in North Toronto, was painfully scalded in the cab of his engine at the C. P. R. station at two o'clock this morning. The injured man had left his cab when it reached the station, when he was startled by the sound of escaping steam, and rushing back to the locomotive found that the glass register had exploded. He hurriedly made his way into the cab to turn off the water, and while doing so had his hands, particularly the left, badly scalded before he succeeded in accomplishing the task. When it was seen that he was painfully injured Dr. Gray was sent for and dressed his injuries. He was recovered enough to leave for home on the early passenger train this morning and his injuries are not considered serious.

THE POPULAR VOTE.

The claim is made by Conservative journals that the figures of the popular vote in the recent Dominion election show that the Opposition is not represented in the House of Commons in proportion to its strength in the country. If representation in Parliament should correspond precisely with the popular vote, a government would rarely have a working majority. The Toronto Star puts the matter clearly:

"Suppose one party polled 1,000,000 votes and another 1,100,000, the successful party would have 110 members in a House of 210 if representation by population were carried to its logical conclusion. This would not be a working majority, and as the two parties are usually almost upon an equality in the popular vote, a working majority would rarely be obtained.'

The election returns give the Government the substantial margin of 25,000 votes to the good, and are interesting also as an illustration of the growth of the population. The total vote cast was 1,176,104, as compared with 952,496 in 1900. The census of 1901 showed the population to have been 5,371,315, or 5.84 as large as the number of votes cast. If the same proportions are taken now the population at present is 6,632,640, or an increase of 1,261,325 over 1901. If the same rate of increase is maintained, when the next census is taken, two years hence, it will be found that Canada has a population of upwards of 7,000,000.

In this connection the figures as to the vote in the western provinces are of interest. In 1900 Manitoba cast 41,780 votes; in 1904, 48,122, and in 1908, 68,061. The Northwest Territories in 1900 cast 23,618 votes, and in 1904, 46,676—an increase of nearly 100 per cent. Alberta alone, in the election of last year cast 45,962 votes, or nearly as many as the whole Northwest four years previously. Saskatchewan's total last year was 58,412. This makes 104,314 cast in the two new provinces, or close on four and one-half times as many as in 1900. The total for Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta was 172,378, or almost as many as Nova Scotia and New Brunswick together. In 1900 British Columbia cast 26,451 votes; in 1904, 25,184, and 1908, 37,368, beating Prince Edward Island by about 9,000 votes. It will thus be seen that the Maritime Provinces are now outvoted by those west of Lake Superior.—London Advertiser.

COMMERCIAL OUTLOOK.

Altogether, Canada's commercial outlook seems one of steady continuance in demand for commodities on the part of the buying public. A demand somewhat more discriminating and less wasteful than that obtaining fourteen or fifteen months ago; and a demand which, on that very account, will contribute to trade stability rather than to any industrial boom.

An instance of alert gauging of business volume was shown in the October increase of imports. Due largely, no doubt, to the bringing in of goods for holiday trade, it did not indicate that wholesalers were beginning to count on rapid general expansion. And November foreign trade returns — considered discouraging by some observers—are therefore to be taken as indicating that importing and manufacturing concerns will continue to display caution in adapting supply to probable demand. But certainly the past year must have so thoroughly cleaned up any previous over-supply, that from now on moderate trade activity should be the order of the day.—Finance Chronicle.

BRITISH COLUMBIA'S WEALTH.

A recent report shows the natural richness and productive capacity in timber and minerals of British Columbia. Evidently the great peaks of the Province are stored with mineral wealth, and its slopes are covered with a growth of timber unequalled in the world. Great as the mineral wealth is known to be, it has not yet been fully prospected; and the forests of the Pacific slopes, if not quite inexhaustible, are at least more than sufficient to meet all the timber demands of the present generation.

Last year the value of the Province's total mineral production was $23,857,735. This was a slight falling off from the output of 1907, but that was due to special circumstances, and not because of any exhaustion in any of the mineral deposits. The value of the gold output was $5,973,530, the bulk of it being from lode mines. Silver and lead had each an output of $1,500,000; while the value of the copper output was $5,792,820. The value of the coal output was $5,950,000. To these fall to be added $1,488,000 for coke, and $1,000,000 for building material. Added together these show the value of the mineral resources of the Province last year.

The value of the forest products last year was less than that of the minerals, but it yielded a larger revenue. While the mineral output of $23,857,535 yielded a revenue of $200,000, the cut of 900,000,000 feet of timber, valued at $30,000,000, yielded a revenue of $4,000,000, including the annual ground rents (which are payable whether the timber is cut or not,) and the sums derived from royalties, hand loggers' licenses, &c. About 11,000 square miles of timber lands have already been leased in one form or other. Although a cut of 900,000,000 feet may seem large, there are reliable estimates which show that the actual standing timber will supply that yield for a century, without counting growth or reforesting.—Scottish American.

THE BOOM OF BRITISH CAPITAL

When we are reminded that Canada has Dominion and Provincial Government debts of some $300,000,000 to Great Britain, and a railway bonded indebtedness of about $500,000,000, there comes strong realization of what it means to have had a ready and favourable access to the world's great credit mart. That the steadily progressing development of the country warrants an investment so stupendous is not open to doubt. Yet the situation is one involving grave responsibilities; and Mr. Wood sums it up none too strongly when he says that it rests with all issuers of securities, with every bond dealer, broker and financier, with every financial corporation, with every municipal council—and in a more important sense with every Provincial Legislature and with the Dominion Parliament—to see that the man who ventures his money in a Canadian enterprise is treated fairly and honestly. Canada must fully sustain the confidence of the British investor through the years to come.—Finance Chronicle.

DO JUST WHAT IS CLAIMED FOR THEM

That's What Joseph Macklin Says of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

They Cured His Neuralgia, Cramped Muscles and Heart Disease From Which He Had Suffered for Two Years.

St. Paul de Metis, Alta., Jan. 25.—Special—"Dodd's Kidney Pills have done for me all that is claimed for them." So says Joseph Macklin, a well known farmer of this district. "I was ill for over six years with neuralgia, cramps in my muscles, backache and heart disease. I called on different doctors but got no help. I heard that Dodd's Kidney Pills were meant for just such cases as mine and bought eight boxes of them. Now I feel just like a new man. I recommend them to all as a sure cure for rheumatism and all troubles arising from diseased kidneys."

Thousands of farmers all over the west relate similar experiences to that similar to Mr. Macklin. They find that Dodd's Kidney Pills do just what is claimed for them—cure all diseased kidneys and all diseases arising from diseased kidneys.

SLIDES DOWN ROPE ELOPES AND WEDS

Lover Waiting With Carriage in Which They Ne to Cleveland Parson.

St. Louis, Jan. 26.— Mrs. Bennett Million, of No. 3600 Summit avenue, East St. Louis, who notified the East St. Louis police that her daughter Zeada, seventeen years old, had disappeared, received a letter announcing that the girl had just married Everett Smith. It was written by Smith, who said:

"Don't worry; we are en route to Iowa on our honeymoon." There was a postscript from the daughter saying she would return in a few days.

Mrs. Million opposed the marriage of her daughter to Smith, and it is said she had another man selected for the girl. Smith boarded at the Million home and recently was compelled to leave by Mrs. Million because, as she explained, she did not want him courting her daughter. The couple took out the marriage license the next day. They planned to marry that night, but the mother kept the girl at home.

Mr. and Mrs. Million and their daughter retired early, and at 9 o'clock Zeada let herself out of her bedroom window on the second floor by means of a rope. Smith was waiting with a carriage, and the two, accompanied by Harry Bean, drove to the home of the Rev. Mr. McCannon, of the First Methodist Church, where the marriage was solemnized.

The girl's father was with the couple when the license was obtained.

The bride has been organist in the Winstanley M. E. Church in East St. Louis, and is active in church work. She and Smith have known each other two years.

FASHIONS REBORN

A "Merry Widow" hat by another name and bequeathed from another century, shows that fashion, like history, repeats itself. To a degree fashion is history. The Pompadour coiffure, the Empire gown or Directoire skirt, the Puritan poke, the "Prince Albert" coat for men — which does not always come back because it is always here — are reminders of periods as well as styles. To their number may be added in time the green hat introduced by the present King Edward. The military stories of nations may be gathered from the uniforms of their soldiers.

Recent discoveries in Crete show that the wasp waist, the corset, the elbow sleeve and the short spreading skirt were familiar to the civilization of that island four thousand years ago. How insignificant, though still interesting, beside such a revelation, is John Colby Abbott's exhibition, upon which these comments are founded, of Marie Antoinette's straw hat, which even exceeds to-day's "Merry Widow" in its extravagance of inches!

In emulation of bygone dandies, men appeared at the London opera a few seasons ago carrying ornate tasselled canes. The vari-coloured waistcoats of the present are in revival of a fashion of the early sixties, which was in its turn an echo many times removed of a vastly earlier original.

Invention produces new materials for the dress of men and women and cheaper ways of making both the stuff and the clothes. These are feathers, lace and glittering trimmings for the millions now where once they were for the thousands. Practically the only new thing about a new fashion is the fresh stamp of the generation that calls it back.

T. AND N. O. TRAIN WAS DERAILED

Cobalt Train Meets With Accident and Score Are Hurt.

SPREAD RAIL IS TO BLAME

While Northbound is Traveling at 25 Miles an Hour Near North Bay Three Coaches Are Thrown Down a Steep Bank—One Man Has a Fractured Skull—None of the Injured Expected to Die.

North Bay, Jan. 26.—Over a score of passengers on the Cobalt special, which left here northward bound, at 8 o'clock yesterday morning, were injured in the first wreck of a passenger train on the T. & N. O. Railway.

From the circumstances attending the accident it was a miracle that many were not killed.

The train was running about 25 miles an hour, when suddenly, some 13 miles north of here, the rails spread from weather conditions and part of the train plunged down a 20-foot embankment.

The engine and baggage car remained on the track and one Pullman was left perched on the top of the bank, while the second-class and two first-class cars crashed down the declivity with terrific force.

The work of rescue began immediately. The telephone line was tapped and assistance summoned from North Bay. Drs. McMurchy, Bolland, Johnston went with the wrecking train, which was early on the scene, and the wounded received prompt attention.

At first it was thought that no serious injuries had resulted, but examination revealed several passengers severely hurt, the most serious being C. Lombard of Iroquois Falls, section foreman on the T. & N.O. Railway, whose skull was fractured, though he is expected to recover.

The wounded reached North Bay at 11.30 last night and were taken to the hospital.

J. W. Bradley was taken through to Toronto to St. Michael's Hospital on the Cobalt special.

GIRLS BURNED TO DEATH.

Three Daughters of Montreal Man Lose Lives In Fire.

Montreal, Jan. 26.—Beatrice, 18 years; Marguerite, 17 years, and Ruth, nine years, three daughters of W. G. Slack, treasurer of the Bell Telephone Co. were burned to death in a fire which destroyed their house, 163 Cote Des Neiges road, early yesterday.

The fire was discovered by Mrs. Slack, who about midnight was awakened by smoke which was filling the house. If it had been possible to send in an alarm immediately, help would have probably arrived in time to save the lives of the victims, but the effect of the storm on the telephone system had rendered the instruments in the house useless.

Is Now St. Joan.

Rome, Jan. 26.—In the hall of the consistory yesterday morning the Pope read the decree approving the solemn ratification of Joan of Arc.

In his address, the Pope said that he was never so satisfied as when, through the help of God, he was able to raise to the altars those who, leaving on earth the perfume of their virtues, show with the assistance of the Almighty, the miracles of heaven.

His Holiness also took occasion to complain of the present condition of society, which, he said, is afflicted by unbelief.

$35,000 For Salisbury Wreck Victim.

London, Jan. 26.—Mrs. Brodt of New York yesterday obtained a verdict of $35,000 against the London & Southwestern Railway Co., for personal injuries sustained in the Salisbury train wreck of July 1, 1906, when 27 persons lost their lives. Mrs. Brodt is the widow of John E. McDonald, one of the victims of the accident. She has since re-married. She claimed damages also for the death of her former husband.

Fire in Bonaventure Depot.

Montreal Jan. 26.—Fire which broke out in the Bonaventure depot yesterday did not get very much headway. The flames caught in the stationary department, the damage amounting to $6,000.

Suicides In Penitentiary.

New Westminster, B.C., Jan. 26.—While despondent, James B. Weston, a horse thief and jail-breaker, committed suicide in the penitentiary on Sunday night with a shoemaker's knife.

THE DOCTOR SAID "I CAN'T HELP YOU"

Suffered 10 Months with Kidney Complaint. Gin Pills Cured.

Dunvegan, Inverness Co.

I am perfectly cured of Kidney complaint after using Gin Pills. Six hours after taking the first Pill I obtained relief, and now after three months I feel as well as ever.

I suffered ten months and the Physician attending me advised me to go to the Victoria Hospital at Halifax, as he could do nothing more for me. I may add that I used a great deal of medicine, and strictly followed my physician's directions regarding diet, etc., but without avail, until providentially I learned of your most excellent remedy. I am recommending Gin Pills.

LONDON, Jan. 25.—London cables for cattle are steady, at 13c to 13½c per lb., dressed weight; refrigerator beef is quoted at 10½c to 10½c per lb.

Toronto Junction Live Stock.

TORONTO JUNCTION, Jan. 25.—Receipts of live stock at the Union Stock Yards were 52 carloads, composed of 1071 cattle, 10 hogs, 143 sheep and 16 calves.

Exporters.

There was a good demand for export steers and more would have sold. Dealers complain that there are few of the cattle offering that are finished. Steers sold from $5.10 to $5.60, but only one load at the latter figure; bulls sold from $4 to $4.75, and one choice bull brought $5 per cwt.

Butchers.

As will be seen by sales quoted below, the bulk of the butchers' cattle went over $4 per cwt., not many being sold under that figure. Choice picked lots, sold at $4.85 to $5 and a few were quoted for a little more money; loads of good, $4.50 to $4.75; medium, $4 to $4.40; common, $3.50 to $3.80, and $3.90; cows, $3 to $4.50, and in good demand; canners, $1.75 to $2.50.

Milkers and Springers.

About half a dozen milkers and springers sold at $30 to $55 each, and one at $60.

Sheep and Lambs.

A light delivery of sheep and lambs sold at steady prices. Ewes sold at $3.50 to $4 per cwt.; rams, $2.50 to $3; lambs, $5.50 to $6 per cwt.

Hogs.

Gunns, Limited, quoted selects at $6.65, fed and watered, at the market, and $6.40 to drovers, f.o.b., cars, at country points. One drover from Western Ontario stated that he got $6.50, f.o.b., cars, last week.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, Jan. 25.—(Special.)—At the Montreal Stock Yards, West End Market, the receipts of live stock for the week ending Jan. 23, were 2618 cattle, 918 sheep and lambs, 6497 hogs and 170 calves, while the offerings this morning amounted to 1200 cattle, 400 sheep and lambs, 1800 hogs and 300 calves. There was no further change in the condition of the market for cattle to-day, prices being firmly maintained, supplies being smaller and quality generally good. The demand was not quite so keen as a week ago on account of the milder weather, but there was a good attendance of buyers, a good many being for shipment to Quebec and Ottawa. There was no demand from exporters. Cables from Liverpool on Saturday reported trade slow but firm. Choice steers sold here at 5¼c to 5½c; good, at 4½c to 5c; fair, at 4c to 4½c; common, at 3c to 3½c; and inferior at 2c to 2½c per pound. Owing to the continued small supplies of sheep and lambs prices show no change from a week ago. Choice lots of sheep brought 3½c to 4c, and culls, 3½c to 3½c per lb. Lambs, sold freely at 5½c to 6c for choice stock, and at 5½c to 5½c for good per lb. Calves continue to be scarce with the demand good, and prices rule firm. There continues to be a strong undertone to the market for hogs and prices are steadily tending towards a higher level, they showing a further advance to-day of 10c per cwt., due to the keen demand from packers and the limited supplies of frozen stock coming forward. An active trade was done with sales of selected lots at $7.25 to $7.35 per cwt., weighed off cars, but some lots coming from Chatham cost laid down here $7.50 to $7.60 per cwt.

East Buffalo Cattle Market.

EAST BUFFALO, Jan. 25.—Cattle—Receipts 2500 head; fairly active and steady; prime steers, $5 to $5.50; shipping, $5.50 to $5.60; butchers', $4.75 to $5.35; heifers, $4 to $5.50; cows, $2.50 to $5; bulls, $3 to $5.

MANY DON'T KNOW HEART AFFECTED.

More People than Aware of It Have Heart Disease.

"If examinations were made of everyone, people would be surprised at the number of persons walking about suffering from heart disease."

This startling statement was made by a doctor at a recent inquest. "I should not like to say that heart disease is as common as this would imply," said the expert, "but I am sure that the number of persons going about with weak hearts must be very large."

"Hundreds of people go about their daily work on the verge of death, and yet do not know it. It is only when the shock comes that kills them that the unsuspected weakness of the heart is made apparent."

"But undoubtedly heart weakness, not disease, is more prevalent nowadays. I should think that the stress of living, the wear and rush of modern business life, have a lot to do with heart trouble."

There is no doubt, but that this is correct, and we would strongly advise any one suffering in any way from heart trouble to try a course of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills.

Price 50 cts. per box or 3 boxes for $1.25, at all dealers or will be mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

FLUTTERING OF THE HEART.

Mrs. G. M. White, Williamstown, N.B., writes: "I was troubled with weak spells and fluttering of the heart. I was so bad I could scarcely lie down in bed. I procured a box of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills and they helped me so much I got another box and it has made a final cure. I cannot speak too highly of them. I think they are worth their weight in gold."

More than one best?

When you ask your grocer to send you the best flour, he sends you—his best. When you know the best flour and order by the name, the choice is not left to the grocer. Many grocers handle as their leader. They have found it the safest flour to recommend because its results are sure and its purity is unquestioned. If your grocer's best is not Royal Household, insist on his getting it for you. The benefit will be mutual.

Royal Household Flour

Paid Not to Sing.

Although Mme. Nordica is one of the best prime donne in the world—it is said that her annual income amounts to nearly $75,000—it is interesting to note that her first fee was paid to her not for singing, but for consenting not to sing. Even as a little girl she used to love to try her voice at all times and in all places, and, much to the annoyance of her elder sisters, she would persist in joining in with them whenever they sang duets together. So, in order to silence the future diva, they resorted to bribery, and gave her some money on condition that she promised to keep quiet.

IS RHEUMATISM CURABLE NOW?

GIVES THIS RECIPE TO YOU

Recent hospital reports show that the dread disease, rheumatism, is steadily increasing throughout the country. All known means of relief are being suggested to save the great amount of suffering this winter, especially among those who are not in a position to pack up and visit the noted health resorts to be treated. Recent tests prove rheumatism not exactly a disease in itself, but a severe symptom of kidney trouble, a condition caused by clogged up pores of the eliminative tissues in the kidneys which fail to filter the poisonous waste matter and uric acid from the blood, permitting these substances to remain in the veins and decompose, usually settling about the joints and muscles, causing the intense pain, swelling and stiffness of rheumatism.

The following simple home treatment will cure rheumatism and is harmless and inexpensive, and so simple that anybody can mix it at home.

The ingredients are: Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Go to any good prescription pharmacy and get these three harmless ingredients and mix them by shaking in a bottle, taking as a dose a teaspoonful after each meal and again at bedtime.

There is nothing better in the world for backache, kidney and bladder trouble, too. Such symptoms are frequent and painful urination, soreness, weakness, general and nervous debility are caused by certain acids and poisonous waste matter, decayed tissue, etc., in the blood, which the kidneys will clear and purify after a few doses of this prescription.

PEEPING TOM CAUGHT ON THE FIRE ESCAPE

Had Been Causing an Annoyance for a Week—Finally Landed.

New Yory, Jan. 26 — Manager Thomas Toby, of the Hotel Margaret, Columbia Heights, Brooklyn, and twenty-two indignant girls were complainants yesterday in the Adams street police court against Herman Summ, physical instructor in the Italian settlement, No. 29 Front street, Brooklyn.

For a week the inmates of the servants' dormitory in the hotel annex had been in a flutter of excitement. Stealthy footsteps on the lawn, unusual rustlings on the fire escape and the raising of windows proclaimed the presence of a man. Several of the girls were thrown into hysterics one night to see a male face gazing into their rooms. A trap was laid for the intruder.

Henry Watkins, the negro porter of the hotel, was appointed the Sherlock Holmes. Friday night he slipped into the grounds and reconnoitred. In a few minutes he saw the figure of a man silhouetted against a lighted window on the second floor. The man noiselessly raised the window, says Watkins, drew back the curtain and peeped into the girls' dormitory. So interested was he that he did not hear Watkins approach. Suddenly two strong hands grasped him from behind and he was thrown from the fire escape to the ground. He was turned over to Detective Germanhauser and Patrolman Ryan, of the Fulton street station.

Magistrate Dooley held Summ in $1,000 bail. He told the Magistrate that he was passing the hotel Margaret and saw the windows of the dormitory lighted. "On the impulse of the moment," he continued, "I climbed the fire escape and looked in. I did not open the window, as the complainants charge."

SCOTCHMEN PAY TRIBUTE TO MEMORY OF BURNS, THE DEMIGOD OF THE NATION

Splendid Banquet at the Snowden House by the Local Camp Clan Alpine, S. O. S., Was Largely Attended—Scotch Music, Songs, Stories, Yes, and Haggis, the Dish Par Excellence.

DR. McKINNON PRESIDED

Scotchmen the world over honoured the memory of their immortal poet, Robert Burns, yesterday, on the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of his birth. In Peterborough the local Camp Clan Alpine joined in the universal expression by a banquet, which was held at the Snowden House, and was attended by a large number of Scotchmen, who, in no uncertain way manifested the spirit of reverence for Burns, which seems to be a bond that unites the nation into one grand clan. Every Scotchman is born to an intuition of the merits of his poems, which is as much as saying that whatever is strongest, deepest, broadest and finest in that remarkable concrete, the Scotch national character, finds its enthusiasm in his immortal verse.

To anyone who might have chanced in at the banquet during the after dinner speeches, if he were not a Scotchman, he would undoubtedly be at a loss to understand the reasons for the fact that one man, a humble ploughman, who gave to his country its best literary wealth, that the memory of this man could so unite the Scotchmen present and stir in them the deepest of love for their native land, its people and its customs, the birthplace of its ancestors.

Camp Clan Alpine's commemorative function was a delightful and a most successful event, and if it were only from the fact that it was out of respect for Burns that it was held, the enthusiasm and love evidenced will take on a new lease of life and the lamp that has been placed before the altar of Scotland's greatest poet by Scotchmen, and the whole literary world, will be kept glowing and bright by such gatherings and such evidences of national love.

The Banquet

The confidence that had been placed in Mine Host Fraser of the Snowden House, had not been misplaced for the sumptuous spread was all that could be desired, and would surely have inspired an eulogistic verse from Burns himself had he been with his fellow Scotchmen to enjoy it. The menu was as follows:

"Nearer as they came, a genial savour,
Of certain stews, sheep's heid and (trotters,"—Burns.

Chairman's address—Bro. Dr. McKinnon.

The King—proposed by Dr. McKinnon.

The Immortal Memory of Robert Burns—proposed by the chairman and responded to by Mr. Bennet.

The Ladies—Proposed by Bro. A. M Chalmers, and responded to by Bros. Linton and D B MacRae.

"Auld Lang Syne"

"God Save the King."

Addresses

Dr. McKinnon expressed thanks for the honour that had been conferred upon him in being asked to preside at the function. Continuing he referred to the good work of Mr. Grieve whose reorganization methods and new spirit instilled into the local camp had brought it to a flourishing condition.

Dr. McKinnon referred to the choice of the anniversary of Burns for the banquet and thought the choice had been a happy one. He also spoke of the devout patriotism of Scotchmen to their country, a loyalty which has ever lived and kept Scotch hearts together. The speaker dwelt in feeling terms on Burns the beloved poet of the Scotch race. He was the one who taught the poorer and humbler men that it were better to be an honest man than a duke. Burns spoke to the man of broad sympathies. He taught them that it was a crime to trample under foot the modest daisy nestling on the mountain side, or to destroy the modest home of the timid mouse.

A Splendid Speech

In reply to the toast of "The Immortal Memory of Robert Burns" Mr. Bennet said that a Scotchman is as sincere in his social and business life as he is in his patriotic life. Wherever there is a Scotchman to-night he will be found commemorating the memory of Robert Burns." Mr. Bennet said that the inspiration of a Scotchman's life was the memory of that poet. Speaking of Burns' faults, which his critics emphasized, these were what endeared him to Scottish hearts. It was only human to possess some fault. But continuing he stated that it was Burns who saved Scottish life, and in his poetry inspired the literature of the 19th century. Mr. Bennet spoke in splendid terms of the respect which Burns displayed for women in his poetry.

Mr. Bennet's magnificent address touched everybody present and his similes and references to the different phases of the character of Burns were received with enthusiastic applause. He concluded by saying that God had given the different nations distinguished men, but to none had there been given a brighter star, than Burns to Scotland. Mr. Bennet's splendid and stirring speech was received with prolonged applause.

Grand Camp Visitors

Bro. Mearns congratulated the local officers on their resuscitation of the local camp and bringing it in one year to such a flourishing condition. Speaking of the Order, he said it comprised camps forming net work from coast to coast and gave Scotchmen the advantage of meeting each other on equal footing, as man to man, the spirit that Burns had so much admired. In the camp rooms the things sought were to cultivate a love of Scotch music and literature. In conclusion he thanked the members of the local camp for their invitation to be present.

Bro. Tytler, Grand Secretary, of Toronto, spoke in behalf of the keeping alive of Scottish customs, Scottish manners, music, literature, etc. He also reviewed the history of the Sons of Scotland from its inception in 1850 down to the present time, and dwelt on its growth through the countries. He hoped to see every Scotchman a member and told of the democracy of the Grand Camp emphasizing the fact that its affairs were not in the hands of one man or a few men.

Bros. Grieve and MacKay in referring to the local camp spoke of the progress that had been made in the past year, and assured every Scotchman in the city a hearty welcome at the camp meetings and looked for many new members during the coming year.

The Programme

The following programme was given, interspersing the speeches:—

Serious Crime Was Absent in Peterborough During Past Year

Report of Most Satisfactory Nature Presented by Chief Roszel to the Police Commissioners at Their Annual Meeting — The Record of the Police Department.

JUDGE WELLER CHAIRMAN.

Total number of males arrested or summoned, 519.
Total number of females, 10.
Convictions, 357.
Discharged, 151.
Withdrawn, 5.
Committed for trial, 12.

The annual meeting of the Police Commissioners of the city was held yesterday afternoon when Judge Weller was re-elected chairman. The other members of the Board are Mayor Rush and Magistrate Dumble. One of the most important features was the presentation of Chief Roszel's annual report. It contains many interesting notes of the past year's record.

Chief's Report

To the Police Commissioners of the City of Peterborough:

Gentlemen,—I beg to submit my report of the work done by the Police Department during the year 1908.

Schedule "A" contains a list alphabetically arranged and classified of the principal offences which prisoners were charged with and showing how the cases were disposed of.

Schedule "B" shows the amount of fines and costs collected by the Department during the year and handed over to the City Treasurer.

Schedule "C" shows the amount of property reported lost or stolen during the year and what proportions were recovered.

Schedule "D" shows the amount of Licenses collected (with the assistance of the City Clerk) during the year, including dog tax.

General Remarks

During the year one appointment was made to the force, viz., P. C. Magher. The general health and conduct of the Force during the year has been good. I am pleased to be able to report that the Police Force is working together in peace and harmony.

I am pleased to report that all second-hand and junk dealers have complied with the bylaw.

Hotel and Pool Rooms

Seventeen persons were before the Police Magistrate for breaches of the Liquor License Act during the year. Eleven of these were convicted. Pool rooms have been very well conducted during the year.

No illicit sale of liquor is done in the city, and the city is free from houses of ill-fame and gambling resorts so far as I am aware.

The Chief Constables' Association of Canada meets this year at Niagara Falls, Ontario, in July next, and I trust, gentlemen, you will make it convenient for me to attend, as I was elected President of the Association at our meeting last year in Quebec.

I would again bring to the notice of the Property Committee the totally inadequate size of the Police Office, there being only one small room in which to do the police business.

During the summer months several houses were left in our care during the temporary absence of the owners. I am pleased to report that none were disturbed.

I am sorry to have to report that during the latter part of the year several petty thefts have been committed from delivery rigs, the perpetrators of which we have not been able to capture.

We have had no serious crimes during the year.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

I have the honour to be, gentlemen,
Your obedient servant,
((Signed.) GEO. I. ROSZEL,
Chief Constable.

BAKERY CART SLID INTO DEEP DITCH DRAGGING HORSE WITH IT

A deepened part of the ditch near the foot of Munroe Avenue, at Concession street, drew a baker's delivery horse and waggon into its depth, slightly damaging the former and spreading a number of the loaves around the bottom.

One of Stock's bakery rigs in turning swung around and could not regain the roadway. The driver, according to the account received, jumped from his seat when he saw the inevitable result. This is the third time that such an affair has occurred and the residents feel that the hole should be filled up at once.

WORK THAT WEAKENS

Booth's Kidney Pills Have Done Great Service For People Who Work In Peterborough

Many Peterborough people work every day in some strained unnatural position, bending constantly over a desk, riding on jolting waggons or cars, bending over heavy house work, lifting, reaching, pulling, all these strains tend to wear, weaken and injure the kidneys until they fall behind in their work of filtering the poisons from the blood. Booth's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys, put new strength in bad backs, Peterborough cures prove it

Mrs. J E Booth, 631 Water street, Peterborough, Ont., says:—"I cannot speak too highly of Booth's Kidney Pills as I have found more actual results in one box of them than in all else I had previously tried. For over a year I had suffered with headaches and spells of dizziness. I became so weak that I would have to support myself to keep from falling. My back was tender and a heavy, bearing-down pain had settled across the small of it. Numerous prescriptions had failed to give me any relief. I procured Booths' Kidney Pills at the Market Drug Store. They quickly cured me. I have no trouble since and am stronger than in a year previous. Although I am averse to having my name used I feel that everyone should know of such a valuable remedy."

IS BACK FROM SILVER DISTRICT

Mr. Webber Turner Has Returned From a Trip to Elk Lake.

Mr. Webber Turner returned last night from Elk Lake in the centre of the new silver field in Northern Ontario, after securing a large list of orders for tents, canoes, paddles, etc. He states that an astonishing number of prospectos, miners, etc., are passing through to Gowganda daily, feverishly eager to share in the riches that some of the earliest have unearthed.

Farmers even are among the throng, men who have never been in such a place before.

There have been instances of money quickly made that have been widely reported. Several young bankers "grub-staked" a prospector some months ago and in return a few weeks ago they received $10,000 for each ten dollars they had put in to keep the prospector in food. He's rich and paid well. Other stories just as wonderful are related as facts.

THE PHILOMATHEAN SOCIETY MEETING

Very Enjoyable Programme Was Given by the Pupils of the Collegiate Institute.

The regular meeting of the Collegiate Institute Philomathean Society was held yesterday evening in the Assembly Hall. It was perhaps the best of those that have been held since September, and the most largely attended.

The meeting opened as usual by the reading of the minutes of the last meeting which was followed by a chorus by the Glee Club. The next number was a spelling match in which two pupils from each form took part. The last to go down on the losing side was Miss Dorothy Fessenden, and the survivor on the winning one, Miss E Derocher.

A prettily rendered piano solo by Miss Hazel Moffat preceded the first scene of a dialogue entitled "Uncle Zed." Those taking part in this humorous sketch were Misses M Armstrong, M Potter and J Neill, and Messrs. Cyril Moore, M Pearson, H Armstrong and Harry Hall. They all played their parts most creditably, Mr. Moore particularly pleasing the audience as an arystocratic foreigner.

Between the first and second scenes of the dialogue Messrs. J H Adams and John Brightman played a mandolin duet, with piano accompaniment by Miss K Leary. This number was heartily applauded and the players were forced to respond with an encore. After the second scene of the dialogue Miss Alice Neil rendered a piano solo which seemed to be highly appreciated by the audience. The meeting then closed in the usual manner.

ADDRESSED BY DR. J. A. MORGAN

Literary Meeting Held at the Baptist Church Last Night.

A literary meeting was held at the Baptist church on Monday night, Dr. J A Morgan delivered the address on "The Body the Temple of the Holy Ghost, and the care we should give it." The address was a very fine one and was listened to with great delight by the large attendance present. Miss Kidd sang a solo which was beautifully rendered and then a short discussion of the paper by the audience was indulged in.

ENJOYABLE DANCE HELD AT LAKEFIELD

Party of Local Young People Drove Out There Last Night.

Two bus loads of merry young Peterborough people drove to Lakefield last night and held a most enjoyable dance. The village hall had been secured for the occasion and it proved an ideal place for a dance. The floor was in good condition and excellent music was provided by Mr. Nicholls of the Crystal. A number of Lakefield young people had been invited and their presence was not the least delightful feature of the evening. The light fantastic was trippedd until an early hour and it was four o'clock before the party reached home.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

THE MAN OF MYSTRY

Corelli recognized as the worlds greatest magician will be the attraction at the Grand Opera House on Saturday, Jan. 30th for one night and matinee. It was left to him to astound the old world during his 3 years tour and even in India where magic sprang from the Hindoo fakirs stood aghast at the quiet young man's performances. During the season's tour, he will offer a banquet of novel mysteries giving a programme of fascinating refinement, educational to the highest degree. Some of the mysteries he performs are Corelli's inexhaustible coin tables, The daughter of Isis, She, the double cabinet mystery, the levitation of Princess Ada and the Triple Canon mystery. You can see a drama opera or farce comedy any day—but the great Corelli perhaps once in a life time.

MANY NEW BILLS WERE INTRODUCED

REPORT ON COTTON MILLS

Result of W. L. Mackenzie King's Investigation Into Quebec Troubles, is Announced — Seven Bills Are Brought In and Given First Reading — Dr. Reid Is Again First With Proposed Measure.

Ottawa, Jan. 26.—If the pace set at the opening of yesterday's sitting of the House of Commons can be maintained, then assuredly the session will be a short one. Of a list of nine bills standing on the order paper no fewer than seven were introduced and read a first time. It is true that several of the measures were old friends, but the fact that their sponsors were ready to move them at the first opportunity was a sign of activity that carried its own commentary. The honor of introducing the first bill of the session fell to Dr. Reid, who is again in charge of the passenger ticket measure.

Mr. Bickerdike (Montreal) introduced a bill to amend the Railway Act. Public opinion demanded some measure to protect the public at level crossings.

Mr. Lancaster: "How does your bill differ from mine?"

Mr. Bickerdike said it was milder and applied chiefly to towns and villages, but gave the committe power to protect crossings anywhere.

Mr. Bickerdike also scooped E. N. Lewis by introducing a bill making it unlawful to carry deadly weapons.

Hon. Charles Murphy introduced a bill to amend the naturalization bill. It follows the British system as to the form of declaration.

Mr. Lancaster also submitted his level crossing bill, the same as he had carried through the House the last three sessions. He hoped the Senate would repent and allow it to go through.

Hon. Mr. Oliver introduced a bill to correct verbal errors in his land act of last year.

Dr. Reid introduced a bill providing for two cents a mile fare, mileage tickets to be accepted by conductors without the requirement of exchanging at the depot and also for interchange of tickets by different railways.

R. L. Borden announced his election to sit for Halifax and resigned his seat for Carleton.

Ralph Smith, resuming the debate on the address, declared that the return of so many Conservatives from British Columbia was due to the fact that the issues of "better terms" and Asiatic immigration had not been presented fairly to the people of that province by the Conservatives. What Sir Wilfrid Laurier had asked the province to accept was what had been desired by the Premiers of the several provinces of the Dominion. In the campaign, however, the "better terms" settlement had been made by Sir Wilfrid personally, and so the grievance was saddled upon the Liberal party at Ottawa. So with the Asiatic question: it had been made a political football and the Conservatives had played the game well.

Two methods were open to settle the oriental question—employ white labor and pass reasonable legislation. He questioned if every one of the five British Columbia Conservatives could say they did not employ oriental labor.

"Don't all speak at once," he said, after a pause.

Martin Burrell said in his campaign he differentiated between Japanese and Hindus.

"The Government does and the Prime Minister does," called several Conservatives at once.

"Then," returned Mr. Smith, "I do not agree with the Government."

Still Coming In.

Mr. Goodeve (Kootenay), heralded as the greatest of all the British Columbia delegation in the way of oratorical display, followed. He gave a dispassionate resume of the oriental difficulty, proposing, he said, to appeal to the House in no mere party spirit. There was no disloyalty in the attitude of the people of British Columbia on this question, but he pointed out that notwithstanding the written agreement that Hon. Mr. Fisher alleged he had received with Japan, that the immigration from Japan would be limited to 600, no less than 8,125 Japanese had invaded British Columbia in the months of 1907.

If, as Mr. Smith said, the people of British Columbia were swayed by a bogus telegram, it showed that they were very much in earnest.

J. D. Taylor (New Westminster) and F. N. Lewis also spoke. The address was passed at 8.45 p.m.

On motion of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, G. H. McIntyre was appointed Deputy Speaker.

The estimates will be down this week, Mr. Paterson told Mr. Borden.

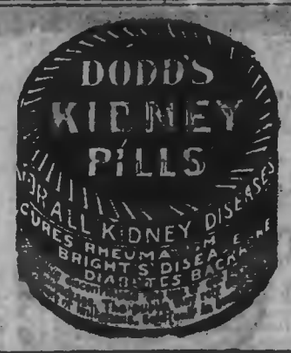
Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux tabled yesterday the report of W. L. Mackenzie King, who was commissioned to enquire into the series of disputes which affected some 6,000 operators of cotton mills in the Province of Quebec during the summer of 1908. The main conclusions of the report are:

The ten per cent. reduction in wages, which occasioned the strike and lockout in May, was not due to any peculiar severity on the part of the Canadian employers or to tariff, or other special conditions, but was an economic consequence of general trade and financial depression which Canada shared in common with the United States and Great Britain, and which affected the cotton industry in all parts of the world.

The strike in the Quebec mills was unwise and ill-timed and would not have taken place had the constitution of the labor organization been strictly followed. The companies were aggravatingly curt in their notice of the proposed reduction, and the employes' interests suffered through jealousies among their leaders.

The hours of labor of women and children in the cotton mills are too long. The law respecting the employment of child labor has been evaded, and should be amended to provide against possible infractions in the future.

"At most, all that can be said of the lowering of the tariff, so far as the actual experience of the cotton mills of Quebec is concerned, is that during this period of temporary depression it has caused the effects of competition to be felt [illegible] than it otherwise would have been, whereas at other times, it has not been such as to cause those engaged in the industry to feel the effects of foreign competition, and has been an undoubted benefit to the consumer."



TO SUCCEED MORSE.

Vice-Presidency of G.T.P. Goes to Chamberlain.

Montreal, Jan. 26.—E. J. Chamberlain, formerly general manager of the Canada Atlantic, has been appointed vice-president and general manager of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway Co., succeeding F. W. Morse, resigned.

The announcement is not looked upon here as anything like a permanent nomination, but simply one that will tide over the company in its very important negotiation with the Government during the session which has just begun. Those who are behind the scenes look wise and declare that the legislation asked by the Government this session will be most important.

A leading railway man stated yesterday afternoon that the G.T.P. will more than likely ask to be relieved of the 1,800 miles of the G.T.P. between Moncton and Winnipeg. Nothing short, he says, will save the G.T.P. from failure, and the old Grand Trunk from bankruptcy.

It transpires that the new vice-president was in California and was sent for by wire, so this looks as if the Morse resignation had been accepted for some time past.

Retires to Enjoy Money.

Chicago, Jan. 26.—Sidney C. Love of New York and Chicago, having amassed during a brief but brilliant career fortunes said to be close to two million dollars, and having married a Chicago society girl, pronounced by Sir Philip Burne-Jones, the artist, to be the most beautiful woman in the world, quietly retired from business yesterday. Mr. Love had contemplated the move for some months, but so quietly were the details worked out yesterday that the announcement that Sidney C. Love & Co. had abandoned a business formerly rated at $25,000,000 a year, startled the local financial district.

Mr. Love is 36 years of age. He began his business career as a clerk 15 years ago.

Bad Move For Anarchists.

London, Jan. 26.—The two men who on Saturday killed two persons and wounded many others in an attempt at highway robbery at Walhamstow, and later committed suicide were undoubtedly dangerous anarchists.

The London morning papers, in strong terms, urge the Government to take vigorous measures to protect the country against such desperadoes.

Heretofore anarchists have been very quiet in England, because of the immunity they enjoy from molestation by the police.

Japan Is Not Warlike.

Tokio, Jan. 26.—Marquis Katsuram, the Premier; Count Jaturo Komura, the Minister of Foreign Affairs, and Viscount Terauchi, the Minister of War, declared in the Diet yesterday that Japan's relations with the powers of the world were so improved that the proposed reduction in armaments and the like were fully warranted.

Usury Charge at Chatham.

Chatham, Jan. 26.—John W. White, local money lender, charged with usury, came up for preliminary hearing before Judge Houston yesterday. He pleaded not guilty, and elected to be tried by jury.

THE PASSENGERS HAD A RIOT

Italian on Board Steamer Florida Fought in Their Panic.

CAPTAIN STRUCK WHEELMAN

Quartermaster of Florida Said to Have Disobeyed Orders and to Have Been Felled With Spike by His Skipper—Passengers on the Republic Tell Thrilling Tales of Their Escape From Angry Sea.

New York, Jan. 26.—Within considerably less than 72 hours after the crash between the ocean liners Republic and Florida, off the Nantucket shoals, which eventually sent the one to the bottom and reduced the other to an almost helpless state, the survivors of the thrilling accident have found a haven at last.

At nightfall last night 1,650 passengers from the two vessels were safe in this port, brought here by the Baltic. Frenzied cheers from the thousands at the pier when she docked greeted her arrival. Tears of thankfulness were shed, affectionate greetings were exchanged and only here and there was there a note of sadness heard.

On the Republic's side little was to be learned. Her passengers told graphic tales of the crash, of the excitement on board, of the bravery of the officers, the good behavior of the crew and the efficient work of rescue.

Little could be learned from Capt. Rospini of the Florida last night, but according to others who had been on board the Florida and were brought into port by the Baltic, something went wrong with the Florida's steering wheel when the collision was imminent.

One story had it that a quartermaster had the wheel when the commander yelled for it to be jammed to starboard. He put it to port instead and the liners crashed into each other.

Another story is that the man dropper his wheel in a panic when danger impended. Both versions agree in saying that the commander felled the quartermaster with an iron spike following what he must have considered the seaman's recreancy.

Stories told by the Republic's passengers show that the transfer of passengers from the Florida to the Baltic in the dark hours of Saturday night come perilously near resulting in a riot of the 500 Italian steerage passengers on the Florida, who believed that their vessel was in imminent danger of sinking.

They pressed about the entrance of the gangway, which was guarded by Chief Steward Stanyer, and three of the other ship's officers. The Italians made several rushes for the gangway, but were repulsed by the officers and one or two passengers of the Republic, who used their fists and a few convenient spikes.

After the Gresham came up with the sinking Republic, Sunday forenoon, preparations were made to tow the steamer to the nearest land for beaching, as Capt. Sealby thought that she could be saved. But the steamer's bulkheads were unable to stand the pressure, and at 7 o'clock Sunday night Capt. Sealby ordered every man off the ship. He himself refused to leave and the second officer remained by his commander's side. An hour later two shots were heard from the bridge of the Republic, two blue lights were burned and the bow of the doomed steamer shot up in the air and the great liner sank, stern first. Just before she went down, Capt. Sealby climbed the mast, while his second officer jumped the rail. They were rescued by one of the Gresham's lifeboats.

The bodies of Mrs. Lynch and Mr. Mooney were placed in hermetically-sealed caskets, which sank with the steamer Republic off Nantucket.

Oddfellows Sue Railway.

Windsor, Jan. 26.—John Gillespie, a prominent Detroit fraternity and business man, is suing the Michigan Central Railway for $35 in claims assigned to him by thirty-eight Oddfellows, who were included in a canton from Detroit at a celebration in St. Thomas last August.

Plaintiff claims that the Oddfellows were promised the same rate from Detroit as from Windsor, but when returning extra fare was demanded. Each man asked for a receipt, and while these were being made out the train left. Now damages are asked for those who were compelled to go to further expense.

A Lynching In Sight.

Guthrie, Okla., Jan. 26.—Great excitement prevails over an attack upon Mrs. J. R. Faulkner, wife of State Representative Faulkner, in her home in Hobart yesterday, and a posse has gone after J. F. Bowden, a white man in the employ of Faulkner, who is accused of the assault.

Goes to Hague Tribunal.

Washington, Jan. 26.—An agreement has been reached between Secretary Root and the British and Canadian and Newfoundland Governments, through their representatives here, on the Newfoundland fisheries question, to be submitted to The Hague court for arbitration.

Praise For Mr. Borden.

Reparation Wanted.

Ottawa, Jan. 26.—A. B. Crosby, M.P., will ask the Government to demand a big sum from Paraguay for the capture of the sealing schooner Agnes Donohue, in 1906, for alleged poaching. The crew, Canadians, were imprisoned.

Neck Broken.

Beachville, Ont., Jan. 26.—W. A. Brake of Leamington was instantly killed at the Standard White Lime Co. works. His neck was broken by some falling machinery.

New Dry Dock at Soo.

Sault Ste. Marie, Jan. 26.—O'Boyle Bros'. Construction Co. have the contract for erecting a dry dock here, which will accommodate the largest boats on the lakes.

The deal, it is supposed, is backed by Canadian capital. The Board of Trade will make a formal announcement at its meeting sometime this week.

Youth Sentenced to Death.

Bridgetown, N.Y., Jan. 26.—Walter Zeller, aged 18, convicted of murder for complicity in the killing of William Read, his grandfather, for the purpose of robbery, was yesterday sentenced to be electrocuted.

Herbert Grigg, aged 18, and Cline Wheeler, for complicity in the crime, were each sentenced to 30 years.

Glory For Boston.

Boston, Mass., Jan. 26.—With a grand song service, in which 2,000 choristers participated, the largest and most remarkable evangelistic campaign ever attempted in this city, was opened in Tremont Temple yesterday.

The revival is under the leadership of Rev. Dr. J. Wilbur Chapman of Albany, N.Y., assisted by Charles M. Alexander, the gospel singer, and more than 60 evangelists from every part of the country.

Firemen Drop Three Flats.

Rochester, N.Y., Jan. 26.—The largest industry of Canisteo, N.Y., the Canisteo Woodenware Co., was burned Sunday night. Six firemen at work on a bridge were dropped into the street from the third floor. One man had his ribs broken. Loss $60,000.

$200,000 For Italy.

Washington, Jan. 26.—The American Red Cross yesterday cabled $200,000 to Ambassador Griscom at Rome, half to the Italian Queen's Orphanage Fund, and the other half for the rehabilitation of professional men and other relief.

Carrie Nation Egged.

London, Jan. 26.—Mrs. Carrie Nation was pelted with eggs, one of them striking her in the face, while delivering a lecture in Canterbury Music Hall last night.

Mrs. Nation was obliged to quit the house under police protection.

Ten Miners Imprisoned.

Pittsburg, Pa., Jan. 26.—Two Americans and eight foreigners are imprisoned in Merchants' Coal Co. mine at Boswell, Pa., where a gas explosion occurred about 8 o'clock last night. Three foreigners, badly injured, escaped.

Use the Lash More.

Ottawa, Jan. 26.—Robert Bickerdike, M.P., of Montreal, will introduce at this session an amendment to the Criminal Code, providing for the use of the lash in the cases of wife-beaters, purse-snatchers and highway robbers.

She wheezed so badly you could hear her from one room to the other, but it was not long until we could see the effect your medicine had on her. That was last winter when we lived in Toronto.
"She had a bad cold this winter, but instead of getting another bottle of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, I tried a home made receipt which I got from a neighbor but found that her cold lasted about twice as long. NO GAME WITH LINDSAY TO-NIGHT; MATCH IS POSTPONED TILL FRIDAY ON ACCOUNT OF THE SOFT ICE

The Peterborough fans, who have been eagerly looking forward to the battle, will regret to learn that there will be no game with Lindsay to-night. The weather conditions have been so unfavourable during the past few days that the local club called up Lindsay last evening and notified them that there would be no ice here, and on that account it would be necessary to postpone the game. Accordingly Friday night of this week was decided upon as the date for the game. Cobourg were scheduled to play here on that night, but a telephone message to the Cobourg Club re-arranged matters. Cobourg were found to be quite agreeable to transfer their game and it will be played here early next week, while Lindsay comes on Friday. The delay is disappointing, but it will serve to put the locals into better position, and it is reasonably certain that there will be hard ice on Friday. It will be better than attempting to play in the slush to-night. The team will have a number of practices this week and will be in the best of shape for Friday's big contest, which promises to be one of the hardest fought and most interesting games ever seen on the local rink. The greatest interest has been displayed in the game and all indications point to a record breaking crowd when the two teams get together on Friday night.

JUNIOR GAME WITH PORT HOPE TO BE PLAYED ON FRIDAY

It will be welcome news to the West Ends City League team that the junior game in Port Hope, scheduled for Thursday night, has been switched to Friday night. Four members of the West Ends team are playing with the Junior O. H. A. team and would be unavailable in the event of the junior team playing away from home that night. The management of the Peterborough Club realizing the position of the West Ends telephoned to Port Hope succeeded in getting the Lake Shore team to postpone the game until the night after, in order to relieve the West Ends.

TWO LIVELY BATTLES BILLED IN THE CITY LEAGUE SERIES

Two of the most interesting City League games of the season will be seen on Thursday night, when the T. A. S. will meet Lakefield and the Stratheonas will play the West Ends. Both should be hard fought contests. The T. A. S. promise to make things interesting for Leo. Quinn's bunch when the two get together, and Manager Deannard says that his team are going to turn the trick. Lakefield held the game and are not going to take any chances, as they will bring down their strongest line-up. It will be a hard battle and should prove highly interesting.

The West Ends will give the Strathconas a great run in the second game. Both teams are in the best of shape and the West Ends, who comprise four of the Junior O. H. A. team, will take a lot of beating. The Straths will be without the services of Charlie Ray, their crack rover, who is being kept out of Thursday's game by the Strath's management, in order that he may be in the best of shape for Friday's big game with Lindsay. It is likely that Len Dobson will play rover and the rest of the team will be the same as defeated the T. A. S. two weeks ago. The Straths are well into their third season without a defeat and they figure on getting through the season untrimmed. The West Ends may have something to say in the matter, however.

EXAMINER A'S STILL AT TOP OF GROUP THREE GAMES PLAYED LAST NIGHT

Three games were played in the Peterborough Bowling League at the P. B. C. Alleys, and as a result the Examiner A team, although they dropped one to the Belmonts, are still at the head of the dozen, as the Bankers also lost one to the B. A. C. The Lock Works succeeded in grabbing two from the Frontenacs while the Examiner A and Bankers also won two out of their three. Some excellent rolling was done, four individual scores of over 500 being put on. Wareham was top scorer of the day, with 576. Geo. Cairns of the Examiner A had 506, La Plante of the Lock Works, 503, and Graham Ferguson of the Bankers, an even 500. The bowling throughout was uniform, only one team of the six in action failing to reach 1,300 pins.

The scores follow:—

FRED SIMPSON'S GRAND SHOWING WON THE RACE BY FOUR LAPS

New York, Jan. 25.—Fred Simpson, the Canadian Indian, beat Bob Edgar, a New York runner, four miles at the Newark race on Saturday night. He won by four laps. Simpson ran in grand style, but was only given 23.10 for the four miles. "It looked to me," says Lou Marsh, "as if Simpson was running at about 22 minutes to the four miles, and the time given was what excited my suspicion that the track was about half a lap too long for the mile."

Simpson is tickled to death with the way Tom Eck is handling him. Simpson is getting speed every day, and if he gets a chance will surprise some of the wise ones.

SHRUBB'S TIME FOR TWENTY MILES WAS BIG SURPRISE TO HIMSELF

New York, Jan. 25 — Alfred Shrubb wishes now that his ambition to ascertain whether he could run twenty miles somewhere up to record time had not vaulted quite so high.

It is well known, of course, that Shrubb has not held the reputation of being a great runner for distances of more than fifteen miles. Everything which he has placed to his credit has been within that distance, and the Indian, Longboat, who is matched to race against him, has been confident from the start that he would be able to finish ahead of the Englishman when the latter was called upon to run further than his usual "stunts."

It seems that Shrubb was not wholly certain himself as to his possibilities in the very long distance class, so he thought that he would try a little road running on the quiet to see what time he could make in a twenty mile run. On the strength of that experiment he felt that he would be able to guage his work against the Indian next Tuesday night.

He ran the twenty miles, a little more than twenty miles in fact, and when he pulled up he felt fresh, but after a few hours one foot became badly inflamed and a doctor was sent for in a hurry. When the doctor came he shook his head. Then Shrubb sent word to P. T. Powers, the head of the Marathon races and Mr. Powers immediately went to the training quarters of Shrubb with his own doctor.

Pat Shakes his Head

The latter looked over the foot of the famous English runner, and he, too, shook his head. Mr. Powers said that he did not intend to "be the goat" for any excuses that might be made in regard to the condition of either runner called up Madison Square Garden on the telephone and obtained opportunity to run the race on February 5.

There was nothing dangerous about the injury to Shrubb. It is simply a case of inflammation, but very painful. Shrubb attributes it to the fact that his shoe chafed his foot and that a longer distance than he ever had run before was too new an experience for the skin on his pedal extremities. It is also said, quietly, that Shrubb ran the distance in time which was a surprise party, not only to him, but to everybody else, and that he would have "rated" his speed better had he any idea of the pace at which he was travelling.

NO MATCH WITH SCUGOGS THIS WEEK

Cobourg Team May, However, be Here on Friday Night.

The hockey situation, as far as Peterborough is concerned, is in a whirl just now but is expected to be straightened out all right. In the first place the game with Lindsay scheduled for to-night, had to be postponed, owing to the fact there was little probability of ice. It was then decided to have Lindsay play here Friday night and the Scugog management agreed to the arrangement and it was thought, as stated in another column, that the matter was settled. However, a letter from Lindsay this afternoon conveyed the information that a game had been arranged with Belleville in Lindsay, and that therefore it would not be possible for the Lindsay team to play here on that date. The game will have to stand over until next week.

Cobourg had been scheduled to play here Friday night, but had consented to postponement when the favour was asked of them by the Peterborough Club. Now, however, that Lindsay is unable to come this week the Petes have asked Cobourg to come on Friday night and they will likely do so, although they were unable to give a definite answer at the time of going to press.

CURLING.

The ice at the curling rink is in good shape again, on account of the change in the weather last night, and the following schedule of games will be played to-night:

Connal vs. Dr. Greer.
W. G. Morrow vs. H. A. Morrow.
Brightman vs. W. Davidson.
Hicks vs. T. F. Matthews.
Medd vs. H. R. H. Kenner.
Thompson vs. R. Neill.
Clegg vs. Burnham.

The schedule games to be played to-morrow night, January 27th, are between the following skips and their teams:

W. Lang vs. D. Fraser.
Hay vs. J. H. Ferguson.
F. M. Dela Fosse vs. W. C. Read.
Giroux vs. Stevenson.
G. Ray vs. Dr. Eastwood.
Fitzgerald vs. A. Moore.
Talbot vs. Dr. McCullough.

The games for the district cup in No. 5 district, which were to have been played here to-day, have been postponed until next Tuesday on account of the mild weather and no ice. Mr. T. F. Matthews, the official umpire, notified all the clubs to that effect.

The whole affair should be an object lession to those who arrange the Tankard groups. Why should clubs from a distance like Lindsay and Peterborough who come, and Port Hope and Cobourg, who don't come, be grouped with Toronto clubs? If the Toronto clubs were put in one group and the eastern clubs in another it is a good guess that more of the latter would take part in the competition and postponements could be made without subjecting the clubs to more expense than they care to bear. — Lindsay Warder.

RUNNING.

In an interview with the Toronto News Tim O'Rourke, of the Irish-Canadians, says:—

Simpson and Dorando

"I'd like to see Fred Simpson, the Peterborough Indian, and Dorando hitched up for a Marathon to-morrow night, to take the place of the other big race. That would be a fine contest," he concluded.

• • • •

Lou Marsh at New York—I am not satisfied with the Indian, and believe that if Shrubb's toe recovers within a week and nothing else happens him that he will beat the Indian. Two weeks' additional training will do the Indian a world of good, but even at that I like Shrubb.

Tom Flanagan at New York—Shrubb will beat Longboat and will beat him handily when they meet, if Shrubb does not have another accident. I know the Indian and I know Shrubb, and Shrubb will conquer him as sure as you stand on two feet, always barring accidents. He has too much speed and condition.

HOCKEY

A meeting of the players of the Intermediate O. H. A. team is called for to-night at seven o'clock at the rink. In the event of a practice not being available the team will have a workout in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium, as the men must keep in shape for the hard battles before them.

• • • •

A practice of the Stratheona City League team is called for to-night, and as the Straths have a City League game with the West Ends on Thursday night every man is expected to be out in uniform to-night.

• • • •

To-morrow night, between seven and eight o'clock, a practice game will be played between the Peterborough Intermediates and Juniors. The following teams are requested to be on hand:

Junior		Intermediates
	Goal
Len Giroux		Derocher
	Point
Wade		Glover
	Cover Point
Dobson		Moore

MR. MOWAT GAVE TALK ON TENNYSON

Interesting Meeting of the Knox Church Society Last Night.

At a meeting of the Knox Church Young People's Society last night, the occasion being literary evening, a lecture on "Tennyson" was given by Mr. A. Mowat. It was requested of those present to imagine themselves, say, sixty years back in the Victorian era, when so many changes were taking place. Several headings were given, the first "Politics," in poetry was shown. True Statesmanship was another. Here, the poet, shows his true patriotism. Poems on monasticism, art and beauty, religion and love, with its conspicuous purity. Love songs were some of his works, showing how remarkable was love in the home life. The poet's conception of woman was next given. A few lines read by Mr. Mowat on this subject, were given to show that woman was not to step into the business and intellectual life and compete against men. The conception of nature, in beautiful language, was set forth by this well known poet.

"Tenny-on" was a steadying force to his generation, and to all mankind. Mr. Mowat concluded by saying that the poets were neglected. He could speak for hours on the poems of "Tennyson." A recitation was given by Miss Barr. Mr. Patton moved a vote of thanks to the lecturer of the evening, hoping he would soon pay the society another visit. Mr. Ken Denoon seconded the motion.

February 1st is devotional night, the subject being "Religious laws and how they are enforced."

WEDDING BELLS

CONWAY—FRAILEY

Yesterday morning at ten o'clock at St. Martin's Church, Ennismore, the marriage took place of William Conway, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Conway, Ennismore, and Matilda Frailey, adopted daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen O'Reilly. The Rev. Father Fitzpatrick, rector of the church, performed the ceremony in the presence of a very large congregation. Miss Conway, sister of the groom, was bridesmaid, and Mr. Patrick Killen performed the duties of best man. After the ceremony had been performed dinner was served to about sixty guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. O'Reilly, and the happy couple left last night on the 5.35 C. P. R. train for Toronto, where they will spend a few days, returning on Thursday to take up their abode on the homestead at Ennismore.

CUPOLI—GIORDINO

The marriage was solemnized in St. Peter's Cathedral this morning between Leonardina Cupoli, sister of John Cupoli, 529 Elm street, and who has been out here about four years from Castelluccio Valmaggiore, in the province of Foggia, and Cormine Giordino, who is a son of Mauro Giordino, of 508 Parnell street, who has also been out here about four years, coming from Roccos Giovanni, in the province of Chieti. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father McColl, and the happy couple will reside in the future, as is the custom of the old country, with the groom's father.

Many costly presents were given to them, and they were attended by Nicholas Fibbo and his wife, with whom they were very close friends. Breakfast was served to about fifty guests after the ceremony at the home of the groom's father, 508 Parnell street.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.

(Furnished by J. N. Barber.)

New York, Jan. 26.—Opening prices were only fractionally changed today, although London sent lower prices, especially for the copper stocks and C.P.R. During the first half hour C. & O. and the Wabash issues were marked up very easily with the general list responding only sluggishly. Then liquidation broke out in Con. Gas which carried that issue down nearly 10 points very swiftly and caused the market to fall off all around. There was very little pressure in other directions, however, and when the break in Gas had spent itself dullness again became the feature, to be followed by another small rally.

C.P.R. developed weakness again today on light transactions the selling apparently being due to the disappointment over the new issue of stock, which it is feared will be made at 125 or 1150 instead of 100 as heretofore, thus lessening the value of the "rights." Another decline in the price of the metal in London made the copper stocks soft here. Americans were quiet in London and there was little doing here by foreign houses.

There was nothing new in the day's news and the strength in some of the minor rails, like C. & O. and the Wabashes, looked like pool manipulation, helped by cheap money.

The market rallied easily in the last half hour and most of the early losses were regained, exception strength being shown in O. & W. The closing was quiet.

CELEBRATED SEVEN YEARS OF MARRIED LIFE

A very pleasant evening was spent at the home of Mr. Hamilton Hutchinson in Asphodel on Friday last. When Mr. Hutchinson celebrated his seven years of happy married life. The night was a very disagreeable one but in spite of the heavy rain a jolly load drove in from Villiers to the number of 24 and followed by a load from Dummer numbering 27. The music was provided by Mr. W. Dalton and Mr. John Ross, of Dummer, accompanied by Miss Addie Dalton on the piano. A very pretty present was given to Mr. and Mrs. Hutchinson at the close and Mrs. Hutchinson gave a very interesting speech, thanking the people very kindly for their token of esteem.

Among the guests were Mr and Mrs John Burk from Lindsay. Mr J. Burk and Mr. A. Quinlan amused the people with dancing. Mr. E. Bell of Dummer, accompanied by his sister Eva on the piano, sang "Are you coming out to-night Mary Ann" The night was spent in a very pleasant way and about nine o'clock the crowd started for home, wishing Mr and Mrs Hutchinson every success in their future years of wedded life.

THE ROY STUDIO 140½ HUNTER ST.

SON UNTIES HIS FATHER'S KNOTS

The Former a Lawyer Helps Part Couples His Father Has Married.

Poughkeepsie, N.Y., Jan. 27 — Joseph Cecil Thompson was the plaintiff in a divorce action from White Plains, which was tried before Supreme Court Justice Morschauser. The defendant, Lavinia L. M. Thompson, it was proved, had been indiscreet at the Briar Cliff Inn, in Westchester County. The Court awarded the plaintiff an interlocutory decree.

In the course of Mr. Thompson's testimony he made the statement that he was married by the Rev. Dr. Van Kleeck, rector of the Episcopal Church at White Plains, Oct. 7, 1908.

The Court remarked to Frank Van Kleeck, the lawyer for the plaintiff, "Is he (the clergyman) a relative of yours?"

Lawyer Van Kleeck replied: "He is my father. He ties the knots, Judge, and I untie them. This is the second one of his jobs that I have undone."

The Judge smiled as he remarked, "I see, it's all in the family."

KISSES HER CHILDREN AND JUMPS FROM ROOF

In a Note to Her Husband Angry Woman Tells Him to Get Another to Suit Him.

New York, Jan. 26 — After kissing her three children half a dozen times and telling them to be good until she returned, Miss Rosie Reismeyer went to the roof of the tenement house at No. 428 East Eighty-second street yesterday morning and committed suicide by jumping from the roof. The woman died instantly, every bone in her body being broken by the jump of five stories.

Although her husband Joseph denied to the police of the East Eighty-eighth street station that he had quarrelled with her before he left home, a note, written by her in Hungarian, was found in the rooms, and in part read:

"You will never have a chance to quarrel with me again. As long as I don't suit you I'm going to get out of the way so you can get another woman. I am tired of living."

In the rooms the police found the three children. They told of how their mother had left them and had told them to be "good" until she returned.

HER SINGING WAS APPRECIATED

Many Expressions of Praise for Miss Jean Robson of Norwood.

"The social event of the season at Burnbrae was the social given under the auspices of St. Andrew's Guild, last Wednesday evening, in the auditorium of the church.

The main feature of the evening was the singing of Miss Jean A. Robson, of Norwood, formerly choir leader and soloist of Knox Church, Peterborough, who delighted the audience with her selections and called forth much applause, which required a second number in each instance.

Miss Robson is possessed of a sweet, clear voice and her enunciation is particularly good. Her rendering of "The Swallows," by Cowen, was delightful, and the ease with which she sustained her high notes was excellent. "Sunshine and Rain," "Jerusalem," and "Mary of Argyle," were great favourites. "My Ain Countree" was very much appreciated, as was natural in an audience so loyally Scotch. Miss Robson may be sure of a warm welcome back to Burnbrae.—Campbellford Herald.

Work will be commenced upon the contract as soon as the weather conditions will permit, as it is desired to prevent any more impediment to navigation than may be necessary under the circumstances. Black Listed Men Pay $30 For A Spree Yesterday

Two drunken men in the George street Methodist church sheds yesterday afternoon frightened the children who saw them there and refused to leave when ordered away. Constables Adams and McGinty, however removed them to the police station where it was not long before they were in slumberland. In the face of strong evidence one of them swore that he had not been intoxicated and did not have any liquor. Both these men were on the Indian list and the story of where they got their liquor was almost entirely discredited by court. The second gave evidence of a strong imagination. He stated that when he found his friend in the shed the latter told him there was a bottle of whiskey behind a board in the corner. He inferred that his friend had found the bottle, drank some and put it back in order that he would have a chance to see the welcome position in which it had been (quietly resting behind an old board with just enough peering around the corner to be seen—a welcome quart bottle of red eye.) The story was of the flimsiest and the men were told so, but they would not acknowledge anything else. One of them was fined $20.00 or a month in gaol and the other's fine was $10.00 or the same enforced boarding term.

Steamer Empress In Repairs For Summer Season Of 1909

Word has been received from Young's Point to the effect that the Steamer Empress is being refitted for the season of 1909. It is being replanked and other improvements are being made. When the vessel is painted in the spring it will take the water almost a new boat and should give its owners and the tourist public every satisfaction. A large harvest of ice is being cut for use in the various summer resorts and for the boats. Other changes are being arranged for which will be noticed when the tipd weather arrives.

AVERAGE COST OF EACH PERSON IN THE HOUSE OF REFUGE HAS BEEN FOUND TO BE $1.43 A WEEK

NUMBER OF INMATES.

The report of the Board of Management of the House of Refuge was presented this morning and was of a very satisfactory nature. An inventory of the chattels showed there was only about two dollars of difference.

There have been 41 inmates committed since inception. All seem to be in good health, barring two old men and one old lady, the latter at times being a subject more fit for an asylum than a home. The plumbing has not been giving satisfaction and the chairman was authorized to see that it was remedied at once.

The farm work was done at a nominal cost and the earning power of the farm is shown by the accompanying list. Fifty apple trees were planted in 1908 with 200 smaller fruit trees and all are doing well. The Board recommends the planting of ornamental trees in front of the Home, thereby beautifying it.

The increase of inmates will necessitate the purchase of clothes in the near future.

At the beginning of the year there were 28 inmates in the Home; 10 male and 12 female. Fifteen have been admitted during the year, ten males and five females.

They were as follows, from Otonabee 2, Smith 2, Dummer 2, Ennismore 4, Harvey 3, North Monaghan 2.

Serious Accident To Well Known Resident Of Warsaw

A serious accident happened to Mrs. Geo. Tucker, of Warsaw, on Tuesday afternoon. It appears that she was going to the pump for water, when she slipped on the ice and fell, fracturing her hip, it is believed. Mrs. Tucker is a very old lady and this fall was rather a shock to her. The swelling was so great that the doctor could not see what amount of injury had been inflicted.

MID-WINTER BLOOM AT CHILDREN'S SHELTER

At the Children's Shelter the pansy, the violet and the daisy are in full bloom. These are the names of some of the inmates from the northern part of this country; and under the improving influences of the shelter they are as sweet as their names. On Tuesday, by the way, there was held the largest and most successful sewing "bee" in the history of the shelter. Ladies to the ill-amended number of thirteen were present, making, with the aid of two sewing machines, garments for the shelter children. The afternoon was devoted to work—the "conversational" element generally attributed to such gatherings, being conspicuous by its absence. Work was the order of the afternoon and the substantial results showed how closely this order was observed.

BOUT WITH KAISER ON NEXT MONTH

Hurtubise Will Meet the Oswego Man Here in the Auditorium Roller Rink

The long looked for wrestling bout between Eugene Hurtubise, Peterborough's big wrestler and Charlie Kaiser of Oswego, N. Y., will be pulled off here in the Auditorium Roller Rink during the week commencing Feb. 5th, although the exact date has not yet been decided upon. The Oswego man under the conditions is to throw Gene twice in one hour. Local followers of the game figure out that he would have a somewhat troublesome task in flooring the local man twice. It should be a grand bout.

A SPLENDID SPEAKER.

Hear Mr. Bennett's Lecture this evening at St. Peter's T. A. S. Hall on "A Trip Through Europe" Musical Programme will be given. Begins at 8 o'clock sharp.

HUMANE SOCIETIES.

The most timely, and important invitation the Examiner has had to invite the co-operation of our citizens, is that looking to the formation of a Federation of Canadian Humane Societies. The invitation comes from the president and officers of the Toronto Humane Society, which is taking the lead in the matter. The first step, so far as Peterborough is concerned, is the formation of a local society, whose non-existence is a reproach, not to the humanity of our citizens, but it is a sharp commentary upon their indifference to what only can give effect to the noblest impulses, organization. That there is need here for such a Society we have abundant evidences. The ill-treatment of, say, horses, not only by specific abuse, but by the slower torture of over-working, under-feeding, ill-fitting harness, inadequate protection, etc., is of daily occurrence. The other day a dray team was drawn up alongside, and parallell with, the pavement on Charlotte street; the heads of the horses were close to a telephone pole. The inner horse of the team was rubbing his neck against the pole. The driver of the team came out of the office of his employer and seeing the action of the horse, without a word, dealt, with his heavy boots, several vicious and forcible kicks in the flank of the animal. He could do this with cruel effect, for at this point the pavement is elevated and the barrel of the horse was in the most favourable position to receive the full injury of the brutality committed by the other brute, the driver. This is only given as example of things of a similar kind occurring daily in all parts of the city. There is no machinery for bringing the miscreants who perpetuate these cruelties, to account. True, we have the law, but who is to put its machinery into motion? There is not one chance in a thundred that a policeman will see acts of cruelty committed, and there is no certainty that if he did see them, he would take official cognizance of them. The role of an informer does not appeal to the ordinary citizen, but a member or an official of a Humane Society would, in taking action, be regarded as simply doing the duty that is expected of him or her. There is certainly room as well as demand for a branch of the Humane Society in Peterborough. Will some public-spirited citizen take the initiative in its formation? If reasonably prompt action is taken the local branch could be represented at the meeting to form a federation which is to be held in Toronto in June, 1909. Mrs. Edward Leigh, 50 Albany avenue, Toronto, is the Honorary Organizing Secretary.

The quality of mercy is not strained; it droppeth as the gentle rain from heaven upon the earth beneath.

AGRICULTURE IN 1908.

An interesting report issued by the Dominion Department of Agriculture estimates the area under field crops in Canada last year to have been 27,505,663 acres, and the value of the harvest, computed at average local market prices, at $432,534,000. This of course, is exclusive of the value of animals and their products, dairy produce and fruit. The acreage and yield of field crops are thus given:

	Acres.	Bushels.
Fall wheat	770,400	8,798,000
Spring wheat	5,839,900	93,636,000
Oats	7,941,000	250,377,000
Barley	1,745,000	46,762,000
Rye	180,350	1,711,000
Peas	412,900	7,060,000
Buckwheat	291,300	7,153,000
Mixed grains	581,900	19,049,000
Flax	139,300	1,499,000
Beans	60,100	1,245,000
Corn for husking	366,200	22,872,000
Potatoes	503,600	73,790,000
Turnips, etc.	271,443	101,248,000
		Tons.
Hay and clover	8,210,300	11,150,000
Fodder corn	259,770	2,928,000
Sugar beets	10 800	109,000

Wheat holds only third place in the following table, giving the estimated value of the crops as gathered:

Hay and clover	$123,884,000
Oats	98,459,000
Wheat, fall and spring	91,226,000
Potatoes	34,819,000
Barley	21,253,000
Turnips and other roots	17,582,000
Corn for husking	11,837,000
Corn for fodder	11,782,000
Mixed grains	10,140,000
Peas	6,970,000
Buckwheat	4,215,000
Beans	1,988,000
Flax	1,457,000
Sugar beets	678,000

It is not a little surprising to find that roots far surpass in value per acre of crop even the most profitable of grains. Potatoes come first, with $69.14; turnips second, $64.58, and sugar beets third, $53,52. Beans and corn are well up in the list, the value per acre of the former being $33.08, and of the latter, for husking, $32.32, and for fodder, $45.35. Peas and buckwheat show $14.46 and $14.47 respectively, and hay $14.84 per acre. First among the cereals is fall wheat, with $21.10 per acre, spring wheat being credited with only $12.84. The value per acre of rye is placed at $12.57, of barley $12.23, and of oats $12.15.

Ontario leads the provinces in value of field crop yield, as will be seen from the appended table, in which British Columbia is not included:

Ontario	$185,308,000
Quebec	80,896,000
Manitoba	66,600,000
Saskatchewan	37,614,000
Nova Scotia	20,084,000
New Brunswick	18,012,000
Alberta	14,522,000
Prince Edward Island	9,408,000

If animals and their products, dairy produce and fruit were taken into account, hundreds of millions of dollars would be added to the value above.

THE RAILWAY COMMISSION AND EXPRESS CHARGES.

Striking evidence of the progress that is being made in the work of subjecting pubic service corporations in this country to effective control in the interests of the public is furnished by the action of Judge Mabee, the Chairman of the Dominion Railway Commission, in announcing the other day the decision of the Commission that the express companies doing business in Canada must revert to the scale of charges which was in force previous to January 1, and was displaced on that day by a new classification and new rates, which the Commission had approved.

In Judge Mabee's order dealing with the matter it is set forth that in approving the new classification and schedules of rates and allowing their being put into operation on January 1, the Commission had done so under the understanding that the changes were for the convenience of the companies, not for increasing their profits. As a result of the new scale of charges that came into force with the new year were mostly in the way of making shippers pay more than they have been paying before the Commission had ordered that the new scale be done away with and that the status quo ante be restored.

When the Railway Commission was first established, only a few years ago, the express companies were not under its jurisdiction. It was only within the last couple of years that Parliament brought the express companies under the Commission, an eminently right and proper thing, as the express companies are offshoots of the railway companies. In considering the great public advantage of the action just taken by the Commission in checking up the express companies and preventing their making the public "pay a little more," it is interesting to contrast it with what would have happened, had not the old era given place to the new era of vigilant and effective public control.

Suppose that there had been no Dominion Railway Commission with jurisdiction over the express companies, and the latter corporations had decided that the time was ripe for taking a little more out of the public. They would simply have increased their charges and that would be all there would be to it. There would be grumbling on the part of the public, of course, but what would the companies care for that? There would probably be a few indignant letters in the newspapers, signed "Pro Bono Publico," or "Shipper," and there would be some editorials setting forth the injustice of the increased charges. But the increased charges would stand. Things are different now, and the Railway Commission stands as a just and watchful tribunal for the enforcement of fair treatment of the public by the public service corporations which are subject to its jurisdiction.—Manitoba Free Press.

A GOOD DEPARTURE.

The Department of Trade and Commerce, which has of late devoted much attention to the best methods of developing Canada's foreign trade, has now turned its searchlight on the domestic trade as well. The last Weekly Bulletin issued by the department prints the first of a series of articles upon the promotion of Canadian trade at home. The subject discussed is the building up of an inland market for salt water fish. In outline the project is briefly to establish a regular fast refrigerator service from Halifax through Ontario to Detroit and Chicago, where fish from the Atlantic coast would realize a fair profit in a much shorter period of time than is at present required to supply the New York and New England markets. The proposed route, touching as it does the more populous centres of Quebec and Ontario, as well as those of New Brunswick and Nova Scotia, would, it is contended, in time create a permanently reliable and lucrative demand and great profits would be kept within the Dominion.

The Dominion Government has been earnest in its endeavours to promote the fishing industry. Last year, through the Department of Marine and Fisheries, $25,000 was devoted to providing refrigerator cars. The experiment was attended with a fair measure of success. The Department of Trade and Commerce has for some time past been corresponding with various authorities with a view to securing various suggestions. Communications were despatched to the boards of trade in Ontario and the Maritime Provinces with the object of obtaining the names of fish dealers in the larger cities and towns, together with expert testimony upon the opportunities and possibilities were such a project carried into effect.

These suggestions have resulted in voluminous replies, for the most part quite practical. Among them is one that it would pay the fishing industry to send a lecturer or two through Central Canada in order to teach housewives how to cook fish properly; another is that fish markets should be established in each large centre of population where fish could be effectively displayed and not, as now, be mixed up with meats and vegetables, and, too often, given the back place

It is to be hoped that the department will continue its good work. Effective co-operation between the fisherman and the inland consumers would be of mutual good, to say nothing of the physical benefit which would be gained by the fish-eaters. —Ottawa Free Press.

YOUNG'S POINT PEOPLE HOPE FOR RAILWAY

News From the Half-way Point to Kawarthadom—Steamer Empress Being Replanked.

Examiner Special.

Young's Point, Jan. 27 — We were visited by severe lightning, thunder and rain on Sunday the 24th inst., which leaves the sleighing in a poor condition. It will interfere with the lumbering men back north if we do not get more snow.

Miss Edith Elliott, of Bridgenorth, is visiting with Miss Lottie Kearney.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. McFarlane have moved into Mr. R. Fitzgerald's house, on the east side, for the remainder of the winter.

Mr. Harry Hockedy is building a new house on the east side of the river, which will add greatly to that part of the village, when completed. He is doing the carpentering work himself.

The planking on the steamer Empress will soon be completed, and she will be almost a new boat when Mr. G. Hickey has finished.

The villagers were delighted with the article in the Examiner with regard to street cars or the G.T.R. running to the Point. Of course that talk has been going on for the past twelve years, but hope to see something done in the near future.

Capt. Scollard was home from the north over Sunday.

A quiet wedding was solemnized by the Rector, Rev. C. B. Spencer, M.A., at the Parsonage, Young's Point, at half-past seven o'clock on Wednesday, Jan. 20th, when Caroline, daughter of William Armstrong, of Smith, was married to John B. Clarkson, of Harvey. The bride wore a becoming gown of brown silk with hat to match.

Miss Constance T. Spencer, of Mount Forest, is visiting her brother at The Parsonage, Young's Point.

HAMMOND WAS ILL SINCE LAST JUNE

Canadian Financier Succumbs to Throat Trouble.

HE HAD WIDE INTERESTS

Capitalist Passes Away After Several Months of Illness—Was Universally Beloved by His Associates and Acquaintances—Gave Largely to Philanthropic Institutions—Was a Genius For Business.

Toronto, Jan. 27.—Herbert Carlyle Hammond, the well-known financier of the firm of Osler & Hammond, died at 7.30 yesterday evening after an illness lasting for many months.

Taken ill in June, 1908, when on a visit to Winnipeg, where he was associated in the firm of Osler, Hammond and Nanton, with an incurable disease of the throat, he bore his suffering with patience and resignation. Last week his condition became critical, and five days before he passed away he lapsed into unconsciousness.

For several months, unable to speak, he had carried on cheerful communication with relatives and friends by writing.

The funeral will be private and will take place to-day at 3.30 from his late residence in Grosvenor street, to St. James' cemetery.

Herbert Carlyle Hammond was the son of the late Carlyle Pryce Hammond, and his wife, Margaret Butler. His grandfather was Capt. Charles Hammond, R.N., one of whose exploits was specially mentioned in The London Gazette, 1809.

He was born at Grafton, Ont., Oct. 19, 1844, and was educated at Cobourg Grammar School, and at Upper Canada College.

He began his business career in the Bank of Montreal, Cobourg, and was afterwards accountant in the Quebec

HERBERT CARLYLE HAMMOND.

On the organization of the Bank of Hamilton, in 1872, he was appointed cashier. This office he resigned upon entering into partnership with E. B. Osler, M.P., when the firm of Osler & Hammond came into being. Members of the Stock Exchange, they have had to do with the promotion of many important commercial and financial projects, and of a large number of these Mr. Hammond was a director.

Mr. Hammond was a man of such broad sympathy and fine financial ability that men seemed naturally to turn to him in critical times, as the one best fitted to resolve their difficulties. On the occasion of the Federal Bank failure in 1898 his name was suggested as liquidator, and when, some four years ago the Northern Navigation Co. found itself called upon to face a difficult situation, it was Mr. Hammond who, taking the presidency of the company, devoted his time and energy to it to such effect that he may truly be said to have placed the company on its feet again.

The spirit of the man, which seemed to be ever aroused by the contemplation of the prospective suffering of innocent investors, was again shown in the recent Ontario Bank failure, when he acted entirely without remuneration as president of the committee of shareholders.

"CAN I GET WELL?"

If Your Trouble comes from the Kidneys, or from Kidney Poisons in the Blood,

YES!

And if you have been ailing a long time don't lose your courage. It takes a little time—takes some constitutions longer than others. But Doan's Kidney Pills will gradually drain the poisons out of your system; the pain in your back will stop; the sediment in the urine will cease; there will be no rheumatic pains; you will feel freer and brighter, and when the last of the poisons have gone you will be well.

There is no way of getting the kidney poisons out of the system except through the kidneys, and no medicine so effective in taking them out as Doan's Kidney Pills.

Mr. W. Perkins, South Maitland, N.S., writes: "I feel it my duty to let you know of the great cure I have obtained by using Doan's Kidney Pills. For six months I could not obtain a good night's rest, had to get up four or five times to urinate, and the urine was very thick and red. I commenced using Doan's Kidney Pills and in a very short time I was right and fit again. I am very thankful to have found so speedy a cure."

FRANK LAW SENTENCED.

Wild-Cat Mine Promoter Gets Five Years In Prison.

Toronto, Jan. 27.—Frank Law, mining broker, was yesterday sentenced to five years in Kingston Penitentiary for defrauding the public by means of "wild-cat" mining ventures. He, with his wife, who was in court, was apparently unmoved.

His counsel, G. T. Blackstock, asked for leniency. Of Law he said: "From circumstances generally I conceived that he was a weak man, unexperienced so far as business ability is concerned. He is a man who was played upon by a powerful and astute person, in whose hands he was little less than a tool."

Judge Winchester said the evidence against him had been overwhelming.

"I quite agree that your partner was the leader, but you followed him very closely in most of the company's dealings, and aided and abetted him in duping the public," said his honor. "That was apparently what your company intended to do. When Russell comes back he will be dealt with by whatever court he comes before.

"You have not only duped hundreds, but you have cast a stigma on legitimate mining enterprises. However, with that I have nothing to do. My part is to deal justice to you. If the executive show you mercy I will be quite pleased."

T. H. Lennox of defence counsel said an appeal would be taken to the Minister of Justice.

WHY SUFFER?

Breathe Hyomei and Kill the Loathsome Catarrh Germs.

Just as long as you have catarrh your nose will itch, your breath will be foul, you will hawk and spit and you will do other disgusting things because you can't help yourself. The germs of catarrh have got you in their power; they are continually and persistently digging into and irritating the mucous membrane of your nose and throat. They are now making your life miserable; in time they will sap your entire system of its energy, its strength, its vigour and vitality.

But there is one remedy that will kill the germs and cure catarrh, and that is Hyomei, the Australia dry air treatment.

Joseph Dural, of Woodstock street, Tavistock, Ont., says: "Catarrh had given me all kinds of suffering for a long time. There was a swelling of the glands under the eyes and adjacent to my nose and the discharges would drop into my throat. I used several remedies, but never got the relief that I did from Booth's Hyomei. I have been so pleased with Hyomei results that I highly recommend its use to catarrh sufferers."

Mr. Madill, the druggist, will guarantee Hyomei to cure catarrh or money back. Don't delay this pleasant anti-septic treatment. Breathe in Hyomei and kill the germs.

Mr. Madill will sell you a complete Hyomei Outfit, including inhaler, for only $1.00. It is also guaranteed to cure bronchitis, asthma, coughs, colds, hay fever and croup.

NOTED CROOK CAPTURED.

Cleveland Police Catch Eddie Quinn Who Robbed Tilbury Bank.

Windsor, Jan. 27.—Provincial Detective Mahoney has been notified of the arrest at Cleveland of Eddie Quinn, an international crook, who was implicated in the sensational theft of $1,200 from the Sovereign Bank clerk of Tilbury in the fall of 1906.

The Sovereign Bank got insurance in full from Lloyds for the loss and the insurance company has declined to prosecute.

Quinn and a pal named Futzi Deihn managed to switch suit cases with the bank clerk, whose attention was momentarily withdrawn. The robbery was discovered before the train stopped at Fletcher and preparations were made to nab the thieves, who, however, alighted opposite the station, ran across the fields and got away.

Trial Postponed.

Toronto, Jan. 27.—Walter Blythe will not be tried for the murder of his wife in Agincourt until Feb. 8. At the opening of the Criminal Assizes yesterday his counsel, T. N. Phelan, moved for an adjournment to the May Assizes, on account of the impossibility of securing data from his family connection in England regarding the sanity of his progenitors.

The defence's trump card will be insanity, and in this connection Dr. T. F. McMahon's affidavit was put in stating that he had made an examination of the prisoner, but could come to no definite conclusion as to the accused's mental state without observing him closely for some time, and making a complete enquiry into his family history.

Charges Panama Graft.

Washington, Jan. 27.—Charging that William Nelson Cromwell, Roger L. Farnham, Charles P. Taft and others are parties to the "most infamous railroad proposition ever submitted to any Government," and that they "are being permitted not only to rob the Republic of Panama, but indirectly the treasury of the United States," Representative Rainey of Illinois yesterday in a startling speech supported his resolution providing for an investigation by Congress of the Panama Canal purchase.

"In their efforts in this direction," he continued, "they have had so far the complete co-operation and active assistance of the present administration and the next President of the United States."

Howdy For Shriners.

Louisville, Ky., Jan. 27.—"Howdy" has been selected as the slogan for the Mystic Shriners. The executive committee, which is planning for the 35th annual session of the Imperial council in this city June 7 to 10, has officially designated "Howdy" as the salutation.

"Howdy" is to be used verbally and on the banners. It is to be spelled in electric lights and to adorn the stationery that goes forth from Louisville business houses. "Howdy" will be uttered in a million forms, more or less, between now and the middle of June.

Train Leaves Track.

North Bay, Jan. 27.—A peculiar freight wreck occurred yesterday morning at Garry, on the C.P.R., 51 miles west of Chapleau, and 351 miles west of North Bay.

Eighteen cars left the rails and crashed into a telegraph pole, tearing down the pole and wires, severing communication entirely with the west. The cause of the accident is unknown at present. Traffic will be delayed for several hours.

A slight accident to an engine on the C.P.R. Toronto express, No. 95, also caused delay yesterday.

It is stated that Miss Lottie Teeter, one of the two survivors of the level crossing accident at Grimsby a week ago Saturday, has no recollection of the affair whatever. She has not been informed of the death of five of her friends.

Rev. Father Forner, while driving over the prairie south of Macklin, Sask., got lost in the storm and drove for two days and two nights without finding food or shelter. When taken in he was almost exhausted, and he was badly frozen.

MR. JOHN PERRAULT.

Mr. John Perrault, 335 Davidson street, Boulevard St. Paul, near Montreal, Canada, writes:

"I have been a bicyclist for over five years, and last spring I caught cold and did not take anything for it, for I thought it was not bad enough, but it came to catarrh. I was so discouraged that I didn't know what to do. I could not sleep; I always felt tired and troubled.

"Finally I began to take Peruna. After I had taken one bottle I felt better. I took another one, and now I am well. I would like to always feel as I do to-day. I often recommend Peruna to my friends."

Close Confinement.

Mr. G. W. Woodbury, Rogers, Ohio, formerly Captain and Center of the Hiram College Basket Ball Team, writes:

"There are times in the life of every student when excessive study and too close confinement and attention to the object in view will tell on your health.

"I have found that when body and mind alike are weary and refuse to work, a few doses of Peruna restores lost strength and invigorates one quicker and more permanently than anything I know.

"It gives one nerves of iron and muscles of steel, and assists the mental activities together with the physical to a wonderful degree."

The athlete knows the importance of being in fine form. Peruna is a valuable assistant to anyone who wishes to keep himself in vigorous health every day.

SPLENDID TO USE FOR STOMACH TROUBLE

Nothing Like Diapepsin to Overcome Indigestion and Fermentation of Food.

Take your sour stomach—or maybe ou call it Indigestion, Dyspepsia, astritis or Catarrh of Stomach: it oesn't matter—take your stomach rouble right with you to your Pharmacist and ask him to open a 50-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin and let you eat one 22-grain Triangule and see if within five minutes there is left any trace of your former misery.

The correct name for your trouble is Food Fermentation—food sourings, the Digestive organs become weak, there is lack of gastric juice; your food is only half digested, and you become affected with loss of appetite, pressure, and fulness after eating, vomiting, nausea, heartburn, griping in bowels, tenderness in the pit of the stomach, bad taste in mouth, constipation, pain in limbs, sleeplessness, belching of gas, biliousness, sick headache, nervousness, dizziness and many other similar symptoms.

If your appetite is fickle and nothing tempts you, or you belch gas, or if you feel bloated after eating, or your food lies like a lump of lead on your stomach, you can make up your mind that at the bottom of all this there is but one cause—fermentation of undigested food.

Prove to yourself, after your next meal, that your stomach is as good a any; that there is nothing really wrong. Stop this fermentation and be in eating what you want without fear of discomfort or misery.

Almost instant relief is waiting for ou. It is merely a matter of how oon you take some Diapepsin.

THE COMING EXHIBIT OF PAINTINGS AND STATUARY

Under the Auspices of the Local Branch of the Women's Art Association of Canada.

Early in February, under the auspices of the city section of the Women's Art Association of Canada, an interesting exhibit of art works—painting and statuary—will be held in the rooms of the local association, Bank of Montreal Chambers, Simcoe street.

The exhibit will be an elaborate and excellent one, comprising oils by Scotch artists and Dutch watercolours by the leading artists of the Netherlands. There will also be exhibits of the statuary work of the Peterborough artist, Miss Kathleen Wallis, which was received with so mush enthusiasm in Montreal. Exhibits of sculpture by the celebrated Dutch artist, Mr. Charles Van Wyjk, will also be on view. An unique feature of the exhibit will be specimens of the black and white work of Mr. Walter Crane, illustrations, etc. These have never, heretofore, been exhibited outside of England. The coming exhibits will be the most elaborate and interesting of any ever held under the management of the local branch of the association.

ANOTHER PURSE IS RETURNED

Honesty of People Again Demonstrated in a Trivial But Important Way.

The honesty of Peterborough people has been once more proven in the return of another pocket book. A few days ago one was lost containing $30 and was returned to Chief Roszel by the finder. The former returned it to the owner in Campbellford. Yesterday a Street Railway conductor lost his purse on Charlotte street. Last night he had inserted an "ad" in the Lost and Found column of the Examiner. This morning he has the purse safe and sound it having been returned to him last night.

Took Deadly Poison Instead Of Usual Headache Tablets

More Details of Peterboro' Girl's Narrow Escape From Death by Poisoning at Her Boarding House in Toronto — Had Been to Party.

CONDITION YET SERIOUS.

The Toronto News had the following account of the narrow escape of Miss Alice Howell, a Peterborough girl from poisoning:

Suffering from bichloride of mercury poisoning, Miss Alice Howell, twenty-one years of age, was taken to St. Michael's Hospital this morning.

The girl was a roomer at 42 1-2 Alice street, with Mrs. Florence Hawkins. Last night she came home from work and complained of a headache. At about four o'clock this morning she arose and went to a drawer in a wardrobe in the room and took a tablet which she says she thought to be a headache tablet. In a short time she began to suffer from severe pains, and a doctor was summoned. He ordered her removal to the hospital. A stomach pump was applied, and the girl put to bed. She is still in a critical condition, however, owing to the fact that the after effects of this particular form of poisoning are very dangerous.

What she Told her Friend

Cassie, the girl with whom Miss Howell was sleeping when she took the poison, told her story to The News.

"We had been out to a party, Alice and I, and did not get back until about four o'clock this morning. Alice said she had an awful headache. She told me, too, that she was tired of life, but I did not think much about this, as you often hear people say such things. I got in bed, and was going to sleep when she got up and said she was going to the wardrobe to get some headache tablets that were there. She came back, and I went to sleep. I was awakened in about an hour by her rolling around in the bed. When she saw that I was awake she said to me: "Cassie, give me your word of honour that you will never tell anyone what I am going to tell you." I said I would not and she said, "I think I must have taken something else besides headache powders. I have pains in my stomach that are awful." I got scared at that and went to Mrs. Hawkins and told her about it. She went out and got Dr. Spiers, and he called up the police and had her taken over to St. Michael's Hospital."

Home is in Peterboro

Miss Howell has boarded with Mrs. Hawkins since before Christmas. She came to the house at that time, saying that she was out of work. She did not go to look for another position at once, but went home to visit her parents in Peterborough, returning to the city a short time ago. The police have possession of the remainder of the tablets which the girl used. They were used, she said, for antiseptic purposes.

REV. CANON DAVIDSON'S ANNUAL NEW YEAR'S SERMON IS PRAISED

The following appeared in the Hardware and Metal of January 23rd and speaks of the time when standing accounts should be paid. It is necessary that all should join in the move to secure the best results. This is a matter to which not enough serious attention is given, with the result that persons are often careless and think that the merchant can wait. This is a grave mistake, and if only those who have been accommodated, would stop and think, they would not ask local tradesmen to tarry longer for their money. These accounts are in many instances, small but in the aggregate they amount to a great deal and their payment means that the merchant is able to satisfy the financial demands made upon him.

This is so important and far reaching a question that clergymen have felt impelled to speak out on it in the interest of the community and the good of the people. For several years Rev. Canon Davidson, rector of Peterborough, and one of the leading members of the Anglican body in Canada has on the first Sunday of each new year delivered an impressive sermon on this subject. At the services in his church on Jan. 3 he again took occasion to refer to this subject by urging prompt attention to all financial obligations, particularly the small ones. He dwelt upon our interdependence in this particular, and how each could contribute his share in making 1909 bright and prosperous if the system was only followed out. He said that the discharge of this duty was a most important and far reaching one. It should be done for itself and also because it had the effect of enabling others to meet their obligations. It is noticeable that the words of the reverend gentleman have had a good effect upon the people in general, and a hardware dealer in Peterborough, informed a representative of of Hardware and Metal that, after the delivery of this sound, practical advice from the pulpit each year, several customers, well able to pay, but naturally careless or thoughtless, have awakened up and discharged their indebtedness.

The example of the rector of Peterborough might be worthily emulated by the clergy in other towns.

RESULTS OF COW TESTING AS SHOWN BY REPORTS FROM TWO ASSOCIATIONS IN THE COUNTY

The results of cow testing by the Central Smith and Keene Associations as shown in the following compilations, shows the advantage of this work and the results attained.

Central Smith Association

The average yield of 11 cows for 6 months was 4,056 lb. milk, 3.3 test and 132.5 lb. fat. The best individual yield was 4,880 lb. milk, 3.0 test, 145 lb. fat. Five cows in two herds, being representatives of the Jersey, Shorthorn and Ayrshire breeds, as well as so-called 'scrub' animals were below the average yield, indicating that selection is necessary and requisite as well in one breed as another. No one of these 5 cows was under 5 years old; one was 12.

Forty-one cows recorded for 7 months [illegible] average yield of 4,866 lb. milk, 3.3 test, 163 lb. fat. Herd [illegible] one dry average from 20 cows, including 2 3-year-olds, for 7 months, of 5,243 lb. milk and 172.5 lb fat, thus being well above the average. In this herd the highest individual yield was 6,850 lb. milk and 202.9 lb. fat. As a contrast to this herd average, another herd of 5 cows had an average yield of only 3,726 lb. milk, 3.2 test, 120.9 lb. fat; the youngest cow was 6 years old, and the best individual yield was 4,430 lb. milk, 3.1 test, 138.0 lb. fat.

Thirty-eight cows tested 8 months gave an average yield of 5,657 lb. milk, 3.3 test, 185.7 lb. fat.

The average yield of herd 20 for 8 months was 7,246 lb. milk, 3.4 test, 246.4 lb. fat. One would naturally suppose that must be a fine herd. A closer examination of the records reveals immediately that the high average was due entirely to the heavy production of one cow, an 8-year-old, that gave 14,720 lb. milk, 2.9 test, 342.8 lb. fat. Six of the remaining seven animals were below the herd average. The lowest yield was from a 4-year-old that gave 5,680 lb. milk, 3.8 test, 215 lb. fat, a decidedly different yield from 11,720 lb. This, again, lends emphasis to the paramount importance of considering each animal in the herd on its own individual merits, its ability to produce milk and butter fat economically, instead of resting content with fair 'average' yields.

Twelve cows tested 9 months gave on the average, 6,551 lb. milk, 3.3 test, 214.4 lb. fat. The best yield was 8,152 lb. milk, 3.2 test, 258.5 lb. fat from a 7-year-old grade.

Keene Association

The average yield of 21 cows for 6 months was 4,052 lb. milk, 3.3 test, 137.2 lb. fat.

The average production of 39 cows for 7 months was 4,308 lb. milk, 3.5 test, 153.1 lb. fat. One herd of 4 cows averaged only 3,293 lb. milk each in the 7 months. Another herd of 15 cows averaged 224.6 lb. milk more, or 5,539 lb. each during the same time. The 4 cows should easily have brought in $15 each more than they did to their owner, and probably would have done so if they had had some green soiling crops.

The average production of 19 cows for 8 months was 4,903 lb. milk, 3.4 test, 171 lb. fat.

In the group tested for 8 months one herd of cows had an average of 3,985 lb. milk, 3.5 test, 141.4 lb. fat; the best yield was 5,815 lb. milk, 3.2 test, 183.5 lb. fat, and the poorest yield was from a 7-year-old, 2645 lb. milk, 3.2 test, 85.4 lb. fat, or almost 100 lb. of fat less.

Another lot of 4 cows gave, in 8 months, 6,558 lb. milk, 3.3 test, 219.6 lb. fat, or an average of 2,573 lb. milk each more than the 4 noted above. In this herd the highest yield was 8,135 lb. milk, 3.6 test, 292.8 lb. fat, and the lowest from a 4-year-old, 4,990 lb. milk, 3.1 test, 156.3 lb. fat, yield.

This clearly indicates the general unevenness in herds, in average and good herds alike, and the necessity of this work of noting the actual production of each single individual.

The average yield of 4 cows for 9 months was 6,6278 lb. milk, 3.4 test, 222.9 lb. fat. The highest was 8,151 lb. milk, 3.2 test, 264.3 lb. fat.

For 10 months, the average production of 7 cows was 6,262 lb. milk, 3.4 test, 217.1 lb. fat, or a lower average than those recorded for 9 months. The highest yield was 6,968 lb. milk, 3.3 test, 229.8 lb. fat.

The average production for 11 months of 3 cows was 7,673 lb. milk, 3.5 test, 267.2 lb. fat. The best individual cow gave 8,505 lb. milk, 3.5 test, 294.1 lb. fat.

CONCERT WAS SUCCESSFUL

Ladies of Knox Church Gave Successful Affair Last Night—Programme and Oyster Supper.

LARGE NUMBER PRESENT

The Ladies' Aid Society of Knox Church gave a very enjoyable concert, followed by an oyster supper, on Tuesday night, which, in every respect was a gratifying success. The affair was largely attended and its financial success was one of the features of which the ladies may be justly proud, and the programme was replete with excellent numbers which were thoroughly enjoyed. Rev. H. J. Keith acted as chairman in his usual pleasing manner, and in no small degree was responsible for the evening's success. The programme was as follows:

Selection by the George Street Orchestra.
Reading—Miss E. Smith.
Mandolin Club—Selection.
Banjo solo—Mr. F. Clark.
Solo—Miss Stewart.
George Street Quartette—Messrs. Cunningham, Zepp, Walton and Biggs.
Piano duet—Miss Chiles and Miss Grace Naylor.
Vocal solo—Miss Kidd.
Banjo selection—Mr. Clark.
Instrumental—Miss Smith.
Violin solo—Dr. Park.
Quartette — Messrs. Cunningham, Zepp, Walton and Biggs.
Selection by the Mandolin Club.
Vocal trio—Messrs. Davenport, McCannon and Thompson.
Selection by George Street Methodist Sunday School Orchestra.
Miss H. McCannon accompanied Dr. Park.

His number was a pleasure to the audience. Dr. Park possesses a thorough knowledge of the violin and the exacting selection played was sympathetically rendered and with an ease that lends grace to the finished musician. His encore number was "The Last Rose of Summer," played in different positions and with the feeling and tenderness this favourite demands.

The last part of the evening was pleasingly spent, the ladies serving oysters, coffee, etc., and an enjoyable social hour was the result.

POST CARD COLUMN

Editor Post Card Column:

Dear Sir,—I could not read all the lengthy epistle of "Civis" last night, but enough to suggest that our streets be cleaned and the sweepings dumped in the river at Smith street, and then those wishing to go to the other side could jump it. If the political economical ideas of Civis were carried out there would be no business for our factories and there would be no one to cross the river.

Yours truly,
W. A. BAILEY.

Interesting Lecture Given By Mr. G. A. Cornish On Volcanoes

The first of a series of lectures to be held under the auspices of the Peterborough Historical Society, was given on Tuesday night in the Collegiate Institute by Mr. G. A. Cornish, Science Master of the Normal School, to a large and interested audience. The subject was "Volcanoes," and Mr. Cornish's address was intensely interesting, as well as being of a most instructive nature, and the audience followed his remarks with rapt attention. The speaker had evidently studied his subject to good purpose, and he succeeded in presenting it to his hearers in a thoroughly palatable form.

In beginning the speaker pointed out the fallacy of the ordinary school definition of a volcano, i. e., that it was a burning mountain which threw out fire, ashes and smoke. A volcano was not a mountain in the first place, neither did it burn or throw out any fire, ashes and smoke. On the other hand, a volcano was a fissure in the earth's crust, and if there was a mountain it was the result of the action of the volcano.

The impression of fire coming from the volcano was given by the reflection of the cloud of vapour above the crater of it. There could be no smoke or ashes as there was no combustion.

Mr. Cornish went on to point out the different products in the action of the Volcano, showing that the chief gas from the crater was steam or water gas, which was ejected with tremendous force in the event of an eruption and condensed forming with the dust a mud lava which descended the slope with destructive violence. Besides steam large quantities of chlorine sulphurous gasses and carbon dioxide were given off during the action of a volcano, the latter coming last and often arising from fissures centuries after the eruption.

Besides these gases other substances were given off from the volcano, and were deposited as efflorescences on the surrounding rocks, in this way forming boracic acid, sal ammonia and iron chloride, which were collected on a commercial scale.

The chief liquid product, Mr. Cornish stated, was lava, which was rock material melted so intensely that it came off in a liquid state and was incandescent. The solids thrown off from the crater were entirely rock materials of various sizes.

The next point Mr. Cornish touched upon was the activity of the volcano, which might be either constant or periodic. He referred briefly to Stromboli, Vesuvius, and the other famous volcanoes, showing how their eruptions varied.

Mr. Cornish then went on to explain the action of a volcano giving a clear, lucid and easily followed explanation on this point, which was new to most of his hearers.

Speaking of the number of volcanoes in the world, Mr. Cornish stated, that there were between 300 and 350 in an active state. Vesuvius was the only one in Europe, but there were six among the Mediterranean Islands. Africa has ten, four on the west and six on the east, while there were about ten others near the coast. There were twenty in North America, twenty-five in Central America and thirty-seven in South America. Asia had twenty-four, of which half were situated on one peninsula. There were none in Australia.

In conclusion, the speaker dealt with the source of heat in a volcano, and the condition of the earth's nucleus, explaining the three hypotheses on the latter point.

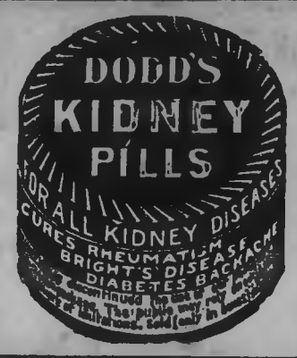
(1) That there was a thin crust between ten and twenty miles thick, with a liquid nucleus.

(2) That the earth was solid to the centre, with, perhaps, lacunar spaces here and there filled with liquid material, and

(3) That both the outer crust and centre were solid with a space between the two filled with liquid material.

The first theory was the common one, and it was a fact that no matter where a boring was made in the earth's crust, after a depth of from 60 to 80 feet, the temperature began to rise and increased about one degree Fahrenheit for every 50 to 60 feet in descent.

Space unfortunately will not permit of a more extended report of Mr. Cornish's remarks, but enough has been given to show the delightful and instructive nature of his address. His lecture has set a high standard for the series which has been arranged, and if the other addresses approach in excellence that given on Tuesday night, the remaining meetings should be attended by very large audiences.



THE DERIVATION OF GRAFT IS WANTED

Correspondent Seeks Some Information Upon the Point—Is it an Americanism?

To the Editor of the Examiner,

Dear Sir—As an appreciative reader of your paper, and encouraged by the statement in to-night's issue that "newspaper editors like to answer questions addressed to them by their readers", I venture to put my little query, hoping it will not be too hard a nut to crack.

What is the root meaning of the word "grafdt?" (vide Judge Cassels' report); also, is the word "graft" in any dictionary? Further, what were the circumstances attending its introduction to the language? and finally, is it an "Americanism" pure and simple?

Any information you can give me on this subject will be highly appreciated.

"The awakening of the public conscience." How is it to be done? Why that's an easy one. Through the press, for sure."

Thanking you in anticipation, dear sir, I am yours, etc.

CIVIS SCOTORUM

P. S.—Your correspondent's (Civis') argument for a substantial bridge is a sound one. "Cheap and nasty" is as true of bridges as anything else.

P. P. S.—I have a cutting from a recent number of an influential magazine at home in the "old-land" and it deals very fully on "Graft" and "the American Sailor-man."

If you would like to see it you are welcome to.

Some very sweeping charges are made in it re-Government officials handling Citizens papers, and Merchant Service Certificates.

If true, the case is bad enough and now's the time to hit out at such as iniquitous system before it gains a good foothold on Canadian soil.

Last winter I had good grounds for surmising that some Government inspectors for navigation certificates of competency for the "lakes" and coasting waters were not above accepting a present, not a bribe mind you but if it is true that "a gift destroyeth the heart", then it follows, logically, that, bye and bye, the present will evolve itself into a bribe.

Your article homily on "honour" and "honor" in last Saturday's issue just fills the bill to a tee. Get right out after them, remembering that "Righteousness exalteth a nation."

THE LAYMEN'S MOVEMENT

History of This Important Undertaking in Connection With Missionary Work.

ITS AIMS AND OBJECTS

The short career of the Laymen's Missionary Movement, which is to hold a national missionary congress in Toronto, March 31st to April 4th, is full of interesting incidents, and the Movement has shown a most remarkable growth.

It was organized in connection with the Centennial celebration of the Haystack Prayer Meeting in New York, November 13th and 14th, 1906. Following these meetings there was a group of laymen who met for prayer in the chapel of the 5th Avenue Pres. Church, continuing all afternoon and evening, and closing with resolutions covering the following points:

The 100th Anniversary of the first American Foreign Missionary work finds the door of every nation open to the Gospel; the organizations at work are doing excellent service; business men are taking a vital interest in every form of church work, and such men have been very successful in the management of large business and political enterprises; a committee should be appointed to co-operate with the Mission Boards for three purposes: to project a campaign of education among laymen; to devise a comprehensive plan looking towards the evangelization of the world in this generation; to endeavour to form through the church boards a commission of fifty or more laymen to visit the mission fields and report to the church at home.

The work since that time has taken giant strides, and quite a number of denominational Laymen's Movements have been organized. The work in the Canadian churches has been particularly strong, though the Churches in the Southern States have their denominational organizations very complete.

It has no organization apart from a general committee, with headquarters in New York, meeting twice a year, and an Executive Committee of 21 members, meeting each month. Three Secretaries give their whole time to the work of the general movement, besides the Denominational Secretaries.

The Movement stands for investigation, agitation and organization; the investigation by laymen of missionary conditions; and the organization of laymen to co-operate with the ministers and Missionary Boards in enlisting the whole church in its supreme work of saving the world.

It is noteworthy that wherever the Movement has been presented, in scores of cities of the United States and Canada, it has received the enthusiastic commendation and co-operation of representative men. A commission of six laymen from the United States and Canada presented the Movement in Great Britain, where it was at once taken up, and National Committees organized both in England and Scotland. It has since spread to Germany and Australia. The time seems to be approaching when the Christian nations will be federated for co-operative action in behalf of mankind.

The power of the Movement in the lives of men seems to be partially answered by the following considerations:—

(1) The movement presents to men the greatest possible spiritual challenge—the need of the world.

(2) It makes the largest possible demands upon men; reminding them that all life is a trust involving stewardship of opportunity, influence, time and treasure; that spiritual values are the only permanent ones, and that selfishness is suicidal.

(3) The effort to evangelize the world presents to every man the largest opportunity of service which can come to him in this life.

(4) The life purpose emphasized by the Movement when followed satisfies the deepest spiritual ambitions of men.

(5) The effort to evangelize the world presents the speediest and surest method of saving the church.

(6) The union of all branches of the church in such co-operation emphasizes as nothing else can, the unity of the church.

MARCONI GRATEFUL

New York, Jan. 27—The following letter has been received from Signor Marconi.—

London, Jan. 23—I am exceedingly grateful that wireless telegraphy has again proved its value in saving life at sea. I feel that a single incident such as the rescue of the Republic's passengers is an overwhelming reward for any efforts I may have made to render such a thing possible. Much had been accomplished already. The case of the Republic is an earnest of the future. I believe the time is fast approaching, if not already here, when wireless telegraphy will have robbed the ocean travel of its old-time terrors.

SPECIALIST WAS BAFFLED

Child Tortured With Eczema—When All Else Failed Zam-Buk Cured Her.

Once again the unequalled merit of Zam-Buk as a healer of skin disease has been demonstrated, this time at Lunenburg Co., N.S.

Mr. D G Mossman, of that place says:—"My little girl, now nearly three years old, when about four months of age began to be afflicted with eczema. I consulted a specialist who did his best for the poor little thing, but the disease baffled him, and after a long trial I was obliged to admit that his treatment was not doing any good. Then I tried various remedies which were advised by friends, but with no better result.

Next I called in another doctor,—still the disease continued to spread! It began in the form of small spots and pustules on the child's head. These increased in size and discharged. The discharge seemed to spread infection to other parts and bit by bit the diseased area increased until at last the poor child's head and face seemed to be one great sore.

"When the second doctor failed to give any relief, I was at a loss what to do. Someone who had tried Zam-Buk strongly advised me to give it a trial, and I did so. The first few applications didn't seem to have any effect at all, but although not apparent it must have been attacking the very roots of the disease, for after persevering with the treatment for a little while we noted a marked improvement. Encouraged by this we continued with Zam-Buk and left off everything else. The disease was gradually subdued, the itching grew less acute, and the little one's suffering was relieved. Then the area of the sores grew less and less, and in the end every trace of the dreadful eczema was removed. Not only so, but there has been no scarring or marking left to disfigure the child's face.

"There is now no trace of the disease which acused her much suffering, baffled one specialist and one practitioner, and defied every remedy I could obtain save Zam-Buk."

Zam-Buk is Nature's own healing balm, being composed of pure herbal essences. It is a sure cure for eczema, ring-worm, ulcers, cuts, burns, bruises, poisoned sores, chronic wounds, bad leg, piles, festering sores, chapped hands, cold-sores, frost-bite, and all skin injuries and diseases. Druggists and stores everywhere sell at 50c. a box, or post free for price from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto; 3 boxes $1.25. You are warned against harmful imitations sometimes represented to be "just as good."

ST. JOHN'S SUNDAY SCHOOL TEACHERS

St. John's Sunday School teachers met in the Guild Room last night, when the Rev. Canon Davidson delivered an instruction of the Sunday School lesson for the next two Sunday.

A statement of the progress of the school for the first half of the Sunday School year was read by the superintendent, showing a distinct advance in all departments.

The following resolutions were unanimously passed:

That Mr. Donald Denham be appointed to the office of secretary-treasurer."

"That the hearty thanks of this meeting be conveyed to Mr. Rush for his long and faithful services to this Sunday School, both as teacher and treasurer."

"That this meeting expresses its earnest sympathy with Mr. and Mrs. Denham in the serious illness of their son Donald, and prays that the invalid may soon be restored to health."

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS HAD JOLLY TIME

Welcomed Their Friends Last Night—Concert and Refreshments.

When the Knights of Pythias undertake to entertain their friends they do it in knightly fashion, and last night proved no exception to the rule.

After the regular meeting the Knights opened the wicket and no raps or signs were necessary to gain admittance to their Castle Hall. They gave their friends a knightly welcome 'mid song and smoke, reading, recitation and music, the time passing only too quickly. The Programme was of unusual merit and all present left with the impression that the night had proven one of both profit and pleasure. After the programme they had a dainty lunch, followed by cigars which were greatly enjoyed.

The programme was as follows:—

Address (Chairman), Bro. Dr. Middleton, C.C.; Instrumental, Bro. Louis Mendel; Speech, Bro. Dr. A. W. MacPherson; Song, Bro. W. A. Greenslade; Solo, Mr. J. King; Recitation, Mr. Waring; Solo, Bro. F. C. Freeland; Address, Bro. Oliver Milburn; Solo, Mr. Walter Stocker; Speech, Bro. J. Squires; Solo, Mr. Chas. Coleman.

God Save the King.

Messrs. Ackerman and Avann played the accompaniments in a finished manner and were greatly appreciated by all present.

Marathon Lodge, No. 39, is forging ahead at a great rate. The membership is increasing very rapidly and at nearly every meeting there are applications received for membership.

The next regular meeting will be held on Tuesday evening next, February 2nd, when the installation of officers will take place.

Some good seats yet for Hilda Spong in "A Man and His Mate". Do not miss it. Grand Opera House, to-night.

HE THINKS THE RACE SHOULD BE GOOD

Hoagland Writes From Auburn in Connection With the Harrison-Blake Match.

Jim Harrison has received a letter from Hoagland in which that well-known walker said that he was sorry that Harrison did not take part in the recent race at Auburn, N. Y., as he felt sure that Harrison would hav taken second place. There will be another race in Auburn next month and Hoagland wants the local crack to keep in condition and to enter the contest. Hoagland is to be handicapped one half mile in order to give the others a chance. Speaking of the Harrison-Blake race to take place here on Saturday, Hoagland said that it ought to be a grand race.

HOUSE DEBATES ON PUBLISHING TREATY

Mr. Borden Raises Point in Question to Premier.

PUBLIC MUST KNOW TERMS

In Reply to Opposition Leader's Protest Against Delay in Tabling Waterways Treaty Sir Wilfrid Agrees That It Should Be Made Public Before It Is Ratified—Thinks British Tradition Is Wrong.

Ottawa, Jan. 27.—The House sat less than an hour yesterday afternoon, clearing off many of the questions of private members and uncontested motions for returns.

R. L. Borden again protested against the rule that prevented the tabling of the waterways treaty simultaneously with the reference of the same documents to the United States Senate.

"I believe," said Sir Wilfrid, "that in the United States a treaty may be given to the press some time before it is given to the Senate. We do not admit anything of that kind in this country, and it is simply because in his matter we follow the traditions of British diplomacy, under which Parliament does not publish the treaty until it has been signed by the King. But I quite agree that it is inconvenient that we should not have the matter made public in this country as soon as it is in the United States."

"A treaty which we make with the United States is not valid or binding until it is ratified by their Senate," said Mr. Borden. "It might be worth considering whether or not our treaties dealing with important subjects should not have a clause to the effect that they should not become binding on His Majesty until they have been ratified by the Parliament of Canada."

Sir Wilfrid agreed, adding: "I would go even further. Even admitting that the King alone has the treaty-making power I see no reason why the moment the treaty is signed it should not be given to the public even before it is ratified by His Majesty. Although the present treaty has been signed I must say we have not yet received an official copy of it."

Mr. Speaker announced that he had issued his writ for the bye-election in Carleton County.

Claude Macdonnel introduced his election amendment to abolish the $200 deposit required and to make federal election day a public holiday.

LEGISLATURE DATE SET.

Ontario House Will Open Its Session on Feb. 16.

Toronto, Jan. 27.—Feb. 16, which is a Tuesday, is the day chosen for the opening of the 12th Legislature of Ontario. The date was announced late yesterday evening after a Cabinet Council meeting by Sir James Whitney.

Several points are obviously to be dealt with. The Niagara power situation requires attention, and the necessary legislation will not be delayed.

The very important change in the period of the fiscal year, which in future is to terminate at the end of October instead of Dec. 31, as at present, will be brought into effect.

The statutory revision commission has been sitting assiduously several times a week for months, and forty or fifty of the important statutes have been completed.

A revision of a different order is in the case of the Municipal and Assessment Acts, which it is anticipated will be taken up and dealt with as a whole.

Law reform is another of the expected subjects of legislation.

The Cared of Homeless Children.

Washington, D.C., Jan. 27.—Speakers yesterday at the conference of the care of dependent children appeared to agree that children of normal minds who must be removed from their homes should be cared for in families wherever practicable, but that the abnormal child should be placed in a children's institution.

An opinion was voiced that child-caring institutions should be conducted on the cottage plan.

Mulcted For Costs.

Washington, Jan. 27.—President Samuel Gompers, Vice-President John Mitchell and Secretary Frank Morrison of the American Federation of Labor, who recently were sentenced to terms of imprisonment in the District of Columbia Jail for contempt of court, were ordered yesterday by Justice Wright of the District Supreme Court to pay the costs incurred in the proceedings which resulted in the sentence for contempt. The costs aggregate about $1,500.

Laymen's Mission Secretary.

New York, Jan. 27.—J. Campbell White, secretary of the laymen's missionary movement, announced yesterdays that Col. Elijah Halford of Washington, former private secretary of the late President Harrison, had been appointed corresponding secretary of the laymen's missionary movement of the Methodist Episcopal Church. Col. Halford will make his headquarters in this city.

Sifton Buys Mine.

Ottawa, Jan. 27.—Hon. Clifford Sifton and M. J. O'Brien, c. Renfrew have purchased the Bonsall properties on Miller Lake, in the Gowganda district for $500,000.

It is said the Bonsall claims are the richest in the silver area of the north. Samples averaging 20,000 to 30,000 ounces to the ton have been secured.

Talesmen Exhausted.

Nashville, Tenn., Jan. 27.—When the second venire of 500 talesmen was exhausted yesterday without the completion of the jury to try Col. Duncan B. Cooper, Robin Cooper and John D. Sharpe, for the slaying of Former Senator E. W. Carmack, Judge Hart announced that he would devote to-day to the hearing of charges of intoxication against Jurors Leigh and Jackson, he drew another venire of 500 names. Two jurors were chosen yesterday, the eighth and ninth.

We will keep a record of every boy's daily sales up to the end of the contest.

Papers are ready every evening shortly after four o'clock.

Boys attending school can be easily supplied, and with a little hustle can soon start a savings bank.

Girls, who desire, can take part in this competition, as well as boys.

Understand

It's the largest individual increase every week that counts.

Whether you have been selling papers in the past or not makes no difference.

Canvass those who are not now taking the Examiner. They will always read it if you get them started.

If one boy who has been selling papers starts on Monday next with ten regular customers and increases his list to twenty at the end of the week, and another boy with twenty regular customers has only increased to twenty-five, the first boy wins the $2.00 Weekly Prize in cash, because he has added ten to his list while the second boy has only added five to his list.

No boy has any advantage over any other.

It's all in the hustle.

PARENTS

Who would like to encourage their boys to earn sufficient pocket money to keep them, are urged to give them a start with a few cents for their first lot of papers. There are many young men now holding good positions who made their first money by selling the Evening Examiner. Any boy can start at any time, but he should start on Monday, February 1st, with the rest and give no handicap. Any further information required, regarding this competition, will be given at the office of the Examiner.

NOW, BOYS AND GIRLS, GET BUSY!

AN IMPORTANT CONDITION—In order that protection may be given to each boy who is entered in this competition it is a condition that no one will secure a prize who does not legitimately earn it. If a boy applies for a weekly prize who has not bought the papers for his own use and sale it will be turned over to the boy who has actually won it. :-: :-: :-: :-: :-:

LEVEL CROSSING CLAIMS TWO MORE

Farmer and Son Killed on Kingston Level Crossing.

WIFE SERIOUSLY INJURED

William Spooner of Blenburnie Is Crossing Tracks After Dark When Eastbound Train Crashes Into His Wagon—Checked Team to Avoid one Train But Did Not See the Other One Coming.

Kingston, Jan. 27.—The Montreal street level crossing of the Grand Trunk was the scene of a terrible accident at 7.15 o'clock last night, when the train westbound struck a wagon and killed William Spooner, a farmer of Blenburnie, aged 40, and his son Wilfrid, aged 10; while his wife is so terribly injured that the doctors say it is doubtful whether she will recover.

Spooner and his family were homeward bound from the city. Reaching the crossing, Spooner checked up to let the suburban train pass into the station. He then went ahead. At this point there are six tracks crossing in a diagonal manner, and when he reached the centre the train from the east crashed into the vehicle. The wagon was picked up on the cowcatcher and the horses broke away. Spooner was crushed in between the box of the wagon and one of the front trucks of the locomotive, and death was instantaneous. His head struck the engine with terrific force.

The boy, who was sitting between his parents, was also thrown against the engine and was dead when found.

Mrs. Spooner was thrown several feet to one side of the track, and, despite her injuries, was able to tell her name to the railway men, and give the names of the others. Spooner's head was crushed and his back broken, and the boy's skull was crushed into an awful mass.

The horses had a miraculous escape. They started to run on breaking away from the rig and were captured about half a mile away. The train stopped within 175 yards.

G.T.R. Surgeon Anglin says the woman's head is badly bruised, also her limbs, but no bones are broken.

At the crossing there is a watchman only from 5 in the morning till 6 at night. It is regarded as dangerous, and in the past 20 years has been the scene of several fatalities and many serious accidents. Some time ago the county endeavored to get assistance from the railway committee before the Railway Commission was formed, to build an overhead bridge. The bridge was ordered, with the understanding that the county, city and company pay equal. The city held back, claiming that as the railway was not in the city limits, they should not pay, and the matter was dropped.

Telegraph Poles Blown Down.

Montreal, Jan. 27.—The storm is over, but the railways feel it badly yet. The C.P.R. has 280 poles down between here and Farnham, 30 miles. The G.T.R. has not a pole standing in the eight miles from Valois to St. Anne de Bellevue, yet the trains are not far behind. By the cancellation of freights and less important passenger trains, the others are running with care without any despatches. Even the Vancouver train came in almost on time after feeling its way with news of the other train from Smith's Falls in.

Leaves Fortune to Priest.

Kingston, Jan. 27.—Miss Emil Deprez, who died in the General Hospital, left a fortune of $28,000 to Rev. Father Huntingdon of New York. Of this amount $6,000 is invested in real estate and the balance in stocks and securities. Father Huntingdon devotes his life to the relief of the poor. Her remains were cremated at her request and sent to her former home in Paris, France.

Dr. A. D. McIntyre, late superintendent of the General Hospital, has secured a fellowship at Edinburgh.

Laird-Scott Case To-morrow.

Regina, Sask., Jan. 27.—The famous Laird-Scott libel case goes to trial to-morrow morning, according to announcement made in court yesterday afternoon. Both sides have retained outside counsel, and these do not arrive till Thursday.

For the defence, Premier Scott has engaged Hugh Robson and N. P. Hogel of Winnipeg. The defence announces that they have filed a second plea and also objections to the pleadings.

Rail Broke at Game.

Cobalt, Jan. 27.—Ten or a dozen spectators of last night's hockey match between the Cobalts and Wanderers were injured by the collapse of a portion of the gallery rail, which allowed them to fall a dozen feet to the ice. The accident occurred with 13-4 minutes time left to play, and the Wanderers fighting furiously to overcome a lead of two goals. In the excitement the crowd pressed forward and the railing gave way.

Husband Kidnaps Child.

Toronto, Jan. 27.—Mrs. Charlotte E. Hamilton, 57 Cecil street, complains that her six-year-old child, Almer F. Hamilton, was kidnapped Jan. 13 while on his way to the Lansdowne school on Spadina crescent.

The next morning the mother received a 'phone message from her husband, from whom she is divorced. He said he was taking the boy to St. Louis.

When the divorce was granted the mother was given custody of the child.

SOME TORONTO GAMES HAVE BEEN ARRANGED WITH THE LOCAL BOWLERS NEWS PRINTERS ARE COMING HERE

Mr. J B Hay, proprietor of the P.B.C. bowling alleys, returned last evening from Toronto where he had spent a couple of days at his home and also calling on some of his many warm friends there. He visited a few of the bowling alleys and was besieged with applications for games with the Peterborough bowlers. The travellers out of Toronto, calling here are nearly all acquainted with Joe and they have bowled on the Peterborough alleys and against Peterborough bowlers. The result is they have gone back to Toronto with glowing stories of the prowess of the bowlers in the Electric City, and many of the Toronto bowlers are desirous of meeting teams from here.

Mr. Hay stated last night that he has arranged two games for five-men teams from this city to go to the Queen City a week from Saturday night. There will be a picked team from here play a picked team from the Toronto bowlers, and the latter bunch will include such men as Eddie Sutherland, Frank Johnston, Bath Neill, etc., all members of the big league bowlers and men with Canadian championship aspirations. It is men of this class that the local bowlers will be called upon to meet. The local team will include McIlroy, Wareham, Cairns and two others, probably Hay, Martin or Pollard.

Mr. Hay is of the opinion that although the Peterborough men have been bowling for about only one year, they have not very much to fear from the Toronto men. He does not say the locals will win in Toronto but he is confident that they will win the return game, and anyway it will be a feather in their caps to be pitted against the best men in Canada, no matter whether they win or lose. The contest will be played in Toronto a week from Saturday night.

On the same night a team of Peterborough printers will go to Toronto to meet the Mail & Empire team. The locals will be composed of such men as Cairns, Lacheur, Rishea, etc., while the Mail & Empire will play their regular printers' league team. This match will undoubtedly prove of great interest both in Toronto and here.

In addition to the games mentioned above, applications are in from the News, the champions of the Printers' League and it is possible that they will visit Peterborough within the next three weeks.

Another match which may materialize is a game between the editorial staff of the Toronto Telegram and a team of local newspaper men. If this game comes off it will likely be played on the same night that the News printers' team comes down.

There is a team of Toronto druggists who have issued a challenge to a team of Peterborough druggists. Mr. Hay will try and accommodate these people in the near future, but so far the local druggists have not gone in for bowling very extensively.

The Canadian Bowling Club also want a game here and together with the return matches with the Toronto picked team and the Mail & Empire team the local bowlers have a busy season before them.

BOTH MEN EXPECT TO WIN THE SIX-HOUR WALK ON SATURDAY

The announcement that J. E. Blake of Syracuse, N. Y., the American coloured walking champion and Jim Harrison, Peterborough's well known distance pedestrian are to back up for a six hour race in the Auditorium Roller Rink on Saturday of this week has aroused great interest in the city and a big crowd will witness the event. Blake was a prime favourite with the local enthusiasts while he was taking part in the big six day walk in which he finished second with Harrison third and many people will welcome the opportunity to see him in action again. He writes from Syracuse that he is in good shape and expects to beat Harrison here on Saturday. Whether he will do so or not is another matter, Harrison does not say so and those who saw the local crack go in his last match with Haugland are of the same opinion. In any event it should prove a great race and will be well worth seeing. The race will start at 2 o'clock in the afternoon and will continue until 5 when the men will leave the track for three hours, resuming at 8 o'clock to wind up the grind with another three hours walking.

CITY LEAGUE GAMES TO-MORROW ONLY HOCKEY EVENTS OF THE WEEK

The City League games to-morrow night promise to be of more than usual interest. They are, as it were, the semi finals in the League race, and all four teams may be depended upon to work hard for victory. Much is expected of the T.A.S.-Lakefield game as on the dope the teams are about equal. The T.A.S. beat the West Ends by 2—1 and the Lakefield team put it over the same team by the same narrow margin so that if those two games can be taken for purposes of comparison, there is nothing whatever to choose between the two teams. It will be a hard battle all the way and as both teams have now rounded into shape there is every reason to look forward to a most interesting game.

The Scratchonas and West Ends will be the contestants in the second game and although the Scratchonas are the logical favourites, upon a study of the games played, yet there is every reason to expect that the West Ends will give the High Commissioners the toughest kind of a tussle and the game should prove always interesting. With four of the junior O.H.A. team on the line-up the West Ends will have a fast team, and the argument they gave Leo Quinn's Lakefield bunch last week shows that they are not to be overlooked.

In addition to the big games the programme will also include a junior City League game between the Chieftains and Otonabees and those who have not seen any of the junior games this year are advised to go early to get a line upon this contest. The Chieftains are playing beautiful hockey and the Otonabees have a fast and heavy team, so that it should be a good game.

The City League bill of fare is the only hockey attraction of the week in Peterborough so that it should be largely attended.

PACIFICS LEAD THE BOWLING LEAGUE LAST NIGHT'S GAMES EXCITING

Fast were doings in the Peterborough Bowling League yesterday and as one of the spectators was heard to remark the evening's entertainment was "more exciting than a horse race." Several of the leaders were in action last night and so close is the race that the leadership changed hands three times last night. In the first place the Pacifics took three in a row from the Grays in the first game of the evening and as a result were out a front in the league race. Their head did not last long however for the Examiner A in the next match put the Indian sign on the Iroquois for three games thereby ousting the Pacifics from the top notch and climbing back there themselves. Then came the surprise of the evening when the Midgets who have not been rolling in form recently came back with a vengeance and grabbing two from the Examiner A pulled that team off the top peg and allowed the Pacifics to climb back to the place they had won earlier in the evening.

In the afternoon the Examiner B's tore off two out of three games from the B A C and as a result jumped from seventh position to a tie with the Belmonts and B A C for fourth position, the Iroquois taking a big drop as a result of their defeat at the hands of the Examiner A.

There was some excellent rolling done during the four games. Only one team rolled under 1300 and the Examiner A had two scores of over 1400 while the Midgets put on 1493. The Pacifics however beat the top rolling splendidly together for a 151 total.

McIlroy, captain of the Pacifics, also high man for the day, getting 571 in which a score of 213 helped some.

George Cairns of the Examiner A had two splendid scores of 553 and 528, getting 207 in one match and 208 in another, while Cyril Giroux rolled 526, getting 203 in his first game.

Dela Fosse of the Examiner B put on 515 against the B A C in the afternoon.

The scores last night were as follows—

HOCKEY

Church League clubs having postponed games will play same off as soon as possible on the rink scheduled, and make their own arrangements for dates.

* * *

The Peterborough intermediate O.H.A. team had a lively practice last night with the Strathconas, a good representation of both teams being out, and they went at a speedy clip for an hour although the ice was necessarily not of the best. It was the first workout since the game in Lindsay and the team seemed full of ginger after the rest. There will be another practice to-night between 7 and 8 o'clock, if the weather conditions permit.

Eczema, Salt Rheum.

Eczema or Salt Rheum, as it is often called, is one of the most agonizing of skin diseases. It manifests itself in little round blisters, which contain an extremely irritating fluid. These break and subsequently a crust or scale is formed.

The intense burning, itching and smarting, especially at night or when the part is exposed to any strong heat, are almost unbearable.

The pre-eminent success which Burdock Blood Bitters has met with in permanently curing a disease of such severity is due to its wonderful blood cleansing and purifying properties.

No other remedy has done, or can do, so much for those who are almost driven to distraction with the terrible torture, as our thousands of signed testimonials can testify to.

Mrs. John O'Connor, Burlington, N.S., writes:—"For years I suffered with Salt Rheum. I tried a dozen different medicines, but most of them only made it worse. I was advised to try Burdock Blood Bitters. I got a bottle and before I had taken half a dozen doses I could see a change so I continued its use and now I am completely cured. I cannot say too much for your wonderful medicine."

For sale by all druggists and dealers.

Lady Snatched From Death

How "sadness and despair" gave place to "joy, comfort and life," is told by Mr. L. H. Walter, of Pearl St., Brockville, in relating how his wife was restored to health after having been told by her doctors that both her lungs were seriously affected and that she could not possibly live many months.

Gloom like a pall fell over that Canadian home when the apparently irrevocable fiat went forth. Not long before life had seemed full of promise to Mr. and Mrs. Walter, and a bright future of married happiness stretched out into the coming years. And now all was changed. The fatal words had been pronounced which banished all hope. But they had not then heard of PSYCHINE.

It was when the cloud was darkest that the silver lining appeared. A friend urged them to give PSYCHINE a trial, and told of the marvellous cures effected by this wonderful remedy. Mr. Walter procured a bottle and persuaded his wife to take it. "Before the whole bottle had been taken," he says, "the severe pain in her lungs quickly went away, and after taking six bottles, my wife was a new creature, and completely well again. I will never cease to praise PSYCHINE; it has brought Mrs. Walter back to life and health when all else had failed."

No case need be considered hopeless. The above is not an isolated instance, but one of hundreds, in which PSYCHINE has proved efficacious.

PSYCHINE never fails. Try it and see.

Trial sent on application. Send name and address to Dr. T. A. Slocum, Limited, Toronto. PSYCHINE is sold by all druggists and dealers in bottles at 50c. and $1.00.

PERSONAL AND SOCIAL

Mr. Joseph McNeil, of Midland, is the guest of Mr. Jas. Dorris, for a week.

Miss Alicen Fair has returned to the city after a pleasant visit in Millbrook.

Mr. Emmet Doherty, formerly of Peterborough and now of Fort William, is in the city on a visit.

Mrs. W. J. Dunlop, 711 Water street, will be at home the first and fourth Thursdays of each month.

Miss Perry, of Bobcaygeon, and Mrs. Simpson, of Birch Hill, Sask., are the guests of Mrs. Henry, Boswell avenue.

A large crowd drove out to Keenismore on Tuesday night to be present at a play entitled "The Parish Priest" which was presented by local talent to a very large audience in the town hall.

Hon. J. R. Stratton was in Toronto on Tuesday attending the annual meeting of the Traders Bank of Canada of which he is vice-president. Mr. Stratton spent the evening in Peterborough, arriving on the local and left on the midnight train for Ottawa.

The many friends of Mrs. G. B. Ormond, who accompanied Mrs. J. R. Stratton to Ottawa to attend the opening of Parliament and who was taken suddenly ill, and has been in the hospital at Ottawa since Wednesday last, will be pleased to know that she is improving in health. It is expected that in a few days' time she will have entirely recovered.

Mrs. (Hon.) J R Stratton was present at the Governor-General's Drawing Room on Saturday, and the Citizen says:—Mrs. J R Stratton, (Peterborough,) wore an exquisite robe of pearl white chiffon cloth with tiny iridescent sequins heavily embroidered by hand with large roses in a rich design around the bottom of the skirt and on the corsage, the whole mounted on pearl white satin finished around the hem with cloth of silver; diamond and pearl ornaments and bouquet of lilies of the valley.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.

(Furnished by J. N. Barber.)

New York, Jan. 27—There was little feature and less interest in today's stock market. Dullness and irregularity characterized the list for the most part, although the announcement of the election of Mr Harriman to the board of directors of the New York Central stirred things up for a half an hour and caused fair advances in that issues and the Harriman stocks. Southern and Union Pacific. C. and O. was again made active at advancing prices and sold up to the highest figure in a long time. The trading elsewhere was strictly professional and along narrow lines.

London prices were unchanged, with foreign houses looking on. Copper metal was again lower over there, but this was hardly reflected in the copper shares here which were absolutely neglected.

There was a little more activity in the last half hour with the market highly irregular. Rock Island, B R. T. and some of the minor Gould issues were run up while the leading rails. Steel and Copper were heavy and sold off at the same time. The closing was unsettled.

COUNTY COUNCIL'S SESSIONS TO-DAY

Reports and Communications Received—School Inspectors Present.

The County Council again met this morning and this afternoon. Considerable business was done, receiving reports and communications and in committee. This morning's session was taken up as follows:—

The Treasurer's financial report was read and adopted.

The report of the Board of Management of the House of Refuge for 1908 was read and adopted.

Statements from several treasurers of other municipalities were read and ordered to be filed.

Messrs. Chatten and Bickle asked the Council to provide for Mr. C. Chatten, senior. Referred to Finance Committee.

Communications

From Fred Fry re appointment of School Trustee, Norwood.—Committee on Appointments.

From the Clerk of the County of Essex, re collecting compensation from motor vehicles.—Roads and Bridges Committee.

From the Hospital for Sick Children re grant. — Finance Committee.

From the executors of the A. G. Foley showing statements of funds.—Finance.

From Dr. Graham re increase of salary as House of Refuge Surgeon, also report of visits, etc., during 1908.—Committee on Appointments.

From Hon. J. R. Stratton, M.P., re bridge for Indians at Chemong.—Roads and Bridges Committee.

On motion of Messrs. Russell and Brown, the reports of the Public School Inspectors were read and referred to the Committee on Schools.

The Council then adjourned.

The afternoon was spent mostly in Committee work.

HOW TO CURE A HEADACHE

To attempt to cure a headache by dosing of "headache powder," is like trying to stop a leak in the roof by putting a pan under the dripping water. Chronic headaches are caused by poisoned blood. The blood is poisoned by tissue waste, undigested food and other impurities remaining too long in the system. These poisons are not promptly eliminated because of sick liver, bowels, skin or kidneys.

If the bowels do not move regularly—if there is pain in the back showing kidney trouble—if the skin is sallow or disfigured with pimples—it shows clearly what is causing the headaches.

"Fruit-a-tives" cure headaches because they cure the cause of headaches. "Fruit-a-tives" act directly on the three great eliminating organs—bowels, kidneys and skin. "Fruit-a-tives" keep the system free of poisons.

"Fruit-a-tives" come in two sizes—25c and 50c. If your dealer does not have them, write to Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

THE LOAD OF HIDES WERE WORTH $400

Bridgenorth Man Brought Record Load —Crows and Robins at the Village.

Examiner Special.

Bridgenorth, Jan. 27—Did you see the fog?

Weather decidedly mild.

Crows are quite plentiful at present.

Mr. S. Forsythe saw two robins on Thursday while working in the woods.

A heavy thunder storm passed over this section on Sunday morning about 9 o'clock.

John Pope was in Peterborough on Saturday on business.

Mr. Nathan Taylor is confined to his home through illness.

Mr. Ball is home from Squaw River for a few days.

Mr. Sandy Morrison has purchased a house and lot in the village and intends taking up housekeeping in the near future.

Mr. C. R. Keyes the local organizer for the C. O. O. F. who has spent the past ten days here in the interests of the local Court has met with great success, seven initiations being the result, which took place at a special meeting on Friday night, the 15th. Refreshments were served interspersed with songs, speeches, gramaphone selections, etc., and altogether a very enjoyable evening was spent, including the installation of officers which was conducted by Bro. Keyes. Over seventy members were present.

The division court case between Nicholls and Beatty which came up for its final hearing on Friday before Judge Weller at the Council chamber, was thrown out.

The school board this year is composed of Messrs. R. C. Heard, D. H. Weed, and J. A. Jobe, with Mr. Jobe as chairman. No doubt he will have his hands full during the present year as a number of improvements are contemplated at the present time.

Sealed tenders were asked for to supply ten cords of two foot hard wood to be delivered on or before the first of March.

Mr Mann Jr. had the lowest tender therefore was awarded the contract. This no doubt will make extra work for the chairman of the board as he has to help pile the wood and measure it up.

Mr. Thos Mann took a load of hides to Peterborough last week for Jopling Bros., butchers which contained four tons and brought something over four hundred dollars.

Mr. and Mrs. T. N. D. Kelly, who have been in New York and Boston on their wedding trip, have returned home and are at present occupying their beautiful new home on the corner of Front and Bay streets.

Mr. A. Walker, formerly of Yelland's Carriage Works, Peterborough who has leased Mr. Heard's shop in the village, is doing a land office business. He finds it impossible to attend to the rush himself and no doubt will have to get an apprentice in the near future.

Throughout Ontario on Christmas Day 375 marriage licenses were issued; a record number indeed.

A lady in the village who was doing a little house cleaning last week came across a pin cushion which looked as if it had survived its usefulness but before consigning it to the flames she poked around among its inwards" a little, just to see if any needles were hidden there. She found 103 needles in the cushion which was 17 years old.

APPLICATION TO PARLIAMENT.

An Application will be made to the Legislative Assembly of the Province of Ontario at its next session, by the Peterborough Radial Railway Company, for an Act extending the times for the completion of those sections of the Company's Railway not yet under construction.

BIRTHS.

ROME — At 463 Bolivar street, on Friday, January 22nd, 1909, the wife of Mr. John Rome, of a son.

OLD PEOPLE!

Need Vinol because it contains the very elements needed to rebuild wasting tissues and replace weakness with strength. It fortifies the system against colds, and thus prevents pneumonia.

This is because Vinol contains iron and all of the medicinal body-building elements of Cod Liver Oil, taken from fresh cods' livers—but no oil. Vinol is not a patent medicine. Everything it contains is named on bottle.

POOR BLOOD
Elderly people feel the cold keenly, because their blood is thin, sluggish and watery. Vinol is the ideal blood tonic and strength maker. It creates a hearty appetite, promotes digestion, purifies and enriches the blood and invigorates the entire body.

COUGHS AND COLDS
Elderly people are very susceptible to coughs and colds, which so often develop pneumonia. Don't lose time experimenting with other remedies when we guarantee Vinol to cure. Vinol has carried many an old person through a hard winter without a cold or cough.

76 YEARS OLD
"The grand-niece of Alexander Hamilton says:—"I am 76 years old, have a hearty appetite, sleep soundly, and feel active and well. Thanks to Vinol, which is the finest tonic and strength creator I ever used. Vinol is a God send to old people."

80 YEARS OLD
"I was so feeble I had to be wheeled about in an invalid's chair, and took cold at the slightest cause. Vinol built up my strength so I could walk a quarter of a mile. I am delighted." — MRS. M. BLOOM, Lewistown, Pa.

PUGSLEY DENIES THE ALLEGATIONS

Minister Tells of Mayes-McAvity Dredging Contract.

ANSWERS HIS DETRACTORS

Dr. Reid of Grenville Resumes Old Role of Scandal Hunter and Raises Debate on Ante-Election Canard—Dr. Sproule Asks Question Which He Is Forced to Withdraw — Marconi Stations.

Ottawa, Jan. 28.—Dr. Reid of Grenville has commenced again on his work of lengthening the session. Yesterday in the Commons he started on the trail of another imaginary scandal and succeeded in rousing a debate on the Mayes dredging contract.

The Liberals, however, had no reason to regret the discussion, if for no other reason than that it afforded Hon. Mr. Pugsley an opportunity to reply to his detractors, of which he effectively availed himself. In meeting the attack of the Opposition he was ably supported by Mr. Hugh Guthrie, who in a convincing speech moved as an amendment that the conditions embodie din the regulation passed by the Government provided a proper safeguard of the public interest.

The question came up on a resolution moved by Dr. Reid declaring that tenders should be placed in safe custody under seal, so as to prevent any possibility or suspicion of tampering, and should be opened in public in the presence of at least three officials of the Deparment, and that persons tendering should be at liberty to attend.

Hon. William Pugsley pointed out that it would be impossible, in some cases, for a Minister or Deputy Minister to be present. Dr. Reid had failed to make a case that the public were not well satisfied that everything was O.K.

"Does the Minister mean to say," asked Dr. Sproule, "that there was no collusion in respect to the alteration of the tender in which the price was changed from 50 cents to 55 cents and a rake-off went to Mr. McAvity?"

Dr. Pugsley jumped to his feet.

"There was no alteration of the tender referred to," he said. "There appeared in St. John what purported to be a solemn declaration, read by Mr. Hazen, and which contained statements that were absolutely false."

Mr. Pugsley had asked Mr. Hazen to have the declaration filed, but he said he returned it to Mr. Mayes, who refused to produce it.

"Does the hon. member meant to say that I advised changing the tender?" asked Dr. Pugsley.

Dr. Sproule withdrew. But was it not the fact that the information proceeded from the only authority that had the power to grant the contract?

Dr. Pugsley again denied the allegations. So far as he knew, no tender had been changed from 50 to 55 cents. Only two tenders had been received and the lowest, at 55 cents, was the successful one.

"Will the Minister not say that the man who tendered at 50 cents got the work at 55 cents?", asked Mr. Lancaster.

"He refers to two different tenders," retorted Dr. Pugsley. "In answer to advertisement two tenders were received, one at 55 cents and another at $1.10 or thereabouts."

"Wasn't it the same work for which a tender for 50 cents had been received?" asked Mr. Lancaster.

"I think it was," said Dr. Pugsley.

"Then who gave the advice that the figure be changed?" Dr. Sproule persisted.

"I gave no such advice," corrected Mr. Pugsley.

O. S. Crockett (York, N.B.): Does he say that he did not send Mayes to McAvity and that McAvity advised Mayes to raise the price?"

Mr. Pugsley: "That is an entirely different matter."

Mr. Foster read portions of the Mayes affidavit, according to which McAvity received $35,000 of public money for no other return than his influence to secure a higher price for work than the contractor was satisfied to do it for. Yet on Tuesday the Minister said the Government was not aware that it had any claim for the return of the money.

Mr. Pugsley challenged his opponents to point to any wrong-doing in his Department in connection with the passing of tenders. It was a mistake to say that Conservatives would not tender for Government work. The records of the Department proved this.

The allegation that he had, while a Minister, accepted $2,000 from a contractor was the most infamous charge ever brought against a public man.

The requirement that tenderers should have a dredge in Canada forced the withdrawal of the Mayes' tender of 50 cents. The subsequent tender of 55 cents was 70 cents below the tender of Haney & Miller.

The Minister of Marine, in reply to a question, said the amount paid to March 31, 1907, for Marconi stations was $132,641 for construction and $67,556 for maintenance, and for 1907-08, for maintenance $56,232. There were 15 stations, handling 4,886 messages.

BURIAL OF THE LATE PRIMATE

Remains of "Arthur Toronto" Are Laid to Rest.

AN IMPRESSIVE CEREMONY

Chancel of St. Alban's Cathedral Is Too Small For Crowds Who Come to Pay Last Respects to Dead Primate of All Canada—St. Alban's Schoolboys Act as Guard of Honor Yesterday Afternoon.

Toronto, Jan. 28.—No more stately, more impressive nor yet simpler obsequies have ever been celebrated in Toronto than the ceremonial rites accompanying the interment yesterday of the remains of His Grace the late Most Reverend Metropolitan and Primate of Canada, Bishop of Toronto, Archbishop Arthur Sweatman, D.D., at St. Alban's Cathedral and St. James' cemetery.

All the bright morning the remains lay in state in the chancel of the cathedral of St. Alban the Martyr. Touches of purple drapery on the walls told that a prince of the church was being mourned. But white flowers on the altar and about the chancel were more in evidence.

At 10.30 the great concourse of mourners began to file through the cathedral, passing the purple draped copper casket in the middle aisle near the chancel steps. The crowds grew to such a size that the chancel of the cathedral would scarcely hold them all.

The service was very simple and characterized by the solemn dignity that dwells in the association of long years, through which many of those present found it enriched by a wealth of memories. Nothing was added to the ordinary burial service but the processional hymn, "Love divine, each joy excelling." This was followed by Gounod's anthem, sung with fine pathos, "Come Unto Him."

Outside St. Alban's cathedral a vast concourse awaited the conclusion of the church service. As the procession bearing the casket emerged from the sacred edifice the deep silence was only broken by the solemn tolling of the cathedral bell. The sky was overcast and a chilling mist swept the streets, but the multitude stood as if spell-bound until the cortege moved slowly away to the cemetery.

Among the few flowers, few by request of the family and in accordance with the dead prelate's desire, was a wreath of orchids, palms and lilies of the valley from Earl and Countess Grey. Rupert's Land sent a wreath, and the boys of St. Alban's school a cross with the school motto: "Macte virtute puer," (increase the manliness of the boy).

To Cancel Fishing Leases.

Ottawa, Jan. 28.—It is announced that the Minister of Marine is taking steps to cancel three fishing leases which there has been a good deal of discussion.

They are the lease of F. H. Markey of Montreal of fishing privileges granted 21 years from 1904 for the Nelson, Hayes and Pidgeon rivers and in Great Slave Lake; J. Mackenzie, a nine-year lease of the fishing of Lake Athabasca and Lesser Slave Lake; Archibald McNee, a 21-year lease of the fishing rights of James Bay.

Stowaways In Lifeboat.

Hoboken, N.J., Jan. 28.—Recorder McGovern listened to a remarkable stowaway story yesterday, when three young Germans were arraigned before him. They had finished their trip across the ocean in a lifeboat, swinging on its davits amidships on the starboard side of the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse, Tuesday night, and were waiting to escape when discovered.

Each lifeboat is provided with a keg of water and a supply of sea biscuit, and on these supplies the stowaways subsisted comfortably.

Lutherans' School Campaign.

Berlin, Ont., Jan. 28.—The Lutheran conference, in session here, moved yesterday toward getting wider educational liberties for Lutheran children. A committee, including Valentine Stock, M.P., has charge of the campaign.

This action is the result of an arraignment of children of a local Lutheran parishioner in the Police Court for infringement of the school regulations by attending St. Paul's Lutheran Confirmation School in public school hours.

Photographing Aileen.

By LITTELL McCLUNG.

Copyrighted, 1908, by American Literary Press.

Marvin Morton, with some little experience at snapshotting, as an incentive, decided to go in for amateur photography on a more extensive scale. Straightway he went to a fashionable dealer and bought an expensive camera, with plate holder attachment.

"I'll call by for it tomorrow morning," he told the clerk. "Please be sure to have a couple of plates in the holder, for I want to take some pictures if the weather is fine."

"I'll have the plates put in and everything ready for you, sir," the salesman replied.

Then Marvin began to think of what he should most like to snap with his new camera. There were the new library, the new custom house, the new art gallery. But somehow or other none of these marble structures appealed to him.

"There's nothing like a human subject when it comes to photography," he mused. The next thought followed naturally. "And the best of human subjects is a pretty girl in a pretty gown!"

A moment later he was talking over the telephone.

"Hello, Aileen! I've just bought a new camera," he announced.

"Indeed, Marvin, that's interesting," came back over the wire. "And what are you going to do with it?"

"Take some pictures of Aileen if she'll let me," he replied.

"Oh, that will be splendid!" she exclaimed. "And when are you going to take them?"

"Tomorrow morning if you say so."

"All right. I've got nothing on hand for tomorrow morning," she answered. "Where shall we go?"

"Out into the park."

"Then I'll don a frock that will be in accord with the setting," she laughed.

Aileen was as good as her word, for when Marvin stopped for her next morning, camera in hand, she wore the smartest blue suit imaginable, almost matching the clear autumn sky.

"Oh, I know we will have a nice little expedition," she ventured. "And I'm to have my picture taken for—why, let me see—for the first time since early spring. Let me get a peep at your new camera. It's a beauty, isn't it?"

"Yes," he replied. "It is supposed to do extra fine work. You see, I am somewhat of a novice, and the camera has to be a good one for me. This one has a holder for plates at the back. I've never used plates before, but the clerk filled up the holder for me, and I'm going to try them this morning."

Soon they were strolling down one of the velvety slopes of the park. The leaves were falling from the larger trees, but the occasional bushes were as green as in springtime.

They passed a lake, and presently they came into a little glen that ran right up against a hillside.

"This ought to be a fine place for the pictures," he suggested. "Suppose you strike a pose—anything you like."

"Well, how's this, Sir Photographer?" she queried, putting her closed parasol back over her shoulder and holding it at both ends—as a huntsman sometimes carries his gun—and throwing her head back in a merry laugh.

"Very fetching," he commented, "but I believe that with the parasol up and a side view would be even more so. Try it, if you don't mind."

She turned slightly, opened the parasol and held it back over her shoulder with one hand. Her dainty head was silhouetted against the turquoise sky, for she was standing on the slope several feet above him.

"This one's a stunner!" he declared, shifting his position. Then he drew out of the plate holder the thin little board protecting the first plate, and, click, it was over.

"How did I look?" she questioned, with an alluring glance.

"How did you look?" he repeated. "Why, you were—but please don't ask me such questions, for the first thing you know I'll be telling you more complimentary things than would be good for you—or me either!"

"Oh, very well," she laughed, shrugging her shoulders prettily. "Now what am I to do for picture No. 2?"

"Let's have this one sitting down," he requested.

She assented by seating herself on the slope and gazing at him seriously with her chin poised on her dainty little fist.

"Don't look so solemn," he protested. "You're not posing as a tragedy queen!"

"Well, then, how's this?" she asked, resting her chin between both hands and smiling radiantly.

He suppressed a reply and concentrated his attention on catching that bewitching, tantalizing smile.

"I've surely got it!" he thought as he withdrew the second plate protector.

"That was prettier than the other if comparisons are not distasteful," he opined. "Now if you will"—

But of a sudden something caused him to rivet his glance on the plate holder side of the kodak. Then he pulled out one of the thin protectors and peered more closely at the box-like arrangement. With a look of disgust he shook the camera savagely.

"Well, I am a prize goose!" he muttered.

"Why, what's the trouble, Marvin?" she questioned, coming up close and looking at the camera

"What's the trouble?" he echoed "There's trouble a-plenty. All your posing has been for naught. There's not a single solitary plate in this blooming thing! Look at it!"

"Oh, how funny!" she gurgled.

"How did it happen?"

"It happened because that forgetful clerk failed to put in the plates after solemnly assuring me that he would!" he answered. "Well, there's nothing to do but come out here again some time. Let's go over and sit down under that big tree and chat awhile and try to laugh off this fiasco."

She readily agreed, and they sat down on a rustic bench and commented on their failure.

"Just to think those poses had to be lost on an unappreciative camera!" she complained, with a little pout.

"Yes, it was a pity," he agreed. "But, after all, they weren't lost on an unappreciative photographer!"

"Really, weren't they?" And her eyes flashed pleasurable surprise.

"I should say not," he affirmed earnestly, his voice unsteady. "For a long time I shall remember them, I think."

She was silent as she looked at him questioningly.

"Aileen," he continued, his tone lower, "don't you know that somewhere in my mind there is a camera that always has plates ready for use? With it I have taken a thousand pictures of you, Aileen, in all your moods. Often, day and night, I go over this lovely picture gallery of my memory—one that all the money on earth could not buy!

"Some of the portraits are blurred a little, but the rest are as bright as when they first appeared. Somehow I think none of them will ever fade entirely. Many show you laughing and happy. Others depict you smiling and wistful. Some are vivacious, some demure, others coy and quaint, a few stormy and revengeful, but all are precious to me. One—must I tell you of that?—shows you with a young man in the moonlight. It's a beautiful gallery, my dear; the most beautiful, I am sure, in all the world!"

She was gazing at him now with a new look in her eyes—the look of tender appeal. Her hand rested gently on his arm.

"Marvin, dear boy," she whispered, "I do so hope your picture gallery will always be bright; that none of the pictures will ever fade away."

"Do you really, dear?" he asked earnestly.

"Yes, very, very much," she answered.

"Then there's one sure way of having them always clear and bright," he said.

"How is that?" she asked, with an encouraging smile.

"By having the subject always present," he declared, the twinkle returning to his eyes. "Is she willing?"

"With you as photographer, Marvin? Yes. She's been willing for quite a long time!"

"After all," he commented as they walked homeward, "this picture taking expedition without plates has been the most successful of my whole life."

Whether you have been selling papers in the past or not makes no difference.

Canvass those who are not now taking the Examiner. They will always read it if you get them started.

No boy has any advantage over any other.

It's all in the hustle.

PARENTS

Who would like to encourage their boys to earn sufficient pocket money to keep them, are urged to give them a start with a few cents for their first lot of papers. There are many young men now holding good positions who made their first money by selling the Evening Examiner. Any boy can start at any time, but he should start on Monday, February 1st, with the rest and give no handicap. Any further information required, regarding this competition, will be given at the office of the Examiner.

NOW, BOYS AND GIRLS, GET BUSY!

AN IMPORTANT CONDITION—In order that protection may be given to each boy who is entered in this competition it is a condition that no one will secure a prize who does not legitimately earn it. If a boy applies for a weekly prize who has not bought the papers for his own use and sale it will be turned over to the boy who has actually won it. :-: :-: :-: -:- :-:

THE MORNING TUB.

Wonders Wrought Daily Both For Nerves and Complexion.

Nothing could be more beneficial to nerves and complexion than a daily tub, and, indeed, the best bred women consider it an essential to good grooming. But others—and they number astoundingly high—declare they cannot stand either a warm or cold bath daily. They claim it weakens them and makes them catch cold easily. Now, the whole trouble is probably that they do not regulate the temperature of the water to suit their individual systems. Hot baths are weakening, 'tis true, in the long run, and cold baths many women cannot stand. But there are many degrees of tepidity and warmth for those who are not very robust.

It is impossible to lay down any rule as to the precise point of heat to which the tub may be brought, because what would be warm to one person would be chilly to another, the degree of heat depending upon the individual's general physical condition. The nearest one can come to specific instruction is to state that the bath should impart a gentle feeling of warmth as soon as the water touches the body, but that it must not be hot.

This getting into water that is languorously hot is to be commended only when trying to break up a cold or to throw the body into a state of perspiration. There is no reaction from it—indeed, such water is debilitating in effect—and immediately after taking such a tub a person must go to bed. Even resting will not be sufficient, and one would probably waken from a nap feeling weak and languid after a very hot tub.

Under no circumstances should a person remain longer than fifteen minutes in a tub, and ten minutes is enough. This, of course, is in warm water. In cold one would not stay longer than two or three minutes. When in the water use a bath brush. It has excellent cleansing qualities, as it gives surface stimulation if gently rubbed on the skin. A woman who has once used a bath brush will not enjoy her tub without using one.

The tub is best indulged in late in the afternoon, lying down for ten minutes or longer afterward. This is not a good hour for a busy woman, however, and so she will get the most benefit by taking her bath at night just before going to bed.

At times when a bath is impossible a dry rub is excellent. To give it the whole body should be briskly frictioned with a coarse bath towel, stimulating the circulation and preventing the accumulation of dried skin.

A daily morning cold sponge, while it should be taken in addition to rather than instead of the tepid tub, is very stimulating to those who can stand it, and more women could stand it if they tried it in a warm room.

TOWEL BAR'S CAPACITY.

Has Been Increased by a Trifling Change in Its Design.

The metal towel bar, which is to be seen in every properly furnished bathroom, is a popular piece of furnishing, as attested by its general use. Up to very recently it has consisted of a straight bar of metal or glass held at a convenient height above the tub by supports secured in the wall. The storage capacity of this article has been greatly increased by a slight change in its design, as shown by the accompanying cut. This feature is particularly desirable from the fact that it permits of fresh towels being placed on the rear, while the towels in use may hang from the front.

THE CABIN BOY.

He Has Become Practically a Thing of the Past.

An old sea captain who brought his ship into port recently after a long voyage from the east was talking about the changed conditions in the merchant marine since he entered it fifty years ago.

"I was thinking particularly," he said, "of how the cabin boy has completely disappeared, or at least how extremely rare he is now. I went to sea when I was twelve years old and got in full share of the many duties and few pleasures that belonged to the job I took. I waited on the officers, or the passengers if we had any, helped the steward in the pantry and even had to assist 'cookie' despite the chronic kicking I put up over that imposition. Besides all those things, of course, the crew made me run errands for them, and everybody in general seemed to regard 'the boy' as the scapegoat for anything that went wrong. All new cabin boys were unmercifully laughed at if they were either homesick or seasick, and there were various practical jokes which had to be tried on them by the seamen. I remember well how I was told the first day I came aboard never to throw anything to windward except hot water and ashes and how I was green enough to follow these orders implicitly. The sight of my red and streaming eyes set the crew into roars of laughter.

"Those times are gone. There's no place at sea for any one but an able-bodied man now. Even the 'mess boys,' so called on the liners and in the navy, are all men. The modern changes in the build of vessels have left no work fit for a boy, and I don't believe you could find one now unless on some very small craft."

Power of Habit Strong.

"The habit of looking under the bed for burglars," the young woman said, "is something that folks laugh at, but I have never been able to get myself out of it. I never feel perfectly comfortable unless I look, no matter where I happen to be. To my mind there isn't any place except a safe deposit vault burglars are unlikely to be. In fact, the habit is so strongly ingrained in me that one night when I was staying in a small country hotel, where there was nothing but a folding bed in the room, I took it down and then looked under it before I got into bed. That's a fact. I laughed at myself the minute after."

Suffragists Heckled.

Miss Sylvia Pankhurst, the suffragist, was to have addressed a meeting in the Public Hall, Ipswich, England, some time ago, but utterly failed to obtain a hearing. She was greeted with a derisive song, set to the tune of "Good-bye, Dolly Gray," advising her to return to Holloway, and directly she rose to speak she was greeted with the clanging of bells, the noise of rattles, and whistling.

Finally, tubes of foul-smelling chemicals were emptied, and a large number of those occupying reserved seats were compelled to leave the hall. Following the singing of a special song written for the occasion there was continued shouting of "Sit down" to the speaker.

The disturbance became violently uproarious, and the efforts of the stewards to eject a few of the interrupters only served to create further tumult, so that free fights were of constant occurrence. Seats were overturned and smashed, and women fainted.

CALLED DOWN.

By DOUGLAS Z. DOTY.

By birth a gentleman, by force of circumstances a jack of all trades, by profession a raconteur.

Such was my record when I arrived in England, whither the fame of my stories had preceded me. Almost directly I received a letter from Lord Brower of Tentowers castle, in Surrey, requesting me to come down to his place, as he was entertaining a large house party.

The castle, founded as a monastery, was a most romantic pile, representing in its various towers and wings a succession of architectural periods. Its maze of winding corridors and hidden stairways suggested mystery and invited exploration.

My initial appearance before Lord Brower's guests was to be at dinner, and I spent the last moments before leaving my apartment in reading over the list of topics I had jotted down for use during the evening. A raconteur is expected to fill in every lull, every dull moment. Suddenly there fell upon the quiet of my room these significant words:

"We must run it up to £5,000 tonight! Do you hear? We must!"

I stared around the room. It seemed as if the sound had come through some dull tapestry in a small alcove. Perhaps the tapestry covered a secret door. But there was no time to investigate. A resplendent footman was waiting to conduct me to Lord Brower's presence.

An interesting lot they were gathered around the dinner table of Tentowers castle that night—that is, they were interesting to me as types for study. As conversationalists they were failures, for the only subjects on which they talked fluently were cards and horseflesh.

I selected my stories accordingly. The guests were apparently familiar with the customs of Monte Carlo, but I told them tales of our own wild west, of games of faro and poker that fairly made them gasp, and after dinner I must teach them our national game of chance.

Sitting opposite me at table was a broad shouldered, dark man, whose eyes, black and set rather close together, never left my face. His lips were thin and bloodless, and his long, rather aquiline nose had a cruel curve about the nostrils. But what most attracted my attention was his odd trick of drumming almost constantly with his right hand, now on the table, now on the arm of his chair and now on his square chin. The instant he spoke I recognized the voice back of the tapestry in my room. His name was Captain Marchand.

His wife sat at my right, a handsome woman, with a profusion of soft brown hair and beautiful blue eyes, which, I learned in a short time, were playing havoc with the mental peace of a young fellow named Chadwick, who was plainly jealous of every smile the lady wasted on me. He was a handsome, boyish looking fellow, one of those chaps who imagine themselves violently in love with every pretty face they meet.

Mrs. Marchand seemed to have caught her husband's peculiar trick of beating that devilish tattoo with her fingers. It fairly got my nerves on edge, but no one else at the table appeared to notice it. I caught myself recalling stories of telegraph operators who continued their work automatically after office hours, but surely these two guests of an English aristocrat knew nothing of a trade. In the course of my eventful and uncertain life I had been an operator for a short period.

After the ladies had withdrawn I told my choicest stag stories, to which the men drank freely, and by the time we rose to enter the drawing room it can be truthfully said that Captain Marchand and myself were the only men of the party who were thoroughly sober.

During the next hour I was kept busy explaining the intricacies of poker, after which I watched the guests yield to the fascination of the game. Soon little piles of sovereigns and notes appeared and disappeared at the various tables. Excitement grew apace, and the very faces of the players were transformed. The greed of gain was upon them. It was my first glimpse of the English aristocrat at his private gaming table.

Finally interest centered at the table where Marchand and young Chadwick held forth alone. At the beginning Chadwick had won, and with a triumphant gesture he would haul in his little pile of gold. The liquor had brought a sparkle to his eye and daring to his tongue, for he kept Mrs. Marchand close at his side, declaring her to be his mascot and casting such languishing glances into her perfect blue eyes that I wondered at Captain Marchand's calmness. When Chadwick won she clapped her hands in girlish glee, and once or twice I caught a cynical smile on Marchand's lips. Clearly her presence was going to Chadwick's head. He played recklessly.

"I'll make it £4,000!" exclaimed the captain.

A hush fell on the room. Then rose handsome Mrs. Marchand's clear, sweet voice:

"How exciting! Oh, Mr. Chadwick, do go him one better! Do make it £5,000!"

The other guests rose and gathered round the table. Lord Brower stood on the hearth rug, glancing toward the group with troubled eyes. I heard him say under his breath:

"The lad can't afford to lose that amount."

I joined the spectators just as Chadwick called for another card. Then I felt a thrill pass over me. The blood rushed to my face, and instinctively I clinched my fist.

Mrs. Marchand was gently tapping the back of Chadwick's chair, but it was no longer the tattoo of an absent-minded individual. Each tap meant something. She was telegraphing Chadwick's hand to her husband!

My first impulse was to denounce them then and there, but what was the word of a hired entertainer against that of distinguished guests, people of social standing, as any of Lord Brower's friends must be? Then came the inspiration. With something of the captain's cynical smile, I, too, commenced to drum on the back of a chair, and this was what reached the startled couple:

"You—are—caught!"

The captain turned rigid as he grasped the arms of his chair, and for a single instant his eyes, expressing rage, hate and fear, met mine. I smiled grimly, enjoying the situation. The coup had a different effect on Mrs. Marchand. She fainted away, at which the captain's composure returned. He sprang to her rescue, and the table was overturned.

When Mrs. Marchand recovered the guests clamored for the finish of the game, but Marchand shook his head, perhaps because I drummed a rhythmic warning, "Don't play!"

I sat in my room an hour later, cogitating whether I should inform Lord Brower that he was entertaining a pair of clever tricksters, when a servant brought me a message from Marchand asking an interview in his room. I found him waiting for me with an ugly scowl on his face, but his wife, pale and with her hair in artistic disarray, was charming in her new role of beauty in distress.

Marchand came directly to the point.

"Well, what do you intend to do?"

"Nothing," I replied nonchalantly. "It is your play. If you and your charming wife are suddenly summoned to London tomorrow the matter ends. Otherwise I think Lord Brower"—

I shrugged my shoulders significantly.

"And, by the way, it might be just as well if you refunded to Chadwick the money you've won since he's been playing with you."

"And then?"

Madam's hands were working nervously.

"And then I shall have one more good after dinner story—to tell when I return to America; that is all. Lord Brower shall never know."

"You are very generous," replied the lady, with tears in her eyes. "You can have no idea to what straits we, my husband and I, have been driven." She was playing her part well. "We were raised to love the good things of life. Both thought the other had money, and both have made the best of a bad bargain. We have lived upon the losses of our aristocratic friends until we met you, and now"—

With a well simulated sob she bowed her head among the pillows. Captain Marchand rose and opened the door. His politeness was elaborate.

"You will pardon Mrs. Marchand's lack of self control. As you say, I think a trip to London is what she needs, what we both need. Good night, my dear sir."

I stepped backward toward the door which he held open, my glance, which I know must have held some amusement at the clever acting of his wife, still fixed on the weeping lady. Then suddenly I felt myself going down, down. I clutched at space, and from above me came a mocking laugh, then a shock, a blinding light in my eyes and—blackness!

When I woke dim rays of light penetrated into a slimy cellar where I lay, practically a prisoner, for one leg was broken and I was bruised from head to foot. Rats ran along the ledges in the masonry, and bats hung from the rafters above.

It must have been hours before help came to me, but I lost all reckoning of time. When at last I was carried to my room and medical aid was summoned I learned from Lord Brower that my being alive was nothing short of a miracle. I had fallen three flights into a stone dungeon, one of the numerous pitfalls which abounded in this ancient pile. The captain had skillfully guided me to the secret door, which was one of his characteristic discoveries.

Lord Brower heard with amazement my tale of their treachery and trickery, but the scandal never became public. British pride stepped in at this point, the deeply annoyed master of Tentowers making ample reparation for my loss of time and suffering. And the only reason for telling of the story is that during my recent trip to London I recognized in one of the reigning stage beauties Mrs. Captain Marchand, who once telegraphed a poker hand to her fellow trickster at Tentowers castle.

"Christmas" and Christmas Island.

The first memorable experience of Admiral Sir William May, who next March will succeed Lord Charles Beresford in command of the Channel Fleet, was with the famous Arctic expedition of 1875-6. He entered the navy in 1863, became a lieutenant in 1871, commander in 1881, captain 1887, rear-admiral 1901, vice-admiral 1905. He was known to many by the nickname of "Christmas," and the origin of the appellation is worth telling. In 1868, he was in command of the Imperieuse on the China station. It was an ambition of Sir William's to add to the territorial possessions of the British Empire, and the opportunity seemed to offer itself in the form of a little desolate speck of land known as Christmas Island. Sir William made several representations to the Admiralty, and at length he was authorized to annex the land, which he did by going on shore and hoisting the British flag. Sir William, who has invented improvements in the discharge of torpedoes, commanded the naval contingent in the Diamond Jubilee procession, and was given the Red Eagle for his services in attendance on the Kaiser during his visit to England nine years ago. Sir William is 59 years of age, and married in 1878.

Mounted Nurses.

Central London was treated to an attractive spectacle the other day when a fine body of uniformed Amazons came cantering down from Regents' Park along Oxford street and Holborn toward the city. They were not militant Suffragettes in a new guise, but a section of the Girls' First Aid Nursing Yeomanry Corps. This was the first time they showed themselves to the public, and their object was to pay an official visit to the big St. Bartholomew Hospital at the invitation of the hospital staff. The girls wore smart, tight-fitting scarlet tunics, with white facings, skirts of blue serge braided with white, flat military caps of scarlet and white, riding boots and gauntlets. They were all exceedingly well horsed, and rode with the erect, immovable seat of the trained cavalryman. They trotted into the square of the hospital, reined up in line that would have done credit to a crack cavalry corps, and at command leaped lightly to the ground. The tour of inspection over, the nursing troopers sprang gracefully into their saddles, and complacently received the plaudits of an admiring crowd.

Monument to Wilde.

Twenty thousand pounds have been given for the erection of a monument to Oscar Wilde in Pere la Chaise cemetery, Paris, by a donor who desires to remain anonymous. An announcement to this effect was made at the recent complimentary dinner at the Ritz Hotel to Robert Ross in recognition of his publication of Wilde's works in the face of considerable difficulty owing to the author's estate being in bankruptcy. The large company present included Sir Martin Conway, the Duchess of Sutherland, Lord Howard De Walden, who is generally supposed to be the anonymous donor of the monument; Edmund Gosse, William Archer and H. G. Wells.

Pensions to Posts.

The British Government grants $500 a year each to John Davidson and William Watson in consideration of the merit of their poetical works. To Henry Austin Dobson is granted $1,250 per annum "in recognition of his distinguished literary attainments and of his eminence as a poet." Alfred Austin receives as poet laureate $1,000 a year.

Monument to Captain Cook.

The executive committee of the British Empire League of London, England, has decided to promote a scheme for erecting in London a memorial to Captain Cook, the explorer.

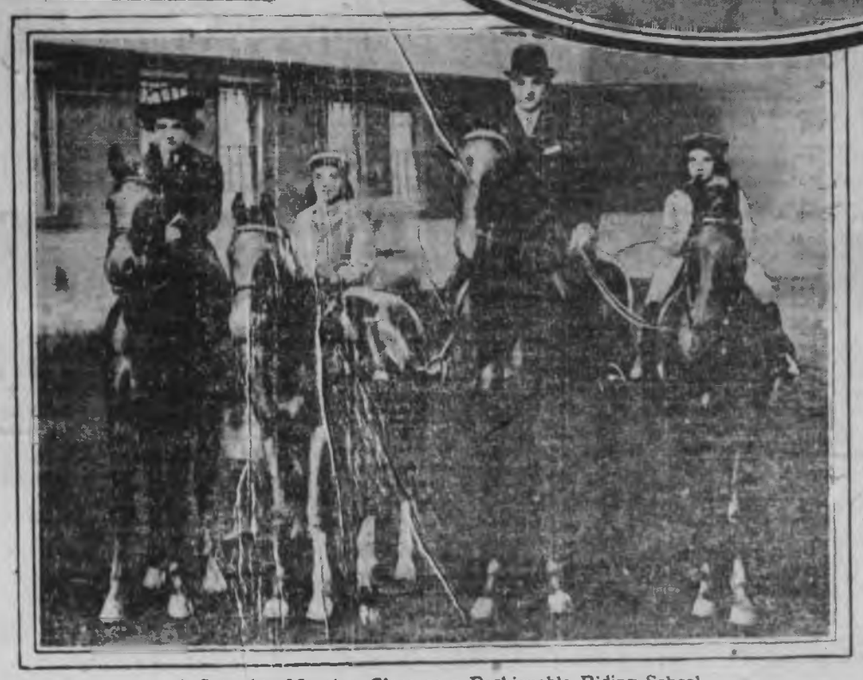
INDOOR EQUESTRIANISM
How the Young Girl Is Taught to Ride

Waiting on the Tan Bark for the Instructor.

A Clever Tandem Rider



A Saturday Morning Class at a Fashionable Riding School

HARDLY does the daughter of wealthy and fashionable parents master the art of speech and locomotion before she is placed in the saddle and taught to ride. There is nothing that counts so vitally in the equestrian accomplishment as an early start, and years of association with horse and saddle later on never quite balance with the training received while the pupil is almost too youthful and small to sit astride a pony. One of the best English horsewomen of this generation owes her perfect seat and mastery of horses to this juvenile training. Her father followed the hounds and often took his little daughter for a preliminary canter over the turf before the exciting day's sport began. She sat across saddle in front of her father and held the reins in her tiny hands while he gripped them more firmly just behind hers and guided the animal. But to the child it was real riding and her youthful initiation into the art of handling a mount always stood her in good stead, and she is now considered one of the best, if not the very best, horsewomen that ride to hounds. Of course she might have become an excellent rider even if she had started in the more usual way and at a much later period, but she recommends an early training for both girls and boys.

CROSS country riding is not offered to every girl, but there is always the riding academy to which to go, where there are competent instructors to look after the youngest pupils as well as the older ones. Several academies are at the disposal of the New York young girl riders. Every possible convenience is arranged for their lessons and every facility offered to make them masters of the horse. The equestrian education of the young girl is managed with the most careful attention to details and with a course of lessons any of them can learn to ride fairly well unless she be hopelessly stupid and out of sympathy with horses.

Saturday mornings are usually given up to the instruction of children and young girls. During the winter months, when outdoor sports are practically out of the question, the riding academies are well patronized. This form of exercise is one of the best that can be followed, and there is always a great deal of pleasure in taking a brisk canter around the ring or a tour of the Park when the pupil has reached that point in the accomplishment where outdoor work is permitted. So many other lessons and interests divide the time of the future society belle that she does not have all the riding she would like during the winter months.

THE morning riding classes begin at nine. Ten o'clock is, however, the fashionable hour, and from then on till noon the street in front of a well patronized academy is lined with smart looking automobiles and carriages. When the young pupil is not accompanied to the lesson by a member of the family she is placed in the care of a maid, whose duty it is to report progress in lessons, as well as to look after the girl's belongings while she is occupied with her instructor. There are rooms provided with lockers where riding clothes can be kept, if liked, but the majority of the pupils prefer to wear their riding habits to the academy, with a long, loose coat as a covering. This can be left in charge of the maid while in the ring and donned again as soon as the driver has dismounted.

The musical and fancy dress rides are a feature of the season's entertainment and are greatly enjoyed by the participants. On Saturday mornings there is always music for the young girls when they are taking their lessons. The fancy dress events are, however, arranged for the older set and take place in the evening. The tanbark ring presents a brilliant and unique picture with the couples and fours cantering by, horses and riders in gay apparel and festive accoutrements.

FANCY riding of another kind is taught to nearly all young girls who expect to devote a good deal of their time later on to this outdoor sport. At the Durland Riding Academy several of the girls who have become fairly expert in the saddle are learning to ride tandem, a rather difficult feat and one which requires a driver's as well as a rider's skill. As one of the instructors at the academy explained, "Tandem riding is really more for exhibition than anything else. Young girls learn to handle the two horses quite easily if their training is begun early enough. They must know how to drive, and if they are already taking lessons in handling a pair of horses or a four in hand then the combination of driving and riding is greatly simplified.

"The leader is driven in practically the same way as when the driver occupies the box seat of a cart instead of a saddle, but the one who handles the reins has the added difficulty of managing a somewhat rather unsteady and uncertain mount. Even horses that are used to being driven and ridden tandem at times grow restive, nervous and unmanageable, especially when they are taken out of the ring. Country roads are best for this fancy riding, but the pupil is first taught the art of tandem riding here in the ring. During the winter she is ready for the more important and enjoyable country variation, where there is less to distract the pair.

"We often let our older pupils drive a pair of horses while riding a third, the team being managed in the same way as a regular tandem. Of course it requires a much firmer hand and more skill to handle the pair from the saddle, but girls and women who are fond of exciting and daring sport make wonderful progress with a tandem. The horses are bridled and fitted just as they are for driving, but the reins of the leader pass under the breastplate and then through the terret of the tandem saddle, from which point they go on through the throat latch of the saddle horse. Often the reins are white or light colored, the effect of the light bands being considered smarter than dark reins. In holding the reins pupils are taught to grasp those of the saddle horse in the left hand with the reins passing over the second finger and the reins of the leader over the first finger. This arrangement leaves the right hand free to hold the whip, which is always a long one and preferably of the bow kind. The reins are grasped in the hand before mounting, and they should be manipulated with such exactness that it will not be necessary to alter them a fraction of an inch after mounting. This trick is one of the first things a pupil learns when taking driving lessons and when managing a four in hand. It is practically the same in fancy riding where more than one horse is used.

"THE rule to follow is to keep the saddle horse ever in mind and to handle him so that his gait corresponds perfectly with that of the leader. The latter must be left more or less to his own fancy, and it is this art of harmonizing the two which makes tandem riding one of the most absorbing as well as exhilarating of sports. The reins are used to control the leader, while the saddle horse is kept in hand by guiding him with the reins and the heel.

"I instruct my pupils to use their left heel as a spur. The slightest pressure against the animal's side is sufficient to guide a high spirited horse. Of course the degree of pressure needed depends on the sensitiveness of the horse. Some require much more severe handling than others, and this is one of the first points for the novice to understand. The horse can be controlled practically by this heel pressure.

"Beginners are apt to look and feel awkward, so I tell them at the start that they must imagine that the reins are attached to the horse's front hoofs and with each drawing of a rein that foot is lifted and the horse guided in the desired direction. As soon as the rider learns this fundamental principle of mastering a horse she will find the rest comparatively easy. Some will acquire a good seat from the start, while others never develop into perfect horsewomen, but much can be accomplished by thorough and regular practice either in the ring or elsewhere.

"AS to the advantages of cross saddle position much can be said on both riding and the ordinary side saddle sides. Usually the youngest pupils start by mounting ponies saddled for riding astride. In the first place, very small girls are really unable to sit well on a side saddle. They can get a much better grip in the other fashion and they seem to take to it more naturally. When older they may abandon the astride fashion altogether or reserve it for country and hard riding. There are not so many devotees of the cross saddle seen in the city now as there used to be, but when you go to the country you will always find women and girls riding in that style. Those who do adopt the fashion prefer it to the side saddle, yet there are many expert horsewomen who have given both a fair trial and have gone back to the side saddle. Many women have told me that they find it difficult to get a good grip with the knees when riding astride, but when seated in a side saddle they feel perfectly secure.

"WHEN riding and driving tandem girls are always accompanied by a riding instructor. In fact, they seldom attempt this style of exhibition riding without being properly protected by a man who understands a tandem team. The ordinary groom may know about horses and harness, but he is apt to become confused and lose his head if the leader grows restive and tries to turn around while being driven. When this happens to the leader the rider is practically helpless, for there is no way of straightening out the restive horse unless he responds properly to the whip. An instructor knows just how to control the horse in his unusual harness and can quickly come to the relief of the disturbed pupil.

"As to habits for the indoor ring there is as great a variety of styles as could possibly be conceived, for very young girls sometimes wear ordinary dresses or they wear divided skirts or fitted cross saddle habits. The older ones choose the conventional costume which alters very little in style from year to year."

HAIR PERFUMING CAPS.

HAIR perfuming caps are among the newest toilet accessories of the young girl who likes to be quoted as exceptionally dainty. These caps are intended to be worn on the head for an hour or so during the day or evening, but never throughout the night, as they are apt to overheat the scalp and cause the hair to fall out. They are shaped precisely like an old fashioned dusting cap and are made by cutting out a huge circle, double shirring its edges and running a narrow elastic band between the rows of shirrings, so that the cap shall fit snugly about the hair line. The decorations consist of a three inch wide full ruffle and two huge rosettes of ribbon. The hair perfuming cap may be made of light or dark hued messaline, liberty satin, taffeta or thin cashmere and lined with white India silk, fine linon or allover muslin embroidery. Between the lining and the outside there is placed a heavily scented layer of cotton batting, which should be renewed from time to time.

PRACTICAL TALKS BY THE APRIL GRANDMOTHER

"SOME girls might have infinitely more attractive looking feet if they would take intelligent care of them," said the April Grandmother as she watched the pupils of a fashionable boarding school troop past her window. "To be sure, the feet cannot be reduced in size, but, like the waist, arms and legs, they can be moulded into lines of beauty, and every schoolgirl should devote plenty of time and a generous share of her allowance to their dressing if she wishes them to look small and shapely. In the first place the stockings should be carefully selected and fit perfectly. Hosiery that is too small for the feet will cause bunions too large to be endurable and stockings that are too long will, by forming creases, play havoc with the nerves and muscles of a pair of tender feet.

"Unless the feet are well cared for they become sore and get old long before their time." The April Grandmother nodded her head toward a limping girl at the rear of the school procession. "One indication of a prematurely old condition of the feet is the inability to use them freely because they are continually aching, swollen or disfigured with excrescences. Obviously, the first thing to do for painful feet is to get them into a healthy condition and then endeavor to keep them so. If they are swollen and aching soaking them nightly in very warm water or in a hot salt bath scented with pine needles will prove soothing, but still better is some sweet, refreshing lotion such as any chemist can prescribe. This treatment should be followed by rubbing with rose pomade, or even with vaseline, as the massage is soothing to the muscles and nerves.

"Feet need to be treated to plenty of air and allowed occasional freedom from confinement. The shoes may be slipped off while a girl is practising at the piano and when she is studying in some retired room to which strangers are not likely to penetrate; the shoeless feet should be placed on an elevation somewhat higher than the head. I do not say that this is a graceful or refined attitude for a young gentlewoman to assume," interpolated the April Grandmother, "but it is an exceedingly restful one, and instantly sends the blood away from the feet and allays that aching sensation which makes the entire body as well as the mind feel out of gear. This treatment will sometimes drive away an incipient headache or a nervous attack.

"Girls who are fond of dancing sometimes are obliged to deny themselves that pleasure simply because their feet begin to swell after a few turns, whereas all that is usually necessary to insure absolute comfort is to dip the bare feet several times into a basin of ice cold water. After that they will probably be able to indulge for hours in the ordinary round dances, which, unlike the fancy steps, affect the calves of the leg more than they do the muscles of the feet.

"Shoes of the customary size are not to be thought of while the feet are being put into a healthy condition, as corns and bunions can never be vanquished by pressure. Therefore, their victim must bravely determine to put her vanity aside and temporarily wear large, comfortable shoes, which, however, may be so shapely that they will look moderately small, especially if kept in a highly polished condition. Low cut slippers are out of the question for feet prone to aches, and pumps are absolutely taboo, as they not only go far toward helping to break down the arch of the instep, but will not stay on unless the counters fit the heels tightly, a condition likely to cause blisters.

"Heelless house shoes, of soft suede skin, are excellent resting gear for aching feet and for 'health' walks; the spring heeled boots are best for all save girls possessing exceptionally high insteps, which need the back support of a military heel. Obviously, such boots should be thick and broad, for the cold feet caused by too tight shoes will take all the blood out of the cheeks, where it belongs, as it drives it to that most undesirable place, the nose, pronto."

Separate Waists for School Wear

ALTOGETHER the most satisfactory separate waists for school wear are of soft satin or silk, the exact shade of the cloth skirt, relieved only by fresh white collar and cuffs at the throat and wrists. Stiff linen turned down collars with cuffs to correspond are sure to look neat and trim, but often a softer collar of embroidered batiste or lawn will be more becoming. Unfortunately, however, these soft colors crumple and soil so readily when worn over a dark color that many girls have given up wearing them rather than have the bother of sewing on fresh sets each day.

If the embroidered lawn collar is so much more becoming than the stiff linen it is a excellent plan to have cut out several collar and cuff bands in buckram the color of the waist, baste the soft collar to this stiff foundation and hook or fasten with two or three small jewel pins the entire collar into the waist. If this is done both collar and cuffs will remain clean two or three times as long and look infinitely neater than if only basted to the soft material of the waist.

With the plain white organdie collar and cuffs worn in mourning the only possible means of keeping them fresh is to baste the collar and cuffs to a buckram foundation the desired height and width and fasten to the gown with tiny mourning pins.

Many of the new sleeves come so far down over the hand as to make a narrow piece of ruching the only possible finish. In all the smarter French gowns a fine plaited net is used at both collar and sleeve instead of the stiffer ruching which is bought ready plaited by the yard. With half a yard of cream colored net a number of ruches for the collar and sleeves can be made by gathering in an inch wide double fold of the length of the net and basting it to the material of the dress at throat and wrists. Apart from being far prettier than the stiff ruching to be had ready plaited this style of ruching, although more expensive at the commencement, will be found infinitely cheaper in the end.

USEFUL DESK BASKET.

ROUND wicker baskets are fitted with small compartments, containing a tube or bottle of paste, a ball of twine, box for holding pens and stamps, a tiny letter scale and a pen holder with a travelling ink bottle in a leather case and perfectly tight stopper.

SOCIAL AMENITIES FOR THE SCHOOL GIRL

IT is sometimes said by disapproving elders that the young people of to-day do not begin to have the manners of the previous generation; that they lack repose, graciousness, charm, and exhibit a deplorable indifference to the claims of courtesy. While unquestionably this is true of some girls, it cannot be admitted of the majority, and there would be a delightful state of things if such an imputation could not truthfully be made of any of our girls from one end of the land to the other.

What might be called the "frills" of good manners change somewhat with the times, there being fashions in these things as in everything else; but the fundamental principles which constitute the backbone of good breeding never change, and throughout the polite world have been handed down from generation to generation, forming an unwritten code with which every girl should be conversant.

A generation ago the delicate, helpless, clinging Lydia Languish type was in vogue, but the twentieth century girl is quite different. Yet because she is athletic, alert and independent it does not follow that she is brusque and given to riding roughshod over people. This would be to put her down as a selfish, heedless young person, which is not, generally speaking, the case.

The girls of to-day acquire a graceful carriage through their athletic sports quite as successfully and with more fun than their mothers had in being taught this accomplishment through correct walking and dancing. Of course there is now and then the girl whom athletics, particularly when carried to excess, make clumsy and boyish in her movements; but she is the exception, and where she exists she should be taken in hand by her mother or teachers and made to practise restraint, while also she should be taught how to manage her body with grace.

The plain-at faced girl in the world will have an attractive air if she carries herself well. It is astonishing what distinction a straight back and a head held high will give. One of the débutantes of this winter, who has no pretensions to beauty whatever, gets a great deal of admiration from the manner in which she carries herself. Trained by a clever mother, she has always been required to sit erect in a chair; no leaning back and no rocking chair habits, this strictly American article of furniture being severely condemned by her mother, except for the use of the ill and the aged.

This young girl, too, never has been permitted to sleep on pillows or to put cushions under her head when she threw herself down to rest on her divan. She is always stretched out perfectly flat when she lies down and never sleeps on her side, but invariably on her back. This may sound like Spartan treatment, but, as a matter of fact, it is nothing of the sort, for the flat posture of the body is perfectly comfortable, and greatly contributes to the straight beauty of the back. Sitting erect is, of course, the other necessary requisite, and this habit cannot be formed too young. But in case you have not begun very young begin to-day and make your back the straight and lovely line nature intends it to be.

If you train your back you will find that instinctively your head will assume a higher angle. No one ever saw a straight backed girl with a hanging head. Hanging heads were permissible when the simpering girl was in fashion, but now no one admires them, for they not only indicate a characterless nature, but they produce a horrid little curve at the back of the neck, where, instead, the line should be beautifully flat.

It is an art to hold the head high without producing a disdainful or haughty air, both of which are bad manners. But any danger of this is obviated by constantly remembering, as all of us should, to be sweet and gracious to every one about us. Some are blessed by being born gracious, and others have to acquire the art, but it is well worth learning, for graciousness indicates inward beauty as well as outward polish, and the people who love a girl of this sort are legion.

THEATRE COUPON CRAZE.

THE craze for keeping theatre programmes as souvenirs has long been popular with girls, but now there is a new fad in the shape of collecting seat coupons. The idea is to keep your own coupons, or, if you wish, those of the persons who were with you on the occasion; but most girls are satisfied to have just their own. So popular has the craze become that books are provided for the purpose—most attractive books with artistic covers and blank pages subdivided for the arrangement of the coupons and with spaces left for remarks about the play.

Woman's World

MRS. WILLIAM H. TAFT.

Charming Personality of the Wife of the President Elect.

What manner of woman is Mrs. Taft, whose name is so soon to be added to those of the women whose influence has made the social fame of past administrations? More pertinently still, how will it measure with the record of the Roosevelt regime? The first question is easy to answer, for few women have gone into the White House so well equipped to meet the exactions of the position of "first lady" of the land.

Mrs. Taft has brains and uses them without being in any sense aggressive or pedantic. She talks well and looks well when she is talking. Her smile has the charm of intelligence, that quick flash of recognition distinct from the frozen, automatic smile peculiar to many women in official life, on whom social duties make many demands, even to that of continuously "looking pleasant." She has a generous mouth and handsome teeth, a straight nose, well proportioned to her other features, and a broad forehead, above which her brown hair is arranged in a soft pompadour.

In her knowledge of languages Mrs. Taft will have the advantage over many of her predecessors. The future mistress of the White House is a good housekeeper, and in matters of dress she has quiet tastes. She does much of her own choosing and shopping, and during the season in Washington she patronizes the local shops. Like Mrs. Roosevelt, Mrs. Taft is passionately fond of music. Not only is she a patroness of music, but a musician as well. Though she does not regard herself as sufficiently in practice to perform for a critical audience these days, she has by no means lost her skill and frequently plays for her husband and children during their evenings at home.

Other avenues through which her artistic taste finds an outlet are her love of pictures and her appreciation of woodcarving. The art collection of her brother-in-law, Charles Taft, has no more appreciative friend than his sister-in-law. She is enthusiastic about every treasure he adds to it and enjoys few things more than pointing out its beauties to others. Mrs. Taft on her own account has made a study of woodcarving and has the nucleus of a fine collection and knows the fine points in the work of various schools and masters.

She, too, is a book lover, because she grew up in a home where books came down from the shelves and made the worlds they contain part of the domestic environment. As Helen Herron her favorite authors were Thackeray and Dickens. Mrs. Taft is loyal to her old literary friends and still dips into their society. George Eliot is one of the favorites of her later years. Newspapers come in for a daily share of her attention. To any subject in which Mr. Taft is interested or of which he is making a study she also gives a great part of her time. As few men of the period have had occasion to look up information on more varied subjects as the president elect, his wife's knowledge is necessarily extensive. That Mrs. Taft is the right woman for the position of mistress of the White House and that she will be a gracious and charming chatelaine there is no manner of doubt.

"My youngest boy, 3 years old, was sick with fever last June, and when he got better the doctor prescribed Scott's Emulsion, and he liked it so well that he drank it out of the bottle, and is now just as plump and strong as any child of his age anywhere . . . two bottles fixed him O.K."—MR. SCOTT'S EMULSION is the greatest help for babies and young children there is. It just fits their need; it just suits their delicate, sensitive natures; they thrive on it. Just a little does them so much good and saves you so much worry. You owe it to them and yourself to make them as strong and healthy as possible. SCOTT'S EMULSION will help you better than anything else; but be sure to get SCOTT'S. It's the best, and there are so many worthless imitations.

She Sees the Reason.

Notices and warnings on placards do not begin to make the impression upon the public that one individual experience will. Every woman knows that in all postoffices are cards begging persons to put their names and addresses on all valuable letters that they may be returned in case they cannot be delivered. One woman, at least, has seen and disregarded them for years, but in the future she will do differently. Last month she had occasion to send away $10 and put one bill of that denomination in an envelope, which she neither registered nor wrote on the back for return. The letter was never delivered, and the woman was obliged to send another bill, this time registered. One day her first letter came back to her after six weeks of wandering.

She found that she had used one of her husband's business envelopes, on which were stamped his name and address, and because she had misdirected it in the first place it had come back to the name printed at the top. Thus she is in $10, and when she sends money again by mail there is no doubt that the letter will have her own name on the outside as well as that of the addressee.

Dark, Spare Men as Husbands.

"If young women would study the chromatic characteristics of men more closely before betrothing themselves," said the woman who thinks deeply, "there would be fewer unhappy marriages. A man's complexion and general build have much to do with his disposition. That traditional bogy of the fortune tellers, 'the dark man,' is not such a mistaken type, after all. When, in addition, he is of spare build every girl who wants a happy home ought to have a special mitten all ready to hand to him. Many years of observation have taught me it is impossible for a dark, slender man to make any woman happy. It isn't in him to be happy himself. He invariably is suspicious, narrow minded and parsimonious, and the chances are great he's unscrupulous as well. It is out of the question to please him in any way. He thinks everybody is trying to get the better of him, whereas the truth is he passes his days trying to get the better of everybody else. Moreover, he is envious of the smallest prosperity that comes to another and jealous of the slightest interest, however impersonal, his wife betrays in another man. A law should be passed compelling every dark, spare bachelor to put on flesh or bleach his complexion before taking a wife. Women may get along with blond, slender men or with dark, stout ones, but with those who are dark and slender, never."

A Woman of Tact.

A woman of tact is the one who feels that the story told to hurt yom feelings is essentially bad form and inconsiderate of the feelings of others

A woman of tact is the woman who is courteous to old people, who laughs with the young and who makes herself agreeable to all women in all conditions of life.

A woman of tact is the one who makes her "Good morning" a pleasant greeting, her visit a bright spot in the day and her "Goodby" a hope that she may come again.

A woman of tact is one who does not gauge people by their clothes or their riches, but who condemns bad manners.

A woman of tact is one who is courteous under all circumstances and in every condition in which she may be placed.

A woman of tact is one whose love for humanity is second only in her life's devotion and whose watchword is unselfishness in thought and action with regard to others.

Clara Morris and Husbands.

It is folly to call the husband the head of the house. He is not, says Clara Morris, the famous actress, in the Housekeeper. It is but a courtesy title at best, since in truth he is but an incident in the home life, while the wife and mother is its whole existence. Literally the sun of domestic happiness rises and sets in the face of the wife and mother.

Walking is an ideal exercise. Hold the head erect, with chin slightly lifted, which will throw the muscles of the back and of the shoulders into proper line. Expand the chest with deep breaths, and do not swing the arms, but let them hang with muscles relaxed.

No application is better for lusterless hair than salt. Rub well into the roots of the hair at night, then tie up in a large handkerchief or wear a nightcap. Brush out the salt in the morning. Several applications will show a marked improvement in the appearance of the hair.

MME. MIRIELLE DE MONGIVAL

One of the Leaders in the New French Movement.

From the French capital comes the news of an individualist movement among representative women of Paris which is arousing considerable interest and will no doubt create discussion later on here in America. Already about 250 women have joined the movement, recruited largely from the intellectual class. These women have founded at 49 Rue Lafitte a "salon international," as it is called. The French look upon a woman's club as a destroyer of the home and as a consequence leading to the desertion of children, so they have, to use a homely phrase, whipped the devil about the bush in this euphonious fashion.

Once a week this society or what you will publishes a four page journal containing their propaganda, which already has 3,000 readers. In connection with the "salon international" are a tea room and a reading room, and during the week there are musicales, lectures and exhibitions of art work. So much interest is taken in the movement by American women that there is a special section devoted to their interests presided over by Mme. Mirielle de Mongival, whose picture is shown herewith.

Religion and politics are both tabooed subjects at present, but the group contains a number of radicals. One of the active members of the "salon international" explains that the object of the club is not to break up the home, but to try to raise women to be the real companions of men, that they are in England and in America, and to fit them to educate their children properly. "We appeal to the idle rich class of women, who think only of clothes," she says, "and to the bourgeois class, who are slaves in the kitchen and house. Especially we wish to help those who are struggling alone."

The movement, which is international in some respects, is assisting artists regardless of nationality, and there is a lawyer paid to carry women's rights when abused before the courts.

Don't Get in a Rut.

The woman who sinks into a domestic rut, says Woman's Life, is really the victim of her own sense of duty. She neglects her back hair, wears frayed shoe laces and leaves the pages of the last magazine uncut in her determination to make her house a fit abode for her husband, then defeats her own end by her lack of companionableness.

There's the woman who gets into an intellectual rut. She has all of Maeterlinck's theories at her fingers' ends. She really understands the situation at Panama! She can even do long division with six figures at a pinch. Yet, after all, she is a dead failure.

She never seems to realize that these nuggets of wisdom would not be less valuable for an attractive setting. She cannot understand why some girl who went to school with her and paid as much attention to her stocks as she did to her philosophy should always be the recipient of the attentions of extraordinarily cultivated men, who never seek her society a second time. By and by she consoles herself with the conviction that really brainy women are shut off from most companionship because their true worth is misunderstood, and she sinks a little deeper into the rut that really has been her undoing.

There's the woman who has got into the rut of her work. It may be very nice work, very interesting up to a certain point to her fellow beings, but it has its limitations. Perhaps she is an artist. She talks color schemes and high lights and perspective, with her collar under one ear and the dust on her tea table even more than artistically thick, and should your features wax rebellious she is convinced that you have no soul.

Or she may be a musician who can rhapsodize over naught but harmony and counterpoint, or a business woman whose heart is turned to additions alone, or a dressmaker whose world is bounded by tucks, gathers, seams and gores. It doesn't make any difference what the work is, you have no right to let it make you narrow—to put you in a rut.

About Children's Teeth.

No child can thoroughly cleanse his own teeth, and the mother who gives her child a few simple instructions as to how to clean the teeth and then leaves him to his own resources is simply courting poor teeth for her child. Even a grown person cannot thoroughly cleanse certain parts of his teeth. The mother not only should see that the teeth are brushed carefully and regularly, but she should insist on frequent visits to the dentist's to have the teeth examined and thoroughly cleaned.

Never allow a "baby" tooth, if it is decayed, to remain unfilled, for if the decay is left it is apt to travel downward and affect the permanent tooth which is forming below.

Never allow a child to pick the teeth with any sharp or pointed instrument or to crack nuts with the teeth. Dental floss is the best thing to use for removing foreign substances from between the teeth.

Mrs. Barrie a Daring Driver.

Mrs. James M. Barrie, wife of the novelist and dramatist, has become one of the most daring automobile drivers in England. She has three racing cars and spends several hours every day on the road. The Barrie country place is in the heart of beautiful Surrey, and the roads there are perfect for automobiling. Barrie usually accompanies his wife on her flying trips, and it is said he has had difficulty in checking her desire to compete in road and track races. Mrs. Barrie is small and slight, but is wiry and possessed of remarkable endurance. The couple never are attended by a chauffeur, as they have mastered the mechanism of the car. They get down in the road together to mend all breaks.

A Useful Present.

A girl who has more inventiveness than money has hit upon a Christmas present for her married friends that may prove suggestive to other distracted givers.

She bought a yard of red felt two yards wide and cut it into a series of circles, just straight edges, but to make the gift more artistic looking the outer rim may be finely pinked. A yard makes forty-one circles of medium size, more when the three sizes are used.

Tied in piles of a dozen each with gay holly ribbon and packed in a fancy box with the larger circles below and the smaller on top, these felts make useful and artistic gifts.

Suit For a Boy of Seven Years.

A neat looking suit for a boy of seven years combines the plain blouse and the sailor effect. The trousers are in knickerbocker style, and the blouse, coming up to the neck, is loose and displays down the center front a wide double box plait, decorated over the chest with a military emblem. The sleeves are in the conventional sailor style, with plaits stitched to form cuffs, and a turndown linen collar and a silk tie are the finish. This is a good model for a school suit, and three and a half yards of goods thirty-six inches wide will make the suit.

Scotland's Thistle.

This is the story of how the thistle came to be the badge of Scotland: When the Danes invaded the country a night surprise was attempted. In order to more completely hide their advance the Danish soldiers walked barefoot. For awhile all went well till one of the Danes happened to tread on a thistle. The pain made him cry out, and his cry disclosed the fact of the intended assault. The Scots at once took to their arms and routed the invaders. The thistle thereafter became the national emblem.

OTONABEE AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY HELD ITS MEETING

Examiner Special.

Keene, Jan. 26.—The annual meeting of the Otonabee Agricultural Society was held in the council chamber Tuesday afternoon, January 19, when the following officers were elected for the coming year:

President—Robert Humphries.

Vice-President — Peter Drummond.

Secretary—Andrew Shearer.

Auditors—J. C. Read and Jas. McNeil.

Directors—J. H. Fife, John Lang, J. J. Moore, W. J. Miller, Gilbert Howson, W. Renwick, Alex. Stewart, W. W. Shearer, W. B. Stewart, W. Drummond, John Miller, Robt. Weir, R. A. Nelson, D. Edwards, F. A. Eason and Edgar Wood.

A discussion took place regarding the prize list and a few changes were recommended.

It was decided that the society would hold a standing grain competition as they had done last year, and that the grain selected should be white oats. Also the superintendent of the fairs will be requested to furnish the society with an expert judge, who will judge all the exhibits of horses, and to enable him to do this the judging will be commenced at eleven o'clock.

The president, vice-president, secretary, J. C. Read, William Drummond, John Lang and W. J. Miller were appointed a committee to look after the prosperity of the society, attend to any necessary improvements and see about leasing the grounds.

They were also given instructions to have plans drawn up and estimates prepared for a grand stand capable of seating about two hundred people.

The fair will be held on Tuesday and Wednesday, October 5th and 6th.

Mr. Southorpe, Port Hope, attended the meeting and offered a prize of five dollars for the best field of peas grown under contract for his firm, the judges to be supplied by the society. The offer was accepted.

The financial statement, which was presented, shows the society to be in excellent financial condition. They own a valuable property with a good race course and a fairly good and large building for inside exhibits. Besides they have a surplus of $207.98.

Last year the society paid $513.70 in prizes, not including horse races and other special attractions, and their receipts were $1,020.20 and expenditures $812.22.

Explanation Of Grading Cheese As Found In Recent Report From Department

The following is an article taken from the report of the Dairy and Cold Storage Commissioner, and deals with the standards for grading cheese:—

First Grade

Flavour — Clean, sound and pure.

Body and Texture — Close, firm and silky.

Colour — Good and uniform.

Finish — Fairly even in size, smoothly finished, sound and clean surfaces, straight and pure.

Boxes — Strong, clean, well made and nailed. Ends to be of seasoned timber. Close fitting. Weights stencilled or marked with rubber stamp.

Second Grade

Flavour — 'Fruity,' not clean, 'turnipy,' or other objectionable flavour.

Body and Texture — Weak, open, loose, 'acidy,' too soft, too dry.

Colour — Uneven, mottled, or objectionable shade.

Finish — Very uneven in size, showing rough corners, black mould, dirty or cracked surfaces, soft rinds.

Boxes — Too large in diameter; top edge of box more than half-inch below the top of the cheese. Made of light material. Ends made of improperly seasoned material.

Third Grade

Flavour — Rancid, badly "off," anything inferior to Second Grade.

Body and Texture — Very weak, very open, showing pinholes, or porous, very 'acidy,' very soft or very dry.

Colour — Badly mottled, or very objectionable shade.

Finish — Anything worse than second grade.

Boxes — No question of boxes sufficient to make Third Grade if other qualities are good.

Explanations

The definition for first grade cheese is practically the same as what was adopted several years ago for "Finest" quality, except under the head of "Boxes," wherein there are some new and very necessary requirements.

The standard for first grade does not imply perfection. For instance, a "clean, sound and pure" flavour means only an absence of bad flavour. A strictly fancy cheese must not only possess this negative quality, but must have a positive quality in a typical cheese flavour, which many first grade cheese never have.

It would be impossible to define exactly the qualities or defects which may appear in cheese. The standards given are intended to indicate the range of quality for the different grades rather than to establish hard and fast rules to guide the grader.

The expression "good colour" means that the colour must be of a proper shade. There are cheap, inferior cheese colours used, which do not give the proper shade no matter what quantity is used.

The expression "clean surfaces" in the definition for First Grade does not exclude from that grade cheese with a slight growth of blue mould, although it is desirable that the cheese should not show any signs of mould. "Black Mould" (see definition for Second Grade), is simply the advanced stage of the ordinary blue mould.

The following scale of points will indicate the relative values of the different divisions of quality: Flavour, 40; body and texture, 30; colour, 15; finish and boxing, 15; equals 100.

It is obvious that a defect in flavour of a certain degree counts nearly three times as much in determining the grade as a defect in finish or boxing of the same degree.

Cheese which are strictly sour, or otherwise inferior to Third Grade, will be designated as "culls" for which there is no classification.

Any lot of cheese shall be considered third grade if it shows three or more defects of Second Grade class.

If there are not more than 15 per cent of defective cheese in any lot, the inferior ones may be sorted out and classed separately. If more than 15 per cent are defective, the classification for the defective cheese may apply to the whole lot.

This does not apply when inferior cheese have been properly marked so as to be identified, in which case the inferior cheeses shall be treated as a separate lot.

KNOCKED FROM SIDE OF BOX CAR CROSSING BRIDGE AT CEREAL DAM AND HURLED 33 FEET TO THE ICE BELOW

HAD TO BE LIFTED TO THE TOP BY ROPE TIED AROUND WAIST

With his right leg broken above the knee by striking a guard post at the Peterborough Hydraulic Power Company's power house, Mr. Leo Sullivan was hurled from the side of a box car over the edge of the bridge down to the ice below, a distance of thirty-three feet. That this accident which occurred yesterday afternoon about five o'clock, did not result in a fatality is almost marvelous. As it is Mr. Sullivan is lying in St. Joseph's Hospital with a few facial injuries, besides a broken leg and is also suffering from the awful shock he received.

He is engaged as a brakeman in the employ of the G. T. R. and is foreman of the yard crew of this city, which works with the shunter. They had made a run up to Auburn and down the siding to the Quaker Oats mill and were returning with a string of seven cars, one empty and six loaded.

How it Happened

Mr. Sullivan was in the empty car and wanted to get up on top. Accordingly he jumped out in front of the power house, but missed the first car he attempted to catch. He was successful in gripping on to the side of the next car but by this time he had reached the edge of the cement flooring. There is an iron railing extending along the edge from the north west corner to within 32 inches of the east rail. When a car is on the track there is only four inches between the outside post and the side of the car. The post is four feet high.

As Mr. Sullivan endeavoured to swing himself up on the iron handles on the side of the car to escape the post, his right leg struck the post and was broken above the knee. The cars were moving at about five miles an hour and the iron handles being coated with ice Mr. Sullivan was unable to main ain his hold, and the next instant he was plunging through the air to the ice below.

Slipped into Water

From those who saw the affair it is learned that his fall was practically headlong. Mr. Sullivan struck a sloping bank of ice, slightly breaking his fall, and plunging him into the shallow water.

A Difficult Task

Assistance was close at hand but it was a perplexing question to raise the injured man to the cement flooring which extends between the east wall of the power house and the track. Finally a stout rope was secured and a man was lowered to the shallow water beside Mr. Sullivan. The latter fastened the rope about his body and as carefully as possible Mr. Sullivan was pulled up the thirty-three feet to the top, the other man being brought up afterwards in the same manner.

The Dan Spence ambulance had made a rapid run and was on hand and the injured man was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital. It was found that other than the broken thigh his injuries were not severe, although he was cut about the head and felt the effects of the shock and the exposure.

Mr. Sullivan, who has a wife and child, resides on George street, over F. R. J. MacPherson's store.

THE COUNTY COUNCIL ACCEPTS RETRACTION OF SERIOUS CHARGES MADE BY MR. J. J. CROWE AGAINST MANAGEMENT OF HOUSE OF REFUGE

Mr. J J Crowe threw a bomb shell into the County Council proceedings this morning when he brought a charge of a serious nature against the Board of Management of the House of Refuge. He stated that a connection of his, an old gentleman named Argue, had died at the House and "was bundled up and buried a few hours later, like a dog." Mr. Crowe used rather strong statements describing the affair which to the credit of the Board, were entirely disproved, and finally Mr. Crowe retracted some of the statements, saying that he had been wrongly informed.

The occurrence is described as follows:

On motion, Mr. J J Crowe, of Dummer, was allowed to address the council with reference to the burying of a relative of his from the House of Refuge without notifying him of the death of such inmate, also setting forth in his address that the burial was not satisfactory, nor reverently carried out, in so much as the death took place in the early morning and burial at nine o'clock the same morning. He also requested the Board to have the body removed to the cemetery in Dummer.

Mr. Scott assured Mr. Crowe that the deceased had been carefully nursed during his illness and cared for in his dying hours, and that the death took place on one day, and the next day he and Mr. Webster, of Dummer, had acted as bearers at the funeral at 3 p.m., the English church minister conducting the service. The body was buried in the plot secured by the county in the Lakefield Cemetery.

Did not Claim Body

The declaration accompanying the committment of the old gentleman was signed by Mr. Crowe himself and although in said declaration space is provided for the individual taking, or signing, such declaration, to request the body to be handed to him, no request was made by Mr. Crowe to that effect, consequently the Board having no other alternative and having passed a bylaw to provide for the proper burial of inmates by the County, did bury the body as stated.

Moved by Mr. Knox and seconded by Mr. Graham, that this Council approve of the actions of the Board of Management and Superintendent, and that Mr. Crowe be allowed to have the body transferred to his own cemetery, if he desires, if the transfer does not interfere with the rules and regulations of the Institution, and at his own expense.—Carried.

Mr. Crowe on being requested, retracted some of the statements he made, and upon motion of Messrs. Moher and Darling, the Council recognized the retraction.

WALTER H. COTTINGHAM IN HIS OFFICE.

Former Peterborough boy who has mounted the ladder of success from the lowest step. His example should be an inspiration to every young man in business.

The above is the picture of a young man who formerly was employed as a clerk in the hardware store of McKee and Davidson, now the Peterborough Hardware store. It was in this capacity that Walter H. Cottingham learned the first principles of the hardware business. To-day he is president of the entire Sherwin-Williams organization, both in the United States and Canada. Mr. Williams has retired from the presidency and was made chairman of the board. The above shows Mr. Cottingham in his office. The complete story of his phenomenal advancement and success appeared in Monday's issue, and is a splendid example for all young men to follow.

He spent a year in Peterborough, afterwards going to Montreal, where during the next five years he took every advantage of the many opportunities offered him to learn the elementary principles of the paint business, into which he launched himself in 1887 as an independent manufacturer of gold paint and other specialties. Mr. Cottingham is now 43 years of age, and an industrial king. He was 21 years of ago when he started in business for himself. He was born in Omemee, and that village is proud of the success which he has achieved. The Examiner is indebted to Hardware and Metal, of Toronto, for the above picture, and the facts of Mr. Cottingham's business career.

RADIAL RAILWAY COMPANY ASK COUNCIL NOT TO OPPOSE THEIR REQUEST FOR TIME EXTENSION

Representatives of the Company Waited Upon the Council to Support Their Request—"All We Want is a Little Consideration," Said Mr. Peck to the Committee.

THE LINE TO YOUNG'S POINT WOULD COST $350,000.00.

Messrs. E. A. Peck and J. H. Larmouth, representing the Peterborough Radial Railway Company, waited upon the Committee of the Whole Council at last night's meeting to ask that the council should not oppose the company's request to the Legislature for an extension of time in connection with the building of their line to Young's Point. Mr. E. A. Peck, the first speaker, said that the company's charter included not only permission to build lines in the city, but to outside points as well. The company has asked for an extension of time for doing this, but were not in a position at the present time to lay their plans definitely before the council. The Board of Works, he understood, had discussed the matter and had decided to oppose the request. All the company asked for was a little consideration. They were giving as good car service as could be found in any city of Peterborough's size in the province, and were as much an institution of the city as were many of the factories. The only company that would be likely to compete with the Peterborough Radial Railway in the matter of a line to Young's Point would be the new company recently formed, with headquarters at Cobourg.

Mr. Larmouth, in reply to a question, stated that the estimated cost of extending the line from Peterborough to Young's Point was between $350,000 and $400,000. The company had expended upon its lines in Peterborough, outside of the cost of purchase, about $60,000.

Ald. Phelan, chairman of the Board of Works, stated that the action taken by that committee was merely for the purpose of protecting the city and finding out just where they were at.

The committee decided to take no action in the matter last night.

FUNERAL AT MILLBROOK YESTERDAY OF THE LATE MR. THOMAS G. KELLS

The funeral of the late Mr. T. G. Kells, of Millbrook, took place from his residence to the family burying plot, Cavan, on Wednesday afternoon. The pall bearers were Messrs. A. H. Smith, Chas. Needler, Albert Hetherington, Chas. Winslow, R. H. Kells and Harry Armstrong.

The funeral services were conducted at his late residence by Rural Dean Allen. The funeral was one of the largest seen in this locality for some time. The late Mr. Kells conducted a general store and banking business for a long period of years in this village, and was one of the most active and energetic business men this village ever produced. The mercantile business of Wood and Kells, and the banking business of Wood and Kells were well known throughout the whole of the Midland district, and perhaps no two men were more favourably looked upon by the community generally than the members who composed the firm.

Some years ago the firm dissolved partnership, Mr. Kells retiring and disposing of the general store to Mr. John Kells, his nephew, who has since conducted it with much success. The banking business was carried on by Mr. Wood for some years, eventually being taken over by the Bank of Toronto, which bank opened a branch in the village, having cooperated more or less with the banking firm of Wood and Kells for some years. Mr. Wood predeceased Mr. Kells a few years ago. When the northwest was first opened up and lands were being disposed of at a nominal price to companies and corporations, this firm purchased a large area of land in the Souris district, some of which was disposed of subsequently, but the late Mr. Kells was the holder of a large block of the most valuable lands in the Souris district to-day.

In the death of Mr. Kells Millbrook loses one of its most prominent citizens, and the community will miss Mr. Kells, who was a leading resident.

In politics the deceased was a thorough Liberal and exercised his best efforts in behalf of the cause he believed in. In religion Mr. Kells was a member of the Anglican Church, Millbrook, and was one of its most devoted and energetic members, taking a great interest in everything that tended to the furtherance of the work.

CONGREGATION OF PARK ST. CHURCH GIVE OLD BUILDING TO BOYS FOR Y.M.C.A.

The members of the Park Street Baptist Church met last night to discuss the advisability of allowing the old church building to be used for Y. M. C. A. purposes when vacated by the congregation.

After some discussion it was moved and seconded that the old church building be given over for the use of the young men of the city, especially the south end. There was a most overwhelming majority in favour of the motion, only three voting against it.

The pastor, Rev. W. C. Biddiford, who is deeply interested in Y. M. C. A. work, and young men will wait upon the Board of Directors of the local Y. M. C. A., and ask their advice and counsel in all matters pertaining to the workings of the institution. He, as well as the church, are anxious that it should be of some practical value to all young men.

Such a move on the part of the Park Street Church certainly bespeaks a spirit in accord with the times. Wholesome amusement and entertainment is in accord with reason and merits the hearty support and sympathy of all just thinking people.

THE CITY COUNCIL WILL UNITE WITH LAKEFIELD IN REGARD TO THE WHARF

The Committee of the Whole Council decided at their meeting on Wednesday night to unite with the council of Lakefield in impressing upon the Dominion Government the advisability of extending the wharf at Lakefield, in order that the Grand Trunk Railway might run a siding direct to the wharf. A copy of the resolution passed by the Lakefield council in this regard, was read and the alderman seemed thoroughly in favour of the scheme. It is understood that the railway company will extend their line if the wharf is built in such a manner as to make it possible. It was pointed out at the meeting that many Peterborough citizens owned property at Stony Lake, and the improvements contemplated would be of a decidedly beneficial nature to them.

It was moved by Ald. Gillespie and Bradburn, that the council unite with Lakefield in the matter of urging the importance of the work upon the government.—Carried.

OLD PETERBORO' BOY RAPIDLY MAKING PROGRESS IN THE INSURANCE WORLD

The Toronto World says: R J Stuart, of Calgary, Alta., who has been in the employ of the Sun Life Assurance Company for the past 12 years, first as special representative in Michigan, then as manager for Nova Scotia, later as special representative in China, and for the last few years doing special work for the company in the west, has accepted a position with Mr. Tory, supervisor of the Sun Life for western Ontario and Michigan, in Toronto, as an inspector for this division.

Mr. Stuart leaving Calgary will be a decided loss to that city, as he is an ex-alderman, and at the present time vice-president of the general board of management of hospitals and holds several other important positions in Calgary.

Mr. Stuart is an old Peterborough boy and has many friends in Toronto.

No doubt his many friends in the west will be glad to hear of his promotion.

CITY ASSESSOR IS NOT TO BE CHOSEN UNTIL MONDAY NEXT

The city assessor for the year will be appointed at the meeting of the council on Monday night next. The matter came up at the meeting of the Committee of the Whole Council last night, when applications were received from Messrs. F. J. Jameson, T. B. McGrath, John Malone, R. F. McGregor and Wm. VanEvery. On motion of Ald. Butler and Morgan it was decided to postpone the appointment until the regular meeting on Monday night.

Ald. Morrow thought that the position should be advertised, so that everyone might have a chance to apply for the position, and moved that a notice be placed in the papers asking for applications for the position. The motion was seconded by Ald. Metherel and was carried.

Ald. Metherel stated that he would like to see the rate raised and the assessment lowered this year. He thought that it would be a step in the right direction.

THE WATER COMMISSIONERS ASK FOR $120,000 FOR PURPOSE OF NEW DAM AND PUMPING STATION

Laid Their Proposition Before the Committee of the Whole Council—The Resolution of the Commissioners.

WILL NOT RAISE RATES.

The issuing of debentures for the borrowing of $120,000 for the construction of a new dam, pumping station and steam auxiliary plant, was the proposition laid before the Committee of the Whole Council on Wednesday night by the members of the Water Commission. The demand was in no way a surprise as the matter has been under discussion by the Commissioners for some time and the city fathers knew that they would shortly be called upon to deal with it. Messrs. T F Matthews chairman, W H Hill and W H Moore, were present to state the case to the council and to give them all the information possible in connection with the proposed work. They impressed upon the council the importance of the work and the necessity of speedy action as it was desired to start the work as soon as possible. They asked the council if possible to pass a bylaw at the meeting on Monday night next and submit it to the people at the earliest possible moment.

The proposition is to build a new dam at a point some 500 feet down the river from the present one and to erect a new pumping station with a new set, with the capacity of 3,000,000 moving down the present two sets and leaving the old building to be used as a steam auxiliary pump.

All the members of the council were present at the meeting, when Mayor Rush asked the Water Commissioners to outline the proposition.

Mr. Matthews in beginning, stated that the matter had given the commissioners some trouble. They had had expert evidence given and were prepared to recommend to the coun-

Old Fire Brigade Made Presentation of Interesting Relic to the Museum.

ROMAN SERPENTINE.

On Wednesday afternoon, Mr. Samuel Sharpe, on behalf of the "Old Fire Brigade," presented to the Victoria Museum a piece of "Serpentine" which was used in the construction of one of the old Roman Fire Watch Towers, as explained by the following description:—

"The above fragment of Serpentine formed part of the Mosaic Pavement of the Station of the 7th Cohort 'Vigiles,' in the Via Monte di Fiore, Rome.

"These 'Vigiles' were organized by the Emperor Augustus (died A.D. 14), and acted as the Firemen of Ancient Rome, keeping watch over the city from towers.

"This station has a court-yard with a well in the centre, a Chapel and several rooms, with rude inscriptions of the 3rd century."

The Stone was brought from Rome by the Rev. Canon Davidson, and presented by him to the boys of the "Old Fire Brigade" in 1907.

The 'Old Fire Brigade' having no organization, considered the best place to preserve this valuable relic of Ancient Rome was the Victoria Museum, where it would be taken care of, and where it could always be seen by the general public.

The Peterborough Historical Society expresses its appreciation and sincere thanks to the members of the Old Fire Brigade for this valuable addition to the present collection.

HOCKEY MATCH TO THE FENCE.

The hockey game between Peterboro and Cobourg scheduled for Monday night has been postponed to Tuesday on account of the production, "The Private Secretary," on Monday night.

DOCTORS IN THE COURT

Representatives of Ontario Medical Council Trap Several Doctors Not in Standing With That Body.

JUDGMENT RESERVED.

When Chas. Rose, J. Gregory and Mrs. E. Beswick gathered in their nets which they had spread in the interests of the Ontario Medical Council, there resulted a police court case this morning in which two doctors and another dispenser of natural remedies figured as defendants. Mr. Gordon who appeared for the defence referred to them as private detectives of a legalized monopoly.

Briefly stated, one of the doctors had not paid the annual fee demanded by the Medical Council and thereafter any practising of medicine was forbidden by the Medical Act.

The Council adopts the spy system and sends out persons who visit doctors who are out with the government body and endeavour to have fake pains and illness diagnosed and prescribed for. Quietly as the trio had come their arrival was not entirely unknown.

The man Gregory visited the first doctor complaining of pains in the stomach. The doctor gave him a bottle of medicine he had for pains in that region, but said he did not diagnose the case.

Mrs. Beswick called several hours after suffering from another ailment but the doctor bade her begone, his suspicions having been aroused. The woman called to Mr. Gordon that she had gone to the office for the purpose of trapping him. She received a salary for duties of this kind.

Mr. R. E. Wood appeared for the prosecution.

The three cases were heard and Mr. Gordon presented his authorities, but Magistrate Dumble deferred judgment.

FARMERS ARE STILL CLAMOURING FOR LOWER FEES AT P.C.I.

The farmers of the county are desirous of having their children placed upon the same basis as the city children as regards the fees at the Collegiate Institute. A deputation composed of Messrs. David Eastwood, North Monaghan; Jas Fowler and D Lewis, of Smith, waited on the County Council yesterday requesting that the latter body meet the Board of Education and endeavour to make some arrangements to this effect.

THE COUNTY COUNCIL ACCEPTS RETRACTION OF SERIOUS CHARGES MADE BY MR. J. J. CROWE AGAINST MANAGEMENT OF HOUSE OF REFUGE

The city assessor for the year will be appointed at the meeting of the council on Monday night next. The matter came up at the meeting of the Committee of the Whole Council last night, when applications were received from Messrs. F. J. Jameson, T. B. McGrath, John Malone, R. F. McGregor and Wm. VanEvery. On motion of Ald. Buller and Morgan it was decided to postpone the appointment until the regular meeting on Monday night.

Ald. Morrow thought that the position should be advertised, so that everyone might have a chance to apply for the position, and moved that a notice be placed in the papers asking for applications for the position. The motion was seconded by Ald. Metherall and was carried.

Ald. Metherall stated that he would like to see the rate raised and the assessment lowered this year. He thought that it would be a step in the right direction.

THE WATER COMMISSIONERS ASK FOR $120,000 FOR PURPOSE OF NEW DAM AND PUMPING STATION

Laid Their Proposition Before the Committee of the Whole Council—The Resolution of the Commissioners.

WILL NOT RAISE RATES.

The issuing of debentures for the borrowing of $120,000 for the construction of a new dam, pumping station and steam auxiliary plant, was the proposition laid before the Committee of the Whole Council on Wednesday night by the members of the Water Commission. The demand was in no way a surprise as the matter has been under discussion by the Commissioners for some time and the city fathers knew that they would shortly be called upon to deal with it. Messrs. T F Matthews chairman, W H Hill and W H Moore, were present to state the case to the council and to give them all the information possible in connection with the proposed work. They impressed upon the council the importance of the work and the necessity of speedy action as it was desired to start the work as soon as possible. They asked the council if possible to pass a bylaw at the meeting on Monday night next and submit it to the people at the earliest possible moment.

The proposition is to build a new dam at a point some 500 feet down the river from the present one and to erect a new pumping station with a new set, with the capacity of 3,000,000 moving down the present two sets and leaving the old building to be used as a steam auxiliary pump.

All the members of the council were present at the meeting, when Mayor Rush asked the Water commissioners to outline the proposition.

Mr. Matthews in beginning, stated that the matter had given the commissioners some trouble. They had had expert evidence given and were prepared to recommend to the coun-

LINK BETWEEN OLD AND NEW

Old Fire Brigade Made Presentation of Interesting Relic to the Museum.

ROMAN SERPENTINE.

On Wednesday afternoon, Mr. Samuel Sharpe, on behalf of the "Old Fire Brigade," presented to the Victoria Museum a piece of "Serpentine" which was used in the construction of one of the old Roman Fire Watch Towers, as explained by the following description:—

"The above fragment of Serpentine formed part of the Mosaic Pavement of the Station of the 7th Cohort 'Vigiles,' in the Via Monte di Fiore, Rome.

"These 'Vigiles' were organized by the Emperor Augustus (died A.D. 14), and acted as the Firemen of Ancient Rome, keeping watch over the city from towers.

"This station has a court-yard with a well in the centre a Chapel and several rooms, with rude inscriptions of the 3rd century."

The Stone was brought from Rome by the Rev. Canon Davidson, and presented by him to the boys of the "Old Fire Brigade" in 1907.

The 'Old Fire Brigade' having no organization, considered the best place to preserve this valuable relic of Ancient Rome was the Victoria Museum, where it would be taken care of, and where it could always be seen by the general public.

The Peterborough Historical Society expresses its appreciation of and sincere thanks to the members of the Old Fire Brigade for this valuable addition to its present collection.

DOCTORS IN THE COURT

Representatives of Ontario Medical Council Trap Several Doctors Not in Standing With That Body.

JUDGMENT RESERVED.

When Chas. Rose, J. Gregory and Mrs. E. Beswick gathered in their nets which they had spread in the interests of the Ontario Medical Council, there resulted a police court case this morning in which two doctors and another dispenser of natural remedies figured as defendants. Mr. Gordon who appeared for the defence referred to them as private detectives of a legalized monopoly.

Briefly stated, one of the doctors had not paid the annual fee demanded by the Medical Council and thereafter any practising of medicine was forbidden by the Medical Act.

The Council adopts the spy system and sends out persons who visit doctors who are out with the government body and endeavour to have fake pains and illness diagnosed and prescribed for. Quietly as the trio had come their arrival was not entirely unknown.

The man Gregory visited the first doctor complaining of pains in the stomach. The doctor gave him a bottle of medicine he had for pains in that region, but said he did not diagnose the case.

Mrs. Beswick called several hours after suffering from another ailment but the doctor bade her prepare his suspicions having been aroused. The woman stated to Mr. Gordon that she had gone to the office for the purpose of trapping him. She received a salary for duties of this kind.

Mr. R. E. Wood appeared for the prosecution.

The three cases were heard and Mr. Gordon presented his authorities, but Magistrate Dumble deferred judgment.

FUNERAL AT MILLBROOK YESTERDAY OF THE LATE MR. THOMAS G. KELLS

The funeral of the late Mr. T. G. Kells, of Millbrook, took place from his residence to the family burying plot, Cavan, on Wednesday afternoon. The pall bearers were Messrs. A. H. Smith, Chas. Needler, Albert Hetherington, Chas. Winslow, R. H. Kells and Harry Armstrong.

The funeral services were conducted at his late residence by Rural Dean Allen. The funeral was one of the largest seen in this locality for some time. The late Mr. Kells conducted a general store and banking business for a long period of years in this village, and was one of the most active and energetic business men this village ever produced. The mercantile business of Wood and Kells, and the banking business of Wood and Kells were well known throughout the whole of the Midland district, and perhaps no two men were more favourably looked upon by the community generally than the members who composed the firm.

Some years ago the firm dissolved partnership, Mr. Kells retiring and disposing of the general store to Mr. John Kells, his nephew, who has since conducted it with much success. The banking business was carried on by Mr. Wood for some years, eventually being taken over by the Bank of Toronto, which bank opened a branch in the village, having cooperated more or less with the banking firm of Wood and Kells for some years. Mr. Wood predeceased Mr. Kells a few years ago. When the northwest was first opened up and lands were being disposed of at a nominal price to companies and corporations, this firm purchased a large area of land in the Souris district, some of which was disposed of subsequently, but the late Mr. Kells was the holder of a large block of the most valuable lands in the Souris district to-day.

In the death of Mr. Kells Millbrook loses one of its most prominent citizens, and the community will miss Mr. Kells, who was a leading resident.

In politics the deceased was a thorough Liberal and exercised his best efforts in behalf of the cause he believed in. In religion Mr. Kells was a member of the Anglican Church, Millbrook, and was one of its most devoted and energetic members, taking a great interest in everything that tended to the furtherance of the work.

FARMERS ARE STILL CLAMOURING FOR LOWER FEES AT P.C.I.

THE NEW WATERWORKS DAM.

Last night the Water Commissioners made an important request of the City Council—to submit to a popular vote a bylaw to authorize the issue of debentures to the amount of $120,000 for the construction of a new Waterworks dam and the provision of increased and adequate pumping capacity.

The council will probably submit such a bylaw and the citizens will probably carry it. In favour of this there are several considerations.

In the first place the present dam which is of wood and built fifteen years ago, is none too safe, nor will it become safer as time passes, and is hardly in a condition to safely withstand any extraordinary pressure. Then the present pumping capacity is insufficient. The growth of the city in population and expanse has made necessary increased pumping capacity. In dry periods of the year—July and August—the pumps are worked to their full capacity to supply normal demands, and if some sudden emergency arose such as a large fire, the results might be easily disastrous.

The necessity for the new dam being conceded, it is to be remembered that its construction will not impose a cent of additional taxation, apart from the cost of voting on the bylaw. The sinking fund provided and to be provided by the Commissioners, will serve to meet and retire the debentures on maturity, and the interest will be met from current revenue, without the slightest increase of the water rates. In other words the Water Works, through the Commissioners, will build the new dam, buy new pumps and pay for them themselves. Thus it is seen that the application of the Commissioners is, in one sense, a mere formality, to give authority to raise the money by debentures. The only known liability the city assumes is to become sponsor for the debentures, the Water Commissioners providing for the payment of the borrowed money and the annually accruing interest.

This is the situation and the ratepayers will note that the authorization of the debentures for $120,000 will not add to the rate of taxation, nor an increase of water rates, but will provide what is needed in the interests of the city and citizens a strong and sufficient new dam and enlarged and greatly needed pumping capacity.

The flow of the River Otonabee at low water is 65,000 cubic feet, or about 490,000 gallons per minute.

FORESTRY.

The Canadian Forestry Association will meet, this year, in Toronto on Thursday and Friday, February 11th and 12th. The meetings will be held in the Convocation Hall of the University of Toronto. The railways have, as in former years, granted a single-fare rate for the meeting.

The Association decided to hold the meeting in Toronto on the invitation of the Board of Trade of that city. This fact of itself is interesting as tending to show that forestry has now come to be recognized as a business matter. The preservation and perpetuation of Canada's forests—the ideal aimed at by the Association—is indeed, judged by the experience of other countries, the best business policy Canada can pursue.

The chief work of the Canadian Forestry Association has been to bring and keep before the Canadian public the wisdom of such a policy, to advocate the exploration of wild lands, with a view of having the land unsuitable for agriculture set aside as permanent forest lands, and generally to disseminate knowledge on forestry topics. For the better carrying out of this last object the Association maintains the Canadian Forestry Journal, a magazine which all its members receive.

The Association has been in existence for about nine years, having been founded in February, 1900, by Mr. E Stewart, then Superintendent of Forestry for the Dominion. From the first it has been successful in attracting to its membership many prominent lumbermen, as well as officials connected with the timber administration of the Dominion and the several provinces, well known scientists and educators and others interested in one or other of the many aspects of forestry. The membership is now nearly 1,700, the past year having seen an increase of nearly five hundred.

The president of the Association for 1908-09 is Mr. W. B. Snowball, of Chatham, N. B., prominent in the lumbering industry of that province. The secretary is Mr. A. H. D. Ross, of the Faculty of Forestry, University of Toronto, who will gladly furnish further information regarding the Association and its meetings.

THE EMPIRE'S SEA SUPREMACY.

For decades, if not for centuries, the greater nations of the world have made attempts to rival Great Britain as a sea power, but the Empire—Great Britain and her colonies—still maintain a tremendous lead. Figures, even nautical figures, are dry reading, but it is only by their use that one can gain an adequate idea of British maritime preponderance. "Lloyd's Register" for 1907-8 shows that Great Britain has 9,517 steam and sailing vessels of 16,999,668 tons; colonies, 2,000 tonnage, 1,321,000; United States (excluding lake vessels), 3046. tonnage, 2,774,165; Germany, 2,094, tonnage, 4,110,562; Italy, 1,107, tonnage, 1,219,409; France, 1,483, tonnage, 1,761,783; Norway, 2,161, tonnage, 1,918,531; Russia, 1,359, tonnage, 937,911; Spain, 578, tonnage, 708,749; Sweden, 1,538, tonnage, 877,548; Denmark, 859, tonnage, 722,590; Austria-Hungary, 326, tonnage, 688,619; Holland, 547, tonnage, 813,627. A little analysis or compilation of these figures reveals the fact that the ocean tonnage of Great Britain alone, not to include her colonies, is greater than the combined tonnage of the nations named—the eleven powers standing foremost in the possession of seagoing fleets. In war ships Britain's aim and attainment, too, is to have a war fleet double the strength of any of the two largest nations combined. The old country is coquetting with the question of protection. Judged by the experience of the United States her sea supremacy will depend upon the extent to which she may adopt the practice of the principle of protection. The United States has given it extreme application and the effects are seen in her dwindling maritime power. After forty years of protection she has not enough mercantile marine to do lightering work for her navy, and has to depend for this service upon foreign powers, principally Great Britain.

Canada has thirty lines of steamships sailing from her various ports. The first steamer to cross the Atlantic, a Canadian, was the Royal William, from Quebec to Gravesend—1833.

CANADIAN ACHIEVEMENT.

The London Times has at last discovered Canada. In a recent issue it says:

"By deliberately pitting the power of human mind and character against the blind forces of geography Canadians have achieved in barely more than a generation a triumph over natural obstacles which is, perhaps, the most striking monument, in the modern world, of national decision and resource."

By virtue of having faith in herself; by virtue of living up to the teachings of this faith, Canada has not only exhibited its self respect but has conquered the respect of onlookers, and even won the admiration and approval of the London Times, which has for long regarded Canada with indifference or patronizing tolerance. However, the Times still hardly appreciates the situation. Canada may have, as the Times says, "pitted the powers of human mind and character against blind forces," but without a splendid faith in the future, a splendid confidence in the universality and unlimited character of our resources, the power of human mind and character would not have effected what has been done. Canada, in proportion to population and financial resources, has accomplished more in the way of material improvement in equipment of national growth, than almost any country in recorded history. In providing the raw material for growth—transportation—a national expenditure of some three hundred millions in railways and canals has been made—about two millions each for every man, woman and child of a population of some six millions, a very creditable performance. This is apart from an investment, by private and corporate enterprise, of nearly two thousand million in railways. These things have been done by the effective combination of faith and works. It was faith that inspired and works that completed and are completing the Canadian Pacific, the Canadian Northern and the Transcontinental and Grand Trunk Pacific Railways, linking a narrow fringe of settled domain, now broadened many times over, across a wilderness, with a wilderness in the West, which has been and is being transformed into a granary of the Empire. It was faith that explored "New Ontario," and works that led to its exploration and development by building the first provincial owned railway in Canada, which revealed wealth that never was dreamed of before, and of which the end is not yet. The pessimists, whom we have with us always, but, thank Heaven, in decreasing numbers, saw nothing of the great West of the Dominion, or the great North of Ontario. The Examiner has frequently pointed out that there is probably not a square mile of Canadian territory that has not its potential wealth in some form. The truth of this has been so frequently and effectively proven in respect of explored and developed regions of previous apparent uselessness, that there is little room for the doubter. We do not all of us appreciate the imperial expanse of our possessions. A member of the new Parliament, from Alberta, said to a newspaper the other day:

"My constituency is nearly as large as Ireland. The area is sixteen million acres, ten millions of which is good wheat land. It could grow 300,000,000 bushels of No. 1 Hard, which is more wheat than the whole of the Dominion grows to-day."

And the constituency mentioned by this gentleman is only one of seven in Alberta, and of nine in Saskatchewan. North of all this is more virgin territory with very great possibilities, listed to be soon brought under the development which transportation facilities will make possible. The future of Canada depends upon Canadians themselves, and judged by the past they will be equal to the responsibility.

In providing transportation facilities—one of the raw materials of nation building—railways, canals, etc., Canada has expended in round numbers 2,500 million of dollars.

DON'T FIGHT THE WEATHER.

Try the Plan of Being on Friendly Terms With It.

What a great misfortune this is, the habit of considering the weather—of thinking that we must consider the weather! It is largely due, is it not, to clothes? No mention is made of rain in the garden of Eden, but we must not therefore contend that rain was disagreeable and omitted. We must recollect that Adam and Eve did not need to consider rain. Furthermore, in blessed ignorance they did not know that it was anything to be considered.

To mind the rain no more than the May sunshine, but to plunge into it and let the drops pelt as they will, to accept snow without a thought of discomfort, but, rather, to enjoy the thronging presence of it; to pursue one's daily stint regardless of whether the sky be dun or blue—this is a state which we, especially of the cities, long, long have lost.

We regain it, some of us, in the wilderness camp, where we hunt or fish if the day be dark or if the day be bright, and where we find that the dash of the soft rain on one's face is not death, after all; that wetness and dryness are merely relative terms.

All the centuries of fussing and fuming with the weather have not affected the weather one particle. It still rains and snows and sleets and blows, just as dictated by circumstances. Therefore, what's the use? Are your puny diatribes or mine of any greater potency than those of others gone before? Evidently not. Accordingly try the plan of being friendly with the weather, of agreeing with it instead of fighting it, and, 'pon my word, presently it will be agreeing with you.—E. L. Sabin in Lippincott's.

Kinnikinic.

"We ran out of tobacco while fishing in the Canadian wilds," said a clubman. "Our guides put us on to kinnikinic, and we smoked that for ten days. It wasn't bad.

"Kinnikinic is the inner bark of the red willow. You dry it, then you cut it up. It really tastes like tobacco. The Indians always use it when they can't get the real thing, and I understand that there are certain brands of Canadian tobacco that are flavored with kinnikinic."

Snakes Changed Into Rods.

The Egyptian cobra is not unlike its Asiatic relative except in respect of the absence of the curious spectacle-like mark which distinguishes the latter. Although it is the most poisonous reptile known to inhabit northern Africa, it is the favorite among the snake charmers. These conjurers know how to render this serpent rigidly unconscious by pressing the nape of its neck with a finger. This act appears to throw the reptile into catalepsy, in which it as stiff as an iron rod.

In Ten Years' Time.

Chauffeur—Now, then! Can't you keep on your own side?

By Word of Mouth.

There is a certain youth who recently became engaged to a very sweet young girl who for all her sweetness is well supplied with spirit. This youth evidently thought he had the entire game neatly printed in a book and determined to head off the usual "Am I the only girl?" etc., queries, for, taking her in his arms, he said gently, but firmly:

"Now, sweetheart, I might as well tell you at the start—you are not the only girl I have ever kissed."

"Well, maybe not," she retorted, "but you still have much to learn about it."—Harper's Weekly.

A Christmas Gift Hint.

My dear —— (fill this in with the name of the recipient), please accept this little —— with best wishes for a merry Christmas. I hope it is something that you really didn't need, because to present you with anything useful would be a reflection on your own ability to provide for yourself. I sincerely trust that it is not more valuable than the thing that you will present to me. In the firm belief that you will be able to exchange it soon, offer it as a prize at a card party or put it in some place where you will not have to pay storage upon it, I am, etc.—New York Life.

STUART STRATHY, General Manager.

Toronto, 31st December, 1908.

The General Manager, having read the foregoing report, made the following comments:

From the statement submitted, it will be observed that the results of the year's operations have been satisfactory, notwithstanding the severe financial disturbance, which was felt, more or less, throughout the world during the period under review. The wave of depression is apparently lifting, and we face another year with good prospects of a general return to normal conditions in several lines of business. A brief consideration of the yearly statement will readily show how successful the Bank's business has been during the past year. The net profits, after making allowance for all probable contingencies, and crediting interest to all interest-bearing accounts, amount to $500,217.60. Adding to this the balance carried forward from Profit and Loss the previous year, with one or two small additional items, makes the sum of $525,681.99, which was available for distribution. This amount was apportioned to pay four quarterly dividends at the rate of seven per cent. per annum, amounting to $304,699.50. $20,000 has been written off Bank Premises and Furniture Accounts, and $10,000 has been added to the Officers' Guarantee and Pension Fund, leaving the substantial sum of $190,982.49 to be carried forward at the credit of Profit and Loss new account.

The paid-up Capital Stock of the Bank amounts to.....$4,353,592, and the Rest Account.....$2,000,000 nearly one-half of the Paid-up Capital.

The total deposits of the Bank now amount to over.....$25,000,000 Of this sum over $4,000,000 is non-interest-bearing, and the total deposits of the Bank have increased $2,000,000 during the year.

The assets, which are immediately available, amount to over nine millions of dollars, being about thirty per cent. of the liabilities to the public, a condition which places the Bank in a very strong position.

Attention should be called to the excellent character generally of the assets of the Bank, as set forth in the statement.

During the year, seven new Branches were opened and two were closed, making a total of eighty-one Branches open at the end of the year.

The Bank continued, throughout the year, to increase both in volume and character of its business. It is interesting to note its growth by comparison with the figures of ten years ago.

	1898	1908
Paid-up Capital	$ 700,000	$ 4,353,592
Surplus	50,000	2,000,000
Deposits	4,930,817	25,385,117
Circulation	697,680	2,600,905

The general depression of a year ago has resulted in a contraction of business throughout the Country. Now, that it would appear that the period of depression is passing away, and provided the incoming year is a prosperous one, it is natural to infer that more activity in commercial lines will ensue, followed by a more active demand for money. We find again this year, a considerably larger acreage will be ready for early seeding in the Northwest, consequent upon the continued flow into those lands of a most desirable class of settlers, principally from the Country to the South of us, the effect of which must benefit this Country at large. The greatly increased transportation facilities will also prove an important factor, not alone in the temporary large expenditure, which continues to be made on this account, but by this very large extension of our Railway System, making it possible to bring to the Seaboard the steadily increasing crops of our great Northwest, with the least possible delay. We have established several important Branches in this field, and, as the Country develops, extension in this direction, no doubt, will meet with your approval.

Before concluding, I wish to express my appreciation of the cordial co-operation of all the officials of the Bank in the work of the year. All the books and documents of the Bank have been carefully examined, and the affairs of all the Branches have been looked into, and reported upon in a manner permitting the Board to deal intelligently with all the assets of the Bank.

Mr. C. D. Warren, President, in moving the adoption of the Report, said:

I have much pleasure in moving the adoption of the Report which has been presented. The Management and shareholders may well congratulate themselves on the result of the year's business. The Report affords strong evidence of the prosperous condition of the Bank, and of a satisfactory increase in the general volume of business. The period of prosperity which Canada enjoyed until about a year ago, led to extensive, and in some cases, unsuccessful expansion on the part of many capitalists and business men, and the resources of all financial institutions were taxed to the limit of their capacity to meet the demands of this abnormal enterprise. Depression followed, bringing about conditions that caused a restriction of all financial enterprises, thereby resulting in a withdrawal of capital from business undertakings and an increase in the amount of comparatively idle money not yielding the average return of profits. Last year was, therefore, not to be regarded as one favourable to profitable financial operation, but the results have nevertheless been very satisfactory.

A growing country like Canada, with unbounded resources, naturally has great power of recuperation. Trade depression consequently affected Canada less than almost any other country, and as a result, commercial and manufacturing interests are rapidly recovering from the embarrassment which retarded their progress for the past twelve months. The probability is that in the immediate future, the limits of the available resources of our financial institutions will be reached by the requirements of various legitimate undertakings, which are already beginning to show renewed vigour and vitality.

The Agricultural returns from the Dominion for 1908 indicate a large yield of grain and other crops, and this condition tends materially to create business confidence. With the prospect of fair prices and an increase in the wealth of the country from its natural products, commercial undertakings must receive a great impetus, and manufacturing and all its branches will be greatly extended. The distribution of this increased wealth rests largely with Banking institutions, and whilst the rate of interest may be somewhat lower than it has been for a year or two, the increased volume of business will, it is believed, maintain in the earning power at the same level.

The lumber industry, one of the great National sources of wealth, is rapidly reviving, and increased activity in railway extension and incidental enterprises has given a new impulse to our iron and steel works. Our mining interests now call for large outlays for operation, and our trade, increasing at home and abroad, gives good ground for the hope that Canada in a short time will more than make up for the temporary delay in her course towards the highest point of commercial greatness.

The employment of money is absolutely necessary for current operations, and as these are now extending in all directions, it is not unreasonable to look forward to several years of prosperous development of a substantial character.

To meet the demands involved in the interests I have briefly mentioned as well as others that readily suggest themselves, our Banking and financial institutions may expect a largely increased volume of business and a ready and safe outlet for all their surplus money during the present year.

The Northwest is extending its cultivated area, and is being opened to the people by means of great trunk railway lines, and many local extensions. Here we have the true source of wealth. The mere interchange or investment of money does not add materially to the general wealth of the country, but the products of the soil, the forest and the mine create new and additional capital, most of which finds its way into Banks, Loan and Insurance Corporations, and other similar institutions. By keeping a constant and energetic lookout, we hope to obtain a fair share of the handling of this increased wealth, and with this object in view, we have already established Agencies in some of the more important Western points. Yet, without unduly extending the Bank operations, there is still room for other openings and advantage of this fact should be taken as occasion arises and circumstances permit.

Whilst the value of money chiefly depends on the conditions of the great financial centres of the world, there are many local demands which affect the money market here. It is true that municipal debentures principally find a market in Great Britain. Corporation bonds such as railway, electric, etc., are largely sold abroad, but much of the cash resulting therefrom reaches our banks eventually. To show the practical situation more forcibly, I might state that the value of Municipal and Corporation Bonds of this country sold in Great Britain in 1908, was over Nineteen Million Dollars, and that Canadian investors bought only Twenty-one Million Dollars' worth, but the total of over One Hundred and Ten Millions is likely to find its way here, to be used for Local and National Development. In view, therefore, of the growth of our transportation and transmission lines, and the development of Municipal works in every town and city in the Dominion, and the large foreign capital which will be brought into this country for these purposed our Banks may anticipate, not only a large amount of money in circulation and on deposit, but a greater demand for those local needs which cannot be supplied through foreign agencies. The great industries of the country must be carried on, and these look to our Banking facilities for assistance, and with the return of prosperity the avenues of investment will materially increase. Your Directors have availed themselves of every favourable opportunity to meet this demand, but always having in mind that prosperous times demand greater care and watchfulness than periods of depression.

Instead of increasing a sufficiently strong reserve to meet all probable demands and thereby locking up a large amount of unproductive money in the treasury, we have invested considerable sums in high-class municipal debentures and other bonds, yielding the Bank a profitable return, and being almost as available as cash if occasion should arise in the future. The price of these securities is not much affected by the local market, the purchasers in Great Britain practically controlling values, and it was felt that no better or safer investment could be made with surplus or reserve funds which must be constantly and immediately available in every well-managed banking institution.

In call loans, we pursue a very conservative policy, so that no large amount of any particular stock shall be held as security by the bank at any one time. The margin of safety is always large, and the fluctuations of the ordinary market do not affect the security.

Your directors examine practically all credits and accounts in the books of the Bank. No advance of any moment is made without their sanction, and whilst this method entails a large amount of work, we feel it to be the only safe way to discharge our duty. The various agencies have been carefully inspected, the returns scrutinized, and the state and nature of investments thoroughly considered. In this work, we find the services of the Directors' Auditor, Mr. Willis, most valuable, and through him, important information regarding the bank's transactions is readily available to the Board.

Our inspectors are competent and efficient officers, and it affords me much pleasure in being able to testify to the great care and ability which they bring to bear in the performance of their duties.

I am glad to be able to state that every part of the Head Office building is rented, yielding a good return, and there does not appear to be any doubt as to this condition being continuous. The same satisfactory state of affairs exists in regard to the Yonge and Bloor streets office.

We hope that before long, the result of the careful attention and efforts of your Directors and the management may reach the Shareholders in a substantial and gratifying manner.

I move that the Report be adopted.

The Vice-President, Hon. J. R. Stratton, seconded the motion, and said: The ground has been pretty thoroughly covered by the remarks of the General Manager and the President; but I can at least re-echo the congratulations and repeat the expressions of pleasure which the report warrants.

I have personal knowledge that the directors have all devoted themselves faithfully to the service of the Bank during their tenure of office. This was to be expected from their high standing, high sense of duty, and ability. Besides, they are among the largest holders of stock, and are, therefore, the most directly and largely interested. Any indifferent or perfunctory performance of service or duty on their part would naturally more prejudicially affect them than shareholders with less interests at stake. It is certain, therefore, that when the responsible officers of the Bank are so directly and personally interested, there exists a guarantee of careful and effective administration. The Bank has more than 1,900 shareholders, many of whom are prominently associated with important and industrial enterprises. The character of these shareholders, associated with the rapid increase of the paid-up capital of the Bank, testifies to the confidence which its stability, and excellent management inspire.

The business of the Bank is expanding in every direction; and it is the aim of the directors to keep the Traders Bank abreast of the great progress this Dominion is making. Of this, its past is a guarantee, which the year just closed strengthens. To see gratifying results achieved, to see business and profits satisfactory, to see securities strengthened, and assets increased, in the face of conditions such as have prevailed during the greater part of the year, seem to be indications of good and efficient management. A financial institution which comes so creditably through a difficult year, can, with improved conditions in every important national interest, reasonably anticipate a prosperous future.

It affords me great pleasure to second the motion for the adoption of the report.

The motion for the adoption of the report was carried unanimously.

Moved by Mr. R M Gilkison, seconded by Mr. Geo. Watson, that the thanks of the shareholders are due, and are hereby tendered, to the President, Vice-President and Directors of the Bank for their attention to the interests of the Bank during the past year.—Carried.

Moved by the Hon. J R Stratton, seconded by Mr. E F B Johnston, that the thanks of the Directors and Shareholders are due, and are hereby tendered, to the General Manager, the Assistant General Manager, the staff of the Bank, for their diligent attention to the interests of the Bank during the past year.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Alex. Stewart, seconded by Mr. Jas. E Brown, that the ballot be now open for the election of Directors, and to be kept open until three o'clock unless five minutes elapse without a vote being cast, when it shall be closed, and until that time, and for that purpose, only this meeting be continued.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Thos. R Parker, seconded by Mr. J B Fairgrieve, that the scrutineers cast one ballot in favour of the following persons as Directors:—C D Warren, Hon. J R Stratton, C Kloepfer, W J Sheppard, C S Wilcox, E F B Johnston, H S Strathy.—Carried.

E Galley, J K Niven, Scrutineers.

The Scrutineers reported the following gentlemen duly elected to act as Directors for the ensuing year, viz:—C D Warren, Hon. J R Stratton, C Kloepfer (Guelph,) W J Sheppard (Waubaushene.) C S Wilcox (Hamilton.) E F B Johnston, K.C., H S Strathy.

The meeting then adjourned.

At a subsequent meeting of the newly-elected Directors, Mr. C D Warren was re-elected President, and Hon. J R Stratton Vice-President by a unanimous vote.

TREATY BLOCKED AT THE CAPITOL

Michigan Senator Delays Ratification of Waterways Pact.

ST. MARY'S RIVER POWER

Senator Smith Declares That Treaty Should Not Be Passed on Until Clause Is Added Fixing Partition of Power of Which He Says 75 Per Cent. Rightfully Belongs to the United States.

Washington, Jan. 28.—After devoting over four months to a consideration of the Canadian waterways treaty yesterday the Senate adjourned without having made any substantial progress toward ratification. The treaty probably will be considered daily until voted on.

Most of the time was consumed by Senator William Alden Smith (Michigan), who insisted that the treaty should not be ratified without a provision fixing a division of the interests of Canada and the United States in the 6,203,000 horse-power provided by the rapids in the St. Mary's river.

He argued that only one per cent. of the flow of the river is required to operate the locks at Sault Ste. Marie, leaving the remainder of the vast flow to be utilized for power purposes. To leave this division of the water undetermined at this time, he declared, would be to leave a vexing question open for the future, and he made plain his determination to fight the treaty.

If, as a matter of right, he said, 75 per cent. of this power belongs to the United States, as he was satisfied it did, he wanted that fact specified in the treaty.

In the development of the transmission of power he insisted it would be possible to utilize all of this vast energy for mining and manufacturing purposes on the American side of the St. Mary's river, and he did not wish to have the industries of his state crippled by a failure to conserve demands in the framing of a treaty.

Senator Lodge defended the treaty on the ground that the disposition of water rights related to a question of boundary and could be settled later. In this view Mr. Lodge was supported by Senator Carter of Montana.

Newfoundland Balks.

St. John's, Nfld., Jan. 28.—The Newfoundland Cabinet has not accepted the draft of the proposed fisheries agreement arranged at Washington, but on the other hand has submitted a counter proposal to Ambassador Bryce and Secretary Root.

The newspapers opposed to Sir Robert Bond's Government express the opinion that the Premier does not intend to accept the Washington agreement.

Successful Rural 'Phone Company.

Brockville, Ont., Jan. 28.—One of the thriving rural telephone companies of these united countries is the Leeds and Grenville company, with headquarters at North Augusta, and the first annual meeting, just held, disclosed profitable results.

The plant is valued at $11,000, and a handsome net profit was reported. 'Phones to the number of 137 are in use throughout the townships of Augusta and Edwardsburg, and preparations are being made for extending the line by 40 miles next summer.

Weds Chinaman For Spite.

New York, Jan. 28.—"I married him just to spite my parents," declared Mrs. Ong Sing, the radiant young bride of a Chinese bridegroom, as she held an impromptu wedding reception on Tuesday in the City Hall. Ong Sing, who reached just to the bride's shoulders, nodded an enthusiastic approval and beamed while his bride explained.

The newly-wed Mrs. Ong Sing gave her name as May Bohner of No. 92 Floyd street, Brooklyn, and said she is 21 years old.

Burglars at Mount Forest.

Mount Forest, Jan. 28.—Burglars on Tuesday night forced an entrance into Volson's dry goods store, Skale's jewelry store and R. Scott & Co.'s departmental store. The tills in each case were rifled. Several gold chains were also taken from Skale's. Chief Cringle arrested a suspect yesterday morning. He had quite a collection of coppers and silver in his possession, and a cut on his hand. The glass in Scott's front door was broken to effect an entrance.

Alligator Steak For Taft.

New Orleans, Jan. 28.—For the delectation of President-elect Taft, Secretary M. B. Trezevant of the Progressive Union, which organization is taking a prominent part in arranging for the entertainment of Mr. Taft on his visit here, has advanced a plan to give the distinguished visitor an alligator steak dinner in New Orleans.

Says He Could Have Saved Republic.

New York, Jan. 28.—The opinion of Capt. Thomas Fenlon of the whaleback steamer City of Everett, that he could have towed the steamer Republic into a place where she could have been beached if Capt. Sealby had accepted his offer of help, [illegible] yesterday communicated to off[illegible] of the White Star line.

Arrested Son For Murder.

Port Henry, N.Y., Jan. 28.—Frank Clark, a chemist, was shot and mortally wounded in a quarrel with Clyde Butterfield, a mail carrier, in the Lee House, yesterday.

Butterfield was arrested by his father, a constable, and is charged with the shooting.

Historic Timber For Woodwork.

Worcester, Mass., Jan. 28.—Timbers from the British frigate Augusta, sunk in the Delaware river, near New Salem, N.J., in 1777, are being transformed by a Worcester firm into interior panelling for the New Jersey room of the new building of the Daughters of the American Revolution at Washington.

HELPED ELOPING COUPLE.

Charles Murphy of Brockville Jailed on Strange Charge.

Brockville, Jan. 28.—A man named Barnhart and Mrs. William Pyke from this town offered the residents of Lyn, a village five miles distant, an amusing spectacle. They left here after having purchased tickets for Kingston, and took the road to Lyn, where they had dinner at the completion of which they started for the G.T.R. depot, one mile distant.

Hardly had they left the hotel when the irate father of the girl appeared on the scene, accompanied by her uncle. Reaching the station just as the train was pulling out, the father grabbed the girl, while at the same time her uncle applied a stout horsewhip to the young man.

As a result of the affair Charles Murphy, a young man of 22 years of age, has been arrested on a charge of aiding an elopement. The charge against Murphy is that he helped Barnhart to make another attempt to elope the same night. Murphy was remanded for a week.

TO EXPORT POWER.

Windsor Company Designs to Sell Hydro-Electric.

Windsor, Jan. 28.—Some months ago Hon. Adam Beck admitted that he had received application from private parties here for a large amount of Niagara power.

It became known last evening that the application came from the Electrical Distributing Co., which has been incorporated with a Dominion charter. It is backed by some wealthy men of this vicinity. John Davis, ex-mayor, is president, George M. Hendrie, vice-president, and W. C. Kennedy, who is managing director of the Windsor Gas Co., is secretary. O. E. Fleming, who unsuccessfully contested North Essex at the last Dominion election, and M. J. Dee, are directors.

It is announced that the company expects to export power, unless this is prohibited.

TELEGRAPHIC BRIEFS.

The Spanish steamer Trinidad has sunk an unknown Belgian steamer off Cape Rocs. Eight Belgians lost their lives.

Four children of A. M. Kendall, Pittsburg, were cremated and their parents seriously injured in a fire which destroyed their home.

An epidemic of black diphtheria is causing much uneasiness in the village of Harlowe, near Kingston, and three families are quarantined.

President Roosevelt sent to Congress a message approving the recommendation that the wreck of the battleship Maine be removed from Havana harbor.

Canadian Northern In B.C.

Victoria, Jan. 28.—At a luncheon tendered to D. D. Mann yesterday afternoon, he stated that while no definite arrangements had yet been made he had received great encouragement from Premier McBride and colleagues, and the outlook was promising for the Canadian Northern in British Columbia. He regarded Vancouver Island and the mainland coast as the Reviera of the Pacific, and advocated a Canadian-manned squadron with Canadian training ships on the Pacific and Atlantic.

The Premier emphasized the statement in the House that he could see no difficulties in the way of satisfactory arrangements with the railway, which he hoped would soon be completed.

Benoit Constant Coquelin was the best known actor on the French stage. He was born at Boulogne-Sur-Mer, Jan. 23, 1841, the son of a baker. It was originally intended that he follow the trade of his father.

He made his debut at the Comedie Francais in 1860, and up to 1886 he created no less than 40 parts.

TWO DIE IN COLLISION.

Grand Trunk Freight Trains Crash Together at Harriston.

Harriston, Jan. 28.—Just before noon yesterday an Owen Sound freight train, drawn by a big mogul engine, instead of taking the Owen Sound branch at Harriston, signalled for the main line to Southampton. The switch was opened and the great engine steamed up the Southampton line at about 30 miles an hour.

When about three miles north of here, and going down grade in a blinding snowstorm, it crashed into the southbound way freight from Southampton, killing instantly Fireman M. Root of Palmerston and Brakeman John Smith of Southampton. Engineer Joseph Arkell of the Southampton freight was not, however, seriously injured.

Just a little north of Harriston is a branch to Owen Sound, and, Engineer Kennedy, being a new man up this division, signalled for the Southampton line instead of the Owen Sound. The southbound train had right of way.

This is one of the worst wrecks up this way for some years, and the cars are literally smashed to pieces. One engine telescoped the other and remained upright on the track, but the tenders were thrown one on either side of the track.

Brakeman Smith was found partly under the tender of the big engine, and Fireman Root just at the edge of his engine. He was badly cut up and has his neck broken. Both bodies were brought here and an inquest was opened last night. Drs. Stewart of Palmerston and Henry and McCullough of Harriston attended the injured.

Two auxiliaries are working at the wreck, but it will not be clear before this afternoon. Superintendent Gillen came up from Toronto last evening.

The casualties were all on the southbound way freight, the crew of the north freight saving themselves by jumping.

KAISER'S FIFTIETH BIRTHDAY.

All Germany Turns Out to Wish Him Long Life.

Berlin, Jan. 28.—The 50th anniversary of the birth of Emperor William was celebrated yesterday in an unusual manner.

All the crowned heads of the German states, excepting the aged Luitpold, Regent of Bavaria, came to Berlin to present their congratulations. The city is beflagged and the illumination last evening was on an uncommon scale.

According to the old Prussian tradition the day was ushered in at 6 o'clock by the intoning of a chorus from the tower of the castle by a corps of trumpeters. At 8 o'clock the castle guard, headed by a military band, marched the length of Unter Den Linden to the Brandenburg gate and back. The streets were lined by crowds of people and a large assemblage cheered the Emperor when he appeared at one of the castle windows.

After religious services in the chapel the Emperor and Empress took up a position in the white room of the castle, before the throne, where they received the congratulations of the members of the diplomatic corps, Chancellor Von Buelow and the other Ministers.

Treated His Prisoners.

Windsor, Jan. 28.—Joseph Lappan, an Essex County constable, has been suspended from duty and will in all probability lose his position, for improper conduct. Lappan, who was given charge of two prisoners to take down to Sandwich jail a few days ago, had not reached his destination at a late hour in the evening, and it was feared he had been attacked and perhaps murdered by his charges. Instead, he was found in a road-house, treating the two prisoners to whisky and cigars. All three were intoxicated, and had to be conveyed to the jail on a dray.

LIVED A BACHELOR AND HAD A FAMILY

Prominent Illinois Man Reveals His Marriage on Death Bed.

Examiner Special.

Litchfield, Ill., Jan. 28 — "My wife and children are back in Vermont. Tell them I died thinking of them and I want their forgiveness." After a few other words, S. F. Allard, for many years a well known resident of Walshville, a village south of here, lay dead in St. Francis Hospital in this city.

Allard was past seventy-one years of age. He was a prominent citizen of Walshville and had many warm friends in the village. He lived alone and secluded, and was recognized as a bachelor. Realizing that he must die in a few hours, he gathered a few of his closest friends around him and told the secret of his life.

Messages were sent to the family in Vermont, and the dying man's story was verified. In the return messages sincere affection was expressed for the husband and father. The reason for the secluded life still remains a secret.

MANY ITEMS OF INTEREST FROM CAMPBELLFORD

Examiner Special.

The work on this charge has moved along remarkably well during the past six months. The services on the sabbath are well attended and the offering is far in advance of any time in the history of the church.

All the organizations of the church are flourishing and enthusiastically engaged in the Master's work.

The prayer meeting is most encouraging and the large lecture room is often crowded.

The W. M. Society have added to their number three Life Members and the income thus far is in advance of last year.

The Ladies' Aid decided not to have a social or tea meeting on Thanksgiving time and instead asked for cash contributions and received some $80.00.

The anniversary services were conducted by Rev. Mr. Balfour of Havelock and Rev. Mr. Cairns an ex-president of Montreal Conference on Nov. 22nd and 29th. Five hundred dollars were asked for and more than that amount was given.

Our Sunday School on Rally Day gave $10 to the Sunday School Aid and Extension Fund, and on Sunday Dec. 20th the school gave $20 to the Sick Children's Hospital, Toronto.

The ladies of our church produced 'The Temple of Fame' in the music hall on New Year's evening to an immense audience and repeated the following Monday evening, also to a full house. This was given by home talent and all ladies of the Methodist church and was acknowledged the best entertainment ever given in this town. Many are anxious to have it repeated. Some 75 took part and all did their part well.

On January 3rd a number were received as members in good standing of the Methodist church.

We are confident the work of God is progressing on this charge and the pastor, Rev. A. J. H. Strike, is doing a noble work and is very popular with the people.

The tables were laid in the Sunday school room and were very artistically decorated for the occasion. The menu provided was on exceptionally good one and very appetizing. The young ladies waited on the tables and were very attentive to the large number who availed themselves of the opportunity to partake of the ladies' hospitality. County Council Asks For Improvements To The Market; Objects To Confiscation Clause

The members of the County Council waited upon the City Council in regard to the market.

Those present were: — Messrs. Shaw, Brown, Breault, Kidd, Knox, Comstock, Russell, Tucker, Hales, Darling, Moher, Perdue, Coben, Fife, Stewart, Graham and Warden Scott, representing the Council, while Aldermen Turner, Metheral, Duttus, McIntyre and Mayor Rush represented the city.

In opening Ald. Turner asked the County Council's committee to state the questions they desired to take up with the city.

Mr. Shaw said their purpose was to discuss first, clause 11, of the market bylaw, which they thought was rather harsh. They would also like some shelter in case of storm.

The farmers would like to have the market on the ground floor instead of having to go upstairs with their baskets, etc.

Warden Scott stated that the question proposed to discuss was the market bylaw. There is considerable dissatisfaction among the farmers and it was felt that some more congenial arrangement could be made.

Clause 11 referred to the sale of potatoes, beet, etc., which must be sold according to weight and measure as represented.

This clause has caused several farmers to pay fines and lose their goods. They think it very hard to lose their goods. They think potatoes should be sold by the bag and some other alterations could also be made.

Mr. Brown said that it was just as convenient for the city people to go to the market as it was for the farmers. If the farmers are to be hauled up in police court and to have their goods confiscated they will stop patronizing the market and sell to the grocers.

He stated that if the city could afford to do so, a covered market would be a great convenience to the farmers and they would come in large numbers on stormy days and the prices would be more steady.

County Solicitor Peck pointed out that the bylaw as it stood was a hardship on the farmers. Some of them filled their bags and might be a pound short without any intention on their part to do wrong.

The city purchasers pointed out that the purchasers had to be protected, and the council tried to do justice to all parties. It was felt, however, that the farmers should sell all their produce according to a standard weight.

The county representatives finally stated that it might be all right to impose a fine but not confiscate the goods. For instance a man should not lose a whole load of potatoes or a basket of butter, because they were a little under weight.

One suggestion made was to repeal the confiscation clause from the bylaw.

The joint committee will refer the matter to the Property Committee and have the matter fixed up.

COUNCIL IS ASKED TO ISSUE DEBENTURES FOR $10,000 MORE TO MEET COST OF THE INSTITUTE

Board of Education Waited Upon the Committee---Aldermen Think the Board Should Come to Them Before the Money Was Spent.

SOME CRITICISMS.

At the meeting of the Committee of the whole Council on Wednesday night, a deputation from the Board of Education waited upon the City Fathers to request that debentures be issued for the borrowing of $10,000 in addition to the $71,000 already voted by the people for the new Collegiate Institute. They explained that it had been regarded by the board at the time that the sum voted was too small and that they would have to ask for more and the members of the Board felt that they had done very well in keeping the expense down as close to the amount as they had.

The Aldermen, on the other hand, seemed to think that the money should be asked for before the work was done, and not afterwards. The people had been taken into the confidence of the Board on the other grants and should be now, was the opinion of the Aldermen to whom the $10,000 demand looked big when it was considered that the school rate this year will be in the neighbourhood of 8 1-2 mills.

There were present on behalf of the Board of Education, Mr. L. M. Hayes, chairman of the Board, and Messrs. R. Fair, D. W. Dumble and B. F. Ackerman, of the Finance Committee of the Board.

Mr. Fair informed the Council that since the Board had made their demand, for this year they had found that a portion of the sum asked for should have come under the head of permanent improvements. The total was $4,557.50 and the Board asked that debentures should be issued to cover that amount.

Chairman Hayes remarked that the first amount had always been considered too small. The amount granted by the people was in all $71,000, and this was expended as follows:—

Sundries and purchase of lot...	$15,385.80
Langford & Sheehy	53,457.95
J. Kincaid	865.50
Duranceau	1,809.50
McGregor & Reid	4,989.87
J. E. Belcher	2,500.00

The amount expended in excess of receipts was $6,828.22, to which was to be added $1,800 for sundries, making $79,628.62 as the total cost of the Collegiate Institute. The extra expenditure largely included furniture and equipment. The building was erected well within the contract, as the furnishing and equipment might be looked upon as an extra.

Ald. Hicks went over the situation; he stated that the Board had asked for $50,000, which was granted, but that a second request for a similar amount had been defeated. Then they asked the Council to submit a by-law for $21,000 and in doing so the Board had stated to the Council that it would leave them $2,000 to come and go on. He asked if the Board had not known that they would need furnishings and equipment.

Mr. Hayes stated that if he remembered correctly, it had been said at the time that the Board would have to ask for $10,000 or $15,000 more for furnishing.

Mr. Dumble also spoke for the Board in supporting the request. He said that he had been unable to find any crookedness to the extent of even ten cents in the operations of the Board. Everything was done openly and above board. Mr. Dumble explained that in school buildings there were always extras cropping up which could not be foreseen. The Board had felt it their duty to secure good buildings and furniture, and he felt sure that the new Collegiate Institute was a credit to the city. In order too, to get the best teachers available, it had been found necessary to raise the standard of salaries, the increase in two years being $2,000.

Ald. Hicks stated that the Board had been voted $71,000 by the people, and had spent over $6,000 in excess of that amount without coming to the Council or the people about it. He thought that the right time to come to the Council was before the money was spent and not afterwards, and that the Board had better carry along the overdraft for a while.

Ald. Bradburn concurred with Ald. Hicks, saying that the Board should have come to the Council first. He also thought that the tax bills should be made out so that they would show the city rate, the public school rate, the Collegiate Institute rate and the Separate School rate instead of having the total amount. He moved, seconded by Ald. Phelan, that this be done, and the motion carried.

The Board's demand will be taken up again.

MR. BENNETT'S FINE LECTURE

Was Given at St. Peter's T. A. S. Rooms Last Night at Athletic Club's Concert—Musical Programme Was Rendered.

LARGE NUMBER PRESENT

The Athletic Club of St. Peter's T.A.S. gave a very enjoyable entertainment in the society's assembly hall last night, the feature being a lecture by Mr. Bennett, of the Canadian Cordage Works, on a trip from England to India. The attendance was fairly large and thoroughly appreciative, and the delightful journey which in their fancy they took under the guidance of the lecturer was greatly enjoyed.

Mr. Jos. Picard, president of the Athletic Club, occupied the chair until Rev. Father McColl arrived shortly before the principal event of the evening.

Chairman's Address.
Selection by the Mandolin Club.
Instrumental Solo, Miss Bernice Giroux.
Recitation, Mr. J. John.
Piano Duet, the Misses Dorris.
Vocal Solo, Mr. Harry Quinlan.
Recitation, Mr. Waring.
Vocal Solo, Mr. John King.
God Save the King.

Mr. Bennett commenced at Scotland but his descriptive voyage was really begun at Southampton. Down through the Atlantic the steamer held its course along the western coast of the Peninsula, until its course was turned towards the Mediterranean, which it gained after passing the pillars of Hercules. Eastward, touching here and there the audience was taken over a journey on every hand of which historic scenes and places are found. The trip was delightfully carried out, and when the destination in India had been reached, and the fancy anchor of the fancy ship had been cast, a hearty vote of thanks was tendered Mr. Bennett for his most entertaining and instructive lecture. It was moved by Mr. Chas. Murty and seconded by Mr. Maurice O'Hern. Rev. Father McColl also referred to the lecture in very complimentary terms.

The accompaniments were played by Miss Dorris, Miss L. Quinlan and Mr. Avan.

WATER COMMISSIONERS ASK FOR $120,000.00

cil the expenditure of a considerable sum of money in improving the plant, putting in a new dam and installing auxiliary pumps. Mr. Matthews gave the history of the taking over of the plant by the city in 1902. He showed that the cost then had been $237,000. The mileage then was 17.6 as compar-with 30.7 now, the services were 1070, as compared with 2463 last year while the hydrants were 129 instead of 213. The pumpage during the first year of the Commissioners, was 394,451,000 instead of 620,466,000 last year. There had been times during the past two years when the pumping plant was working at its fullest capacity. The average repairs during the seven years in which the Commissioners had the department in charge, had been $881; $1,235 having been expended last year.

The present pumping plant consisted of two sets, taking care of in all 2,225,000 each, while the report of the Underwriters had recommended that it should be increased by 6,000,000, making the total capacity, 10,450,000. St. Thomas with 14,000 population had a plant with a capacity of 9,500,000 gallons.

The Commissioners had studied the matter carefully and had called in two well known hydraulic engineers, Mr. Keefer, of Ottawa, and Mr. Wm. Kennedy, Jr., of Montreal. They had recommended a new dam 500 feet below the present one, with a new pumping station, the installation of one set of 3,000,000 capacity, moving down the present two sets to the new station and the converting of the old plant into a steam auxiliary pumping plant.

Resolution Passed

Mr. Matthews then read the following resolution which had been passed by the Commissioners at a meeting held on Wednesday afternoon:

That in the judgment of the Commissioners the time has arrived, when a new concrete dam with the necessary accessories, should be erected to replace the wooden one, built by the late Peterborough Water Company in 1893-4; that such dam should be placed about 500 feet down the river from the present dam, where the river is considerably narrower, and where a much better rock bottom and increased head can be obtained; that the dam and accessories should be so designed, constructed and equipped, as to be thoroughly modern and efficient throughout thus securing the greatest degree of permanency, reducing cost of maintenance to a minimum, and securing the city the full benefit of the whole flow of the river; that the result desired can in the opinion of the Commissioners, be secured, almost, if not altogether, out of current revenue from the works, without increase of water rates or other assessment; that such new dam is estimated to produce about 1200 h. p. at low water, would relieve the city from an average yearly outlay on the dam of nearly $900 and also from all apprehension as to its safety; that there be sent to the city council this resolution, and a copy of the report, and letter of Mr. Wm Kennedy, Civil and Hydraulic Engineer, of Montreal, to the commission in relation to a dam of the character and capacity outlined above, with a request to submit to the ratepayers a by-law for the issue of $120,000.00 of debentures for the above purpose in case the council shall approve of the proposal of the Commissioners."

Mr. W. H. Moore, another of the Water Commissioners, also explained the reason for the request of the Commissioners. He stated that the matter had been under the study of Commissioners for three years and after calling in expert advice had felt that it was a step that would, have to be taken. He urged upon the Council to pass the by law and present it to the people at as early a date as possible. Mr. Moore read the report of Engineer Kennedy, upon the subject, showing what was needed and the cost of the work.

He went on to point out that the new dam would leave available 1200 h. p.; 500 h. p. of which would be used by the Commissioners for pumping purposes which would leave 700 h. p. Whatever way it was used, at ten dollars per h. p. a sum would be provided which would pay the interest and sinking fund on $110,000. Besides this there would be the increasing income from year to year, so that the debentures could be paid without asking the people to contribute one cent from the general tax; neither would the rates be raised, in fact if the new works were finished now it would be possible to lower the rate.

Mr. W. H. Hill, the third Commissioner also spoke strongly in favour of the proposition. He said that the Commissioners had taken the matter into their most serious consideration and felt that what they were asking for was needed. He pointed out that the yearly revenue from the water works was increasing and showed that the interest and sinking fund on the debentures would be practically covered by that, while on the other hand there was the power question. Mr. Hill urged upon the Council the immediate passing of the by-law pointing out that even if the Council acted as quickly as possible there would necessarily be some delay in view of the time necessary to advertise and pass the by-law and to secure the necessary plans and specifications.

The Council did not discuss the matter at all last night but left it in the hands of the Power Committee who will have a meeting with the Water Commissioners in regard to the matter at as early a date as possible. It is not expected that the by-law will be in such shape as to present it at Monday's meeting.

THE TRADERS BANK

Very Favourable Report Presented by Board of Directors.

The twenty-fourth annual meeting of the Traders' Bank was held in the head office building, Yonge Street, Tuesday, Jan. 26, and a statement presented by Mr. Stuart Strathy, the General Manager, disclosed the results of a year of successful operation and a very satisfactory condition of the bank's affairs. Notwithstanding the financial disturbance of the past year the earnings on the paid-up capital amount to the large sum of $500,217.60. The liquid assets of the bank are over $9,000,000.00, being about 30 per cent. of the liabilities to the public, which places the bank in a very strong position. A large increase in the deposits has taken place during the year, the amount now on deposit being over $25,600,000.00, $4,000,000.00 of which is non-interest bearing.

The remarks of the General Manager, Mr. Stuart Strathy, and of the President, Mr. C. D. Warren, and the Vice-President, Hon J. R. Stratton, M.P., agreed in asserting the belief that the worst of business depression had spent its force, and a brighter future in financial and industrial circles is in sight.

The circulation of the bank amounts to $2,600,905, while the total assets of the bank now amounts to $34,859,590.31.

The Traders Bank in point of capital is now the sixth largest bank in the country, and is one of the most progressive of Canada's financial institutions.

A DELIGHTFUL COMEDY OF LOVE AND LAUGHTER

Kathryn Osterman, who will be remembered in this city by her clever performance of "The Girl Who Looks Like Me," will return to Peterborough Saturday, Feb. 6th, matinee and night. The clever comedienne will be seen at the Grand in the delightful comedy of love and laughter, "The Night of the Play" which is said to be even better than her offering of last season. Miss Osterman will have the assistance of an excellent company including Wm. Williams, Edgar Post, Charles Worthington, Guy Sampael, Gavin Harris, Sada Werteim Belle Theodore, Elizabeth DeWitt, and Edna Ward.

The story of "The Night of the Play" is that of an ambitious woman who writes a play, and tries to keep the fact from her husband. She seeks the assistant of a poet to get the piece produced, and this naturally makes the poet's sweetheart jealous. This, with the husband's jealousy, causes all sorts of complications, and the wife gets her husband and her friends into all sorts of trouble. The fun is of the rich, clean and crisp order, and Miss Osterman is said to be delightfully funny in the part.

Miss Osterman will introduce some entirely new gowns that are said to be simply gorgeous, especially the cloth-of-gold directoire dress which she will wear in the fourth act. This it is claimed will be the handsomest gown ever worn by an actress on the English-speaking stage, and the cost is said to be $1,000. There will hardly be any need for any woman to wear the directoire gown on the stage of a Peterborough theatre after Miss Osterman is seen in hers, which is one mass of gold from head to foot.

SHIPPING CHEESE TO GREAT BRITAIN

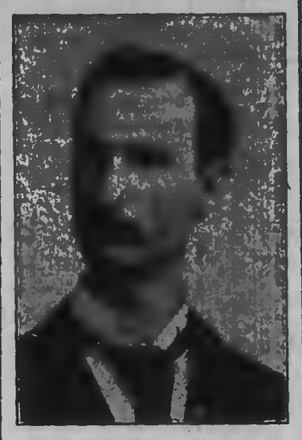
From Farm and Dairy.

Several factories in the Lansdowne, Ont. section of Eastern Ontario, shipped cheese direct to Great Britain last year in an effort to save the charges of the middlemen in Canada including the local buyers and the Montreal exporters. The results of these shipments were reported last week, at a meeting of the Farmers' Produce Association, held in Ottawa, by Wm. J. Webster, of Tilley.

Mr. Webster's paper was as follows: Possibly no scheme connected with the sale of cheese has created more general interest, approving and contrary, than that proposing direct shipments to Great Britain. This phase of the question has been commented upon by cheese men, both in Canada and in England, and particularly by the Canadian trade commissioner at Manchester, Mr. P. B. MacNamara, who expresses most hearty approval of the plan and anticipates in connection with such a trade increased prices for good cheese furnished regularly in this way.

A Lansdowne branch of the Farmers' Produce Association, during the past season, has been evading Canadian buyers and been placing the output of its factories directly on the English market. While the results of this undertaking have not been as satisfactory as might have been wished, still much information, if not gain in other ways, has been acquired which perhaps may be turned to advantage and which, it is expected, will be a guide to the future selling operations of the Lansdowne Association.

One feature of direct shipments which recommends it is the elimination of details (as they may be called)



Mr. J. J. Parsons, Jarvis, Ont.

The newly elected President of the Dairymen's Association of Western Ontario was first appointed to the board of directors at the time the convention of the Association was held at Stratford four years ago. He has served continually on the board since, until his election as president at the recent convention held at Brantford. Mr. Parsons has been connected with the dairy industry for many years and is at present engaged in making both cheese and creamery butter in modern factories at Jarvis and Marburg.

associated with the sale of Canadian cheese and adding to the expense of placing it where it ultimately goes upon the English market. The buyers have pointed out in connection with the agitation for factory inspection weigh and pay at car doors, that costs of this sort would be a charge on the cheese and would be deducted from the price allowed the factory. If this is so, and we may reasonably assume that it is, and we can reduce the amount of that expense, thus increasing the price at the factory, why it behooves us to do so and to see that our cheese are transferred from the curing room to the counter in Great Britain with the least possible accumulation of cost. Why is it necessary to have all the complicated system and machinery that has distinguished our Canadian cheese trade in the past? It is at any rate not at all essential to the safe transit of the goods. They will arrive just as safely in England where they are bound for and where they ultimately will go, if shipped for export from factory, as to be transferred in the roundabout way at present practised, and practised for no very evident purpose except to facilitate advantageous opportunities in the interests of the middleman. Our present system, gives us the cheese board, the board salesmen, the board buyers, the Montreal agent, and cartage, storage, inspection and dock dues at Montreal. Cannot any or all of these be eliminated without any disadvantage to the producer?

One decided advantage to through shipment is that cheese placed aboard cars on Tuesday at Lansdowne go into cold storage aboard ship at Montreal on Wednesday or Thursday, thus avoiding a menace to the quality of our cheese and at the same time avoiding a certain charge of three-eighths of a cent a pound on the cost of our cheese, which, at the rate of three-eighths of a cent on the output of the eight counties, Leeds, Grenville, Dundas, Stormont, Glengarry, Prescott, Russell and Carleton, would mean a yearly saving of over $160,000. This would pay nicely the expenses of several such meetings as we are holding here to-day and seems well worth our while looking after. Still the middleman argues we must have him and without this outlay his services will be denied us.

Even though, as the adverse critics of this idea contend, the services of the middlemen are essential to an intelligent distribution of our cheese, as we were advised by buyers in connection with factory inspection, it does not follow that we should demand for distributing purposes too extravagant a number of employees, agents and agencies.

The English firms are practically the only ones we are interested in in connection with our cheese trade. We have refused to send our cheese to them, so they are obliged to send their agents to us or employ already established firms here to act as agents for them. This is a question not of eliminating the middleman but of co-operating with him in the marketing of our cheese, thus permitting him to dispense with superfluous accessories and reduce expense, to our ultimate advantage, we trust.

In our season's venture in cheese shipping, we depended entirely upon the reliability and business capacity of Willer & Riley, Ltd., for satisfactory returns for our cheese. This is an objectionable feature to the system as carried on by us. The cheese were shipped to Willer & Riley, Ltd. and left in their hands to be sold. They rendered account sales showing the price our cheese had brought from the retailer and we received proceeds, less charges of transportation and commission. Willer & Riley's account sales kept fairly up with current market reports (as taken from the Manchester Grocers' Review) until the middle of September, at which time our first August cheese came upon the market, just following their unfortunate financial collapse. These cheese were sold for 60 shillings of one shilling less than at the sale of a week previous and that on a market reported one shilling higher, continuing equally unprofitable until the balance of our cheese in their hands were disposed of. Had we been able to secure prices continuing the season through as close to the highest ruling prices as were realised for May, June and July, we should have come out at the end of the season, with a very fair balance to the credit of through shipments. As it was, the three-eighths of a cent which we were saving in our mode of transit was either appropriated by the English middleman or deducted from the price charged to the retailer.

The firm handling those cheese must have realized a better profit than they could have done had they paid the same price to our factory, sold to the retailer for the same price as they did, and besides have paid a Brockville buyer one-eighth of a cent a pound commission, a Montreal agent another one-eighth cent for his trouble of unloading, storing, inspecting and reshipping, besides paying for cartage and dock dues at Montreal.

The results of our commission sales bring us to the question, whether the cheese cannot be sold right at home on a through shipping basis. The importers will co-operate with us in eliminating this encumbrance of trade, (the Montreal inspection) and buy our cheese right on their reputation, and at home. In this way we should gain security, we should gain at least the major portion of the saving in transit, we would obviate the possibility of injurious speculation and sell our cheese to a certain extent on their merits. All these advantages are aimed at by this association.

Cheese can be exported from any railway station, direct without in any way hazarding the value of the cheese, if reasonable care is observed in boxing and handling prior to shipment.

English firms will meet us either as purchasers at home or as agents to sell on commission.

Upon shipments for sale on commission there is no certainty of receiving either market prices ruling in England or better prices than are ruling at home. Like Montreal inspection, there is an uncertainty about it, as carried on the past season, far from satisfying. This, however, might be overcome; in the first place as to security, no doubt the firms would be willing to make a larger advance; then as to guarantee of fair returns of proceeds, it could be obtained we would suppose in this way: Visit our customers in England (should we anticipate sufficient business in this to make such a proceeding profitable) through a representative from ourselves, with a view of getting a special insight into the business, such as locating as far as possible the customer of each particular factory, and arranging with that grocer to furnish direct to each factory secretary the season's account of all that factory's cheese purchased by him, thus auditing the account sales as rendered to us by the firm selling the cheese. In this way we would be placed right in touch with the retailer himself, as has already been pointed out, to the undoubted advantage of good factories. The sudden collapse of the wealthy firm of Willer & Riley, Limited, capitalized at 350,000 pounds, with unlimited credit, points again to the lack of stability of the most apparently substantial and prosperous firms, and furnishes us a very apt and opportune lesson on the insecurity of a credit system.

DAIRY HERD COMPETITION.

From Farm and Dairy.

"You will remember that for the last two years I have been a competitor in the Dairy Herd Competition," said Mr. W. E. Thompson, of Woodstock, who won the 3rd prize in the Dairy Herd Competition, in addressing the dairymen's convention in Brantford recently. "Last year I was fortunate enough to get a medal. As far as I was concerned I made up my mind that this year I would not try for it. I did not feel that my herd was in shape to start out another season and win a prize in this competition. I had a little bad luck with one of my cows which I could not avoid. However, I saw Mr. Herns in Toronto and later on at the dairy district meeting in Woodstock, and he urged upon me to try again and finally I decided to enter this year.

"Therefore you may see that I made no preparation whatever, and took no special care of my stock. Last year some thought that I had fed more grain or expensive feeds than I got returns for, and this year I thought I would just feed my cows in the shape that I thought would be profitable. Last year I fed considerable more grain than I did this year.

"This year I fed nothing until about the fore part of July, when I started to feed one pound of bran and two pounds of meal twice daily until the first of November, amounting in all to about $75.00 in round figures. That is not a great amount of money to spend for mill feed. I was a little short of pasture and was handicapped in not having a silo. I haven't made a practice of growing lucerne or peas and oats or any crop of that kind. I am only a common man, starting honestly in business, and it takes time to get these things. I am putting up a silo and expect to have it for next year. Lucerne and silage are necessary things to produce milk economically for cheese making."

GAME PLAYED IN INSTITUTE LEAGUE

Geale's Team Won Good Contest by Six Goals to One.

The third game in the Collegiate Hockey League was played last night between Geale's and Anderson's teams, the former winning by 6 1.

The game was more than the score would indicate, the play being at the winner's end of the ice as much as at the losers.

Four goals were scored by the Gealettes in the first half and two in the second. The lone tally for Anderson's team was scored by Armstrong after going the length of the rink.

Those who showed up well on Anderson's team were Dennison and Halpany. The winners all played good hockey, especially Geale.

Ken Crane made a satisfactory referee.

GREAT ICE READY FOR GAMES IN CITY LEAGUE SERIES TO-NIGHT

A big bill is ready for the City League patrons to-night, and with the best sheet of ice available, some of the best games of the season should be seen. All the teams have rounded into shape and the hockey to-night should be the best seen in the league this year.

The first game will being together the T. A. S. and Lakefield, and both teams are claiming the victory. The Abstainers feel that they will be able to look after Leo Quinn's seven all right, while on the other hand Lakefield realizing that they are at their best on hard ice, are not worrying any about the outcome. It should be a hard fought, speedy contest all the way. Harry Morgan has been agreed upon as referee for the first game.

In the second contest the West Ends will try conclusions with the Strathconas, and the speedy bunch of youngsters from the Occidental Ward, should make things highly interesting for the champs, who will again make their appearance after a rest for last week. Both teams will be strong and the game should be of a most interesting nature.

The Strathconas will have the following line-up.

Goal—Wilson.
Point—Smith.

FEEDING OF HENS

From Farm and Dairy.

It costs no more to feed a flock of good hens than it does a flock of poor ones.

As a rule pullets lay better than old hens, but neither will lay without feed.

Though doctoring chicks is not profitable, it pays to know how to prevent sickness.

A change of food often helps layers to start laying again, hens like other animals like variety.

Except during the breeding season keep males away from the flock, hens lay better if left alone.

Hens that lay soft-shelled eggs may be helped by a little more vegetables or green food and oyster-shell.

If a hen will not pay for her keep in eggs she should be made into just what she is best fitted for—a pot-pie.

Alfalfa makes on excellent feed for poultry in winter. Cut it up fine and steam it or throw a forkful in for litter.

One cannot raise chickens and lice together, the lice will thrive at the expense of the chicken. There is no profit in lice.

"The hen doesn't lay because she is too fat" is not correct. That "she is too fat because she doesn't lay" is nearer the mark.

Dampness in the poultry-house should not be allowed. Give good ventilation without drafts, and don't over-crowd the hens.

Lazy hens, like lazy men, are not money-makers; they eat up the profits of the busy ones. You can kill the hens if not the men.

Milk is a good poultry food whether for making eggs or flesh. It is good for the chick at all ages from the day it is hatched to the laying hen.

Start with the breed you think you want and if it is the right one for your locality and market stick to it; nothing is gained by changing breeds.

It is just as well to have a well-bred chicken as a well-bred horse or cow. Any amount of food will not make a mongrel as profitable as a pure-bred under the same conditions.

In building the house do not have the roosts too high; two feet is high enough. Have them level, not step-ladder style. Many hens get hurt trying to get to the top and shoving each other off.

FINE BARNS ATTRACTIVE

From Farm and Dairy.

Fine barns that fill the eye of the traveller dot the landscape in all of our more progressive farming districts. It is a great disappointment, however, to enter the stabling of most of these fine farms. In a great majority of them, no pretence whatever is made at ventilation other than the little secured by the necessary opening of the door to let the stock in or out. In addition to the failure to provide ventilation, many of the barns have little light as well. This is especially true of the older barns.

While in the central portion of Ontario recently, a representative of Farm and Dairy was impressed by the magnificent outward appearance of the barns there. On entering them, however, he was shocked to find the poorly laid out condition of the stables, the total absence of ventilation, the wholly inadequate supply of light and in nearly every instance the ceilings festooned with cobwebs. Should disease get a hold in these stables their owners would have small chance of exterminating it under existing conditions. Those who are planning a re-arrangement of their stables or building new ones this coming season should not fail to make provision for ventilation and the admittance of light.

STONY LAKE COTTAGERS WILL OPPOSE THE REQUEST OF RADIAL RAILWAY COMPANY FOR MORE TIME

Local Members of the Association Hold Meeting to Consider the Matter—Their Views are Expressed.

LINE SHOULD BE BUILT.

A large meeting of the Cottagers and Property Committee was held in the Council Chamber last night, to discuss the application of the Peterborough Radial Railway Co. to the Legislature for a further extension of time to commence their line to Clear and Stony Lakes.

Mr. Robert Neill acted as chairman and invited discussion of the subject.

Mr. Felix Brownscombe gave a history of the agreement with the City and Radial Railway, and what was promised the City and Legislature, when application was made to the latter as follows:—

At the time the Street Railway proposition came before the ratepayers we had two means of ascertaining the extent of the work which we believed they intended to carry out. The first was from the charter which they received from the Government, and the second from the agreement entered into between the Street Railway and the City. In applying to the Government for a charter they stated that it was their intention to build and operate an electric street railway in the city of Peterborough, and also in the Townships of North Monaghan, Smith and Douro, and in the villages Ashburnham and Lakefield, and to connect the villages of Lakefield, Young's Point and Chemong Lake, with the city of Peterborough.

In coming before the City Council they led them to believe that they would do as stated in their charter, as is borne out by the preamble attached to the agreement which was entered into between them and the city, but while these outside lines were all mentioned in the preamble only that part of the line lying within the city limits was made binding by the agreement. There is, however, no doubt that the whole railway as referred to in the charter was in the minds of the citizens when they voted so strongly to give them the franchise. When the by-law was submitted to the people it was carried by a majority of 522, and there was only one polling sub-division in the city that gave a majority against it. As to the part which the company were to build in the city, that has all been completed, and has always been operated in a manner entirely satisfactory to the citizens. It is not therefore a question of better service over the existing lines, but an extension of the lines as called for by the charter, that we are here to-night asking for. If the citizens had thought for a moment that there would not have been some outside lines to draw trade to the city, I do not think they would have carried the by-law as they did. At the time Mr. Stewart and his associates appeared before the Council there was a strong feeling that the Street Railway should agree to build the line to Stony Lake by a stated time, and when the Council pressed for this, Mr Stewart replied that his company was then negotiating with the Grand Trunk for the lease of their road from Peterborough to Lakefield, and that if the Council insisted on that being in the agreement the Grand Trunk would hold out for a higher price than if he were left free to deal with them. On this understanding the matter was let stand. When the City and Street Railway entered into the agreement, the City agreed to give them an exclusive franchise for thirty years, of every street in the city, as also to bear the whole expense for five years, three-quarters of the expense for a further five years, and one-half of the expense for the remaining twenty years, for removing the snow off from all the streets in the city on which the railway had their tracks. This applies not only to the snow at the sides of the streets, but also to the snow which the street railway throw off their tracks on to the other parts of the roadway. In addition to this they are to be exempt from all taxes on their real and personal property for the thirty years. Now, surely, when we as citizens have carried out our part of the agreement to the letter, we should look to the railway to build the lines for which they received their charter.

Mr. T. C. Elliott, Rev. J. R. Webb, D. W. Dumble, T. J. Wilson, George Cochrane and B. Shortly expressed their views on the subject.

R. Neill, W. H. Meldrum, Wm. Irwin, J. D. Collins and D. W. Dumble were appointed a committee to appear before the Council and the Legislature and submit the following resolution:—

Moved by T. J. Wilson, seconded by Felix Brownscombe.

That this meeting of the Stony Lake Cottagers' Association believe that the Peterborough Radial Railway Company should not receive from the Ontario Legislature a further extension of time in which to begin the work on the extension of their Electric Railway to Clear and Stonk Lakes unless it is upon the condition that they must bona-fide commence the work this year, and prosecute it continuously during the season that such work can be carried on and in such a way that the line will be ready for service before the first of July 1910.

Also that the City Council be asked to take such steps as will give effect to this resolution, and secure for our citizens and the thousands of visitors to our city the benefits of an electric railway to our beautiful lakes, and which we were led to believe would be given at the time the present Street Railway Company were granted a franchise to our streets.

Mr. J. S. Knapman spoke on the advantage the Radial Railway Companies are to a city and the merchants. The City of Hamilton has four lines reaching out to a distance all rom seven to thirty miles. On these lines the winter time tables show that forty-eight cars arrive every day, calling at all the villages and cross roads and bringing the people in all that large section of country to the city of Hamilton at cheap rates, and giving a system that people can get a car any hour of the day up to eleven o'clock at night to return home.

Bert Hurd Used A Sherlock Holmes Method In Looking For Man Who Stole His Hens

In all probability U. Q. Woo is still trying to figure out how Mark Pengelly carried in his arms six hens without having tied them together or put them in a bag, following the usual order of proceedings. On Friday evening, January 22nd, Pengelly, went to the rear of Woo's restaurant, at the corner of George and King streets, with the fowl safely tucked under his arms as carefully as the old mother bird shielded them when they were chicklets.

Pengelly was charged with having stolen the fowl from Mrs. M. Hurd's barn on George street, and was given a hearing yesterday afternoon in the police court. On the evidence he was committed for trial, having elected that way on his first appearance last Saturday. Whoever stole them, it is a fact that Woo bought them from Pengelly, giving in return $2.05.

In relating his knowledge of the hen affair Woo amused the court by his broken English and by the amusement he derived from the remembrance of Pengelly bringing in the six hens.

"I bought one cheeken on the market and six cheekens from him man. I paid him $2.05. I know him lived on George street."

Woo told all he knew, which was to the effect that the policemen came later that night and confiscated the hens.

Bert Hurd stated that he had noticed the prints of a man's foot in an ash box beneath the hen roost. Mr. Fanning told him shortly afterwards that he had seen a suspicious looking character at the King street door of the Chinaman's. The witness said he saw Pengelly coming out of the Chinaman's and noticed that on his boots and socks were ashes.

W. Woo also testified to Pengelly coming in with the ashes on him. Kenneth Hurd, a boy of ten, identified five of the chickens that night and the police took them to the station.

Pengelly was committed, the magistrate remarking that it was too bad to bother the judge with the case, and put the county to the extra expense.

Hotelkeeper Asserts That Lid Is On Tight In Millbrook

Mr. John Croaker Says That the Watch is Too Vigilant to Allow Sale of Liquor — "Two Men Tried it and Were Froze Out."

THE BLUE TRUNK CASE.

"The Gray-Blue Trunk," or "How be supply of Whiskey did not get o Millbrook," has been told in two chapters, and the concluding section will be given on Monday, from present appearances. The trunk which contained the whiskey that Mr. John Croaker was trying to get to Millbrook at the regular baggage rate has remained at the Police Court chamber unmolested since last Friday. It is unusual in design, color and general appearance and contents. Mr. Croaker being called at the hearing this morning stated that he had the whiskey for his own use and to treat his friends now and then when they called. At Christmas time he gave considerable away as a little present here and there.

Judgment was reserved until Monday. There was nothing very new brought out in the evidence.

Mr. Walter Gillette, Clerk of Millbrook, was examined for the purpose of showing that a local option by-law was in force in Millbrook. He did not know whether Mr. Croaker sold any liquor or not.

Mr. Croaker said he kept a boarding house, but did not sell liquor. He kept it for his own private use. "You can't go that game down there, two other men tried it and got frozen out." Witness got four gallons of whiskey in December and drank some of it, giving the rest away to friends. On January 2nd, he got the trunk full which was intercepted at the G. T. R. Station. Mr. Croaker had intended that this "cargo" would last him six months. He would have used some of it and given the rest away according to the usual custom. He did not intend to sell the "stuff." "You are watched too close, anyway," he remarked.

Mr. Hall: "Why did you not take it down openly?"

Croaker: "I wanted to save expense, save the charges."

When the baggageman said to him that the trunk came from Elliott's, he remarked that there was no use lying about it.

"You have no friends in that business down there; if a man bought a drink and was pulled up for it, he would squeal on you."

SEAY SENTENCED TO TWENTY-FIVE YEARS FOR SHOOTING HIS WIFE

Examiner Special.

Toronto, Ont., Jan. 29 — William Seay, the mulatto coachman, who was found guilty last week on the charge of shooting his white wife, was sentenced this morning by the Chief Justice Sir Glenholme Falconbridge, to twenty-five years in the Kingston Penitentiary. Seay's counsel and Seay himself asked for leniency but Sir Glenholme said the crime of which the man had been found guilty was one that should be adequately punished and he had considered whether the sentence should not be for life.

Board Of Works Rescinds The By-law Concerning Railway

The Board of Works met last night with the following members present, Ald. Phelan, Duncan, Gillespie, Bradburn, Buller and McIntyre. A communication was received from the Ontario Asphalt Block Company re paving blocks for city's use.

Mr. Martin O'Neil's application for re-appointment as foreman of sewers was received.

Mr. James H. Brown complained of overcharges on sewer connections. Moved by Ald. Bradburn and Buller that no action be taken.

City Engineer Kay showed in a report he had prepared that $2.62 a cord could be saved by having stone crushed with north end crusher in the river bed than that which was delivered at the yard.

It was moved by Ald. Bradburn and Duncan that the city purchase 200 cords of stone, to be delivered in the yard at $3.00 a cord.

Moved by Ald. Buller and McIntyre that the Board enquire into the question of reducing the expenses in the Board of Works department.

Moved by Ald. Gillespie and Duncan that the chairman be asked to inquire into the matter of procuring the stone in the river bed, and the quantity that can be obtained there and report at a later meeting.

Moved by Ald. Buller and Gillespie that the chairman, Mayor Rush, Ald. Bradburn, Duncan and McIntyre be a committee to look after the interests of the city in regard to the application of the Peterborough Radial Railway Company, for the extending of the time in which to build their line to Stony Lake, with authority to attend the Legislature at Toronto when the matter comes up there, if they deem it advisable, in which case their expenses be paid, and that the motion on this matter of January 20th be rescinded.

BAD FLOOD AT A CLOTHING STORE

Tap Left Running and Overflows Zinc Basin.

While waiting on a customer last night at LeBrun's Clothing establishment shortly after six o'clock, the employees were startled by hearing water dripping from the room above on some clothing that was on the show tables. They hurriedly removed the goods before any serious damage was done although a great deal of water came down. This was caused by a drain pipe getting stopped and the sink overflowing, flooding the room with about four inches of water.

TECHNICAL EDUCATION.

The members of the Whitney Government, says the Brantford Expositor, are quite willing to make surrender of provincial rights when it is inconvenient to them to make assertion of the principle. "This is very apparent relative to technical education, which is a matter the provinces should undertake as an integral part of a provincial system for the training of the youth of our land. There may be some reason for asking Dominion assistance, but to ask the Ottawa authorities to establish an entirely independent system of education is not only an abnegation of provincial rights, but is suggesting unnecessary duplication of methods. Technical education, in its simplified forms, should be introduced into our primary and secondary schools, which are under provincial control, and in its higher forms it should only be an extension of the same system."

Under the Whitney administration we were to have all sorts of educational improvements, but the reform has not reached the core of the technical education problem, one of the most important subjects in relation to the interests of an industrial country like Canada. As long ago as 1901 Hon. R. Harcourt, Minister of Education in the Ross Government, on February 27th, in discussing the question of university aid, spoke of the important position science should occupy relative to the development of our national and provincial resources, and he made a strong plea for equipping the University with all possible completeness to this end. He shewed that if this country was to be developed; if its schools were to be a factor in its industrial growth attention must be given to the study of science. "The country wanted trained assayists, mineralogists, geologists and engineers, men who would build bridges and tunnel mountains. They wanted also trained artisans without which no country could be industrially great." These words, though spoken eight or nine years ago, are as true to-day as they were then. Does the Government of Sir James Whitney realize the gravity, of the responsibility which rests upon them in the regard of technical training in our schools?

LITTLE IMPROVEMENT.

When the electors excluded the Fowlers, the Lefurgeys and Bennette from Parliament the hope was expressed that the tone and dignity of parliamentary debate would be improved. This hope, however, appears to have been delusive. The Conservative party does not seem to appreciate the lesson administered by the electors to blatant obstruction. On Wednesday, Dr. Reid, of Grenville, showed that the mantle of these gentlemen had fallen upon his shoulders. He is an adept in tracking down imaginary scandals, but he improves. He was instrumental in reviving an exploded scandal, the Mayes contract. His suspicious nature shows lack of confidence in everybody. He insists on tenders for government contracts being opened in the presence of the officials of the department, the tendering contractor and the public. The object of Dr. Reed's motion to this effect was apparently to permit Mr. Foster and other Conservative members a chance of attacking Hon. Mr. Pugsley, Minister of Public Works, on the head of the Maye's dredging contract. This gave Mr. Pugsley an opportunity of showing that Mr. Foster had relied on newspaper clippings as basis of his charges. Mr. Foster would not answer the demand of Mr. Pugsley as to whether the affidavit which he (Mr. Foster) had quoted, making infamous charges and besides containing a radical error in date, was actually sworn to. Mr. Pugsley showed that the contract objected to went regularly to the lowest tender, as has been frequently explained. The Mayes contract charges are simply a scandal abundantly disproved. If the Opposition persist in resurrecting in Parliament all the tittle-tattle and exposed slanders of the election campaign the session will stretch out interminably, and the question of the reform of Parliamentary procedure will acquire a new significance.

Mr. Brodeur regards bribery of a constituency by promise of public works as vicious; but to bribe a province by subtle promises as good statesmanship.

HEROISM.

The world is full of persons who are not a credit to humanity, who live to themselves, and to whom sacrifice, or even thought, for their fellows is something unknown. But the world contains many heroes, some working out their lives under obscure conditions marked by devotion to duty and continuous self-sacrifice constituting systematic and not impulsive heroism. Thousands of them remain and will remain unknown, except to the eye who sees and regards all the quiet heroism of human life. On occasions circumstances bring heroic deeds to light.

The wreck of the Republic developed acts of heroism on the part of Captain Seelby, and first officer Williams, worthy of the grandest traditions of British seamanship. They stuck to their ship to the very last—till the sinking of the doomed vessel literally floated them from the post of duty and cast them adrift amidst the perilous wreckage pounding on a stormy sea. They expected no reward; they had reason, rather, to expect death, and they risked their lives with the peril of death present. The greatest reward they can get is the grateful recognition of humanity. The brazen banality of a Carnegie medal is not needed to keep their memories green.

A conspicuous example of sustained heroism is furnished by the closing days of Mr. H. C. Hammond, of Toronto. Many men under the impulse of the moment, in the heat of battle and the strife of elemental war, perform acts of heroism which they might not have done if the opportunity of deliberation, consideration or counting the cost had been afforded; and often when chance for reflection comes they look back with shudering wonder how they could have been rash enough to do what they had done.

But in the case of Mr. Hammond we have a man under sentence of death, forgetful of himself, heroically hiding his wound and facing and fulfilling the duty presented, whose neglect under the circumstances could have brought no condemnation. Some months ago his physician told him he had an incurable disease, malignant cancer of the throat, certain to bring death after a longer or shorther period of painful and loathsome endurance. Mr. Hammond simply said that there was the greater necessity of doing what he could do in the interests of suffering humanity. Under the shadow of his doom, in the midst of his pain, he led a movement for the benefit of the Hospital for Consumptives, none the less successful by his example of patient subordination of his sufferings for the sake of a good cause. This attitude is less surprising in his case, because it was the outcome of a habit of his life, the unostentatious doing of good. One needs only to reflect a moment to recognize the valiant attitude towards duty such conditions represent. There was not the impulse of heroism executed in a moment of sudden peril; only the deep sense of duty present under sentence of death in one of the most dreadful and most dreaded forms. While such specific instances of heroism are rare, there are millions on a similar plane, patient housewives and mothers of families, whose lives are an unending round of devotion to duty, unlightened by a single pleasure or relaxation or hope of relief, except through the portals of death. When we applaud the heroic deeds of soldier or sailor, we should not forget the humble heroes and heroines, whose lives glorify humanity and constitute records of devotion to duty more beneficent to mankind than the deeds of heroes eternized in bronze.

Thomas Carlisle in Sartor Resartus says that "hero worship exists, has existed and will exist universally among mankind."

TUBERCULOSIS.

The report of Dr. Charles A. Hodgetts, Deputy Provincial Registrar, has the following to say in reference to the prevalence and fatality of tuberculosis in the province,

Of tuberculosis it cannot unfortunately at present be so written as it is of malaria—that it is on the decrease.—During the year the white plague carried off 2,911 in the province, of which the cities reported 887 and the towns 118, the rate for the province being 131 per hundred thousand of the estimated population. By reference to table 10 it will be seen that each county lends its quota to make this sadly large total, the minimum being in Haliburton, 4; while the maximum is that of York (including Toronto), 553.

Surely this death roll for 1906 will present object lesson enough to at least a few of those counties in which it is sapping the best life of its ratepayers. Is the situation not worthy of the attention of every man and woman in Ontario, irrespective of race, creed and colour, and sufficient to make each one of them enthusiastic in the work to suppress what is now and what will continue to carry sorrow, suffering, disease and death to every home in this fair province. Charity can and has done much, but it cannot do all. The task is herculean, but not impossible; but municipalities must consider most seriously the situation, and if immediate results are to be obtained, and Ontario is to keep pace with the other countries and states in the great crusade, there must no longer be apathy, but work must be the war cry, and provision made for the care of the advanced cases in hospital annex or country home annexes, while the dispensary, with the instructed nurse as house visitor must be opened up in every town and city. These means, together with the day and night camp, and the instruction of the children of our Public and Separate schools, must be adopted as means to the desired end.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The Toronto World announces the discovery of a process which will reduce the price of tool steel from $1.03 to 10 cents per pound. The "man with the knife" can afford a new one every day or two now.

Australia has a revenue of about $200,000,000 and a debt of $1,200,000,000. With about double the revenue it has four times the national debt of Canada, so that relatively the debt of the Commonwealth is double that of Canada.

Sir Charles Tupper thinks he will live to see the Canadian Liberals lose office. The evergreen old statesman is now 88 years old and may live to record his century. Even in that event Mr. Borden has only twelve years to make good; and his past record does not give promise that he will succeed.

Ottawa Conservatives have decided to withdraw the protest against Sir Wilfrid Laurier's election for an Ottawa seat. This will leave him free to elect for which seat he will sit—Ottawa or Quebec East. His resignation of one of them will necessitate a bye-election, which will, of course, go the the government.

Sir Richard Cartwright, speaking in the Senate said, that a railway under government could not be run by either a good or a bad government as cheaply as under economical private management. It stands to reason that a government has less control over rates. If it should lower rates, with a view of increasing business, privately owned railways would raise an outcry. Sir Richard pointed out that the Intercolonial lent itself unkindly to effective and paying management—it was badly laid out at first.

A discovery is claimed to have been made which, if it comes up to what it promises, will have a far-reaching and, indeed, revolutionary effect upon steel production and make Canada the controlling factor. The new process will cheaply convert the common iron ore, of which this country has an abundance, into steel at a cost that will mean 10 cents a pound for tool steel, as against $1.03, the present price. It is stated that the Minister of Mines dfor Ontario has great faith in the alleged new discovery; he thinks it will give Ontario control of the steel trade of the world. It is to be hoped that this story is not too good to be true.

POST CARD COLUMN

Editor Post Card Column:

Dear Sir,—Noticing a communication in your paper last evening from the Radial Railway Company, making the broad statement that Peterborough gave as good service to the city as any town or city of its size in the province.

Now, I beg to differ from them in that respect, when East City with a population of much more than 2,000 and extending for over two miles from north to south, and one mile from east to west, never see a street car unless they walk over to George street. Strangers visiting in East City many times have made the remark, wondering why a city as large as Peterborough had no street railway system, as none is noticed on these streets.

I, for one, have been in many towns and cities in Ontario, of less population than Peterborough, with far better street car system and service. I do not doubt there may be an excellent service from George street to Jackson Park and back, but the problem for us is to walk a mile or two to catch that car.

I hope that the interest of this part of the city will be attended to as soon as possible. This is the general sentiment of all this part of the city.

I am,
Yours truly,
EAST CITY RESIDENT.

Bedridden with Piles

If you suffer from Piles the experience of thousands leads to one definite conclusion—that the surest way to relief is The Zam-Buk way! Surely you believe that nature provides somewhere, a cure for all nature's ills! Zam-Buk is the refined and concentrated essences of healing herbs—nature's balm. Theoretically it should be good. Analysts and doctors agree on this. Practically as well as theoretically it is good. Thousands of people in four continents bear testimony. Read these cases:—

Mrs. Wm. Hughes, of 253, Hochelaga Street, Hochelaga, Montreal, says:—"I suffered from blind, itching, and protruding piles for years. Sometimes they were so bad that I could hardly bear to move about. The inflammation, the burning smarting pain, the throbbing, the aching, the over-powering feelings of dullness and dark despair which this ailment brings, the shooting spasms of agony—all were so terrible that only sufferers from this awful ailment can understand!"

Bad as this case was, Zam-Buk triumphed, and Mrs. Hughes suffers no longer.

Mrs. R. Bonnell, of Scott Street, St. Thomas, says:—"For months without cessation I endured great pain from bleeding piles. For as many months I tried everything which I thought would give me ease, but in the end, dispirited and still suffering I gave in."

Then it was she heard of Zam-Buk, and she adds:—"Although I feared Zam-Buk would be like the ordinary remedies—useless—I am glad it was not. It soon proved itself to be very different. It rapidly gave me relief, and after a time cured me completely. I would like to let all sufferers from piles know what a grand thing Zam-Buk is."

Mr. Thos. Carr, of Ellesmere Street, Runcorn, says:—"I first began to suffer from piles through sitting on damp grass one summer, and for years I endured agony from this terrible complaint. Sometimes I would be bedridden for as long as a month at a stretch. Yet, to-day, I never suffer from piles! Zam-Buk cured me, to stay cured, and I bless the day I first tried it!"

So one could go on quoting case after case, and it is by working such cures that Zam-Buk has earned for itself its great reputation.

Now if you suffer from this terribly painful ailment just be guided by the foregoing cases! Don't delay! Don't waste time on things said to be "just as good." Get the real genuine Zam-Buk and start out on the way to health!

Zam-Buk is a cure also for cold sores, and chapped cracked hands, ulcers, festering sores, blood-poisoning, eczema, bad leg, ringworm, scalp sores, burns, scalds, and all skin diseases and injuries.

All druggists and stores at 50c. a box, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price; 3 boxes for $1.25.

Cut out attached coupon and mail with 1c. stamp (to pay return postage) to Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, together with name and date of this paper and a Free Sample box will be sent you.

A NATIONAL CALAMITY.

More Than 7,000,000 People In Great Britain Suffering For Food.

In Great Britain hundreds of thousands of people are starving and dependent upon charity to keep body and soul together. The state of affairs is termed by thinking men a national calamity. When it is understood that more than 7,000,000 persons are actually in want and suffering, the seriousness of the situation will be understood.

Every day these 7,000,000 arise with the gnawing pain of hunger in their stomachs and with no assurance that it is to be relieved. Food is the all important question with these millions. To keep the flame of life going they must get it somehow. They must beg, salvage, or steal.

Thefts have increased enormously in recent months. Pawnshops have acquired immense stocks and are taking little.

To make it worse, the number of sufferers is growing steadily. Many thousands of frugal workmen have spent their savings in the period they have been without work. Economize as they would, they could not stave off altogether the day when they were to feel the pinch of poverty, to know actual need.

The Government will have to do something, devise some means or other of caring for the unemployed of the nation. Riots have come to be of almost daily occurrence throughout the United Kingdom. Agitators are finding fruitful fields for their labors. These are indeed black days in Great Britain.

The General Federation of Trades Unions has advised all union men to refuse to work overtime. The federation points out that for every skilled workman out of employment two unskilled men are workless. It urges the employment of surplus labor by national and municipal work and recommends the establishment of a national department of labor, whose head shall hold a Cabinet portfolio.

It is in the big cities that the much is felt most. London and Glasgow have large quotas of unemployed. Riots have been frequent in both of these cities.

In the smaller cities there is more charity, the helping hand is extended by neighbors, but in the large cities the poor and friendless are numbered by the hundred thousand. Relief organizations are doing their utmost, but they are unable to cope with a situation of this magnitude.

Men are committing crimes to get into jail and be fed at public expense. The nation's wealthy men have been liberal contributors, but the demands are so vast that they cannot be met.

The most pitiful sights of London are the constant bread lines. Men, women and children will stand in line for hours to get a bit of stale bread from the bakeries. Thousands are turned away disappointed and forced to salvage among garbage heaps for scraps and remnants of food scorned even by dogs.

Before one of the big bakeries nightly may be seen hundreds of persons so faint with hunger as to be barely able to stand, many of whom have been there all day to hold the choice places with the better prospect of getting food.

The situation is such as to make for anarchy. Radical speakers have stirred the people to such an extent that there is danger of an uprising.

These speeches have had their effect in individual crimes and in outbreaks by small mobs. The anger of the people is growing, however, and it would not be well for the Government to delay relief measures much longer.

Prosperity In New Brunswick.

Business in New Brunswick has been brisk, and the year will prove to have been a most satisfactory one for farmers, merchants, and manufacturers, with the exception of the lumber operators, who report a dull season. The potatoe crop has been the best in many years, and farmers are selling for a dollar a barrel on a rising market.

SUFFERED 5 YEARS WITH RHEUMATISM

Unable to Work for a Year—Cured by Gin Pills.

I have been troubled with Rheumatism for 5 years, one of which I have been unable to do any work whatever. Have spent much money on other remedies until I purchased from my druggist, L. T. Best, Kingston, one box Gin Pills on his recommendation. The result was beyond my expectations. The first box banished all traces of Rheumatism. I now keep Gin Pills in the house and take one occasionally. My sincere thanks are due you for your wonderful remedy which has done so much for me.

GEO. VANDEWATER, Kingston, Ont.

Friendly letters like the above, reach us every day. No other remedy has ever had so many unsolicited testimonials in so short a time. There can be no question about it—Gin Pills do cure the Kidneys. 50c. a box—6 for $2.50. At dealers or direct. Sample box—so you can test them—sent free if you mention this paper.

DEBATE ON REID'S MOTION

Dr. Pugsley Defends Himself Against Attacks of Opponents Who Tried to Ruin His Reputation by Mayes Affidavit — Hon. Mr. Graham Discusses Level Crossings Evil —Several Bills Introduced.

Ottawa, Jan. 29.—If, as they profess, it is the desire of the Opposition to expedite the business of the House this session, they are taking a peculiar way of showing it. Two days have been spent over Dr. Reid's motion dealing with the reception and awarding of tenders, and the end of the debate is not yet in sight. For the unnecessary prolongation of the discussion the party who sit to the left of the Speaker must be held responsible. Putting aside the question of whether the motion was called for at all, in view of the regulation passed by the Government relating to the procedure of receiving and awarding tenders, the issue raised by the member for Grenville was a simple one and could have been disposed of very briefly.

Reverting to the Mayes' affidavit, which he denounced on Wednesday, Dr. Pugsley said "it was a disgrace to the man who read it (Premier Hazen), and who never had the manliness to acknowledge the wrong he did me. Mr. Foster also did no credit to himself for fathering a false affidavit.

"We were not only prepared to answer the charges, but to carry on an aggressive campaign against the men who made them."

He said that Mayes had made repeated efforts to get the contract, saying he should have 90 cents a cubic for the work, but the Minister held him to it. Mayes had approached the Minister later on to have the Government take over his dredge for $150,000. Associated with him in the endeavor was Mr. Baxter, vice-president of the St. John Conservative Association, who had threatened to make it warm for Pugsley if the dredge was not taken over. Another man, Osman, said if the dredge was not purchased disclosures would be made. Osman had been led to believe that a cheque for $2,000 had been paid Pugsley, after he became a member of the Federal Government.

"But I told him," said the Minister warmly, "to go back and tell Mayes to go ahead." The Conservative party of New Brunswick had lent themselves to "this unholy campaign" to destroy him.

Mr. Pugsley claimed no credit for the result in New Brunswick, which was a recognition of the "splendid personality of the gentleman whom we are proud to follow."

"It does seem to me," he concluded, "as if the example set by the leaders of the Conservative party — by the leaders I mean every member on the Opposition side of the House—in making reckless and unwarranted charges of all kinds, has been followed by their friends and supporters throughout the country, even to the reading of false affidavits and the printing of forged telegrams, in order to defeat the Government."

O. S. Crocket, (York, N.B.) followed, and was about to discuss the Mayes affidavit, when Mr. Emmerson raised the point of order.

R. F. Sutherland declared the irrelevant matter was introduced by Mr. Foster.

"Here," retorted Mr. Foster, "Is a man who was Speaker of this House making a statement that is not in accordance with the facts."

Sir Wilfrid Laurier said that everyone knew the affidavit was introduced by Mr. Foster.

"That is not true," said Mr. Foster.

Mr. Crocket then closed. W. O. Scaley (Wentworth) and several other Liberal members followed.

During the question hour, Mr. Blain was informed by Sir Wilfrid that it was not the intention of the Government to introduce legislation to prohibit or restrict the sale of cigarettes.

George Taylor was told by the Premier that George Anson Aylesworth is employed by the Government as immigration inspector at a salary of $100 a month and expenses.

Mr. Oliver introduced a bill to amend the Immigration Act, and Mr. Fisher introduced a bill to amend the act respecting infectious or contagious diseases affecting animals, by restoring the provisions of the old act. In revising the statutes there was a transposition in regard to the limit of valuation in respect to compensation for diseased cattle destroyed.

Mr. Lemieux introduced an amendment to the Railway Act. It makes the act passed last year to compensate for damages conform to the General Railway Act. Another amendment places the water powers on the canals under Government control in regard to rates.

Mr. Verville had a bill respecting hours of labor on public works. It limits the hours to eight a day.

"Would it not be the proper thing for us to consider the situation—if it would not be wisdom to join hands with the provinces and the municipalities in the creation of a fund so that when the Railway Board makes an order for the separation of grades, it may become binding?"

Hon. G. P. Graham made this statement in the House yesterday afternoon in discussing the question of protecting life at level crossings, brought to the attention of the Government by Dr. Edwards, member for Frontenac.

The Senate will adjourn on Friday till Feb. 16.

The members of the Upper House have decided to depart to-day from the long-established custom of electing chairmen of committees practically for life.

FIRST TO WEAR OUT WITH AGE

Simple Recipe for Bladder Trouble Should Be Valued By Elderly People.

GIVES THIS VALUED RECIPE

The great majority of men and women at the age of 50 years begin to feel the first signs of advancing age in some form of kidney trouble and bladder weakness. Few are entirely free from that torturous disease, rheumatism, which is not a disease in itself, but a symptom of deranged function of the kidneys, which have become clogged and sluggish, failing in their duty of sifting and straining the poisonous waste matter, uric acid, etc., from the blood, permitting it to remain and decompose, settling about the joints and muscles, causing intense pain and suffering.

The bladder, however, causes the old folks the most annoyance, especially at night and early morning.

Hundreds of readers who suffer will find the following, which is known as the Dandelion mixture, the most harmless and effective treatment to clean the system of rheumatic poisons, remove irritation of the bladder and relieve urinary difficulties of the old people. It is a true vitalizing tonic to the entire kidney and urinary structure, reinvigorating the entire system.

The Dandelion mixture consists of the following simple prescription, the ingredients of which can be obtained from any good pharmacy at small cost: Compound Kargon, one ounce; Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla three ounces. Shake well in a bottle and take in teaspoonful doses after each meal and upon going to bed, also drink plenty of water.

This prescription, though simple, is always effective in the diseases and afflictions of the kidneys and bladder and rheumatism.

Officials Exonerated.

Cobourg, Jan. 29.—Superintendent McMillan and those in charge of the House of Refuge, by the finding of the counties council special committee appointed to investigate the charges of alleged ill-treatment of John Maynard of Bowmanville, are completely exonerated.

The evidence of the superintendent, the physician, two of the inmates who had charge of Maynard, and the counties' clerk was taken.

The committee reported "We are fully satisfied that the charges are absolutely false and without any foundation whatever."

Flying Machine In Berlin.

Berlin, Jan. 29.—The first experiments in Berlin with a flying machine were witnessed yesterday when Armand Zipfel, a French aviator, began a series of trials on Templehof field.

An enormous crowd, exceeding 50,000, was attracted to the scene, but the expectations of the people were disappointed, for the machine, a Moison biplan, failed to fly.

Misfortunes Not Singly.

Brockville, Jan. 29.—Edwin Barnhart, a young man who was publicly horsewhipped here by an irate parent while he was in the company of a young married woman, was arrested at Oshawa Wednesday night, charged with the theft of jewelry, the property of the woman's husband.

A WOMAN'S BACK WAS NOT MADE TO ACHE.

Thousands of Women Suffer Untold Misery Every Day With Aching Backs That Really Have No Business To Ache.

Under ordinary conditions it ought to be strong and ready to bear the burdens of life.

It is hard to do housework with an aching back. Backaches come from sick kidneys, and what a lot of trouble sick kidneys cause,

But they can't help it. If more work is put on them than they can stand it is not to be wondered that they get out of order.

Backache is simply a warning from the kidneys and should be attended to immediately so as to avoid years of terrible suffering from kidney troubles.

Doan's Kidney Pills will cure you in the same way as they have cured thousands of others.

SEVERE PAINS IN BACK.

Mrs. O. Warren, Radisson, Sask., writes: "I was troubled with very severe pains in my back for years. I tried everything I could think of but they did me no good. A friend told me about Doan's Kidney Pills and after taking two boxes, I have not been troubled since."

PROPOSES TO REFORM SENATE

Ex-Secretary of State Scott Gives Notice of Resolution.

WOULD ELECT TWO-THIRDS

Veteran Leader of the Upper House Proposes Scheme by Which It Should Have 59 Members, Two-Thirds Elected and One-Third Appointed by Government For a Term of Eight Years.

Ottawa, Jan. 29.—In the Senate yesterday ex-Secretary of State Hon. R. W. Scott, backed by the authority of thirty-four years as leader of the Liberal party in the Upper House both in Opposition and in power, gave notice of a Senate reform resolution based on the results of his long experience. For seventeen years he has led the Senate on the Government side and for seventeen years on the Opposition side. In brief, his proposal is to have two-thirds of the Upper House elected every eight years by popular compulsory vote, and one-third appointed by the Government in power for an eight-year tenure of office.

His resolution, after premising that the time has come to amend the constitution of the Senate so as to bring the mode of selection of the Senators more in harmony with public opinion, provides as follows: That the Provinces of Ontario and Quebec be each divided into sixteen electoral districts for representation in the Senate; that the Provinces of Nova Scotia and New Brunswick be each divided into seven electoral districts, and the Province of Prince Edward Island into two electoral districts, and that for the present and until the four western provinces have been given increased representation Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta be each divided into three electoral districts, and British Columbia be divided into two electoral districts. In defining the electoral districts due regard is to be had not only to approximately equalizing the population in each district, but to the convenience of local interests and county boundaries.

Stolen Scrips In West.

Winnipeg, Jan. 29.—There is trouble here over stolen scrip. Many original holders of S. A. scrip, in selling, simply make out a power of attorney in the blank and attach it to the scrip. Many of these papers have been lost or stolen, and as they are worth more than the face value, persons thus securing them may re-sell them until finally someone attempts to get the title. Then the fraud is discovered and the scrip identified. Three of these dangerous flotsam are already in the city, all originally from Toronto, and at least one of them has been sold twice in the city before being discovered to have been stolen.

Castro Gives It Up.

Berlin, Jan. 29.—Cipriano Castro, the former President of Venezuela, interviewed yesterday regarding reports that it was his ambition to become the "new liberator" of Venezuela, said:

"I cannot accept the role of liberator of the Venezuelan people assigned to me because my experience of nine years as President has taught me that true freedom is a chimera.

"I am convinced more than ever to-day of the wisdom of the words of the great liberator, Simon Bolivar, when he was about to die: 'I have sown in the sea.'"

Georgian Bay Fairs Association.

Barrie, Jan. 29.—The Georgian Bay Fair Association met yesterday afternoon to fix dates for the different fairs in the county. They elected the following officers: President, G. Stephens, Orillia.

President George Raikes was chosen as Simcoe's candidate for the directorate of the Ontario Fairs Association.

Invalid's Act Saves Five.

London, Jan. 29.—William Thompson, an invalid who has not left his bed for many months, saved the lives of five persons.

He awoke about five o'clock and saw the roof of a neighbor's house on fire. Getting into an overcoat he hobbled to the fire and climbing to the roof beat the flames out.

After arousing the neighbors and sleeping inmates of the house he collapsed and is at present very ill as a result of the reaction.

Organized Gang of Thieves.

Hamilton, Jan. 29.—It is claimed that an organized gang of thieves is working on the Lehigh Valley trains running over the G.T.R. from Buffalo to Toronto. Their scheme is to board the trains either at Buffalo or Hamilton, and after sizing up the grips of the passengers, to walk off when the train is nearing a station with the pieces of luggage that have the appearance of containing valuables.

Washington, Jan. 29.—An agreement was reached among the Senators yesterday for an amendment to the Canadian waterways treaty to satisfy the contention of Senator Wm. Tokio, Jan. 29.—While the imperial train bearing the Emperor of Korea and Count Ito of Japan, who are making a trip of inspection through northern Korea, was en route to Pyeng Yang, one of the emperor's aides attacked the home secretary with a sword.

A bomb was thrown in a temporary building erected at Kaisyong for the reception of the emperor.

Their Narrow Escape.

London, Ont., Jan. 29.—It is related that T. H. Smallman's thoughtfulness for the convenience of his daughter-in-law saved her life and his son's in the Republic wreck. They originally had booked passage in the stateroom in which Mr. and Mrs. Lynch were afterwards killed. On Mr. Smallman's advice, that another room would would be more convenient, the change was made.

Sovereign Bank Loses $40,000.

COUNTY COUNCIL MEETS CIVIC OFFICIALS AND FORMER FRIENDS AT A SPLENDID BANQUET HELD AT THE NATIONAL HOTEL

Reeves of Various Townships of the County Prove Capital Hosts and Show Their Ability in a Social Affair as Well as Around the Council Board—Ex-Warden Thompson Chairman.

AN ENJOYABLE AFFAIR.

It may not have been probably known to all the citizens that the County Council has been in daily session in their chambers at the court house this week, but it is a fact that quietly and unostentatiously they have been transacting routine business and dealing with many important questions that concern the county and upon which its advancement and welfare depend. The reeves and deputy reeves of the various townships have been attending diligently to everything that comes under their supervision out last night they played a new role and in every respect they played it well.

In other words it was the occasion of the annual banquet of the County Council and as hosts, the councillors and those who were with them in providing the affair, proved themselves worthy representatives of their people socially around the festive board as they have manifested their ability in dealing with the knotty problems that are presented in the council chamber. The function was an entire success and the council is to be congratulated upon the splendid manner in which everything was carried out, and upon the fact that they received many compliments from their guests for the manner in which the arrangements had been prepared.

Some of Those Present.

There were present not only the members of the council but also not a few ex wardens and those who are connected officially with the council as the county clerk, architect, banker, solicitor, etc. There were also former members of the council and prominent city officials, including Mr T. E. Bradburn, M.P.P., Mayor Rush, Dr. Morrison president of the Board of Trade, Mr. R. R. Hall, Mr. L. M. Hayes, K.C., Chairman of the Board of Education, Mr. B. Morrow, Mr. John Moloney, School Inspectors Lees and Brown, Mr. F. Dobbin, Mr. Lancaster of the Havelock Standard and Mr. Keefer, of the Norwood Register, and many others all completing a very representative and sociable body who thoroughly enjoyed themselves. It was stated during the after dinner speeches that affairs of this kind would bring the city and county closer together, would create a better feeling and would bring better results from the county councillors themselves.

Mr. Denison, proprietor of the National Hotel provided a splendid dinner, its preparation and the pleasing manner in which it was served bringing forth many complimentary remarks and entire satisfaction. About one hundred sat down at the tables which were appropriately adorned for the occasion.

When the time arrived for the post prandial part of the evening, Mr. Jas Thompson, M.P.P. and ex-warden, who acted as chairman called attention to the toast list which was honoured as follows—

The Toast List.

The King—proposed by the chairman, James Thompson, Esq., M.P.P. and ex Warden

Parliament of Canada and Legislature of Ontario—proposed by R. R. Hall, Esq., responded to by the members for East and West Peterborough.

Our Municipal Institutions, Financial Institutions, Sister Municipality the City and its Boards—proposed by E. A. Peck, Esq., County Solicitor, responded to by Mayor Rush, D. Hughes Charles, Esq., banker, L. M. Hayes, Esq., chairman of the Board of Education; Dr. Morrison, chairman of the Board of Trade.

County of Peterborough and Officials—proposed by J. Hayden Burnham, Esq., and responded to by R. N. Scott, Esq., Warden 1909. A. Breault, Esq., chairman of Finance Committee; J. L. Squire, Esq. the County Auditor, J. E. Belcher, Esq. County Engineer; Ed. M. Elliott, Esq. County Clerk.

Ex Wardens—proposed by Sheriff Hall, and responded to by Messrs. J. E. Pearce, P. McNulty, W. H. Casement, R. Shaw.

The Press—proposed by R. Lees, Esq., and responded to by Mr. F. Dobbin, representative of the local Press, and Mr. Keefer of Norwood and Mr. Lancaster of Havelock.

The Ladies—proposed by Mr. Ed. M. Elliott and responded to by Mr. Hunter.

The Speeches.

The speeches made in connection with the different toasts brought out many different subjects which concerned the city and county and the feeling expressed was one of good will and mutual sympathy.

Mr R. R. Hall, ex-M. P. in proposing the toast of the Parliament of Canada and Legislature of Ontario stated that a great responsibility rested with both these bodies. But the country's interests were served too by County Councils they looking after the interests of the sections, which united, constituted the entire Dominion. One question in which the county could assist Parliament was that which was prominently before the people to-day, viz.,

MR. ROBT. SHAW,
Reeve of Harvey and an Ex-Warden of Peterborough County. He was one of the speakers at the Banquet last night.

MR. FRANK MOHER,
Reeve of Douro and a member of the County Council of Peterborough attending the opening session this week.

protection at level crossings. Costly examples had been recently given which proved the necessity of increased protection. It was idle Mr. Hall stated to say that the railway companies should bear the entire cost of such protection at any crossing, but something should be done at those which were considered most dangerous. The railways could not bear the cost and at the same time give the people the same low traffic and freight rates. It might therefore be considered by County councils how they could assist the Government in meeting the cost to provide protection which was deemed necessary.

Mr. Hall also referred to the Trent Canal which would soon begin to realize money for the farmers of this county, but it was necessary to be completed as soon as possible. He suggested that the council might impress upon the Government the necessity of bringing it to a rapid completion.

Mr. T. E. Bradburn, M.P.P.

Mr. Bradburn agreed with Mr. Hall in every respect and he would do anything in his power to advance a

MR. ARCH. BREAULT,
Reeve of Norwood, Member of County Council, and Chairman of the Finance Committee. One of the speakers at the Banquet movement in that respect if the County Council should at any time take it up.

Mr. Jas. Thompson, M.P.P.

Mr. Thompson, in replying, brought out the qualities that were necessary in an ideal representative of the people. In Parliament his first duty was to the province. Ontario's vast wealth could scarcely be estimated. Particularly was this true of its mineral resources. Within a mile of Cobalt there were minerals estimated at one hundred million dollars. Thirteen mines had paid up to January last nine million dollars, and there were one hundred square miles of country of that nature. The policy Mr. Thompson believed in was not a conservative one, but rather along broader lines looking to the best development of the country.

Mr. E. A. Peck

Mr. Peck, in proposing the toast to our Municipal and Financial Institutions, Sister Municipalities and the City and its Boards, said that it was over 100 years ago since Legislature introduced at Niagara the Municipal Act, and since that time its clauses have been improved and bettered, and now there are over 700 clauses in it. Our educational system has grown side by side with the municipal system, and has obtained a splendid standing. Mr. Peck spoke well of Peterborough's fine school system. He also spoke of the work done by the Board of Trade, and then referred to the necessity of a strong banking system and mentioned Mr. D. Hughes-Charles' duties as a banker for the County.

Mayor Rush

Mayor Rush referred to the kindred relations of the County and City and mentioned a few of the ways by which the two interests could be fostered and combined. The Mayor was pleased to see the County progressing so favourably and felt that the farmers were enjoying splendid financial conditions. As a representative of the City the Mayor expressed pleasure at having been invited and hoped that the mutual relation between the two municipal bodies would always be of the best.

Mr. Hughes-Charles

Mr. Hughes-Charles expressed his pleasure at being present, and congratulated the County Council on the success of their annual banquet, and the interest that had been manifested in it by such a representative body of men. It was marvellous, he stated, that a country with only six million of a population should be as wealthy as Canada has been shown to be. Dealing with insurance companies he quoted figures showing their strength as also in the case of Loan Companies. The banks have a reserve fund of 15 millions, with foreign deposits of 60 million dollars. The great importance of our banks, Mr. Hughes-Charles pointed out by a local illustration, showing how they carry out their legitimate purpose of assisting business. A company sent out its goods and obtains their money for them by means of a draft on a bank, even though it is paid from New Zealand.

Mr. Hughes-Charles gave a brief and comprehensive review of the best banking methods, and pointed out the wrong ways by which banks come to grief.

Mr. L. M. Hayes, K.C.

Mr. Hayes congratulated Warden Scott on his appointment, and also the members of the Council on their elections. On behalf of the Board of Education he expressed his thanks for the invitation to attend the annual function of the County Council. Continuing, he spoke of the work of the Board, and in connection with the splendid Collegiate Institute, referred to the good work of the architect Mr. J. E. Belcher, and the chairman of the building committee, Dr. Morrison. Mr. Hayes reviewed the progressive policy the Board had pursued in its Public School system, which, he said, was modern in every department. He assured the members of the County Council that if they brought the question of Collegiate Institute fees to the Board of Education, they would receive a fair hearing.

Dr. Morrison

Dr. Morrison, in his reply, explained the nature and duties of the Board of Trade. He said it was representative citizens, whose aim it was to further the interests of the city, and also the county and province. It had done good work in the past, helping to bring industries here, and advancing the city's welfare. The county and city were intertwined in their progress the one keeping pace with the other. Dr. Morrison emphasized the improved conditions found in the country. Farms are worth up to $90.00 an acre and have rapidly advanced to that price. The central position of the county in relation to the big markets had brought wealth indirectly to the farmers. The speaker supported his statement that an advancement for the city entailed better conditions for the county. Dr. Morrison also looked ahead to what might be expected when electric railways opened up the country, and the share of the new wealth that this would bring the farmers.

Mr. J. H. Burnham

Mr. J. H. Burnham remarked that everything came out of the ground and that banking institutions would not exist without the farmers and the money their products bring. He considered that the county was in good hands, but the Councils of the past should not be forgotten. They were the men who laid the foundation stones of the country and Peterborough could look back with pride to its pioneers. The first warden was the father of Mr. J. B. Pearce, who held the position in 1862. The toast of the County Officials, as proposed by Mr. Burnham, was heartily received.

The Warden

Warden Scott stated that he considered the present system of county council representation was the best. The present council was endeavouring to give the county the best roads, bridges, schools, etc., that could possibly be built. Their aim was to provide the best and they would always try to live up to it. The council is very anxious to have better conditions at the markets and more consideration shown the farmers by civic officials. Another improvement they were seeking for was a more satisfactory method of county children paying fees for attendance at the Collegiate Institute.

In his reply Mr. Breault referred to the splendid work done by the clerk, Mr. Ed. M. Elliott, who he considered was "the proper man in the proper place." All the county officials, he stated, were rendering good service.

Mr. J. L. Squire

Mr. Squire, County Auditor, stated that he felt it an honour to be connected with such a splendid body as the County Council. He assured them that there was no graft in auditing the county's books. The provision of a House of Refuge was one of the things which Mr. Squire congratulated the Council upon. He expressed his thanks at having been invited to be present.

Mr. John E. Belcher

"I am rather a man of work than of words," Mr. John E. Belcher began his reply with. He was grateful for the kind recognition that had been made of his efforts, and was pleased to be connected with the County Council. He mentioned Mr. J. B. Pearce's father, whom, he said, had been one of his contemporaries and one he had found to be the worthy son of a worthy father. Mr.

her stated that he had preserved his strength and vigour since the time of his arrival in Peterborough when he condemned an iron bridge over the Otonabee, which fell three years later. He was proud that he had always enjoyed the confidence of the County Council.

Mr. Ed. Elliott stated that he had never felt more pleased than when he was surrounded by a group of county councillors. He had been interested in and connected with municipal work ever since he was fifteen years old. Mr. Elliott referred to the seizing of light weight butter and potatoes and showed how farmers could easily be wrongly or unfairly dealt with. The county of Peterborough, he stated, stands at the head of the list of those in the province from a financial standpoint. He hoped that good results would accrue from an annual affair of this kind.

The Ex-Wardens

Sheriff Hall made an appropriate speech in proposing this toast.

In reply, Mr. J. B. Pearce replied that words failed him in expressing his appreciation of the invitation to attend the county banquet. He was proud of the fact that his father, two of his brothers and himself had seen long years of activity on the County Council Board. He hoped that those who would fill the warden's chair in the future would strive for greater work than in the past.

Mr. W. H. Casement, Mr. R. Shaw and Mr. P. McNulty also made appropriate replies, thanking their hosts and referring to the Council's continued careful guidance of the prosperity of the county.

The Press

Mr. R. Lees proposed the toast to the Press which was responded to by Mr. Keefer of Norwood, Mr. Lancaster of Havelock, and the representatives of the local press.

The last toast was to the ladies, proposed in a neat speech by Mr. Ed. M. Elliott, and responded to by Mr. T. Hunter and Mr. Russell.

The evening was closed by the singing of the National Anthem and Auld Lang Syne.

Encouraging Reports Presented At The Annual Meeting Of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church

A large and most enthusiastic congregational meeting met last night in the Sunday School hall. The Rev. J. G. Potter, pastor, presided and conducted devotional exercises.

After the reading of the minutes of the last annual meeting by the Secretary, Mr. John McClelland, the Session's report was presented by Mr. John Mathieson.

The report referred to the fact that during the year so many young people had united in fellowship with the church and stated that it was ground for thankfulness and encouragement.

The Session exhorted the congregation to continued fidelity to the work entrusted to them, and urged a greater interest in the weekly prayer meeting and Sabbath services.

Expressions of sorrow with the bereaved were made and an appeal to a greater zest in our ways of life, for the extension of the Kingdom of Christ.

There were added to the church during the year. Thirty by certificate and thirty by profession of faith. There were twenty baptisms.

The treasurer's statement showed collection $23.52, expenditure $15.50, leaving a balance of $8.02.

Mr. F. E. Kerr presented the Sabbath School report, which had enjoyed a prosperous year in attendance and finances.

The enrolled membership is 300, in all departments the work was most encouraging, and there is an excellent prospect for a greater year's work.

Mr. F. E. Kerr presented a very interesting and encouraging report of the choir. It referred in very eulogistic terms to the good work done by Mr. F. C. Freeland, and also to the helpful services of Mrs. Davidson, Mrs. McGregor, Miss Manning, Mrs. McClelland and Mr. G. Wright. The choir had spent $106 on vestments.

The Daughters of Erin's report was presented by Mr. W. S. Campbell for the secretary.

PROPERTY COMMITTEE HAVE IN VIEW SEVERAL IMPROVEMENTS

Will Illuminate the Town Clock and Paint the Council Chamber This Year.

$900 THEIR DEMAND.

The Property Committee of the City Council at a meeting held on Thursday went into the question of the appropriation that they will need this year to carry on their department of the city's business. It was decided to endeavour to get along on the same appropriation as last year and among other things on the programme for the season the committee will illuminate the clock in the market building and paint the interior of the council chamber and the Dan Spence Ambulance.

The committee met yesterday afternoon at five o'clock, with Ald. Bradburn in the chair, Alderman McIntyre and Duncan, and Mayor Rush were also present.

The Wm. Hamilton Mfg. Co., made application to the council for the deed of that portion of Murray st., which they erected their buildings upon, but never have been given a deed.

There was a by-law passed 25 years ago giving the company permission to erect their buildings on condition that they graded the remainder of the street. In return they were to be given a deed of the street.

The committee, however, were not particularly anxious to hand over a deed as the city may want to use the street sometime in case the Wm. Hamilton Company move or are burned out.

The matter was referred to the city solicitor. Mr. Hall stated that if the company had done the work the city would have to give the deed.

It was moved by Alderman Duncan and McIntyre that a by-law be prepared authorizing the execution of a deed to the Wm. Hamilton Mfg. Co., Limited.—Carried.

A letter was received from Mr. E. B. Edwards, proprietor of the Crystal stated that he desired to move into a much larger building to accommodate the public, and he would like to rent the building formerly occupied by R. Hall & Son.

Ald. Bradburn stated that the committee should decide upon a price for the building and whether they intended to sell at once or not. The committee wanted to sell out as they intended to build the new public library this year.

The committee decided that the city should sell the building, but not to give a lease for it. In the meantime the chairman stated that he would see Mr. Edwards.

The Property Committee has received a letter from Hoboken, stating that the $25,000 from Andrew Carnegie for the city of Peterborough's new public library, was on deposit in their trust.

Ald. Bradburn stated that he had prepared the estimates for this year and made it $860. This was less than last year by $100, but it did not allow anything for repainting the interior of the council chambers. The chambers were at present in a disgraceful condition and should be fixed up. It is ten years since the chamber was cleaned and fixed up.

Ald. McIntyre introduced the matter of lighting up the town clock. It could be done very cheaply, he said. The wiring would not be more than $50, and one 30-candle power lamp on each dial would be sufficient. The chairman was authorized to look into the matter before the next meeting.

The Committee will endeavour to secure an ext a $100 to fix up the council chamber, light the town clock and paint the ambulance.

Balkan Troubles Are Again Coming to the Front.

THAT BULGARIAN FRONTIER

Turkey's Struggles to Get Rectification of Boundary Line Has Caused Bulgaria to Order Out Her Reserves and the Powers Are Lending Every Effort to Keep the Peace of European Nations.

London, Jan. 29.—The Balkan situation is again causing some anxiety at the European capitals.

Bulgaria's action in calling out her reserves is apparently explained by Turkey's attempts to secure rectification of the existing frontier as a condition for reducing her monetary demands from Bulgaria. Noting the danger of trouble between Turkey and Bulgaria, the powers are again resorting to negotiations to bring about joint pressure in favor of a peaceful settlement.

It is reported that Sir Edward Grey, the British Foreign Secretary, has sounded the powers on this subject, and a St. Petersburg despatch announces semi-officially that Russia has already addressed a circular despatch to all the signatories of the Berlin treaty. In this circular Russia proposed to make common representations to both Sofia and Constantinople against any change being made in the frontier line which would endanger European peace and enjoining both Governments to refrain from a military movement.

According to a Sofia despatch, Great Britain has advised Turkey to accept an indemnity of $20,000,000 and Bulgaria is inclined to pay this sum, provided Turkey abandons her claim for rectification of the frontier.

Negotiations between Austria-Hungary and Turkey are still dragging, owing to the fact that the Turkish Government has not yet succeeded in putting an end to the Austrian boycott.

What Milner Accomplished.

London, Jan. 29.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—"Unionist," writing in The Mail, prognosticating the Secretaryship of the Colonies for Milner in the next Unionist Cabinet, declares that Milner's speeches in Canada and the public education which he revived in the imperial cause at a critical moment, upon the very eve of a tariff revision at Washington, saved the immediate situation. "Unionist" declared Milner now has a special support in Canada which holds the casting vote in the whole imperial problem.

Attempted Poultry Fraud.

Kingston, Jan. 29.—Quite a sensation has been caused locally among the poultry fanciers by the discovery of an attempted fraud by two of the exhibitors at the local show. Prof. Robertson of Ottawa found that Messrs. Dougherty and Guay had painted their birds' legs and used caustic on their combs. The birds were disqualified.

Lineman Is Killed.

Toronto, Jan. 29.—Harry R. Smith, thought to be from Williamstown, and who came here to join a gang of linemen who are to start out for the Bell Telephone Co., received such severe injuries last evening while attempting to board a moving car at King and Yonge street that he died shortly afterwards.

Rabbi In Jail Starving

Montreal, Jan. 29.—Rabbi Solomon Lombon, now serving a 15 days' sentence for killing chickens by a method considered cruel, but which he contends is according to the articles of the Jewish faith, refused to eat anything since "kosher" meat is not served prisoners.

Drydock Company Is Carrying on Negotiations With City.

Sault Ste. Marie, Jan. 29.—According to the terms of an agreement practically arrived at between the city and John O'Boyle, representating a company of capitalists, arrangements are made for the construction of a drydock and shipbuilding yards in the Soo, work to commence with the opening of spring. The company asks the city for exemption of taxes and a cash bonus annually for 20 years, and in return promises to contruct a shipbuilding plant and drydock 620 feet long, the initial expense to be $500,000, the plant to be 50 per cent. better than the one at Collingwood, which employed 300 men in 1908.

"I have the men with the money and will commence operations on building of dock as soon as weather permits, providing the city sticks by me," said Mr. O'Boyle. "We will also commence building vessels for an independent line as soon as we can. It is the intention of those interested to commence the construction of lake vessels as soon as the yards are in shape."

A favorable report on local conditions was read from Hugh Calderwood, an expert of Toronto, who recommended that the property of J. A. Wilde, near the boat club in the west end, be purchased. A committee consisting of members of the Board of Trade and Council was appointed to make a report at a public meeting.

Drama as Lesson to Britain.

London, Jan. 29.—A scene of rare enthusiasm was produced at Wyndham's Theatre Wednesday night by the new play, "An Englishman's Home."

The play is by an anonymous author, who is known to be an officer of the British army. It is a sterling melo-drama, and evidently was designed to force Englishmen to realize their country's unpreparedness for invasion and the necessity for recourse to conscription. In thinly veiled fashion it depicts a German invasion of England and shows the English volunteers in a ludicrous light.

Suicides at Sea.

New York, Jan. 29.—James T. Scheuer, 27 years old, of this city, plunged from the deck of the Old Dominion liner Princess Anne, en route to Norfolk, Va., Tuesday night, and was lost. He was on his way with a secretary to Virginia Beach for his health.

Dr. Davidson's Mishap.

The Archbishop of Canterbury met with an accident at the house of the Bishop of Kensington a few days ago. He was descending a flight of steps while leaving for Lambeth Palace, and apparently thought that he had reached the bottom step when there was still another. He made a false step, and fell, receiving a severe wrench to the left leg. It has not yet been discovered whether the tendon has been broken or only strained.

CUBA LIBRE!

Island Is Set Free Now to Shift For Herself.

Havana, Jan. 29.—Jose Miguel Gomez was inaugurated president of the Cuban Republic at a few minutes past noon yesterday amid the firing of salutes from the forts on shore and from the warships assembled in the harbor.

Precisely at noon President Gomez stepped out upon the balcony overlooking the Plaza de Armas and took the oath faithfully to enforce the laws of the republic and defend the constitution. The oath was administered by the chief justice of the Supreme Court.

The new president received from the hands of Mr. Magoon the final decree turning over all the affairs of the island, together with an order from Washington terminating Mr. Magoon's commission as provincial governor.

The coming of the new day of Cuban liberty was signalled by a general display of fireworks. The streets of the city, which were brilliantly illuminated and garlanded with chains of incandescent bulbs, were thronged with people until an early hour. Thousands of people gathered around the club throughout the night, where inaugural and farewell balls were held.

Gomez is 53 years old. He participated in two revolutions against Spain and attained the rank of major-general.

EX-WARDEN HAS SECRET.

Bourke, ex-deputy warden, and for months virtually warden, has written to the press, intimating that unless justice is done him he will "open up a new field for moral reformers by telling the world the truth about the escape of Bill Miner and three convict companions," who levanted from the institution in August, 1907. Mr. Bourke states that the disclosures he may make public would be sensational and far-reaching.

Toronto Live Stock.

TORONTO, Jan 28.—Receipts of live stock at the City Market, as reported by the railways for Wednesday and Thursday were 123 carloads, consisting of 1416 cattle, 2419 hogs, 580 sheep and lambs, 90 calves and 1 horse.

Exporters.

There was a good demand for export steers of the right kind, but the trouble was that raw numbed cattle were offered. The best lead offered for the last two days sold at $5.65. These cattle were fed by Farmer A. McLean of Port Elgin, weighed 1300 lbs. each, and were sold by Maybee & Wilson. Prices for export steers ranged all the way from $5.20 to $5.65; export bulls, $4 to $4.75, with one or two extra quality at $5 per cwt.

Butchers.

Prime picked heifers and steers, 1050 to 1200 lbs. each, equal in quality to the best exporters, sold at $4.85 to $5.15, but there were few of this class on the market, probably not more than 20 or 30 all told, out of 1200 cattle on sale. Loads of good $4.50 to $4.75; medium, $4 to $4.40; common, $3.65 to $3.80. The bulk of the cattle went in the medium class; stockers and common cows, $1.50 to $2.65.

Feeders and Stockers.

H. & W. Murby report a fair sprinkling of feeders and stockers all week, about equal to the demand. Mhe Messrs. Murby bought about 750 during the week at the following quotations: Best feeders, 900 to 1000 lbs. each, at $3.90 to $4.25; best stockers, 700 to 900 lbs. each, at $3.40 to $3.90; medium stockers, 600 to 650 lbs. each, at $3 to $3.50. There is some enquiry for short-keeps, but the demand for exporters has put this class out of reach of the ordinary buyers.

Milkers and Springers.

There has been a good demand for the best milkers and springers, caused largely by two Montreal and Quebec dealers, Messrs. Napoleon Deziel and Arthur Tardiff, being on the market. Prices ranged from $30 to $65, but only one brought the latter figure, the bulk selling between $45 and $55.

Veal Calves.

About 100 veal calves sold from $3 to $6.50 per cwt.

Sheep and Lambs.

The receipts were light. Sheep sold at about steady prices, while lambs were a trifle firmer. Ewes sold $3.75 to $4.25; rams, $3.25 to $3.50, lambs, $5.75 to $6.25 per cwt.

Hogs.

Receipts were not large, with market strong all week. Hogs are higher in Toronto than at Chicago. Mr. Harris quotes the market steady at $6.85 for selects, fed and watered, and $6.40 at country points, f.o.b., cars. Some of the dealers report having to pay $6.50 to drovers, f.o.b., cars, at country points. H. P. Kennedy, commission salesman, stated that he had to pay $6.50 to drovers, and in one or two instances $6.60, f.o.b., cars, and $6.75 for selects, fed and watered, at the market, and then could not get what he wanted.

Boils and Pimples
Are caused entirely by the blood being in an impure condition, and the quickest and simplest way to get rid of them is to take a few bottles of Burdock Blood Bitters.
This purely vegetable remedy has cured thousands of cases of these painful and unsightly troubles during the past thirty years.
BOILS. Mr. S. J. Weir, Riverview, Ont., writes:—"Last summer I had nineteen boils on my neck and back. I was off work for over two weeks. I took everything I could think of but to no effect. I got a bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters and before I had used half the bottle the boils were gone. I took the rest of it, however, and I have not had a boil since."
PIMPLES. Mrs. W. J. Craddon, St. Mary's, Ont., writes:—"I was troubled with pimples on my face for a couple of years and tried a good deal of patent medicine, but they were not of much use. Finally I used four bottles of Burdock Blood Bitters and am now entirely cured."

MEXICAN LOTTERIES.

They Pull $10,000 a Day From the People of the Capital City.

Nearly $100,000 is spent in the City of Mexico every week in lottery tickets, and in the same period about $70,000 is paid back in premiums.

On the weeks immediately preceding the big drawings the sale, of course, mounts up to great sums—as, for instance, when the $200,000 drawings are held there are 20,000 tickets at $40 each sold on the streets, and practically every ticket is disposed of, most of them during the last two weeks before the drawing. But as a general proposition an average of $10,000 a day is spent by the City of Mexico people on the lotteries.

There are, as is well known, three companies operating under concessions from the government for the conduct of lotteries in the City of Mexico.

Many picturesque figures are included in the list of lottery venders in Mexico, for all must be licensed. Blind men and women, dogs, old men, cripples and deformed persons, all seem attracted to the business of selling lottery tickets, for there is an inexplicable fascination about buying a ticket from a misshapen person, for there surely must be luck in it, and this feeling is played upon by the venders.

There have been from time to time rumors of changes coming in the lottery business of Mexico, that this industry is going the way of the gambling houses, now entirely driven out of practically all cities of the republic, and one hears that the great new prizes are but the forerunners of the lotteries' last days and their efforts to gather in what they may while they can. How much truth there is in this one cannot say, but it is reasonable to suppose that the lotteries will ultimately be suppressed.—Mexican Herald.

Numbering the Presidents.

Will William H. Taft be the twenty-sixth or twenty-seventh president of the United States? is a question interesting some minds, as it has every time a new president has been elected since the administration of Benjamin Harrison. Cleveland at his first election was the twenty-second president. All are agreed as to this. Was he the twenty-fourth president on his second election after an interval of one term? If so, then Mr. Taft will be the twenty-seventh president; if not, then he will be the twenty-sixth. But if George Washington was the first president, even through his second term, why should Mr. Cleveland be the twenty-fourth president in his second term when he was the twenty-second president in his first term? Let the idle ones pass on to some other equally harmless post-election subject. Mr. Taft will be the twenty-sixth president.—Springfield Republican.

COBOURG HERE ON TUESDAY NEXT

The fog which have hung over the local hockey season for the past few days has lifted at last, and the officers of the local club can at last see daylight ahead of them. There will be no games this week but next Tuesday Cobourg will be here and it is expected that Lindsay will be on hand on the Friday after, just ten days after they were scheduled to play here. Lindsay refused to come to Peterborough until the locals had met Cobourg, and as the latter could not come until next week, Tuesday was decided on by the two teams after a consultation over the long distance phone this morning. Cobourg have a strong team which has rounded into shape now, and they will give Peterborough a hard argument here, so that the game should be one of best that has been seen at the Brock Street Rink this year. Crossen, the old St. Andrew's player, is at cover, and they have Patton, Turpin, Bentley, Moffatt, Payne, Burger and other good men to pick from.

CITY LEAGUE CHAMPIONSHIP LIES BETWEEN STRATHS AND LAKEFIELD BOTH TEAMS WON LAST NIGHT

High Commissioners Swamped the West Ends With 12-1 Score, While T. A. S. Gave Lakefield a Hard Argument, Losing 4-2.

GAMES WERE INTERESTING.

It's the Strathconas or Lakefield for the City League Championship, and, next week's game between the two will decide whether the Strathcona team will win the Stratton Trophy for the third year in succession, or whether the Lakefield bunch will gather in the silverware after years of trying. Last night, what might be called the semi-final games, were played, the Lakefield seven trimming the T A S after a hard fought battle, by 4-2, and the High Commissioners swamping the West Ends by the big score of twelve goals to one. Both games were fast and interesting, and the 600 fans present, found them decidedly entertaining on the whole, although the last contest was more one-sided than was expected.

The T A S-Lakefield game was a battle royal from start to finish, and, the crowd was on tip toes all the way, with a big following rooting for each team. It was close all the way with the checking hard, but with plenty of open hockey of the nature that aroused enthusiasm. There were many penalties, but the game was not rough considering the pace at which the teams travelled. It was fast hockey for the whole sixty minutes with both teams hammering along in vigorous fashion.

That the T A S were not beaten more is due to one Leo Derocher, who played goal for the Abstainers, and, who does a similiar service for the Peterborough O H A Team. Derocher played a phenomenal game in the nets, his work, especially in the first half, being of a startling nature, Lakefield had dozens of openings, but Derocher was there with his hands, his feet or stick, and kept weeding them out from all angles. Many times his defence were beaten, but he waded out and intercepted the pass, or stopped the shot in brilliant fashion, his great saves earning him round after round of applause. He held them out so well that Lakefield were unable to score at all in the first period, although they had opportunities to spare. Coupled with Derocher's great goal keeping, the Abstainers checked the visitors pretty closely during the first period, covering up their checks and meeting Quinn with body checks when they came down, and the result was that the TAS were out in front at half time by a score of 1—0, their checking and Derocher's goal keeping producing that result. They could not stand the pace, however, and wilted in the second half, being unable to come back with their checks as they had done earlier, and the result was that Lakefield began to break away from them, and, soon had rammed in four goals, which was enough to carry them through with two to spare.

Lakefield had both the speed and condition, but there was nothing to choose between the teams in the matter of shooting or combination. Neither had any of the latter article, at least, not enough to be noticed at the side, while the shooting on either side was not good. The visitors were faster however, and in the second half began to leave their checks behind them and work in on the goal with the rubber so that goals were bound to come in spite of Derocher's spectacular work.

Quinn was, as usual, the star of the Lakefield team. He was watched pretty closely in the first half and had few opportunities to get away, but in the last period he showed his usual form, tearing loose with some pretty rushes. On the forward line, Simpson played good hockey and the two wings Moran and Joe Quigley, showed better than usual form, while Tony Sabatino was effective and worked hard at centre.

Derocher was the star of the TAS, as has been explained. Of the others, Mack Quigley was about the best, getting away with some pretty stickhandling and rushing, while his checking helped. Giroux did useful work at centre, especially in checking back, and Coughlin at right wing, showed considerable speed in spots. Cahill and Quinlin on the defence, checked well and relieved on many occasions.

The only score in the second half went to the TAS, Quigley doing the trick on a beautiful single handed rush from centre after twenty-five minutes hard playing. Lakefield came back with a rush in the second half, and were on Easy Street before the Abstainers could rally. In less than a minute after the period opened J Quigley had tied the score from a scrimmage. Two minutes afterwards, Moran got away with a nice rush and put his team in the lead and inside of four minutes Lakefield tallied twice more and the game was won. The Abstainers managed to score again on a nice shot by Coughlin but they were held safe.

Harry Morgan refereed the game to the satisfaction of both teams.

The line-up, summary and penalties were as follows :—

Contrary to expectations in some quarters the West Ends failed to hold the Strathconas in the second game, and the champions romped away with the game by scoring an even dozen counters while a white-wash for the youngsters was only averted by a long shot by Short in the last half minute to play. The figure at the half was 6—0. The heavier Strathconas had too much speed and combination for the losers and the latter never had a chance to win, their forward line being smothered by the back checking of the winners, while the defence were powerless to stall off the winners' combination rushes. The Straths as usual played combination from the drop of the hat, carrying the puck in on top of the nets and making the best use of their opportunities when they got there, the whole line shooting well.

The West Ends whose team is practically the Junior OHA Team line-up, worked hard all the way, and never let up even when the Straths started to pile up a score, but their efforts were rendered futile by the great work of the High Commissioner's line and the steadiness of their defence, although the latter were so much helped out by their forward line that they did not really have a chance to show what they could do in the checking line. They however got away for numerous pretty rushes which pieced out the advance guard and took care of the few West End rushes that happened to get away from their forwards. As a result the West Ends had only a dozen unimpeded shots at the nets and the greater part of these was from well out.

The Straths played grand hockey all the way. They were in the best of condition and swept along at top speed forthe sixty minutes, every man being reliable and effective. There were no particular stars, although Long's feat of scoring six goals was a noteworthy one. The big centre man was always camped out near the nets and never lost an opportunity for a shot. The Straths kept feeding him continuously and that they were making no mistake is shown by the number of goals to his credit. The whole forward line worked smoothly and effectively together, breaking away fast in a line and transferring the rubber from one to the other accurately and fast with the result that the West End defence had troubles of its own. Dusty and Smith on the defence tore off some speedy excursions while Wilson in the nets had a lonely evening.

Short was the pick of the West Ends' line and worked like a Trojan all through, doing some nice stickhandling and rushing. The other three workedhard but the line lacked the Straths' speed and weight. Charlie Dobson and Wade checked well and Halpin in the nets pulled off some very pretty stops, most of those that beat him were from well in.

The West Ends' goal keeper was on the fence once for slashing at Dusty, but there was no scoring while he was off.

The Straths started the scoring within thirty seconds of the face off and kept it up regularly all the way through while Short scored the only goal for the West Ends just before time was called by a pretty shot from welt out, the puck striking Wilson on the shoulder and dropping down into the net.

Wallie Parnell was an impartial and satisfactory referee. The teams were as follows :—

BLAKE IS HERE READY FOR TO-MORROW'S WALKING RACE

Both Blake and Harrison are in the best of shape for the six hour race on Saturday afternoon, in the Auditorium Roller Rink and the contest promises to be one of the sporting events of the season. Blake will be here to-morrow night and has written to say that he is in the pink of condition and expects to win handily. Harrison is working out regularly, however, and has no fear of the result. The curtain raiser in the evening will be a tug-of-war contest between the champion Quakers and a picked team from Auburn, for the Sykes cup, now in the possession of the Quakers. The trophy is on exhibition in the window of Lang & Maher, and is attracting much attention. The Quaker's team will line-up as follows: Dave McGrath, Jas. Murphy, John Murphy, Chas. McGee, Tom Deeson, John Newell, Jas. Griffis and A. Simmonds.

The walking match will commence at two o'clock in the afternoon and again in the evening at 8 o'clock, the tug-of-war being pulled off at 7.45 o'clock.

W. L. M. KING AND THE COW.

One of Prospective Labor Minister's Adventures During Campaign.

Have you heard the story of the recent encounter between W. L. M. King, M.P., and the auctioneer? If not, it is a good one. It seems that in the course of the campaign in North Waterloo the presumptive Minister of Labor and his friends had a series of adventures. First they met a crowd of men who were putting up telephone or telegraph poles, and, of course, the candidate had to get out of his buggy and give a hand. Next the party ran up against a barn-raising, and, of course, nothing would do but that the Boy Who Had Been Raised on a Farm should turn to and give a hand. These two experiences ought to have been enough for one day, but as the tour proceeded fortune brought them to a farmhouse where there was an auction sale of cattle. And pretty cattle they were—almost on a par with the farm itself. Just as soon as the new arrivals loomed in sight the worst animal in the barnyard was being brought up for disposal.

"Now," said the auctioneer, seizing his opportunity, "we have an unexpected and a most valued accession to our audience. We have now with us the next member of Parliament for North Waterloo, and we are going to give him the first chance at this most valuable animal."

And, seizing opportunity by the ears, he at once put the cow on parade.

"How much am I offered?" said the auctioneer.

Mr. King, not wishing to appear mean, after it was apparent that no one else would bid, presumably because they did not wish to forestall the politician, bid "Five dollars."

And the auctioneer, without waiting for further bids, at once knocked down the animal to Mr. King for five dollars. It was a case of "Going, going, gone," at once.

And you ought to hear Mackenzie King tell of his troubles in finding a widow who had no family, and therefore no vote attached to her household, to whom, without arousing suspicion of bribery and corruption, he could hand over the wretched animal.

Goodness knows what would have happened had woman suffrage been in force in Canada. Mr. King might have had to take the cow to China with him!

A Royal Snake Slaughterer.

The "secretary bird" is one of the most precious birds in South Africa. It is royal game, and any person destroying one is liable to a fine of £50. Majestic looking birds, they stand about three feet high and generally go in pairs. They are of drab color, with black, feathery legs, and are valued for their propensity for killing snakes. Where the secretary bird is seen there are sure to be many reptiles about. The bird beats down its adversary first with one wing and then with the other, at the same time trampling on it with its feet until the snake is sufficiently stunned to catch it by the head with its claws. Then the bird rises far up in the air and drops its victim to the ground, to be killed. By this means thousands of venomous reptiles are destroyed.—London Scraps.

The Man Who Thought He Was In Love.

By LULU JOHNSON.

Copyrighted, 1907, by Associated Literary Press.

The worst of it all was that Alice was happy. "That," Buick told himself, "was the cap of the climax."

Had she been decently miserable, as he had been ever since they had had their quarrel, the misery that loves company would have drawn them together, and once more the superb solitaire which Teddy Buick had bought with a glad heart and a half of his savings would have gleamed on Alice Ryder's finger.

By all precedent that very thing should have happened, instead of which Alice presently became engaged to Harvey Post, and the expression of gloom which had become habitual to Ted's face deepened to a scowl. He took to reading poetry in the long hours of the night, and even in his dreams he lamented his lost love.

Reproachfully he gazed upon Alice's radiant face when he could not avoid meeting her in Harvey's society. At such times the sky seemed overcast, no matter how brightly the sun shone, and Teddy hurried home to brood over his great grief, made the sharper by the very apparent happiness that had come to Alice.

The day that the wedding invitations were issued was Teddy's field day, and the sun was stealing through the half closed curtains when at last he threw off his clothes and flung himself upon his bed to gain a brief transition from wakeful to dreamy grief.

He did not go near his office, but late in the afternoon his mother persuaded him to take a walk, and he made for the fields, where he was least likely to be observed.

SLOWLY HE FOLLOWED ALICE ALONG THE PATH.

He plunged into the woods, which in that happy summer had been the favorite objective point of their walks together.

Now the foliage was sear and withered, flung to the ground as his own heart had been, and the giant trees lifted their naked arms to the autumnal winds in dumb supplication.

The place was thoroughly in harmony with his mood, and Ted flung himself upon a bank of moss to commune with his unhappy thoughts.

The woods represented his own life. Springtime, with its bursting buds and tender foliage, had marked the birth of love; then had come the summer of courtship, the rich fruition of promise under the ardent glow of the sun of love.

Ted skipped the harvest time, but now the woods were, like love, dead. The chill of winter was in the air and in the dull November clouds.

The fancy pleased him, and so occupied was he with his thoughts that he failed to hear the footfalls on the rustling leaves until the newcomer hailed him with cheery cry.

"Mooning again, Ted?" cried Alice blithely. "Forget your troubles for awhile and help me gather some hickory nuts."

Ted rose slowly to his feet, and as he did so he glanced about and made certain that Harvey was not to make a third. He felt that he could not stand by and see the loving glances which the two would exchange.

Slowly he followed Alice along the path. Most of the nuts had been gathered, but some few remained, and presently Ted forgot his great grief in Alice's merry chat.

It was not until the nuts had been gathered and they sat down to rest on a fallen trunk that remembrance came again.

Alice saw the cloud that settled down upon his face, and she turned abruptly.

"Ted," she asked, "do you want to make me very happy?"

"You're about as happy now as one girl deserves to be," was the ungracious response. "What do you want?"

"I want you to get married," was the surprising reply.

"That's what I wanted to do," reminded Ted, "but you wouldn't have it. Has Harvey jilted you?"

"Mercy, I don't want you to marry me!" was the hurried reply. "I want you to marry some other girl."

"Rather hard on the other girl," commented Ted, "considering that I could only offer an empty heart"

"And an empty head," was the caustic interruption. "That's just the trouble, Ted. You are having a lovely time with your heartache, and you don't want to give it up yet, but I can't be really happy with Harvey with the thought of your accusing eyes following me."

"Then forget it," advised Ted inelegantly.

"That's what I want you to do," explained Alice. "You never were really in love with me. I know it, and you know it. That is why we were always quarreling. We used to get along beautifully before we became engaged. Then when you realized the mistake you had made you became ill natured."

"All on my side?" asked Ted.

"I suppose that I was just as mean," admitted Alice, "but it was because we both realized that we had made a mistake. I want you to forget all about it. Marry Beth Agnus or Letty Fredericks or Nancy Bellman."

"What's the matter with Audrey Dunbar?" demanded Ted. "She is the only eligible you left out."

"You wouldn't like her," protested Alice hastily. "I should hate to see you married to her. You would never get along with her."

"She's a nice girl," growled Ted, "but I'm not going to marry any one."

He rose to his feet again and shouldered the bag as an intimation that he was ready to depart, and Alice meekly followed.

Ted carried the bag to Alice's home, and it was fate that on the way they should pass the disputed Miss Dunbar and that Ted should be unusually effusive, while Alice was barely civil.

He did not know that Alice could be so pretty, and he was glad when he could leave the burden on her porch and hurry away before her little speech of thanks was half completed. She came flying after him and reached him before he had opened the gate.

"You won't marry Audrey, will you?" she asked pleadingly.

"I told you that I was not going to marry any one," was the impatient response as Ted shut the gate with a vicious bang and started for home.

He was not yet ready to abandon his grief, but one ray of comfort pierced his once pervading gloom. Ted disliked girls who decried others. He had never known Alice to do it before.

Just to show Alice what he thought of her conduct, he escorted Audrey to the wedding and smiled sardonically when she caught the bridal bouquet, unfailing sign that she was to be the next bride.

However, Alice kissed her in congratulation with a warmth that little suggested the jealousy she felt.

There were three weeks of the honeymoon, and Harvey was giving the news to the new Mrs. Post after his first trip downtown.

"Ted's going to marry Audrey Dunbar," he announced as the choicest morsel.

"So mother was telling me," was the reply. "I expected it, but not so soon."

"I didn't suppose that you would relish such a quick desertion," said Harvey, with a laugh. But Alice only smiled.

She smiled still more broadly when Ted proudly escorted Audrey to call and welcome them home. There was an air of defiance in his manner that was amusing to the girl who knew him better than he knew himself, and Ted did not realize how truthful was Alice's declaration Audrey was the very girl she would have picked out.

He could not tell that Alice was counting upon his stubbornness to make her happy by removing his reproachful gaze. He only thought that he had shown her that he was a man of his own action, and therein he found great content.

The Medical Fee.

Dr. Arthur C. Heffenger, discussing "The Medical Fee" in the North American Review, deplores the notion which prevails in some quarters that the physician charges more for his services than they are worth. He instances some abnormally large fees which have been paid to medical men and shows that these were justified either by the delicate nature of the services rendered or by unusual conditions attending them. He says:

"The American Medical association, our highest medical authority, has never attempted to establish an ethical fee. In point of fact, the fee evolves itself and ever has been and ever will be a graded one. The great bulk of practice is practically charity—that is, it represents small fees or no fees. This is true alike in the remote country districts and in the great metropolitan centers. There is one difference, however, which should be distinctly remembered, and that is that rural charity is generally deserved, whereas urban charity is often misplaced. It is stated that practically 33 per cent of the entire practice of New York city is charity and that in a third of such cases the doctor is imposed upon."

Same Vintage.

There are some things in this world for which not even the most profound rural philosopher can account to his own satisfaction.

"I never saw an animal move so slowly before in all my life!" cried an exasperated traveler in an Essex carrier's cart, behind which the clouds of a rapidly rising storm were growing blacker every moment. "Can't the horse go any faster? You had an excellent one fifteen years ago when I used to spend the summer here."

"That's the curious thing about it," said the driver, gazing first at his steed and then at the uneasy passenger in a mildly speculative way. "This hoss is the very same identical hoss that I drove that summer. I don't know what on earth's the matter with him! He seems to have lost his animation."—London Telegraph.

All Details Arranged.

"Dear," whispered the sloping lover, "what shall we do with the rope ladder? We shouldn't leave it hanging there."

"Oh, that's all right," replied the coy damsel. "Pa said he'd pull it up again so we couldn't get back."—Philadelphia Press.

COBOURG HERE ON TUESDAY NEXT

The fog which has hung over the local hockey season for the past few days has lifted at last, and the officers of the local club can at last see daylight ahead of them. There will be no games this week but next Tuesday Cobourg will be here and it is expected that Lindsay will be on hand on the Friday after, just ten days after they were scheduled to play here. Lindsay refused to come to Peterborough until the locals had met Cobourg, and as the latter could not come until next week, Tuesday was decided on by the two teams after a consultation over the long distance phone this morning. Cobourg have a strong team which has rounded into shape now, and they will give Peterborough a hard argument here, so that the game should be one of best that has been seen at the Brock Street Rink this year. Crossen, the old St. Andrew's player, is at cover, and they have Patton, Turpin, Bentley, Moffatt, Payne, Burger and other good men to pick from.

CITY LEAGUE CHAMPIONSHIP LIES BETWEEN STRATHS AND LAKEFIELD

BOTH TEAMS WON LAST NIGHT

High Commissioners Swamped the West Ends With 12-1 Score, While T. A. S. Gave Lakefield a Hard Argument, Losing 4-2.

GAMES WERE INTERESTING.

It's the Strathconas or Lakefield for the City League Championship, and, next week's game between the two will decide whether the Strathcona team will win the Stratton Trophy for the third year in succession, or whether the Lakefield bunch will gather in the silverware after years of trying. Last night, what might be called the semi-final games, were played, the Lakefield seven trimming the T A S after a hard fought battle, by 4-2, and the High Commissioners swamping the West Ends by the big score of twelve goals to one. Both games were fast and interesting, and the 500 fans present, found them decidedly entertaining on the whole, although the last contest was more one-sided than was expected.

The T A S-Lakefield game was a battle royal from start to finish, and, the crowd was on tip toes all the way, with a big following rooting for each team. It was close all the way with the checking hard, but with plenty of open hockey of the nature that aroused enthusiasm. There were many penalties, but the game was not rough considering the pace at which the teams travelled. It was fast hockey for the whole sixty minutes with both teams hammering along in vigorous fashion.

That the T A S were not beaten more is due to one Leo Derocher, who played goal for the Abstainers, and, who does a similiar service for the Peterborough O H A Team. Derocher played a phenomenal game in the nets, his work, especially in the first half, being of a startling nature, Lakefield had dozens of openings, but Derocher was there with his hands, his feet or stick, and kept weeding them out from all angles. Many times his defence were beaten, but he waded out and intercepted the pass, or stopped the shot in brilliant fashion, his great saves earning him round after round of applause. He held them out so well that Lakefield were unable to score at all in the first period, although they had opportunities to spare. Coupled with Derocher's great goal keeping, the Abstainers checked the visitors pretty closely during this first period, covering up their checks and meeting Quinn with body checks when they came down, and the result was that the TAS were out in front at half time by a score of 1—0, their checking and Derocher's goal keeping producing that result. They could not stand the pace, however, and wilted in the second half, being unable to come back with their checks as they had done earlier, and the result was that Lakefield began to break away from them, and, soon had rammed in four goals, which was enough to carry them through with two to spare.

Lakefield had both the speed and condition, but there was nothing to choose between the teams in the matter of shooting or combination. Neither had anyof the latter article, at least, not enough to be noticed at the side, while the shooting on either side was not good. The visitors were faster however, and in the second half began to leave their checks behind them and work in on the goal with the rubber so that goals were bound to come in spite of Derocher's spectacular work.

Quinn was, as usual, the star of the Lakefield team. He was watched pretty closely in the first half and had few opportunities to get away, but in the last period he showed his usual form, tearing loose with some pretty rushes. On the forward line, Simpson played good hockey and the two wings Moran and Joe Quigley, showed better than usual form, while Tony Sabatino was effective and worked hard at centre.

Derocher was the star of the TAS, as has been explained. Of the others, Mack Quigley was about the best, getting away with some pretty stickhandling and rushing, while his checking helped. Giroux did useful work at centre, especially in checking back, and Coughlin at right wing, showed considerable speed in spots. Cahill and Quinlin on the defence, checked well and relieved on many occasions.

The only score in the second half went to the TAS, Quigley doing the trick on a beautiful single handed rush from centre after twenty-five minutes hard playing. Lakefield came back with a rush in the second half, and were on Easy Street before the Abstainers could rally. In less than a minute after the period opened J Quigley had tied the score from a scrimmage. Two minutes afterwards, Moran got away with a nice rush and put his team in the lead and inside of four minutes Lakefield rallied twice more and the same was won. The Abstainers managed to score again on a nice shot by Coughlin but they were held safe.

Harry Morgan refereed the game to the satisfaction of both teams.

The line-up, summary and penalties were as follows :—

Contrary to expectations in some quarters the West Ends failed to hold the Strathconas in the second game, and the champions romped away with the game by scoring an even dozen counters while a white-wash for the youngsters was only averted by a long shot by Short in the last half minute to play. The figure at the half was 6—0. The heavier Strathconas had too much speed and combination for the losers and the latter never had a chance to win, their forward line being smothered by the back checking of the winners, while the defence were powerless to stall off the winners' combination rushes. The Straths as usual played combination from the drop of the hat, carrying the puck in on top of the nets and making the best use of their opportunities when they got there, the whole line shooting well.

The West Ends whose team is practically the Junior OHA Team line-up, worked hard all the way, and never let up even when the Straths started to pile up a score, but their efforts were rendered futile by the great work of the High Commissioner's line and the steadiness of their defence, although the latter were so much helped out by their forward line that they did not really have a chance to show what they could do in the checking line. They however got away for numerous pretty rushes which pieced out the advance guard and took care of the few West End rushes that happened to get away from their forwards. As a result the West Ends had only a dozen unimpeded shots at the nets and the greater part of these was from well out.

The Straths played grand hockey all the way. They were in the best of condition and swept along at top speed forth sixty minutes, every man being reliable and effective. There were no particular stars, although Long's feat of scoring six goals was a noteworthy one. The big centre man was always camped out near the nets and never lost an opportunity for a shot. The Straths kept feeding him continuously and that they were making no mistake is shown by the number of goals to his credit. The whole forward line worked smoothly and effectively together, breaking away fast in a line and transferring the rubber from one to the other accurately and fast with the result that the West End defence had troubles of its own. Dusty and Smith on the defence tore off some speedy excursions while Wilson in the nets had a lonely evening.

Short was the pick of the West Ends' line and worked like a Trojan all through, doing some nice stickhandling and rushing. The other three workedhard but the line lacked the Straths' speed and weight. Charlie Dobson and Wade checked well and Halpin in the nets pulled off some very pretty stops, most of those that beat him were from well in.

The West Ends' goal keeper was on the fence once for slashing at Dusty, but there was no scoring while he was off.

The Straths started the scoring within thirty seconds of the face off and kept it up regularly all the way through while Short scored the only goal for the West Ends just before time was called by a pretty shot from well out, the puck striking Wilson on the shoulder and dropping down into the net.

Wallie Parnell was an impartial and satisfactory referee. The teams were as follows :—

BLAKE IS HERE READY FOR TO-MORROW'S WALKING RACE

Both Blake and Harrison are in the best of shape for the six hour race on Saturday afternoon, in the Auditorium Roller Rink and the contest promises to be one of the sporting events of the season. Blake will be here to-morrow night and has written to say that he is in the pink of condition and expects to win handily. Harrison is working out regularly, however, and has no fear of the result. The curtain raiser in the evening will be a tug-of-war contest between the champion Quakers and a picked team from Auburn, for the Sykes cup, now in the possession of the Quakers. The trophy is on exhibition in the window of Lang & Maher, and is attracting much attention. The Quaker's team will line-up as follows: Dave McGrath, Jas. Murphy, John Murphy, Chas. McGee, Tom Deeson, John Newell, Jas. Griffis and A. Simmonds.

The walking match will commence at two o'clock in the afternoon and again in the evening at 8 o'clock, the tug-of-war being pulled off at 7.45 o'clock.

W. L. M. KING AND THE COW.

One of Prospective Labor Minister's Adventures During Campaign.

Have you heard the story of the recent encounter between W. L. M. King, M.P., and the auctioneer? If not, it is a good one. It seems that in the course of the campaign in North Waterloo the presumptive Minister of Labor and his friends had a series of adventures. First they met a crowd of men who were putting up telephone or telegraph poles, and, of course, the candidate had to get out of his buggy and give a hand. Next the party ran up against a barn-raising, and, of course, nothing would do but that the Boy Who Had Been Raised on a Farm should turn to and give a hand. These two experiences ought to have been enough for one day, but as the tour proceeded fortune brought them to a farmhouse where there was an auction sale of cattle. And pretty cattle they were—almost on a par with the farm itself. Just as soon as the new arrivals loomed in sight the worst animal in the barnyard was being brought up for disposal.

"Now," said the auctioneer, seizing his opportunity, "we have an unexpected and a most valued addition to our audience. We have now with us the next member of Parliament for North Waterloo, and we are going to give him the first chance at this most valuable animal."

And, seizing opportunity by the ears, he at once put the cow on parade.

"How much am I offered?" said the auctioneer.

Mr. King, not wishing to appear mean, after it was apparent that no one else would bid, presumably because they did not wish to forestall the politician, bid "Five dollars."

And the auctioneer, without waiting for further bids, at once knocked down the animal to Mr. King for five dollars. It was a case of "Going, going, gone," at once.

And you ought to hear Mackenzie King tell of his troubles in finding a widow who had no family, and therefore no vote attached to her household, to whom, without arousing suspicion of bribery and corruption, he could hand over the wretched animal.

Goodness knows what would have happened had woman suffrage been in force in Canada. Mr. King might have had to take the cow to China with him!

A Royal Snake Slaughterer.

The "secretary bird" is one of the most precious birds in South Africa. It is royal game, and any person destroying one is liable to a fine of £50. Majestic looking birds, they stand about three feet high and generally go in pairs. They are of drab color, with black, feathery legs, and are valued for their propensity for killing snakes. Where the secretary bird is seen there are sure to be many reptiles about. The bird beats down its adversary first with one wing and then with the other, at the same time trampling on it with its feet until the snake is sufficiently stunned to catch it by the head with its claws. Then the bird rises far up in the air and drops its victim to the ground, to be killed. By this means thousands of venomous reptiles are destroyed.—London Scraps.

The Man Who Thought He Was In Love.

By LULU JOHNSON.

Copyrighted, 1908, by Associated Literary Press.

The worst of it all was that Alice was happy. "That," Buick told himself, "was the cap of the climax."

Had she been decently miserable, as he had been ever since they had had their quarrel, the misery that loves company would have drawn them together, and once more the superb solitaire which Teddy Buick had bought with a glad heart and a half of his savings would have gleamed on Alice Ryder's finger.

By all precedent that very thing should have happened, instead of which Alice presently became engaged to Harvey Post, and the expression of gloom which had become habitual to Ted's face deepened to a scowl. He took to reading poetry in the long hours of the night, and even in his dreams he lamented his lost love.

Reproachfully he gazed upon Alice's radiant face when he could not avoid meeting her in Harvey's society. At such times the sky seemed overcast, no matter how brightly the sun shone, and Teddy hurried home to brood over his great grief, made the sharper by the very apparent happiness that had come to Alice.

The day that the wedding invitations were issued was Teddy's field day, and the sun was stealing through the half closed curtains when at last he threw off his clothes and flung himself upon his bed to gain a brief transition from wakeful to dreamy grief.

He did not go near his office, but late in the afternoon his mother persuaded him to take a walk, and he made for the fields, where he was least likely to be observed.

SLOWLY HE FOLLOWED ALICE ALONG THE PATH.

He plunged into the woods, which in that happy summer had been the favorite objective point of their walks together.

Now the foliage was sear and withered, flung to the ground as his own heart had been, and the giant trees lifted their naked arms to the autumnal winds in dumb supplication.

The place was thoroughly in harmony with his mood, and Ted flung himself upon a bank of moss to commune with his unhappy thoughts.

The woods represented his own life. Springtime, with its bursting buds and tender foliage, had marked the birth of love; then had come the summer of courtship, the rich fruition of promise under the ardent glow of the sun of love.

Ted skipped the harvest time, but now the woods were, like love, dead. The chill of winter was in the air and in the dull November clouds.

The fancy pleased him, and so occupied was he with his thoughts that he failed to hear the footfalls on the rustling leaves until the newcomer hailed him with cheery cry.

"Mooning again, Ted?" cried Alice slightly. "Forget your troubles for awhile and help me gather some hickory nuts."

Ted rose slowly to his feet, and as he did so he glanced about and made certain that Harvey was not to make a third. He felt that he could not stand by and see the loving glances which the two would exchange.

Slowly he followed Alice along the path. Most of the nuts had been gathered, but some few remained, and presently Ted forgot his great grief in Alice's merry chat.

It was not until the nuts had been gathered and they sat down to rest on a fallen trunk that remembrance came again.

Alice saw the cloud that settled down upon his face, and she turned abruptly.

"Te he asked, "do you want to ma very happy?"

"You're about as happy now as one girl deserves to be," was the ungracious response. "What do you want?"

"I want you to get married," was the surprising reply.

"That's what I wanted to do," reminded Ted, "but you wouldn't have it. Has Harvey jilted you?"

"Mercy, I don't want you to marry me!" was the hurried reply. "I want you to marry some other girl."

"Rather hard on the other girl," commented Ted, "considering that I could only offer an empty heart."

"And an empty head," was the caustic interruption. "That's just the trouble, Ted. You are having a lovely time with your heartache, and you don't want to give it up yet, but I can't be really happy with Harvey with the thought of your accusing eyes following me."

"Then forget it," advised Ted indignantly.

"That's what I want you to do," explained Alice. "You never were really in love with me. I know it, and you know it. That is why we were always quarreling. We used to get along beautifully before we became engaged. Then when you realized the mistake you had made you became ill natured."

"All on my side?" asked Ted.

"I suppose that I was just as mean," admitted Alice, "but it was because we both realized that we had made a mistake. I want you to forget all about it. Marry Beth Agnus or Letty Fredericks or Nancy Bellman."

"What's the matter with Audrey Dunbar?" demanded Ted. "She is the only eligible you left out."

"You wouldn't like her," protested Alice hastily. "I should hate to see you married to her. You would never get along with her."

"She's a nice girl," growled Ted, "but I'm not going to marry any one."

He rose to his feet again and shouldered the bag as an intimation that he was ready to depart, and Alice meekly followed.

Ted carried the bag to Alice's home, and it was fate that on the way they should pass the disputed Miss Dunbar and that Ted should be unusually effusive, while Alice was barely civil.

He did not know that Alice could be so pretty, and he was glad when he could leave the burden on her porch and hurry away before her little speech of thanks was half completed. She came flying after him and reached him before he had opened the gate.

"You won't marry Audrey, will you?" she asked pleadingly.

"I told you that I was not going to marry any one," was the impatient response as Ted shut the gate with a vicious bang and started for home.

He was not yet ready to abandon his grief, but one ray of comfort pierced his once pervading gloom. Ted disliked girls who decried others. He had never known Alice to do it before.

Just to show Alice what he thought of her conduct, he escorted Audrey to the wedding and smiled sardonically when she caught the bridal bouquet, unfailing sign that she was to be the next bride.

However, Alice kissed her in congratulation with a warmth that little suggested the jealousy she felt.

There were three weeks of the honeymoon, and Harvey was giving the news to the new Mrs. Post after his first trip downtown.

"Ted's going to marry Audrey Dunbar," he announced as the choicest morsel.

"So mother was telling me," was the reply. "I expected it, but not so soon."

"I didn't suppose that you would relish such a quick desertion," said Harvey, with a laugh. But Alice only smiled.

She smiled still more broadly when Ted proudly escorted Audrey to call and welcome them home. There was an air of defiance in his manner that was amusing to the girl who knew him better than he knew himself, and Ted did not realize how truthful was Alice's declaration Audrey was the very girl she would have picked out.

He could not tell that Alice was counting upon his stubbornness to make her happy by removing his reproachful gaze. He only thought that he had shown her that he was a man of his own action, and therein he found great content.

The Medical Fee.

Dr. Arthur C. Heffenger, discussing "The Medical Fee" in the North American Review, deplores the notion which prevails in some quarters that the physician charges more for his services than they are worth. He instances some abnormally large fees which have been paid to medical men and shows that these were justified either by the delicate nature of the services rendered or by unusual conditions attending them. He says:

"The American Medical association, our highest medical authority, has never attempted to establish an ethical fee. In point of fact, the fee evolves itself and ever has been and ever will be a graded one. The great bulk of practice is practically charity—that is, it represents small fees or no fees. This is true alike in the remote country districts and in the great metropolitan centers. There is one difference, however, which should be distinctly remembered, and that is that rural charity is generally deserved, whereas urban charity is often misplaced. It is stated that practically 33 per cent of the entire practice of New York city is charity and that in a third of such cases the doctor is imposed upon."

Same Vintage.

There are some things in this world for which not even the most profound rural philosopher can account to his own satisfaction.

"I never saw an animal move so slowly before in all my life!" cried an exasperated traveler in an Essex carrier's cart, behind which the clouds of a rapidly rising storm were growing blacker every moment. "Can't the horse go any faster? You had an excellent one fifteen years ago when I used to spend the summer here."

"That's the curious thing about it," said the driver, gazing first at his steed and then at the uneasy passenger in a mildly speculative way. "This hoss is the very same identical hoss that I drove that summer. I don't know what on earth's the matter with him! He seems to have lost his animation."—London Telegraph.

All Details Arranged.

"Dear," whispered the eloping lover, "what shall we do with the rope ladder? We shouldn't leave it hanging there."

"Oh, that's all right," replied the coy damsel. "Pa said he'd pull it up again so we couldn't get back."—Philadelphia Press.

ANTI-NOISE LEADER.

Even Paris Admires Mrs. Rice and Yearns For Her Help.

Three years ago Mrs. Rice of New York city started an aggressive campaign to quell the excessive noises of urban life, and she is at present president of the association incorporated since then under the name of the Society For the Suppression of Excessive Noise. A tour of Europe has convinced her that in this matter, as in so many others, the people of America are far ahead of the rest of the world.

With the exception of a branch society in London, up to the time of the establishment of her society there was no association in existence with a similar object, so far as she could learn. People in Europe were interested in her work, and some of them, inclined to be critical at first, are now studying the subject with the intent of following her lead.

One of the most ardent admirers of her anti-noise campaign is the German writer, Professor Theodor Lessing, who has published a book entitled "Larm" ("Noise"). He has shown his interest in a practical way and has established in Munich a similar society, which had its first meeting not long ago. He invited Mrs. Rice to become its president and was greatly disappointed that her work in New York will prevent her accepting.

MRS. ISAAC L. RICE.

The officials of the city of Rotterdam are discussing the establishment of a similar organization, and the newspapers devoted columns of description and praise to her work while she was there.

When Mrs. Rice reached Paris she found that the fame of the anti-noise society had long preceded her. Journalists visited her and were enthusiastic to the point of hysteria over her idea. One newspaper writer apostrophized her:

"When you have finished calming the American tumult come to us, come to Paris, for we have need of your aid. In Paris the tumult grows day by day. Come, oh, come! Try to obtain from our authorities permission to suppress, above everything else, the use of the strings of changing bells which disfigure the necks of the cab horses. The sound of those bells is rendering us gradually foolish—idiots, neurotics. By and by we shall all be in asylums. Think of that, Mrs. Isaac L. Rice! Think of that and hurry up! We simply cannot wait, for it is absolutely true that if the present uproar continues much longer Paris itself will be only a great hospital!"

Mrs. Rice brought back in her trunk a few strings of the cab horse bells, which she rang as an accompaniment while she laughingly translated the appeal.

A Professor's Viewpoint.

The last contribution to woman vivisection is from Professor W. T. Thomas of Chicago university. In a number of the American Magazine the author of "Sex and Society," after giving an excellent resume of the evolution of the human animal from the standpoint of the biologist and the anthropologist, indulges, as is now customary, in the unmerciful and not uniformly logical dissecting of modern man's mate. Although a certain degree of scientific fairness is dealt her both in the author's premises and in his conclusion, and he at least concedes that woman is the same animal as man, he nevertheless deals with modern woman much after the manner of his predecessors.

For instance, he accuses her of cunning and hypocrisy (would not these qualities in man have become shrewdness and diplomacy?), of vanity applied to her wooing instincts, although he frankly admits that "she is less interested in man than man is in her." This, however, does not prevent his declaring that "her purity, constancy, reserve and devotion," which constitute "her morality," have been imposed upon her by man whom the latter pleases. Yet can it be denied that when woman breaks through her moral self restraint it is usually due to what the learned professor is pleased to call man's "interest in her?" Is he not a little "mixed" as to the quality and origin of woman's morality?

At least, unlike his predecessors, Professor Thomas seeks a remedy for the "irregularity, pettiness, ill health and unserviceableness of modern woman," and he finds it not only in a general and cultural education, but in "a special and occupational interest . . . which should be preferably gainful." This, he thinks, would relieve the matrimonial situation by putting a curb on wives' demands upon their husbands' attentions and must surely be a more solid basis of association by bringing women in the same general world of interest as men.

On this ground Professor Thomas, who, by the way, says many equally wise things and a few less so, will no doubt be met by most earnest modern women. The important point for the progress and happiness of society at the present juncture is that women and men shall stand together and understand each other, for, as the book of Genesis says, "God created man . . . and male and female he created them"—that is, they are one.

A Famous Physician's Advice.

There is a famous physician who has given much of his time to the study of rest. He has worked out some good plans for tired men and women which have benefited them.

This doctor says that plenty of fresh air day and night and one hour's walk is enough for any woman. Her constitution does not need any more exercise than is given by a three mile spin. If she is in the city she cannot go at such a rate of speed, but on springy country roads she can turn out from two to three miles a day and find herself in fit condition.

This is the only exercise, he thinks, that does not exhaust the heart, irritate the nerves and overwork the muscles. He does not object to light tennis, indifferently played, but tennis as the American girl plays it is simply out of the question. She wants to play like a man, and she plays against men. She plays too long, and the cold shower bath which she takes at the end is too serious a shock. This doctor has a good deal to say on the subject of annual vacations. He now has his hands full of sick and fatigued women who have overdone the vacation theory.

They work for ten months in a year in some way, whether for wages or not, without giving themselves any rest, then lump their rest all in a few weeks or less during the summer.

They do unaccustomed things which exhaust a body already tired and come back home generally unfit for the winter.

To quote him, he says: "Nine out of ten women feel worse after a vacation than when they started and are unable to resume work properly. A woman does not need a long rest, but a great number of short ones.

"It is better to rest four separate half hours a day than to go like mad through the week and rest sixteen hours on Sunday. It is better to divide the twelve months of work into stated half holidays rather than take two months after ten months of exhaustion."

French Working Women.

The highest paid working women in France are said to be the cutters of precious stones. They receive about a dollar a day. The lowest wage is 60 cents a day and is paid to dressmakers. There are 14,000,000 women in France, and the majority earn their own living. The movement on foot to secure for them the ballot is carried on with the object of gaining for them a formal recognition in the industrial world in the hope of increasing their wages and winning for them equal pay for equal work with the men.

execrable traitor that ever lived."

— Raleigh—"You speak indiscreetly, barbarously and uncivilly."

Coke—"I want words sufficient to express thy viperous treason."

Raleigh—"I think you want words, indeed, for you have spoken one thing half a dozen times."

Coke—"Thou art an odious fellow; thy name is hateful to all the realm of England for thy pride."

Raleigh—"It will go near to prove a measuring cast between you and me, Mr. Attorney."

Coke—"Well, I will now make it appear to the world that there never lived a viler viper upon the face of the earth than thou; thou hast an English face but a Spanish heart. Thou art a spider of hell. Thou viper! for I THOU thee, thou traitor. Have've I angered you!

Raleigh: "I am in no case to be angry." Certainly those were strenuous days, as well in the Law Courts as in other walks of life.

Imprisonment in Tower

Raleigh was found guilty and imprisoned in the Tower. As to whether he really was guilty or not is a moot point and need not be discussed here. He attempted to commit suicide in prison by stabbing himself in the chest. This was in all probability the first and last cowardly act he was ever guilty of. For twelve long years he lay immured in the Tower, his wife living with him, and there he wrote the fragment of that work so noble in conception, so vast in design, but so impossible of execution, his History of the World.

The part of his history which he was able to complete, opens with the Creation and ends with the second Macedonian War, about 168 B.C.

This work has excited astonishment owing to the vastness of the learning embodied therein. The truth is that it was the work of several persons. Ben Jonson, it is known, was a considerable contributor, and also Dr. Robert Burrel, rector of Northwald, Norfolk, a former chaplain of Raleigh's, did all the reading for his chronology, criticisms and Greek and Hebrew authors.

Free From Imprisonment

At last, James, penniless, and anxious possibly for any excuse to set his captive free, loosed his bonds, on the understanding that he was to exploit a gold mine which he claimed to have discovered years before in South America. Raleigh did not get to the gold mine, but he burned the Spanish town of St. Thomas on the banks of the Orinoco, and in the assault on that place his eldest son, W... ...d.

The rage of the Spaniards was boundless. Gondomar, the Spanish Minister to England whose brother had been killed in this buccaneering raid, on receiving the news, rushed into James' presence, demanding Raleigh's execution on a charge of piracy. James, anxious to conciliate the Spaniards, had Raleigh arrested on his arrival at Plymouth, and brought to London. There the old charge of treason was brought against him, and a few months later he was executed at Westminster. He died as he had lived, facing the headsman with undomitable courage. Lifting the axe, he felt its keen edge, and returning it to the executioner remarked, smilingly, "This is a sharp medicine, but it will cure all diseases." Thus died this grand hero of England. A man who has come down in history as a preux chevalier, who although he may have been, according to the statement of Ben Jonson, more solicitous of his fame than of his conscience, was nevertheless possessed of great virtues and stands forth as a type of all that is manly and refined in human nature. He died in 1606.

The following extract is from the conclusion to his History:

Oh, eloquent, just and mighty Death! Whom none could advise, thou hast persuaded; what none hath dared, thou hast done; and whom all the world hath flattered, thou only hast cast out of the world, and despised; thou hast drawn together all the far stretched greatness, all the pride, cruelty and ambition of man and covered it over with these two narrow words,—HIC JACET.

On the night before his death he wrote the following beautiful lines which were found in his Bible at Westminster:

Even such is Time which takes in trust
Our youth, our joys, our all we have,
And pays us nought but age and dust;
Which in the dark and silent grave,
When we have wandered all our ways;
Shuts up the story of our days,
And from which grave, and earth and dust,
The Lord shall raise me up, I trust.

BIG BARGAINS IN GOOD FURS

Sale of First-Class Garments at Mr. N. E. McWilliams' Fur Store.

Everybody is aware that the winter thus far has been inclined to be mild and for this reason there has not been a great demand for heavy furs. However, the furriers had laid in a large stock and among them was Mr. E. N. McWilliams, in Fred Clarke's old stand. He enjoyed a good business in light fur garments, but there was not the demand for beaver coats, etc., and hence a cut has been decided upon and the public will be given the advantage of getting men's coon and fur-lined coats, women's Persian lamb coats, and, in fact, all the popular and fancy garments. The prices are practically cut in two and Mr. McWilliams invites the public to inspect the bargains he is offering.

Lesson for Sunday, Feb. 7th, 1909 — True and False Brotherhood. Acts iv: 32 to v. 11.

The total wheat crop of Ontario last year was 18,628,192 bushels, as compared with 18,019,142 bushels in 1907. The total output of "Salada" Tea this year is over nineteen million packets. More packets of "Salada" than bushels of wheat. This is a sure indication of public appreciation of its excellent quality and value. 117

DRAGNET AT SUDBURY.

Inspectors Raid Dives and Bring ... Many Prisoners.

Sudbury, Ont., Jan. 30.—Sudbury jail was filled to overflowing Thursday night. The long arm of the liquor license department fell upon the district of Sudbury and gathered in ... keepers of "blind pigs," dives, boarding-houses and hotels.

The drag net has been drawn through the entire district by half a dozen provincial detectives, directed by Chief Inspector Morrison of Toronto, during the last 15 days. Illegal liquor-selling has been rampant throughout the district, but evidence appears to be hard to secure.

The hearing of the cases opened yesterday morning before Magistrate Ardagh. At the end of the first day's proceedings 75 convictions had been recorded, with only one acquittal.

The biggest haul made by the detectives was at Crane Hill. A sleigh piled high with an enormous quantity of all varieties of liquor was required to bring the "evidence" to Sudbury.

Many of the offenders were allowed out on cash bail yesterday, but the worst will be held in custody until their cases are disposed of.

Mrs. A. D. Trudeau, Arnprior, Ontario, writes to Mrs. Pinkham:

"I suffered terribly from ulceration of the feminine organs for eight years. I tried four doctors but got no relief, and thought I would have to die.

"One day I saw an advertisement of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the paper. I sent for some, and before I had used five bottles I was entirely cured. I hope every suffering woman will take my advice and use Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."

Below Slavna the main postroad—as has already been stated, there was no railway at this time—follows the course of the river Krath for about five miles in a southeasterly direction. It is then carried across the stream, which continues to trend to the south, by an ancient wooden bridge and runs northeast for another fifteen miles through flat country and past prosperous agricultural and pastoral villages till it reaches the marshy land bordering Lake Taiti. The lake, extending from this point to the spurs of the mountain range which forms the frontier, bars its farther direct progress, and it divides into two branches. The right prong of the fork continues on the level till it reaches Dobrava, eight miles from the point of bisection. Here it inclines to the northeast again and, after some ten miles of steady ascent, crosses the mountains by St. Peter's pass, the one carriage road over the range and over the frontier. The left prong becomes a steep ascent directly the bisection has occurred, rising sharply for five miles to the hill on which the castle of Prasiok stands. Then it runs for another five miles on a high plateau till it ends at the hill city of Volseni, which stands on the edge of the plateau, looking down on Lake Taiti and across to Dobrava, in the plain opposite.

Beyond Volseni there is no road in the proper sense, but only cart or bridle tracks. Of these the principal and most frequented runs diagonally across the valley in which Lake Taiti lies, is interrupted by the lake, at that point about a mile and a half wide, and then meets the road from Dobrava halfway up St. Peter's pass and about twenty miles across country from Volseni. It thus forms the base of a rough and irregular triangle of country, with the point where the Slavna road bisects, the pass and Volseni marking its three angles. Lake Taiti is set in the middle, backed by a chain of hills continuous everywhere except at the indentation of the pass.

The two rode back together.

Though so near to Slavna in actual distance, the country is very different from the fertile river valley which surrounds the capital. It is bleak and rough, a land of hill pastures and mountain woods. Its natural features are reflected in the character of the inhabitants. The men who count Volseni a local capital are hardier than the men of Slavna, less given to luxury, less addicted to quarrels and riots, but considerably more formidable opponents if once they take up arms. For this reason no less than on account of their devotion to him the prince did well to choose this country as the recruiting ground for his new force of gunners.

The prince had been at Prasiok for a week when Sophy set out to join him there. At the last moment Zerkovitch decided to remain in Slavna, at least until the court made its promised move to Dobrava. Reassuring as Dr. Natcheff was, it would do no harm to have a friendly pair of eyes and ears in the capital so long as the king remained in residence. Thus the two ladies were accompanied only by Peter Vassip, whom the prince had sent to escort them. They set out in a heavy traveling carriage at 10 in the morning, reckoning to reach the castle before evening fell. Their progress would never be rapid and for the last five miles exceedingly slow. They left the capital in complete tranquillity, and when Sophy settled her bill at the sign of the Silver Cock and bade farewell to old Meyerstein, her landlord, he expressed the hope that she would soon be back, though, indeed, his poor house was, he feared, no fit quarters for the Baroness Dobrava.

"I don't know whether I shall come back here, but I can never forget your house. I shall always love it in my memory," said Sophy.

Max von Holbrandt had obtained leave of absence from his legation and had accompanied the prince to Prasiok. The two were friends, having many tastes in common and, not least, the taste for soldiering. Besides having the pleasure of his company the prince looked to obtain valuable aid from Max in the task on which he was engaged. The young German was amused and delighted with his expedition. Prasiok is a primitive old place. It stands on an abrupt mound or knob of ground by the roadside. So steep and sudden is the ascent that it was necessary to build a massive causeway of wood—an inclined plane—to lead up from the road to the gate of the square tower which forms the front of the building. The causeway had crossbars at short intervals to give foothold to the horses which in old days were stabled within the walls. Recently, however, modern stables had been built on the other side of the road, and it had become the custom to mount the causeway and enter the castle on foot.

Within, the arrangements were quaint and very simple. Besides the tower already mentioned, which contained the dining room and two bedrooms above it, the whole building, strictly conditioned by the shape of the hill on which it stood, consisted of three rows of small rooms on the ground floor. In one row lived the prince and his male guests, in the second the servants, in the third the guard. The ladies were to be accommodated in the tower above the dining room. The rows of rooms opened on a covered walk, or cloister, which ran round the inner court of the castle. The whole was solidly built of gray stone—a businesslike old hill fortress, strong by reason of its massive masonry and of the position in which it stood. Considered as a modern residence it had to be treated humorously, so Max declared, and found much pleasure in it from that point of view. The prince, always indifferent to physical comfort and ever averse from luxury, probably did not realize how much his ancestral stronghold demanded of his guests' indulgence. Old Vassip, Peter's father, was major domo—always in his sheepskin coat and high boots. His old wife was cook. Half a dozen servants completed the establishment, and of these three were grooms. The horses, in fact, seemed to Max the only creatures whose comfort were at all on a modern footing. But the prince was entirely satisfied and never so happy anywhere as at Prasiok. He loved the simple, hardy life. He loved even more, though perhaps less consciously, the sense of being among friends. He would not yield an inch to court popularity in Slavna, but his heart went out to meet the unsought devotion of Volseni, the mountain town, and its surrounding villages. Distant and self restrained in Slavna, here he was open, gay and full of an almost boyish ardor.

"It's worth coming here just to see its effect on you," Max told him as the two rode back together from Volseni on the day of Sophy's arrival. They had been at work, and the recruiting promised well.

The prince laughed gayly. "Coming here from Slavna is like fresh air after an oven," he said. "No need to watch your tongue or other people's! You can laugh when you like and frown when you like without a dozen people asking what's your motive for doing it."

"But really you shouldn't have chosen a diplomatist for your companion, sir, if you feel like that."

"I haven't," he smiled. "I've left the diplomatist down there and brought the soldier up. And now that the ladies are coming"—

"Ah, now we must watch our tongues a little bit! Mme. Zerkovitch is very pretty, and the baroness might make me absolutely poetical!"

Least prying of men, yet Max von Holbrandt could not resist sending with this speech a glance at his companion. The visit of the baroness compelled this much tribute to curiosity. But the prince's face was a picture of unembarrassed pleasure.

"Then be poetical! We'll all be poetical!" he cried merrily. "In the intervals of drilling be it understood!" he added, with a laugh.

Into this atmosphere, physical and moral—the exhilaration of keen mountain breezes, the brightness of a winter sun, the play of high hopes and of high spirit—came Sophy, with all her power of enjoying and her ardor in imagining. Her mind leaped from the sad embraces of the past to fly to the arms of the present, to beckon gladly to the future. No more than this had yet emerged into consciousness. She was not yet asking how for good or evil she stood or was to stand toward the prince. Fortune had done wonderful things for her and was doing more yet. That was enough, and beyond that for the moment she was not driven.

The mixture of poetry and drilling suited her to perfection. She got both when she rode over to Volseni with the prince. Crisp snow covered the ground and covered, too, the roofs of the old gray, hillside city—long, sloping roofs, with here and there a round tower with a snow clad extinguisher atop. The town was no more than one long street, which bayed out at the farther end into a market place. It stood with its back against a mountain side, defended on the other three sides by a sturdy wall, which only now, after five centuries, began to crumble away at the top.

At the city gate bread and salt were brought to the bailiff and his companion, and she and he rode side by side down the long street to the market place. Here were two or three hundred tall, fine fellows waiting their leader. Drill had not yet brought formality. On the sight of him they gave a cheer and ran to form a ring about him. Many caught him by the hand and pressed or kissed it. But Sophy, too, claimed their eyes. It was very cold. She wore a short jacket of sable over her habit and a round cap of the same fur, gifts of Lady Meg's in the days of her benevolence. She was at the pitch of pleasure and excitement.

Lukovitch sprang forward and kissed her hand.

In a moment a quick witted fellow divined who she was. "The lady who saved him! The lady who saved him!" he cried at the full pitch of his voice. The prince drew himself up in the saddle and saluted her. "Yes, the lady who saved me," he said. Sophy had the cheers now, and they mounted to her head with fumes of intoxication. It may be guessed how the red star glowed!

"And you'll save him if need be!" she cried quite indiscreetly. The prince smiled and shook his head, but the answer was an enraptured cheer. The hatred of Slavna was a recommendation to Volseni's increased regard, the hint of danger a match to its fiery enthusiasm.

"A favor, bailiff, a favor!" cried a young man of distinguished appearance. He seemed to be well known and to carry weight, for there were shouts of "Hear Lukovitch! Hear Lukovitch!" and one called, with a laugh, "Aye, listen to the Wolf!"

"What is it, Lukovitch?" asked the prince.

"Make the lady of our company, bailiff." New cheers were raised. "Make her a lieutenant of our artillery."

Sophy laughed gayly.

"I have his majesty's authority to choose my officers," said the prince, smiling. "Baroness, will you be a lieutenant and wear our sheepskins in place of your sables there?"

"It is your uniform, monseigneur," Sophy answered, bowing her head.

Lukovitch sprang forward and kissed her hand.

"For our bailiff's preserver as for our bailiff, men of Volseni!" he cried loudly. The answering cheer brought tears to Sophy's sparking eyes. For a moment she could not see her prince nor the men who thus took her to their hearts.

Suddenly in the midst of her exultation she saw a face on the outskirts of the throng. A small, spare man stood there, dressed in unobtrusive tweeds, but making no effort to conceal himself. He was just looking on, a stranger to the town, interested in the picturesque little scene. The face was that of Lieutenant Rastatz.

A small, spare man stood there.

She watched the drilling of the gunners and then rode back with the prince, escorted beyond the gates by a cheering throng, which had now been joined by many women. Dusk was falling, and the old gray city took on a ghostly look. The glory of the sunshine had departed. Sophy shivered a little beneath her furs.

"Monseigneur, did you see Rastatz?" she asked.

"No; I didn't see him, but I knew he was here. Lukovitch told me yesterday."

"And not in uniform?"

"He has leave, no doubt, and his uniform wouldn't make his stay in Volseni any more pleasant."

"What's he there for?" she asked fretfully.

"Ah, baroness, you must inquire of those who sent him, I think." His tone was light and merry.

"To spy on you, I suppose! I hate his being there. He—he isn't worthy to be in dear Volseni."

"You and Volseni have fallen in love with each other, I see! As for spying, all I'm doing I do openly and all I shall do, but I don't blame Stenovics for keeping an eye on me, or Stafnitz either. I do my best to keep an eye on them, you know. We needn't be afraid of Rastatz, we who have beaten Hercules Mistitch in open fight!"

"Oh, well, away with him!" cried Sophy gayly. "The snow's not frozen—shall we canter home monseigneur?"

Merrily they cantered through the fast falling evening side by side. Rastatz was out of mind now. All was out of mind save the fascination of the crisp air, the silent suggestion of gathering night, her prince who rode beside her. The dark mass of the tower of Prasiok rose too soon before her unwilling eyes. She drew reign, sighing.

"If life were just all that and nothing else!" she said, as he helped her to dismount and the grooms took the horses. She stopped halfway up the steep wooden causeway and turned to look back toward Volseni. The prince stood close by her.

"That's good, but life has better things," he said softly. "To ride together is good and to play together, but to work together is better still, baroness."

For a moment Sophy was silent. Then she laughed in joy.

"Well, I'm to wear your uniform henceforth, monseigneur!"

He drew her hand and kissed it. Very slowly and gradually she drew it away, her eyes meeting his as he raised his head. The heavy door at the top of the causeway opened. Marie Zerkovitch stood there, holding a lamp high in her hand. The sudden light flooded their faces. For a moment more he looked at her, then went down again on his way to the stables. Sophy ran up to where Marie Zerkovitch stood.

"You heard our horses?" she asked gayly.

But there was no responsive smile on Marie's lips. For her, too, the light had shone on those two faces, and she was sorely troubled.

The next day again they rode together, and the next. On the third day Sophy rode into Volseni in the sheepskin cap and tunic, a short habit of blue hiding her leather breeches and coming halfway over her long boots. The prince gave her his hand as they rode into the market place.

Marie Zerkovitch trembled. Max von Holbrandt shrugged his shoulders with a laugh, and little Rastatz drove back to Slavna through the night. He thought that he had seen enough for his purposes. His report might be useful in the city on the Krath.

Chapter Eighteen

In Slavna Dr. Natcheff continued his reassuring reports until the public at large was so reassured as to ask for no more reports even of the most optimistic description, but the state of mind of the few people behind the scenes was very different. Stafnitz's conclusion held sway there. The time was short! That was the ruling thought and the governing fact. It might be very short, and the end might come without warning. The secret was well kept, but to those to whom he spoke at all Natcheff spoke openly. The king's life hung on a thread, which the least accident might break. With perfect quiet and tranquillity he might live a year, possibly two years. Any shock or overstrain would precipitate the end. Countess Ellenburg and her confidential friends knew this, the king knew it himself, and Lepage, his valet, knew it. There the possession of the secret stopped.

The king was gay and courageous. Courage, at least, he had never lacked. He seemed almost indifferent. The best years were over, he said, and why not an end? An end swift, without pain, without waiting! There was much to be said for it. Lepage agreed with his master and told him so in his usual blunt fashion. They agreed together not to cry about it, and the king went fishing still. But the time was short, and he pushed on his one great idea with a zeal and an earnestness foreign to his earlier habit. He would see his son married or at least betrothed before he died. He would see the great marriage in train, the marriage which was to establish forever the rank and prestige of the house of Stefanovitch. The Prince of Slavna must set forth on his travels, seeking a wife. The king even designated a princess of most unquestionable exaltedness as the first object of his son's attentions or pursuit. With an unusual peremptoriness and an unusual independence he sent Stenovics orders to communicate his wishes directly to the prince. Stenovics received the royal memorandum on the day on which Lieutenant Rastatz returned to Slavna with the fruits of his observation at Volseni in his hand.

A WORKER IN GLASS.

Miss Mary Tillinghast, the Most Famous Artist in Her Line.

At a well known art gallery on Fifth avenue, New York city, there is on exhibition a stained glass window the subject of which is the "Revocation of the Edict of Nantes." This exquisite picture in glass is the work of Miss Mary Tillinghast and is to be presented at an early date to the New York Historical society by Mrs. Russell Sage.

Miss Tillinghast is the most famous woman worker in stained glass in the world. She was a pupil of John La Farge and of Caroline Duran and has lived and studied abroad the greater part of her life. With all her genius and reputation in the art world, this little woman is modest and retiring and almost shy when induced to talk about her work. In an interview at the gallery recently Miss Tillinghast said that the window, which is unusually large and contains a number of figures, took a year to execute and that the subject had been treated after the celebrated picture at Fontainebleau depicting the revocation of the edict of Nantes, before which canvas she had spent many inspiring weeks.

When asked about the mechanical end of her work she smiled and answered: "Why, that is the simplest part of it all. Of course you know." the artist continued, "the subject is usually suggested to me by the person giving the commission, and that these glass effects are made for a specific purpose, and place makes the work easier. The subject matter settled, the next step is to get my inspiration. If the theme is allegorical I read, dream and make sketches of my fancies until they materialize into something workable. Should the theme be historical I haunt, as in the present instance, the country that gave rise to the scene.

"Then I make a rough draft and afterward work out the picture with living models. Another sketch is made from this and the lead lines, a most important part of the scheme, put in. Under my direction the dyes are made and the glass cut and put together by skilled workmen."

In reply to the statement that a worker in stained glass had to be not only an artist, but a special colorist, architect and mathematician, Miss Tillinghast pointed to a small "e" in the word "edict" and said, "Well, there are four sections in that fifth letter of the alphabet." Which clinched the matter of the exact science conclusively.

NEAR DEATH'S DOOR

Mi-o-na cures dyspepsia. If any of the readers of the Examiner are suffering from stomach trouble of any kind Mr. Madill will sell you a box of Mi-o-na for 50 cents with an absolute guarantee of relief or money back.

Neil Murray, of Huron Road, Goderich, Ont., says: "I suffered with indigestion for over four years and had been given over as incurable by many doctors. I had become a nervous wreck through loss of sleep, and whatever I did eat did not remain on my stomach for over two hours. I would suffer with vomiting spells that would almost kill me, perspiration as large as beads would break out all over my body and leave me in so weakened a condition that I would be unable to stand, not a night's rest in over six months and was so weakened and run down that my family thought I would die. My heart was greatly weakened and would flutter and a sharp pain would come through me and cut off my breath. I was reduced in weight from 150 to less than 110 pounds. Doctors would give different causes for my trouble, yet none of them gave me the slightest relief. I commenced treatment with Mi-o-na and when one-half of the first box was used I could eat my meals without suffering the dreadful vomiting spells. I used about ten boxes in all, and I am entirely cured. My stomach is as strong as ever and there is not the slightest trouble with indigestion. I have gained about 40 pounds in weight, am strong and healthy and like a new man. I will always speak highly of Mi-o-na, as it cured and I believe kept me from sure death when all else had failed."

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

To remove grease spots from wall paper sprinkle baking soda over blotting paper, place over the spot and press a moderately warm iron against it for a few minutes. The blotting paper will absorb the grease, and the paper on the wall will be free from spots.

Scraps of meat "leftovers" may be utilized by chopping fine and adding enough water to cover then cooking a few minutes with a little salt, butter and pepper. Thicken as you would gravy. Line muffin or gem tins with pie crust and bake then fill with mixture and serve hot.

When cleaning pantry shelves fold together at least three sheets of newspaper the longest way of the full sheet. Place the fold to the front of the shelf, fit carefully and when next clean papers are needed slip a silver knife to the fold of the outer sheet, cut along the entire length and remove the soiled part. In this way your shelves may be cleaned often and with little labor.

If one has a bedroom wall on which butterflies or certain varieties of flowers predominate as a decorative figure, then rugs, following this same idea, are easily made to order at any of the places where this work is done. A genuinely effective and unusual rag rug had butterflies of pale yellowish and brown across the border of a yellowish and brown rug. The butterflies looked as though they had been worked in afterward, for they were a lower weave than the body of the rug. The same idea was carried out in a bird design for a border on a studio rug. For dens and studios these quaint floor mats are most attractive.

MODERN WITCHCRAFT.

Story of Weird Incantation Is Told In an English Court.

In defending an action brought in the Oredition (Devon) County Court recently by a grocer named Ford to recover $10 for goods supplied Edith Patten, a single woman, gave an extraordinary reason for not paying the debt.

When in the shop on one occasion, she said, Mrs. Ford offered her a cupful of tea, and while she was drinking it Mrs. Ford's daughter pronounced the following incantation:

"Make them hot and make them swell, make them thin, walk them away and work them away. Put it in the arms and in the legs and in the feet. Put it in the face; fill up with neuralgia, toothache and more. Her have drinked it. Her have drinked it very well and don't know what her have drinked and will go to her grave."

In the evening, said Miss Patten, she became very hot and thirsty, so thirsty that she drank three quarts of tea and half a breakfast cupful of vinegar. She felt faint and thought she was dying.

The Judge—Do you believe that they bewitched you? I don't believe in anything of the sort, but I am getting thinner.

Judgment was given for the plaintiff.

"Dying" Man Laughs.

The illustrious baritone, Sir Charles Santley, could fill several books with interesting reminiscences in his career. He was born in Liverpool on Feb. 28, 1834, and sang his first solo in public at a chapel when he was 14 years of age. His first appearance in London was in 1857, after having studied for two years in Italy under the famous Nava. A good yarn is told of his debut in Dublin as Valentine in Gounod's "Faust." After the duel the lady who impersonated Martha rushed on the stage, at the head of a crowd of choristers, and raised the head of the dying Valentine. The house was very still, owing to the tragic manner in which he had fallen, when suddenly a voice from the gallery shouted: "Unbutton his wes'kit, 'Arry," a remark which evoked roars of laughter, and even Sir Charles forgot he was supposed to be mortally wounded. Returning from Worcester Festival one year, the train in which the famous vocalist was traveling met with an accident outside Westbourne Park Station. Fortunately, however, Sir Charles escaped with a few bruises. The doctor recommended him to keep within doors for a couple of weeks, and he would get him $10,000 damages, but the suggestion was declined.

Successful Woman, Successful Wife.

The popular idea is that any woman is good enough to be a wife. "She'll soon settle down once she's married," is commonly said of the most unsatisfactory sort of girl. But, as a matter of fact, the only way to be a success as a wife is to be a success as a woman first. The talents and virtues which constitute a good wife do not grow in a miraculous Jack and the Beanstalk manner as a mere result of getting married.

"Its Only a Cold, A Trifling Cough."

Thousands have said this when they caught cold. Thousands have neglected to cure the cold. Thousands have filled a Consumptive grave through neglect. Never neglect a cough or cold. It can have but one result. It leaves the throat or lungs, or both, affected. Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup is the medicine you need. It strikes at the very foundation of all throat or lung complaints, relieving or curing Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Asthma, Croup, Sore Throat, and preventing Pneumonia and Consumption.

It has stood the test for many years, and is now more generally used than ever. It contains all the lung healing virtues of the pine tree combined with Wild Cherry Bark and other pectoral remedies. It stimulates the weakened bronchial organs, allays irritation and subdues inflammation, soothes and heals the irritated parts, loosens the phlegm and mucous, and aids nature to easily dislodge the morbid accumulations. Don't be humbugged into accepting an imitation of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. It is put up in a yellow wrapper, three pine trees the trade mark, and price 25 cents.

"Mrs. J. Brewster, Grafton, N.S., writes:—"Two winters ago I suffered severely with a very bad cold and asthma. I was so bad I could not get my breath, and very often thought I would choke. My husband became very much frightened, and got me a bottle of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup and it gave me almost instant relief. I can recommend it to anyone having the least kind of a cold."

Is simple enough if you take it.
Find building material lighter than air,
And then go ahead and just make it.

Cowboy Not Dead.

As the Canadian west is such an enormous country, its settling is no matter of a decade or two. The United States has been settling its west for over half a century, yet millions of cattle still roam on its ranges, and thousands of cowboys whirl their lass' ropes and control their fiery steeds. The tendency has indeed ever been of late towards smaller ranches, and leases are supplanting free grass, and the same will apply to Canada. But we must not say that the cowboy is disappearing because he is beginning to call himself a rancher, and because his legs are not forever encased in the leather "chaps."

The cowboy will tell you that the real puncher of the best type neither more or less than any expert at handling range cattle; and there are still to be found in the west, clad though they be, not in buckskin shirts and fringed leggings, but in overalls and tweed vests. Men whose skill in handling a lass' rope, or in managing a herd of wild frightened cattle or a mean and vicious horse, is an unceasing wonder to the eastern eye.

It will be to the great advantage of the Dominion to number among its citizens men of the fearless, generous, hard-working and altogether heroic mould in which the average cowpuncher is cast.—Calgary Herald.

A Wonderful Harbor.

Churchill harbor is simply a land locked lake of eight miles in length running northeast and southwest by about four miles in breadth, in area approximately two townships in extent. The Churchill or English River falls into the harbor on its southwest corner. An outlet of about one-quarter of a mile wide at Fort Prince of Wales, leads to the open sea and to deep water.

This channel at low waters in its shoalest spot is 27 feet deep. It has an average tide of two fathoms. The sheltered harbor requires dredging and the removing of large boulders, stones and other impediments. Its deepest and best ship anchorage, gives 45 feet, opposite the present whaling station. A powerful ice-breaker could keep the channel leading to the open sea serviceable the whole year round. As time will prove, suitable tugs, aided by lighthouses, fishing stations, improved charts and the all important wireless telegraphy, will simply pick up and lead in a transatlantic vessel with ease, as soon as it enters the straits at the Button islands.

Dogs Prevent Accidents.

Superintendent Stinson, of the Ontario Provincial Department of Game and Fisheries, declares that that province has had this year the smallest number of serious accidents from hunting with hounds. He argues that still hunting requires the expert, the man who knows woodcraft, and that among the thousands who go to the woods not half a dozen could bring home a deer if it depended on woodcraft. Nearly all the deer are shot along the water paths with the hounds in pursuit. The use of hounds in hunting, he holds, is a preventive of accidents, for there is no mistaking the approach of an animal when chased by dogs. Moreover, in the northern districts, with their second growth of timber, still hunting would be almost impossible.

Not to Be Told.

ROYAL CHRISTMAS CARDS.

Members of British Reigning Family Sent Artistic Little Folders.

Those who received Christmas cards from King Edward this season came into possession of an artistic production of the highest order.

King Edward's "card" this year was a four-page pamphlet, the frontispiece depicting the historical origin of the Order of the Garter, with Edward III. gallantly picking up the blue ribbon which the Countess of Salisbury had dropped. Within the book are the words:

"Gracious and tranquil may the season smile,
And social pleasure wing its golden hours."
"With best wishes for a happy Christmas and a bright New Year."

Queen Alexandra's Christmas greeting was a much smaller and less pretentious effort. Faced by a copy of J. H. Bacon's famous picture, "Roman Maidens Listening to the Christmas Story," it contains a portion of the score of Salmond's music to Miss Burnside's words:

"Still the old, old Christmas story,
To Faith's ears as fresh as when
Angel hosts, in ranks of glory,
Sang of God's good-will to men."

The Queen of Norway's card had a reproduction of Bennett's "Madonna and Child," with a verse; and the Prince of Wales used a picture of the Black Prince receiving the Garter, with the greeting: "May time befortune you with all good gifts. With best wishes for a happy Christmas and a bright New Year."

A Polite Hint.

True Detective Stories

"English Billy" and His Fifteen Friends.

BY A. L. DRUMMOND, FORMERLY CHIEF OF THE U. S. SECRET SERVICE.

(Copyright, 1909, by A. L. Drummond and A. L. Benson.)

IN the detective business no incident is so small that it may not lead to the most important disclosures. Therein lies the fascination of the work. Early in January, 1881, I was asked to help apprehend William Burns, otherwise known as "English Billy," who had been shot while attempting, in company with another man then unknown, to pass counterfeit money in Stamford, Conn. I made a search of the New York hospitals and finally found him in the surgical ward of Blackwell's Island. When he recovered I took him before Commissioner Shields, but the Stamford authorities failed positively to identify him. They were morally certain he was the man they wanted, but they could not give unqualified affirmative answers and he was discharged.

The incident seemed ended, but I thought I would watch Burns a little while, just to see who his friends were and what he would do. I put Daniel McSweeney on his track when he left the courtroom and told him to shadow the young fellow.

McSweeney watched around for a day or two and learned that Burns seemed to be one of a gang of good-for-nothing men who made their headquarters in the resorts around Chatham square. Who these men were McSweeney did not know. He only knew they spent their time playing pool, drinking, gambling and so on.

The secrets of such men, if they have any, can be gained only by slow, painstaking effort, and the fact that their companion Burns was a counterfeiter seemed to make it worth while to learn more about them. So when McSweeney reported for duty the next morning I called him into my office.

"Dan," said I, "I want you to go down and camp with this crowd and find out who they are and what they are doing. Get yourself a room in a cheap lodging house, rig yourself out in some old clothes, gradually give them the impression that you are a crook and see if you cannot uncover some counterfeiters among them."

From that day on until the end of the case Daniel McSweeney was to Chatham square not Daniel McSweeney, United States Secret Service operative, but "Dan" Dugan, living without visible means of support and presumably a criminal. He established himself in a fourth floor back bedroom in a lodging house that decent men never entered. His days and his nights he spent in the places in which the gang stayed. He played pool with the pool players, cards with the card players and, so far as appearances were concerned, became as much of a loafer as any of them.

After he had hung around with them for three or four days he disappeared from their haunts for a day. When he returned to them he brought with him four or five watches with which I had provided him. Some of the watches had an inch or two of chain hanging to them, the links having been snipped off in the peculiar manner that thieves know so well. The ring of another watch had been wrenched out, as pickpockets by a quick twist remove the ring of a watch that they want to steal.

Between games of pool and at other appropriate times McSweeney showed these watches to some of his friends. They looked at them with interest. They also looked at McSweeney with interest. Here was a man who was buying stolen goods. They often had stolen goods to sell. With this man they could do business. And, as a matter of fact, this theory proved true. Within the next few days McSweeney bought from members of the gang several stolen articles, which he turned over to me, properly initialled, for identification.

As the relations between McSweeney and his new friends became more intimate remarks began to be made to Dan about counterfeit money. No one admitted that he had any to sell, but the drift of the conversation always simmered down to the fact that if McSweeney—or "Dugan," as they called him—wanted to deal a little in spurious silver some of the crowd could stock him up. Dan, however, always shook his head. He was not in the business. He wouldn't touch a bit of counterfeit. It was dangerous, and besides, it was not in his line. And even when Daniel Sullivan, who was known to the trade as "Scotty," urged McSweeney to take a chance, at the same time offering to sell him the goods, Dan waved him away.

"It's too risky for me," said Dan. "Those who want to can handle it—and some good men do—but I will not. I have a friend down in New Orleans who has made a barrel of money in this way, and he's never been caught, but I like to sleep nights and I couldn't if I had that on my mind."

Dan, however, was only drawing back to make a plunge. Together we fixed up a letter from his supposed friend in New Orleans, in which McSweeney was asked if he could not buy for him in New York $600 worth of counterfeit silver dollars. Directing the letter to Dugan to his Chatham square address, I enclosed it in another envelope and sent it to New Orleans to be mailed back.

When the letter was delivered to McSweeney he tore off the signature to create the impression thereby that he was trying to protect his friend and showed the communication to "Scotty" Sullivan.

"This crazy man at New Orleans can't get enough counterfeit down South," said Dan, "and is now sending North for it. I hate to touch the stuff, even to buy it for him, but he did me a good turn once when I was in a tight place and I must do it. Have you got $600 worth about you, 'Scotty?'"

"Scotty" hadn't. He was so small a dealer that he had to pick a pocket to get money enough to buy the lead and antimony with which to get a manufacturer to make $100 for him, and Dan knew it. But the plan was to make "Scotty" believe he had got against a big customer, so he would spread the news among other and perhaps larger members of the gang. All that "Scotty" could rake up was $30 worth of trade dollars, which McSweeney bought, initialled and turned over to me.

The deal over, Dan went on with his pool playing and for a day or two reported nothing of much importance. He soon came in, however, with a worried look on his face. He had been in trouble. He did not know whether he had done right, but he had engaged in a fight with one of the gang. It came about this way:—

Dan and a crook named William Saunders were playing pool.

"What were you coming out of Drummond's office for this morning?" asked Saunders.

"Who is Drummond?" asked Dan.

"Drummond is the New York chief of the Secret Service. I guess you know him well."

"I never heard of him, and any one who says I was ever in his office is a liar," said Dan, laying down his cue. "Who said so?"

"'Scotty' Sullivan told me," replied Saunders.

'Scotty' was just in the act of trying to make a fine shot at another table. He was still fiddling with his cue when the sound of an angry voice caused him to look up.

BIFF—BANG—WENT HIS FISTS.

"Did you tell Bill Saunders that you saw me coming out of Drummond's office this morning?" asked Dan.

"I guess I did—for a saw you."

Biff! bang! went the fists and in less than half a minute "Scotty" was lying on the floor with one eye in process of becoming a deep black. Other members of the gang rushed in and pulled Dan from his place on "Scotty's" chest.

"It was only a joke," explained Saunders, who had started the trouble by telling the story to Dan. "'Scotty' had sold you a little stuff and wanted to make sure that you were 'on the level.' He asked me to tell you he had seen you coming from Drummond's office just to see how you would act. If you were a copper he thought he could tell it."

"It's all right about its being a joke and about 'Scotty' trying to see if I was a copper," said Dan. "But nobody can talk that way to me. If I hadn't knocked Scotty out, then he would have meant it. Having knocked him out, he didn't mean it. All I've got to say to you fellows is that I'll break any man's head who says he ever saw me come out of Drummond's office. I don't have to make a living that way."

This is the story that Dan told to me, while his face wore a worried look.

"Maybe I did wrong, Chief—I don't know. Did I?"

"Dan," said I, "it is always a very serious thing for an officer to assault a citizen. But if any of that gang should ever again tell you that he saw you coming out of my office hit him harder than you did 'Scotty.'"

As a matter of fact, Dan's frenzied defence of his honor, resulting as it did in Scotty's black eye, did more than he could have so quickly accomplished in any other way toward giving him the complete confidence of every member of the crowd. From that moment they entertained no doubt concerning him. He was one of them, ready to pick a pocket, buy stolen goods, or, on a pinch, get counterfeit money for his friend in New Orleans.

As a result events moved rapidly from that time on. In a little while McSweeney had bought some counterfeit money from Saunders, who, he learned, was a manufacturer of spurious coins; from Edward King and Charles J. Wilson, also manufacturers, and from John Farrell, alias Jack Barrett, who was with Burns at Stamford the night Burns was shot. As rapidly as he could make the deals without exciting suspicion he also bought from Christopher McDonald, another manufacturer, and from Samuel Baker, Robert Kelly, James R. Hyde, James F. Murphy and David Angelo. William Burns also sold him a few pieces, and, after great effort, he succeeded in making purchases from Martin Leonard, saloon keeper and leader of the gang, and from Ann McCormack, Leonard's common law wife. Altogether McSweeney bought, marked and turned over to me counterfeit money that he had bought from sixteen members of the band.

The next thing was to get the men under arrest. If officers with warrants for the whole lot were sent out to scour the Chatham square resorts not more than four or five could be picked up before the news of their capture would cause the rest to flee. So it became necessary to get them by ones and twos without letting any knowledge of their fate get into the newspapers or otherwise to become public until the whole sixteen, or most of them, at any rate, were in prison.

We were delayed a little by reason of the fact that Baker had gone to Washington to pick pockets during the inauguration ceremonies of President Garfield, but at last we got under way. McSweeney lured "Scotty" Sullivan down near the Post Office Building, where officers of mine were lying in wait. An apparent attempt was made to arrest both of them, but McSweeney, of course, was permitted to get away, while "Scotty" was taken to the station house and put where newspaper reporters could not find him. Then I conceived the idea of establishing headquarters in the old International Hotel, which stood on the present site of the Park Row Building. At the head of the stairs in this building I hired a number of rooms and the plan was for McSweeney to lure the members of the gang, on one pretext or another, to these rooms, one of which he pretended to be occupying.

The plan worked well. McSweeney with a companion would come up the stairs and start to enter one of the rooms. Two or three of us would slip up behind them, grab the one we wanted in such a way as to pinion his arms to his sides and hustle him away. One by one we put them away in this manner until perhaps eight or ten had been picked up. Then I made up my mind we would go to Martin Leonard's saloon and get him and the woman with whom he lived.

Leonard and his barkeeper were both bad men. Besides the customary cheese knives and implements of that sort, they also had, as we afterward found, more revolvers and knives than they had hands to use. I knew that if we walked in and tried to take them by force it would mean a fight in which we might be compelled to kill one or both of them to prevent being killed. So McSweeney, at my suggestion, went into the saloon and asked for a glass of beer, while we waited outside near the door. Having taken his drink he came out, passing through the short swinging screen and then called back:—

"Oh, Martin! Come out and see the scrap!"

Martin hustled around from behind the counter, and the moment he came through the door we grabbed him around the arms and snapped the handcuffs around his wrists. He didn't seem to know what was going on until he heard the click of the cuffs, which he then gave such a wrench that it seemed as if he would break them. His barkeeper, who was also a dealer in counterfeit, followed at his heels, and we gathered him in in the same manner. Then we went up stairs and took Ann McCormack, Leonard's wife.

At one o'clock in the morning we were hammering on the door of Saunders' apartments, on the fourth floor of a lodging house in Second avenue above Houston street. Over the transom we could see a dim light, but repeated knocks brought no answer. We burst in the door, and Saunders' wife, clad only in her night clothing, flew at us like a tigress. Catching sight of McSweeney, she turned on him as if she would have torn him in pieces, calling him all the vile names to which she could lay her tongue.

"Danny Dugan!" she shrieked. "I knew you were a copper all the time. I always told Bill you'd throw him down and now you've done it."

It all happened so quickly that Saunders, who had been asleep, had barely time to rub his eyes when he was also put under arrest. Both were compelled to dress and were taken to the station house.

Two hours later, or at three o'clock in the morning, we were at Edward King's home, on Forsyth street, near Rivington. King lived on the third floor, rear, of a tenement, and, like the other house we visited, a light was burning, but knocks brought no answer. So we burst in his door.

HE THEN GAVE SUCH A WRENCH THAT IT SEEMED AS IF HE WOULD BREAK THEM.

We might have thought we were in a mint. Silver coins of all denominations were scattered about the rooms—for King and Wilson, who were found in bed, were at work when we came. Molten lead was in the melting pots, the molds were lying open, and everything was as it would have been if two men who had been at work all night had suddenly stopped for a moment.

We found more than four hundred counterfeit coins, all of which had been made since sundown. And talk about your Central American military costume!—a pair of spurs and a Panama hat—the room in which these men worked was so hot that they wore nothing but handkerchiefs under their chins.

With these men behind the bars with the others, the only important man who was still out of jail was Burns—"English Billy." Many a time McSweeney had tried to inveigle Burns to the International Hotel, but without success. Perhaps Burns had noticed that the men who walked away with McSweeney never came back; at any rate, he always had [illegible] when Dan tried to lure him down to the [illegible] where the rest of us were waiting to get him.

More than that, Burns had told McSweeney he would kill me on sight. He never forgave me for arresting him after he had been shot in Connecticut and had "gotten away clean," as he expressed it. McSweeney believed he meant business and warned me not to get in his way.

"You have a wife and family, chief," McSweeney said, "and if I can get Burns up here I will arrest him. He has no feeling against me. At any rate, you had better let him alone."

"All right, Dan," said I. "Get him if you can, but I am willing to take a chance on him if it so happens that you cannot get him up to the room."

All other means having failed to get Burns, several of us started out one day to arrest him. On the way to the place where we expected to find him we met him in the street.

"Hello, Billy," said McSweeney. "Where are you going?"

Burns mumbled something about being in a hurry and started to run. Dan took after him, but Burns was the better runner. Instantly McSweeney and all the rest of us began to yell "Stop thief!" A big policeman, hearing the cries and seeing the fleeing Burns, swung his night stick on him and Burns dropped. Nor did he get up until he was picked up. In one hand was clasped a dagger. In one of his pockets was a revolver. In his scalp was a gaping wound seven inches long.

The entire sixteen having been arrested, their trials followed in due order. Fourteen either pleaded guilty or were convicted. Dennis Glennon was the only one who was acquitted, and Joseph Delehanti, for some reason that I could never understand, was not tried. Leonard, the leader of the gang, was given a ten years' sentence. His wife was sent up for two years. Burns was given five years. Two were let off on suspended sentence and the others were given from one to three years each.

The next day after the arrest of Burns I was talking with the policeman who assisted so materially by knocking him out with his club.

"That was a bad man that you helped to arrest yesterday," said I, adding a few particulars about his crimes and desperate character.

"You don't say so," said the giant Irishman, who had made a seven inch wound in Burns' scalp. "If I'd known that I'd hit him ha-arder."

CALDWELL'S RIDE.

BY F. W. EDDY.

UNION SQUARE put Caldwell in romantic mood that morning. It had for him the smell of a holiday, with its russet foliage, its carpet of crumpled green and its denuded flower beds. The burnished sky and mellow air were equally seductive, as if nature had laid itself out to make a truant of him.

Caldwell's specialty lay in being out of the common run. In his own phrase, he was an "autumnal ground hog," seeking his burrow in June and emerging only with the scent of assured frost. In summer he dragged himself to work, yawned through his daily task and limped back home with all his spirit wrung—or sizzled—out of him. Now he was again in his element.

"In weather like this," he said to himself, "I would like to be well enough fixed to telephone to the office that I am not coming down."

Not having reached that estate, and as he was due at his desk in the next ten minutes, he filled his lungs with the air of promised frost and cast himself into the flow of travel on the busy sidewalk.

Holiday reflections stayed with him as he walked, and they still occupied him when, turning into Sixth avenue, he almost ran into a sign which read as follows:—

> Wheels by the Hour.
> Special Price for the Day,
> Reduced to > Only 30 Cents.

Next to having the day at his disposal, Caldwell thought the noon hour on a wheel would be just to his liking. It was no weather for violent exercise, but how he would enjoy filling himself with the soft air, pedalling without effort, quietly, gently and only so fast that the air might [illegible] down to Washington square, up Fifth avenue to Madison square, over to Gramercy Park, across to Stuyvesant square and back to the office through Union square, all within an hour. "If it was only Tuesday instead of Thursday," he sighed. Caldwell's purse habitually became lean by Thursday.

The bicycle sign came between him and his accounts. His desk mate, Phillips, worked on like a machine while Caldwell felt under constant restraint lest he write "only 30 cents" in place of figures properly belonging to his entries. It was plain that Phillips had no sentiment and that it would be waste of breath to talk of perfumed air and russet trees to a man who plodded like a farm horse in all seasons. But Caldwell reflected that with the plodder Tuesday and Thursday were financially alike. Phillips might not long for the beautiful, but he took care of money, and when he called on the cashier on Saturday it was only to add the wages of another week to a store of savings already comfortable.

That morning the conduct of Caldwell toward Phillips denoted a fondness not usually apparent in their relations. He filled his ink well for him, offered him fresh pens, praised the neatness of his work and at noon brought him his hat. They went out together, and at the street door Caldwell said, "Great day, Phillips; don't you think so?"

"Weather never bothers me," was the indifferent reply.

"A day like this makes me want to get out," Caldwell went on eagerly, "and all the morning I have been thinking of a bicycle ride, just for the noon hour. I am hungering to fill myself with this air on a wheel, pedalling quietly and gently and just fast enough to be nicely fanned, down to Washington square, up Fifth avenue to Madison square, over to Gramercy Park, across to Stuyvesant square and back to the office through Union square, all within the hour. My pocket gets poor toward the end of the week, you know, but if you wouldn't mind helping me out with half a dollar I will hand it back to you on Saturday when we get our pay, and be ever so much obliged."

"Mr. Caldwell," came the cold response, "if you are so hungry as you say for spicy air you had better find a way to feed yourself. I look on that sort of thing as waste and I am not lending money for it. For some sensible use I might lend, but for this purpose I refuse—on principle."

Caldwell had appetite for only the scantiest luncheon. The fresh air seemed to mock him. Rather against his will than by design he drifted in front of the haunting sign which had drawn a considerable custom for the noon hour. He saw clerks like himself mount and ride gayly off. Some girls from neighboring stores hired wheels. He watched for several minutes a stout woman whom the sign had attracted. She had difficulty in mounting, even when assisted, and lost nerve completely when she began to pedal. As she fell the third time a voice behind Caldwell said, "Looks as if she were getting more than she expected for her money." When Caldwell saw that the speaker was Phillips, he counted ten to himself to curb his resentment and said in the blandest tones:—

"She would do very well with a little help. It is as simple as walking. If you were on a wheel, Mr. Phillips, you would go like a bird."

"You don't really think so?" queried Phillips.

"I am positive, Mr. Phillips, and you will never have a better chance. Here I am to help you, and this is a bargain day—price reduced to only 30 cents an hour."

Phillips and Caldwell entered the place. Caldwell selected the wheels and Phillips paid for an hour's hire. Assisted by Caldwell, Phillips found mounting most easy, and with Caldwell beside him he moved along, indeed, as freely as a bird. At a corner soon after the start Caldwell stepped aside for a passing cart and removed his hand from Phillips' saddle. Minus this support the bird lost poise and sprawled to earth.

"My dear Mr. Phillips," explained Caldwell, "you should have followed my instructions. I warned you not to think of your balance, but to sit straight and keep your eyes well ahead. It is perfectly simple. Let me show you."

Phillips jogged at his side, while Caldwell fed his hunger with the nutritive air, pedalling quietly, gently, and only so fast that the air fanned him, down to Washington square, up Fifth avenue to Madison square, over to Gramercy Park, across to Stuyvesant square, and back to the office through Union square, all within the noon hour.

A Matter of Conventions

By CLARISSA MACKIE.

Copyrighted, 1908, by Associated Literary Press.

The train screamed its way through the valley, grunted up the steep incline and came to a standstill before the ramshackle little station. It paused while two passengers alighted, and then it hurried off, as if it was glad to get away from such an insignificant stopping place.

Elsie Lansing accepted her leather bag from the taciturn station agent, who at the same time pushed a suit case toward the other traveler, a tall young man buttoned up in a gray ulster.

"Stage here for Greentop?" queried the latter, picking up his grip.

"Not this day!" returned the agent grimly. "Jim Laidlaw, he seems to think Saturday's made special so's he can git a little drunker'n usual! If you ain't expected, you'll have to walk!" With which remark he slammed the station door and turned the key.

"Let me see—it's twelve miles to Greentop, isn't it?" asked the stranger thoughtfully.

"Twelve and a half. Straight road ahead." The agent tramped away across the platform and disappeared inside a small cottage perched on the high bank above the tracks.

Elsie Lansing looked dubiously at the frozen road stretching away between pine clad heights, faintly touched with the early morning sun. She had traveled all night and had telegraphed for her newly acquired brother-in-law to meet her.

There was no sign of the white motor car which had been a part of the bridal equipment and which was to speed her to the Eyrie, in the Green mountains, away from civilization and its attendant comforts.

"If you are going to Greentop, permit me to carry your bag," said the young man, lifting his hat. "It is a stiff walk, but perhaps it will stimulate an appetite for dinner."

"You are very good," replied Elsie pleasantly, "but my bag is not heavy, and I can easily carry it myself."

Without further conversation they left the station and made their way along the road in the shadow of the pines.

It was a crisp day, with a tang of early winter in the breath of the north wind. It was an invigorating day, with its strong scent of pine and balsom, the rattle of crisp, dry cones and the sweet purity of mountain air.

The stranger walked on ahead with long, swinging strides. His head was bent thoughtfully, and it was quite evident that he had forgotten the girl, who was struggling to keep pace with him. Suddenly he turned and perceived her.

"I must ask your pardon!" he cried commiseratively. "I forgot—that is, I did not realize how fast I was walking. Let me take your bag. You are very tired."

He took it from her unresisting hand and looked down at the delicate cheek, paler by contrast of the fringing dark lashes.

"I hope it isn't much farther," she admitted ruefully. "I have been ill, and my strength is fickle."

He stopped and looked about him. They had come to a slight opening in the forest, where the sun streamed over fallen tree trunks and glinted on the surface of a tiny brook that wound its way across the road.

"We will rest here," he said, with a note of authority in his voice. "It is a good deal farther. We have come perhaps three miles. If you will let me take you back to the station I will return to Greentop and procure a conveyance of some sort"—

"No," she objected, sinking wearily on to a fallen log. "I will be rested presently. You see, I didn't eat any breakfast, and"—

"No breakfast!" he echoed blankly. "I don't wonder you are tired. Wait a minute, please!" He knelt down before his suit case and unlocked it. From its depths of masculine apparel he brought forth a small alcohol stove, a bottle of the necessary liquid and a small tin of beef extract.

Elsie watched him with amused interest. With deft fingers he filled and lighted the lamp and opened the tin of extract. "I wonder if he is a drummer and is demonstrating some of his wares!"

But there was something in the man's thin, intellectual face, with its near sighted blue eyes behind thick glasses, that belied her estimate. There was a vague familiarity about his movements that puzzled her.

"Here," he said, approaching her with a small silver drinking cup, "drink this, please."

"You are very kind indeed," she said gratefully, sipping the hot liquid, "I am afraid I am depriving you of your luncheon."

He threw back his head and laughed heartily. Elsie liked the laugh and decided that she liked the man.

"Excuse me, but you must think I'm an old maid—to be traveling about with that equipment," he said. "You see, I have an invalid aunt in Greentop. These are to rejoice her heart!"

"I have bonbons in my bag," confessed Elsie. "Shall we eat them?"

"Let's," he assented gayly.

When the empty box had been thrown away and the spirit lamp and its appurtenances had been returned to the suit case Elsie arose and drew her furs about her white throat.

"I feel like a new woman," she said gratefully.

"The Lord forbid!" he cried, with fervency.

They laughed in unison as they resumed their journey. The way seemed shorter now as they chatted of impersonal matters. Once the man referred to a certain scientific work.

"I haven't read that; I did read Professor Ray's book on the same subject."

"Ah! You have read Ray's book?" he questioned.

She nodded. "I had to!"

"Why under compulsion?" There was deep interest in his tone.

"You see, Peter Ray is my brother-in-law's elder brother."

"You know him?" he asked.

"Not at all. I have never seen him, but Bob says he is a jolly grind, and my sister says he is charming."

"See that squirrel," said the man, suddenly changing the subject. "It is a flying squirrel, and his antics are worth watching. Squirrels are perfect acrobats."

* * * * * * *

A long, white motor car crawled down the road to the railroad station. A man struggled ineffectually with the speed levers.

"Four hours from the Eyrie, darling," murmured a white veiled vision from the tonneau.

"I can't help it, Lettie! I don't know what's got into the machine! Elsie will be starved to death after this long wait. If Laidlaw isn't there she may try to walk," groaned Bob Ray dismally.

"If Peter was only here!" said Lettie gently.

"Aye, Peter could make the blamed thing go! By Jove, Lettie, look there!" He pointed ahead, where a huge log was rolled beside the path.

On it sat a man and a girl deeply interested in watching the antics of a squirrel in the pine tree overhead.

"Elsie!" cried Mrs. Ray breathlessly.

"And Peter, as I'm a sinner!" added her husband, tooting his horn gayly.

The pair on the log turned around and then arose.

For the first time that day Elsie felt embarrassed at the situation. She could explain the fact that a stranger had accompanied her on the long walk, but now to make it clear to conventional Lettie that sitting upon the log was a natural outcome of their friendly companionship?

Bob Ray saved her from Lettie's displeasure.

"Peter, old, man," he shouted gleefully, "forget all your old 'isms' and 'ologies' and get down and tinker this thing into shape! How is Elsie—tired, eh?"

Elsie flushed and hesitated. Professor Ray came nobly to her aid. "I met Miss Lansing at the station. We came up on the train together, you know. There was no conveyance, so we walked. Glad you met us, though," he added mendaciously.

When the automobile had been inwardly soothed by the skillful hands of the professor they whizzed smoothly toward the Eyrie.

"I thought you and Peter had never met, Elsie?" said her sister, with an interrogative glance.

"Why—yes—we—er—met"— faltered Elsie, with a pleading glance at the nearsighted blue eyes that peered at her from the front seat.

"We me"— said the professor, whose mental insight was without flaw, "we—er—met. Is not that sufficient?"

Lettie looked at her sister's conscious face and at Peter's betraying eyes.

"I think that is sufficient," she said, with a sage nod of her pretty head.

THE EXAMINER'S

Live Money-Making

NEWSBOYS' COMPETITION

Starts Monday, February 1st.
Ends Friday, April 30th.

20 Prizes in Cash 20

To the first 20 boys securing the largest number of New Subscribers to THE EVENING EXAMINER up to APRIL 30th, and an additional $2.00 PRIZE IN CASH, EACH WEEK, to the boy selling the largest number of EVENING EXAMINERS during each week of the Competition.

The Examiner wants you to have your own customers, to collect your own money, and make what you can. Any boy that becomes an Examiner Newsboy and gets two or more new customers each week will stand a good chance of winning one of the following :—

Remember

New beginners, as well as all our regular Newsboys, who enter this contest, will start scoring together on Monday Evening, February 1st.

Papers are ready every evening shortly after four o'clock.

Boys attending school can be easily supplied, and with a little hustle can soon start a savings bank.

Girls, who desire, can take part in this competition, as well as boys.

We will keep a record of every boy's daily sales up to the end of the contest.

The Examiner is easy to sell and has proved to be a good money maker in the past.

Cash Prizes Offered

First Prize	$25.00
Second Prize	20.00
Third Prize	15.00
Fourth Prize	10.00
Fifth Prize	5.00
Sixth Prize	4.00
Seventh Prize	3.00
Eighth Prize	2.00
Twelve Prizes of	1.00

Understand

It's the largest individual increase every week that counts.

If one boy who has been selling papers starts on Monday next with ten regular customers and increases his list to twenty at the end of the week, and another boy with twenty regular customers has only increased to twenty-five, the first boy wins the $2.00 Weekly Prize in cash, because he has added ten to his list while the second boy has only added five to his list.

Whether you have been selling papers in the past or not makes no difference.

Canvass those who are not now taking the Examiner. They will always read it if you get them started.

No boy has any advantage over any other.

It's all in the hustle.

PARENTS

Who would like to encourage their boys to earn sufficient pocket money to keep them, are urged to give them a start with a few cents for their first lot of papers. There are many young men now holding good positions who made their first money by selling the Evening Examiner. Any boy can start at any time, but he should start on Monday, February 1st, with the rest and give no handicap. Any further information required, regarding this competition, will be given at the office of the Examiner.

NOW, BOYS AND GIRLS, GET BUSY!

AN IMPORTANT CONDITION—In order that protection may be given to each boy who is entered in this competition it is a condition that no one will secure a prize who does not legitimately earn it. If a boy applies for a weekly prize who has not bought the papers for his own use and sale it will be turned over to the boy who has actually won it. :-: :-: :-: -:- :-:

NEEDLEWORK NOTES.

If a girl has clever fingers she can make herself pretty sash arrangements out of ribbons. The flowered ribbons made into shoulder strap and bretelle arrangements or the new hip draperies are not difficult to accomplish. The latter is only for the girl of slender proportions and needs careful handling. Then there are all sorts and kinds of neck finishes which make chic otherwise commonplace toilets.

Useful covers for table and sideboard are of blue linen, hemstitched and edged with Irish peasant lace. The linen may—in fact, must—be coarse, and it is very inexpensive. Blue does not soil easily, while the lace is all that could be desired—made of linen thread and quite inexpensive. If the cover is intended for the sideboard the lace and hemstitching need be only on three sides, the selvage serving for the side nearest the wall. The hems of these covers should be about two inches broad. The Irish peasant lace is a really beautiful fabric, though it is too heavy for any purpose save for household furnishing.

Rockefeller Has $25,000 Laundry.

John D. Rockefeller believes in having everything up to date around his country estate at Pocantico Hills. In addition to his $1,000,000 mansion, his $250,000 stable and several lodges, he has just completed a $25,000 laundry, where all the linen for the big house, the members of his family and the servants is made spotless.

Mr. Rockefeller also has a private dairy, from which he obtains fresh milk, cream and butter for his country house as well as his own house in Manhattan.

Mr. Rockefeller still has several agents out, it is said, trying to buy up more land so that he can enlarge his park.—New York American.

A Bullet Proof Garment.

Carl Keill, an engineer of Munich, has invented a bullet proof garment which promises to bring him a small fortune. It is in the form of a woman's corset, weighs about six pounds and is made of thin steel rings or links about an inch and three-quarters wide. At a trial of the garment eighteen revolver shots fired at a distance of eleven yards failed to make any impression upon it. "The Russian government is said to have offered Keill $50,000 for his discovery, provided it will stand proof against Mauser bullets, but he declined the offer, preferring to deal with the German war office," the Pall Mall Gazette says.

Peru's Change of Time.

By a decree of the government of Peru issued by President Pardo the time of the seventy-fifth meridian west of Greenwich was on July 28 adopted as the national standard time for the whole of Peru. The meridian is only a few minutes from that of Lima and runs almost exactly through the middle of the country. All timepieces throughout Peru will now coincide with those in the United States where eastern time is kept. Peru is the first South American republic to adopt the world standard.

Dangerous.

"If I exposed my throat and lungs the way you do," complained the father of the beautiful maiden, "I'd be a dead man inside of three days."

"Of course you would," she sweetly replied, "although really I don't believe lynching ought ever to be resorted to for anything." — Chicago Record-Herald.

A Cruel Precaution.

"I have an idea that those new neighbors of ours are great gossips, but I can't find out."

"Why not?"

"You see, their cook is deaf and dumb, and none of the girls in the block understand the sign language."—Baltimore American.

Envy.

"Julius Caesar's literary attainments were truly wonderful," said the student.

"Oh, I don't know," answered the discontented youth with inky fingers. "Anybody could get his stuff published with a pull like Julius Caesar." — Washington Star.

The Main Task.

Mrs. Stubb—A regiment of women soldiers would look wonderfully imposing, John. You wouldn't have any trouble telling them to fall in.

Mr. Stubb—No, but you'd have a lot of trouble keeping them from falling out, Maria.—Chicago News.

Not a Philosophic Enterprise.

"Young Mr. Bliggins is thinking of proposing."

"Yes," answered Miss Cayenne, "but I doubt if he will ever do so. The only way for a man to get courage in such matters is to stop thinking."—Washington Star.

Pushed to It.

Miss Gotrox—The count was awfully embarrassed when he proposed to me.

Miss Poorman—Yes, poor fellow. He probably proposed because he couldn't afford to do otherwise.—Houston Post.

Bread and Microbes.

From experiments made by M. Rousel in Paris it appears that only the crust of bread is submitted to a sufficiently high temperature to kill all the bacteria which the loaf may contain. The inside of the loaf may therefore be contaminated by the microbes from a consumptive baker or conveyed in the water, as is the case with typhoid fever and cholera. Professor Metchnikoff was asked his opinion whether bread could not be a source of danger, and his answer was as follows: "I don't think so. The temperature to which the inside of a loaf is submitted generally exceeds 140 degrees F. A this temperature many microbes are killed—those of tuberculosis, for instance—but there are much hardier germs, such as those of anthrax, the germs of which are only killed at over 224 degrees F. But anthrax is rare, and it is hardly likely that a baker attacked by this terrible malady would continue to work once the disease had declared itself." Professor Metchnikoff advises, however, that only bread which is well baked, and therefore not crumbly, should be eaten.

A Girl and A Garden.

By Frank H. Williams.

Copyrighted, 1908, by Associated Literary Press.

"I could love you," said the pretty neighbor, and then as the man impetuously reached for her she added quickly, "for your garden!"

The man's face fell.

"Now, I call that downright mean," declared the man vigorously. "You're a nice, pretty neighbor. Here I've been courting you and making love to you for months, and now I find that it's not me, but my garden, that's made an impression. I'll sell the garden," he added roughly.

The pretty neighbor clasped her hands in real distress.

"Oh, don't!" she cried. "You don't really mean that! Think how long it's been in your family! Think how much care your mother and your grandmother and your great-grandmother spent on all these dear flowers!"

"Time I was selling it!" growled the man. "I'll get an old factory, a bakery or something of that sort here!"

"Oh, oh!" cried the pretty neighbor.

"I mean it!" cried the man. "I'll start right away."

Wholly distressed, the pretty neighbor, her hands tightly clinched, watched the man as he went down one of the paths toward a gay little summer house.

She was standing near a wall, beside a little fountain, and all about her the garden was a bower of beauty. Vistas between the trees radiated from the spot where she stood. Birds sang in the trees. She could hardly realize that the big, hurrying city was just on the other side of the wall.

From the summer house she saw the man come out. In one hand he carried a big white board, in the other a bucket of paint and a brush. When he reached the pretty neighbor he placed the board against the wall and without a word took up the brush.

"What are you going to do?" the girl asked somewhat tremulously.

"Paint," answered the man laconically.

With fascinated eyes the girl watched him as the letters grew under his brush. Across the top of the board he painted in big brutal letters the words, "For Sale."

The pretty neighbor caught her breath as the cruel sentence, flaring red, stared at her from the board. Underneath these words the man worked industriously for a little time.

While he worked the girl gazed back at the garden with tear dimmed eyes. When he had finished the man gave a little sigh of satisfaction. The girl looked at the sign again and gasped. "For Sale," it read. "This Garden, Suitable For a Factory. Apply Within to Martin Connor."

"You—you aren't going to nail that sign up, are you?" questioned the girl, perilously close to tears.

"Sure!" ejaculated the man.

The man picked up the sign, holding it awkwardly to save his clothes from paint, and, with the bucket and brush in the other hand, again went toward the gay little summer house. He whistled as he went, but the girl, who followed, with difficulty stifled her sobs.

At the summer house the man deposited his painting utensils and secured hammer and nails. Still whistling, he led the way through a secluded little iron gate to the street.

Once outside, the man carefully nailed the sign to the wall. When the work was finished he stepped back a bit to admire it. The girl, who had watched the proceedings, cried out at this.

"You're perfectly horrid!" she cried. "I hate you!"

Then the pretty neighbor, frantically dabbing at her eyes with an absurd little handkerchief, ran across the street to her own home.

When the pretty neighbor awoke the next morning she could not think at first what sorrow was near her. Then it came to her in a jump. The garden was to be sold! She shuddered as she thought of the heartless sign and decided that she would never, never look at it again.

A moment later she was at the window, peering out at the garden wall opposite. Her heart gave a little bound as the blank face of the wall met her gaze. The sign was gone.

"WHAT ARE YOU GOING TO DO?" THE GIRL ASKED.

It was a very merry pretty neighbor that hailed Martin shortly after.

"Ho," cried the pretty neighbor, boldly walking through the little iron gate into the garden—"ho, I knew you didn't mean to sell your garden! You thought you'd scare me into loving you!"

The man, who had been weeding, looked up at her. He wore an old broad brimmed straw hat that in some undefinable way made him seem even more strikingly handsome than ever.

"You're wrong," he declared slowly. "It's sold!"

"What!" cried the pretty neighbor in consternation.

"Yes," replied the man.

"And some one's going to put up a horrid, grimy factory here?" wailed the pretty neighbor.

"Perhaps," said the man listlessly. "I'm glad you came over," he went on. "I was afraid I'd have to go without saying goodby to you."

"Goodby?" asked the girl, her face a picture of surprise and dismay.

"Yes," the man went on, "I'm going away. My train leaves at noon. You may never see me again."

"Why—why are you going?" stammered the pretty neighbor very woefully.

The man looked up at her quickly.

"There's nothing for me to stay here for," he replied without animation, evidently not finding what he hoped in the girl's face.

"I'm sorry," said the girl finally.

She extended her hand. In silence he shook it. Slowly she went toward the gate. When she was almost there the man called to her.

"I'm a brute," he declared contritely, "for letting you think for a minute that I'd ever really let a factory be erected here. Since you love the garden so you've a right to know that the man who has bought it is your father. He will not disturb it for some time—not for the present at least."

"Oh!" cried the girl. For a moment her face was radiant, then suddenly it went sad again.

"Wouldn't you—won't you come back some time and visit my father's garden?" she asked.

"No, I'll not come back," the man replied. "It—it would hurt too much. Goodby."

"Goodby," repeated the girl and slowly went through the little iron gate, across the street to her home.

Several times during the next hour she looked at the clock and involuntarily sighed. The morning was going very fast, it seemed. Faster and faster the time flew on toward noon. Presently it was 10:30, then 10:45 and then 11 o'clock.

When the morning reached this point the pretty neighbor was suddenly galvanized into action.

"Good gracious!" she cried, jumping from the chair where she had been endeavoring to read a book. "Good gracious, he may be gone, and I haven't found out where he is going!"

Without more ado the pretty neighbor raced out of the house and across the street to the little iron gate. The gate was locked! Wildly she tore around the wall to the great front gate. Through this she ran up the shady, curving path to the big house.

Suddenly, as at high speed she bore around a particularly sharp curve, she plumped right into the arms of the man. The latter, when he saw that it was the pretty neighbor, dropped the suit case he had been carrying and drew her closely to him.

"Dear, dear sweetheart," he cried, "I simply can't leave you! I can't do it!"

He hugged her so tightly that she fairly gasped for breath. However, the pretty neighbor had enough breath left to gasp a reply—a very faint reply.

"Don't go," she said, burrowing her head into his coat. "Don't go. It's not your garden I want. It's not your garden I'm in love with. It's you!"

A Duke's Remedy For Speed Mania.

The Duke of Northumberland at a conference on the motor question held at the Mansion House said he did not believe that the difficulties with motorists would ever be overcome until for certain offenses the penalty was enforced of confiscating the car for so many months. ACCUSED OF FALSE PRETENCES.

Lord Ribblesdale Once Wormed Important Interview Out of Parnell.

There were great rejoicings at Gisborne Park, near Clitheroe, England, for the coming-of-age of Hon. Charles Lister, son of Lord Ribblesdale, and the future baron. Lord Ribblesdale is generally regarded as one of the handsomest men in the peerage, and has the unique distinction of having been named "the Ancestor" by the King on account of his dignified appearance and air of belonging to the courtly ages of the past. He is a noted sportsman; was Master of the Buckhounds, for three years, and has written an interesting book on stag-hunting. He served in the Rifle Brigade for some years, but never saw active service. The house in Gisborne Park was built over three hundred years ago of stone from the Yorkshire fells. A curious story is told concerning the decoration of the building. In the early part of the eighteenth century a party of French plasterers journeyed from Paris to Gisborne Park, where they worked for a year or so on the adornment of the house. And they left permanent evidence of their visit in some singular figures on the wall of the principal staircase. These figures are in half relief, life size, and they are represented as reading, writing, training flowers, and in other such occupations. The great hall is hung with pictures. Among them is one of Cromwell, by Sir Peter Lely, on the canvas of which is painted the word "Now," possibly in allusion to the immediate execution of the ill-fated King. Lord Ribblesdale is noted for having accomplished an extremely difficult task. He once interviewed Parnell. They happened to travel by chance in the same compartment from London to Holyhead, and the first efforts of the peer to draw the Irish leader into conversation were met by very brief replies. In time, however, Parnell thawed, and talked at some length upon the Irish Tenants' Arrears Bill, which was then the subject of great political interest, and many other matters besides. The interview duly appeared in a magazine, and Parnell never questioned its accuracy, merely saying it was got by false pretences.

A Wedding Decoration.

Whether it was a mistake or a joke or simply an example of bad taste is a question that is still puzzling most of the passengers. But no matter about that. It certainly was a floral masterpiece. Full four feet it stood from the ground, in the form of a cross. Roses white and roses red composed the body of the cross, and dainty white blossoms and green leaves formed the trimmings. In the center the word "Peace" was spelled out in rosebuds.

Everybody in the car admired the offering, and when the boy set it down on the floor all leaned forward to examine it more closely. At length one old gentleman stood up and readjusted his glasses in order to get a better look at it.

"That is a mighty pretty posy you've got there," he said. "Who, may I ask, is dead?"

The boy giggled.

"Nobody 't I know of," he said. "This ain't for a funeral; it's for a wedding."

The old gentleman sat down heavily.

"Good Lord!" he said. "What idiot ever ordered 'Peace' inscribed on a wedding decoration?"

The rest of the passengers smiled, and many of them, being married, wondered as well, but nobody ventured an explanation.—New York Times.

Death and Snuff.

A certain Margaret Wilson of Westminster, who was an inveterate snuff taker, enjoined that a quantity of Scotch snuff should be placed in her coffin. She also ordered that the arrangements connected with her funeral should be as follows: "Six men to be my bearers who are known to be the greatest snuff takers in the parish of St. James, Westminster. Instead of mourning, each to wear a snuff colored beaver hat, which I desire may be bought for the purpose and given to them. Six maidens of my old acquaintance to bear my pall, each to carry a box filled with the best Scotch snuff, to take for their refreshment as they go along." Snuff was also to be thrown on the threshold of deceased's dwelling before the cortege passed out, snuff was to be strewn on the ground at every twenty yards in advance of the coffin, and the officiating clergyman's fee was to be proportionate to the quantity of snuff he consumed during the ceremony.—London Globe.

What the Peruvians Believed.

A unique idea of the future state was that of the ancient Peruvians. As the disembodied soul winged its way to eternity it encountered two rocks, upon one of which it must needs rest. The choice was determined by the morality of the life in the flesh. If it rested upon the left hand rock it was instantly translated to "Po," or oblivion, a state analogous to the Nirvana of the orient. If through early misdeeds, however, the unhappy spirit was guided to the right hand rock it entered into a purgatorial hell where fiends grated away the flesh from all the bones in succession, after which the skeleton was reclothed and sent back to earth for another try. There was no haste about this grating process. It took something over 10,000 years.

Australia's First Theater.

The first recorded production of a play in Australia took place in June of the year 1789. It was called "The Recruiting Officer." The proceeds of the first pay night (some £20) went to the family of a man who had been drowned. In January, 1796, a rough and ready playhouse was opened, and the public had to pay a shilling a head for admission. The payments were made in kind, wheat, flour or rum taking the place of the usual currency.—London Standard.

MOST INTERESTING NARRATIVE OF THE LIVES OF THE PARENTS OF A PROMINENT OTONABEE FAMILY

Two Children Grow Up in the Unsettled Country Under a Primitive Culture and are Married---Their Parents Had Emigrated From Scotland on the Same Vessel and Settled on Adjoining Lots.

A COPY OF THE TESTAMENT THE SOLE SCHOOL BOOK.

The story of the lives of an Otonabee young man and woman of two generations ago has just come to the notice of the Examiner, and is given to its readers as a beautiful refutation of the old favourite quotation that "the course of true love never runs smooth." It also conveys to us of this advanced age some idea of the struggles for a livelihood of the people who first turned the soil of this district and garnered from its wealth of natural riches the foundation of prosperity upon which some of the foremost men the country has produced were brought up and sent out into the world where they won fame for themselves and splendid recognition for their home and their parents who had wrestled with the conditions incident to the subjugation of a rough and unbroken country to obtain even a rudimentary culture.

In the year 1820 two families came out to Canada from Kincardine, Scotland. They were Mr. and Mrs. George Eason and Mr. and Mrs. John Fife. The story concerns both, but for the most part relates to the former and accordingly the destinies of the Eason family will be followed.

Margaret is Born

Arriving in Canada in the year 1820 among the very first settlers who decided to come up into the interior of the country, Mr. Eason took up residence with his family in Port Hope, where on the 10th of November of that year a baby girl was born to the happy parents who gave her the name of Margaret. The father was not satisfied with Port Hope, and when Margaret was but six weeks old, the family moved up into Otonabee. The journey was an arduous one and was performed in the early part of the winter. The mother with her baby on her knee was drawn on a hand sleigh across Rice Lake by the father who followed the blazed trail the surveyors had made through the country. Their little rough cabin which was to serve as home had been built by the father during their stay in Port Hope, he having come up for that purpose some time previously. This humble abode was located on Lot 21, Con. 4, in one of the best parts of Otonabee.

Home Burned

During that winter the family suffered a severe drawback and misfortune when in March their cosy little home was burned. Mrs. Eason was taken ill with the ague, and the child was removed to the home of the Rev. Mr. Hayden at Cold Springs, in the township of Hamilton. The baby Margaret was then about six months old, and this step had to be taken in order that the little one might be fed on milk as there were no cows in Otonabee. A new house was built in the early part of the summer, and the little one was brought to her parents after an absence of six months.

Girlhood

Her girlhood was spent in that quiet little settlement, under the watchful care of her parents. Margaret attended school, but had to walk five miles to the schoolhouse and return in the evening the same distance.

Her school days extended through six weeks, but even at that she was possessed of a wide knowledge of affairs that home teaching had developed. The only book used in school was the New Testament, and pieces of slate were used to write on. To help occupy the time the teacher used to teach dancing. Their nearest neighbours was the family of John Fife, who had come out on the same vessel as Margaret's parents. One of the children was a boy, Alexander, about the same age as Margaret, and their childish friendship blossomed into love with their advancing years before the eyes of their parents and to their delight.

Is Married

On October 15th, 1839, when still young, they were married in the English Church, Peterborough. Margaret went to live with her husband on the Fife homestead, for her husband had been the youngest son and he remained at the old home. Their married life was happy, and was blessed with children, but on the 13th of June, 1853, Margaret was left a widow and the mother of seven small children to watch and protect without the aid of her beloved husband.

That she accomplished this is shown by the splendid family that grew up under her care and with true motherly love she kept them together throughout until the time came when they, too, were married and left the roof that had sheltered them to their maturer years.

The intervening years saw the baby Margaret reach the prime of her life, and slowly her years began their recession, and were spent pleasantly among her children, but she still retained the homestead. On three occasions she visited her youngest daughter, Mrs. Robert McConnel, in North Dakota, and took up a half-section of land in that district for one of her sons in 1881. Mrs. Fife returned home for the last time in 1887, where she remained until her death on January 12 of this year, when she passed away in her 89th year and was buried in the Fife Cemetery on January 14th.

One of her sons is Mr. John H. Fife, Reeve of Otonabee and a member of the County Council.

CONCERT BY OLD SOUTHLAND SEXTETTE AN ARTISTIC TREAT

The concert in the Grand Opera House on Friday night by the Old Southland Sextette of coloured singers, under the auspices of the Leaders' Corps of the Y.M.C.A. was in every way a splendid success. The programme was one of supreme excellence, every member of the company proving to be an artist, and the effect of their work was truly charming. There was a large audience present and that they thoroughly appreciated the efforts of the visiting artists was indicated by the hearty applause with which each number was greeted. The soloists were possessed of excellent voices, while the united work of the company was thoroughly pleasing, the sweet voices blending most pleasingly in such old, but never unappreciated numbers, as the "Suwance River" and "My Old Kentucky Home," which were sung with expression and feeling. Mme. Ruth Holmes, the mezzo soprano, won the admiration of the audience by the melting sweetness of her voice in the plaintive melodies of the ensemble, and her work characterized her as one of the integral parts of a company of vocal stars. Her singing in solo and assisted by the full chorus was a sparkling bit of a brilliant whole.

S R Overstreet, the basso of the company had a large share of the honours of the evening, his thunderous voice, rich, clear and deep, carried the audience by storm. In solo and ensemble his cultivated voice in wondrous chest tones lent solidarity to quartette and company chorus alike.

Following was the programme:

Part I.

Chorus—"Come Where the Lilies Grow."

Mixed Quartette, "Sweet and Low"—Mesdames Holmes and M Talbert and Messrs. J J Warsham and S R Overstreet.

Solo, "Rocking."

Duet, "Love"—Mme.

Chorus, "Swanee River."

Mixed Quartette, "Auctioneer"—Mesdames Holmes and Talbert, and Messrs. Warsham and Overstreet.

Solo, "Call Her Back"—Mrs. J H Warsham.

Medley Quartette — Mesdames Holmes and Talbert, and Messrs. Warsham and Overstreet.

Chorus, "I'm a Rolling."

Part II.

Male Quartette, "Bill of Fare."

Solo, "Sweet Refrain" — Mme. Holmes.

Chorus, "Call John."

Contralto solo, "In Dreams I Dwelt With Thee"—Madame Talbert.

Chorus, "Grand Old Flag."

Solo, "Old Black Joe"—Mr. Overstreet.

Quintette, "Kentucky Home"—Solo by Mme Holmes.

Quartette—O.P.R.A.

Chorus, "Erin's Waltz," from Vogal Glee.

JAPANESE OPERETTA TO BE PRESENTED

Young People of the City are Being Prepared for Conservatory Affair.

Friends of the Conservatory of Music are promised a dainty operetta which will be produced on Feb. 22nd and 23rd, in the Conservatory Hall. It is Japanese in its settings, locale and music, and is delightfully named "Princess Chrysanthemum." Prominent young people of the city are now being prepared for its production. The orchestra will assist materially in its presentation and a delightful success is looked forward to.

INSPECTOR OF WIRING FOR CITY IS ADVOCATED

Ald. Turner does not exactly approve of the manner in which some of the merchants have been ordered to rewire their premises upon the inspection of a representative of the Underwriters' Association. At the meeting of the Fire, Water and Light Committee last night he stated that he thought that the city should have a wiring inspector, who would guarantee the work done in this respect and guard against such a state of affairs, after the work has been done under the inspector's supervision. Ald. Turner cited a case of a George street business man who had overhauled the wiring in his store, but had been recently informed that it has all practically to be done over again. Ald. Turner thinks there is something wrong about such state of affairs and asked the committee to give the matter some attention.

FELL ON SCHOOL ROOM FLOOR AND BROKE HER ANKLE

Another peculiar accident occurred to Miss Stella Coughlin, of Hastings, a teacher in training at the Normal School, by which she fell while walking through one of the rooms, breaking her ankle. The floor is well polished and this is considered to be the cause of the accident. Miss Coughlin, it is stated, slipped and fell and was afterwards removed to the hospital. It will be some weeks before she is able to return to the school.

KATHRYN OSTERMAN'S BEAUTIFUL GOWNS

The ladies of this city will be particularly interested in the engagement of Kathryn Osterman at the Grand next Saturday, Feb. 6th, Matinee and evening, when she will be seen in her new comedy "The Night of the Play," as the frocks worn by the brilliant comedienne are said to be dashingly and darlingly adorable. Miss Osterman has a beautiful figure and her graceful curves are most fetchingly revealed in a frock of silk crepe of a delicious shade hovering between pink and lavender. The whole gown is wonderfully inserted with Valenciennes lace, the upper part of the skirt being cut into panels which form a sort of tunic, below which are billowy miles of crepe finely plaited between lines of the insertion. The bodice is guiltless of tullness, the lines converging simply and exquisitely at the delicately rounded waist, while the decolletage reveals the beautiful neck and arms, which are the crowning charm of this very lovely woman. Most beautiful of all her frocks is the evening gown of shell pink crepe Miss Osterman wears in the last act. This has a long trailing skirt plaited and elaborately inlaid with heavy cream guipure, as is also the very low bodice. The frock is of marvellous lines in a sort of tunic (over skirt we would have called it twenty-five years ago) which covers the upper part of the skirt fitting smoothly over the hips, falls to the knees in front and slopes upward to half that length in the back. There is no lace on the tunic and it is simply bordered with a single row of rich crystal fringe. The effect is so original as to be startling, but when you get used to it it is charming too. Jewels worth a king's ransom are worn with this costume, which is one of the smartest seen on the stage this season.

ANOTHER PURSE IS RETURNED TO THE OWNER

The Examiner's ability as a purse hunter has once more been demonstrated and a lost ad quickly returned the satchel Mrs. Henry Connolly lost. It was picked up by Mr. Hanna, who left it at the police station. The owner has expressed her thanks to Mr Hanna for his prompt return.

Mr. Tully will leave on Monday and will go direct to Winnipeg, where he will remain for a few days before journeying further west. The charge laid against Dr. Gray of practising medicine without paying his annual fees to the Medical Council, has been withdrawn by the prosecution, who paid the costs. Mr. E. E. Wood, the Crown Attorney, acted for Charles Rose, the prosecutor for the Medical Council, and Mr. G. N. Gordon defended Mr. Gray.

FINED $50 FOR ILLEGAL SALE OF LIQUOR

Mr. Charles Nixon, proprietor of the Grand Hotel, was fined $50.00 and $1.60 costs in the Police Court this morning on a charge of having unlawfully sold liquor during the time prohibited by the Liquor License Act, on Sunday, Jan. 24th.

Mr. Jas. Haverson, K.C., who appeared for defendant, pleaded guilty.

Two other charges against him were dismissed. One was a charge of having sold liquor to a minor on January 19, and the other was a charge of having sold liquor after seven o'clock on Saturday, January 23nd.

WORRYING OVER ILLNESS OF HER SISTER DUMMER WOMAN TAKES A DOSE OF CARBOLIC ACID

Mrs. Gilliam Passed Away on Thursday Night, Shortly After Taking Poison—Came From Havelock.

DIED IN TWENTY MINUTES.

Examiner Special

Warsaw, Jan. 30—Word has reached here of the death of Mrs. Gilliams who lived four miles from this place on Thursday night as the result of taking a big dose of carbolic acid from the effects of which she died about twenty minutes afterwards with her son and other relatives unable to do anything for her. Mrs. Gilliam was apparently in good spirits on Thursday night about nine o'clock retired to another room for a few minutes and there took several teaspoonsful of carbolic acid in water. When she returned to her family she asked that they should take off her boots as she desired to lie down for a few moments.

Her request was obeyed but a few moments afterwards her son noticed that she was ill and she rapidly grew worse. Word was sent to Warsaw to Dr. Munro but Mrs Gilliam had passed away before he reached her home.

The only reason that can be assigned for her self inflicted death is that a sister of the deceased residing in Havelock has been so seriously ill that her life was despaired of and Mrs. Gilliam had been worrying very much over this and it is supposed that in a fit of despondency she took the carbolic acid.

Mrs. Gilliam came to this township about a month ago from Havelock and was not very well known in this district.

The funeral will take place at Havelock where the relatives reside.

PERMANENCE THE WATCHWORD

A letter in to-day's issue anent the proposal to crush river cobble stones for street metal suggests the whole question of permanent improvements. It is simply waste of money to place crushed limestone on the streets. The city fathers should devise a sane and comprehensive policy of street construction, to correspond with the fine equipment — some forty miles of permanent pavements, out of a total street mileage of 56 miles which we possess. Such a policy would include the asphalt or other paving of George street—say a mile a year—but of a character to last. This policy with permanence as the foundation stone, would result in securing permanent value for the civic money spent on our streets.

DEPUTATION WILL WAIT ON THE BOARD OF EDUCATION

That the County Council is in earnest in regard to the securing of better arrangements for the attendance of pupils at the Collegiate Institute the Committee on Schools, appointed Warden Scott, Mr. Stewart, Mr. J. C. Brown and Mr. R. Lees, a deputation to wait on the Board of Education for that purpose. They will endeavour to secure lower fees for the pupils from the county.

DORCAS SOCIETY ENTERTAINMENT

Large Audience Spent Most Enjoyable Evening.

A very enjoyable evening was spent at St. Andrew's on Friday night, when the Dorcas Society held a charity concert, to assist in their work among the city's poor. A large number were present and were entertained with songs, drills and recitations rendered by a few of the young people of the city. Great praise is due little Miss Annie Christie for the way in which she rendered three choice recitations. Dr. Park gave three selections on the mandolin and was accompanied by Miss Davies, the last selection being an imitation of bag pipes played on the violin, which called forth great applause. Mrs. W. G. Rankin and the other officers of the society have worked very faithfully to make the event a success, as the society needs money to carry on their good work amongst the poor of this city. They were well paid for their untiring zeal in the large attendance.

Rev. Mr. Potter was in the chair and proved very acceptable.

The dialogue, entitled "Before and Behind the Scene," was very funny and caused many a laugh throughout.

The evening came to an end with the singing of the National Anthem and a prayer by Rev. Mr. Potter.

Miss Lila Tully and Miss Mary Potten occupied the stool at the piano and delighted the audience with their playing.

The following is the programme:

PART I.

Drill—12 girls.
Violin solo—Dr. Park.
Song—"Little Black Me," seven girls.
Recitation—Annie Christie.
Song—"Childhood," four boys.
Violin solo—Dr. Park.
Song—"Little Teddy," three girls.

PART II.

Dialogue—"Before and Behind the Scenes."

BERNARD DALY

Ireland's Sweetest Singer Here Next Thursday.

Plays founded on life and scenes in Ireland have for many years been among the most popular productions of the stage. And in spite of their age and frequent repetition they hold their own with modern drama. Irish character, Irish comedy, Irish wit, Irish songs always appeal to all classes of playgoers. These elements are found in "Rory of the Hills," to be presented at the Grand next Thursday evening, February 4th, for one night only.

There are also sensational scenes, pathos and plenty of action. Light and shade are happily blended in this play. "Rory of the Hills" does not deal with political themes. It abounds with stirring scenes, as found in the "Old Country," with plenty of heroic action, love episodes, pathos, comedy, and is noted for its great "heart interest." Clear, concise and dramatic is the story of "Rory of the Hills." The play is a vehicle for the re-appearance of Erin's sweetest singer, Bernard Daly, and is marked by the strength of its comedy, and gives this charming player an opportunity to exercise his varied talents. Special scenery has been constructed and original costumes designed for the play. No better character study of Ireland has been written and produced in years.

THE DOMINION BANK.

Elsewhere in this issue appears the report and statements presented, at the annual meeting of the Dominion Bank. These disclose business operations of a very profitable character, in the face of adverse conditions of the past year. There is noted an improved demand for bank accommodation indicating an improvement in business. A good harvest has increased deposits so that cash reserves are strong, with a high percentage of liquid assets. The report shows the position of the Dominion Bank strong in resources and high in public confidence. The issue of $1,000,000 of new capital stock in 1907, as subscribed, has been paid in full. The net profit for the year ended Dec. 31 last, after deducting the usual charges, etc., and making provision for bad and doubtful debts reached the sum of $641,319.11, to which was to be added $235,140.61, brought forward at credit of profit and loss, and $148,274.75, the premium received on new stock, thus making up $1,234,733.47 available for destribution. Of this the twelve per cent. dividend absorbed $478,462.64, there was written off the cost of the bank premises $100,000, and transferred to reserve fund $148,274.75, leaving the large balance of $302,996.08 to be carried forward. With the above transfer the reserve fund now stands at $4,981,737.02, as against a paid up capital of $3,983,492.38. Deposits bearing interest at the date of closing accounts stood at $32,790,056.46 and deposits not bearing interest at $5,114,040.35. The directors note various branches of the Sovereign Bank taken over and new branches opened. Altogether the report and statements are of a highly satisfactory character to which the local branch under the management of Mr. Crane has substantially contributed.

In the period from 1901 to 1907 the paid up capital of Canadian chartered banks increased from $67,095,718 to $96,362,130.

CANADIAN CREDIT.

Conservative journals are fond of asserting that the Liberal Government's "extravagant" expenditures have injured Canadian credit in the British money market. This involves two unsupported assumptions; one that there has been extravagance and the other that the credit of Canada is impaired. As good an authority as Byron E. Walker, of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, says Canadian credit in Britain is good and he is almost as unpartizan and reliable an authority as the Mail and Empire. The Canadian loan of $30,000,000 recently placed on the London market by Hon. Mr. Fielding, is practical evidence that Canadian credit is not at a low ebb. Sir Richard Cartwright says that the success of the loan has been "quite as good as could be expected." It is to be remembered that the loan was demanded under peculiar conditions. The Globe specifies these thus:

The amount of the loan is unusually large: thirty million dollars. It was put on the market at an unfavourable time: just after the financial world had begun to recover from a protracted and acute depression. It was marked by a departure of a sort that is not popular with conservative financiers: bonds in amounts varying downward to fifty dollar were offered to the general investing public.

The placing of so large a loan, under unfavourable conditions, at the low rate of three and a quarter per cent—practically at par—99 3-4—does not argue a low condition of Canadian credit. The British themselves have congratulated Mr. Fielding upon the success of the loan. The Conservative journals are a little unreasonable. They expect too much from Mr. Fielding—they must remember that he hasn't had the experience in making loans which kept finance ministers busy during the Conservative regime. Since Mr. Fielding has been in charge of the Dominion finances, he has met capital expenditures, to a very large extent, out of current revenue, and hasn't been compelled to invade the money market as frequently as his predecessors, who had hard work to make ends meet, not to speak of having money to spend in permanent national requirements. If Canadian credit has not reached the low ebb Conservatives falsely ascribe it, it is not their fault. There are many of them, who persistently occupy the perch of the croaker. They misrepresent and falsify the record of the government. Their agents load up British journals with misleading information about Canada. They do their best to blacken the character of the country and are disgusted and disappointed when they fail to effect the end sought—the discrediting of the government.

One of the elements in maintaining Canadian credit at a high level, is the fact that the money borrowed on our national credit, is used in the development of new resources, representing added value to the security.

THE LAYMEN'S MISSIONARY MOVEMENT.

In many respects the National Congress of the Laymen's Missionary Movement will be the most remarkable gathering ever held in Canada.

The churches of the entire Dominion, without regard to denominational lines, have never before come together with such hearty unanimity in behalf of any cause, and strong denominational conferences will be held every forenoon during the Congress, but in the great sessions in Massey Hall lines of division will be entirely obscured.

In no nation have the churches ever been called upon to formunate a national policy in regard to their missionary undertakings; and possibly the most remarkable feature is the fact that so large an undertaking is entirely in the leadership of laymen rather than the clergy.

The clergy, however, will be present in large numbers, and the first session Wednesday afternoon, March 31, will be of special interest to them. The Congress programme is planned with this in view, so that many of the pastors who attend will be able to get away Saturday, April 3, and yet not miss any of the features planned especially for them. The closing day, Sunday, April 4, will be marked by the strongest possible addresses to different groups of laymen and college students.

In connection with the Congress there will be special conferences for ministers, students and Sunday School workers. The women's societies of several communions are planning great meetings at the same time, and the denominational conferences promise to be of great profit.

In addition to the British and Canadian speakers, invitations to address the Congress have already been accepted by Mr. Robert E Speer of New York; Bishop J M Thoburn, from India; Dr. J M Zwemer, formerly of Arabia; Hon. S B Capen of Boston; Mr. J Campbell White of New York; Mr. Silas McBee of New York.

It is expected that there will be 2,000 regular commissioners in addition to the group of honorary commissioners composed of clergymen, theological students and visiting Americans. Special rates will be given by the railway companies, and the action of Canada in her effort to meet the nation's share of responsibility in the world problem of missions will be watched by all Christian nations.

The theme of the Conference will be "Canada's National Missionary Policy," with such subdivisions as follows:—

"The Relation of the Ministry to a Missionary Church."
"The Victorious Progress of Missions."
"The Place of the Church in the Making of the Nation."
"The Stewardship of Life."
"How to Lead the Church to Its Highest Missionary Efficiency."

The Congress has been described as unique, broad, far-reaching, and epoch-making.

THE BROWN TAIL MOTH.

One or two specimens of the brown tail moth were found in the Maritime Provinces some two years ago. Within the last few weeks a large number of nests of this moth have been discovered in New York State.

The importance of the statements just made will be more clearly understood when the facts as to the extent of the depredations caused by this enemy in the New England States are called to mind. Large forest areas in those states, and extensive orchard areas, have been threatened with total destruction by the work of the brown tail and gypsy moths combined, the former being the greater pest of the two. In one respect the brown tail moth has proved a more serious evil than the San Jose scale itself. The scale seems to have confined its operations in the main to fruit trees, and can be controlled by spraying; the moth finds its chief fields of activity in forest and ornamental trees, and is beyond the reach of spraying mixtures. The only effective means of combatting it has been found in picking the nests by hand in early spring, and on this and similar work the New England States are reported to have spent millions of dollars already, and the National Government is now coming to their aid with a further appropriation of $300,000.

Dr. Wm. Saunders, of the Central Experimental Farm, has sent out warning to Canadian nurserymen to be on the lookout for possible infestation in imported stock. But more than this is necessary. It will be easily possible for the moth to find its way here by migration, and orchardists and park superintendents all over the province should be on the watch for it. The nests, if there are any, may be found before spring concealed in clusters of leaves at the tips of branches and can be removed and burned. Reasonable precaution now may be the means of avoiding untold loss later on.—Toronto Star.

ASSUMED VIRTUE.

The Mail and Empire, as was to be expected from such a stern stickler for undeviating straightforwardness in political matters, endorses Dr. Reid's motion made on Wednesday, to the effect that tenders for Government contracts should be opened in presence of the public. To strengthen its contention the organ prefaces its remarks by the extraordinary action of recalling the blessed results following the system of awarding contracts under the Conservative regime. This perfection of system, however, did not prevent a few little irregularities creeping in in conection with the exeuction of contracts under the Conservatives, rifling, perhaps, in their selves, but sufficient to land a Conservative politician or two in jail. The Conservatives imagine "every bush an officer," they see, or pretend to see, evil in everything done by a Liberal Government. There is no evidence to prove that the public interests have suffered or unfair award of contracts has taken place under the system prevailing in the past. And, in view of the new regulations adopted by the Government providing for opening tenders in the presence of two officials and the minister of the department affected, there is hardly a possibility that unfairness in dealing with tenders will result. There is a possibility of being a little too good—in claim—and the Mail and Empire and Dr. Reed are running a little risk of being considered hypocritical.

When a man puts on a character he is a stranger to, there's as much difference between what he appears and is, as there is between a mask and a face.—La Bruyere.

AN EXCELLENT NUMBER.

Canada has a fleet of eight armed cruisers which patrol the boundary lines to see that no poaching is done by foreign fishing vessels. The story of how and why the Dominion protects her fisheries, which are the most extensive in the world, is told in a breezy manner in the February number of "Busy Man's Magazine," and elaborately illustrated. There are many other bright features in this month's unusually attractive edition, including an able and comprehensive contribution on "The Finances of the Past Year," by Prof. James Mavor, of Toronto University. "Men and Events in the Public Eye," is decidedly entertaining, while the selections from the world's periodical press embrace the best in the realm of current literature. "The King as a Guest," "The Health Value of Laughing," "Mapping Out a Career," "Unemployment: a Difficult Problem," "The Law of Prosperity," "The Arrangement of a Private Office," "The Truth About the Automobile," "Mortality in Relation to Weight," etc., affords only a slight conception of the varied character of the captivating contents of Febru ary Busy Man's.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

It is stated that in the past 20 years Canada has produced gold to the value of $258,000,000—an average of $1,290,000 per year. Last year alone the value of Canada's soil crop grains, etc.—was $432,000,000. This is nearly twice as much in one year as the total output value of our gold mines in twenty years. The farm is Canada's real gold mine.

Hon. Mr Pugsleys says that the people take little stock in charges of political wrong-doing, unless such charges are supported by evidence. This may be true in the long run, but the election roarback such as the yellow telegram of Mr. Borden, which he says he did not send, but knew was being used, did yeoman work in winning British Columbia for the Conservative party at the last election. If the scene of the other day in Parliament, had been enacted before the vote was taken, the result would no doubt have been different. The "Duty of the Hour" pamphlet and the yellow telegram were circulated and sent or used in Mr. Borden's interest, and yet he takes the strange position that this was not done by the Conservative party. Mr. Borden in becoming a receiver of stolen goods, subjects himself to the necessity of a vast deal of explanation of somewhat piscine character.

HOW MANY MEALS HAVE YOU SAVED?

Do you show your meals do you good, as the saying goes? Have you the product of former good dinners tucked away around your waist line? Do they reproach you? Do they lie heavily on your physical conscience, as it were? Are you anxious to reform?

Well, then contemplate a period of penance. What do you say to a month of unmodified breakfast food diet—made thin; to be followed or accompanied by thirty days of road work or weight lifting. No?

How about a few months' course of some acrid (put your teeth on edge) acid, heartburn-causing, wrinkle-forming, stomach-upsetting, high price patent advertised "fat remedy," then—No?

All that remains for you to try, then, if you really wish to reform, is Marmola Prescription Tablets. These tablets possess special virtues—the most important of which is: they cause not one ripple of internal uneasiness. Neither do they leave wrinkles behind; nor is dieting and exercise required to help out. Yet, in a reasonable time they are capable of reducing possibly, any man or woman on this green earth a pound or so daily.

How about your trying this safe and well indorsed plan if you do not care to exercise or diet? The Marmola Company of Detroit, Mich., or any druggist will give you, for as little as 75 cents, one large case, so well stocked that just that one case will show you the problem of reducing safely and quickly on three full meals a day has been solved.

A NEW QUAKE CAUSES TROUBLE

Southern Spain Devastated and Many Are Killed.

WHOLE VILLAGE IS BURIED

Romara, Opposite Gibraltar In Morocco Is Overwhelmed and Several Hundred Die—Coast Line Is Submerged Near Barcelona—'Quake Is Felt Along the Entire Mediterranean Coast.

London, Jan. 30—A special despatch received here from San Sebastien, Spain, says that a terrible earthquake has devastated several towns and villages in south and southeastern Spain.

A tidal wave partially submerged the coast near Barcelona, and a great landslide at Ceuta, in Morocco, just opposite Gibraltar, buried the village of Romara and several hundred inhabitants.

A despatch from Tarrasa says that Barcelona has been overwhelmed by a tidal wave. The loss of life is unknown. Subterranean roarings preceded the tidal wave, causing a fearful panic among the people on the promenades and in the buildings of the city.

News from Malaga says that many houses were damaged in the town of Totana, and several villages in the province of Murcia.

Tarrasa, whence comes the report of a great tidal wave at Barcelona, is fifteen miles distant from the latter city. Barcelona is the second largest city in Spain, situated on the Mediterranean, in the northeastern part of the country. It has a population of 450,000.

Murcia, where the shock is also reported to have been felt, is in southeastern Spain, a short distance inland from the Mediterranean coast. The meagre advices thus far received indicate that the earthquake was felt along the entire Mediterranean coast.

Moving Pictures Not Reliable.

New York, Jan. 30.—Despite moving picture evidence, introduced by counsel for the Coney Island & Brooklyn Railway Co. in the action brought against it by Stephen McGorty, 10 years old, a jury in the Supreme Court, Brooklyn, on Thursday awarded the lad $8,500 damages.

The boy had been injured by being thrown from a trolley car by a conductor in 1905, and the moving pictures showed him running, boxing and wrestling, although it was claimed he is permanently injured. The jury held that the moving picture operator could control the speed of the film and misrepresent the boy's activities.

Cowboys In Autos.

Galveston, Texas, Jan. 30.—An order for ten automobiles for the Ransom and Wellsford cattle ranches of Midland and Crane counties were placed on Thursday for use in the semi-annual round-up of cattle. A special machine suited to this work will be manufactured.

Col. Crowley, secretary of the Cattle Raisers' Association, in describing the tests, said:

"Cowboys can drive through a bunch of a thousand head of cattle in automobiles without even disturbing a steer. A man on horseback can stampede a bunch of steers quicker than lightning."

TONIC TREATMENT FOR INDIGESTION

The Only Sensible Way to Cure Stomach Troubles and Give New Health.

When the stomach is feeble the food lies in it undigested decays and throws off poisonous gases that distend the walls of the stomach, and causes serious interference with other organs, especially with the action of the heart and lungs. These poisonous gases have other ill effects. They are absorbed by the blood and so weaken and corrupt it as to cause aches in remote parts of the body and the formation of unhealthy tissue everywhere. General bodily weakness and loss of weight is the result. The nerves and the brain are disturbed, and discomforts such as dizziness, hot flashes, sleeplessness, irritability and despondency originate from this source. Experience shows that these troubles vanish just as soon as the stomach is made strong enough to digest the food. In other words it needs a tonic that will rouse it to do the work of changing the food into nourishment. The tonic ought to be one that will agree with the most delicate stomach, and this is exactly what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills do. Here is a bit of strong proof:

Miss Lizzie Macdonald Harbour-au-Bouche, N.S., says: "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have done for me what no other medicine did or apparently could do. For almost three years I suffered untold agony from indigestion. I would have the most distressing pains in the stomach after eating. I could not sleep at night and I would rise in the morning feeling tired and worn out. I lost in weight and was almost reduced to a shadow. I was under doctor's treatment almost constantly, but with no benefit. One day I read the testimonial of a lady who had been cured of dyspepsia by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and decided to try them. The first two or three boxes I took did not show any apparent relief and I began to fear the medicine would not help me, but as I had bought a half dozen boxes I decided that I would use them up anyway. To my joy, before they were all used I began to improve and I got three boxes more. By the time I finished these I was again in the best of health, and had gained 12 pounds in weight. I have not since had a twinge of this terrible trouble, and am more grateful than words can say for what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have done for me."

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills from any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

GREAT BRITAIN TO BE AROUSED

New War Melodrama Has a Moral For Englishmen.

TELLS STORY OF INVASION

Play Produced at Wyndham's Theatre London Promises to Be a Big Sensation and Has Been Prepared, It Is Said, by Barrie and Du Maurier—May Be Produced by the Local Committees.

London, Jan. 30.—The interesting announcement is made that the sensational play, "An Englishman's Home," which was produced at Wyndham's Theatre Thursday night, and which depicts an invasion of England by a foreign army, was revised and prepared for the stage by Jas. M. Barrie and Gerald Du Maurier.

Some difficulty was found in obtaining the sanction of the censor of plays, owing to the fear of offending Germany, until assurance was given that Germany was not intended as the invading force, and that the invaders represented would not wear the German uniform.

Viscount Esher, one of the public men most interested in the territorial army scheme, has expressed the hope that provincial committees will be organized to produce the play in every great town of England as an object lesson to the country.

It is predicted that this play will be the sensation of England. It was touch and go at the end of the first act, and even more so after the second act began, whether the play would be hissed off the stage or be a triumphant success.

It is without question the latter. It deals with what might happen to England, as the majority of Englishmen fear the worst thing that might happen to them would be a German invasion. The play shows minutely this much-dreaded invasion to the self-satisfied, smug, unthinking Britisher.

The play is no insult to those who have studied the present condition of English defence against a foreign foe; of the lamentable lack of volunteers for the territorial army, and in short, of the unpreparedness for war of England.

Gerald Du Maurier supervised the stage productions, and current rumor has it that his brother, Capt. Guy Du Maurier of the English army was mainly responsible for the text.

"An Englishman's Home," is a melodrama quite as good as any that has been produced in London for many years. It is crammed full of action, and the dialogue blends tragedy and comedy in a way that is as rapid as the fire of a Maxim gun.

It tells the story of the landing of a foreign army at Essex, near London, and the capture of a home whose master is finally killed. The piece goes along full of incident and scenic effect until the arrival of British troops from London saves the day.

The keynote of the whole play is the inexperience and incompetency of the defenders. The windows are barricaded with a piano, with tables, with mattresses, with anything that comes handy. The untrained volunteers are aligned against them with every willingness in the world and shoot at random, because none knew how to regulate their sights. They expose themselves in the most useless way imaginable, and are shot down by the invaders in consequence.

The invaders on the other hand are the acme of efficiency and military skill.

YOU CAN RELIEVE YOUR MISERY FOREVER

If You Take Some Diapepsin It Cures You Forever of Stomach Trouble.

The question as to how long you are going to continue a sufferer from Indigestion and Stomach trouble is merely a matter of how soon you begin taking Diapepsin.

If your stomach is lacking in digestive power, why not help the stomach to do its work, not with drastic drugs but a reinforcement of digestive agents such as are naturally at work in the stomach?

People with weak stomachs should eat Diapepsin after meals, and there will be no more Indigestion, no feeling like a lump of lead in the stomach, no heartburn, sour risings, gas on stomach or belching of undigested food, headaches, dizziness or vomiting, and besides, what you eat will not ferment and poison your breath with nauseous odors. All these symptoms resulting from a sour stomach and dyspepsia are generally relieved five minutes after eating one Triangule of Diapepsin.

Go to your druggist and get a 50-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin now, and you will always go to the table with a hearty appetite, and what you eat will taste good because your stomach and intestines will be clean and fresh, and you will know there are not going to be any more bad nights and miserable days for you. They freshen you and make you feel like life is worth living.

Heart-To-Heart Talk Between Father And Son

The Examiner Newsboys Contest the Topic---Showing How Parents Can Encourage Their Boys to be Industrious Money Earners.

The live interest which has always been taken by thoughtful parents in the Examiner Newsboys' Competitions is again manifesting itself in the third interesting event announced to begin on Monday evening.

Many instances have developed showing the gratifying results which have followed the selling of the Daily Examiner by boys to their own subscribers. This fact has led parents to encourage their boys to exert themselves with the view of not only earning their own pocket money, but of helping to clothe themselves, as well as in starting a small bank account.

The twenty substantial cash prizes offered to the boys who secure the largest number of new subscribers to the Daily Examiner before the 1st of May, makes it well worth the time and effort required to become a successful prize winner.

Besides these twenty cash prizes, a supplemental cash prize will be given every week to the boy who sells the largest number of Examiners each week. And in addition to these prizes, each boy gets every cent he makes from the proceeds of his daily sales.

That bright boys make bright men has often been demonstrated by Examiner newsboys. One instance of special interest might be given as an actual fact is that of a well known Peterborough boy who is to-day a business manager in one of the most influential business establishments of the city. And he takes pride sometimes in declaring that he could put his hands on more loose cash when he was a newsboy than he often can do now, during these days of speculation in stocks and expensive living.

The following conversation between a father and his boy is related as a fair sample of what has taken place relative to the Examiner Newsboys' Competitions:—

Father: "Come, Fred, ain't you going to try your hand at selling Examiners?"

Boy: "Don't know, Father, it's pretty hard work. Guess there isn't much chance for me. The other boys that have been selling will scoop up all the prizes."

Father: "What makes you think so? It doesn't matter how many papers they are selling at present. It's the number of new customers you get; the old ones don't count."

Boy: "Well, I know, but I never sold any papers, and they know all about it."

Father: "Pshaw! They had all to learn. What trick is there in selling papers to a boy like you who can play hockey the way you can. You've got the sand in you, and you might as well be making a few dollars after school like the rest of the boys."

Boy: "If I thought I could get a prize, I might tackle it, father."

Father: "Prize! Of course you can win a prize if you tackle it right. Besides it will sharpen you up and help to learn you how to earn you bigger money as well as to save it."

Boy: "Oh, I know a lot of boys who have earned a pile of money selling papers. I know one fellow who has all the pocket money he wants and over $75 dollars in the bank as well. And there's Jim McC——, who buys all his own clothes and is never without a dollar. Johnny W—— helps his mother a good deal, too, when his father isn't working, and I have heard his mother say that he has often kept the house going on what he made selling Examiners."

Father: "Well, isn't that a good act? You just get in line with the new crowd of boys that start on Monday and I'll back you up."

Boy: "All right, Dad. Give me a nickel or two to start on."

Boys! Remember that the getting of ten new subscribers is sure of a good prize, surely any boy can do this and more — if he hustles.

"THE WORTH OF THE HUMAN SOUL."

"IN THE SEEING SOUL, ALL WORTH LIES"

"I search but cannot see
What purpose serves the soul that strives or world it tries
Conclusions with, unless the fruit of victories
Stay, one and all, stored up and guaranteed its own
For ever, by some mode whereby shall be made known
The gain of every life. Death reads the title clear—
What each soul for itself conquered from out things here
Since, in the seeing soul, all worth lies, I assert,—
And nought i' the world, which, save for soul that sees, inert,
Was, is, and would be ever—stuff for transmuting,—null
And void until man's breath evoke the beautiful—
But, touched aright, prompt yields each particle its tongue
Of elemental flame,—no matter whence flame sprung
From gums and spice, or else from straw and rottenness,
So long as soul has power to make them burn, express
What lights and warms henceforth, leaves only ash behind.
However the chance; if soul be privileged to find
Food so soon that, by first snatch of eye, suck of breath,
It can absorb pure life"

From Browning's "Fifine at the Fair"

When Goldsmith, in speaking of the Italian Renascence, wrote the lines,

"The canvas glowed beyond even nature warm,
The pregnant quarry teemed with human form—"

he, consciously or unconsciously, gave expression to two great truths. A shallow criticism has found fault with these two lines. It has been said that the province of art is to copy nature, not to surpass it; and that the marble does not teem with human form at one period more than at another. Let us examine these objections. Take the case of a landscape. You may have passed it many times without being attracted by it. You may even have had your attention drawn to it, and failed to see anything of special interest. Now let it be put on canvas by a great artist. Compare the pictures, point by point, with the original. Nothing has been added, nothing omitted. And yet the landscape, as a whole will, ever afterwards, have a charm for you. What has the artist done? He has idealized his subject. He has endowed it with life and soul. His finely attuned nature has felt, and in a lesser degree, made you feel the influence of the Over-Soul. He has given you glimpses of the divine, and shown you that the soul is greater than nature. Nature can but suggest the soul can manifest.

So is it with the beautiful forms in the marble. The quarry is not pregnant until it has been impregnated by the soul of the artist. The master does not see the human forms because they are there. They are there because he sees them.

We idealize everything. Shakespeare's characters are often spoken of as true to nature. If that were so, they would not be so interesting. They are not true to nature in the sense of being mere copies of natural men and women; they are men and women idealized. The poor, unfortunate wretches whom we meet in passing through life, may excite our sympathy, and, alas, too, unless we are imbued with the spirit of the Christ, our disgust; but let them be shown by the artist's picture, and disgust may be changed into admiration. We see the same men and women; but we had not, before seen the God.

God is within us: and your god is only as high as your ideal, which is the measure, not of your potentiality, but of your present capability. How can we form a conception of a being higher than ourselves? What that which we call God is objectively, we cannot know; but subjectively, Colonel Ingersoll was right when he said—

"An honest god's the noblest work of man."

The soul of man, seperated from the Universal Soul, and longing for a reunion, seeks constantly after God. It is this longing which is the cause of all effort. It is this which inspires the sculptor, the painter the poet, and the musician. In fact, all the actions of man, seem to him, for the time being, the best means of reaching God, the highest good. Some one said, not long ago, that the drunkard, in his orgies, is seeking God. The saying was ridiculed at the time. Is it not true?

Each loves his ideal. You, married man, think you love your wife. She is but the lay figure that suggested the ideal, the real object of your love. Byron says—

"In her first love, a woman loves her lover;
In all the others, all she loves is love."

Another cannot fill the place; but the ideal remains, and she goes on loving. Some one has said that ideals are the only realities.

But what is this that we love? Our highest conception of the good, the true, and the beautiful; our highest selves; our gods. For what can we know of God, but from within, whence all our light comes? We hear Christians say that they love God, when they mean God objectively. How can they love a being who fills immensity, and permeates every particle of matter in the Universe? Who is not only infinite, but infinity itself? The highest being of which they can have any actual knowledge, and the highest being they can love is man. What do we know of our fellow-men? What even of ourselves?

"Below the surface stream,
Shallow and light, of what we say we feel;
Below the stream, as light of what we think
We feel, there flows with noiseless current, strong and deep
The central stream of what we feel indeed."

The potentialities of the human soul are infinite. When Jesus speaks of removing mountains, he means not what preachers say, mountains of sin, which exist only in a diseased imagination, but actual mountains, and it was easy to believe as the words of the Master that if one could live up to the possibilities of his composite being he might cast the Rocky Mountains into the Pacific.

POST CARD COLUMN

Editor Post Card Column:

Dear Sir,—As a taxpayer in this city I wish to ask a question, which I hope every taxpayer will ponder over. Have the City Council and the School Boards any right to go on spending money recklessly, without the authority or vote of the taxpayers? I believe the law in the matter is very plain, and that the men who do this thing are personally liable. This kind of thing has got to stop sometime and if an example is made of a few men in this matter, I believe it will be in the public interest. Another question I would like to ask. Can the Council foist these unauthorized expenditures on the taxpayers this year without their consent, and legitimately, collect it? If they attempt it there will likely be trouble.

Respectfully yours,
A WEST END CITIZEN.

JUST CURED HIM THAT WAS ALL

What Dodd's Kidney Pills Did for Thomas Moon.

Doctors Could Not Cure His Dropsy But Dodd's Kidney Pills Cleared it Out Completely.

Maidstone, Sask., Jan. 29—Special—"Cured me completely. That's what Dodd's Kidney Pills did for me." Such is the statement made by Thomas Moon, a well known resident of this place who for two years suffered with dropsical swellings brought on by diseased kidneys.

"I had pains in the small of my back," Mr. Moon continues, "and across the loins. The swelling commenced first in my leg and gradually got to my body. I tried different doctors but kept getting worse every day until I was swollen up to an awful size."

"One doctor sent me to the hospital where I got a little benefit but the swelling soon all came back. Then I used Dodd's Kidney Pills and as I said before they cured me completely."

Dropsical swellings are caused by diseased kidneys failing to take the surplus water out of the blood. Cure the kidneys with Dodd's Kidney Pills and the dropsy naturally cures itself.

LOCAL OPTION IN THE CITIES

Knoxville, Tennessee, for Example.

The advocates of prohibitory legislation are constantly met by one or both of two arguments. We are told that while local option may work alright and give general satisfaction in the rural constituencies, villages and smaller towns, it is out of the question in the larger and more intelligent centres of population. Again it is contended that the introduction of prohibitory legislation into cities and larger towns will be ruinous to business.

It is quite true that, so far as Ontario is concerned, local option laws have not been tried in any of the cities or many of the larger towns. The reason for this though is not to be found in their greater intelligence, but rather in the fact that in these centres of population there is a larger proportion of voters lacking in that quality, and so more difficult to reach by any campaign of education. As to the injury to business, the very opposite has proved to be the case, as is shown, not only in our own province, but in many of the states of the American Union, where the cause of temperance is more advanced than with us.

The Legislature of the State of Tennessee has just passed a State Prohibition Law. Previous to that there had been for some time a local option law. This had been passed and was in operation in 92 of the 96 counties of the State. The legislature simply made it unanimous. This action was violently opposed in some of the larger cities, the chief arguments being those indicated above, viz., The ruin of business and the impossibility of operating such a law in the cities. In reply to this it is pointed out that the city of Knoxville in that State, with 36,000 population, has been for a year under local option, and that all the 114 places that were formerly saloons, are now occupied by business enterprises, which are a benefit to the community. In this connection the testimony of the Mayor, the City judge and the Chief of Police are interesting. The following is what they say:

Statement of the Mayor, Hon. J. Brooks.

"Prohibition has been and is a marked success in Knoxville. Our criminal record has been greatly reduced, and the drunk and disorderly list is almost entirely wanting. Families that had scarcely ever known what it was to have a 'square meal,' or a good suit of clothes, are now well fed, well clothed and happy."

Statement of Judge Thomas A. A. Nelson.

"If a larger and more regular attendance at Sunday School, preaching and other services at our churches, if a larger and more regular attendance at schools, by better shod, better clad and cleaner children; if forty thousand dollars more money for increased room and better equipment and larger pay to teachers; if more revenue for the city from ad valorem and license taxes; if sixty per cent. decrease of arrests for drunkenness and kindred crimes; if a decrease of a like or even greater percentage in homicides and all grades of crime; if a million dollars a year spent for necessaries is less helpful than a like amount spent for liquor; if these things indicate failure, then prohibition has failed."

Statement of Chief of Police, W. P. Chandler.

"No matter who says prohibition in Knoxville is a failure, it is not true. We have had a dry town for a few days more than one year, and this city is better off in every respect. The most important matter to be considered in any locality, as I see it, is the moral condition, and I am glad to say this is the one most improved. Our city is 100 per cent. better to-day than when saloons were here. It is true we make arrests, and some for drunkenness, but where in the days of the saloons we made 150 to 250 a week, we rarely make fifty arrests a week now, including all manner of cases. In the saloon days we would make ten to twenty arrests each day, and thirty-five to fifty on Saturdays, nearly all punks of the result of drunks. Now we have an average of three or four a day, and rarely go over ten or fifteen on Saturdays. There is some whiskey sold here, but we get the man doing it, sooner or later, and some of the big ones, too have workhouse sentences against them.

"The liquor people and friends of liquor say that prohibition here is a failure, but they are crazy to get saloons back. I make this assertion and defy contradiction: That there are now hundreds of children in Knoxville with clothes and shoes to wear and something to eat, who went naked and hungry when saloons were here. The city schools of Knoxville never had such large attendance as this year. Teachers, policemen and firemen all get salaries raised this year, the first time in twenty years. The city comptroller tells me he collected more in (business) licenses in nine months this year than the whole of last year."

STONE CRUSHING IDEA OF MR. HAY CONDEMNED

"Ratepayer (And One Who Knows)," Deals With It in a Letter.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—I noticed in last night's Examiner, that Mr. T A S Hay, the City Engineer, has given out a report to the Board of Works, that, by putting the north-end stone crusher in the bed of the river below the Cereal Works dam, and crushing rotten limestone, that will all go to pieces when a load goes on it, and then blow away in dust, it would save the city $2.62 per cord, in place of $3.00 per cord, according to the motion passed by the Board of Works. I notice that Mr. Hay has it down pretty fine when he puts the 2 cents to his figures. According to Mr. Hay's figures these stones could be taken from the river for 38 cents a cord. I would like to see Mr. Hay try this and keep a team to tow the lords out of that hole. He or no other man living could do it for that money. The city fathers should consult somebody that knows something practical about matters. It is very easy for a man to sit down in his office and figure on an article to the best of my opinion this he had never properly done according to his figures, and it is a sure thing that if they ever do put the crusher down there, they will find it just like the Romaine street sewer, a failure and the taxpayers can pay for it.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for space in the Examiner, I am, etc.

"RATEPAYER."

Magistrate Dumble Returns Judgment Of Not Guilty In The Millbrook Trunk Affair

The "gray-blue" trunk can be taken to Millbrook with its contents, if Mr. John Croaker, who purchased it so desires. Magistrate Dumble gave his decision this morning dismissing the charge against Mr Alex. Elliott of having unlawfully sold whiskey to John Croaker of Millbrook. The judgment was as follows—

The charge herein is laid under section 61 of the Liquor License Act for selling to a person not entitled to sell and who sells such liquor or who buys for the purpose of reselling.

In order to sustain the charge, Mr Elliott or his employees who in this case sold the liquors must be proved to have known—

1 That John Croaker was not licensed to sell liquors and did sell liquor, or

2 That they knew Croaker was buying to sell again.

Mr. Elliott personally did not sell and it is not shown that he knew of the sales.

The two men in the shop swear that they did not know Croaker, who he was or where he came from, and there is no evidence to contradict them.

It is shown that Croaker got a trunk full of whiskey on several occasions at Elliott's retail store and that he kept an hotel in Millbrook, a local option village, and one might infer that he bought to sell again, but that does not fasten knowledge on Elliott or his employees or justify a conclusion of guilt.

Under sub-sect. 2, the defendant is not called on to rebut a conclusion of guilt by proving good faith and want of knowledge on his part and on the part of his servants, until first a prima facie case has been made out. The evidence does not prove either that Croaker sold liquor or bought to sell, and I would not be justified in finding from the quantity of liquor bought by him that Mr. Elliott's servants were bound to know that he was selling or bought to sell.

In fact his living in a local option village should lead one to suppose that Croaker was keeping the law especially where there is absolutely no evidence that he does sell liquor.

The case is discharged. The liquor seized will be delivered to Mr. Croaker.

"D. W. DUMBLE"
P. M.

Jan. 30th, 1909.

The above Judgment would seem to show that liquor can be purchased by persons living in a Local Option District, in any quantities, provided that the same is not bought for the purpose of reselling or purchased with the intention of reselling. As long as a man purchases liquor for his own use, although living in a Local Option District, he is free to do so.

LITTLE LIVES LOST
HOW TO SAVE THEM

The annual report of the Registrar-General for Ontario shows that for every thousand children born one hundred and eleven die before they reach the age of one year. Most of these deaths are due to disorders of the stomach and bowels, and most of these little lives could be saved if mothers kept always at hand a safe and simple remedy like Baby's Own Tablets. These Tablets cure all stomach and bowel troubles, but better still an occasional dose will prevent these troubles coming on. Mrs. N. Shaffer, The Brook, Ont., says: "I have used Baby's Own Tablets for stomach and bowel troubles and always find them satisfactory. I feel that my little ones are safe so long as I have this medicine in the house." Sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

PRESENTATION TO CLASS MEMBER

Interesting Event in Which Members of Mark St. Church Classes Figure.

A number of the young ladies of Mark street Sunday School, East City, together with Mrs. M. W. Matchett's class of young men, met at the home of Mr. H. Callander, Hunter street, to spend the last evening with his son, Lynn, who is a member of the class, prior to his departure for the West.

A pleasing feature of the evening's entertainment was an address read by Mr. Wesley Crowe, and the presentation of a complete set of toilet brushes on a beautiful china tray by Mr. Alfred Record, to Mr. Lynn Callander, on behalf of the class.

All expressed themselves as having spent a most enjoyable evening. Credit is due the ladies present for the dainty refreshments served.

GOVERNMENT WILL DEEPEN WEST CHANNEL OF RIVER

Hon. J R Stratton, M.P., accompanied by Mr. J G Sing, C.E., Government Engineer, waited upon the Government on Thursday in connection with the deepening of the bed of the river here in order to divert, as much as possible, the flow of the water to the eastern side of the river, so that the force of the current will not interfere with the progress of crafts coming up the stream on the west side of the river, where all wharfage will be situated and all landings made.

The Engineer's report on this subject being favourable, it is more than probable that the Government will give instructions to have the work done, while the water is low and before the spring freshets arrive.

If there is the slightest doubt in the minds of any that dandruff germs do not exist, their belief is compelled by the fact that a rabbit inoculated with the germs became bald in six weeks' time.

It must be apparent to any body therefore that the only prevention of baldness is the destruction of the germ.—which act is successfully accomplished in one hundred per cent of cases by the application of Newbro's Herpicide.

BLAKE IN FINE SHAPE FOR WALK

Will Take Part in the International Race in Madison Square Garden.

J. F. Blake, the American coloured walking champion, arrived in the city Thursday night, ready for the big walking match in the Auditorium Roller Rink with Jim Harrison, the local crack, to-day. He was given a warm welcome back to Peterborough by those who had made his acquaintance in the walk here last spring, when his plucky walking won him many friends. Blake says that he is in fine shape, and he thoroughly looks the part, being stouter and fresher looking than on his last appearance in Peterborough. He has had considerable walking since he left here, and has been successful in annexing a number of races, including a 50 mile race at Plattsburg. In another 50 mile race at the same place he was second, being beaten out in the last desperate sprint by five yards, the two men keeping together all the way. Blake was fifth in the big walk at Auburn, N.Y., which was captured by Hoagland. He is entered in the International Six Day Go-as-you-please race in Madison Square Garden, New York City in March next, having been selected as one of the American representatives.

To-day's race started this afternoon at 2 o'clock sharp, and the men will walk until five o'clock, after which there will be a rest of three hours, the race being finished out with three hours at night. The rink will be heated and will be comfortable for spectators, while there is ample seating accommodation for a big crowd. The band will be on hand in the evening.

CIVIL SERVICE REMUNERATION

It is to Be Increased at Once as Was Promised.

OUTSIDERS CLAIMS MADE

Mr. Borden Declares That Others Beside Ottawa Employes Should Get More Money and Sir Wilfrid Announces That They Will Receive Consideration — Leader of the Opposition Criticises Letter.

Ottawa, Jan. 30.—The Government have lost no time in taking steps to implement their promise of a general increase in salaries of the inside civil service.

In the House yesterday Hon. Sydney Fisher introduced a resolution for a general increase of $150 in the salaries of officials of the inside civil service under the deputy heads, based on recommendations of the Civil Service Commission. Mr. Fisher at some length explained who would be benefited. Under the new classification of last session 59 received increases of 11 per cent. Under this resolution 2,605 receive increases of $150 a year, the average increase being 13 per cent. Thirty-five are not benefited in any way. Under the new classification the increases total $36,000. The resolution provides for increases totaling $347,000; a grand total of $383,000. The Civil Service Commission recommended a general increase of 12 1-2 to 15 1-2 per cent.

Mr. Borden pointed out that every argument in favor of increases for the inside service was equally an argument for increases for the outside service. The statute made a clear distinction between the two branches of the service, but the case of living did not. The Government ought to bring down the circular distributed among the civil servants of Ottawa bearing the signature of the junior member for Ottawa and endorsed by the Prime Minister, so that the House might know whether the promises made to the electors were being implemented in the resolution.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier stated that it was the intention to reform the outside service also.

As to Mr. Borden's suggestion that the promise to the electors of Ottawa in the campaign was a bribe, Sir Wilfrid said it was the intention to introduce the resolution last year and to date the increase from Sept. 18. But now Mr. Borden said it was a bribe. It was not safe to make that charge in the election campaign. The outside service must come under the reform, but one thing at a time.

Hal. B. McGiverin, junior member for Ottawa, failed to see that the statement he made to the electors of Ottawa was a bribe. The Conservative candidates had promised to use their endeavors to see that the recommendations of the Civil Service Commissioners were carried out at once, and said they had "the assurance of our leader that this will be done."

Dr. Barr also argued for better pay for outsiders, and Dr. Sproule continued the discussion, the House going into committee shortly before six o'clock.

In the afternoon R. L. Borden asked today afternoon R. L. Borden asked when the House might expect the waterways treaty, and if the matter of the fisheries dispute had been submitted to The Hague tribunal.

Sir Wilfrid replied that the Governor-General had on Thursday communicated with the Foreign Office in England for permission to release the treaty; as to the second matter, it had been agreed between Newfoundland and Great Britain that fisheries and other matters in dispute should be referred to The Hague.

R. L. Borden, rising to a question of privilege, quoted an editorial in The Globe, which complained that he had allowed three months to pass without repudiating the faked telegram in The Victoria, B.C., Colonist, representing him to be in favor of the "absolute exclusion of Asiatics." It was not till his return from the south (about the middle of December) that his attention had been called to the matter. He had written to The Colonist, which had replied that no one connected with the management was responsible, and he was awaiting the result of further enquiries.

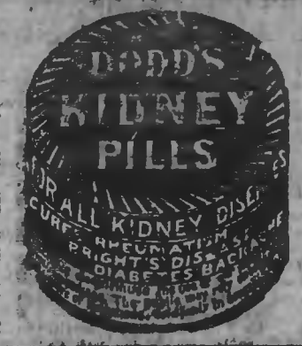
WHEN YOU CAN'T SLEEP.

There is many a man and woman tossing night after night upon a sleepless bed. Their eyes do not close in the sweet and refreshing repose that comes to those whose heart and nerves are right. Some constitutional disturbance, worry or disease has so debilitated and irritated the nervous system, that it cannot be quieted.

Or again, you have, a sinking sensation, a feeling you are going to die; or perhaps, you wake in your sleep feeling as though you were about to choke or smother, and rest leaves you for the night. If you allow these conditions to continue for a short period even, you will begin to feel your health declining. It is the nerves and heart not acting rightly, and they can only be set right by the use of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. They soon induce healthful, refreshing sleep, not by deadening the nerves, but by restoring them to healthy action.

Mrs. E. Nutt, St. Mary's, Ont., writes:—"I can gladly recommend your Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills as I was greatly troubled with my nerves. I was so bad I could not sleep at night without the lamp burning, but after taking four boxes of the pills I became all right again."

Price, 50 cents per box; 3 boxes for $1.25, at all dealers or The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.



ROASTS SALVATIONISTS.

Labor Commissioner Trotter Speaks at British Congress.

London, Jan. 30.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—The labor congress at Portsmouth passed a socialistic resolution by 362,000 to 313,000. A resolution to prevent labor members appearing in support of any measure on the same platform as members of the capitalist party was rejected by 788,000 to 113,000. Congress next declared for secular solution of the education question.

Tariff reform was denounced as no cure for unemployment, Ramsay MacDonald, M.P., declaring that tariff reformers said they wanted to broaden the basis of taxation, but the basis indicated was the people's backs.

A full report of Mr. Trotter's speech on Thursday is not available, but he fiercely criticised the Salvation Army, and, in addition to what was cabled Thursday, declared that a man who would attempt to Christianize Salvation Army headquarters would have a very difficult job. There were 5,500 white unemployed in Vancouver, and the same state of things prevailed at Montreal and Toronto. Yet, the Salvation Army was going to emigrate thousands. The Salvation Army had become the procurator-general of cheap labor for international capital.

The Tragedy of the Robin.

Rev. R. J. Campbell, who attributed a solo to a recent service at the City Temple (London) in order to show how a certain hymn should be sung, tells the following story of his grandfather, a strong old Puritan, stern in the cause of right, but gentle in his dealings with children and animals. His intense love and sympathy for animals was such that when he accidentally shot a robin one day—for he was a keen sportsman—he held the poor little bird in his hand while it died. Then he walked back silently to his study and hung up his gun, never to be taken down again. And he never failed, when opportunity arose, to impress upon the future pastor of the City Temple the lesson of kindness to dumb creatures.

The Secretary read the Report of the Directors to the Shareholders, and submitted the Annual Statement of the affairs of the Bank, which is as follows:

To the Shareholders:

Transferred from Profit and Loss Account	146,374.75
	$4,981,731.62

At the Annual Meeting in January, 1908, your Directors in their Report to the Shareholders made reference to the unusual financial conditions then prevailing and the policy which it was considered advisable to pursue in conducting the affairs of the Bank. Since then a marked change has taken place—there has been a steady contraction in the trade of the country, and the demand for banking accommodation has been limited, although we now find an improvement in this respect, and can confidently look for a gradual expansion in business. A crop some what above the average was harvested, and the proceeds distributed through the country, which has tended largely to increase deposits. From the causes just mentioned the Cash Reserves of the Bank have been particularly strong for some months, and the percentage of liquid assets is exceptionally high.

In January, 1908, we took over Branches of the Sovereign Bank at Baden, Linwood, Marmora, Mount Albert, New Dundee and Petherton. The Petherton office was subsequently closed.

Branches have also been established at the corner of King and Wentworth streets, Hamilton, on Upper Sherbourne Street, Toronto, and at Wawota, Sask. It is our intention to shortly erect an office at the corner of St. Clair Avenue and Vaughan Road, Toronto, where a site has recently been purchased.

Further expenditures have been made at Avenue Road Branch, Toronto, at Fort William and Windsor, Ont., at the North End Branch, Winnipeg, at Selkirk and Deloraine, Man., and at Grenfell and Regina, Sask., to an extent fully warranted by the importance of the Bank's interests at these points.

In connection with the issue of $1,000,000 of new capital stock in 1907, it is worthy of note that the amount subscribed for has now been paid in full.

A Special Committee of your Directors has completed the customary verification of the General Balance Sheet of the Bank as on 31st December, 1908, including the certification of our funds in the hands of Foreign Agents. They have also examined and found correct the Cash Reserves, Investments and Securities as shown on the Statement presented.

All Branches of the Bank have been thoroughly inspected during the year.

E. B. OSLER,
President.

The Report was adopted.

The thanks of the Shareholders were tendered to the President, Vice-President and Directors for their services during the year, and to the General Manager and other Officers of the Bank for the efficient performance of their respective duties.

The following gentlemen were duly elected Directors for the ensuing year: Messrs. A. W. Austin, W. R. Brock, James Carruthers, R. J. Christie, J. C. Eaton, J. J. Foy, K.C., M.L.A., W. D. Matthews, A. M. Nanton and E. B. Osler, M. P.

At a subsequent meeting of the Directors, Mr. E. B. Osler, M. P., was elected President, and Mr. W. D. Matthews, Vice-President, for the ensuing term.

BEAUTY'S HALF SLEEP.

Be Reposeful If You Would Cultivate Curves and Retain Youthful Contour.

It would seem from the deluge of advice poured into the stout woman's ear that there are no overlean women in existence, or if there be such they are well satisfied with their angles. While fashion frowns heavily upon any signs of buxomness—and we must admit that a large percentage of femininity past thirty is fighting to retain youthful contours—there do exist women who would undergo tortures in order to exchange their sharp outlines for softer curves.

It is all very well to prate of the "lines of youth," but when one's shoulder blades, elbows and hips are bony to scragginess one is bound to yearn for a light coating of adipose tissue. Let us not forget, however, in the search for artistic curves that it is usually the woman with decided tendency to "fret and worry" who is thin even unto attenuation.

The very slender woman never impresses you as really reposing. She sits on the edge of her chair, wriggles her slim feet and continually works imaginary patterns with ten diligent little fingers. When she enters a room she moves from point to point and finally bends unresignedly to a seat, the hardest one in the room, while her plump friend gravitates to a pile of cushions and snuggles into their depths as naturally as the soft eyed Maltese curls herself into a ball before the open grate.

Then, too, the bony woman is so deadly in earnest when she talks. She searches the room for imaginary threads, walks to the window to rearrange faultlessly hung curtains, readjusts ornaments, continually hears the telephone bell and does everything to keep her nerves a-jangle.

The meager woman who courts flesh to round her angles into curves of beauty needs fresh air and sunshine in unstinted measure and must have them. She must eat a great deal of fruit. Those denied to her obese sister are her special friends. She must when possible take a glass of milk between meals in mid-morning and afternoon and again before going to bed. A wafer or two can be eaten at the same time, while the milk must be slowly sipped, not gulped down rapidly.

She may eat cereals freely and all the starchy and sweet vegetables. White and sweet potatoes, peas, corn and beans and salads to promote digestion are her mainstays. Meats are according to appetite and taste. All sorts of sweets are fattening, particularly chocolate, which is also especially nutritious.

OLD FASHION REVIVED.

The Samplers of Our Grandmothers' Time in Vogue.

It was a great pity when the samplers of our grandmothers' time went out of fashion, for they helped many a little girl to learn how to properly handle a needle. For this reason it is good news to hear that there is now some chance of the mistake being rectified. It is said that the old crewel work is to return. Give any little girl a bit of canvas and some bright zephyrs and let her fashion the thing in her own way. The work will surely be interesting. It will keep the busy little hands out of mischief, and the result will often be surprisingly good.

If the diminutive lassie is allowed to choose and execute her own conception of a design the work will be doubly beneficial, for it frequently develops some latent talent.

The secret of making a task attractive lies in not letting the child work off its first enthusiasm. Any child or any grown person, for that matter, will attack a thing in the beginning with all the joy that is felt when any new task is undertaken. Unfortunately the first time the work is taken up it is continued so long that unaccustomed hands become tired and the constanc effort grows irksome. Make it a pleasant task, something to look forward to, a reward for good behavior, and in this way the novelty is preserved and the work does not cease to be interesting.

It is much the same with dolls. Take them away before they get to be too familiar, before the inquiring little brains, for the sake of something new, destroy the treasured possessions. If this is done there will always be some novelty to produce when days are long and rainy.

CAVERN YIELDS RELICS

CELTIC REMAINS OF GREAT VALUE FOUND IN ENGLAND.

Mementoes of the Time Before the Romans Invaded Britain Are Discovered In Workly Hole in Mendip Hills—Utensils, Implements, Weapons and Ornaments Are Included in Recovered Treasures.

The well-known caves of Workly Hole, in the Mendip hills, near Wells, England, which have yielded unequaled examples of the remains of prehistoric man and animals, have just yielded more, expected to be the finest unearthed.

Remains of the Pleistocene fauna were found there in abundance, though hitherto the great inner cavern had yielded nothing of importance. But, with the consent of the owner (Mr. Hodgkinson) the Mendip Research Club recently undertook the examination of the floor and recesses of the cavern, with the result that, though the exploration has not proceeded very far, exceedingly important relics of the cave-dwellers of the period which preceded and coincided with the Roman occupation of Britain have been brought to light.

Fragments of Roman pottery, human remains and occasional Roman coins in good preservation were discovered practically on the surface. Slightly deeper an interesting series of bone, bronze and iron objects were found, mixed with pottery and human and animal bones in profusion.

These include well-formed bone and bronze pins and bone and iron needles a variety of combs, including a large six-toothed comb of rare form, almost complete; a T-handled comb formed like a wrist and hand, fragmentary carding combs, with circle and crossed line decorations, and portions of a thin double comb with iron rivets.

There were also found curious fine bands of bone with minute rivets, and bone awls of various shapes. Fragmentary bearings of some rotating wheel also occur.

Broken antlers of red and roe deer, some with tires chopped and sawn off, show the source from whence various polished antler articles were obtained. These were perforated with square or round holes, and were used on pony bridles.

Of metal relics a variety have been discovered, including implements, ornaments and weapons. Along with portions of a human skeleton were found an iron dagger, hatchet and billhook, with other iron objects. An iron arrow-head, bent as though it had struck a rock; a fragment of a fine-toothed saw, fragmentary knives and a great number of large nails were dug up, and—not the least important—a specimen of bar money. The latter is a very rare find. There are probably not more than eight examples in England.

In bronze the best specimen discovered is a large fibula or brooch. There are also two other brooches, hinges and a small chain of thirteen links.

In stone a large top quern stone of early date was brought to light and also a rude mortar of grit, with corresponding rubbing stone, a lamp of oolite, still coated with lampblack, a variety of horn stones and rubbers, some of the former being of fine workmanship, and a large ball fashioned from the stalagmite of the cave.

Spindle whorls of stone, pottery and clay (both baked and unbaked) occur. Vessels of pottery are of great variety, their fragments being often scattered so as almost to defy restoration. These extend in date from the early Celtic deposits of La Sene type down to vessels of the finest Roman ware, whilst fragments of all subsequent dates occur superficially.

Crude Celtic pottery includes sepulchral urns of heavy black ware and others with fine patterns.

Cooking vessels abound, invariably fragmentary, but often beautifully decorated. There are saucers, dishes, jars, ewers of elegant design, drinking cups, milking pots, boiling pots, mortaria, vessels for storage of grain, water, etc., little vessels for condiments or cosmetics, bowls, covers, pierced strainers, urns bearing curious patterns, such as the Swastika and, rarely, pierced designs.

Purely Roman ware is represented by a Samian bowl and cover and a series of other typical forms and a painted ewer of red ware.

Fragments of several beautiful objects of glass of elegant design were also found.

Coins, though not abundant, are representative of nearly the whole period of the Roman occupation. Those found include a first brass of Antoninus Pius, second brasses of Vespasian A.D. 79, Magnentius, who usurped the empire in 350, and Constantius Pius and third brasses of nearly all the later emperors till the evacuation of Britain. Later coins are scarce, only two of Charles I being found.

Prof. Boyd Dawkins regards the discoveries as of the highest importance and they indicate that still greater wealth of the cave is yet to be revealed.

Few Murderers Escape.

Mr. Gladstone's reply to a question about the number of unpunished murders in London of recent years is complimentary to Scotland Yard. Excluding cases where death followed illegal operations, the "undetected" murders number only one per annum. From this total must be deducted one or more cases where the police knew their man, but could not find valid evidence against him. This document does not touch the cases in which not only the murderer, but the murder, is undetected, and, according to Mr. Sims, they are very numerous.

Free Fly Papers.

The little Fen town of Ramsey, in Hunts, England, is feeling the effects of the fly pest so severely that the District Council has taken the unusual course of providing free fly papers for the poorer inhabitants.

FIRES REDUCE TIMBER.

Fernie Conflagration Destroyed 185 Square Miles of Forest.

Mr. H. R. Macmillan of the Forestry branch of the Department of the Interior has written as follows to Saturday Night from Ottawa:

I have just returned from the eastern slope of the Rockies, where particularly in the region of the Crow's Nest Pass, I have been investigating forest conditions for the Forestry branch. The supply of merchantable timber on the east slope of the Rockies has been greatly reduced by fire. In the valley of the Crow's Nest River, of an original total forest area of 204 square miles, only 30 remain unburned. What does remain, being that at higher elevations in the smaller creeks, is of a quality somewhat inferior to the timber which occupied the main valleys. Of the burned timber some 30 square miles remain standing, sound and fit for use. This dead timber is being used at the rate of over 2,000,000 lineal feet annually by the Crow's Nest coal mines for props and mining timbers. When it is known that 3,000,000 feet is the annual growth upon 34,000 acres of that mountain land, it can readily be understood why the mine owners are now wondering where they are going to get their future supply of props. Salvation lies in the fact that the burned overland is rapidly coming up to young timber, which will, if protected from fire, constitute the next timber supply. To protect this young timber is now the problem confronting the Forestry Department.

THE LATE JUDGE M'CALLUM.

After Hot Political Meeting He Changed Before Those Who Stayed Late.

Archie McCallum was stumping South Grey for the late Senator Landerkin, and the place of meeting was Drewery's school-house. As is well-known Archie was always chosen to stump the constituencies where the Highlanders were numerous, and at this meeting were the McQueens, McNairs, McEachrens, McFadyens, McDonalds, McDougalls, McPhees, Curries, Campbells, Keiths, and Buchanans.

Gaelic and English political oratory poured forth as it could only when McCallum was the medium. No reporters were present, and so many unprintable arguments were set forth. After the meeting the crowd tarried long, as is the custom after any rural gathering. It was a cold night, and it was a long drive to Durham. For a space Archie felt a little uneasy, but after a while, turning to the writer, demanded:

"Are these people going to stay here all night? If they are I may as well do it first as last."

So opening his valise he took out a heavy undershirt which he changed right there in the small auditorium for the wringing wet one he had on.

This is vouched for by W. T. Rogers, now principal of Brockville Business College, who was the teacher of the school at that time, and acted as chairman at the meeting.

A British Farm Colony.

The Earl of Stanhope visited British Columbia recently. He says the western provinces are full of undeveloped resources, and will some day prove to have immense value. The fruit which was produced in the valleys of Southern British Columbia was unsurpassed by any that he had tasted from any part of the world. One of the matters into which Lord Stanhope was looking during his trip was the practicability of the establishment in Canada by the British Government of an extensive farm colony, in which large parties of British people could be placed. It was the idea of the visitor that large numbers of British unemployed might be brought to Canada in vessels owned by the Government, and that the Government would be responsible for them. As they were able, these colonists could leave the farm of the Government and begin to work for the farmers of the country or go on land of their own. If they were wholly unsuitable they could be taken back to the Mother Country. This plan, if tried at all, the earl said, ought to be tested on a large scale. It would cost a large sum, but the resulting advantage would be great.

Dog Days in Westmount.

Long after dark the Westmount man sat on his front step listening to the dismal howls of a restless canine.

"Awful racket," commented the town police force, as he sauntered up the avenue.

"Terrible," agreed the man on the steps.

"Those howls are enough to raise the dead."

"Well, I should say so."

"Make the cold shivers creep up and down your spine."

"They are fierce."

"Wonder why you don't make a complaint?"

"Well, I am just waiting."

"May I ask you what you are waiting for?"

"Sure! I am waiting to find out if that is my dog or my neighbor's dog. If it is my dog—well, you know we all have to put up with unseemly noises these fall evenings, but if it is my neighbor's dog—blamed if I don't shoot him myself."—Montreal Herald.

Need Young Priests.

The pioneer Roman Catholic missionaries, who have been working all their lives in Northern Canada, are now growing too old to endure the hardships of their mission fields, and fresh, younger blood is found to be needed to recruit the ranks. These soldiers of the cross are being drawn from the young French-Canadians, and, in order to prepare them for the missionary service, an endeavor is being made to raise a sufficient sum to establish a seminary at some suitable place in the Mackenzie Valley region, where the young priests may receive proper attention.

SYDNEY SNAKE FARMS

AUSTRALIA HAS VOTARIES OF A PECULIAR INDUSTRY.

The Reptiles Are Marketed For Their Poison Which Is Used as an Antidote to Snake Venom—Taxidermists Will Pay Big Prices — Frogs and Toads Are Also Raised at Good Profit.

Snake farming is not an attractive occupation, but it has more than one votary in the Australian Commonwealth. In the neighborhood of Sydney the industry has been carried on for several years by an individual who, while disclaiming all knowledge of the snake-charming art, appears to have an exhaustive knowledge of the reptiles and their ways. In addition to the snakes, large numbers of frogs, and even toads, are carefully reared, partly for food for the reptiles, and partly for scientific purposes. The snakes are caught in the bush, a work frequently necessitating many miles of wandering and long hours of patient watching, for the snake is a suspicious creature, generally more alarmed at the sight of man than man at it. The snake hunter employes a couple of forked sticks as a means of capture. With one the reptile is pinned by any part of the body to the ground, after which it is fixed by the neck with the other. This done, the captor, with finger and thumbs, grasps the head at the side of the jaws, and thus has the reptile safe and harmless. The snake is thus dropped, tail first, into a sugar bag. All that is really necessary is a steady nerve, a straight eye and a firm hand.

A recent visitor was shown some large specimens of the tiger and diamond species, intended for the Sydney Board of Health, which is regularly supplied with venomous snakes from which the poison, used in preparing "snake antidotes" is obtained by "milking." This is described as a most interesting performance. Before milking time the snakes are fed, afterwards becoming excited when a glass similar to a watch glass, covered with the finest gutta percha, is put into the cage. The infuriated reptiles bite viciously through the gutta percha, leaving tiny drops of poison on the prepared glass. The milking is invariably performed during the summer months, when the creatures are most active and fierce, and the poison most virulent. Numerous vicious specimens are kept in cages at the offices of the Sydney Health Department to be milked, and when somewhat worn out are returned to the snake farm to recuperate. After the snakes have become useless for "milking" purposes they are sold to taxerdermists or the Sydney Zoological Gardens. There is always a good market for good, new specimens, as much as $30 being paid for a single snake. Several hundred snakes have been collected at one time on the farm, where they are kept in bags or boxes. The latter being covered at the top with a small mesh wire netting. At the bottom of each receptacle is a little bran or straw, and occasionally a few old rags.

When a snake farmer began to keep the reptiles he found himself periodically attacked by a mysterious kind of influenza or hay fever, which he subsequently discovered to be due to poison exuded from the bodies of the snakes. In one respect the creatures resemble human kind—they are sticklers for caste. The black snake is considered the gentleman of the snake fraternity, and lives much alone, seldom associating with other members of the reptile tribe. The carpet snake is the loafer of the reptile world, while the diamond snake is a positive larrikin, stealing the other snakes' wives and swallowing their children. The tiger species is hard to get on with, being vicious and deceitful, and, like the tiger, and cat tribe generally, plays with its prey before devouring it.

The question of food is an important one. It necessitates ample supplies of frogs, rats, bandicoots, rabbits, eggs, etc. This has caused the frog-rearing to become one of the features of the farm. The reptiles are kept in large bottomless cages, placed on the grass, with some brush on one side and a small pond in the centre. When in the open a bit of brush is indispensable for snake and frog alike.

"In hot weather," said the snake farmer, "when the frogs are sitting in the bushes, they are treated to shower baths, an ordinary garden syringe being used for the purpose. Great seems their enjoyment, turning round and round, stretching out their legs and necks to the spray. But," he continued, "there's a fortune in frogs if we only had the French secret of feeding them. No matter how much water is about, in the dry weather they get together in crowds and hop for miles away from their old homes, looking for fresh, marshy places, with plenty of cover. Frogs carry water in their pouches, and when they come across a suitable hollow in a shady spot they fill it and make a pond for themselves." The venom obtained from the snake is understood to be of great value, the quantity being extremely limited, and rarely weighing more than a few grains. It rarely, if ever, loses any of its poisonous qualities, and has to be handled with the greatest of care.

Mirandy Knew.

Mrs. Gaybird burst into the village postoffice all out of breath.

"Anything for me?" she asked in anxious tone.

The postmaster shook his head. "Narthin'," he replied.

"Goodness gracious!" exclaimed Mrs. Gaybird. "I was expecting a letter from my husband as to when he was coming home."

"Waal, I'll ask Mirandy," said the old man. And he called to his wife in the kitchen: "Say, Mrs. Gaybird's called to know if there's any mail—sez she's lookin' fer a letter or soinethin' from her husband as ter when he's comin' back. Is there anything fer her?"

"Yes, there is," called back the postmistress. "He sez he'll be to home this comin' Friday."—New York Times.

GIVES LIFE TO INDIANS.

Father Lecorre, After 30 Years in the North, is Back to Civilization.

Rev. A. Lecorre, O.M.I., who for 30 years has been doing missionary work among the Esquimaux and Indians of northern Canada, returned to civilization about three weeks ago, and will remain in the east until he is able to collect sufficient funds to establish a Catholic seminary in the heart of the Northern Canadian forests. Although 67 years old, he is still a strong, robust man, despite his two-score years' battle with the northern wilds.

After each address a collection will be taken, and Father Lecorre hopes to raise $10,000. He intends to visit the large Canadian cities, including Ottawa, Montreal, and Quebec, in an effort to fulfill his long-cherished hopes.

Father Lecorre is a French-Canadian. The first fifteen years of his work was spent in endeavoring to convert the people inhabiting the region near the polar circles. With the Esquimaux he met with but little success, being the first missionary among them.

"Most people have a wrong conception of the Esquimaux," said Father Lecorre. "They are horribly cruel and barbarous—that is, most of them were when I first went among them. They killed all their old men. The aged and feeble were compelled to kneel on the mat of death, and the younger members of the tribe pierced them through and through with spears until they were dead. I did, however, baptise about 300 babies. This made their medicine men jealous, and they made many attempts to kill me, both with knife and gun. But, you see, they were unsuccessful.

While carrying on his work of conversion in the far north, Father Lecorre has had many narrow escapes from starvation and death in other ways.

"Even when I was permanently settled at my little monastery, Lady of Good Hope, 100 miles south of the Arctic circles, I did not taste a piece of bread for three years," he said.

Dr. Lecorre, described a peculiar custom of the Esquimaux women, that of cutting a large hole in each cheek, in which they wear precious stones. These are removed during meal hours.

With the Indians of the far north Father Lecorre met with far greater success, and, while he has been at work among the missions of Providence, as the monasteries are called, he has had the satisfaction of seeing the Indians of the entire valley of the Mackenzie river embrace the Catholic faith. The first mission established in this region was at Edmonton, and consisted of two huts.

Twenty-five years ago, when Father Lecorre took an active part in converting the Slavian Indians, the Dog tribes, so-called because they eat dog flesh, and the Mountain Indians, his little hut was just 900 miles south of the Arctic circle, and 900 miles north of the nearest civilization, with missions at an interval of 180 miles. There were but thirty-two priests in the entire region at the time.

He Lost His Temper.

Toronto people who have occasion to talk over the telephone with a certain down-town business man, whose name it would not do to give away, frequently find great difficulty in understanding him because of an impediment in his speech. This stuttering makes it particularly awkward for those who call at his office to transact business.

Sometimes when the rush of words becomes unintelligible Mr. B. seizes a sheet of paper and uses a pencil to express his thoughts. Not long ago he adopted this plan with a caller whose business he did not know. To his surprise the visitor replied in the same way, writing a long and laborious reply on paper. Thinking he was the object of some kind of rude joke, B. "went of the handle," and used his talking apparatus to the limit in "calling down" the stranger.

When the atmosphere had cleared away he found that he had been wasting his energy on a man who was both deaf and dumb! Then business was resumed.

Christmas Excursions.

The good times following on a bumper harvest have enabled a large number of Canadians to go over to Britain for Christmas. The Old Country has the deepest fascination for the new countries overseas, and the homesteader in the Northwest, who may have gone from England in despair, still looks forward to the day when he can afford to revisit his old home. This year the Canadian Pacific experienced such heavy Christmas bookings that they arranged a special Christmas excursion direct from Canada to the port of London, by the steamer Montfort; and a thousand excursionists from the great Dominion should land at Millwall dock in time to see the pantomimes and do their Christmas shopping under the shadow of St. Paul's.

Battle River Bridge.

The big bridge over Battle river which has prevented the Grand Trunk Pacific from entering Edmonton for so many months, is now ready. The weather has been most favorable for the work. Every effort will be made to complete the G.T.P. line to Edmonton as quickly as possible. Over 1,200 carloads of railway material have been assembled at Wainwright, Alberta, for use in the construction of the line west of that town. The contract for the new station at Wainwright, Alberta, has been let. The building will cost about $12,000. The Canadian Northern Railway has built more than 350 miles of road this season. The company has surveyed about 3,000 miles of extension, upon which construction work will begin next year.

Cocoa Frosting.—Add to a cup of powdered sugar three tablespoonfuls of sweet cream and mix well. Add a tablespoonful of cocoa and half a teaspoonful of vanilla extract, then spread. This frosting will not crack when cut.

Miss Sarah P. Morrison has just entered the University of Indiana at the age of seventy five. She was a member of the class of 1855 and returns to take a postgraduate course in Greek and other studies.

CORNEY BURNS HAS CONTRACT FROM THE ERIE, PA., O. AND P. LEAGUE TEAM

Corney Burns, captain and manager of the Peterborough Baseball Club, champions of the Midland League for 1908, has received from the Erie, Pa., team of the Ohio and Pennsylvania League, a contract to play for them this season. A tempting salary offer accompanied the contract, and the crack local out-fielder is seriously considering the offer which he has not yet decided to accept. The Wilmington team of the North Carolina League with whom Walter Joyce is playing again this season, is also after Corney. If he accepts the offer of the Erie Club he will be the second Peterborough man to break into the O. and P. League, as Harry Burridge, the local catcher, will be with the Youngstown team. The offer is a flattering one and shows that the class of ball that has been handed out here in the last couple of years has been pretty high standard.

Burns should have no trouble in making good in the Class C League, in which he is likely to be found during the coming season. Last year, playing for Peterborough in the Midland League and in other games he clouted the pill for an average of .453 in twenty-six games, which is sure going some. In addition he is one of the fastest base runners ever seen here, being lightning fast on the sacks, and as an outfielder he does not need to back up from any of them as he covers an immense amount of ground and has a splendid whip.

CHIEFTAINS BEAT THE OTONABEES WON HANDILY BY 8 GOALS TO 1

It looks like Jack Thirnbeck's Chieftains for the Junior City League Championship, unless the George street team can stop their victorious career. On Thursday night the red and black team took the Otonabees into camp by the one-sided score of 8-1, having all the better of the play throughout. They had it on the Otonabees in skating, stick handling and combination, and the losers, although good individually, bunched too much to get away with any effective team work. It was a splendid exhibition of hockey all the way. For a while the Otonabees managed to hold their own, but the superiority of the winners began to show itself before long, and they drew away from the Southerners under wraps. Crane and Burritt were the best of the winners, while Hillier and Anderson did good work for the Otonabees. Referee S. W. Rose handled the game splendidly. The teams follow:—

THE COST OF CORN GROWING

From Farm and Dairy.

Below are given the results of the yield and the cost of growing 30 acres of corn and 15½ acres of roots on the Macdonald College Farm. These figures are kindly furnished the readers of Farm and Dairy by Mr. John Fixter, superintendent of the college farm in response to some adverse criticism of his methods of cultivation. Mr Fixter promises to furnish us in the spring with full directions as to the land to select, plowing, harrowing cultivation, etc., for both corn and roots so that others may have such excellent results as shown below, even in a very poor season. Read on another page Mr. Fixter's reply to those who have attacked him.

Yield and cost of growing 30 acres of corn:
Rent of 30 acres, at $3.00 per acre	$ 90 00
Manure ½ of rotation, at $5.00 per acre	150 00
Ploughing, at $2.00 per acre	60 00
Harrowing 4 times, at $3.00 per day, 7 days	21 00

YOUR WINTER UNDERWEAR.

From Farm and Dairy.

If your winter underclothes have shrunk until they are too small, open the seams and insert a piece from an old suit wherever needed. If the vest is too tight open the seam under the arm and set in a piece from the arm hole down. All worn out underclothes should be carefully saved. The knit underwear, especially, makes excellent floor-cloths, while parts of them can be saved for rubbing windows, furniture or the stove. Every scrap of flannel should be carefully saved since it is excellent for use in sickness, and for many other purposes.—Jessie Burns, Frontenac Co., Ont.

Cause of Car Sickness.

W. C. Wood attributes car sickness to the nystagmus produced by looking out of the car windows. Look out of a car window and observe how rapidly the telegraph poles flit by. Each one is seen and involuntarily followed by the eye until it is opposite, when the eye shifts to the one following. This is true of near buildings. Objects farther away seem to move slower, and those very far off seem to be almost stationary until the whole landscape appears to be revolving round a common center. The unconscious effort to take in everything produces a rapid lateral oscillation of the eyeballs, as any one can observe by watching the eyes of his fellow passengers. The eye strain is enormous and is the chief factor in producing car sickness. This can be proved by asking a patient who is subject to car sickness to look steadily at a mirror which is moved rapidly to and fro or tilted backward and forward. He will immediately complain of nausea and vertigo. The treatment consists of advising the patient to avoid looking out of the car windows and in giving him a grain of citrated caffeine shortly before he takes the cars and repeating it every hour as long as there is any tendency to be sick. The author has been enabled by this procedure to relieve many sufferers from car sickness.—New York Medical Journal.

The Ship's Bell Clock.

In its most ordinary form the ship's bell clock is a stout, well made clock, a good timekeeper, contained in a round nickel plated case six or seven inches in diameter which is mounted on a board that can be hung on or screwed to a wall or bulkhead. The face of the clock, the dial, is of finished steel, and its pointers are of blued steel, so that with its nickeled case the whole clock has a metallic, solid, serviceable look.

Attached to a projection of the board upon which the clock is placed, outside the clock and immediately below it, is the clock's gong, with the hammers—there are two of them—brought down into it on arms extending through an opening in the clock's case and striking on the gong's inner side. It is a sturdy gong two or three inches in diameter, and it sounds with a strong, clear, resolute note when the hammer strikes it. On this clock's face you can tell the time in the usual way, but the hours are struck as they are at sea on a ship's bell.—New York Sun.

Fresh.

There was no doubt about it. He was very angry when he entered the village grocery store and demanded to see the proprietor.

"You sold my wife some eggs yesterday, Mr. Peavey," he said when the grocer appeared.

"Waal, yes," said Mr. Peavey genially, "believe I did."

"And you told her that they were fresh eggs," continued the visitor.

"Waal, yes; it seems to me I did," said Mr. Peavey.

"But, see here, Peavey, you had no business to say they were fresh eggs."

"Why not? I bought 'em for fresh—from Si Wiley too."

"I don't believe it. Si Wiley's an honest man."

"Waal, Si said it, all right. He come in here with his basket full of 'em and put 'em down on the counter and traded 'em off for a box of sody biscuits."

"When was this?"

"Oh, I dunno. 'Bout six weeks ago, I guess."—Baltimore American.

Size of the Sun.

The size of the sun is almost as inconceivable as is its distance from us. Its diameter is 865,000 miles, and its bulk is 1,200,000 times as great as that of the earth. Perhaps a railroad illustration will help you. If a track were laid around the circumference of the sun and a train should start to make the trip it would take it five years to complete the circuit, running day and night at a speed of sixty miles an hour. At the same rate of speed a train would make the circuit of the earth in sometimes days and a half.

QUALITY FURS

Winter's wane generally makes the Furs fly, but more surely and more swiftly after a mild season like the present. The weather practically decides the price of Furs. THE DECLINE OF THE DECOLLETE GOWNS

The High Necked Evening Dress is Again in Favour.

As an indication that feminine morals have not seriously yielded to the degenerate Directoire costumes, conservative women will be glad to know that the high necked evening dress is again favoured. The yoke and collar are likely to be in some soft, transparent material, gold and silver nets are most elegant and the decolletage outlined by a band of embroidery.

These are to be the sort of evening gowns in which critical women will appear at restaurant dinners, with the smartest of the new large hats. Most of the latter exhibits contrast in light and dark materials.—Harper's Bazar.

THE CHILDREN GET MONEY LEFT CHURCH

Daughter Died Before Father's Death and Judge Decides Legacy Had Lapsed.

By the judgment of Mr. Justice Clute, the legacy of Edith Shannon, left to her by her father, the late Thomas Shannon, farmer, of Haldimand Township, Northumberland County, has lapsed. The property, amounting to $7,027.75, was divided among seven children, one son predeceasing the father without issue, and his share having lapsed. One of the seven was Edith, who was an inmate of the Kingston Insane Asylum, and it was provided that her share was to be paid to Rev. Father Whibbs, parish priest of the Campbellford Roman Catholic Church, who was to pay for the girl's maintenance, and apply the remainder at her death to the liquidation of the debt of the church. As she died before her father, the other children claimed that her share had lapsed, and that so no part of the estate should go to the priest. Mr. Justice Clute finds that the legacy did collapse. W. F. Kerr, of Cobourg, appeared for the children.

"THE NIGHT OF THE PLAY"

The Coming Treat at Grand Opera House, Saturday, February 6th—Matinee And Night.

Kathryn Osterman will present herself in the new and novel comedy, "The Night of the Play" next Saturday, Feb. 6th, Matinee and Evening, and the Osterman dimples will be very much in evidence. The clever actress has a world of strength in her comedy work, and possesses that valuable quality that can convey much meaning by a glance, the intonation of a word, the wiggle of a finger or the turn of the wrist. She is radiant. Miss Osterman is a handsome woman and clad in her beautiful and well fitting gowns, will be a delight to the feminine eye when she comes to this city in her new play. "The Night of The Play" is peculiar, if not original, having most of the fun centre about the female characters. The action is brisk and the laughs are many and come close together, which is as it should be in comedy.

Timely Assistance Saves Mother From Fever Caught By Attending Her Children

The Charity Board's duties have branched into broader lines than merely the attending to requests for fuel and food. A case was recently brought to light which demonstrates the quiet working of the Charity Department in a direction beyond their general line.

A widow in the city has two children who were taken ill with scarlet fever some time ago, and required the mother's close attention in caring for them. After a short time she caught the disease herself. A whole day passed before others learned of her condition when a trained nurse was secured to wait on her. It is stated that but a little longer neglect and the woman would have succumbed to the fever, which in its regular way had almost blocked her throat, nearly choking her. It is learned that the family is now well on the way to complete recovery, thanks to the care and watchfulness of the Charity Board.

Husband Out Of Work Has Been Presented With Twins

A young man whose financial condition is at present not the most flourishing, in fact owing to continued inactivity in the labour world, has reached rather straightened circumstances. This young benedict of a year became a father this morning. He was presented with twins and occurring just at present, the event might almost be looked upon as anything but welcome. The family have been obtaining assistance through their time of need, and the advent of two additions to the family's numerical strength will increase the father's care until he secures work to meet all such worries.

MR. CONMEE STATES THAT THE TRAIN WAS NOT A SPECIAL

Special to The Examiner.

Toronto, Feb. 1.—Mr. James Conmee, in an interview to-day, said of the so-called "Conmee Special," that it was not a special. It was a regular supply train that carried up materials to build the road, and the men evidently jumped on board, their fares not being paid by our men, for it is against the law for a railway not running passenger trains to accept fares. Personally I did not know a poll had been held till afterwards. As no protest has been lodged by Conservatives, Mr. Conmee said that he was not worrying.

THE "CANADIAN GENERAL" WORKS RESUME FULL TIME TO-MORROW

We can begin to-morrow to set our time pieces by the seven o'clock whistle of the "Canadian General." This is good news, both for what it is and for what it means in indication of the general quickening of industrial activity. It is understood that all the departments of the Canadian General Electric Company's works will take on working full time to-morrow. This intelligence will be welcome, not only to the workingmen interested, but to others whose interests are connected with pay cheques with full time figures—our merchants and business men. It is also understood, though no definite authority exists for the statement, that the inflow of orders may even necessitate working over time. At any rate we shall cease to hear the whistle announcing work at eight o'clock, and the seven o'clock warning will take its place for all over the works. The large employing capacity of these Works and the large value and wide distribution of their output gives the people of Peterborough a peculiar interest in their prosperity.

LOOKING AFTER THE CHILDREN

Peterborough, as well as Ontario at large, takes a deep interest in the child saving question and our Children's Aid Society has, perhaps, the most general popular appreciation of any organized charity. Last week Ontario was represented in the person of Mr. J. J. Kelso at a "Children's Conference," in Washington called by President Roosevelt. The conclusions of the conference, in the interest of child saving work, may be be summed up in the following:

Children of worthy parents or deserving mothers should, as a rule, be kept with their parents at home.

Society should endeavour to eradicate causes of dependency like disease and to substitute compensation and insurance for relief.

Homeless and neglected children, if normal, should be cared for in families, when practicable.

Institutions should be on the cottage plan with small units as far as possible.

Agencies caring for dependent children should be incorporated, on approval of a suitable state board.

The state should inspect the work of all agencies which care for dependent children.

Educational work of institutions and agencies caring for dependent children should be supervised by state educational authorities.

Complete histories of dependent children and their parents should be recorded for guidance of child-caring agencies.

Every needy child should receive the best medical and surgical attention, and be instructed in health and hygiene.

The local child-caring agencies should co-operate and establish just bureaus of information.

Prohibitive legislation against transfer of dependent children between states should be repealed.

A permanent organization for work along the lines of these resolutions is desirable.

Establishment of a Federal Children's Bureau is desirable, and enactment of pending bill is earnestly recommended.

Suggest special message to Congress favouring Children's Bureau and other legislation applying above principles to District of Columbia and other federal territory.

These apply more especially to United States conditions, and serve to show how far this province has advanced on the lines laid down as desirable of adoption.

TRIUMPHS OF SCIENCE.

Byron says in his apostrophe to the ocean, "man marks the earth with ruin; his control stops with Thy shores." But modern science has changed all that. The Marconi wireless system of telegraphy has put the ocean under human control to a degree impossible of conception a century or even half a century ago. A vessel falls into distress. If provided with the wireless equipment, it can sweep the sea in a radius of a thousand or two miles and summon to its aid, not "spirits from the vasty deep," but any and every vessel ploughing the deep with practicable distance, and not only that, but help can also be summoned from the shore. In other days ships in distress had, save for the one chance in thousand of a stray passing vessel, to wrestle and sink or swim alone as the case might be. After the recent experience of the magnificent benefit of the wireless equipment, it is probable that civilized nations will insist that every ship that sails the seas shall be fitted with the wireless as they are now compelled to carry life boats and life belts.

Apropos of the present dry season it may be recalled that Niagara Falls ran dry sixty years ago—March 31, 1848.

GOVERNMENT ANNUITIES.

The Dominion Government's system of annuities is so popular in character and opportunity that it can hardly, for some time at least, receive too much publicity. It is distinct from the British old age pension system, inasmuch as it lacks pauperizing tendencies, and encourages thrift and to that extent self-reliance. The Canadian system is essentially, though not exclusively, an old age pension scheme in effect. Every annuity, however, has to be earned, in the sense that the pension is the repayment in old age of sums deposited with the government. The plan is attracting favourable attention and "The Investor," in Saturday Night thus deals with it:

Sir Richard Cartwright in his plan of government annuities, now in active operation, appears to have solved to some extent the problem of aiding the working classes in the saving of the odd dollars and thus providing for the time when the day's wage or the yearly salary can no longer be earned. This scheme of government annuities is in no sense an old age pension such as Great Britain is now providing for its citizens. On the contrary it is merely a means by which those of limited income can, from time to time, deposit with the government given sums, upon which interest is paid, compounded, at the rate of four per cent. per annum. At the end of a stated period this sum, with its accumulated interest, will be paid back in yearly instalments, thus securing for one's declining years a set income which within reasonable limits will keep them free from want and independent of friends, relatives or poor houses. Whether a person be five years of age or fifty, whether he pay a lump sum or in instalments, the total amount he has to pay is the same. Another feature is that by no process of law can the annuities be taken from him, and in case of death before the annuities become payable, all payments with interest revert to the heirs.

The lack of facilities by which the comparatively poor may save the small surplus over and above the annual expenses of living, has always been a weak spot in all governments in the new world. When governments or municipalities sell bonds on this side of the Atlantic, and in most countries in Europe as well, the denominations are usually not under $1,000, and therefore the man with a few dollars to invest is excluded. The same applies to railway and all other railway securities which are to be found in the open market. If, perchance, first class bonds can be purchased in small lots, then the buyer is obliged almost invariably to pay more than the market price, and the same rule applies where small lots of stocks are purchased. France more than any country in the world has taught her people, and particularly her peasantry, to invest small savings in the bonds of the country, and this very largely accounts for the fact that France to-day is reckoned, per capita, the richest country in the world.

The Canadian Government is, and will be for many years to come, a large borrower—this is inevitable with a country in the process of development. Then, why not borrow a goodly proportion of these funds at home, as outlined in the plan of government annuities? The advantages are evident. First of all the government would pay a large sum annually, as interest, back to its own citizens, this of itself being an enormous addition to the welfare of the community. And lastly but by no means least, the citizens who become creditors by the loaning of their funds would have as security the government itself, more lasting and solvent than any banking institution, insurance company or other corporation ever can or will be.

The attention of every wage-earner is directed to a study of the Government Annuities plan. Application to the postmaster will secure a booklet issued by the government clearly explaining all necessary details.

The paid-up capital of the chartered banks of Canada is in round numbers ninety-seven million of dollars.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Civil service reform, under the Liberal Government, is not to be partial. Sir Wilfrid announced on Thursday that the outside civil service will be placed on the new basis when the reform of the inside service shall have been completed.

The rates o finterest (outside, of course, the Ottawa usurers) are at present, a financial authority states the lowest on record. The liquidation of commercial loans has permitted and permits the banks to build up large cash assets and hence money is cheap. The cash held by our banks now aggregates $93,223,000, as compared with $75,082,000 a year ago.

Mr. W. F. McLean, M.P., has been formally read out of the Conservative party, the Conservative whip refusing to put him among the Conservative contingent on the Standing Committees of Parliament. The Conservatives evidently feel justified in labelling "dangerous" the man in their party who thinks for himself—is guilty of having ideas. Sir Wilfrid Laurier was, however, fairer. He had the mistake rectified and Mr. McLean's existence as a legislator was recognized. Mr. McLean may be regarded as in a state of political suspension, but he has a way of effervescing—coming to the surface.

The Ottawa Free Press is busy in exposing the knavery of some of the money sharks at Ottawa, who fleece the members of the civil service by lending them money at rates of interest running all the way from 12 to 120 per cent. An awful state of affairs is exposed, and the sharks are having an uneasy time of it. While the so-called sharks are not to be defended, their victims, as a class, are not much to be pitied. They are chiefly civil servants who get good salaries, sufficient to give them a comfortable and respectable living. But they aim to "break into society," and so live beyond their means, get into trouble and that is when the Shylocks gets into play. The man in receipt of a good salary who lives within his income need have no fear of the money-lending sharks.

WAS IT MURDER OR AN ACCIDENT?

Philip Vansickle's Home Near Ancaster Is Destroyed.

FOUL PLAY IS ONE THEORY

Aged Farmer, Son, Daughter, and Son-in-Law Are Burned to Death Late In the Forenoon—Father of Harry Vansickle, the Son-in-Law, Maintains That the Victims Were Murdered—Trouble Over Will.

Ancaster, Ont., Feb. 1.—In a fire which destroyed their home at Jerseyville, 18 miles west of Hamilton, Saturday morning, Philip Vansickle, his son Martin, his daughter Meletta, and his son-in-law, Harry Vansickle, were burned to death. The whole affair is a mystery and many conflicting explanations of the affair are current throughout the countryside. A coroner's jury is sitting on the case and there is a great deal of doubt whether the tragedy is the result of an accident or of some terrible crime.

At 3 o'clock Friday afternoon Seth Vansickle, who lives almost opposite the burned house was there and saw Meletta, his sister; the old man, his father; and Martin, his brother. He worked in the adjoining barns, which were used jointly by the old man and his sons with Harry. When they stopped at 7 o'clock Seth went to his home and Harry went into the house.

At 8 o'clock Saturday morning Seth went to the pump outside his father's house and drew a pail of water. He says that he noticed smoke coming from the chimneys at either end of the house and concluded that those within had arisen. There were no marks of footprints to door or window that he could see at the east end of the house, which is that toward his own. He went back to his own house and did not see the other again until his cousin Peter Vansickle came rushing into his kitchen shortly after 11 o'clock crying, "Come, father's house is burning and they are all inside."

It appears that the first to notice the fire were Bert and Peter, nephews of old Philip Vansickle, who live immediately west of the homestead on opposite sides of the road. Bert with his son Stanley were at work in their barn when they noticed smoke issuing from the window sashes of the old man's house. The father sent Stanley to see what was the matter, but before he returned his father saw a little tongue of flame lick out upon the verandah which ran along the front of the house. This would be about 11 o'clock. Bert dashed across the road and told his brother Peter and then ran for the burning house.

As is the custom Peter sounded an alarm by frantically ringing the large dinner bell and then ran to join Bert in rescuing the inmates.

Meanwhile Bert had reached the house. He rushed to the east end and around to the north corner where the old man's room was situated on the ground floor.

He smashed the window to be met by a heavy cloud of pugnent smoke. Undaunted, he clambered in and, groping about in the deadly fumes, stumbled over the old man's body, lying prostrate at the door of his room, which was closed.

He dragged it to the window, but was there so nearly overcome that he was forced to drop his burden and seek the pure air without.

At this juncture Seth, who had been called by Peter, came up. Together they pulled the body through the window, throwing in pails of water to keep back the smoke. It was too late, however, the aged man was dead. The body was carried to the carriage house and the three returned to the burning building. They strove to force their way in through the east door, but were driven back by the heavy black smoke and tongues, of flames which, fanned by the air, were now burning fiercely.

A great throng had congregated, but the flames, too, had gathered strength and any further attempt at rescue was hopeless.

When the roof fell the work of searching for the bodies began. These was burned almost beyond recognition. All were mixed with debris in the cellar of the smouldering ruins.

The body of Meletta, the daughter, was found at the northeast corner of the ruins. A patch of clothing under the arm showed that she had been still wearing her night clothes, and probably in bed when overcome by the smoke.

The body of Martin, son of Philip, was found below his room in the southeast corner. Embedded in the heap of the charred remains was a bed, indicating that he had gone down with his bed.

But the body of Harry was also found near this, while the room he occupied was in the northwest corner of the building. Upon his back, stuck in the burned flesh, was a buckle of his suspenders, but his watch was found under his own room.

Here is where his father begins to doubt. "The boy never slept with Martin," he says. "He always slept alone. What was his body doing there?"

It is suggested that he went to warn the others, being awakened by the smoke. This does not satisfy the father.

"The skulls of the two men are practically missing," he declares. "Oh, I think that there is something wrong. I feel it," he keeps repeating passionately until the thing becomes uncanny.

"I think there was a fight. Someone got in from the outside. I feel it. There was a will. There was trouble over that. One of the family said that he would fight it as long as there was a penny left.

"Some thought that the girls were getting too much. That was last spring. Then I believe there was another made by old Philip six weeks or so ago, and I was told at Christmas time that that made more ill-feeling."

Only the old man's passionate belief in his doubt and declaration stands against the seeming certainty of all.

Among the theories current many are wild and tangled, but a few bear weight from the intimate knowledge of those who hold to them concerning the habits of the unfortunate victims. Mrs. Harry Vansickle, who through a lucky chance had been staying with her three children at the home of her father-in-law, Wesley Vansickle, at Trinity, and so escaped death, says that it was the habit of old Philip to get up before the others and light the fires. He was just as apt, she says, to put the shavings, used as kindling, under the stove as into it, and it is known that for a time last fall his mind was unhinged. Others believe that a burning piece of charcoal must have fallen from the stove and smouldered in the carpet, overcoming all with the fumes before the actual burst of flames.

The jury empanelled to enquire into the cause of death is a curious one in that almost every man is related to the deceased, and so are nearly all who are to be witnesses. The settlement is the growth of two or three families of United Empire Loyalists, who settled at that spot as early as 1810, coming from New Jersey. Since then they have lived almost entirely to themselves, the intermarriage of first cousins being a not unfrequent occurrence.

DISASTROUS FIRE AT GANANOQUE

Burglars Are Blamed For $100,000 Blaze Sunday Morning.

HAD BURGLARIZED STORED

Two Men Who Drove Into Hotel at Midnight and Are Said to Have Rifled Abbot's Jewelry Store, Are Thought to Be Responsible For Destruction of Opera House and a Business Block.

Gananoque, Feb. 1.—Burglars are blamed for having caused a fire early yesterday morning which completely destroyed the Grand Opera House and the Turner blocks, involving a loss of more than $100,000.

At 3.30 flames were seen bursting from the front windows of Joseph McCauley's restaurant in the Turner Block, King and Stone streets. A gale was blowing, but the firemen responded promptly and soon had five streams playing. Prospects for the destruction of King street looked so certain that Kingston was telephoned for assistance and in 40 minutes an engine and men were entrained at Kingston Junction. As the fire was then under control, a message was sent countermanding the request.

While the origin of the fire is not certain, the discovery that Walter Abbotts' jewelry store had been burglarized during the night leads to the supposition that the burglars broke into the restaurant for something to eat and that they set fire to the building to conceal the crime.

Two men are said to have driven into a hotel shed about midnight, and left about three o'clock.

The fire sufferers are: W. G. Rogers, owner of the Grand Opera House, $30,000, insured for $8,000; also proprietor of the butcher shop, loss $25,000; W. Y. Boyd, owner of Turner Block, a three-storey brick building, loss $25,000; Clifford Sine, druggist, loss $15,000, insurance $8,000; Corrigan & Co., dry goods; James McCauley, restaurant and billiard room, insured; Tiger Hockey Club rooms; Prof. Jackson, musical studio; Colonial Theatre, on top floor of Turner building; Peters Brothers, restaurant; A.O.U.W. and Canadian Order of Foresters, lodge rooms.

Walter Abbott's loss by burglary is over $500. Entrance was secured by boring 13 augur holes around the Yale lock, and knocking it in. The store is six doors away from the restaurant.

Fire at Schreiber.

Schreiber, Feb. 1.—During one of the wildest gales ever experienced in this part of the county, fire broke out on the roof of the Queen's Hotel here about 7.15 Friday night, and in less than two hours the hotel, together with the whole business block adjacent, was reduced to ashes. Only the presence of a thick stone wall between the hotel and store occupied by the Schreiber Trading Co. and postoffice, aided by the efforts of a volunteer fire brigade with the assistance of the C.P.R. fire hose, saved the latter building from destruction also. As it was, the trading company's store and stock was badly damaged by fire and water.

The following is a list of the buildings and places of business destroyed: Queen's Hotel, partly insured; H. H. Parliament, barber shop, insured; Schreiber Drug Co., drugs, total loss, insurance unknown; D. McCuaig, billiard and poolroom and tobacco store; A. Strachan, jeweler, loss $5,000, insured; P. McCuaig, bakery and confectionery store; J. H. Beamish, general merchant, loss $45,000; insurance about $35,000; E. J. O'Brien, merchant tailor, loss and insurance unknown; residence of F. Armstrong, contents saved.

K. C. McCuaig lived over the pool room and lost all his furniture.

The Schreiber Trading Co.'s stock is damaged to the extent of $6,000, covered by insurance.

Bad Blaze at St. John.

St. John, N.B., Feb. 1.—Fire early yesterday morning gutted three large establishments, Reid Bros., Dunlop & Cook, furriers, and part of A. D. Skinner's draperies.

Drank Wood Alcohol.

Orillia, Feb. 1.—James Loudfoot, a man of about 54 or 55 years of age, died here yesterday morning from the effects of drinking wood alcohol. It is reported that he had been out of town and on his return had drunk the alcohol in mistake. He had no friends or relatives here.

Everything She Ate SEEMED A BURDEN TO CARRY.

HAD STOMACH TROUBLE FOUR YEARS.

When your food has not been properly digested, your body has not received the benefit it should. The exertions of the gastric juice have been confined entirely to removing the unmasticated undigested portions of food which they cannot properly digest as speedily as possible from the body, thereby only giving the blood a small percentage of nourishment with which to feed the tissues. Burdock Blood Bitters regulates the bowels, promotes perfect digestion, makes pure blood, tones the stomach, and thus restores perfect health and strength to the debilitated system.

Mrs. D. A. Francisco, Rossland, B.C., writes: "I was suffering from stomach trouble of the worst kind for about four years. Everything I ate seemed a burden to carry. I always arose in the morning with a sickening and feverish taste in my mouth and was also troubled with swellings in my hands and feet, which my physician said was due to the disordered state of my stomach. I tried everything that was purchasable, and also consulted two or three physicians, but could find no relief until one of my neighbors told me of a wonderful cure by Burdock Blood Bitters. I used altogether ten bottles and am now perfectly cured. I wish to recommend B.B.B. to anyone who may be as unfortunate as I was.

M'BRIDE FORCED MORSE OUT.

Stone Tells Ottawa In Explanation of Resignation.

Ottawa, Feb. 1.—The resignation of F. W. Morse as vice-president and general manager of the Grand Trunk Pacific continues to be discussed here. When it was first made known that he had stepped down it was said that it was because the Government had absolutely refused to deal with him. The story now is that it was Premier McBride who forced Mr. Morse from the management of the transcontinental road.

Mr. Morse is not the smoothest man that could be named for a post of that description and of late it is said he became so obnoxious to the British Columbia Government that they refused to conduct negotiations with him, and on one occasion at the request of Mr. McBride Mr. Wainwright was despatched west to deal with the Government.

To-day the Commons will discuss the academic question of the conservatism of the natural resources of the Dominion, on a motion placed on the order paper by R. L. Borden.

WHAT IS ITCH DIRT?

It is the old Anglo-Saxon name for Dandruff and it's a good one. If you have dandruff you have itch dirt and the little microbes that are part and parcel of dandruff are working persistently night and day and sooner or later will reach the very life of your hair and destroy its vitality.

Then you'll be bald—Bald to stay—for not even the wonderful rejuvenating properties in Parisian Sage can grow hair after the hair bulb or root is dead. Parisian Sage cures Dandruff. Wm. Madill the druggist, sells it—recommends it and guarantees it; only 50 cents a large bottle and your money back if it fails to cure Dandruff, Falling Hair and Itching of the Scalp.

BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES.

Canon William Alfred Burman of Winnipeg is dead, aged 52, after ten day's illness.

That Winston Churchill may be appointed Viceroy of India is the interesting piece of gossip in circulation in political circles.

The County of Carleton Conservative Association will meet to choose a candidate on Feb. 16. The choice will be equivalent to election by acclamation.

James McAnaney, about 50 years of age, was found dead in a St. Catharines' livery stable. He had a cut over the eye. Coroner Jory has ordered an inquest.

Burglars broke into the Van Hier Gallery and stole thirty of Van Hier's best paintings, valued at $50,000. A number of international diplomatic orders were also taken.

Mike Manson of Union Bay was the unanimous choice of the Conservative convention to oppose Hon. Mr. Templeman in Comox-Atlin, but it is not thought he will go to the polls.

The Persian revolution has gained such momentum in the last few days that Shah Ali Mirza is afraid that the movement will become national and sweep his capital into the rebel ranks.

Now that the Canadian and Mexican Governments have both formally accepted President Roosevelt's invitation to attend a North American Conservation conference, the session will begin on Feb. 18.

Friends of Charles W. Morse, the convicted banker, now in the Tombs, are preparing a petition to the judges of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, asking them to admit Mr. Morse to bail pending his appeal from Judge Hough's sentence of 15 years.

Girl Conducts Elopement.

Port Huron, Mich., Feb. 1.—When the immigration authorities at Port Huron stopped Miss Jeanne Boureau, aged 24, and Hugh Lawrence, aged 20, they put an end to an elopment which reversed the usual order, the woman in this case running away with the man. The couple declared stoutly that they were married and gave another name to the officers, but finally broke down and said that they were bound from Montreal to Detroit. The girl is a pretty French-Canadian girl, while the young man is described as a "rogular Apollo." When questioned the girl told the officers that she happened to see the young man on one of the Montreal streets and had become infatuated with him. Other girls, however, took a fancy to Lawrence. Miss Boureau determined that she should have him all to herself, and finally succeeded in persuading him to start with her to Detroit, she paying all expenses. They were deported.

Queen Nearly Well.

London, Feb. 1.—Disquieting rumors have been current recently concerning the health of Queen Alexandra. Miss Knollys, her secretary, announced from Windsor Castle Saturday that the Queen has nearly recovered from her recent attack of influenza and hopes to return to London on Monday.

The Queen's physicians advise her to reserve her strength for her coming visit to Berlin, for which reason it is probable that she will not accompany the King when he goes to open Parliament.

FATAL WRECK IN NEW BRUNSWICK

Engineer Is Killed and Trainmen Are Injured.

DRIVER UNDER HIS ENGINE

Engineer Cool Loses His Life and Five Trainmen Are Hurt In Bad Smash-up Near Campbellton, N.B.—Double-Header Leaves Track as Result of Broken Rail—Both Engines Toppled Over.

Moncton, N.B., Feb. 1.—At 12.45 yesterday the British mail special, in charge of Conductor Wm. Crockett, which left Moncton about 7 o'clock yesterday morning, with a double-header, was wrecked about four miles east of Campbellton. In the engines' cabs were Drivers C. Cool of Campbellton, and A. H. Fryers, Moncton; Firemen Thomas Clark and Walter Carson, Moncton. Driver Cool, who was in the head engine, was pinned beneath the engine and was killed, while Driver Fryers was scalded about the head, arms and legs, but none of the injuries are serious. The train was made up of seven cars, five baggage cars, combination baggage and colonist, diner and sleeper. The run-off is supposed to have been caused by a broken rail. Wrecking crews were rushed to the scene with hydraulic jacks, but it was 6 o'clock last evening before the dead body of Driver Cool was taken from beneath the wrecked engine. Both engines toppled over on their sides and were transferred to other baggage cars, and were forwarded as soon as possible. At the time of the run-off the mail special was running fast, and when the head engine left the rails both locomotives were plunged into the ditch and topple over on their side. There was a heavy snowstorm on the northern division and the special plow had been running on the track for the mail special, but there was no plow on the mail train.

CORNERING MAY WHEAT.

James A. Patten Has Bought Ten to Twenty Million Bushels.

Minneapolis, Minn., Feb. 1.—Not in ten years has there been a condition in the grain trade quite like that existing in Minneapolis and Chicago now, where James A. Patten operating in both markets, has bought anywhere from 10,000,000 to 20,000,000 bushels, and presumably is out to run a corner in May wheat.

The effect always felt before a corner gets under way is now apparent in the trade. Nothing is doing. Dealers agree that, as Patten stands and takes delivery of his wheat bought for May delivery, prices might easily advance to $1.25 or higher. They see also that in the grand statistics of the country he has the advantage, for there is not a great quantity of wheat in the United States, consumptive and export demand considered, and the present outlook is for a winter wheat crop next season smaller than for several years.

The exporting and manufacturing end of the business is getting the adverse effect. Buyers are afraid to stock up with flour or flour by-products or with grain, either wheat or other cereals, for fear that, should the Patten crowd ever decide to give up the deal and throw their holdings of wheat on the market, great decline in prices might follow.

The result of it is a deadlock. Prices fluctuate in narrow range and all business is down to minimum.

Tree Falls on Him.

Hamilton, Feb. 1.—Bertram Wylie, 20 years of age, the son of a Glanford farmer, lies in the City Hospital with a broken back and paralysed from the waist down. With his father, brother and uncle, he was engaged in cutting down the stub of a maple tree about a foot and a half in diameter and about 12 feet high. After they had nearly finished cutting it off at the stump, the young man, who is six feet tall and weighs 180 pounds, climbed up in the tree in order that his weigh might incline the tree in the desired direction, when it fell. His instructions were to jump when the tree began to fall, but his foot slipped and the tree fell on him. Dr. James White performed an operation on him and he has been placed on a water bed. Slight hopes of his recovery are entertained.

AFTER GRIPPE

Vinol Restored Mrs. Partridge's Health After All Other Means Had Failed—Read Her Statement.

"The grippe left me in a very weakened and run-down condition—no appetite, thin, nervous and no vitality. Nothing seemed to help me until a friend brought me a bottle of Vinol, the cod liver and iron preparation. I commenced to take it and it gave me a hearty appetite, my health and strength returned until I felt like a new creature. I consider Vinol a wonderful medicine for any one who has had a severe sickness. It makes strength and vitality so fast." Mrs. G. I. Partridge, Franklin, Mass.

Vinol is a modern cod liver and iron preparation free from taste of oil and agreeable to the weakest stomach.

Vinol is recognized throughout the world as the greatest strength creator for old people, weak, sickly women and children, and after a severe sickness and for chronic coughs and colds. Those who try Vinol and receive no benefit may have their money back. McDermid & Jury, drugg sts corner George and Charlotte streets also Payne's drug store, corner of George and Simcoe streets.

WHERE THE HAND OF THE LAW IS POWERLESS

Cleveland Court Tells Father That His Daughter Has Liberty to Sit In Her Beau's Lap.

Cleveland, Ohio, Feb. 1.—A girl has a perfect right to sit upon her beau's knee, according to an informal decision of Judge George S. Addams, of the Juvenile Court.

A father asked Judge Addams to issue a warrant for the arrest of his sixteen year old daughter. He told the Judge that he happened downstairs at 11.30 p.m., and found the young lady sitting upon the knee of a young man caller. She had her arms around his neck.

"I told my daughter to go to bed at once, and ordered the young man to leave," said the father. "The young man kissed my daughter 'good-bye' right before my eyes. I want you to teach her a lesson."

"There is no law against a young lady sitting on the young man's knee," said Judge Addams. "No court in the land would interfere with your daughter for doing that."

The father went away angry and didn't leave his name.

Y. W. C. A. NOTES.

Dr. Greer's class will meet as usual to-morrow evening at 8 o'clock. Miss Nicholls' class in English will meet at 7.30 to-morrow. Mr. Mowat will commence a new course of study with his literary class on Thursday evening. All members of the Association welcome to this most interesting hour.

It was decided at the last Board meeting to meet on the morning of the first and third Tuesday of each month, at 10.30, for prayer, also on the second and fourth Saturday afternoon at 3.30. We invite all interested to join with us in prayer tomorrow morning.

ANNIVERSARIES OF WEDDINGS

Not all anniversaries are so romantically named as the sixtieth and fiftieth which are known respectively as diamond and golden. The first anniversary, for example, is known as the "cotton wedding." The reason for the name is said to arise out of the gift of cotton stuffs for baby's clothing, which is likely to be very necessary about a year after their marriage, in ordinary circumstances.

On the same principle the experts call the third anniversary the "leather wedding," for the reason the leather enters about this time more largely into the making of children's boots than heretofore. Why the fifth anniversary is called the "wooden wedding," is not so clear, nor is any reason very well ascribable to the term "tin wedding," which is celebrated on the tenth anniversary of the happy event.

If a couple have dwelt in happiness twelve years, it is customary among men folk who honour traditions to present their wives with silk garments; hence the "silk wedding." The "crystal wedding" takes place on the fifteenth anniversary of the marriage, the "china wedding" on the twentieth, when a set of chinaware is presented to the couple by the husband to the wife. The "silver wedding" takes place on the twenty-fifth anniversary; the "pearl" on the thirtieth and the "ruby wedding" on the fortieth anniversary.

"PRIVATE SECRETARY," TO-NIGHT, FEBRUARY 1ST

The scene of this delightful comedy, which was played by the famous Chas. Hawtrey in London, and by Wm. Gillette, (Author of "All the Comforts of Home") in New York, opens in a boarding and lodging house in London, England, and the peculiar entanglements that follow are even funnier than those of "All the Comforts of Home." Douglas Cattermole is a lodger in this house which is run by Mrs. Stead, and he has an uncle, Cattermole, in India, who is a multi-millionaire, and who will not give him a cent until he has sown his wild oats as he expresses it. Douglas, Cattermole's nephew, has signed notes and run up bills to an enormous extent and he is almost in despair when Harry Marsland his pal, arrives on the scene and suggests that he should go on a visit to his uncle Marsland and palm himself off as "The Private Secretary" for whom his uncle has advertised, and thus keep out of the clutches of the law. Before their departure, however, they arrange for the real "Private Secretary" Spalding, to remain in London and they are only at the uncle's house a short time before the real "Private Secretary" arrives, and what follows after that is too funny to tell. The real Private Secretary is an English Church Curate, who is very effeminate, educated, but innocent and cold, with a smileless, expressionless face, a child in worldly matters, who does not know when he is imposed on, and if he did not spirit enough to resent it. Douglas, the pseudo Private Secretary, is just the opposite. Those two characters are very funny and so are Mrs. Stead, the lodging house keeper; Mr. Cattermole, from the wilds of India; Miss Ashford, the guardian of Marsland's girls; Harry, Douglas' chum, Edith, Eva, and Gibson, the tailor, are all excruciatingly funny parts. The cast is an exceptionally good one and a delightful performance may be expected. The "Private Secretary" has had a tremendous vogue in England, and was recently revived in Chicago with immense success. It is comedy that is comedy clean and true. At the Grand Opera House to-night.

Emigration Plans Are Already Beginning To Be Prepared

Department to Bring Out Only Experienced Men for Farm Work— Farmers are Asked to File Applications Early.

A LETTER REPRODUCED

The spring emigration this year will likely be completed and from what has already been learned there will not be any more persons brought out than there is work for. Mr. E. Blake Robertson of the Emigration department was in the city a few days ago and met the local agents the result of the conference being that Mr Howson has asked that all those farmers looking for help for the coming year should file their applications early in order that the number desired for this district may be ascertained. It is thought that the emigration will be concluded by the last of April. Already there have been farmers looking for men to help in the farm work, but it is still a difficulty to obtain those who are willing to work with farmers.

An example of this oft cited story occurred on Saturday. Two men applied for the names of farmers who wanted men and were told where to go, but on leaving the emigration office they turned over to George street not going up Water street as they were directed. The kind of men who will be brought out will likely be experienced farm hands as the agents across the water realize that they are the only men who can succeed at farm work.

A clipping from the Sheffield Daily Telegraph an English paper contains the following letter which was written by Mr. Geo. Howson, the local officer.—

Mr. Dawson, of 7 Haymarket, Sheffield, has received a letter dated December 29th, from the Official Government Employment Agent at Peterborough, Ontario, Canada, asking for farm hands and domestic servants. Says the writer—"Already the farmers are beginning to inquire for help for the coming season, and I remember that you sent me some good farm hands in the year just closing so I write to ask you to send me a few men to work on the farm. I will be able to place 100 single, experienced farm labourers, 25 single, unexperienced, but they must be willing to go on the land, otherwise they are only a source of bother and loss to us, and 50 good servant girls. I can also place a few married couples, those without children preferred."

PAPER ON LIFE OF BISHOP McQUAID

Ladies' Literary Society of St. Peter's T. A. S. Heard Splendid Reference to Late Prelate's Earthly Efforts.

THE REGULAR MEETING-

On Friday evening the regular meeting of the Ladies' Literary Society of St. Peter's T.A.S. was held and a very enjoyable programme run off. The essay of the evening was on Right Rev Bernard J. McQuaid, late Bishop of Rochester, N.Y., and was read by Miss V. Donoghue. The essayist sketched, as a preliminary, the very early career of Bishop McQuaid: his birth in New York City on December 15th, 1823, his early studies at Chambly College, Quebec, and afterwards at St. John's College at Fordham, where for three years after his graduation he remained as tutor. He was ordained to the priesthood in 1844, by the Rt. Rev. John Hughes, in the old Cathedral in New York. From that time on his whole life was a continual struggle, but this struggle was his delight as he himself said. "My life has been one long struggle, but out of a struggle comes strength; the peaceful life is not the happy one; we are only happy when we are striving to overcome obstacles. Struggle which ends in achievement is the force that makes life worth living." Bishop McQuaid's first work was in New Jersey, where he was appointed to the arduous duties of a missionary priest, and where he began his great work of education, realizing that the school is one of the bulwarks of the Church, and at Morristown he organized the first Catholic School in New Jersey State. His administrative ability was also shown early in his career. He mapped out new territory in which to establish missions, and it was not long until they developed into realities. In 1853 the New Jersey territory was separated from the diocese of New York and Bishop McQuaid was transferred to Newark where he assisted Bishop Bailey with his duties. In 1868 he was appointed to preside over the deliberations of Seton Hall, and some years later was consecrated Bishop of Rochester. He was raised out of the great diocese of Buffalo, he was appointed Bishop Chancellor of the new See and founded at once the Cathedral school in Rochester. Organ followed and during the pastorate of Bishop McQuaid and interested among the members of the United States Hierarchy. He established St Andrew's College and in 1893 St. Bernard's Seminary was opened, and this magnificent College stands to-day as a monument of Bishop McQuaid's unceasing zeal in the interests of education.

In civic life Bishop McQuaid took an active part. When Fort Sumter was fired upon by the Confederates, he preached the first sermon in the land in favour of the preservation of the Union. In Rochester his work on the Park Board shows how highly he esteemed his duty as a citizen. He laboured for the establishment of the park system, aiding in forming plans which made Rochester famous for its parks.

His oratorical ability was well known and he was a writer of great force, contributing many articles, not only to Catholic magazines, but also to the North American Review.

He was always prompt to co-operate, often at great and difficult sacrifice of time and effort in the promotion of municipal improvement. He was a man of remarkable commercial skill and rare financial acumen, and watched with undisguised satisfaction the upbuilding of many a great manufacturing and commercial establishment in Rochester.

Not only by Catholics will the death of Bishop McQuaid, which took place on Jan. 18th last, be mourned, but also by the non-Catholic citizens to whom he showed a disinterested public service and a clear vision of public interest. In so doing he set a standard to be followed by his own people, and to be respected by all of whatever creed or belief.

Miss Eugenie Picard occupied the chair and presented the following musical programme:—

Instrumental Duet, Misses Tremblay and Tanguay.

Vocal Solo, Miss E. Jayes.

Instrumental Duet, Misses Hatrick and Gorman.

God Save the King.

The next regular meeting of the Society will be held on February 12th, when Rev. Father Galvin will deliver a lecture.

DEATH OF REV. FATHER TWOMEY

Funeral to be Held on Tuesday Morning in Belleville.

Rev. Father Twomey, parish priest of Belleville, died very suddenly Saturday morning in Belleville. He had been ailing for the past ten days, but not seriously. Saturday morning, however, serious symptoms developed and the deceased sank rapidly and passed away at eleven o'clock. The news was received here with deep sorrow as the Rev. Father Twomey was well known here. The first announcement of his death was made in St. Peter's Cathedral Sunday morning. The deceased was about 55 years of age. He had been in Belleville for the past four years, going there from Tweed. He leaves a brother, Rev. Dean Twomey, of Williamstown, and one sister in Cornwall. The funeral will be held on Tuesday morning, and will be attended by a number from this city.

Belleville, Feb. — Special. — Rev Father D A Twomey, who died here Saturday, was born in the City of Cork, Ireland, in 1850. He came to Canada in 1873 and took a course in St. Michael's Seminary, Montreal. He was ordained priest in 1882, and became curate for the present Archbishop Gauthier when the latter was rector at Williamstown. He was also curate at Prescott for a time. He was parish priest at Morrisburg for some time, he was rector of St. Michael's Cathedral at Kingston and was also Catholic chaplain of the Kingston Penitentiary. From there he went to Tweed, where he spent four years and his work was most successful. He came to Belleville in 1905 and his work here since then is well known. To his efforts is due the splendid new church and school. The remains will lie in state at St. Michael's Church from Monday afternoon till the funeral on Tuesday.

COUNTY RULERS WERE IN SESSION

A Resume of Their Visit on Municipal Business to the City—In Committee and Out.

NOTES OF THEIR STAY.

The past week saw the County Council's sessions begun and satisfactorily concluded after a week of business and a certain amount of pleasure. The members met on Tuesday and brought their affairs to an end on Saturday morning after which the reeves of Peterborough's Townships returned to their homes, after a week in the city. The councillors take great interest in all the proceedings of their session and there is little matter which is turned from their hands before having received careful consideration.

The committee rooms are warm and cosy and are conducive to deliberation and when any of the committees are preparing a report every clause is carefully considered before going to the council. The members of the council are genial and friendly and the atmosphere of their meetings is one of harmony which results in everything being settled amicably as well as in a businesslike manner. Those of the members who are inclined to smoke will sometimes fill their pipes in committee and lead the way to others, but there is on the whole but little smoking, everybody being apparently wrapped up in the discussion at hand.

The rendezvous of the members during their week in the city is the Munro House. The great majority of them register there when they arrive in the city and it is generally understood that the sitting room is the congregating place after supper and between times.

Here they meet their town acquaintances, chat over various matters which very often lead back to the doings of the council. Something happens during the day in the meetings, which is still fresh in the memory at night, and they must of course talk it over. One of the week's success was the banquet which everyone thoroughly enjoyed.

On Saturday afternoon an Examiner reporter visited the Munro House and found quite a number of the councillors gone. The several who remained, however, stated that they had enjoyed their week in the city and thought from the feeling at the banquet that there was a more sympathetic understanding between the County Council and the different departments which carry on the city's affairs, and they expressed the hope that this would increase in time and the interests of the two municipalities become welded for their common good.

In an answer to a query one of the men stated that they had been well treated by the townspeople, "but," he remarked, "it is only a few that we meet. As a general rule we see but few outside of our own friends or relatives."

ST. PETER'S T. A. S. AT HOME

MUSIC AND DRAMA

Mabel Barrison frankly admits she doesn't know whether she believes in dreams or not. She rather believes that her dreams are the result of what she eats the night before.

She doesn't dream very often and only recalls one that ever really came true. This was a most unusual dream and one for which she has never been able to account.

Several years ago, while she was living in Chicago, she dreamed one night that she was standing in the door of a little cottage in which she had spent some time during the summer. The cottage faced on a long broad avenue and as she looked down the street she saw a procession approaching. It appeared to be a funeral procession and as it drew nearer she noticed that the first vehicle seemed to be a cage affair, which was evidently run by electricity as there were no horses in sight. On the box sat a driver in blue uniform, with an ashen grey complexion and a deep red scar on his left cheek.

The procession came slowly toward the gate in front of the door where Miss Barrison was standing, and there it stopped. Miss Barrison looked at the man and the man looked at her for a moment, then he said, rather nervously, "Well, madame, are you ready?"

At this point Miss Barrison awoke with a start. The dream impressed itself upon her mind very strongly and stayed with her all the next day. The second day after this she had occasion to go down to the Masonic Temple Building to see her attorney, whose offices were on the seventh floor. When she had transacted her business and was ready to leave, she stepped out in front of the elevator and pressing the button, waited for a car. As it came down the man threw back the door and she seemed to recognize the blue uniform, the ashen grey complexion and the deep red scar on his left cheek.

For an instant she couldn't recall where she had seen him and hesitated. As she did so the man grew impatient and said: "Well, madame, are you ready?" At the words Miss Barrison recalled her dream and, although she had one foot almost in the car, she drew it back, telling the man to go on, she had changed her mind.

The man closed the door and the car dropped to the basement, instantly killing him and injuring two of its occupants.

I should think after a dream of this kind any one would believe in dreams. —Telegraph.

POST CARD COLUMN

Editor Post Card Column:

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—As a citizen, and one who is much interested in the good and welfare of our splendid city, I would like to express my opinion, on the much discussed question regarding the retention of our present fire chief.

While the chief has had a very difficult task to perform in the organization of the new fire brigade, in succession to the old system, I believe he now has a brigade of much efficiency. The city has been most fortunate in not having any very serious fires since the installation of the new brigade, but should a disastrous fire occur, I believe the chief an dhis men are equal to the occasion. I believe him to be the right man in the right place as a fire fighter. On the other hand I think he has made a very serious mistake in many ways and that he should be severely censured, with a final warning. Let him that is without fault cast the first stone. In consideration of the interests of the efficiency of our fire department, I sincerely hope our Mayor and City Aldermen will approve of a final chance. All things considered, this would not be asking more than anyone of us would wish, under similar conditions. Thanking you.

Yours sincerely,
"CITIZEN."

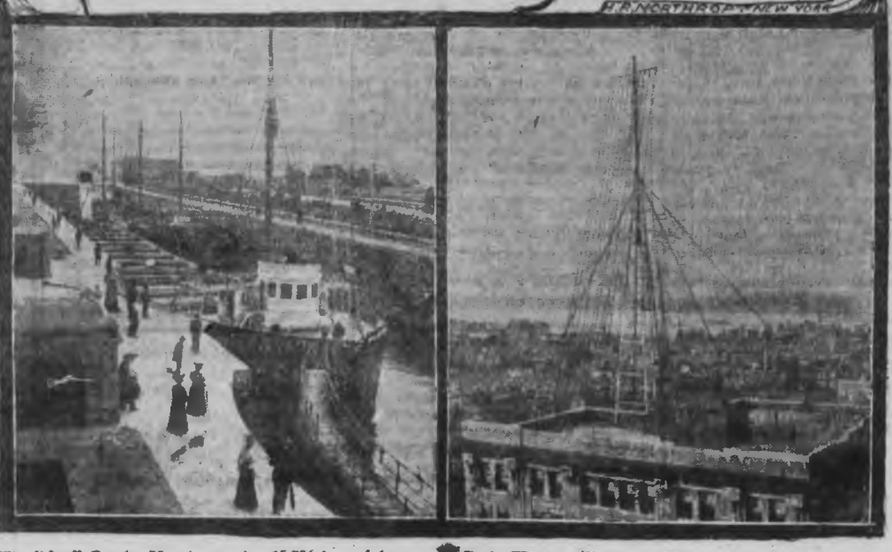
WHAT THE WIRELESS TELEPHONE IS DOING FOR THE GREAT LAKES

COMMANDER LEIGH AT BROOKLYN NAVY YARD SENDING MESSAGES BY RADIO WIRELESS APPARATUS

U. S. NAVY OPERATORS SCHOOL INSTRUCTING "JACKIES" IN THE DE FOREST WIRELESS TELEPHONE SYSTEM

ONE OF THE HUGE PASSENGER STEAMERS THAT HELPED CARRY 16,000,000 PEOPLE ON THE GREAT LAKES LAST SEASON — THE ILLINOIS

A NEW STEEL FIVE-DECKER PASSENGER VESSEL WHICH EQUIPPED WITH THE WIRELESS TELEPHONE — THE THEODORE ROOSEVELT



The "Soo" Canal—Vessels carrying 15,736 tons of iron ore passing through the locks.

Radio Wireless Telephone Tower—On the roof of the Terminal Building in New York.

WIRELESS telephony, that latest, and in many ways greatest, wonder of this electrical age, is on the eve of working a complete revolution in the methods of handling the enormous shipping of the Great Lakes.

Already, at scores of points along the lakes, the towering poles of the wireless telephone system, each with its antennae of wires, are being put in place so that by next Spring the system which already has made itself invaluable to the great Pacific fleet of our navy, as well as to the navies of Great Britain and Italy, will be in use from end to end of the chain of America's inland seas. By use of this system marine insurance rates will be reduced to a minimum, owing to the fact that all storm warnings may be transmitted immediately to lake vessels so that they will have ample time to make safe harbors and, used in conjunction with the enormous existing land system of wire telephones, will make it possible for persons either on the shores of the lakes or hundreds of miles away, to talk with officers of or passengers on any of the vessels engaged in the lake trade.

Without the enormous expense of wire maintenance that is necessary for the wire 'phone systems, and also without the expense of an expert operator as is necessary with wireless telegraph systems, the use of the wireless telephone will be within financial reach of the most modest sailing craft plying from port to port.

Few persons, even those directly connected with commerce on the Great Lakes, realise the enormous interests represented in that trade; therefore few realize the vast boon conferred by the latest electrical marvel. Eighty per cent. of all the water tonnage of North America is carried on the Great Lakes. Thirty thousand craft of all classes today are engaged in the lake trade, and the lake shipyards are from one to three years behind on their orders from lake ship-owners. Although one-half of all the vessels built in the Western Hemisphere in 1908 were for the Great Lakes trade, the need for more bottoms has become so acute that steamship companies engaged in the trade recently have been obliged to go to English and Scotch shipyards with orders.

An Enormous Fleet.

The freight conveyed over these waters during 1908 was more than seven times as much as the whole world carried through the Suez Canal in the same time. Four thousand freight steamers, 250 big passenger steamers and about 25,000 pleasure and other craft comprise the enormous Great Lakes fleet, which uses upwards of three million tons of coal in a single year, or enough to heat every house in Chicago for three years.

The Pittsburg Steamship Company, which is merely the carrier of the United States Steel Corporation, alone owns ships with a combined capacity of 650,000 tons of ore during a single trip. If the ships of this company alone were placed end to end they would cover a distance of eight miles and during the eight months of Great Lakes navigation each year they carry as much freight from Lake Superior to Lake Erie ports as all the vessels of the world take through the Suez Canal in a whole year. In weight of freight annually handled, Buffalo and Duluth are the world's greatest ports, while the tonnage handled at Ohio ports alone exceeds that of all the ports of France. During 1907 approximately 100,000,000 tons of freight were shipped in Great Lakes bottoms. This would be enough to fill 2,500,000 forty-ton freight cars, or a train that would girdle the earth and extend from New York to San Francisco in addition. Before than 90 per cent of this immense total consisted of 37,513,000 tons of iron ore, 14,000,000 tons of coal, 110,098,927 bushels of grain, 1,159,757 tons of flour, 14,888,027 bushels of flaxseed and more than 1,000,000,000 feet of lumber.

Greatest of all lines of lake traffic is that in iron ore, and some 800 giant steamers are engaged solely in its carriage. This ore commerce has doubled during the last six years and the steel men believe it will be doubled again during the next ten, for three little patches in the Great Lakes country produced in 1908 nearly half of the world's total supply of iron.

Total Tonnage for 1908.

During 1908 200,000,000 bushels of grain and 11,000,000 barrels of flour were shipped from Lake ports, the grain shipments from Port Arthur and Port William alone being well over 80,000,000 bushels. At least 99,000,000 bushels of wheat, 60,000,000 bushels of other grain and 7,500,000 barrels of flour passed through the "Soo" canals and 50,000,000 bushels of grain, conservatively represent the total shipments from Chicago, Milwaukee and other ports whose eastbound commerce does not pass through these canals. The year's lumber shipments aggregated nearly 1,500,000,000 feet, or enough to build more than 75,000 houses of eight rooms each.

Taking the "Soo" canal as its center and drawing a circle having a radius of 350 miles, it would be found to include four of the world's greatest ports, Buffalo, Cleveland, Chicago and Duluth. Within the circle or upon its circumference are such other ports as Detroit, Toronto, Dunkirk, Erie, Conneaut, Ashtabula, Lorain, Sandusky, Toledo, Gary, Milwaukee, Ashland, Superior and Port Arthur. The eight states along the Great Lakes are in reality the heart and power of the nation. Within their borders dwell 35,000,000 people and upon their shores center the greatest industries of the world. Should the lakes disappear suddenly the industrial supremacy of the United States would receive a staggering blow from which it might never recover and more than half the population of the nation would be vitally affected. The steel industry would come to an untimely end.

With all the great shipyards straining every effort to meet the demands of the lake commerce, shippers agree that they never will be quite able to meet the requirements of the traffic. Everywhere from Duluth to Buffalo the shipping is crowded. In many cases dangerously so. The greatest ocean ports never have known such blockades as Duluth has seen on more than one occasion. During one month alone last year there were 1,221 arrivals and clearances at this port, an average of forty a day. Steamers pass through the Detroit River on an average of one every twelve minutes, night and day. Harbors and canals must be enlarged to facilitate the growing business and unless there is some means available for the protection of this vast shipping, the tragedies of this next decade will be greater than those of all the past. In the wireless telephone it is believed that protection has been found.

Storms Do Terrific Damage.

The Great Lakes are known as the most treacherous highway in the world. Great storms, coming up at a few hours notice, do enormous damage to shipping. Scores of vessels suddenly and mysteriously disappear each year, leaving no trace behind them. According to the records more than $15,000,000 worth of freight has been lost on the lakes, involving the wrecking of 14,000 vessels and the total loss of more than 2,000 ships. During the last thirty years, in which time the records have been practically complete, the wrecked vessels numbered some 8,000, nearly 1,600 of which were total losses, while the loss in cargoes alone has exceeded $12,000,000 in this same period. A notable case in point occurred in 1900 when the steamer "Fiazg" went down with a cargo of metal worth $1,250,000, [illegible] of which was later recovered. One of the most horrible disasters in the whole history of the Great Lakes was the wrecking of the "Griffin" and her destruction near Cleveland, involving the loss of 250 lives. Thousands of other casualties mark the history of the [illegible] of Great Lakes storms.

During the first week of October, 1908, a record [illegible] vessels were wrecked during a severe storm. The net losses during this week were not far from $1,000,000. Warnings of the storm that caused this damage were posted by the United States Weather Bureau eight hours in advance and, had the lake vessels been equipped with wireless telephone apparatus at the time, every one would have had ample opportunity to have made port or a safe harbor. As it was, they had no warning of impending danger.

Another great peril to lake shipping is that of collision and conditions in this respect grow worse from day to day. During the whole eight months of the shipping season each year, scarcely a day passes without one or more collisions. These conditions, which of course are especially acute in time of fog, could be almost entirely obviated by wireless telephonic communication from ship to ship and, as all the dangers which surround the shipping interests on the lakes naturally compel the exaction of excessive insurance rates, this in turn reacts upon the freight tariffs so that the overcoming of the perils from storm and collision means a material reduction in cost of present lake transportation which, in spite of every existing obstacle, is exceptionally low.

Safeguard Against Extortion.

It is an admitted fact that the Great Lakes constitute the nation's chief safeguard against oppressive railroad rates. They are the regulators of our great commerce and the traffic on the lakes saves to the people of the United States $500,000,000 annually, or $6 for every man, woman and child of our population. Transportation over the lake waters in modern steamships costs from one-fifteenth to one-quarter of the prevailing railroad rates. It costs only two cents per bushel to ship grain from Duluth to Buffalo and only eighty cents to carry a ton of ore between these two points. This is only one-seventh the cost of railroad transportation for the same commodities between the same ports.

In passenger rates nearly a like difference is shown. During the season of 1908 the splendid passenger service of the Great Lakes was used by more than 10,000,000 people and the ratio of increase indicates that this total will be doubled in less than a decade. The railroad fare between Detroit and Buffalo is $7, but by steamer one can travel the 440 miles between these ports for $2.50, while one day each week a fare of $1.25 prevails.

The future of the Great Lake commerce is something so vast that none but the most venturesome would chance a prophecy. With the great Mississippi system to the southwest, soon to be connected with Lake Michigan by way of the ship canal which Chicago is building into the Illinois River, vessels will be enabled shortly to pass from the Great Lakes down the Mississippi to the Gulf. To the northwest lies the great wheat country of central North America, the focal point of which is the growing city of Winnipeg, located at the junction of the Assiniboine, now navigated for 300 miles, and the Red River of the North, up which steamers can go to the Minnesota, through the great wheat fields of the United States, thus bringing her sphere of influence south to Grand Forks and Fargo in the Dakotas.

Lake Winnipeg, which is as large as Lake Erie, now is being connected by locks with the Saskatchewan River system, navigable for nearly 1,000 miles into the very heart of the world's greatest grain fields. Soon this great inland water system, centering in Winnipeg, will have an outlet into Lake Superior by means of a canal running through the Winnipeg River, already navigable for 200 miles; Lake-of-the-Woods, Rainy River, Rainy Lake, Namekan Lake, Loon Lake, Nequokan Lake and others, requiring only a few miles of actual canal building to bring down to Thunder Bay the product of a region which already is becoming the world's granary, although the Canadian grain trade is but in its infancy.

Projects To Relieve Congestion.

The congestion in the Detroit River is to be relieved by two Canadian projects giving free outlet over British soil to the shipping of the great Northwest. The first of these, the Georgian Bay project, is to take in the French River, Lake Nipissing and the Ottawa River, thus connecting Lake Huron with the St. Lawrence at Montreal. The second, the Trent Navigation project, now is open from Lake Simcoe to the head of Hailey's Falls, a distance of 135 miles. Nearly all the unfinished portion is under contract.

In a few years the movement of ore to feed the hungry furnaces of Pittsburg will be by an all-water route, as a canal from Ashtabula to the great city of iron and steel will do the work of fifteen railroads at the cost of one.

Today the Great Lakes hold the key to the commercial supremacy of America. Great capitalists, of course, are vitally interested in the traffic but most of the shipping on the Lakes belongs to the masses, the stock in the owning companies being held by hundreds of thousands. As the shares are among the most profitable and the safest investments in the world they have become the property of small investors such as farmers, mechanics and clerks and it is an interesting fact that one-third of the farmers in the lake counties of Ohio have money invested in lake shipping.

Of all the needs of Great Lakes ships and shippers the greatest is for an adequate and reliable means of communication from ship to ship and from ship to shore. It is to meet this demand that hundreds of artisans and mechanics now are engaged in the construction of wireless telephone stations along the shores of the Lakes and in installing instruments on the Lake vessels.

No sooner had the wireless telephone become a commercial practicability, through the perfected inventions of Dr. Lee de Forest, who previously had won distinction in the wireless telegraph field, than its adaptation became a matter of greatest concern to the shipping interests of the lakes. When the De Forest system was installed and successfully tested by the United States Navy with the result that Admiral Evans was able to be in constant vocal communication with all the officers and ships of the great Pacific fleet on its cruise from Hampton Roads through the Straits of Magellan and thence to San Francisco, there came insistent demands for an adequate wireless telephone system for the lakes. Although the American Navy was the first to utilize wireless telephony, it since has been installed on many of the ships of the Italian Navy, while the navy of Great Britain is following the same course with all possible speed.

What Wireless Telephony Has Done.

Already, from the station which the De Forest people installed at the top of the Eiffel Tower in Paris, tests have been made which carried the human voice clear and distinct to beyond Marseilles, 600 miles away. In this country successful tests have been made for a distance of 150 miles, but when the new station is completed in the fifty-second story of the huge Metropolitan Life campanile in this city, it is confidently expected by the wireless telephone experts that they can project the voice much further than at the Paris tests. In fact, the inventor, de Forest, has declared that within a short time he will be able to send messages between these two greatest stations so that the voice spoken in New York may be distinctly and immediately heard in Paris.

When one considers that thirty years ago the present wire telephone system was laughed at as being nothing more than a clever toy, and that Prof. Alexander Graham Bell nearly wore his heart and soul out trying to get the small sum of money needed to construct his small test line for three miles from Boston to Somerville, the suggestion of wireless talking from New York to Paris is not to be considered as a smile-provoking proposition.

In establishing its system of wireless telephony it already has been announced by the Great Lakes Radio Telephone Company, of Cleveland, which controls the De Forest system for the territory in question, that it will work in conjunction with all the existing wire telephone systems, whether Bell or independent. By a simple contrivance the wire 'phone system can be connected with the wireless system at any of the latter's central stations so that a person located at a regular long distance telephone in New York, for instance, can be connected through a wireless station at Cleveland and hold conversations with a business associate traveling as a passenger on a steamer out in the middle of Lake Erie.

Each central wireless station will have its apparatus attuned to a certain number of vibrations on the principle of a tuning fork. The attuning of an instrument can be changed by a switch, just as the switchboard of a central wire station can be regulated by the insertion of plugs. In this way when a Lake steamer, for instance, desires to talk with Cleveland, its operator will throw the switch to the number of vibrations called for by Cleveland. When the wire instrument on the steamer is in repose, it will drop back to a certain specific number of vibrations so that it can be reached by any central station calling its number, or, by means of an Acrephone automatic signalling device, can be reached by any station sending out storm signals in darkness or fog. In this way each instrument can be so regulated that it can either take up general calls from any direction or only specific calls for its own number, as might be desired.

No Franchises Are Required.

One of the advantages of the wireless telephone is that it does not require a franchise right to operate or a right of way from any government, state or municipality. It talks through the air and is the only known method of vocal intership communication or of talking from ship to shore. In case of fog or storm the sound of the human voice, projected by this means, is as clear and distinct as at any other time, and the invention is therefore peculiarly adapted for safety signals and life-saving service. A distinct advantage of the wireless 'phone over the wire 'phone is that the buzz of the wire always is absent. As any ship's officer can talk by wireless 'phone as readily as by wire 'phone on shore, all expense of an expert operator is eliminated and the apparatus is placed within the reach of the most modest boat afloat.

The antennae wires of the apparatus are strung to the masthead of the ship by means of hempen rope, and are braced apart by a needle or spar of wood. The wireless telephone, just as the wireless telegraph, depends upon the projection of electric waves that pass through the atmosphere, and solid substances as well, with the velocity of light, which is 180,000 miles a second or more than seven times the circumference of the globe.

The mechanical principles upon which the wireless telephone depend seem to be simple enough, although there is a great difference of opinion as to the actual explanation of the phenomena of wireless telephony. Speech is the formation of very rapid complex and ever-varying series of vibrations of the air and their measurement by the nerves of the ear. Owing to the resistance of the atmosphere, these vibrations grow weaker and at last disappear as we get further from the source of disturbance. Telephony is the art of translating these vibrations of the air into vibrations of ether whose lesser resistance enables them to be carried to great distances for translation into air vibrations again, as only the air vibrations can be measured by the ear. In the wireless telephone the air waves are translated into the vibration of an electrical discharge which oscillates the ether.

One exceptionally valuable feature of the wireless telephone, which the United States Government is utilising as rapidly as possible, is its adaptability to the lighthouse and lightship service. Because of the absence of wire maintenance charges it costs no more to talk from shore to a lighthouse or a lightship than it would cost to talk between two blocks of a congested city district, and the lighthouse keeper or lightship people need have no expert training in order to operate the apparatus.

Government Shows Its Appreciation.

At every turn the Government has shown its appreciation of the invention, which, in addition to having been installed on the thirty odd battleships, cruisers and torpedo-boat destroyers of the Pacific fleet before they started on their voyage around the world, has also been installed at Fortress Monroe, Mare Island and other army posts.

Still another feature of the invention, or rather the benefit that may be derived from it, is for the supplying of music and other forms of entertainment to passengers traveling on the passenger vessels. A service of this kind, aided by a huge receiver so that all of the passengers gathered in a large salon could hear the music or operatic airs simultaneously, should prove a most welcome innovation for steamship travelers. It is within the range of possibilities, at an early date, that the traveler by Great Lakes steamer may be able to spend his evenings listening to the voices of Caruso or Melba simultaneously with the audiences who see the singers in person at Covent Garden, London, or the Metropolitan or Manhatian Opera Houses in New York.

With the first great long distance wireless station nearing completion at Toledo, with twenty-five other long distance stations already contracted for construction along the lake front, with work going ahead on seventy-five smaller shore stations and with fifty odd more already projected, there is reason to expect that, by the time Great Lakes navigation opens in the Spring for the season of 1909, the wireless telephone system will be in full operation on the Great Lakes with nearly 200 stations in use.

The central station of the system will be located at Sault Ste Marie, a contract for its construction already having been let. Chicago, Cleveland, Detroit, Milwaukee, Duluth, Buffalo, Erie and Pittsburg are among the cities being provided with long-distance stations, while among other places for which minor stations are either planned or under construction are Sandusky, Lorain, Benton Harbor, Muskegon, Bay City, Cheboygan, Manistee, Mackinaw, Alpena, Port Huron, Ashland, Dunkirk, Superior, Eagle River, Marquette, Escanaba Bay, Menominee, Manitowoc, Green Bay, Sheboygan, Racine, Kenosha, Waukegan, Gary, Grand Haven, Traverse City, Petoskey, St. Ignace, Grand Rapids, Ashtabula, Charlotte, Oswego and Sackett's Harbor.

THE COMMON APPLE A GREAT SOURCE OF HEALTH

The Juice of the Ordinary Apple Is One of the Best Things in the World For Keeping the Blood Pure.

Few people there are but enjoy a ripe, juicy apple. But how many realise that it is a medicine as well as a treat?

Apple juice has a very marked effect on the kidneys, increasing their power to threw off the waste products of the body, called urea, and thus prevent Rheumatism, Sciatica, Neuralgia, and similar troubles that come from poisoned blood.

Similarly, other fruits stimulate the action of the liver and bowels—others of the skin. Combined, they keep the blood pure—the body clean and healthy.

To get this effect, however, one must eat a great deal of fruit, or better, eat a little fruit and take "Fruit-a-tives."

"Fruit-a-tives" are tablets in which the juices of ripe fruits, with their medicinal value intensified, are combined with valuable tonics. They act directly on Bowels, Kidneys and Skin and put them in perfect condition — thus ensuring the thorough elimination of all waste matter and poisons from the body. Trial box 25c. Regular size 50c.—6 boxes for $2.50. Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

HARRISON WAS AWARDED RACE BLAKE QUIT AFTER HAVING BEEN SET BACK ONE LAP FOR RUNNING

The walking match between J. E. Blake, the coloured heel and toe artist, from Syracuse, N.Y., and Jim Harrison, of Peterborough, in the Auditorium Roller Rink on Saturday was a disappointment not only to the few enthusiasts who attended, but also to the walkers themselves. Harrison was awarded the race by Referee A Rose, of Otonabee, after Blake had left the track because he had been set back a lap for alleged running, which was immediately after the men had resumed their walk in the evening. Blake went out at once and gained a lap but Harrison protested that his opponent was running and the referee allowed the claim, and Blake's lap was taken away leaving the two men again on even terms. The visitor continued to walk for a few minutes, but finally quit after he had gone 21 miles, 9 laps, claiming that he had not been given a square deal. Harrison continued walking until he had negotiated 27 miles, which was shortly after 10 o'clock, and then left the track himself after having been awarded the race. The attendance was disappointingly small, the total gate receipts for the day being $12.55, which did not cover the expenses. The men were walking for a sixty and forty split of the net gate, so that there was absolutely nothing in the race for them and both will be out as a result of the contest. Although there seemed to be a lot of interest in the race and there were many inquiries over the 'phone to the Examiner Sporting department as to the result, yet there was only a handful of spectators present during the whole race.

That the men are very evenly matched, was shown by the way in which they travelled during the afternoon. The start was made shortly after two o'clock and with Harrison doing the pacing they started out on their long grind at a brisk clip. The first half hour they negotiated three and one-half miles and there was no diminution of speed during the two and one half hours they walked. Harrison sprinted many times but Blake refused to be shaken off and when they stopped for the afternoon the two had walked 17 miles 3 laps. There were several vocal arguments between the two during the afternoon in which both blamed the other for fouling.

It was about 8.35 when they commenced in the evening and Blake at once started out to get a lead. Harrison set sail in pursuit, but slowed up almost immediately and pointing at Blake as he was rapidly negotiating the track in front of him, claimed that the negro was running. The referee awarded the claim and although Blake had gained a lap by his sprint he was set back again and the two were even up. Blake went on and walked for some time, but finally he quit and Harrison went on alone until after ten o'clock, when he too left the track.

The tug-of-war contest did not materialize, the Auburns who were to have pulled the Quakers, failing to put an appearance.

SOME GOOD SCORES BEING PUT IN FOR THE P. B. C. BOWLING TROPHY GOSSIP OF THE WEEK'S ROLLING

There was little of the sensational order in the local ten pin league last week, though there were a number of very large scores put up in practice games Herb Martin carrying off the honours with the single score of 253 on Thursday, equaling Waram's big string the previous week. Martin followed with a 246 score, and then made a desperate effort to break the alley record for three consecutive games. The record was established a couple of weeks ago and stands at 661. An outsider holds it and the spectators present pulled hard for Herb in his efforts to smash it. Despite the encouragement from the side lines however, Martin fell away in his third game rolling a total for the triple string of 644. There are a number of the local fraternity out after the honour and if faithful effort and perseverance will accomplish anything the mark is sure to go very shortly.

The contest for the championship cup is creating widespread interest and number of big scores have been put in for the trophy. Just at the moment McIlroy leads with several big strings, including one of 224 another of 216 and go on, while Martin, Cairns, Waram, Hoolihan, Stroud Ferguson, Barber, Ford, and a number of other cracks have put in large scores.

Just now interest mainly centres on the trip of the Peterborough contingent to Toronto next week, when the local five will be stacked up against a team of men who enjoy international fame as match bowlers. Nothing daunted, however the locals are ready to meet the best that Toronto or any other Canadian city can boast of and the team in view bowls anything like the form they are capable of Peterborough will not be disgraced by their work.

The writer spent a couple of days this week on Toronto alleys and diligent search failed to uncover anything in the way of big scores among the rank and file there that are not witnessed every day on local alleys. Of course an exception is made of the work of such experts as Neil, Johnston, Sutherland and a few other top notchers, the men who will be opposed to Peterborough team next week. But then we also have bowling timber of exceptional merit in such remarkable trundlers as Cairns, McIlroy, Waram, Ferguson, Martin, Hoolihan, Pollard, etc., and while the Torontonians will probably win their game on their own alleys, they will have to go the limit in the return game here—and then some.

There are about eight bowlers whose work of late would entitle them to a place on the team next week and among them are the following with their league averages to date—

Player	No. games	aver
Waram	27	176
McIlroy	30	.166
Cairns	24	.165
Hay	30	.162
Ferguson	30	.162
LaPlante	27	.162
Hoolihan	25	.15[illegible]
Pollard	27	.154
Martin	27	148

From the men mentioned above a very strong five man team could be selected and no matter which five are the lucky ones the Electric City's bowling fraternity can count upon being well represented next Saturday night.

In addition to the above team there will also be a five man team picked to play against the prize team of the Mail and Empire and a number of enthusiasts have expressed the intention of accompanying the bowlers. There is considerable interest being manifested in Toronto as well as local bowling circles in this game which is regarded as one of the biggest of the season, and a large crowd will gather at the Toronto Club to see the play, which promises to be well worth witnessing.

The local league standing has undergone some kaleidoscopic changes since the beginning of the week and the face promises to experience a further transformation next week. At the moment the Pacifics and Bankers are tied for the leadership with the Examiner A trio well up. The Belmonts are strongly entrenched in fourth place, and in the opinion of the writer this team will be the one to watch from this forth. They have been somewhat weakened of late by the illness of Jos Pollard and an accident lack of team work for is now himself again and the trio are working better together. Next week they have two rather easy teams to go up against in the Hams and the Lock Works, and if in any chance the Belmonts capture both series, that will be right close to the top as either the Pacifics or Examiner A team will have to take a drop on Monday's being scheduled on that night to come together. The Bankers are up against the Examiner B next week and the newspaper men are liable to hand their opponents a big surprise package. They have already won eleven of the last fifteen games played and with Jim Clark and Josh Craig hanging up 200 scores in practice games and Dela Post putting up his characteristically steady, consistent game there is no saying whom they may not trim.

And just here let it be said that Craig and Clark are good samples of the great progress being made by the new bowlers in town. Jake McFadden, Perry and Sullivan of the Grays; Westbrooke, Carol Hayes, Lang of the Lock Works, or a dozen other newcomers to the game and their work to say the least shows most gratifying progress and improvement.

The first half of the league season closes next week and the games yet to be played are as follows—

Monday—Exam A vs Pacifics.
Tuesday—Lock Works vs Belmonts.
Wednesday—Frontenacs vs Midgets.
Thursday—Bankers vs Exam. B.
Friday—Iroquois vs Midgets.

The following postponed games must be played off—
B. A. C. vs Frontenacs.
Grays vs Midgets.
Belmonts vs Hams.

HERB LONG OF STRATHS IS THE CITY LEAGUE'S BEST SCORER

A study of the City League scoring statistics show that Herb Long, the big centre forward of the Strathconas, is away ahead of every one else in the league, in the matter of scoring. The Straths centre has found the nets no less than thirteen times in three games, which is sure going some, when it is figured out that the four teams in the league have only scored three times as many. Jack Seymour follows Long with first three in the list of best scorers are Strathcona men, inasmuch as Jack Seymour follows Loong with seven goals in three games and McMillan is next with four counters in two games. Quinn is Lakefield's best scorer, with five goals in three games, while Giroux leads the T. A. with three tallies in two games. Pentland has been the West Ends top counter with two goals in three games. The Belmonts have scored but four goals in the three games, not quite one-third of those to Long's credit, and none of the members has scored more than one goal. Following are the figures:

	Games	Goals.	Ave.
Long, Strathconas	3	13	4 1-3
Seymour, Straths	3	7	2 1-3
McMillan, Straths	2	4	2

THE COBOURG TEAM FOR TO-MORROW'S GAME WILL BE A VERY STRONG ONE

The greatest interest has been taken in to-morrow's game with Cobourg, and there promises to be a record crowd on hand when the two teams face each other. It should be one of the best games of the season, inasmuch as the Cobourgs will be greatly strengthened and will make a big effort to carry off the victory. Peterborough must win to-morrow to keep in the running, so that they can be counted upon to put up the game of their lives. Cobourg will have Crossen, their star cover point, formerly of St. Andrew's College, and one of the best long distance shots in Canada, on their line-up, as well as Moffat, Bently, Payne and other fast hockey men who will make things interesting for the Petes to-morrow. The locals are at home on fast ice, and if the present brand of weather continues they are going to get what they want all right to-morrow night. They are in the very best of condition and should take Cobourg into camp although it is likely to be a great game. Cobourg nearly beat Lindsay in the last game played between the two, the contest going into extra time and it is stated that had not Cobourg been without the services of their star rover Bently, at the last of the game they would have won out. Peterborough cannot therefore afford to take any chances with the visitors.

NORWOOD RAN AWAY FROM KEENE

Fast Game Played in the Trent Valley League on Saturday Night.

Norwood, Feb. 1.—Keene played Norwood in the Trent Valley League Saturday night. Norwood defeated the visitors in easy fashion, scoring at pleasure. The score was 11 to 4 in favour of Norwood, but the score was no indication of the play, as Norwood was by far the superior team. A Kempt was the star for Norwood, while McCarthy did well for Keene. The line-up was as follows:

R Pearce, the official referee of the league, kept the game well in hand, the teams being inclined to rough it.

HOCKEY

The Peterborough Intermediate O. H. A. team will practise to-night at the Brock street rink between 7 and 8 p.m. A full turn-out is expected in view of to-morrow night's big game with Cobourg.

* * *

The G. A. C. club challenge the Fresh Air Club, Cressman's, Novelty or the Belmonts to a game of hockey, to be played at Brock street rink, as soon as the ice can be secured.

* * *

The Senior Church League game to-morrow night at Park street rink, between Park Street and Knox Church, promises to be one of the best seen in the league race to date. The game will be pulled off between seven and eight o'clock and both teams are confident of victory. Knox Church won the last game by 1 goal to 0.

* * *

The fans will have lots of hockey this week, with two O. H. A. games with Lindsay and Cobourg here, and with the City League final between the Strathconas and Lakefield on Thursday night. There promises to be a record City League crowd present at this last game, which should be one of the best battles ever seen in the league. Neither team has lost a game this season and there will be loads of excitement when the two hook up. Lakefield have scores of supporters in the city and a big proportion of the fans are pulling for them to win. They are certain to put up the hardest kind of a battle against the High Commissioners, and it will be a battle royal. The Straths have won the cup for the past two years and with another year's victory almost in their grasp they may be counted upon to play for every ounce that is in them. The game between the two, which is scheduled as the last game of the evening on Thursday night, will be changed to the first game.

CRICKET

The annual meeting of the Peterborough Cricket Club will be held at the Y.M.C.A. Parlours on Wednesday, Feb. 3, at 8 p.m. All interested in cricket are requested to be present.

BOWLING

The Joy Club wish to challenge the Happy Thought champions of the Y. M. C. A. Bowling League to a series of games for the city championship. Three games to be rolled on the Y. M. C. A. alleys and three on the Peterborough Bowling Club's alleys; games to count in deciding the result, and the match to be played next week if possible.

Regina, Sask., Feb. 1.—Saturday morning's session of the Laird-Scott libel case was chiefly occupied with cross-examination of Contractor Frye, who testified that he had paid $1,000 to Mayor Laird for influence as to a contract.

The defence produced several witnesses who swore Frye had said in their hearing that he could make more out of exposing Laird than he could make as a contractor in a year.

The court was again crowded.

"THE EDUCATIONAL IDEAL OF THE MINISTRY" WAS DISCUSSED

The regular monthly meeting of the Ministerial Association was held on Monday evening in the Y. M. C. A. parlours, with a very large representation of the ministers of the city present. Rev. H. J. Keith, president of the association, occupied the chair.

The feature of the meeting was a review of the book, "The Educational Ideal of the Ministry," by Dr. W. H. P. Faunce, president of Brown University, which came from the press of McMillan only three months ago, and which is already in its second edition. Rev. Mr. Webb's remarks were most interesting and were followed with close attention by the ministers present, all of whom took part in the discussion which followed.

The society decided to recognize and help the work of the Children's Aid Society by passing a grant from the funds of the association of $15 towards the society.

USEFUL INVENTION OF FORMER PETERBORO' BOY

Type Writing Paper That Can be Used to Make Printable Stereotype Plates.

Peterborough boys generally come to the top when they go abroad, and generally manage to get into positions of responsibility which they fill with credit. The latest example of success is Mr. C C H De Laney, of New York, and a former Peterborough boy. He is a son of the late Hon. J A DeLaney, of North Dakota, head of the firm of DeLaney & Sons, who manufactured agricultural implements—1874 to 1879—in Peterborough. Mr. C C H De Laney, who was educated at the South Ward (now South Central) School, is a prominent law stenographer of New York, and is making a great hit with his own invention, a new process typewriter matrix paper. That is the letters of the typewriter impressed upon the paper so as to form a matrix from which a casting can be made providing a plate from which an indefinite number of copies can be printed. His invention has a good deal wider application and it is a pleasure to know that an old Peterborough boy has invented a process that seems certain to achieve a world-wide success.

PERSONAL AND SOCIAL

Miss Bessie Pearce entertained a number of her friends on Saturday evening in honour of her cousin, Miss Minnie Pearce, of Peterborough.—Marmora Herald.

Owing to the illness of Mr. Haskill, the conductor of the Toronto flyer, Mr. Jobbitt, of the Lakefield train, had to take his place and a man was sent from Lindsay to take charge of the Lakefield train.

SNOW PLOUGH HAS NOT BEEN SEEN

C. P. R. Line Through Here Has Not Found Trouble From Snow.

A noticeable difference between last winter and that which is now passing over us is found on the C. P. R. line through Peterborough. It has been learned that the snow plow has not yet been over this division, whereas last year it had made many trips. The snow problem this year has not caused the C. P. R. much trouble, although the weatherman may yet be heard from before the season is past.

THE ST. PETER'S T. A. S. AT HOME TUESDAY NIGHT

Many Will Attend This Event Which Should Prove Very Successful.

A delightful evening has been prepared for to-morrow night's "At Home," at St. Peter's T. A. S. The committee who have been looking after the arrangements, promise an exceptionally fine luncheon and the provision for the rest of the entertainment has been quite as complete.

THE WEATHER.

The thermometer took another drop on Saturday night and reached two degrees below zero. On Sunday the mercury remained about zero all day and a raw, biting wind from the north-west did not help matters any. This morning showed another slump in the mercury, the official registration being 12 below. No lower mark was reached during the night.

THIS TRAIN AT LAST ARRIVES ON TIME

Another very unusual and unexpected event took place one evening during the week which caused much discussion and difference of opinion as to its cause. The event referred to was simply the arrival of the train on time. Yes! it is a fact worthy of note, the Haliburton train did arrive at the proper time, 4.16 p.m., once during the month of January 1909. However I have not heard of any complaint being sent to the head office in consequence, therefore a similar mistake — if mistake it was — may not occur again during the year.

Chief Howard Gets Chance To Prove Himself Worthy Of Position He Occupies

The Council Chamber Crowded by Citizens Interested in the Fire, Water and Light Committee's Report—Vote on the Question Was 7-5 in the Chief's Favour—Audience Was Disorderly.

CHIEF MUST BE GOOD.

In the words of Ald. Buller's motion Chief Howard was given another opportunity to prove himself capable of occupying the position of Chief of the Fire Department of this city. The Council Chamber on Monday night was crowded with citizens in anticipation of the discussion which was expected among the Aldermen before the report of the Fire, Water and Light Committee was dealt with. It was one of the largest representations of the citizens seen at a council meeting in many months, showing that the general public was interested in the affair.

The Report

Ald. Buller presented his report as chairman of the committee as follows:

Your Fire, Water and Light Committee beg leave to report as follows:

1. We recommend that the supplies for the Fire Department be bought, as far as possible, in the city when the prices are reasonable.

2. We authorized the Chairman to purchase fifteen tons of coal for the Fire Station.

3. Your Committee received a letter from ex-Ald. W J Johnston, making a number of charges against W A Howard, Chief of the Fire Department, which is attached to this report We investigated the charges and heard a number of witnesses, notes of whose evidences is also attached to this report.

In reference to these charges we beg to report that to Chief Howard is due the credit for organizing the permanent brigade in the face of many obstructions, but while doing so and afterwards we would judge from the evidence produced the Chief has been indiscreet and his actions have left him open to criticism to such an extent as to convince us that the best interests of the city would not be served by his remaining at the head of the fire department.

4. We recommend that the Chairman be instructed to purchase supplies for the fire department where they can be bought the cheapest.

5. We recommend that such of the firemen's coats as require it, be repaired.

6. We recommend that the Water Commissioners be requested to place a hydrant on George street near the corner of Wolfe street at a point to be located by the Chairman of this Committee and Mr. T F Matthews.

Before resuming his seat Ald. Buller read the following as a rider to section three:

Moved by Ald. Buller, seconded by Ald. Turner, that the report of the Fire, Water and Light Committee be amended by striking out the second paragraph of section three and substituting therefor the following:

"In view of Chief Howard's services in organizing the permanent brigade, and his abilities as head of the department, although he has been indiscreet and injudicious; and in view of his promise of amended conduct, he be given an opportunity to show that he will keep his promise, and that as thus amended the report be adopted.

Ald. Morgan and Duncan moved that the original report be adopted. The feeling began to run a little more spirited about this stage.

Ald. Hicks' Statement

Ald. Hicks was the first to express an opinion. He stated that it was strange that this rider should be added after the committee had drawn up their original report, the result of considerable investigation. At first he thought ex-Ald. Johnston's allegations were groundless. The evidence showed that there were several things which deserved a severe reprimand, but on Monday night (a week ago), they took a more serious turn. The particular charge took place, he said, thirty days after Chief Howard assumed control. Had he fallen after a long service he might forgive him, but in this case he had not proved his services.

"I do not believe he will make good. I stand for honest administration of the city's affairs and honesty from those at the head of the civic departments, and I will vote against the chief."

Ald Turner

"I am not here to see any one getting away with the city's funds," Ald. Buller stated, but he felt charitably inclined and wanted to see Chief Howard given another chance. If he did not prove as good as his word, he could be dismissed at a moment's notice.

Ald. Morgan

"We're not here to run a Reformatory, that's up in Toronto," began Ald. Morgan. "You threw down the best brigade in Canada to get something better, and you got it too.

"Backed by the whole council the Chief acted as if he owned the town. His men came here and swore that the Chief was a 'booser,' that he was not an honest man and could not refute some of the charges made against him." Ald Morgan brought forth stamping and loud cheers from the crowd whose sentiments were against Chief Howard.

"Here we pay $1,200.00 for a first-class man and we get a false alarm from Owen Sound." Ald. Morgan stated that he had been given credit of being out with the Chief and he acknowledged that he had done so to find out the true nature of affairs and he intimated that what he had seen was entirely convincing.

Ald Metheral could not understand how any alderman could wish to give the Chief another chance. His pudding of the pay sheet which he could not repudiate was, Ald. Metheral said, premeditated and there were men rotting in durance vile for less serious offences.

Ald Duncan agreed with Ald. Hicks. He had thought the Chief was going to "turn around and be a good boy,' but he had since the investigation seen him drinking.

Ald. Dullus stated that personally a dismissal would be ruinous as far as his future was concerned, but as a matter of business he had to vote against him.

The Mayor called for a vote which resulted as follows in favour of the amendment:

YEAS.—Ald. Phelan, Morrow, McIntyre, Buller, Turner, Gillespie, Bradburn and Buller.

NAYS.—Ald. Metheral, Morgan, Duncan, Dullus and Hicks.

The crowd throughout was inclined to boisterousness and were even disorderly; some even hissing Ald. Buller, who showed no signs of flinching in presenting and supporting the amendment.

THE TRENT CANAL NOT FORGOTTEN

Sir Wilfrid Laurier is not forgetful of his promise made in the Brock Street Rink, Peterborough, in November 1904, that his Government intended to complete the Trent Canal. Last year a million dollars was appropriated for construction work on the canal. In this year's estimates another million is included. We have a Government that takes the canal seriously. This year's estimates also include $37,000 for Peterborough Armouries.

Strong Man Sheds Tears In The Police Court Under Sting Of Magistrate's Reprimand

Stole Five Dollars From Room Mate During the Still Hours of the Night—Says His Family "Are Terribly Hard Up and the Rent is Long Overdue."

ACKNOWLEDGED THE THEFT

Under Magistrate Dumble's reprimand for stealing five dollars from a friend last night, Joseph Robertson broke down in the police court this morning and gave free rein to the tears that had been welling up as the sense of his guilt was impressed upon him. Robertson is a heavily built lumberman, but recently from the woods, and the sight of a man actually crying was something new in the annals of the hardened court.

Robertson was charged with having stolen $5.00 from John McGrath. He was asked if he wished to be tried summarily or preferred to wait until the spring assizes.

"I don't understand what you mean," he passively replied.

After further explanation he said, "I'll take my trial now."

"I'm guilty and I'll give this man back"— "Wait now," the Magistrate interjected.

"Very Hard up"

"I'm terrible hard up," the prisoner stated, "and my wife and family are hard up too, worse than I am. My home is in Warkworth."

"And did you think that your children would do well on stolen money?" the magistrate asked in a rather stern voice.

This thought had not come to him, he only knew they needed money to live. His working in the camps has been intermittent with the result that his earnings have not been large. He went on to state that he owed more than two months' rent.

"I am ashamed of a man who wanted to go home with twice as much money as he had earned, with money which belonged to another who needed it probably as badly as you did. The fact that you are behind in your rent and your family needs food does not excuse or warrant thieving."

Robertson, who certainly had no suggestion of criminal propensities in his countenance, and showed that the money had been taken under the stress of straitened circumstances broke down under the magistrate's characterization of his crime. He covered his face and turned around in the box, in an endeavour to conceal his feelings, the tears dropping on his hands, cracked and hardened by want of protection in the open woods.

He was let go on suspended sentence and departed still in tears.

McGrath explained that they had been sleeping together in an hotel in the city last night. McGrath had $5 in one pocket and saw that it was there before going to sleep. During the night he woke and heard Robertson crawling on his hands and knees on the floor at the foot of the bed. He thought McGrath was asleep and the next morning when spoken to about it denied having stolen it, but in court he no longer made a denial.

Mr. T. B. McGrath Appointed One Of Assessors For This Year

Van Every (assistant), Harry Thompson, (assistant), John Boorman, W S Strike, Edward A Armstrong, Albert Hanna, John Green and Jack Wilson.

Moved by Ald. Morgan and Bradburn that Mr. T B McGrath be appointed assessor.—Carried.

Moved by Ald. Duncan and Gillespie, that Mr Thompson be also appointed.—Carried.

Moved by Ald. Duncan and Morrow, that Mr. McGrath receive $600 and Mr. Thompson $500, and that no extra be granted during the coming year.—Carried.

Ladies of the Dorcas Society Show Appreciation of Her Efforts.

The Dorcas Society is very pleased to report the proceeds of the "Charity Concert," held in St. Andrews schoolroom on Friday evening last, amounted to $25.35, which will help considerably in the good work it is endeavouring to carry on among the poor and needy in the city.

The ladies met yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Rankin, Gilmour st., and several hours were spent in preparing garments for distribution, after which Mrs. Carter, on behalf of the members of the society presented the president, Mrs. Rankin, with a fern and jardiniere, as a token of their appreciation of her faithful work and untiring zeal, in connection with the late concert. Mrs. Rankin, to whom the affair was quite a surprise, responded in a few well chosen words, expressing her pleasure, at the same time feeling it a privilege to work in such a cause.

Tea was then served, and an enjoyable evening spent, the gathering breaking up at 10 o'clock.

NATIONAL THRIFT.

The British scheme of annuities in connection with the postoffice is not successful, it is thought because there is not sufficiently publicity given lot. The Dominion Government is determined that this objection shall not be tenable as against the splendid system of old age annuities established last year. An agent of the government is going to large population centres to explain the working of the scheme. No better step could be taken to confer wide national benefits than the arousing of a national popular interest in the matter of thrift. If all the money earned by all the people which is foolishly and improvidently spent, were deposited with the government many benefits would accrue. The government would have means to make expenditures without borrowing so much money abroad; the interest would be paid to our own people—the people themselves would be the gainers and reap the advantages in their old age when earning powers should be impaired. It is the existence of habits of thrift that makes France so strong financially, that makes that country its own banker. It was the result of thrift that enabled the French nation to pay with its own money—the savings of the people—the tremendous war indemnity exacted by the victorious Germans in connection with the Franco-German War of 1870. The spirit of a popular song, banal enough in its way, if adopted by Canadians, would be a great national medium of uplift—"Every little bit added towhat you've got, makes just a little bit more."

Tupper, in his Proverbial Philosophy, describes economy as the poor man's mint.

RAILWAY ACCIDENTS AND THE LEVEL CROSSING.

The loss of life in railway accidents in Canada makes a sad total and the sadder feature is that the list of killed and injured is greater — nearly double—that of last year. The figures compiled by the Railway Commission are as follows:

	1908.	1907.
Passengers killed	64	42
Passengers injured	25	210
Employees killed	246	212
Employees injured...	866	317
Others killed.....	219	206
Others injured	177	76
Total killed...	529	460
Total injured... 1,309		603
Grand total... 1,838		1,163

The principal railways reporting accidents were G.T.R., 165; C.P.R., 283; C.N.R., 19; M.C.R., 25. It is to be remembered that most of these accidents are the results of carelessness in railway management and on the part of employees and of persons entering upon railway tracks—without seeing that such a procedure is safe. There is a great deal of feeling aroused over the danger of the level crossing. No doubt some of these are dangerous even with the greatest precaution, on the part of persons crossing them. But there is a large number of them that are as safe, with proper precautions, as a street railway track, which is as dangerous as a level railway crossing if passengers are careless or take foolish risks in passing in front of moving cars.

It is probable that steps will be taken to minimise the danger of level crossings. The Department of Railways and Canals is taking action and no doubt some effective measure of improvement will be adopted. The question is somewhat complicated in the matter of providing for the cost of precautionary measures. Some may hold that the railways should bear all the cost, but there are two sides even to this question. The railways naturally feel that the municipalities should bear part of the expense of gates or watchmen. Their contention is not perhaps unreasonable. The municipalities were anxious to have the railways constructed which have created the conditions of danger it is desired to remedy. Some municipalities have been so eager to secure railways that they have voted large sums by way of bonus. This was done because the railways were considered a benefit. If thir construction was a benefit, their maintenance and operation are necessary to make the benefit effective. So that, in one sense, both the railway companies and the public are interested. The railways naturally argue that both parties to the advantages arising from the operation of railways, should share in the cost of provisions necessary to insure safety of public travel. However, whatever diverse views may obtain upon the question of the cost of provision and the maintenance of provisions for making railway crossings safe, there is unanimity upon the question of providing measures of protection, whatever form they take, whatever means of maintenance are adopted.

Up to and including 1907 the total aid extended to Canadian railways by the Dominion and Provincial Governments and municipalities, was $181,298,412.

A LAME EXCUSE.

The Montreal Herald has the following comment on the garbled telegram sent by Mr. Borden, by virtue of which he won a majority of seats in British Columbia:

"The Victoria Colonist has published an explanation of the falsification of Mr. Borden's telegram. It may read better when the paper reaches the East, but the paragraph telegraphed is a very shamefaced production. Somebody took the telegram away just after it had been received, and did not return it. When it had to be printed, the Colonist people wrote what they wanted Mr. Borden to say, not what he did say. They were not satisfied with his phrase 'the absolute protection of white labour,' so they made it 'the protection of white labour and the absolute exclusion of Asiatics. (How, by the way, did Mr. Borden propose to secure the 'absolute protection of white labour' without 'the absolute exclusion of Asiatics.' This telegram was received on October 24. The amended version was used all over British Columbia until the close of the polls on October 26. In Victoria the falsification was accountable for the narrow victory of the Conservative candidate over Hon. Mr. Templeman.

"Sir Wilfrid Laurier has been scolded for reading the falsified telegram in the House. Probably the Victoria Colonist and the member for Victoria think Sir Wilfrid blameworthy, but the average man will put the blame on other shoulders. If Sir Wilfrid had not spoken the truth would not be known yet. Mr. Borden knew for three months of the falsification, and he said nothing."

ONTARIO WILD CATS.

An Ontario Government report shows that during 1907 no less than three hundred and twenty-one mining companies were incorporated in the province with capitals aggregating $319,876,000, and the figures for 1908 are said to be nearly as large. The report says: "A perusal of the list shows that the fever for dealing and speculating in the shares of silver mining companies, which followed upon the discoveries at Cobalt and Montreal River, was responsible for the formation of a large portion of these companies, many of which were of the veriest bubble kind." The Ontario Government has certainly done its best to prick these bubbles, but it is impossible to protect people against their own folly. Imagine what are the possibilities in the way or earning dividends on over $600,000,000 of nominal capital, the creation of only two years' incorporations. Of course, this wonderfully large amount of "capital" represents a wonderfully small amount of hard cash. In a large number of cases these companies will do no more in the way of silver mining than they will in the way of lobster fishing. The very richness of the Northern Ontario silver region makes these wild-cat schemes possible.—Financial Chronicle.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Mr. Cortelyou, Secretary of the Treasury in the Roosevelt Cabinet, estimates that the national expenditure will exceed the receipts by about one hundred and fourteen millions of dollars, and that the deficit for the coming year will be $143,046,796.

The Toronto Mail and Empire, says the Ottawa Free Press, finds ground for condemning Mr. W. L. Mackenzie King, M. P., as an "absentee member," because he is absent on Imperial public business. But it has not a word to say about the absence of its own member, Mr. E. B. Osler, from his place in Parliament. But then Mr. Mackenzie King is a Liberal and Mr. Osler is a Conservative.

The Toronto News, which is certainly not extravagant in its commendation of the Liberal Government, has the following to say of the government's old age pension scheme: "Altogether the government deserves credit for a step in the right direction, and for a serious effort to aid a large element in the community to provide for their latter days. The scheme decidedly makes for the encouragement of thrift. But its success depends upon the degree of publicity it receives."

The difficulties in the way of public ownership of interior grain elevators are said to have decided the premiers of the three prairie provinces against any present move in that direction—though no official announcement has been made since their recent conference. If the matter is placed in the hands of the Railway Commission the public will be assured of the advantages of public ownership without incurring immense financial obligations. The recent tilt of the Commission with the express companies shows that the public interests are safe in the hands of the Railway Commission.

MANY CASES HERE OF RHEUMATISM

Noted Authority Tells People How To Get Relief at Small Cost.

A SIMPLE HOME REMEDY

Thousands of men and women who have felt the sting and torture of this dread disease, which is no respecter of age, persons, sex, colour or rank, will be interested to know that while for many years rheumatism was considered an incurable disease, now it is one of the easiest afflictions of the human body to conquer. Medical science has proven it not a distinct disease in itself, but a symptom caused by inactive kidneys. Rheumatism is uric acid in the blood and other waste products of the system, which should be filtered and strained out in the form of urine. The function of the kidneys is to sift these poisons and acids out and keep the blood clean and pure. The kidneys, however, are of sponge-like substance, the holes or pores of which will sometimes, either from overwork, cold or exposure, become clogged and inactive, and failing in their function of eliminating these poisons from the blood, they remain in the veins, decompose and settling about the joints and muscles, cause the untold suffering and pain of rheumatism and backache, often producing complications of bladder and urinary disease, weakness, etc.

The following simple prescription is said to relieve the worst cases of rheumatism because of its direct action upon the blood and kidneys, relieving, too, the most severe forms of bladder and urinary troubles: Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Mix by shaking well in a bottle and take in teaspoonful doses after each meal and at bedtime. The ingredients can be had from any good prescription pharmacy, and are absolutely harmless and safe to use at any time.

NEIGHBORS SAVED FAMILY

Alberta Woman and Lives of Four Little Children Are Preserved by Prompt Action of Friends In Quenching the Fire Laid to Destroy Their Home — Brothers Are Committed For Trial.

High River, Alta., Feb. 2.—One of the most sensational arson trials in the history of the country has been begun here by the commitment of M. Driscoll and his son, F. Driscoll, on a charge of setting fire to the barn and house of a neighbor named Demers. Settlers around saw the fire in the barn, and rushed to Demers' assistance in time only to avert a possibly horrible tragedy as the culmination of the crime. When they arrived they found the outbuildings in flames and a box full of inflammable material in the coalshed, to which a burning fuse had been attached, and which had burned down almost to the explosive point. Had it not been discovered when it was the lives of Mrs. Demers and four little children would have been menaced, if not sacrificed, as they were asleep in the house at the time. Strong circumstantial evidence connected the Driscolls with the crime, and they have just been sent for trial.

No Gas, and They Freeze.

Columbus, Ohio, Feb. 2.—With the thermometer ten degrees below zero yesterday, Lancaster, 25 miles from here, is practically without fire. The natural gas main from the West Virginia field has broken across the Ohio river and the city is without a supply. Lines of people are going to the coalyards with buckets, baskets and wheelbarrows, or anything else they can get, but the coal supply will soon be exhausted. All the factories and schools have closed.

At Upper Sandusky the natural gas has been reduced to the lowest pressure and the water pipes have frozen. Chillothe, Ohio, is also minus gas, and few houses are equipped for coal fires.

Slovenly Farmers In Saskatchewan.

Regina, Feb. 2.—The Department of Agriculture yesterday published a final report dealing with the crop of last year.

"Compared with 1907," says the report, "returns of last year are almost twice as large, both in acreage and yield," but deduces the fact that for each farmer whose crops exceeded the average yield for the province, some other farmer or farmers must have had crops of which the average yield was correspondingly less. The report says that Saskatchewan is being retarded and damaged by bad and slovenly farming.

Sudden Change.

Chatham, Feb. 2.—Visiting the police station to ask the magistrate to permit the woman with whom they were boarding to keep a maid, Thos. Fobbiston and Walter Simmons, who have been here from England three years, admitted that they had boarded at the place, which is a house of ill-repute, in the estimation of the police. They were immediately charged with being inmates, pleaded guilty and each was sentenced to six months in the Central Prison.

Fernie Sufferers Squabble.

Fernie, B.C., Feb. 2.—There are lively times in sight because of an agitation among the work people burned out in the big fire against the repaying the money that was loaned them to rebuild their homes.

At a meeting attended by practically all the sufferers by the fire, strong language was used and ex-Mayor Tuttle vigorously replied to certain attacks made on the disposition of the relief funds.

Compulsory Insurance.

Minneapolis, Feb. 2—Compulsory old age and disability insurance under state control and applying to workers in trades, crafts and professions, is advocated by Senator J. T. McGowan of Henepin County. Senator McGowan is embodying his ideas in a bill which will be introduced at the present session of the Legislature.

Steamers Ice Bound.

Halifax, N.S., Feb. 2.—Traffic between Prince Edward Island and the mainland is interrupted. The steamer Minto, which is from Georgetown, P.E.I., for Pictou, has been in the ice three miles off Pictou Light since Saturday and is landing mails and passengers over the ice.

One Resignation.

Regina, Feb. 2.—City Assessor Peter Cooper has handed in his resignation.

Cooper was the alderman whom Fry and Dobson, in King v. Scott, mentioned as having to be squared with Mayor Laing in order to get the contract raised $3,500.

MONTREAL'S EARTHQUAKE.

Shocks Were Very Light But Many Say They Felt Them.

Montreal, Feb. 2.—The chief topic of discussion in Montreal yesterday was the earthquake which on Sunday night startled, those of the residents who were not in bed and asleep. The shock was a very light one, but a great many people declared that they had felt it, some even declaring that they had been awakened by it.

Westmount seemed to have been particularly shaken up by the first disturbance at 11.45 Sunday night.

There were two others at intervals of about 15 minutes, but they were very slight.

About an hour afterwards there came a third shock.

The operators in the fire alarm office in the tower of the City Hall reported that there was a shock at 1.45 a.m. yesterday, and still another at 3 a.m. is vouched for by others.

In the section about Elgin avenue, Westmount, quite a few houses were quite severely damaged, especially where the construction work had not been carried out as perfectly as it should. One roof is reported to have split.

The McGill seismograph was found not to have been working. McGill scientists are of the opinion that the present disturbances are indirectly connected with those which have occurred on the other side of the world. Mount Royal, which overlooks the city, was at one period of its existence a living volcano, but not for many years has it been active, and scientists are of the opinion that it never will be again.

WHAT THE KIDNEYS DO

What Booth's Kidney Pills are Doing for Peterborough, Ont., People.

All the blood in the body passes through the kidneys every three minutes.

The kidneys filter the blood.

They work night and day to daily remove about 500 grains of impure matter. If they fail some part of this impure matter is left in the blood, bringing on pain in the back, headache, dizziness, irregular heart, hot, dry skin, rheumatism, gravel, dropsy, deposits in the urine. Booth's Kidney Pills make the filtering right and overcome kidney trouble. Hundreds of Peterborough County residents have found this out.

Mrs. John Wallace, of No. 323 Water street, Peterborough, Ont., says: "I had suffered with many painful and annoying symptoms of kidney trouble for over two years and could find nothing that would benefit my condition. My back was weak and a dull, heavy pain settled across the small of it, extending into my sides and shoulders. I could not sleep at night as the kidney secretions were so frequent and irregular that I would have to leave my bed a number of times. I was dizzy and weak and would usually awake with a dull headache. Booth's Kidney Pills procured at McDirmid and Jury's drug store, cured me when all else failed. I am stronger and feel better generally. I can conscientiously recommend Booth's Kidney Pills, and I would not be without a box in the house."

DYNAMITING FOR FISH.

Inspectors Have Lively Episode With Niagara Poachers.

Toronto, Feb. 2.—A brush between Government officers and fishing poachers on the Niagara river in which rifles and shot guns were brought into play, has been reported to Superintendent Tinsley of the Ontario Department of Fish and Game.

Chief Officer T. J. Briggs of Black Rock advises that on Saturday night three provincial officers while patrolling the Niagara river in a boat, located a power launch, the occupants of which, three in number, were dynamiting for fish near the Canadian side. They gave chase and being unable to overhaul the poachers' craft, opened fire with rifles. The pursued replied with shotguns and disappeared in the darkness. No one was injured.

Mr. Tinsley has issued orders for a strict patrol of the river. The "fish pirates," as they are designated, are believed to have a rendezvous on an island and this will be closely watched. It has been known that dynamiting has been going on for some time, the discharges killing the fish, which come to the surface and are gathered in easily, boxed up, and sent to Buffalo or other cities for marketing. The United States officers have given assurance of their active co-operation in an attempt to capture the predatory band.

Level Crossing Accident.

Chatham, Feb. 2.—About noon yesterday a horse attached to a dray loaded with coal was crossing the tracks at William street when the wheel of the wagon became caught in a frog. A freight was approaching and struck the wagon, completely demolishing it. The horse was carried down the track 35 feet, but did not receive even a scratch.

Judicial Inquiry.

Galt, Feb. 2.—The Town Council last night decided on a judicial investigation of the civic scandal in which Town Foreman Davidson is accused of employing men on his own farm and having their names on the board of works pay list.

Meanwhile Davidson has entered suit against George Egerton, his accuser, for libel.

Eskimo at College.

New York, Feb. 2.—Mene Wallace, the full-blooded Eskimo boy, who was brought to the United States 12 years ago by Commander Peary, was heartily cheered yesterday by a big crowd of students on the campus of Manhattan College here, when he appeared to enter the preparatory class of the institution.

Two Freeze In New York.

New York, Feb. 2.—Two deaths resulted from the cold yesterday. Jas. Kelly, aged 70, was found frozen to death at Irvington, and Malcolm Meyer, 54, a hack driver, was found dead in a stable at Rockaway Beach.

Two thousand applicants for food and coffee were lined up at the Bowery Mission during the night, which was the largest number fed at that place thus far this winter.

Employers to Blame.

Montreal, Feb. 2.—The royal commission appointed by the Provincial Government to investigate the question of compensation to workmen injured in the course of their employment, places the responsibility for all kinds of accidents upon employers without regard to contributory negligence on the part of the workmen unless an injury has been due to wilful acts of his own.

Woman Stole From the Dead.

Ottawa, Feb. 2.—For what the magistrate characterized as a ghoulish act, Adeline Boivin, a middle-aged woman, was sentenced to four months in jail.

The evidence showed that she had stolen the rings off the fingers of the deceased wife of Nicholas Norman, and also some jewelry to the value of $20, from under the dead woman's pillow.

Exciting Times In China.

London, Feb. 2.—A special despatch to The Times from Pekin declares that since the death of the Dowager Empress, it has become increasingly evident that the Government is in the hands of the Regent and the Manchus, and that the palace is becoming a hotbed of party faction.

This, the despatch says, is reflected in wholesale impeachment by censors.

Socialists and Police Clash.

Hanover, Germany, Feb. 2.—Socialist demonstrations here in protest against the Prussian election laws resulted in a collision between the Socialists and the police. The police used their side arms against the demonstrators and in the fighting between twenty and thirty persons were injured.

Brockville, Feb. 2.—Motor and steamboat owners are circulating a petition asking the Dominion Government to place more lights in the Canadian channel of the river between here and Gananoque, in order to make it navigable after dark.

Eighty Cent Gas Assured.

Washington, D.C., Feb 2.—The Supreme Court of the United States yesterday denied the application of the Consolidated Gas Co. of New York for a re-hearing. The case involved the validity of the 80-cent gas law.

Mexico's City Hall Destroyed.

Mexico City, Feb. 2.—Fire destroyed the City Hall, the Hotel Paaje, and two blocks of business houses and dwellings on Sunday. Loss $500,000.

Palpitation of the Heart.

One of the first danger signals that announce something wrong with the heart is the irregular beat or violent throb. Often there is only a fluttering sensation, or an "all gone" sinking feeling; or again, there may be a most violent beating, with flushings of the skin and visable pulsations of the arteries. The person may experience a smothering sensation, gasp for breath and feel as though about to die. In such cases the action of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills in quieting the heart, restoring its normal beat and imparting tone to the nerve centres, is, beyond all question, marvellous. They give such prompt relief that no one need suffer.

Mr. Sylvester Smith, Hampton, N.B., writes:—"I was troubled with palpitation of the heart and tried doctor's medicines, but they only gave me temporary relief. I heard of your Heart and Nerve Pills and bought two boxes and before I had used them I was completely cured and would recommend them to all similarly affected."

Price, 50 cents per box, or 3 boxes for $1.25 at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

A WARNING TO WOMEN

AN EVENING PARTY AND ITS SEQUEL.

How lamentable and yet how true it is that our social pleasures are responsible for most of our ills. This is due largely to neglect and thoughtlessness. A slight chill or cold contracted on leaving an overheated room after the system has been lowered by breathing the poisoned air, develops more rapidly than otherwise. Neglect this cold or cough and you will have sown the seeds of disease which rapidly germinate. Mothers should therefore warn their loved ones to take the greatest care of themselves when forced to mix with large numbers of people in close confinement and at all times (if they would preserve good health) use Psychine, the greatest of tonics.

The pictures given here tell their own story. The timely use of PSYCHINE "The Greatest of All Tonics" has saved many of Canada's fair daughters and her sons from an early grave. The following testimonials prove this:—

CHILD'S LIFE SAVED!

Mrs. E. Obediah of Ohawekin, Ont., declares that PSYCHINE saved her child's life. It was then suffering from pneumonia. This was in March, 1907. On August 11th, 1908, 17 months after, she wrote: "The condition of my family's health is decidedly good. I give PSYCHINE to each member of my family, eight in number, and I consider their good health is due to PSYCHINE which we recognize and believe to be the greatest of Tonics. My husband and myself pin our faith to PSYCHINE because it has done so much for us in times past when hard pressed with sickness. I would be glad if you referred me to any skeptical person and you can use my name for this purpose."

MOTHER AND BABY BENEFITED.

Mrs. Wm. Haystead of Falding, Ont., says:—"I was very weak and run down when I commenced using PSYCHINE. I used two bottles and now feel like a new person. I also gave PSYCHINE to my little boy who had pneumonia, with good success. I shall always recommend PSYCHINE."

NO USE FOR DOCTOR NOW.

"I am glad to tell you I have not had to have the doctor since I have used PSYCHINE. I am now in good health, also the family. I used PSYCHINE for my boys who were growing too fast and were always pale and languid. PSYCHINE is now our family remedy," writes Mrs. Agnes Comber, 92 Wellington St., London, Ont.

WHAT PSYCHINE IS AND DOES

PSYCHINE is the greatest strength restorer and system builder known to medical science. PSYCHINE regulates and tones up all the vital organs. It cures stomach troubles, aids digestion, destroys disease germs in the system. The greatest of tonics, it makes the blood pure, rich and healthy, giving renewed vigor and energy to those who are weak and tired and run down.

USE YOUR OWN JUDGMENT!

There are times when a choice has to be made between following the advice of a physician and taking the responsibility of using Psychine without or in opposition to his advice. You have the fullest assurance that you will be safe if city and judicial do in taking Psychine irrespective of any physician's advice, and even contrary to it. That physician that opposes its use is either out of date and not in touch with the most successful systems of treatment, or his own interests are put before those of his patient. Such a system of treatment as Psychine, which has thousands of the most wonderful outstanding to its credit, cannot but be endorsed by every physician to whom the life and health of a patient is a matter of first importance. The best physicians, who have without prejudice looked into the great work Psychine is doing for humanity, are recommending it to many of their patients, and are unstinted in their praise of this remedy, the equal of which the world has never seen.

Psychine tones up every part of the system, and cures when all else fails. At all Druggists 50c. and $1.00. DR. T. A. SLOCUM, LIMITED, Slocum Building, Spadina Avenue, Toronto.

ANNUAL MEETING

REPORT FOR THE YEAR 1908

The Twenty-eighth Annual Meeting of the North American Life Assurance Company was held at its Home Office in Toronto, on Thursday, Jan 28th, 1909, when the following report of the business of the Company for the year ended Dec 31st, 1908, was presented:—

Reduction in Expense Ratio

The business has been conducted on a conservative basis, as is shown by a further reduction in the ratio of expenses to premium income, thereby placing the North American Life in the front rank of economically managed Canadian companies.

Audit

A monthly examination of the books of the Company was made by the Auditors, and at the close of the year they made a thorough scrutiny of all the securities held by the Company. A committee of the Board, consisting of two Directors, made an independent audit of the securities each quarter.

From R. F. McWilliams, representing Mr. A. Kennedy, asking for some compensation for the serious injury and long illness resulting from accident which he suffered by a fall at the corner of Chambers and Hunter streets. The sidewalk, Mr. Kennedy states, was in a dangerous condition.—Legal.

Charity Board

At the meeting of the Committee of the Whole Council Mr. F. W. Miller, relief officer, was present in behalf of the petition of the Charity Board. He stated that he had been asked by the Charity Board to present to the council a few reasons why the grant the board received should be increased. The population of Peterborough had advanced very considerably, as well as the prices of general articles. Wood could be bought several years ago for $3.20, whereas $5.30 was paid this year. Moreover the hospitals did not now receive patients with contagious diseases, and in the case of those persons who were unable to pay their own way the Charity Board had to assist them, and not a few of these cases have been experienced.

There were also persons in the House of Providence and Protestant Home, whose maintenance had to be paid by the Board. Mr. Miller stated the former institution had quite a number who could not pay their own expenses, and Rev. Father McColl had stated that he intended to come before the council and ask that the city provide for them as they were all from Peterborough.

Mr. Miller read the following statement, showing the amounts the Board had received in the past:

	Population	Amount
1894		$ 2,187 56
1895		1,988 84
1896		2,037 62
1897	10,951	1,269 04
1898	10,854	1,449 05
1899	10,554	1,346 48
1900	10,879	1,504 52
1901	10,985	1,403 20
1902	11,067	1,342 63
1903	11,548	1,300 112
1904	14,175	1,523 58
1905	14,391	1,542 13 1-2
1906	14,962	1,778 36 1-4
1907	16,000	1,877 99 1-4
1908	16,491	2,471 04 1-2

The Board was organized in 1897 on the second of February, exactly twelve years ago.

It was moved by Ald. Morgan and Metherel that the council assume the $400 which had been expended over last year's allowance.—Carried.

Mr. Kendry's Request

Mr. James Kendry, with a number of ratepayers from Auburn, spoke in connection with their application for fire protection in this part of the city.

Mr. Kendry stated that there were many homes in that section of the city and no adequate fire protection had been provided for them. There was no water then and the same lack of protection was felt at the mill and altogether the feeling was that the residents and property owners should receive some consideration from the council.

Another speaker stated that a recent fire had impressed upon him the immediate need of protection. Burning shingles had fallen on the surrounding roofs and only the layer of snow saved them.

Ald. Turner, Phelan and Duncan and the Mayor spoke in regard to the matter which will likely be dealt with this summer. The Fire, Water and Light Committee were asked to deal with the question.

Will Reconsider it

Mr. William Logan's petition for $60 in settlement for the loss he sustained by entrance to his shop at the corner of Aylmer and Brock streets being cut off by the building of the bridge over the creek last summer will be reconsidered by the Board of Works.

Mr. Logan was given an opportunity to speak and stated that he thought it was not fair on the part for the council to cut his request for $60 down to $30. He had kept it in repair for the last 8 years, he stated, and $60 was little enough. The matter was referred back to the Board of Works.

Statement of Roll

The statement of the roll ending 31 Jan., 1909, was presented by Mr. Green, tax collector, as follows:

To total amount on roll...$159,356.66
By total amount deposited. 147,089.06

Balance	$ 12,267.60
Less 20 per cent discount on first payment	$ 2,290.45
Balance	$ 9,977.15

Total amount collected and deposited during January, $1,825.73.

By-laws Passed

The following bylaws received their several readings and were passed:

By-Law No. 1,432, to authorize the execution of an agreement in respect to the filling in of a part of the River Otonabee.

By-Law No. 1,433—a by-law in respect to the agreement of the delivery of Portland cement for the year 1909.

By-Law No. 1,434, to authorize the appointment of assessors for the year 1909.

By-Law No. 1,435, to authorize the execution of a conveyance of a part of Murray street.

By-Law No. 1,436, to authorize the appointment of a city trust.

Moved by Ald. Gillespie and Turner that the City Clerk thank the Ministerial Association for their invitation to attend church and especially to Rev. E. A. Pearson for his address and the choir of the George Street Church for their music on the occasion of the annual municipal sermon.

The City's Trust Commissioners were appointed at the meeting of the Committee of the Whole Council. The election resulted as follows:

Mr. Jas. Stevenson for five years.
Mr. W. H. Moore for four years.
Mr. Rich. Hall for three years.
Mr. T. E. Bradburn, M.P.P., for two years.
Mr. Robt. Neill for one year.

Three men were nominated for one year, Messrs. E. F. Mason, Robt. Neill and Wm. Langfoerd. The vote resulted in a tie for the first two mentioned. Mayor Rush's vote nominated Mr. eNill.

Finance Committee

The report of the Finance Committee was presented by Ald. Morrow and carried as follows:

That a bond of the Peterborough Hardware Company with one surety, approved of by the committee be accepted, instead of the cheque the company deposited with their tender for supplying the city with cement this year.

That a grant of $15 be made to the Hospital for Sick Children at Toronto.

That the demand of the Board of Education for this year be paid in monthly instalments, as requested by the Board.

That no action be taken on the application of the chief constable that the council pay for an extension telephone in his residence.

That one copy of the Municipal World be ordered.

That no action be taken on the application of Messrs. Smyth and Pappas for a reduction of the license fee for billiard tables.

That the Bell Telephone Company be instructed to place a telephone in the City Clerk's residence.

That the account of Dr. T. N. Greer for $10, for services rendered to W. Taylor be not paid.

That the amount of $10, the fees of Dr. E. A. Hammond and Dr. T. W. H. Young, for the examination of W. H. Moore for insanity, be collected from the city of Ottawa, as the police magistrate's order is that the accounts are payable by this city but collected from the city of Ottawa.

MR. CUMBERLAND TO GIVE LECTURE

The Peterborough Historical Society has another treat in store for its members and for the public generally. On Thursday evening, Feb. 11th, Mr. Barlow Cumberland will deliver an address on "The Attack on Fort York, April 27th, 1813." Mr. Cumberland, who is President of the Ontario Historical Society, has been very active in the agitation for the Restoration of the Old Fort, Toronto, and, of course, equally active in opposing all attempts to detract from its historic value. He has delivered this address at many meetings in Ontario and Quebec, and it has always been much appreciated.

Regarding the attack on Fort York Clements' History says: "American historians gravely assert that the American troops and hung up over the Speaker's Chair in the Legislative Assembly Chamber, a human scalp which has incensed them that they proceeded to burn a number of public buildings."

Many intensely interesting details, never printed in school histories, are brought out in an address such as Mr. Cumberland will deliver. The Historical Society hopes that the public will take advantage of this opportunity of hearing real history. The meeting will be held in the Collegiate Institute.

WILL STUDY THE IDYLLS OF THE KING

About sixty-five young people of the All Saints' congregation attended the first literary meeting last night, and a very enjoyable time was spent. Tennyson's "Idylls of the King" will be taken up by the young people. Last night Rev. Mr. Trumpour read one of the "Idylls" with a running explanation and there was a musical programme followed by refreshments.

ANNUAL MEETING OF LOCK COMPANY

Statement Presented on Monday Was Very Satisfactory—The Directors.

The annual meeting of the Peterborough Lock Manufacturing Company was held at the Company's offices on Monday afternoon.

The annual statement of assets and liabilities, and profit and loss was submitted and approved. Hon. Senator Cox was re-elected Honorary President, Hon. J. R. Stratton was re-elected President, Mr. W. G. Morrow, Vice-President, and Messrs. Thos. Fortye, Wm. Irwin, and A. L. Davis were re-elected Directors. Notwithstanding the extreme depression in the building trade last year, the report was a most satisfactory one.

Band To-night at Jackson Park

CITY FATHERS HAVE BANQUET

After the storm comes a calm, and under the brighter rays of the sun that flaunts its splendour at the fleeting clouds, it is time to enjoy the brightness and warmth.

After the apparent civic storm last night, the thunder ceased, the clouds parted, and the City Fathers went forth to a picnic at Hoopers, being the guests of Mayor Rush. The affair was thoroughly enjoyed. City Clerk Armstrong, City Treasurer Adams, Mr. Rupert Bradburn and members of the press gathered around the festive board for a pleasant hour. United for the city's good but standing by their own opinions, the aldermen left the atmosphere of the Council behind them and very friendly spirit prevailed. A short toast list was honoured, the Mayor receiving the compliments and thanks of every one present.

KATHRYN OSTERMAN

Coming in "The Night of the Play" — Grand Opera House, Feb. 6.

"The Night of the Play" in which jolly Kathryn Osterman will be seen, is one of the big laughs of the season. The audience begin to smile as soon as the curtain is up on the first act and as the action advances swiftly the smiles expand into laughs, then laughs grow into roars and the roars finally mount to screams. The play is a rollicking comedy with a wealth of bright sayings and comical situations that constantly tickle the risibilities.

The comedy is one of Augustin Daly's clever adaptations from the German, the original having been a play by Rosen. To Mr. Daly's spark-

Don't Miss KATHRYN OSTERMAN in "The Night of The Play," next Saturday, February 6th. Special Ladies' and Children's Matinee at 2.20. Plan opens Thursday morning.

ling lines has been added up-to-date dialogue and the result is a smart entertainment that is right up to the minute. The play tells of a young wife who writes a play in collaboration with an author whom she has never seen. She is obliged to keep her work secret from her husband because of his prejudice against the theatre and the secrecy leads to many amusing complications, including the husband's pursuit of the "other man."

Kathryn Osterman as Nancy Brasher has a part that fits her admirably. She plays it in a semi-serious, semi-farcical way that makes every line count. She travels a lively pace in the comedy, but carries the audience right along with her. Indeed the pace of the whole play is a rattling gallop and there are no dull moments.

Miss Osterman has the support of a clever company, all the parts being played acceptably.

The gowns of Miss Osterman are a feature of the performance, one, a directoire model worn in the last act, being particularly dazzling.

MISPLACED POLITENESS BRINGS EMBARRASSMENT

Last night at the performance of "The Private Secretary," two gentlemen occupied seats behind a young lady. At the end of the play when everybody was donning wraps or rubbers, one of the gentlemen, after he had got on his own rubbers, saw an extra one under the seat of the young lady in front of him. Perhaps afflicted by the distraught "the absent minded spirit of" the Spalding," the gentleman, with the politeness that is interwoven in his character, lifted the rubber and holding it in front of the young lady gallantly inquired if it were hers. The situation may be imagined when it is known that the golosh which was of pontoon variety —No. 9—belonged to his friend. If looks and indignant repudiation could kill, the fiery flash of the outraged damsel's eyes would have collapsed the undiplomatic gentleman into a corpse, on the spot. He had the good sense not to apologize and afterwards consoled himself that the size of the lady's shoe had innocently led him into the mistake of associating the young lady's feet with a No. 9 "golosh."

Note.—In justice I must be said that the gentleman had not gone out between the acts.

The absolute purity and delicious flavour, the refreshing and invigorating qualities of "Salada" Tea, have made it the daily beverage of millions of satisfied users. 92

Interesting Information In Regard To Water Works New Dam

Mr. Matthews Presents to Council Details Received From Mr. Kennedy in Regard to the Construction of the Proposed New Dam—Pointed Information.

THE ESTIMATED COST.

Considerable information is contained in the report from Mr. Wm. Kennedy, of Montreal, to the Water Commissioners regarding the proposed new dam. The report was presented at the meeting of the council on Monday night and should prove to be of interest to all those who follow civic undertakings. The first letter is as follows—

T. F. Matthews, Esq.,
Chairman Board of Water Commissioners, Peterborough, Ont.

Sir,—I am sending you to-day by Dominion Express, three blue prints in duplicate, preliminary designs and plans for the proposed new dam, the pump house and pumping plant for your town.

The dam as will be seen by reference to the plans is intended to be constructed of concrete piers, built on a solid concrete base or low dam, the latter founded on rock bottom, with sluices between the piers of sufficient capacity to discharge the entire river flow at high water periods without causing flooding or unduly high back water in the pond; the sluices to be closed, or partly closed, by stop logs as may be required, to control the river discharge; thus making available the entire low water river flow for power purposes. The stop logs will be handled by power winches, probably electrically worked.

Details of Construction

There will be a log slide in the dam; and the dam throughout its entire length will be covered by a steel re-inforced concrete floor or bridge.

The pump house, situated at the westerly end of the dam, will have concrete foundations, penstocks and forebays, all founded on rock bottom wheel pits and tail races.

The superstructure will be of brick, with iron window sashes, steel concrete floors in the pipe vault and machinery room, thus being of the most durable construction and absolutely fire proof.

The pumping plant will consist of one new unit of three million imperial gallons capacity per 24 hours, when pumping against 115 lbs. pressure in the air vessel, for fire purposes, also the two 2 1-4 million gallons each pumping unit in the present pump house. The new unit will be first installed and set to work, after which the old units will be removed, if necessary and removed to the new pumping station, thus providing an uninterrupted water supply to the town. The pumping capacity will then be 7 1-2 million gallons per day with provision in the pump house for an additional unit of 3 millions, thus ultimately providing for 10 1-2 million imperial gallons per day.

The pump house will be well lighted, and provided with a travelling crane capable of handling any part of the machinery in the building.

There will be a concrete decked crib, situated in the pond, for the intake or suction pipe, with centre well and revolving screens for convenient cleansing.

The suction and discharge pipes will be well supplied with slap valves for cutting off any pump or set of pumps as may be necessary.

It is intended that the dam, pump house and pumping plant, in fact the entire development shall be so designed, constructed and equipped as to be thoroughly modern and efficient throughout, as well as absolutely fire proof. The materials of construction will be almost entirely of concrete, iron and steel, thus securing the greatest degree of permanence and reducing the cost of maintenance and operation to a minimum.

Approximate Cost

The estimated cost of the dam with bridge, power house, intake crib, 7 1-2 million gallons capacity pumping plant installed complete with suction and discharge pipes, valves, etc., is one hundred and seventeen thousand dollars ($117,000). This amount includes 12 1-2 per cent for contingencies, also 5 per cent for engineering and inspection, but does not include land, legal or printing expenses.

With more time at command and detail plans fully worked out I expect the cost will be reduced from this preliminary estimate but should exceed rather than fall short of the actual cost.

I may remark that it is the intention to provide a continuous roadway across the river, on the dam, thus requiring slight changes from the preliminary plans but included in the estimate of cost.

WM. KENNEDY, Jr.

A number of questions were asked Mr. Kennedy by Mr. Matthews, and were answered as follows—

What Head will the Proposed Dam Give

The head will fluctuate slightly according to the river flow, but I propose the low water pond level to be maintained at elevation 783.6 to 784.5 or at least one foot higher than the present dam crest levels, which with a further gain of, say nine inches in tail water, by placing the dam further down stream, will be a total gain of at least fifteen per cent of the present head from the dam crest to tail water, as given by Mr. Henderson to October 1908,—or from, say present head 10 feet to 11 1-2 feet proposed head.

This fifteen per cent, or over, extra head will give a net gain in results output power to pumping or electrical machinery of twenty per cent or over, at the new dam.

I expect we will do better than this, but the exact gain can only be determined by actual tests under varying water conditions.

What Horse Power will it Give?

The horse power will vary in proportion as the variations in river flow from low to high water, but at ordinary low river flow of 65,000 cu ft per minute, (figures obtained by Mr. Henderson, superintendent) and 11 1-2 feet head the power will be 1132 H. P. allowing 80 per cent efficiency on water wheels, increasing as above stated with river flow, or, probably 1300 H. P. during a great part of the year; increasing to 2000 H. P. at a good flow.

Provisions for Raising Water

Provision is made in the design of the new dam to permit of raising the water four feet, or more, higher than the crest of the old dam, (this being an an advisable precaution to take care of extreme floods), but to maintain this extreme height would raise the pond so as to injure the turbines at the Nassau dam, and would not be allowed.

With the new dam, and the proper use of the stop logs, the pond level can be maintained to the greatest permissable height under all conditions.

Yours truly,
WM. KENNEDY, Jr.

The Camera Club Has Had Most Satisfactory Series Of Meetings Since Its Inception

The Peterborough Camera Club has now completed its fourth month of existence, and has now a membership of 31 active members, and 24 honorary members, and financially is on a sound footing. Its meetings have been fairly well attended. It was organized on Sept. 18th with 8 active members which has now increased to 31 active members.

The officers elected at the first meeting in October were:—

Hon. President: His Worship Mayor Rush.
Hon. Vice-President: Professional Photographer.
President: J. A. Morgan, M.D.
1st Vice-President: Mr. R. S. Rose.
2nd Vice-Pres.: Mrs. A. McCarthy.
Sec.-Treas.: N. A. Howard Moore.

Since that date an executive committee of six has been elected: Messrs. A. W. Patterson, Alfred Rogers, and J. A. Brightman for two years, and Messrs. James English, Allen McCarthy and R. Picard for one year.

At each meeting a programme of exceptional excellence has been presented, which has been both entertaining and instructive, consisting of papers on the "Dark Room," "Art of Negative Making," "At Home Portraiture," "Photography; an Aid to Surveyors and Surveying," all of these were accompanied with charts and illustrations on the subject. Demonstrations were also given on "Sepia Work," by Mr. Louis Mendel; "Analytical Composition of sodium Salts," by Mr. Frank Russell, and "Printing and Development, and obtaining of Sepia effects on Velox papers," by Mr. S. F. Badgley of the Canadian Kodak Co., of Toronto. All of these were listened to by the members and their friends with a great deal of interest. A number of other features have also been promised for the balance of the winter, including "Lantern Slide Making," "Bank Development" and "Pyro Development." An exhibition some time during April is under consideration.

The last meeting held on Tuesday, Jan. 26, was an unusually interesting one to the large audience which greeted the demonstrator Mr. S. F. Badgley, of Toronto. He gave a very instructive talk on "Printing and Development of Velox Papers" and "Obtaining of Sepia effects on Velox Papers." The work done by Mr. Badgley was of the first order, was watched attentively by everyone present, the questions which were asked by many showed an unusual interest, and all felt that the two hours was all too short. Several hints which Mr. Badgley gave are worthy of reproduction. "Snap shots should be used only by new beginners, time exposures should only be practised by those of experience;" "The stronger the development, the softer the prints." Those who were not present missed one of the most instructive of the series. The subject for the next meeting will be "Pyro Developing" with a demonstration.

OUTLAY FOR THE PRESENT YEAR

Main Estimates Brought Down in House Show Big Decrease.

SAVING WILL BE $19,296,389

If No Supplementary Estimates Are Brought In Expenditures Will Fall Well Below Those of Last Year—Many Public Buildings Are Planned — Sir Wilfrid Favors Three New Committees.

Ottawa, Feb. 2.—The main estimates for the fiscal year ending March 31, 1910, were tabled last evening by the Minister of Customs calling for an expenditure of $110,489,774, a comparative decrease of $19,296,389. Should the Government stick to its decision to bring in no supplementary estimates this session, this would represent the net decrease in estimated expenditure. Last session supplementary estimates totaled over ten and a half millions.

Chief decrease are: In arts, agriculture and statistics, $585,500; militia, chargeable to income, $636,125; public works, chargeable to income, $8,000,000; lighthouse and coast service, $668,150; railways and canals, income, $636,125. The increases include: $1,741,180 in interest and charges on public debt and $1,874,679 in the item of civil government, which provides for the enhanced salaries of inside civil service.

For redemption of public debt the sum of $50,825,262 is asked, which takes in the "Canada reduced 4 per cent. loan, payable January, 1910, and the "4 per cent. loan of 1885, payable Jan. 1, 1910."

Under the head of immigration the decrease is $106,120. The sum of $150,000 is asked for preparing plans, etc., for the reconstruction of Quebec bridge.

Under the head of public buildings for Ontario there are the following, including revotes: Belleville armory, $15,000; Belleville, to reimburse City of Belleville re drill hall site, $2,025; Brantford drill hall improvements, $3,000; Cornwall Dominion public buildings, $20,000; Fort William public building enlargement, $11,000; Glencoe public buildings, $26,000; Hamilton drill hall, addition, $37,000; Kincardine public building, $15,000; Kingston Military College, addition, $57,000; accommodation for stables, $15,000; Kingston Veterinary Hospital, $15,000; Leamington public building, $23,000; Markham public building, $10,000; Ottawa, buildings for testing fuel, $15,000; Owen Sound public building, $20,000; Parkhill public building, $20,000; Peterboro armory, $37,000; Renfrew public building, $16,000; Simcoe public building, $20,000.

Toronto Dominion buildings, repairs, $5,000: drill hall, additional accommodation, $25,000; meteorological observatory, $44,000; military magazine, $1,500; post office, to make good damage by fire of 1906, $25,000; Welland, public buildings, $33,000; Whitby public buildings, $28,000.

The following additional expenditures are asked for public works in Ontario: Burlington channel piers, reconstruction, $50,000; Cobourg, extension of breakwater, $60,000; Goderich harbor, repairs to piers, $5,350; harbors, rivers and bridges, general repairs and improvements, $25,000; Little Current, improvement of northern channel, $28,000; renewal bank protection works at Chatham, $7,100; Montreal river, improvements above Latchford, $25,000; Pelee Islands, western wharf, $5,500; Port Stanley, harbor improvements, $45,000; River St. Lawrence, improvement to channel between Kingston and Brockville, $75,000; Rideau harbor, improvements, $25,000; Sault Ste. Marie, dredging, $56,000; Southampton, extension of dock, $6,000; Toronto harbor, improvements, $375,000.

Under the head of customs salaries and contingent expenses in several parts, including pay for overtime of officers, the additional sum of $95,600 is asked. City postoffice salaries are increased: $18,000 in Ottawa, $53.90 in Toronto, $5,389 in Hamilton, $1,135 in Brantford, $4,866 in London, $3,226 in St. Thomas, $13,533 in Winnipeg, and $11,408 in Vancouver.

There is a big reduction on Intercolonial Railway, the item of $9,798,830, looking after capital expenditures, comparing with $4,502,240 last year.

There is a reduction of $40,000 in the item of industries of Kingston Penitentiary.

Twenty millions are provided for surveys and construction of the National transcontinental railway in place of thirty millions last year, while for the Hudson Bay Railway $65,000 is provided.

Canals get $1,720,300, of which the following items are for the Welland, chargeable to capital: Electric lighting and power plant, $8,000; to widen canal near Welland, $40,000; Port Colborne improvements, $65,000; surveys, $10,000; dock, south of Welland, $40,000; siding to Port Colborne elevator, $21,000. Chargeable to income the following sums are included: To renew entrance piers, Port Maitland, $65,000; stone protection to banks, $10,000; heavy repairs, $10,000; to renew foundations of junction lock, $8,000; to build new steel gate lifter, $12,000; to renew bridge over raceway, lock No. 2, old canal, $1,500; to renew three feeder bridges, $3,000.

Most of the items for civil government passed last night when the estimates were taken up.

In seven minutes the House disposed of Mr. Lancaster's level crossings bill by putting it through all the stages as in the same form as it was last year, and it now goes back to the Senate, perhaps to be inhumanly slaughtered again.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier readily accepted R. L. Borden's suggestion that a select standing committee on natural resources be appointed. Mr. Borden asserted that development and conservation might well be the watchwords of the representatives of the people in Parliament, yet any stimulus to public interest had come almost together from the outside. Mr. Borden suggested that a sub-committee might be appointed to deal with the fisheries, resources and interests. Germany had greatly increased its forest wealth by turning the rough hill districts into timber lands, and he quoted a statement that the spruce forests of Nova Scotia are reproducing more rapidly than any other timber in the world. The water-powers should be held for the general benefits of the people, not handed over to private control. The mineral wealth of the country should also be carefully guarded. The committee could also investigate the advisability of preventing the export of pulpwood.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier was in favor of the principle of the resolution, but thought that as the subjects involved were various it would be better to have more than one committee, say one for fisheries, one for minerals and one for forests and waterways. It would be better to have smaller Parliamentary committees and more of them.

Mr. Borden agreed. He had only ventured to ask for one more committee, but would cheerfully accept three.

Mr. Aylesworth introduced a bill to prevent the payment or acceptance of illicit or secret commissions, explaining that there was already an act directed against persons receiving commissions from transaction while acting for the Governments or municipal bodies. The proposal goes further and makes it illegal on the part of any employe to receive commissions in considerations of favors to be given at the expense of the employe.

Dr. Barr introduced his bill to facilitate the crossing of railway tracks by telephone, telegraph or electric wires or water mains. It provides that the person or company requiring to cross the track may proceed with the work if no action is taken by the railway company within 15 days.

Too Much Brandy In Chocolate.

Montreal, Feb. 2.—Dr. Milton Hersey yesterday morning submitted to the court his report of the analysis of the brandy chocolates which were seized by detectives in a big raid on local confectionery establishments, made last week. Dr. Hersey stated that the liquid in the chocolates contained 6.26 [illegible] per cent. of brandy. The percentage of alcohol in the whole candy was about 7. The chocolates were about half the strength of ordinary brandy, and he considered them intoxicating.

RUSSIA SETTLES THE QUESTION

Arrives at a Solution of the Near East Difficulty.

EXIT BALKAN WAR CLOUD

Financial Difficulties Are Cleverly Solved by Scheme In Which Bulgaria Pays Money In Dispute to Turkey and Latter Pays Debt to Russia With It—Powers Concerned Are All Agreeable.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 2.—The Turko-Bulgarian deadlock over the amount of money to be paid Turkey by Bulgaria because of the Bulgarian declaration of independence is practically broken and the war cloud in southeastern Europe has been dissipated by the acceptance of a plan proposed by Russia, which reconciles in a novel manner the Turkish claim of 120,000,000 francs ($24,000,000) and the Bulgarian offer of 82,000,000 francs ($16,400,000).

This plan is based on the war indemnity of 8,000,000 francs a year, which, in accordance with the Berlin treaty of 1878, Turkey is to pay Russia for a hundred years. These payments bear no interest. The Russian proposal is to remit them until the Turkish claim against Bulgaria is satisfied. Russia will collect instead 82,000,000 francs from Bulgaria in similar installments. These payments will bear interest, and the amount of this interest will recoup Russia.

Bulgaria has formally assented to this proposal, and the Russian Government has assurances that the plan is satisfactory to the Turks.

The settlement of the Turko-Bulgarian difficulties, it is stated in well informed circles, involves the recognition of the kingdom of Bulgaria, whose proclamation of independence precipitated the crisis.

One Man's Downfall.

Brockville, Feb. 2.—Richard C. Grindlay, a tramp, locked up here on suspicion of being a murderer, wanted in Rochester, N.Y., was yesterday discharged. Grindlay is very well connected in Glasgow, his father being president of a large manufacturing concern, while a brother is an eminent lawyer. His wife and family live in Plainfield, N.J., but he is a confirmed inebriate, and they would sooner live without him.

Fatalities on G.T.P.

Vancouver, B. C., Feb. 2.—The steamer Rupert City arrived with the bodies of Peter Burglund, Seattle, and Eric Lindstrom, sub-contractors on the G.T.P. Burglund was killed by the premature explosion of dynamite. Transporting the remains 40 miles up the Skeena river was extremely difficult, as the river is piled high with ice, and with seven feet of snow on the banks. Lindstrom was killed in his bed by a landslide.

Experiment Futile.

Fort Wayne, Ind., Feb. 2.—Dr. Germain E. Nirman, 38 years old, died on Sunday, following an operation recently performed at his direction, sent to prove the theory that he advocated some time ago at a medical meeting in Washington. Dr. Nirman held that the removal of the colon would make one immune from diseases. As he was locally diseased in the colon he decided to experiment on himself to prove his theory.

Anniversary of Assassination.

Lisbon, Feb. 2.—The first anniversary of the assassination of King Carlos of Portugal and his son, Crown Prince Luiz, occurred yesterday and passed off quietly.

King Manuel, Queen Marie Amelie and a number of court dignitaries attended a memorial service in the Pantheon of St. Vincent, where the remains of King Carlos and his son lie buried.

Port Hope Council Gets Busy.

Port Hope, Feb. 2—The Town Council last night decided to have a representative of the Provincial Board of Health visit Port Hope to look into the smallpox scare. Pointed allegations were made that the trouble was being carried about by doctors.

Ald. Curtis introduced a bylaw looking toward compulsory vaccination, which measure carried, with a recommendation that several foreigners' families be specially cared for.

"Don't Neglect a Cough or Cold."

It can have but one result. It leaves the throat or lungs, or both, affected.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup is the medicine you need. It is without an equal as a remedy for Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Sore Throat, Pain in the Chest, Asthma, Whooping Cough, Quinsy and all affections of the Throat and Lungs.

A single dose of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup will stop a cough, soothe the throat, and if the cough or cold has become settled on the lungs, the healing properties of the Norway Pine Tree will proclaim its great virtue by promptly eradicating the bad effects, and a persistent use of the remedy cannot fail to bring about a complete cure.

Do not be humbugged into buying so-called Norway Pine Syrups, but be sure and insist on having Dr. Wood's. It is put up in a yellow wrapper, three pine trees the trade mark, and price 25 cents.

Mrs. A. Elles, Innisfail, Alta., writes: "Last spring I had Typhoid fever and Bronchitis, which left me with a terrible cough. I tried doctor's medicine but got no relief until my husband got me a bottle of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, and before I had finished it my cough was cured. My husband also uses it whenever he has a cough. I would not be without it."

RUNNING ATHLETICS HOCKEY

GREAT ICE FOR TO-NIGHT'S GAME WITH COBOURG'S INTERMEDIATES

To-night's big game with Cobourg will be called at 8.15 o'clock and a grand sheet of ice is ready for the teams. There is every indication of a big crowd being on hand to see the battle. It is necessary that the Peterboroughs should win in order to keep in the running, and they may be depended upon to play the hardest kind of hockey from start to finish, while Cobourg, although out of the running, are desirous of making a good showing, and will have their strongest line-up on for to-night's battle, which promises to be the best that has been seen here this season. The Cobourg team will arrive on the 6.30 train and will have with them Crossen, Bently and company, believing that they can trim Peterborough right on their own ice. The locals remembering the hard battle that the visitors gave Lindsay are not going to take any chances, and will play hockey from the drop of the hat. Both teams relish the keen going, and they will get what they are looking for to-night, as the best ice of the year is available for the game.

The Peterborough team will line-up as follows:—

Goal — Derocher.
Point — Glover.
Cover — Moore.
Rover — Parnell.
Centre — Morgan.

Charlie Ray is still under the weather as the result of the effect of his recent illness, and is being kept for Friday's game against Lindsay.

Mr. F. C. Waghorne will referee.

MURRAY STREET JUNIORS BEAT KNOX TEAM IN CHURCH LEAGUE GAME

A splendid game was played in the Junior Church League at the Park street Rink last night, when the Murray street Juniors took the Knox Church youngsters into camp by a score of 4-2, leading at the half by 2-1.

The game was a good exhibition all the way, the Baptists having a shade the better of the argument.

The teams lined up as follows:—

Murray street.		Knox Church
	Goal
Scott		Taylor
	Point
Wilson		Neary
	Cover Point
Irwin		Thompson
	Rover
Evans		Mein
	Centre

PETERBORO' JUNIORS WERE BADLY BEATEN BY PORT HOPE TEAM

The Peterborough junior O. H. A. team were badly beaten in a junior O. H. A. game at Port Hope last night, losing to the Lakeshore bunch by the somewhat biased score of eight goals to nothing. The play was considerably closer than the score would indicate, but at that the Peterborough youngsters were out-played all the way, the speed of the Hopers being too much for them. The winners checked back very fast, and this helped them immensely, while on the other hand the Petes shot poorly when they did get away and their mistakes when in close lost them their opportunities to score. Brown, Port Hope's little rover, was the star of the game, playing grand hockey. He was fast as lightning and was very hard to stop when he got going. Hueston, at cover point, also played a fine game, and in fact, the whole team was there with the goods.

Rose Dobson and Wade were Peterborough's best and never let up for a minute.

The Peterborough team lined up as follows:

Goal—L. Giroux.
Point—Wade.
Cover—Dobson
Rover—Rose.
Centre—C. Giroux.
Right wing—Short.

SPENCELEY SAYS HE IS CHAMPION

Claims He Won the Title in Brock Street Rink on July 12th Last.

To the Sporting Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—I would like you to favour me with a part of your sporting column. I noticed on the hand bills in regard to the Harrison-Blake walk, which took place on Saturday in the roller rink that James Harrison styled himself as the champion walker, of Peterborough. I merely wish to call the public's notice that I, Wilbert B. Spencley, hold that title, winning it on the 12th of July last in the Brock street rink. In the contest of this walk for the county championship of Peterborough, in which he refused to partake. I hope that James Harrison will not take offence with this insertion, as it is merely a matter of fact. Hoping this will not take up too much of your valuable space, and oblige

Yours respectfully,
W. B SPENCLEY.

ANOTHER FAST SCHOOL GAME

Geale's Seven Put a Tent Over Conroy's in Collegiate Series.

Geale's team won another game in the Collegiate Hockey League last night by defeating Conroy's team 10-0.

The game started out with a rush and in the first fifteen minutes Geale had scored three and Richardson two goals. Conroy's team steadied down and for ten minutes there was no scoring. But the game soon became one-sided again and at half-time the score was 6-0. It was Conroy's fine work that kept the score from being greater. He got away with frequent rushes but received little support.

Geale played a fine game as usual, and was well supported by the rest of his team.

The line-up:—

Conroy		Geale's
	Goal
Hooper		Layfield
	Point
Kerns		Meldrum
	Cover Point
Conroy		Geale
	Rover
Ackerman		Matthews
	Centre
Hairstone		Dixon
	Left Wing
Clegg		Dean
	Right Wing
Corkery		Richardson

Fred. Dennison was referee.

POST CARD COLUMN

Editor Post Card Column:

Dear Sir,—I noticed in your issue of last evening an account of the meeting of the Stony Lake Cottagers' Association and their indignation at the neglect of the Radial Railway in not following out their agreement. Now, I am not particularly interested in Stony Lake, because the traffic between Peterborough and Stony Lake only lasts about three months in the year. What I am interested in is this poor, neglected Fifth Ward, Viz., Ashburnham, where the mud puddles are ten inches deep in the middle of the roads after every shower, and the bridges on the main streets so narrow that horses and vehicles fall over the edge into the creek, as you have reported in your paper twice lately.

The city councils of the past years seem to have forgotten the very existence of Ashburnham. Even the Radial Railway, with all their fair representations, when they wanted the franchise, are no nearer running a line over here than they ever were. It is an actual fact that our population moves over the river every day. The Collegiate Institute, Drill Hall, Opera House, Jackson Park and other parks, most of the churches, cemetery, hospital and railway depots are all on the west side of the river, and Ashburnhamites have to walk or stay at home.

Everyone seems to have forgotten the Fifth Ward but the city assessor. He remembers it, yes, and makes his doings remembered.

We hear that the Smith street bridge is to be a cheap affair, that will not carry the steam roller. So, I suppose, we will have to negotiate with the Otonabee Council to get them to come up and improve our streets. Really, Mr. Editor, it is laughable to think of Ashburnhamites talking about "our" steam roller and they never see it without walking a mile or two to get a view of it.

We are hoping for a little consideration at the hands of the new council. Half of our voters plumped for their two representatives this year, and if things go on as they have been, we will have to quit voting for anyone else.

Yours,
FIFTH WARD.

Peterborough, Feb. 1, 1909.

WHY WESTERNERS ARE SO PROUD OF THEIR COUNTRY

Can Grow Best Wheat on Earth.

Both the story and the success of Purity Flour begin in the rich, black heavy soil, the gumbo, as it is called, that characterizes the plains of Western Canada. After examination by the world's foremost scientists, this soil has been proclaimed the richest on earth's surface in every constituent that goes to the making of wheat. Western Canada must, therefore, be looked to for their wheat by all the wheat-eating countries that want the best flour, or require full, hard wheat. So that the reason for the existence of the great St. Boniface mill of the Western Canada Flour Mills Company lies in the fact that it stands at the door of the provinces which possess this rich wheat soil.

The Western Canada Flour Mills Company has a far-reaching system of storehouses scattered throughout the entire West, which are used both as purchasing depots and flour warehouses. Along the main and branch lines of the Western railways there are at present over 75 of these, and this number is being constantly added to as new lines of railway open up virgin wheat country. They have a capacity of over two and a half million bushels. As fast as the wheat is bought, and required at any of the company's mills it is shipped to Brandon, Winnipeg or Goderich, in which cities the company's mills are located.

The St. Boniface Mill is one of the show places of Winnipeg. Among millers it is famous as one of the most perfectly equipped large modern mills in the world. In extent the property covers over 12 acres. The mills, which were completed in 1906, cost over $1,000,000. The mill proper is seven stories in height, with a floor space of 75,000 square feet; and apart from the mill there are 14 tanks with a capacity, including the workhouse, of over 500,000 bushels; an elevator that has a capacity of 45,000 bushels, and an electric power plant from which is distributed power, light and heat for the entire establishment.

The mechanical equipment is nothing short of marvellous. Its amazing completeness may be estimated from the fact that in the huge seven story building of the mill itself there are less than ten men employed; the entire work being carried on by automatic machinery.

Is it any wonder these Westerners are proud, proud of their country and its soil, their wheat, and of the product of that wheat, i. e., Purity Flour.

HASTINGS WANTS VILLAGE POO BAH

"Multum in Parvo" Must be the Motto of the Village Fathers.

The municipality of the village of Hastings is advertising for a man who will be called upon to play as many parts as Pooh Bah of Mikado fame. In the advertisement which will be found in this issue, it will be seen that the village fathers are looking for a man who shall be village constable, the engineer of the village fire engine, the street commissioner, sanitary inspector, pound keeper, caretaker of the town hall and the fire hall, and to furnish woodd to heat the council chamber Shakespeare must have foreseen this man when he remarked with his usual truthfulness: "One man in his time plays many parts."

JORDAN BROS., FLORISTS, NEW RETAIL STORE

Bloom and Business Budding Brightly as Usual a Few Doors Farther North.

The change of retail store premises made by Jordan Brob., city florists, from 416 to 428 George street, was quickly executed yesterday, causing scarcely any interruption to business. The window of the new retail store is already in bloom with floowers, and the firm's handsome gilt sign is now in position over the door. Everything was well managed, so that customers were not inconvenienced by the removal.

The new premises is very convenient for an attractive floral display. Besides it affords the additional advantage of extra accommodation in the rear for a workroom, where wreaths and bouquets may be made up with greater dispatch. The same close attention to business will, of course, characterize the firm's methods as before.

Be sure and hear Controller Hocken at the Ladies' Orange Lodge Concert in S.O.E. Hall, Hunter Street on Friday evening, Feb. 5th. Good Programme. Admission 25 cents. 3d—27

MOVING PICTURE SHOW GIVEN AT CAVANVILLE

Views of Champlain Ter-Centenary—An Excellent Presentation Given by Mr. Laidlaw.

The moving picture show which was given by Mr. C. N. C. Laidlaw, at Cavanville, on Friday, January 29th, was a marked success. The films showing the celebration ceremonies at Quebec last summer were splendid and made a big hit. "Making Love to Coleman's Wife" was an exceptionally funny picture and brought down the house.

Mr. Fred M. Hutchinson, of Cavanville, added greatly to the pleasure of the evening by singing the illustrated song, entitled "Sister," accompanied on the piano by Miss Edith Hutchinson. The show will be repeated in full next Thursday, February 4th, at Cavanville.

Local Amateurs Score Big Hit In Production Of The Farce "The Private Secretary"

Thoma's Clever Comedy Presented With Great Effect at Grand Opera House Under the Direction of Mr. Irving Beers—Cast Won Many Laurels for Themselves.

A distinct triumph was scored by the local amateurs who last evening at the grand Opera House put on a production of Chas. Hawtrey's clever farce "The Private Secretary" before a large and thoroughly delighted audience. The cast under the direction of Mr Irving Beers, who made himself known to the local theatre goers through the presentation of "All the Comforts of Home," did magnificent work last night in staging the comedy chosen as their vehicle and that the audience was satisfied with their clever acting was indicated by the applause and laughter which continuously rippled through the house. The production once more enabled Mr Beers to demonstrate his ability in training amateurs for stage work and that talented gentleman has reason to feel proud of the work of his pupils.

"The Private Secretary" must be played correctly to be effective and the amateurs should be congratulated upon the way in which they handled the difficult production it is decidedly funny but much of the humour would be lost through in different stage work and that there were no hitches or mix ups should be a matter of satisfaction to every one cocerned. As in the case of "All the Comforts of Home" a number of the cast were making their first appearance before the foot lights but there was little signs of it in their work last night, none of the usual stage fright or gaucherie usually associated with amateurs.

"The Private Secretary" is well-known to the older generation of the theatre goers but has not been seen here for many years and was consequently new to a large part of the audience last night. The complications that arise and the hilariously funny situations introduced make it a most laughable farce from beginning to end. The action never drags and the dialogue is bright and witty, with a laugh in every speech. Last night's cast took full advantage of every opportunity to produce a laugh and they played Mr Hawtrey's comedy as it was meant to be played so that their efforts were thoroughly enjoyable. The action hinges around the return from India of Mr Douglas Douglas, whom he proposes to benefit but who is not to receive a cent until he has sown his wild oats. Douglas has signed notes and run up bills to such an extent that he is liable to fall into the clutches of the law but is rescued by his chum, Harry Marsland who proposes that his friend accompany him to his uncle Marsland's residence and pose as the private secretary for whom he has advertised and in the meantime they persuade the real private secretary, Rev Robt Spaulding an English church curate an innocent, effeminate, lifeless, but well educated man, to remain in his place. The consequence is that when Uncle Cattermere arrives he finds him and taking him for his nephew is disgusted with the private secretary. Then Mr. Spaulding gets a telegram from Mr Marsland to come down to his country place and he follows the pseudo private secretary with the result that the complications are fast and furious. Fun is added by Gibson the tailor who desires to get into society and by Miss Ashford the old maid guardian of Marsland's girls who has a strong interest in spiritualism and who takes the real private secretary for a medium with most amusing results.

A large share of the honours of the evening fell to Mr A. C. Yokome who played the part of Rev Robert Spaulding, so that it stood out like a sore thumb to use a theatrical phrase, his clever work winning him round after round of applause. He gave a splendid conception of the part making Spaulding appear as a smileless expressionless inert curate, chief interest in life seemed to be to take care of his Bath sun, his umbrella and his goloshes. His make up and acting were uniformly good and when it is considered that the part is one of extreme difficulty, his work is all the more creditable.

Mr D. F MacRae was cast as the stormy blustering Cattermole from the wilds of India and gave a capital interpretation of the role, his rough ways being very amusing. Mr. Chas A. Barber as Douglas the spendthrift nephew and Mr W. E. Hillman as Harry Mdarsland, his chum were natural and unaffected in their acting and their efforts were finished and successful.

Mr. W. S. Davidson had the role of Gibson the ambitious tailor and his work in that role left nothing to be desired. His efforts to break into society and his breaks when he had "broken" brought down the house. Mr. H B Gillespie gave an effective portrayal of the role of Mr. Marsland, his work at all times being good.

Mrs. J. N. Barber, who will be remembered by her splendid work as Mrs Bender in "All the Comforts of Home" was cast last night as Miss Ashford an old maid who believes in spiritualism and she made a big hit in the part by her make up and clever acting. She managed to get a whole lot of comedy out of the role.

Miss May Overend was splendid in the part of Mrs. Stead, the lodging house keeper and Miss M. Brooks and Miss Bessie Brightman as Miss Edith Marsland and her friend Miss Eva Webster played their parts with ease and naturalness.

Mr. Claude Brady in the dual role of Knox writ server and John a servant did justice to the parts.

Stony Lake Cottagers Unite With City Re Street Railway

A deputation from the Stony Lake Cottagers' Association waited upon the Council on Monday night at the meeting in committee, in regard to the extension of the street railway. It was composed of Messrs Robt. Neill, J S Knapman, Wm. Irwin, F Brownscombe, D W Dumble and R G Kingan. They asked the council what the city's position was in regard to the application for the extension of time to build a line to Stony Lake which the Street Railway Company were going to make to the Legislature.

Mr. Brownscombe read a resolution which was passed at the last meeting of the Association in which they were opposed to an indefinite delay in the work.

Mr. Neill and Mr. Dumble also spoke in regard to the matter. The latter pointed out the benefits that the cottagers would enjoy by a street railway line instead of the present difficulties which were experienced by the large number of people who spent the summer season at the Lakes. The Association wanted to act in harmony with the council and they did not wish to antagonize the local railway company. They wanted the latter to be given first preference but if they did not intend to do the work soon, the cottagers did not want to see other organizations blocked who would step in and provide a railway in the near future. Mr. Dumble said that if the promise were given that the Peterborough Radial Railway Company would do the work this year or next, that would be satisfactory. The Association wanted to be fair and reasonable and they recognized the efforts of the local company to give the city a modern service.

Mayor Rush suggested that the deputation also wait on Mr Larmouth and state their views to him.

It was stated that the council looked for a promise of construction this year or next and if this was made definite they would not oppose the company's application for an extension of time.

YOUR HAT

May Be a Stylish One, But It Makes Trouble.

A man usually buys a hat that's 'in style' but the modern hat for men has lots to answer for.

Baldheads are growing more numerous every day. Hats make excellent breeding places for the parasitic germs which sap the life from the roots of the hair.

When your hair begins to fall out and the scalp is full of dandruff it is a sure sign that these countless germs are busily at work.

There is but one way to overcome the trouble and kill the germs—that way is to apply Newbro's Herpicide to the scalp—it will kill the germs and healthy hair is sure to result.

WEDDING BELLS

PORTER—ANDERSON

A very pretty wedding took place on Wednesday, Jan. 27, at 5.30 p.m., at the home of Mr. Joseph Porter, of Bailieborough, when his eldest daughter, Miss Eva Josephine, was united in marriage to Mr. Edmund Ernest Anderson.

The drawing room was very prettily decorated with evergreens and flowers for the occasion.

The bride was given away by her father and entered the room to the strains of Mendelssohn's "Wedding March," which was played by Miss Vina Moncrief, of Benafort.

The bride looked handsome in a gown of white silk, with garniture of point lace, her veil was surmounted by a wreath of orange blossoms; she carried a shower of bride's roses.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Fanny Porter, and the groom was supported by Mr. Fred. Anderson.

Miss Ruberta Anderson and Miss Helen Porter were ribbon girls.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. D. A. McKenzie.

After congratulations, guests to the number of sixty partook of a dainty dejeuner. The bride was the recipient of many very beautiful and valuable gifts.

Mr. and Mrs. Anderson have the best wishes of a large circle of friends for their future welfare.

PUPILS HAVE TO WEAR THEIR WRAPS

Conditions at West Ward School Said to be Rather Irregular.

The members of the Board of Education are not quite sure whether the heating system or the janitor of the West Ward School is to blame for the fact that the children have frequently to wear their wraps in the rooms. Dr. Morrison stated that an enquiry should be made before the money for the work of installing the system was paid.

Mr. Dumble stated that he had been at the school recently and everything appeared to be satisfactory. Mr. Crane remarked that Mr. Dumble was the father of that system and he should look to its success.

REGULAR MEETING OF REBEKAH LODGE

Twenty-eight New Candidates Instructed in the Mysteries.

A regular meeting of the Golden Link Rebekah Lodge, No. 18, I.O.O.F., was held last night (Tuesday) in the I.O.O.F. Hall. The business of the evening was gone through in which twenty-eight candidates were instructed in the mysteries of the Rebekah degree. Also during the evening short adresses were given by District Deputy Grand Master A. A. Fowler; Past Noble Grand Col. Miller and Past Noble Grand Kelly of Lakefield, and Past Noble Grand Bro. Patterson, of Havelock. They spoke in glowing terms on the prosperity of the Lodge, and of the effective manner in which the work of the degree staff was done. They also complimented the officers for the manner in which they gave the different lectures of initiation. Too much praise cannot be given to Bro. Reason for the noble manner in which he had done his work in training the degree staff. The Lodge wore their new regalia, the gowns being very beautiful making the work more effective. Noble Grand Sister Watts conducted the business in a very acceptable manner, and at the close of the Lodge a social hour was spent and refreshments were served.

How A Man Can Obtain New Outfit Of Togs With Less Than $10

A Few Figures That Were Actually Quoted by Local Merchants—Actual Totals for Those Who May be Financially Weak.

NEW CLOTHES ARE CHEAP

Out of mere curiosity and to get an idea of the lowest sum which would be required to clothe oneself, a reporter asked several of the clothiers what it would cost to secure an entire outfit. Of course it is supposed that a man is down in pocket and has to scrimp as much as possible. He has, however, to clothe himself and is not particular as to his outfit being of the best design. With this understanding the following prices were offered:—

STORE No. 1

Suit	$3.90
Underwear	.75
Shirt	.39
Collar	.10
Tie	.10
Socks	.10
Cap	.19
Braces	.10
	$5.66
Boots	2.00
	$7.66

STORE No. 2.

Suit	$2.90
Underwear	.75
Socks	.09
Shirt	.39
Tie	.15
Collar	.06
Cap	.15
Braces	.15
	$4.63
Boots	$2.00
	$6.63

The first outfitter stated that he would not be beaten and could produce a suit for $2.90.

Of course it is understood that with the above togs the wearer would not be a dandy nor have any of the distinction of Berry Wall, or James Hayden Hyde. It is assured that the wearer would not be particularly pleasing to the feminine eye, and no guarantee is given as to their durability. However a man with a ten dollar bill can feel satisfied that he can tog out in a new outfit any old time at all.

GREAT EXCITEMENT OVER FRIDAY NIGHT'S BIG GAME WITH LINDSAY BOTH TEAMS WILL BE STRONG

Now for Lindsay.

The Peterborough intermediates by beating Cobourg last night, kept themselves right in the running for the district championship, but they must beat Lindsay in the big game here on Friday night. Will they do it? is the question that fandom both here and in Lindsay is asking just now.

The Peterboroughs say that they will turn the trick, while on the other hand Lindsay are equally confident of victory.

Whichever way the game goes it will be the battle of the season, and should prove one of the finest games ever seen at Brock street arena. Both teams are now in the pink of condition and the contest should be of the lightning variety from start to finish without a dull moment. That there will be oceans of excitement goes without saying. Every fan in Peterborough has been looking forward to the game for some time and it is safe to say that the crowd present will be one of the largest on record, as the game forms the principal topic in sporting circles just now, and every one that possibly can arrange the matter will be on hand Friday night.

The Peterborough team is playing great hockey now and will give the famous Midgets a grand run for the money.

The Lindsay club is arranging for an excursion to Peterborough and the team will be accompanied by a big crowd of rooters who will not be slow in making their presence known. Their coming will add to the excitement.

It is likely that W. S. Hancock, the well known Toronto referee, will handle the game.

Young Peterborough Engineer Wins Conspicuous Distinction

Mr. Ernest V. Moore, Associate Member C. S. C. E., Awarded Gzowski Medal for Year 1908—Unanimous Choice of Committee of Canadian Society of Civil Engineers.

A SPLENDID ACHIEVEMENT.

Mr. Ernest V. Moore, associate member of the Canadian Society of Civil Engineer, a son of Mr. David H. Moore, of this city, has had the honour of winning the Gzowski medal awarded by the society for the best contribution to the literature of the profession of civil engineering during the year 1908. This is the second time in recent years that this distinction has come to Peterborough, Mr. Walter J. Francis winning the 1906 medal for his paper on "Mechanical Canal Locks in Canada."

The subject of Mr. Moore's paper was "The Development of the Peat Fuel Industry and Its Possibilities."

On this subject he is possibly the best informed man to-day in Canada, having devoted his time exclusively to investigations along this line for the past five years. His work has been along the practical as well as the theoretical side of this subject, and he has at present an experimental plant in the northern part of Victoria County, and from his work there most of the data of his paper was procured.

Of the nineteen papers that were presented by members of this society in 1908, Mr. Moore's was the unanimous choice of the committee awarding the medal. This places his name in a list containing the names of some of the most prominent engineers in Canada, those of later years being: in 1904, Mr. J. A. Jamieson, who was the engineer in charge of the Port Colborne elevator; in 1905, Mr. C. B. Smith, engineer in the construction of the Hydro-Electric plant at Niagara Falls; 1906, Mr. W. J. Francis, and in 1907, Messrs. R. A. Ross and Henry Holgate.

The Gzowski Medal.

The Gzowski medal, awarded annually by the Canadian Society of Civil Engineers, was founded in 1890, and the following description is taken from the by-laws of the society: "A silver medal to be called 'The Gzowski Medal,' shall be struck each year from the annual proceeds of the fund provided for that purpose by Col. Sir Casimir Gzowski, A. D. C., K. C. M. G., president of the Society, which medal shall be awarded according to the rules for papers presented to the Society. The medal shall be awarded for the best paper of the medal year, provided such paper shall be adjudged of sufficient merit as a contribution to the literature of the profession of Civil Engineering.

The medal is awarded by a committee of five members or honorary members of the society, on this occasion it being composed of Messrs. Holgate, chairman, J. M. Shanly, R. S. Kelsch, J. B. Porter, W. Kennedy, Jr. The latter it will be noticed has just made the report on the new water works dam which was printed in Tuesday's paper.

Mr. Moore attended the Peterborough Collegiate Institute and afterwards took a course at McGill University, from which he graduated with honours in Mining Engineering in 1900. From college Mr. Moore spent three years as government engineer on the Port Colborne entrance improvements, from which he resigned to investigate the peat fuel problem. He is still prosecuting this work and says that although the real progress has been slow, it is surely leading to the successful launching of this enterprise on a firm and profitable basis, not only in Canada, but in the United States. That the public interest is rapidly growing is evidenced in the fact that both the Canadian and United States governments are at present spending money to obtain reliable information as to the economic value of peat as a fuel.

Mr. Moore is probably one of the youngest men to be awarded the Gzowski medal, and it speaks well for his engineering ability and the thoroughness of his work, that he should have attained this seal of approval from the best known engineering body in Canada.

It is with satisfaction that the Examiner has to record this evidence of success coming to a second one of Peterborough's young engineers.

BREEZY NUMBER OF COLLEGIATE ECHOES

Institute Paper for January Contains Much That is Interesting.

The current number of Collegiate Echoes published by the Philomathean Society of the local Collegiate Institute continues to show a marked improvement in the breezy little publication and its editors are to be congratulated upon the bright, interesting and varied contents of the January edition which will be read with interest not only by the pupils of the Collegiate, but by the citizens of Peterborough, generally. The number contains much that is entertaining and readible. There are interesting special articles on "Books," by Miss Gertrude A. Yenney; on "The Old vs. The New E.C.I.," by M. J. O'H and on 'New Year's Resolutions,' by Miss Margaret Edwards. Crisp and pointed editorials are a feature, the meetings of the Society are chronicled in an interesting manner and the column entitled "Corridor Cullings" affords opportunity for a display of scholastic wit of which full advantage is taken.

THE LESSENED ESTIMATES.

As was anticipated the Dominion estimates are largely reduced from the figures of the preceding year, in sympathy with the lessened inflow of revenue. For years there has been a buoyant revenue. Taking advantage of this condition the Government provided large sums to be devoted to capital expenditure, to provide necessary national equipment in promotion of our transpoortation and allied interests. These interests—in a country of magnificent distances like Canada, are of pre-eminent importance and the large expenditures devoted to their promotion, so long as the money spent is available, are in every way justified. We havr made considerable progress in meeting the demands of national expansion, and in providing for the conditions which a large influx of immigration has created and creates. The temporary depression has decreased revenue, and it is the part of wisdom to contract expenditure. This has been done in this year's estimates to the extent of nearly twenty million dollars, This retrenchment, while it is wise, will create some disappointment in some sections, but considerations of the general welfare should counsel loyal acquiescence, even in places where needed and expected public improvements are temporarily witheld. Minor matters must give way to the greater. We cannot afford to neglect transportation in the interests of the development of our west, whose building-up extends reflected advantage to the older provinces. It is, therefore, to be expected that money should be voted to continue construction of the National Transcontinental railway, though the sum placed in the estimates is less than last year—twenty million as against thirty the previous year. Also in the interests of transportation the policy of prosecuting Trent Canal construction is adhered to, another amount, similar to that of last year—one million dollar—being included in the estimates, insuring continued vigorous prosecution of the work, and representing a practical implementing of the promise of Sir Wilfrid Laurier that the Trent Canal was slated for completion from lake to lake.

The construction of the Trent Canal has given Canada a very definite distinction—supremacy in hydraulic lift lock structures, that at Peterborough being the largest in the world, and that at Kirkfield, a good second.

TECHNICAL EDUCATION.

Ontario is generally and properly regarded as the foremost industrial province of the Dominion, but is is unfortunately not the foremost in industrial education, one of the essentials to sound industrial progress and development. While this province has been standing still and as the London Advertiser puts it, "whining for aid from the Dominion Government," in the matter of technical education, the Province of Nova Scotia hasb een doing something practical in the promotion of industrial education. A recent visitor to London, Ontario, was Dr. Sexton, of that province, who spoke before the Canadian Club on the subject of technical education in Nova Scotia.

It appears, from his remarks, that the Nova Scotia schools are divided into three classes—engineering, coal mining and technical schools—and are found to be of special advantage to wage-earners desirous of improving their positions. The engineering and coal mining schools are confined to the colliery districts, and the technical to the industrial centres. Of the latter there are four, located at Halifax, Amherst, Sydney and New Glasgow. They are conducted in public school buildings. Practically all the expense of the coal mining and engineering school is borne by the Government, which also defrays one-half the cost of instruction in the technical schools, and provides the necessary apparatus, the locality supplying the other half of the cost, besides the rooms, heat, light [illegible]nitor.

The [illegible]ses include drawing, science and modern practice in connection with the calling of the student, the number and character of the courses offered in any locality depending on the number of students available, and the dominant industries. Such subjects as practical mathematics, mechanical drawing, electricity, etc., are demanded in every centre, while metallurgy, chemistry, pharmacy, etc., are included in localities where special industries call for such studies. The student is required during the first four sesions of a class to make a deposit of $2 to $4, according to the class. This money is kept until the end of the year, when, if the student has been constant in attendance, it is refunded. A certain percentage is, however, retained, for each class the student has missed. The attendance was very satisfactory, some students having a record of 100 per cent., while whole classes averaged 84 per cent. for the year.

Experience has shown the department the wisdom of supplementing the recitations and class lectures with laboratory method, especially in electricity, for it is found that the practical men in the classes need concrete illustrations even more than ordinary school pupils. To equip the four schools with electrical apparatus, machines, measuring instruments, and a small dynamo-electric laboratory cost about $10,000. As now arranged, the different technical subjects may be followed for three years in successively advancing classes. A pass mark of 75 per cent. in each of the three classes, and the same standing in the general subjects of practical English, practical arithmetic, algebra, trigonometry and practical geometry, entitles the student to a full diploma, the highest honour obtainable.

Nova Scotia has the reputation of having a surplus of brains among its population. Judged by the distinguished sons it has produced and sends out to take foremost positions in intellectual and educational activities in the other provinces of the Dominion and in the United States, this repute is deserved. The practical manner in which the Bluenoses deal with the problem of practical technical education, as set forth in the preceding compendious statement lends added force to this reputation. In Ontario we are wont to boast of our educational advantages, but they do not include the practical elements that distinguish the Nova Scotia system. This failure of our government authorities to measure up the demands of the situation is all the more striking when we recall the great extent of our territory and the great variety of its natural resources. Ontario can be made the great purveyor to the other provinces of the Dominion in industrial products. Our manufacturing facilities, our countless water powers, our wealth of raw resources, our central geographical position in the Confederation all point to this possibility. What we need to enable us to realize the industrial supremacy which is possible, is, among other things, the breeding of a population whose hand is trained to dexterity in connection with intellectual equipment — sons given the advdantage of technical training such as is making Nova Scotia an important unit in Dominion industrial development, such as has made Germany a world power in industrial supremacy in branches of manufacture which bespeak a general distribution of trained material as well as mental skill. Does the Ontario Educational Department realize its responsibility in this matter? If it does it has a masterly way of concealing its convictions in this regard.

The mineral output of Ontario for the year 1907 was of the value of $24,849,475. This large figure is capable of almost infinite increase. What we need for this are skilled artizans, engineers, etc., and to produce these we need a thorough system of technical education.

THE PEACE RIVER DISTRICT.

If all that is told of the Peace River country is true, one of the richest parts of the Dominion is yet to be developed.

Explorers and members of surveying parties have described in a general way the wonderful resources of the outlying section of Canada, but it has been left to Fred G Lawrence, F. R. G. S., to furnish details. Mr. Lawrence has been a resident of the district for thirty years, has travelled about it perhaps more than any other white man, and should be able to speak from actual experience and observation.

In a recent address Mr Lawrence declared that there were 655,000,000 acres of first-class agricultural land in the Peace River region, an area equal to three times the assessed lands of Ontario, capable of growing wheat. Wheat can be ripened there in eighty-six days from date of planting, and fifty-six bushels to the acre have been produced four hundred miles north of Edmonton, and ground in a roller mill, lighted by electricity and operated at the same point. He is convinced that when railway connection is provided to Hudson's Bay, grain from there can be landed in Liverpool at less cost than Manitoba grain is landed in that great English market to-day.

Of the mineral resources of the region Mr. Lawrence tells a wonderful sory. Along the banks of all streams flowing east or west from the boundary to the Arctic Ocean, he says gold is to be found, while along the foot of the Rockies, and the streams of Athabaska, outcropping coal in seams of six inches to twenty-eight feet have been discovered. In his opinion the coal-bearing area there surpasses in extent that of all the coal areas at present being exploited in the United States. Petroleum is also to be found in vast quantities, and the largest gas well in the world is located not far from Pelican Rapids, on the Athabasca River, near the asphalt deposits. Bitumen has been found in immense quantities, estimated by Government experts at 6,400,000,000 tons, sufficient to supply all the asphalt used. Along the Mackenzie River to the Arctic spruce grows to a diameter of two feet, and for this there is sure to be a demand sooner or later. — London Advertiser.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The Conservatives of Carleton will meet on February 16th to select a candidate to contest the representation of the riding in the bye-election to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of the seat by Mr. R. L. Borden.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier aims to make Ottawa the Washington of the North, but it remains for the civic authorities to give it a Chesterfieldian touch—separate polling booths are to be provided for lady voters so that they will not be forced to come into the coarseness of contact with mere men.

Money is one of the mightiest motives that influence humanity. Russia is anxious for peace, not for the sake of peace, but because there's money in it for her. Bulgaria owes Turkey money and Turkey owes money to Russia, therefore the latter has brought peace between Turkey and Bulgaria, so that the Balkan war cloud has indeed a silver lining. Russia's chances for handling Turkish money are made better by peace.

MADE WELL BY VINOL.

"Vinol is a wonderful medicine. I had no appetite, my digestion was bad, was suffering from backaches and headaches. I was so weak that I had not been able to work for months when a friend advised me to take Vinol. After I had taken one bottle I noticed my health was improving. I continued its use and to day am perfectly well. It is with pleasure that I recommend Vinol to all those who need a flesh, nerve or tissue builder." Wm. Brosseau, Waterloo, Quebec.

This is because Vinol is the best cod liver and iron tonic in the world. It creates a hearty appetite, strengthens the digestive organs, makes rich red blood and replaces weakness with strength. The beneficial effects of Vinol in cases of weak-run-down conditions or for feeble old people is simply remarkable.

We invite all old people, delicate children, weak run-down persons, convalescents or those suffering from chronic colds, coughs or bronchitis in this vicinity to try Vinol on our offer to return their money if it does no good. We make this offer to show our faith in Vinol. McDermid and Jury, druggists, cor. of George and Charlotte sts., or Payne's drug store cor. of George and Simcoe sts.

THE TEACHING OF AGRICULTURE

Victoria County Council Makes a Grant of $500 to Lindsay Collegiate Institute.

The County Council of Victoria County has made a grant of $500 to assist in the teaching of agriculture in Lindsay Collegiate Institute, a marked recognition of the good work that is being carried on there under the supervision of the Ontario Department of Education. The Government grant is $1,200 a year, which pays the salary of the instructor. It is expected that several other counties will follow suit, and thus materially assist in extending this very practical branch of education.

HELPFUL, ADVICE

You won't tell your family doctor the whole story about your private illness—you are too modest. You need not be afraid to tell Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., the things you could not explain to the doctor. Your letter will be held in the strictest confidence. From her vast correspondence with sick women during the past thirty years she may have gained the very knowledge that will help your case. Such letters as the following, from grateful women, establish beyond a doubt the power of to conquer all female diseases.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND

Mrs. Frank Emley, Lindsay, Ontario, writes to Mrs. Pinkham:

"When I wrote to you some time ago, I was a very sick woman suffering from female troubles. I had inflammation of the feminine organs and could not stand or walk any distance. At last I was confined to my bed and the doctor said I would have to go through an operation, but this I refused to do.

"A friend advised Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. After using three bottles of it, I feel like a new woman. "I most heartily recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to all women who suffer with female troubles."

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has positively cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness, or nervous prostration.

St. Thomas Judge Gives 14 Years and 16 Lashes to Brute.

St. Thomas, Feb. 3.—Charles Fiveash was sentenced yesterday to fourteen years in Kingston Penitentiary and to receive 60 lashes, 20 in one month, 20 in a year, and 20 in two years.

This punishment was meted out to him by Judge Coulter, who found him guilty after a trial lasting only a few hours of a criminal charge, his accuser being his eighteen-year-old daughter, who admitted relations covering the past year. The prisoner's wife made the complaint.

Fiveash is a recent immigrant, and has not worked for the two years of his residence here. In court yesterday he said he was under the hypnotic influence of his wife.

The judge ordered an examination as to his sanity. Three doctors declared him sane, and in passing sentence the judge said the only use of Fiveash's whole life should now be the warning the sentence might be to others.

Fiveash did not wince when sentenced.

P.E.I. Legislature Opens.

Charlottetown, P.E.I., Feb. 3.—The Provincial Legislature opened yesterday afternoon, being the first session since the general election, when 17 Liberals and 13 Conservatives were returned.

The Lieutenant-Governor's address states that some of the outstanding claims against the Dominion were satisfactorily adjusted. Reference is made to the success of the Government's agricultural policy, the benefits derived from the short course at the Truro Agricultural College, and to the proposed rural telephone system.

Owing to the closeness of the parties, the session promises to be lively. This is the earliest opening of the Legislature for some years.

Port Huron, Mich., Feb. 3.—Told to leave Canada within five days or serve time in the Central Prison, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick James Lawrence, the man and woman who made an unsuccessful attempt to gain admission to the United States last week, and who were intercepted, have decided to serve time in the Canadian prison rather than have any further trouble. The Lawrences were charged with keeping a disorderly house in Sarnia. Lawrence was sentenced to three months in prison or to leave Canada in five days, while the wife was given six months with the same alternative. Immigration officers refused to allow them to enter the United States.

LAIRD-SCOTT CASE DROPPED.

Litigating Parties Agree to End Their Dispute Over Charges.

Regina, Sask., Feb. 3.—Following the disagreement, after 12 hours' duration, of the jury in the Laird-Scott criminal libel case, an agreement was reached yesterday afternoon by which all the cases arising out of graft charges are dropped.

The case of Laird against The Regina Leader, Premier Scott's paper, for $25,000 damages, is dropped and Laird is to ask the Attorney-General to definitely discontinue criminal action against Scott.

The reason given for the arrangement is the prospective difficulty of arriving at a verdict and an agreement is made that the costs in each case will be paid by the parties incurring them.

The foreman of the jury told Judge Nelands they had reduced the charge to that of Laird having received $500 for his city campaign fund, and found him innocent of all but this.

The sticker was whether or not this $500 was used for his personal profit.

CROUP QUICKLY CURED

Don't Let the Child Choke to Death While Waiting For the Doctor.

Hyomei, the miraculous, antiseptic dry air treatment, will cure croup in either the first or second stages. Easily inhaled, even when the breathing is irregular, it reaches more promptly than any other remedy the terribly inflamed membrane of the windpipe. It's soothing balsams act immediately, the inflammation is allayed and the swelling reduced.

George H. King, of 22 Wellington street, South Woodstock, says: "We would not think of keeping house without Hyomei. It has warded off colds, croup, coughs and sore throats for all of our three children many and many a time. When a child breathes badly and through the mouth and the glands around the eyes and nose commence to swell, then is the time that we find the Hyomei quickly relieves the trouble and gets the bronchial tubes, lungs and throat cleared up."

Hyomei (pronounced High-o-me) is guaranteed by Wm. Madill to cure catarrh, coughs, colds, asthma, bronchitis and croup, or money back. A complete outfit, including a neat, hard rubber pocket inhaler, costs only $1.00. An extra bottle of Hyomei, if afterwards needed, cost but 50 cents.

Tariff, Not Frost, to Blame.

London, Feb. 3.—George Wyndham, M.P., addressing a meeting at Birkenhead, said Mr. Lloyd George, in a speech some time ago, had accused him of not having told his audience at a former meeting that the St. Lawrence being frozen in winter we had no direct route for taking tinplates directly to Canada.

"I ask him to apologize to his audience and the whole Dominion. Lloyd George ought to have told his audience that the anti-dumping clause of the Canadian Act, not frost, was the reason that checked the dumping of tinplates in Canada to the detriment of our trade."

Taft to Become a Mason.

Cincinnati, Feb. 3.—The grand master of the Ohio Masons, Charles S. Hoskinson, of Zanesville, has tendered to William Howard Taft, President-elect of the United States, the rare and high honor of being made a Mason at sight. Judge Taft has accepted and the ceremony on Feb. 18 in the Scottish Rite Cathedral will be a notable one.

To Improve French Navy.

Paris, Feb. 3.—Alfred Picard, who was named Minister of Marine in succession to M. Thomsan last year, for the purpose of reorganizing and carrying out reforms in the French navy, has presented to the Cabinet an extensive plan of development which, not counting new ships, involves an expenditure of $45,000,000.

Sues Municipality For $10,000.

Ottawa, Feb. 3.—Annie L. McGuire is suing the Corporation of Burk's Falls and the mayor for $10,000 for loss by fire of her hotel. She claims that the water pressure was too low for protection, whereas she had lots of hose, etc. She alleges the water was being supplied to the G.T.R. engines instead of the village.

Fast In the Ice.

Pictou, N.S., Feb. 3.—The steamer Minto is still stuck hard and fast in the ice, about two miles off Pictou light. The ice is exceptionally heavy. Four passeners and mails came off the Minto on Monday by teams. Provisions have been taken out to the steamer.

A New Flyer.

Berlin, Feb. 3.—Armand Zipfel, the French aviator, made four successful aeroplane flights here yesterday. Each time he covered a distance of nearly a mile at a height of from 30 to 40 feet.

Author Suicides.

Mendham, N.J., Feb. 3.—John Gilmer Speed, the author and journalist, committed suicide by shooting himself in the head while in his bedroom in the Phoenix House here yesterday.

Charges Against Judge.

Toronto, Feb. 3.—Judge E. B. Fralick of Belleville was at Madoc on Jan. 23, when the license inspector at Madoc obtained the conviction of two hotelkeepers, Wm. Goulding and John Quinn of Marmora, for selling liquor to minors. R. R. Casement, J.P., imposed a fine of $20 each upon the offenders.

Judge Fralick's court sat the same day, but only for an hour, and the judge sojourned to the hotel afterwards.

The inspector reports to the Provincial Secretary's Department that the judge talked very loud about the cases. He reminded the inspector that if the cases were appealed, they would come before him as county judge, and if this were the case he would "soon upset the convictions."

The notices of appeal being now issued, the inspector reports the matter so as to make certain that Judge Fralick should not be permitted to adjudicate upon them.

The Department will lay the matter before the Minister of Justice.

Bad Trio Rounded Up.

Phoenix, B.C., Feb. 3.—Chief Bunbury and Constable Dockateader, assisted by the deputy sheriff of Okanagan County, Washington, rounded up three bandits at Oreville, Washington, 70 miles west of here. The deputy sheriff arrested Bill and Cleve Newman, lodging them in the county jail. Both carried revolvers. By a ruse a third bandit, Ben Hart, believing he had only American officers to deal with, headed across to the Canadian side, where he was captured after a little gun play.

Hart confessed to participating in the Bridesville hold-up, and has offered to turn King's evidence. The police believe they are the desperadoes who held up a hotel at Midway on Aug. 25, when one man was killed.

Hotelmen Fined.

Stratford, Feb. 3.—Eight hotelkeepers were summoned to court yesterday on charges of selling liquor after hours or on Sunday. In this "clean up" by the provincial license department half the hotelmen in the city were involved. All pleaded guilty. Magistrate O'Loane imposed fines amounting to $600 and costs as follows: Queen's Hotel, Norman Reinhart, $125 and costs, second offence; Albian, James, $75 and costs; Victoria, Chas. Casson, $50 and costs; American, Geo. Richardson, $50 and costs; Dominion, Mat Strode, $50 and costs; Windsor, Thomas Gillespie, $75 and costs; Commercial, J. J. Hagarty, $75 and costs; Mansion, Ephraim Killer, $100 and costs, second offence.

Confesses to Burglaries.

Kingston, Feb. 3.—Reginald Lewis, aged 23, and Percy Pare, 27 the latter belonging to the Army Service Corps, having confessed to Saturday night's burglary at Gananoque, but they deny having been responsible for causing the subsequent big fire.

In addition, they admit having committed the recent burglaries in this city, the loot amounting to thousands of dollars. Much of it has been recovered. They will be sentenced on Friday.

The police here found that the men had hired a livery and had been to Gananoque. They secured Lewis and he admitted the fact. After being put through a sweating he gave in.

Teamsters Lockout In Winnipeg.

Winnipeg, Feb. 3.—At four o'clock yesterday afternoon the Manitoba Cartage Co., a subsidiary to the C.P.R., locked out 25 teamsters for taking an active part in the establishment of a union.

A general strike among the teamsters is expected to result.

Aeronauts Dashed to Death.

Saint Pons, France, Feb. 3.—A balloon which was drifting over the mountains at night was overcome by a gale. The occupants of the car, two Bordeaux aeronauts, tried to make a descent, but a violent gust dashed the balloon against a boulder and both were killed.

Village Carried Underground.

Rome, Feb. 3.—Prince Scales, who has just returned from Calabria, brings reports of some telluric phenomena which seem almost incredible. One of the villages, he says, was carried 250 feet underground by the opening of the earth and the subsequent landslide.

Elected by Acclamation.

Montreal, Feb. 3.—Hon. Jeremie Decarie, the new Minister of Agriculture in the Gouin Government, was elected yesterday by acclamation in his old constituency of Hochelaga, while the Liberal member, Mr. Galipault, was also returned unopposed in Bellechasse.

Skin Diseases.

A diseased or disfigured skin will always leave its stamp on the mind of the individual. Many people suffering from disfiguring skin diseases avoid society and lose all pride in their personal appearance. When the skin breaks out in eruptions and sores it is due entirely to an impure condition of the blood.

In all such cases Burdock Blood Bitters will quickly purify the blood and drive all the impurities out of the system.

ITCHING RASH CURED.

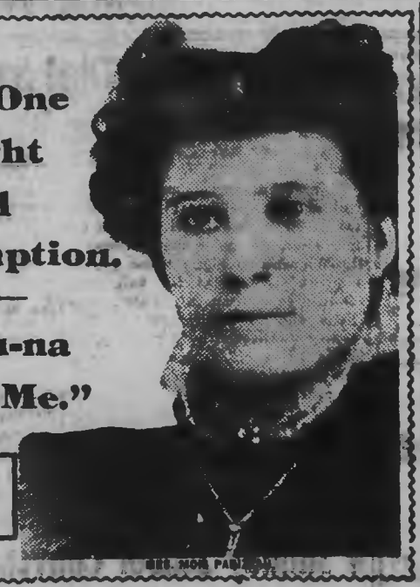
Mrs. J. J. Magee, Jr., Kinmount, Ont., writes: "In the spring of 1906 I was troubled with a Rash that broke out all over me. It was the worst on my face and head, had a dry, scaly top, and when I would get warm it would become very itchy. I tried the doctor's medicine but it did me no good, so I then got one bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters and before it was all used the Rash was entirely gone."

SORES ON FACE.

Mrs. Harvey Barkhouse, Gold River, N.S., writes: "I was greatly troubled with Sores on my face and finally became so bad I had to go to the doctor about it, but he could do nothing to help me.

"I thought about Burdock Blood Bitters and decided to try a bottle. I cannot recommend B.B.B. enough, as I had not taken all the bottle before my face was cured."

For sale by all druggists and dealers.



"Every One Thought I Had Consumption. Pe-ru-na Saved Me."

"I THANK DR. HARTMAN FOR PE-RU-NA."

"I hardly know how to thank you for the good Peruna has done me.

"I suffered five years with pain in the stomach. About a year ago it became so bad I could hardly bear it. I coughed day and night and grew weaker and weaker. The pain extended through my body and I also had difficulty in breathing, which made me cough. Everyone thought I had consumption.

"My husband heard of Peruna and bought five bottles. This treatment virtually cured me and now I recommend Peruna to every one who is suffering.

"I thank Dr. Hartman for this excellent remedy."

Ste. Julie de Vercheres, P. Q., Canada. —Mrs. Mois Pariseau.

A NEGLECTED cold is generally the first cause of catarrh.

Women are especially liable to colds. These colds occur more frequently during the wet, sloppy weather of winter and spring than any other time of the year. Often they are not considered serious and are allowed to run on, or they are treated in such a way as to only palliate the symptoms, while the cold becomes more deep-seated and the patient finally awakens to the fact that she has a well-developed case of catarrh.

WOMEN SHOULD BEWARE OF CATCHING COLD.

By reason of their delicate structure, the lungs are frequently the seat of a cold, especially if there is the slightest weakness of these organs. The treatment of catarrh of the lungs is also more difficult and discouraging than catarrh of any other organ of the body.

It would be wise therefore, to guard against it by every precaution possible. Peruna has been found the most reliable of all remedies for coughs, colds and catarrh, by reason of the fact that it goes at once to the very seat of the trouble.

It searches out every crevice, every duct of the body. It quickens and equalizes the circulation of the blood, thus relieving the congested mucous membranes. It exercises a healing and soothing effect upon the mucous membranes, no matter whether they are the more exposed membranes of the head and throat, or whether they line the remotest cells of the lungs.

PE-RU-NA THE REMEDY FOR CATARRH OF THE LUNGS.

Mrs. Jaschob, 1631 Hicks St., Toledo, Ohio, writes:

"When I wrote to you for advice, I had been sick for three years. I had trouble with my throat. Often I could not breathe through my nose. I also had pains in my chest and a cough. I took Peruna according to directions and it has cured me."

$26,400,000

The Bank of Montreal at the end of its fiscal year, October 31st, 1908, added another $1,000,000 to its Reserve Fund, thus further emphasizing its great strength and stability.

With a Saving Department at every one of its many Branches, it offers the opportunity for all, who so desire, to avail themselves of its many advantages by opening a Savings Account.

A Savings Bank account is the best safeguard against misfortune, being always ready and available, and earning interest all the time.

Consideration for one's family demands that all heads of households should provide against the day of adverse conditions, and there is no simpler way than by laying systematically from time to time a portion of income or earnings in a Savings account.

Deposits can be made from One Dollar up, and withdrawals can be made at any time, without notice or delay.

Most Enjoyable Time Spent At The W. A. Japanese Tea

A most enjoyable time was spent yesterday afternoon at a Japanese tea given in the Guild room of St. John's church under the auspices of the Women's Auxiliary which proved a great success as the hall was crowded to such an extent that more chairs had to be brought in. The scenery was loaned by Mr Devey and had a great effect upon the stage. The decorating was done by the ladies of the congregation and represented a cherry orchard and the young people added greatly to this effect by appearing to wait on the tables in Japanese costumes.

They were Miss Seward, Miss Morphet, Miss Palmer, Miss Nesbitt, Miss Dela Fosse and Miss Horsfield.

During the course of the tea Miss Humphreys gave a very interesting account of her work on an island near Vancouver which was listened to with great pleasure. Mrs Davidson also spoke very appropriately, urging the people to take more interest in the Missions and also to study the Missionary books more closely than has been done in the past.

Music was rendered by Miss K. Wallis and Miss E. Aylmer. The ladies chorus consisted of Mrs. Devey, Mrs Seward, Mrs. Common, and Mrs. Evans who sang splendidly, pleasing all present.

The tea came to an end about seven o'clock, those present giving vent to their feelings by congratulating those who were responsible for the enjoyable time that had been spent.

A Sunday School Convention Is To Be Held Here In May

A meeting of the City Sunday School Association was held last night in the Y.M.C.A. parlours with Rev. H J Keith in the chair. The meeting was called for the purpose of considering the advisability of holding a county Sunday School Convention in the city. After due deliberation it was decided, with the concurrence of the County Association to hold a convention here on Monday and Tuesday, May 3rd and 4th. It is expected that Rev. Canon Sweeny, president of the Provincial Association, will be present as well as a number of other prominent workers.

STRATHCONAS OR LAKEFIELD FOR THE CITY LEAGUE CHAMPIONSHIP?

The tit-bit of the local City League season will be pulled off to-morrow night, when the Strathconas and Lakefield will come together in the final game for the City League Championship, and the great interest that is being taken in the contest presages a record crowd when the two get together. There is much conflicting opinion amongst the fans as to the result. Many local people count upon Lakefield to win the contest, while on the other hand do not feel that it is possible for the local option seven to stop the Straths, who have not been defeated in a City League game in three years. In any event it will be a grand battle. Neither team has lost a game this season and on the dope sheet look to be about equal. The Lakefield players have been practising faithfully and will be down to-morrow night with the determination of beating the Straths. The High Commissioners will, however, trot out the strongest team that has represented them this year and are not worrying about the result.

The executive of the City League has decided to reverse the schedule for the evening, so that the big game will be played first starting sharp at 8 p.m., while the Belmont - West End game which was to have been first, will follow the other contest.

In addition, what looks to be the decisive game in the Junior City League will be played commencing at 6.45, the Chieftains clashing with the George street team. Neither has been defeated and a win for either probably means the championship. It should be a great game. The last City League games of the season should draw a big crowd, especially in view of the fact that the championships of both Leagues hinge on the results.

The Strathconas City League team and the Peterborough Intermediate O.H.A. team will practise together to-night at Brock street Rink between 7 and 8 p.m. A full turn-out of both teams is expected as the Straths play the City League finals to-morrow night, while the Petes have a hard game with Lindsay on Friday night.

At St. Joseph's Hospital this morning (Wednesday) the death occurred of Mr James Mongraw, at the age of 52 years. He was born in Cannington, moving to this city 19 years ago, when he engaged in the barber business, having a shop on Simcoe street. Mr. Mongraw will be greatly missed by a large circle of friends. He is survived by his wife, who lives at 182 Hazlitt avenue, West City, and five daughters and three sons; the daughters are Mrs. W Bailey, of this city; Mrs E D Woods, Battleford, Sask.; Edith, Vera and Leah, at home. The sons are Clarence, George and Harold, all of this city.

The funeral notice will appear later, owing to having to wait for relatives coming from the West.

MRS. ROBERT WALTON

The death occurred in Chicago on Tuesday of Mrs. Robert Walton, a well known resident of this city, at the age of about 70 years. MUSIC AND DRAMA

Speaking of Kathryn Osterman, who appeared in Toronto the week before last the Toronto Globe has the following to say—

It has been some time since patrons of the Grand Opera House have laughed so heartily as they did last night over the piece of mirthful absurdity, 'The Night of the Play," which is Kathryn Osterman's starring in her throat; terror crowds few real comediennes, and Miss Osterman happens to be one of them. To hear her laugh and not to laugh with her is an utter impossibility. But that vocal mirth of hers is but one of her gifts; she has a droll personality, a whimsical seriousness which is even more funny than her moments of high vivacity. For instance, in the second act when she is party to an innocent but compromising situation, her ability as a comedienne is put to test. She is enjoying the situation, she releases her associates, gives rein to her sense of humour, and then, in the midst of her laughter, comes an ominous knock at the door. Her husband, her jealous husband, is there! The laughter shrivels; one hears a choking in her throat; terror comes with from her face. What a study in facial expression. And by the same token, what a study in vocal expression That is, of acting. All the members of Miss Osterman's company are admirably qualified for her support. One of them is Miss Sada Werthero. She has girlish vivacity, the grace and charm of youth, and in addition to that reveals a certain womanly reserve. In the role of the jealous but well-manner husband Gavin Harris demonstrated that he is capable. C. L. Worthington, Edna Post, Wm. A Williams, Guy Sampsel and the entire company are good Miss Osterman's gowns are beautiful. They are the kind that most women see in their dreams but seldom attain. One of the decided hits is the wonderful directoire. It is made of the cloth-of-gold, and is worn by the clever comedienne in the fourth act.

WON'T HURT TO EAT IT.

Enjoy Your Meals Without Fear of Dyspepsia or Upset Stomach.

Nothing will remain undigested or sour on your stomach if you will take Diapepsin after your meal. This powerful digestive and antacid, though as harmless and pleasant as candy, will digest and prepare for assimilation into the blood all the food you can eat.

Eat what your stomach craves without the slightest fear of indigestion or that you will be bothered with sour risings, belching, gas on stomach, heartburn, headaches from stomach, nausea, bad breath, water brash or a feeling like you had swallowed a lump of lead, or other disagreeable miseries.

If you can get from your barmaid a 50-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin you could always go to the table with a hearty appetite, and your meals would taste good, because you would know there would be no indigestion or sleepless nights or headache or stomach misery all the next day; and, besides, you would not need laxatives or liver pills to keep your stomach and bowels clean and fresh.

Pape's Diapepsin can be obtained from your druggist and contains more than enough triangulos to thoroughly cure the worst dyspeptic. There is nothing better for gas on the stomach or sour odours from the stomach or to cure a stomach headache.

County Seeks Equal Rights For Country Children At Collegiate

Deputation Waits on Board of Education---Explanation of How Difference Would be Made Up---Reports From Committees and Special Business Introduced---Regular Meeting.

The Board of Education's regular monthly session was held on Tuesday night with a full attendance of the members. Principal Kenner, of the Collegiate Institute and Inspector Mowat were also present.

The first business was the reception of a delegation from the County Council appointed during its recent session to wait on the Board with a view to securing the admission to the Collegiate Institute of pupils from the county at the same fees as is charged the city pupils. The delegation comprised Warden Scott, Councillor Stewart, School Inspectors Lees and Brown and the County Clerk, Mr. Ed. M. Elliott.

Warden Scott introduced the subject, stating that a larger number of pupils would attend the Collegiate Institute were the arrangement of fees more satisfactory. As it is the board during their stay in the city is a heavy bill of expense and the fees are unsatisfactory.

Inspector Brown.

Mr. J. Coyle Brown, one of the Inspectors for the County pointed out how the High School Act allowed for a special grant from any county to the maintenance of a High School in any city where such school or Collegiate Institution was thrown open to the county. He stated that there would be no additional expense brought upon the Board and the staff of teachers would not need to be enlarged.

Mr. Brown also stated that many of the citizens were indifferent to the advantages their Collegiate Institute afforded. On the other hand county pupils have to make a sacrifice, monetary at least, to attend, and in practically every case they would put forth their best efforts.

Mr. Brown stated that the idea of the Collegiate Institute being a place for rich men's pupils had passed away largely and was now looked upon as it should, as a school for the children of people of lesser means. In concluding he stated that if the city would open its doors, the special assessment of the county would make up for the loss of fees.

Mr. Richard Lees.

Public School Inspector Lees further explained the manner in which the county provided for special assessment. The present fee of $2 50 a month he said was practically prohibitory. Mr. Lees read the following from the High School Act which deals with this case.

"Where the trustees of any high school situated in a city or in a town separated from the county notify the county clerk that such high school is open to county pupils on the same terms as high schools in the municipalities not separated from the county, the county council shall in all such cases pay a sum equal to 50 per cent. of the average annual cost of the maintenance of county pupils at such high schools."

By section 40 of the Statute Law Amendment Act 1907 the mode of estimating the amount payable is set forth as follows—

"From the total cost of maintenance of the High School there shall be deducted the amount of the legislative grant,—the remainder shall be divided by a number representing the total number of days' attendance of all pupils at such High School during the year for which payment is to be made and the resulting amount shall be multiplied by the total number of days' attendance of pupils in respect of whom such municipality is liable—the percentage mentioned in the subsection under which payment is to be made shall then be determined, and from this amount the fees paid by such pupils shall be deducted, and the resulting amount shall be the amount payable by such municipality."

Explanation.

By way of explanation Mr. Lees stated that the amount is obtained as follows—Find the average cost per day of each pupil, including county and city together, multiply this by the total number of days attendance of county pupils and 50 per cent. of this is paid by the county to the city.

Mr. Elliott and Mr. Stewart also spoke on the question. Whenever the to open the Collegiate and so informs Board state that they have decided the clerk, then the pupils will be sent and the county assumes its liability.

Mr. Wm. Hill's Remarks.

Mr. Hill stated that the reason it had not been opened before was because it was thought that there was no extra accommodation to spare. He suggested several methods of circumventing the fee question. One of them was for the pupils to pay the regular fee demanded and the county make up the difference between this and the fee charged city pupils. This would save the county money as the present fee of $25.00 per year and the other method suggested would cost the county over $40 a year for each pupil.

Dr Morrison and Mr. Dumble expressed their views of the subject. It was finally moved by Messrs Hill and Morrison that the matter be referred to the committee of the whole Board.

No Accommodation.

Mr Kenner afterwards stated that there were 39 pupils from the county now in attendance and he considered that it was not feasible to change the fee with the present size of the building.

Mr Hill remarked that it had not been built large enough.

The following communications were received:

Property Committee

Mr. Nelson moved the adoption of the following report, which he read:

That this Committee has received an estimate from Alexander & Miller for the installation of two mechanical weather proof enclosed iron box bells with 5 gongs to operate over hallway of 1st floor of Collegiate Institute for $28.00; two similar bells, but larger, for 10 in. gong, $40.00.

The rollers for towels at the buildings have been furnished.

The following window shades have been ordered to be placed as follows: Queen Alexandra, 19 shades; Central School, 6 shades; New Collegiate, 8 shades. These are of the best Holland and mounted on rollers of suitable strength, the price complete being $18.28. It was thought advisable to leave all the blinds on the windows as at present, thereby having two shades when the new ones are placed. Messrs. Hall & Son have agreed to refit the blinds now, or at any time we desire to do so.

Your Committee have had a compressed air spring placed on the north outside door of the Collegiate Institute, also chains have been ordered to be placed on tanlights in daily use, in the building. It was found that the tanlights were without sufficient support when opened, and several accidents were narrowly averted.

The matter of the Janitor of the East City School is still under consideration.

The old stoves in the Central school have been disposed of to the Higgins Hardware Company for the sum of $13.00.

This was seconded by Mr. Mason and was carried.

REGARDING ISSUE OF C.P.R. STOCK

W. F. Maclean Says It Means a Big "Melon Cutting."

PEOPLE WILL HAVE TO PAY

In Reply to South York Member's Protest Against Increase of Stock of Canadian Pacific, Mr. Graham Says the Road Must Have Every Chance to Maintain Its High Standing In World.

Ottawa, Feb. 3.—The process known in the terminology of Wall street as "cutting the melon" was the subject of a brief but spirited debate in the House yesterday afternoon. For the benefit of members not familiar with the phrase, Mr. W. F. Maclean cited, as an illustration, the proposed increase of capital stock of the C.P.R. from 150 to 200 million dollars, authority to issue which has been granted by the Government. In this method of finance Mr. Maclean declared there was an attempt on the part of the C.P.R. to pocket twenty-five millions of the people's money for the benefit of its shareholders, and he vigorously denounced the proposal as a "public scandal." Hon. Mr. Graham, while admitting that there was room for argument as to the best and safest means of financing the big railway corporations, pointed out that in authorizing the C.P.R. to issue the additional stock he had simply followed the policy usually adopted in the past.

Mr. Maclean found his opportunity to raise the question on the motion to go into supply. He claimed that the increase in the capitalization of Canadian railways was of the utmost concern to the people, and argued that there should be some control exercised by Parliament over the issue of railway securities. The State of New York had passed legislation in that direction, and it had proved to be in the public interest. The issuing of fifty million dollars of stock by the C.P.R. to its shareholders at par, when in the open market it would bring at least $150 per $100 share, would be a public scandal. The stock ought to be sold in the open market to the highest bidder, and there should be a provision in the railway act giving the Railway Commission power to control the issue of such stock. Alternatively, the C.P.R., if it wanted to raise money, should be limited to floating bonds, carrying, say, 4 per cent. The C.P.R. would have to pay dividends on an additional fifty millions of stock, which it proposed to issue, and in order to realize those dividends the people might be called upon to pay higher freight and passenger rates.

Hon. Mr. Graham pointed out that the C.P.R. was one of the best-managed railway companies in the world. It was necessary that the credit of Canadian undertakings should stand high in the eyes of the world, and the C.P.R. had carried out its undertakings with a marvellous degree of efficiency. If that "company," after years of experience, asked authority to raise money to enable it to meet the demands for greater railway facilities in the west, it was the duty of the people to as far as possible to acquiesce in that request, in order that the requirements of the west might be met. There was room for argument as to whether the issue of additional capital stock or floating of bonds was the better method of financing, but in authorizing an increase in the capital stock of the company the Government had simply followed the course pursued in the past. It had to be remembered that it makes a marked difference in the value of C.P.R. stock and in the credit of the company if it was to issue bonds of any large amount in order to raise more capital. The C.P.R. had to look to the future, and should be given every opportunity to retain its high financial position. In view of the desire of the company to extend railway facilities in the west, he thought the Government were justified in authorizing an increase of capital stock. There was a good deal to be said in favor of giving some control of such matters to the Railway Commission, but it was a question whether the Government, who were directly responsible to the people should entirely divest themselves of such responsibility in a matter of that kind, or whether the Railway Commission should advise the Government.

Hon. John Haggart maintained that the stockholders of the C.P.R. had a right to be considered, and that the interests of the people as far as freight rates were concerned, were safeguarded by the Railway Commission.

Dr. Sproule supported Mr Maclean's contention that the stock should be sold in the open market at the highest price it would bring.

Dr. Chisholm thought that the C.P.R. could get all the money it wanted by selling its western lands at a reasonable price.

The matter then dropped, the House going into supply.

Hon. Sydney Fisher was prepared yesterday to introduce his bill giving effect to the resolution increasing the salaries of the inside civil service, but Mr. Foster and other members of the Opposition desired more information as to the details of the scheme, and, after a desultory discussion regarding the hours and duties of civil servants, consideration of the resolution was adjourned.

The House spent three hours in committee of supply. Hon. Mr. Paterson put through the excise estimates, and several civil Government items were also passed.

Mr. Sealey (Wentworth) has given notice of a resolution asking the Commons to declare that, inasmuch as the manufacturers of Canada are given the benefit of tariff protection, a similar protection should be given by the tariff to Canadian agriculturists and stock-raisers upon hogs, hog products, garden vegetables and "such other items as it may appear possible to protect with advantage to agriculturists and without undue injury to Canadian consumers."

"THE HIDER IN THE WOOD-PILE"

Thousands of people go through life feeling more or less miserable without ever knowing the reason. They suffer from headaches, indigestion, pains in the back, and at the slightest chill get rheumatism or neuralgia.

They try to cure these separate outbreaks, never suspecting that the root of the whole trouble is the failure of the bowels to move regularly, and in many cases the sluggish action of kidneys and skin. The result, of course, is that the whole system gets clogged with impurities, which soon turn to poison, and show their presence in various ways.

"Fruit-a-tives"—or fruit juice tablets—promptly stir up the sluggish liver, regulate the bowels, and stimulate the kidneys and skin to do their work properly. They cure all these troubles by [illegible] the cause, and make it possible to really enjoy life. 50c a box—6 boxes for $2.50. Trial size, 25c. Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

BIG TICKET FRAUD BROUGHT TO LIGHT

Five Men Charged With Swindling Grand Trunk.

TWO CONDUCTORS JAILED

Trainmen on Toronto-Montreal Run and Three Other Men Are Arrested —Accused of Selling Bogus Tickets to Jews and Honoring Them on Train—Fare Was $4 Instead of $10 — Bank Checks Used.

Toronto, Feb. 3.—A big swindle by which the Grand Trunk Railway has been the victim for three and a half years, was ended last night, with the arrest of two Grand Trunk conductors and three alleged "phony" ticket manipulators.

Two of the arrests were effected in or near Montreal, and three in Toronto, being practically simultaneous, since all happened between the hours of 8 and 9 p.m. The prisoners are:

Conductor Daniel Corrigan, 375 West King street, Toronto, arrested on the 8.30 train for Montreal.

Conductor Frank McCallum, Montreal, arrested on train No. 5 out of Montreal.

Jacob Woods, 117 York street, arrested at 8 p.m. on York street, opposite the bar entrance to the Palmer House.

Harry Rosenbes, 95 William street, arrested at 8.30 at the entrance to the Kerby House, Queen street.

Joseph Woods, arrested in Montreal at 8 p.m.

The round-up is due to the efforts of the Thiel Detective Agency, who planned the swoop from both ends of the line and materialized it with the aid of the local detective department, whose agents made the arrests.

Local Manager James E. Stein of the Thiel Agency states that the depredations have been systematically going on for three and a half years, and that during the month of January alone Harry Rosenbes, in collusion with Conductor Corrigan, has defrauded the company of $520 clear, to say nothing of the extent of the company's losses if the 130 passengers carried had paid the regular $10 single trip fare.

They operated chiefly among Jews, who thought they had struck a bonanza in the way of cut rates, at $4 per fare to Montreal.

The system was worked at both ends, and this is how Conductor McCallum and Joseph Woods of Montreal happened to get tangled into the snare.

Jacob Woods, the third Toronto man, wasn't in on the deal with the Corrigan, Rosenbes, McCallum, Woods quartette, but he is charged with carrying on a system all his own.

He would sell his patrons a regular ticket good for a short distance out of Toronto at $4 and go down to the depot personally and "fix" it with the conductor, according to the story of the Thiel sleuths.

But the quartette are charged with using holder methods. Rosenbes, working in Toronto, and Jos. Woods in Montreal, issued tickets of their own, improvised by marking blue pencil stubs on yellow Imperial Bank checks.

The yellow checks of the Imperial Bank are the exact color of the G.T.R. second-class ticket, and a "spotter" sitting in a train, seeing no cash transaction, allowed the thing to pass.

These yellow slips bore the initials "H. R." also "T. M." indicating a through passage to Montreal. They were also numbered.

FOUL PLAY IDEA IS STRENGTHENED

Another Complication Arises in Vansickle Case.

TROUBLE AFTER FUNERAL

Charges Made by Father of Harry Vansickle Leads to Hot Dispute and Family Breaks Up Into Two Factions—Discovery of Revolver Is Announced After Having Been Concealed For Some Time.

Brantford, Feb. 3.—The Jerseyville cremation tragedy is further complicated by the announcement of the finding of Harry Vansickle's revolver close to the spot where his body was picked up in the ruins of the burned homestead.

It was picked up Sunday morning by Seth Vansickle between the spots where lay the bodies of Harry and Martin. There were four cartridges in the five-bullet cylinder, and the caps in two of these showed that they had been discharged by the trigger, and therefore to have been fired before the revolver was burned.

This fact had been concealed by the members of the family until yesterday.

The theory that Harry, whose body was found in the east end of the building, while he is supposed to have slept in the west end, was dressed and had risen before he died, is confirmed by the finding of his keys and the chain upon which he wore them attached to his trousers, close to the spot where the body was picked up.

The breach in the Vansickle family is widening, and it now needs but a spark to bring the different factions into open conflict. Indeed there was trouble yesterday, even at the funeral, which was the largest in the history of the district. After the service a great crowd started to the ruins and descended to the basement.

There, Wesley Vansickle, father of Harry, voiced his doubt as to his son's death being accidental. He was engaged in argument with Sam Misner, a neighbor, distant relative and sympathizer of the other faction. The old man became excited and his arguments came close to being charges. This lasted nearly an hour and was watched and heard by more than a hundred of those who had attended the funeral. It was this that led to the disclosure of the finding of the revolver, which, it was urged, showed at least that Harry had not been attacked. It is said that shots were heard in the house about 11 o'clock Saturday morning, shortly after the fire was discovered. These may be explained as coming from three shotguns. A small 22 calibre revolver belonging to old Phillip was found in the ashes of his room.

The question of motive for foul play still remains far from decided. The statement that a new will had been made by old Phillip at Christmas time loses weight from the fact that J. G. Cochrane of Jerseyville, who drew the one made last May, and also the one made two years before, says that the one drawn in May is the last will. This is further supported by all the sons of the old man, who say that they knew of no other will.

Of course the point is brought out that even without a will the fire destroyed two of the natural heirs to the old man's property and two likely to share largely in his estate under any will owing to their close attendance upon him in his last years. Mr. Cochrane would say nothing as to the contents of the will.

Maitland Vansickle, son of Philip, was at the funeral yesterday from northern Michigan. He is indignant that Wesley should hint at foul play, and it was he who disclosed the finding of Harry's revolver, which he says shows that Harry at least was not attacked.

Practically nothing has been done to collect evidence of the crime. The suspender buckle found in the back of Harry's body has been lost. The coroner has not yet learned of the finding of Harry's revolver, the few bits of the clothing are not collected and neither coroner, farmer nor Constable Phillips has been on the ground since the fire.

Roosevelt Refuses $10,000.

Washington, Feb. 3.—President Roosevelt, in a letter to the attorneys for the administration, says that under no conditions will he accept a legacy of $10,000 left by the last will of Benj. Hadley, an East Somerville recluse, who died Dec. 16, 1907. The will disposes of property valued at $150,000.

WHY AM I ILL?

HOW TO TELL.

Does every cold affect your back, and cause a feeling of chilliness, followed by disturbance of the kidney action.

Does the use of spirits, tea or beer excite the kidneys? Are you easily worried and annoyed over trifles? Are the feet and hands cold? Circulation bad? Do the feet and legs swell? Is there puffiness under the eyes? Do you have rheumatism, poor eyesight, headaches and backaches? Is there gravel or any unnatural action of the kidneys?

If you have any of the above symptoms your kidneys are either weak or diseased, and these symptoms are warnings of more serious troubles to follow; Bright's Disease, Diabetes or Dropsy.

Whatever you do, whatever you think your disease is, look well to your kidneys at the first sign of anything wrong. Give them just the aid they require in Doan's Kidney Pills, the Great Quaker Kidney Medicine, and see how well and fit you feel after even a few doses.

Mrs. O. Warren, Radisson, Sask., writes: "I was troubled with very severe pains in my back for years. I tried everything I could think of but they did me no good. A friend told me about Doan's Kidney Pills and after taking two boxes, I have not been troubled since."

RUNNING ATHLETICS HOCKEY

PETERBORO TRIMMED COBOURG TEAM HANDILY BY 13 GOALS TO 1 IN AN INTERMEDIATE O. H. A. GAME

Lakeshore Bunch Were Never in the Running and it Was a Good Work-out for the Lindsay Game.

HALF-TIME SCORE WAS 5-0

The Peterborough Intermediates had an easy task in stalling off Cobourg in the Intermediate O. H. A. game played at the Brock Street rink last night, and the homesters won under wraps by 13 goals to 1, leading at the half by 5 goals to nothing. The game was fast and interesting always, and the good crowd of fans present found it entertaining from start to finish, although there never was any doubt of the result. The visitors were outplayed throughout and the score might have been larger had not the Petes grown careless and lost opportunities when in close. The locals had too much speed and combination for the Lakeshore bunch, and although the latter worked hard until the last whistle they were not in the hunt. Several of the junior team were on their line-up and the youngsters did good work at all times, especially Guy, the cover point of the juniors, who played at cover point last night. The ice was in grand condition for fast hockey, and in consequence there was some brilliant individual work and some splendid combination was shown, the greater part of the latter being contributed by the locals, whose forward line broke away nicely together, and handled the puck cleanly and accurately. They generally carried the puck well in before shooting, while Cobourg, on the other hand, shot from well out and as a result the Peterborough defence had somewhat of an easy task in looking after them. The Petes also checked back better and had it on the visitors all the way, although there were spots in which Cobourg played nice hockey. The game was clean, the only penalties that were handed out being for minor offences, and one minute sentences were in vogue. The best of feeling between the two teams was in evidence, and neither bunch showed any inclination to rough it, so that Referee Waghorne's task was a light one.

Harry Morgan was on the Peterborough line-up and furnished the team with what has been needed—a man to do the scoring. He got five of Peterborough's goals last night, and was always on hand when a shot was needed, while he worked in splendidly with the other forwards in combination work, being of immense assistance to the advance guard. All the other forwards played fine hockey, the work of the line leaving nothing to be desired. They had combination and speed, checked well and there was a marked improvement in their shooting. Dusty had several of the feature plays, once in the first half carrying the puck nearly the length of the rink for a score, and repeating the feat a moment after for another score. Rose took passes and shot nicely from the right wing, and did a lot of useful stick handling and rushing, while Parnell was always effective at rover, both on the defence and the attack.

Moore worked to good effect at cover. His rushes always helped and his defence work left no room for criticism. Glover played his usual reliable game, getting away for some pretty rushes, while Deorcher in the nets took care of everything that came his way. The only goal scored on him was netted by Payne, who secured the puck behind Peterborough's nets and skating around in front slammed one past Derocher, before the local goal keeper could get around to meet the shoot.

The whole team played good hockey and they will give Lindsay the hardest kind of a battle here in Friday night, in what promises to be the best game in many moons.

Crossen, the old St. Andrew's player, was Cobourg's best. The husky cover point got away for some telling rushes and checked hard. His wrist shot for some reason was not, however, in evidence last night. Patton, the goal keeper, distinguished himself by some magnificent stops, especially in the first half. Guy, the junior defence man, played an excellent game at point, while Payne shone on the forward. The visitors had little combination and failed to check back with the Petes, which accounts in some measure for the score.

Our old college chum, F. C. Waghorne, made his first appearance in Peterborough for two years as referee, and he gave every satisfaction to both teams. His work was light, as the penalty list was small.

The teams lined up as follows:

	PETERBOROUGH
	Derocher
	Glover
	Moore
	Parnell
Rose	Morgan	Dusty
Skitch	Clarence Pratt	C. Pratt
	Payne
	Crossen
	Guy
	Patton
	COBOURG

The game started off a lively clip with Peterborough pressing from the beginning. Parnell and Morgan got away together, but Patton was in the way and then Parnell was given an opportunity but shot wide. Crossen rushed for Cobourg, but Moore was in the way and relieved nicely. Finally, after five minutes of play, Rose secured the puck at centre, passed to Morgan, who returned when well in and Rose slipped one past Patton.

Peterborough 1, Cobourg 0.

Clarence Pratt tripped Morgan and was chased by "Wag" for one minute. Peterborough kept pressing but threw several chances away. It was not until Morgan got away for a nice run down the side and centred to Parnell, the locals annexed their second goal, after seven minutes had elapsed.

Peterborough 2, Cobourg 0.

Two minutes after the puck came back to Morgan from a scrimmage and the local centre scored on a shot from well out.

Peterborough 3, Cobourg 0.

Skitch tripped Dusty under "Wag's" watchful eye and was banished from the scene of hostilities for one minute. He had just returned when Crossen was sent away for tripping Rose, just when a score seemed certain. Wag got in the way of one of Guy's wrist shots and was knocked off his feet, the game being suspended until he recovered his wind. The play had slowed down considerably at this stage, but after fifteen minutes playing Dusty electrified the crowd by a pretty dash around the Cobourg team for a score unaided.

Peterborough 4, Cobourg 0.

Soon after the Strathcona man got away again and after a twisting jaunt scooped another past Patton in a minute and one-half.

Peterborough 5, Cobourg 0.

Peterborough started scoring again immediately after half time, Morgan counting in two minutes from a pass from Parnell.

Peterborough 6, Cobourg 0.

Clarence Pratt retired for a few minutes for repairs and was accompanied by Morgan. Dusty was fenced for tripping, but Peterborough kept on scoring, Rose doing the trick after some pretty combination, in three minutes.

Peterborough 7, Cobourg 0.

Morgan and his check returned to the ice at this stage, and Parnell and Morgan united in a pretty piece of combination, which resulted in a goal as the result of a pass to Rose.

Peterborough 8, Cobourg 0.

Rose carried the puck up and centred nicely to Morgan, who scored the next goal neatly in one minute.

Peterborough 9, Cobourg 0.

Three minutes afterwards he repeated the feat on a pass from Parnell, and the score was Peterborough 10, Cobourg 0.

Cobourg averted a white wash in the next two minutes, Payne bringing the puck from behind the Peterborough nets for a goal.

Peterborough 10, Cobourg 1.

Parnell was penalized for tripping and Payne got a minute for the same offence. The feature of the next few minutes was a rush to centre by goal keeper Patton, of Cobourg. Moore shortly afterwards slammed one in, in a mixup.

Peterborough 11, Cobourg 1.

Glover got away for a nice rush and passed to Morgan, the latter doing the trick in one and one-half minutes.

Peterborough 12, Cobourg 1.

Dusty ended the scoring by netting Peterborough's last goal on a pretty individual rush just before time was up.

Peterborough 13, Cobourg 1.

The summary follows:

1—Peterborough, Rose, 5 mins.
2—Peterborough, Parnell, 7 mins.
3—Peterborough, Morgan, 2 mins.
4—Peterborough, Dusty, 15 mins.
5—Peterborough, Dusty, 1.30.
Half Time—
6—Peterborough, Morgan, 2 mins.
7—Peterborough, Rose, 3 mins.
8—Peterborough, Rose, 1 min.
9—Peterborough, Morgan, 1 min.
10—Peterborough, Morgan, 3 mins.
11—Cobourg, Payne, 2 mins.
12—Peterborough, Moore, 7 mins.
13—Peterborough, Morgan, 1.30.
14—Peterborough, Dusty, 1 min.

JOHN L. SULLIVAN IS ABOUT TO LAUNCH INTO OCCULTISM AT ALASKA-YUKON EXPOSITION

Examiner Special.

Seattle, Feb. 3.—Having dipped generously into about everything else, John L. Sullivan is about to launch himself into occultism.

The one time champion of all the "champs" is planning a resurrection, or a materialization, or some other psychic stunt and as a result of it, declares he, the pugilistic ghosts of other days will be conjured to do their turn for a little time, as they did it in the days of the greensward and the skin tight glove.

It has been something like a century and a half now since the Boston Boy laid Paddy Ryan low on the banks of the lower Mississippi. To be accurate, it was in 1883 that the one good Irishman was laid away by a better one and the question of the championship brought down out of the air.

It was a whole lot later than that, but almost as long ago, as memory serves, that Jake Kilrain was planted on the same well greased toboggan and between that time and this there has been many another good man sent on his way to the place where all good mittmen go, via the same route.

It is these ghostly shadows of the past that Sullivan would bring back into the theatre of events, that present generations may see what manner of man it was fought when nothing save pistols was barred and the anvil was considered a legitimate weapon of defence.

It is in Seattle that Sullivan plans his revivification of the dead ones. He has arranged with the directorate of the Alaska Yukon Pacific Exposition for a concession on the "Pay Streak," and there he will set up a ring of the old days — not a ring with a velvet carpet on the floor and a lot of sofa pillows stuck round — but a real turf ring, with a rock or two here and there to make it feel homelike, and with the four posts jerked from a farmer's fence, with the nails left in them. "There will be none of your cozy corners," says John L., "for either principals or seconds."

And through the ropes will go those pugs of the other day, and some of a later day, who still were fighters, for Kid Lavigne will be among those present and there is none to say he was not a grand little man, who took the gaff and liked it when he came this way.

Charley Mitchell, traditional rival of the Boston lad, is in with Sullivan on the deal, and stranger things could happen than that they two should get together in the late autumn of their careers and settle that long moot question; they came near to a mill only a pair of years ago.

Sullivan has also pulled Jake Kilrain out of the never never land, and Peter Maher, champion of Ireland, it is announced, will repeat that celebrated Mexican experience of his. Joe Choynski, one of the greatest of the old ones, who still lays claim to a punch, will be another and there is many a man, to-day in fistiana who remembers the time Choynski and Jim Corbett went up San Francisco Bay on a barge to have it out.

"I forgot my gloves," said Joe when the barge came to anchor.

"Take these," said Corbett, "and cut the fingers off them," and he pulled from his pocket a pair of driving gloves with beautifully sewed silk welts down the backs of them. An hour later those same welts had made the bank clerk's face look like an unimproved Hamburger steak. It was only the foolish or uninformed who after that said Corbett had the streak in him.

That Corbett will be one of them, may not be said, for bless you man, he is now talking of tearing Jack Johnson's head off and throwing it in his face, and it is not seemly that ghosts should talk like that.

But if Corbett isn't, the rest of the Old Guard will be, an even score of them, and it will be such a show as will touch the hearts of the right ones, and be a lesson to these to-day chaps who settle their differences with cream puffs at twenty paces.

LINDSAY WON THE DISTRICT CUP COMPETITION WITH LOCAL RUNNERS-UP

Lindsay won the District Cup competition played here yesterday with the Peterborough rinks as runners up. Four clubs—Lindsay, Keene, Port Hope and Peterborough — took part in the event, and the games were most interesting. In the first game which commenced at 1.30 p.m., Peterborough was drawn against Keene, while Lindsay was pitted against Port Hope. Peterborough had an easy task in disposing of Keene, while the other game was closer, although Lindsay was up on both rinks. The finals were played in the evening, with Peterborough and Lindsay as the opposing teams, and the games proved very interesting, the play being followed by a big gallery of spectators. Lindsay had little trouble in carrying off the honours, both rinks having large margins. McFadden was twelve up on Matthews, while Welch had six to the good over Hicks.

Following were the scores:—

EXCITING GAME IN CHURCH LEAGUE

Knox Takes Game From the Park Street Baptists.

A very exciting game of hockey was played at the Park street Rink last evening between Knox Church team and the Park street Baptist Church team in the Church League. The game was very clean throughout, as there were only eight penalties. The referee, Mr. Patterson, of St. Andrew's, was very impartial. The half time score was 4-1 in favour of Knox, and the full time score was 7-2. Johnson and Loomis were the best of the Park street Team, and Bartley and Denoon were the star players for Knox. The teams lined up as follows:—

PUTNAM'S PAINLESS CORN EXTRACTOR

BABY SUFFERED TORTURE

Until Cured by Curol

The fact that CUROL is equally good for baby and grown ups makes it at once popular as the mother's friend. Mrs. Jefferies of 5 Defoe St., Toronto, did not know how to rid her baby boy of Eczema. She says:—"My baby boy, three years old, suffered from a bad attack of Eczema. It irritated the little fellow so badly that he could not sleep at night. I took him to the drug store and got some salve made up for him, but this did no good. Two doctors treated him but were unable to relieve. One day a sample of CUROL was left at my house. I anointed baby with this and it did him so much good that I at once bought four boxes at a drug store on Queen St. He made good progress under the CUROL treatment and the little fellow can now sleep well. All itching has gone and he is cured of this irritating Eczema."

"I consider a wonderful salve such as CUROL is a boon to the working class for it is sold at a price well within our reach."

This is what makes CUROL so popular. Healing, Soothing and Antiseptic, it contains the finest and purest healing substances the world can produce. Compare CUROL with any salve advertised at double the price and prove our statement. You can do this without cost by sending for a Free Sample (see coupon). CUROL is sold by all Druggists and Dealers at 25c a box or postpaid from the CUROL SALVE CO., Spadina Ave., Toronto. It touches the spot every time.

'ROUND THE STORES.

It really looks as if eggs were likely to take a drop in price. In another column a city grocer quotes them to-day at 25c per dozen. For a month or two past eggs have been held at a price that has been almost prohibitive to most people.

The ladies are likely to make short work to-morrow morning of the 300 pairs of sample kid gloves to be offered at 49c a pair. The qualities ought to be right according to the names of the French makers. By the way it has been learned that there are not likely to be many more "glove sales," as the dealers here held a caucus lately and decided to cut them out, for they were ruining the glove business.

New spring embroideries had a great innings this morning. For imported goods five cents a yard was a ridiculously low price, but it was a drawing card, and the ladies evidently know a good thing when they see it—judging by the quantities of the insertion that was sold.

Perhaps the most remarkable of all the reductions made by the mid-winter sales in the city is the "two dollar for one" inducement to fur buyers.

Resourceful, wideawake fur merchants know that February must see stocks well cut down. Chances for fur bargains are good just now.

CHAPPED FROM FINGERS TO ELBOWS

Boy's Agony Relieved by Zam-Buk.

If you are suffering from badly-chapped hands you will be able to comprehend a little of the agony which Henry Walker, of 14 Manufacturers street, Montreal, endured before Zam-Buk gave him relief. His mother, telling of the case to a Press representative, said:—

"Henry works with his shirt sleeves rolled up above his elbows, and passing from a warm room to the biting cold, as he was obliged to do, he got the worst case of chapped hands and arms I have ever seen. From his fingers to his elbow was one mass of raw flesh, with bad cracks here and there. Whenever he washed, it brought tears to his eyes, the pain was so acute. He tried several kinds of salves, but nothing relieved him really until he tried Zam-Buk. This balm seemed to take away the burning and smarting almost at once. The cracks began to heal, and a few applications of the balm cured him. His hands and arms are now smooth and soft.

"We have also used Zam-Buk for other emergencies. I sustained a burn on one of my fingers. Zam-Buk took the fire out and healed up the sore. It really seems a wonderful household preparation.

"On one occasion my son Harry had his foot frozen. It was very swollen and discoloured, but Zam-Buk both relieved the swelling and removed the discolouration. Zam-Buk is so handy and so effective that we shall always keep a supply handy."

Miss Hattie Bertrand, of Salisbury, Ont., says:—"Every winter I suffer from chapped hands, but I have found a cure in Zam-Buk. Applied at night, it heals the cracks by morning, and takes away all the soreness."

Similar effects follow its use for eczema, scalp sores, blood-poisoning, ulcers, ring-worm, children's sores, cuts, burns and bruises. It also cures piles. All druggists and stores sell at 50c. a box; or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price.

PENGELLY GETS HIS LIBERTY

Suspended Sentence is, However, Placed Over Him.

Mark Pengelly was given his freedom to-day, but the law still has a hold on him in the form of suspended sentence. His case was sent up from the police court, the charge being that he had stolen six hens from Mrs. Margaret Hurd. It will be remembered that Pengelly took the six poultry as an armful, to Woo, the Chinese restaurant "prop.," and to this day Woo cannot understand how Mark performed the feat without losing one of the birds.

Judge Weller permitted Mark to go free, but under suspended sentence.

Mr. R. E. Wood represented the Crown, and Mr. F. N. Gordon appeared for Pengelly. Restitution of $2.05 was made to Woo.

Mr. Thomson States That it is Second Best in the Province.

Mr S. M Thompson, who was in the city on Wednesday, in the interests of the Children's Aid Society work, was greatly impressed by the splendid Shelter that Peterborough has provided. In his opinion it is the best in the province outside that at London. The situation pleased him and the amptitude of the accommodation was another favourable feature of the building. The number of children, he stated, was largger h e than at other places.

HERE'S A CHANCE FOR LOCAL GIRLS

Mr. F G Morley, Secretary of the Toronto Board of Trade, has received the following letter from Thomas Fitzgerald, 1412 Main avenue, Spokane, Washington, dated Jan. 27th, 1909. "I wish you would give me the address of some matrimonial agency, or send this to to them. I am interested in the best district in Western Canada (in Alberta) and there is in that district several men of different ages, mostly young men, who are in good circumstances, owning from 160 to 640 acres of as good land as is on this continent, and are single, and all need good women, and nowhere in my broad and lengthy travels over this continent do I know of a better class of women than are to be found in Ontario, the birthplace of my mother. This may be a new one to you, but it is a necessary one wishing information on this matter at your earliest convenience."

LOOK WHO'S COMING

Laughter loving Kathryn Osterman comes to the Grand Saturday in the funniest play now on the stage entitled "The Night of the Play." The company comes here after playing both Toronto and Montreal where the Press criticisms were of the most flattering nature. A complete scenic equipment is carried and patrons of the Grand are assured of a real treat, even moreso than that given them last season when Miss Osterman appeared here in "The Girl That Looks Like Me" in which he made a decided hit with the local theatre goers. A special ladies and Children's matinee will be given on Saturday afternoon at 2.30. Judging from the large number of seats sold when the box office opened this morning the company will be greeted with a big house. Great interest having been aroused by the comments of the Press on the elegant costumes worn by Miss Osterman, particularly her $1000 cloth-of-gold directoire gown.

Postman Arrested And Is Committed For Trial On Charge Of Robbing Mail

Charles Mitchell Had Undelivered Letters, Opened, in His Mail Bag—Has Been Under Surveillance Owing to Numerous Complaints.

INSPECTOR SET A TRAP

Charles Mitchell, the letter carrier on route No. 7, of the local free mail delivery system, was committed for trial by Magistrate Dumble this morning on the charge of stealing three dollars from each of two letters, the property of the Postmaster-General.

Mr. F. D. Kerr, representing the prisoner, declined to elect and as a result of Magistrate Dumble's decision Mitchell will be tried at the Spring Assizes.

The evidence as produced this morning was to the effect that complaints were coming in from residents on route No. 7, and Mr. Henry Merrick, Post Office Inspector, for this district, sent out two decoy letters which it is alleged Mitchell opened and from which he abstracted the money that had been placed in them.

Inspector's Evidence

Inspector Merrick was the first witness for the prosecution. He stated that he was the post office inspector for this district. Numerous complaints of missing letters had been received from residents on Mitchell's walk. For some months past letters were disappearing and many enquiries were made by those who posted them. Two decoy letters were put in the mail yesterday morning. Postmaster Rogers was associated with Mr. Merrick in the work of preparing them. The two letters were produced in court. One was addressed to Mrs. Arthur Head, 257 Bethune street. It was post marked from Toronto and had been prepared there and sent to Mr. Merrick's office in Kingston for decoy purposes. The other was addressed to Mr. Robert Martin, 255 Dalhousie street, Peterborough, and bore a Rochester postmark and an American stamp, as if despatched from the American city.

Money in Them

In the letter addressed to Mrs. Head three one dollar bills—Dominion bills—were enclosed. In the other envelope there were three one dollar silver certificates of the United States Government.

Continuing Mr. Merrick testified as follows. "I put the money in each letter. I made a note of the numbers on the bills. Postmaster Rogers also took a memo of them and witnessed the enclosure. The letters were then taken into the post office by the postmaster. I went with the Chief of Police and a constable about 5.30 o'clock yesterday to Mitchell's house. He arrived a little while after. I took him into a private room and charged him with stealing these letters. I related to him the circumstances of their posting. I mentioned the addresses of the letters, but he denied having seen either. I then called in the policeman and asked him to arrest him. In my presence he was searched by Chief Roszel who found on him some money and several letters, not the two decoys. I demanded the production of the post bag. This was found where the prisoner told us. I examined its contents. In it were a number of letters undelivered. Among them I found the two decoy letters, both opened as they are now, and no money in them. I found other envelopes in a similar condition.

Post Master Rogers

Post Master Rogers was sworn and stated that he had been with Mr. Merrick when the money was put in the decoy letters yesterday. "The memo I took," he stated, "agrees with those mentioned by Mr. Merrick in his evidence. I put the letters after they were sealed in the compartment for letters on Mitchell's route. This is route No 7. I saw him get his letters out of that compartment. I went to the houses of the people addressed on the decoy letters. I told Mrs. Head she would probably get a letter and I would call afterwards for it. I asked them not to open them. I remained in Mrs. Martin's house until the postman passed. He called at other houses close by but not at either of those to whom the decoys should have been delivered. I returned to the private office of Chief Roszel where Mr. Merrick was waiting and reported to him that they had not been delivered."

This occurred in the afternoon and shortly afterwards, about four or five o'clock Mr. Merrick, the Chief and Constable Mcharry went to Mitchell's house.

To Mr. Kerr witness stated that he saw the letters first in the post office when Mr. Merrick brought them in already addressed. The money was then put in them.

Mr. Kerr submitted that there was no evidence to show that these were post letters. They were decoys in the purest sense of the term, and they were never mailed and therefore did not become the property of the Post Master-General.

Magistrate Dumble stated that they were in the post office and had been sent out for delivery and certainly were the property of the Post Master-General.

Three or four other letters were obtained in the post bag. They had been opened. Postman Mitchell will be tried at the Spring Assizes.

DETAILS GATHERED FROM PORT HOPE AND COBOURG REGARDING THE PROPOSED ELECTRIC LINE

People Strongly in Favour of the Road to Havelock—Statement Made That Peterborough Line Will be Completed in Six Months

THE COMPANY'S DIRECTORS

The people of Peterborough are doubtless interested in the two proposed electric car lines from Cobourg, the one by way of Port Hope to Havelock, the other around the west end of Rice Lake to Peterborough, and one to Stony Lake. The latter is of more concern locally and a few details that have already been made public should be of interest. Col. H. C. Ward, K.C., of Port Hope, is the applicant for the first mentioned road and the provisional directors are as follows: W. J. Crossen, Car Manufacturer, Cobourg; H. T. Bush, President of Standard Ideal Sanitary Bath Co., Port Hope, (the two largest shippers between Toronto and Montreal); Col. H. A. Ward, ex-M.P., Port Hope; Bernard McAllister, capitalist, Cobourg; Reeve Joseph Knox, builder, Havelock; E. C. S. Huycke, K.C., will assist in legal work and organization.

The above railway company's main line will run from Port Hope to Cobourg and across Northumberland near Centreton and Burnley to Warkworth and on to Campbellford and passing near Healey Falls on to Havelock on the C. P. R., while a ten mile branch line will run from Cobourg to Gore's Landing on Rice Lake. Besides connecting the G. T. R. and C. P. R. this line will open up the rich farming country of Northumberland and it will connect the iron and other mining properties back of Havelock.

The Peterboro Line

The applicant for a charter for the Cobourg, Peterborough and Kawartha Lakes Electric Railway is David Ewing, of Cobourg, and the main line route, as far as the name implies, is from Cobourg via Dewdley to Peterborough and Stony Lake.

Regarding this line the Port Hope Guide of Tuesday contains the following:

On Monday evening a public meeting was held at Rosenath, Alnwick and Mr. David Ewing addressed the meeting in the interests of the Cobourg, Peterborough and Kawartha Lakes Road but no action was taken.

We are informed that the promoters of the Cobourg, Peterborough and Kawartha Lakes Road have stated that their line will be built within six months; yet they are trying to secure two years' franchise for right of way from farmers for the magnificent sum of $1.

The other line has been very strongly endorsed by the Port Hope and Cobourg press, and prominent men in both towns, Havelock Council is strongly in favour of it, as is Hamilton Township and others. In fact, it is receiving splendid support.

HEAT APPARATUS IS ALL RIGHT

Inspector Mowat Refers to the West Ward School Building.

Mr. A. Mowat, Inspector of Public Schools, informed the Examiner to-day, in connection with the statements made at the Board of Education meeting in regard to the hearing of the west school, that on the occasion mentioned the trouble was caused by a current of cold air being allowed to get into the building. The janitor had left the building, thinking that everything was right, but on his return, an hour and one-half after, he found that a current of cold air had entered the building, but the difficulty was soon remedied. There is nothing wrong with the heating apparatus of the school and the trouble is not likely to happen again.

COLD CROW.

Hon. Mr. Matheson, Provincial Treasurer, must have his little bumps against lumps he raised in Opposition—has to handle ,with a pretence of pleasure things he used to scoff at—in a word lunch off a little cold crow. He was always fighting the succession duties established by a Liberal Government. Now he manages to smilingly include big receipts from this source in his budget and count them as contributions to a surplus he never believed in. He had had to take a formal hand in completing negotiations testifying to what a great industry the "Soo" works represent, in spite of the fact that he applauded the statement of his leader that the money guaranteed to put them on their feet "might as well be thrown into the lake." When the session opens Mr. Matheson, will speak with pride of the record contributions of succession duties to the revenue—$1,158,740 for last year. Once he scorned this revenue as money "stolen from the dead." While Mr. Matheson is getting official glory and credit for good financing over the success of the "Soo" industries, and boasting of the big returns from succession duties, he might balance the account by giving a little credit to the Liberal Governments that established the one and saved the other from collapse.

Rigid canons of fairness enjoin us to give even the devil his due.

CIVIL SERVICE REFORM.

The Laurier Government has made a serious and successful business of civil service reform. Appointments to the civil service are now vested in a Commission and all appointments are based on merit, in which political services does not count. The political element is entirely eliminated and fitness for the duties required is the sole consideration, that influences appointments. The Government, in this regard becomes a mere registering body, formally making appointments which the Commission has practically made. When a vacancy occurs in any department, the Government of the day has no power to fill it. The vacancy is reported to the Commission, which after a competitive examination, nominates a candidate and all the Government has to do in the matter is to give effect by formal appointment, to the decree of the Commission which is an absolutely independent body, like the Auditor-General and in no way subject to Government control. A short time ago a vacancy occurred in the Customs Department. This was filled by the Commission with a man whom neither the Commission nor the Minister had ever seen before. And the new official did not take the salary of the man he succeeded, but entered the service at the lowest salary.

The matter came up in Parliament in supply, provoked by a civil service item in the estimates. The facts elicited in the discussion show that the Liberal Government's civil service reform is real reform for which the Government deserves credit. But the attitude of the Conservative party seems to be critically hostile and, instead of aiding the Government in the application of the reformed system in order to make it the most effective, an obstructive spirit is displayed. But this opposition will not stand in the way of eliminating the element of political pull in civil service appointments, and so far as appointment by merit may be effective, placing it upon the soundest and most desirable basis. In this as in all great reforms the Liberal Government shows the way. The Province at Conservative Government of the day, which claims the possession of superior political righteousness, should take the lesson to heart and substitute a similar system of civil service renovation for the spoils system which it introduced and has applied with so much zeal.

The true standard of statesmanship has been defined as a combination of a disposition to preserve and an ability to improve.

INDUSTRIAL PROMOTION.

The annual report of the retiring president of the Brantford Board of Trade in dealing with the local industrial situation, said that last year the amount of wages paid by the manufacturing establishments of Brantford fell off some $600,000 or $2,000 a day compared with the year 1907. This condition, which proportionately curtailed the purchasing power of the people and the profits of merchants and business men, shows the importance of thriving manufacturing establishments, in the civic economy. It also gives emphasis to the necessity of Peterborough making the most enterprising endeavours to enlarge the already important list of our industrial concerns. As remarked already in these columns London, Ontario, is proposing to spend $100,000 in the purchase of property to be placed at the disposal of new industries seeking location. The fact of London having to pay perhaps extravagant prices for such properties, is a lesson to Peterborough to look ahead, and be on the alert. Though this may not be so much needed in the matter of rates, yet it is necessary in other regards. The proposal to appoint a capable man to specially interest himself in the matter of bringing new industries to the city should not be pigeonholed and made the sprit of red-tape. While such a man could busy himself with the actual work of industrial additions, the city fathers have abundant play for larger activities — the provision of sites and of additional motive power at a moderate price. There is room for some large thinking and action.

World-old and world-wide experience shows that the most effective way of doing things is to do them. Talk may be an appetiser but it can never take the place of action, as "a square meal."

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Only seven working days of the session passed, and a Government bill has passed to its third reading. What, inquires the Ottawa Free Press, thus becomes of the Conservative complaints of "delay of business?"

Hon Mr. Fielding, before he set out for home, had an audience with His Majesty in London. The brief cable did not tell us whether the Finance Minister found the King in his parlour counting out his money.

London, Ont., is now fighting over the question of spending $100,000 for lands to turn over to new industries for factory sites. London neglected to acquire such lands when they were cheap, and is now having to pay the penalty of its want of foresight.

It seems like carrying coals to Newcastle to hear Lord Rosebery lecturing an audience of canny Scotchmen on the necessity of cultivating the homely old virtue of thrift, which has made France pre-eminent as a banker nation. It will also make any nation prosperous that follows a popular practice of saving. If everybody worked faithfully, spent prudently what is earned and avaoided foolish expenditure, there would hardly be, barring sickness or misadventure, such a thing as extreme poverty or pauperism.

The Mail and Empire and other newspapers of its political shade, complain of the delay of public business in parliament through the obstructiveness of the Government. This contention is quite unsupported by facts. The truth is that the Government business is advanced as it hardly has been at a similar stage of any precedent session. The address in reply has been disposed of, the estimates brought down and work in supply well advanced, a Government bill has been passed to its third reading and there is or has been no delay for which the Government is responsible.

Hon. Mr. Foster meets the penalty of talking too much and showing an excess of zeal. In Parliament a day or two ago in a vein of virtuous indignation he criticised an item of $2,000 for extra clerical help in the Justice Department. The Minister of Justice easily satisfied Mr. Foster that he himself was responsible for this waste of public money, in compiling a return moved by Mr. Foster, for particulars as to the exercise of the pardoning power. The return was tabled in the House of Commons last Tuesday. It comprises 700 pages and represents nearly a year's work by special clerks. Mr. Foster himself will probably never cut the leaves of the 700-page aggregation of documentary junk which his zeal for political capital caused to be compiled at a cost, or, rather, waste of $2,000.

A society reporter who interviewed all five women in the interest of his papers, reported that all of them had beautiful hair, and that each of the five enthusiastically attributed her luxuriant hair to Parisian Sage. Wm. Madill, corner of George and Hunter streets, sells Parisian Sage for 50 cents a bottle. He guarantees it to cure dandruff in two weeks; to stop falling hair and itching of the scalp. It makes any woman's hair beautiful, soft and luxuriant.

Power Scheme For Brockville.

Brockville, Feb. 4.—Mr. Beach, an Iroquois man who owns an extensive water power there, accompanied by his engineer, J. Gilmour of Toronto, is in town submitting a proposition for the transmission of electric power to Brockville.

If the scheme goes through he will also include the village of Cardinal and the town of Prescott in a similar manner. Mr. Beach interviewed several of the manufacturing concerns and is understood to have received much encouragement.

The idea is to supply power and light to the civic light and power department, as well as to the waterworks station. Mr. Beach would guarantee at least 1,000 horse-power at a reasonable cost, and undertake the construction of his own transmission lines.

A Matrimonial Fraud.

Cleveland, Ohio, Feb. 4.—L. A. Horthy, wanted by the federal authorities upon the charge of operating a fake matrimonial agency, was found upon the streets here yesterday disguised as a Catholic priest. He was taken into custody. He will be held on the charge of using the mails to defraud.

It is alleged by the authorities that Horthy advertised for suitors for an orphan girl with a moderate fortune who desired to marry. He taxed the applying affinities $4 each and over 300 letters were found in his office when it was raided last Monday.

Horthy by a clever ruse escaped when first taken into custody on Monday.

The frauds would have cost the city $50,000 if not detected.

BAIL IS REFUSED.

Men Charged With Swindling G.T.R. Appear In Court.

Toronto, Feb. 4.—Although their counsel offered all kinds of surety, bail was flatly refused the five men arrested Tuesday night charged with defrauding the Grand Trunk Railway, when they appeared in the Police Court yesterday.

T. C. Robinette, K.C., who is defending Conductor Corrigan and Jack Woods, was ready with an offer of $3,000 for the former, but Acting Crown Attorney Bell was insistent that no bail be taken. The five were remanded for a week, and taken to the jail.

It is anticipated that if the charges are proven against the two conductors it will go hard with them. Railway officials are highly indignant over the affair, and particularly so on account of the warning the conductors should have got a year and a half ago, when a wholesale dismissal of conductors was executed by both Grand Trunk and C.P.R.

It is hinted that the loss to the Grand Trunk in this one district through the alleged fraud will run into many thousands of dollars.

Conducor Corrigan, it is said, feels badly cut up, because of his parents and sisters, whom he supports. In the detective office he said he never intended to be dishonest.

The charge read against the prisoners in the Police Court yesterday was: "That they did combine, conspire and agree to defraud the Grand Trunk Railway by allowing certain persons to travel and be carried on part of the said company's line without paying their fares."

The two Woods are cousins, and Joseph is Rosenbes' brother-in-law. Joseph's father is a court interpreter in Montreal, and on this account he had a good opportunity of becoming acquainted with forciginers wishing to travel.

FIRE AT TEMAGAMI.

Beautiful New Station Is Burned—Cost $15,000.

North Bay, Feb. 4.—Fire broke out at 6 o'clock last night in the T. & N.O. Railway station at Temagami, and this handsome structure, completed about one year ago at a cost of $15,000, is in ruins, only the massive stone walls standing.

Details are meagre on account of the wires having been put out of business by the blaze, the operator just having time to briefly report that the building was on fire and make his escape.

Books and records in the office were saved, but the fire spread so rapidly that nothing could be done to check the flames. A woollen building adjoining, occupied as restaurant and baggage room, was saved.

The alumnae of the college have raised $100,000 of this amount after about five years' work.

Gas Overcomes Firemen.

Albany, N.Y., Feb. 4.—New York's $25,000,000 capitol was slightly damaged and a dozen firemen were overcome with gas as a result of a fire which broke out late yesterday in a storeroom in the basement of the building. Although the gas in the building was quickly shut off, the heat melted a four-inch gas pipe and the firemen entering the basement to fight the fire were overcome. All are expected to recover. The damage was slight.

REPORT OF MR. J. COYLE BROWN INSPECTOR OF COUNTY SCHOOLS

Mr. Richard Lees Presents His Report on Schools to the County Council.

During the recent sessions of the County Council two of the most important reports were those presented by the School Inspectors of the County, Messrs. J. Coyle Brown and Richard Lees. They were received and considered and referred to the School Committee. Mr. Lees' report was as follows:

To the Warden and Council of the the County of Peterborough:

Gentlemen,—I beg respectfully to submit my report on the schools of the county for last year.

During the first half of the year I visited the schools in the Western, and during the last half in the Eastern division of the County. In the former, there were employed 48 teachers in the rural schools, and 7 in the Village of Lakefield. In the latter, there were 55 in the rural schools and 12 in Havelock, and Norwood, making a total for the county of 104 rural school teachers and 19 in the villages. Of the former, 2 held first class, 25 second class, 34 third class, 23 district, and 16 temporary certificates or none at all. For the villages, the figures were 3 first, 15 second, and 1 third class.

As in former years, the greatest obstacle to progress has been the shortness of tenure of office on the part of the teachers. At my visits in 1908, I found but 34 out of 104 rural schools in charge of the same teachers that were there at the time of my former visit. In December last, there were only 7 of the rural schools in which there had not been a change since I made my first visit, about three years ago. At the close of last year, there were, in the whole county, only 26 teachers of those I met on my first round. Under such circumstances, it is impossible to carry out any definite plan of advance as the workers are away before it is possible to get them even started along any line of progress. Many trustees are exceedingly indifferent, and seem even more anxious than otherwise for a change when it is entirely uncalled for. Mere whims or prejudices, little personal feelings of spite or jealousy, the saving of a few dollars in salary or a simple desire for change, frequently constitute the only reason for upsetting the work of the school and throwing things into that confusion that inevitably results from a change even under the most favourable circumstances.

I am pleased to say that this is not a universal condition. There are many boards of trustees that are anxious to promote the best interests of their schools, are willing and ready to adopt suggestions from teacher or inspector, and to make personal sacrifices on behalf of the schools. But there are others, who having no interest in the school themselves, except to meet the bare requirements of the law at the least possible expense, cannot conceive that either teachers or inspectors can have any higher motive, and so look upon both as necessary evils. These are the really poor schools. The buildings and surroundings are usually uninviting, the equipment is inadequate, the children catch the infection of the officials and lack enthusiasm, there is no "school spirit," the teacher is often "cheap," and if possessing some ambition, finds a deadness and inertia that are too great to be moved, and soon settles down to the dead level of the surroundings.

My experience in the work so far, has led me to the conclusion that the inspectors' visits are too far apart. It is not possible to get sufficiently into touch with either pupils or teacher to exercise that supervision that would be in the best interests of the schools. I am of opinion that during the first half year which contains more than half the teaching days, a good deal more could be accomplished by making two visits. This would be quite practicable, at any rate in the western division of the county, where there are fewer schools and the ground is more easily covered. I am willing to undertake this extra work for this half year, if an additional allowance is made to cover the added expense. I advise that this plan be adopted for the present half year as an experiment.

The grants for the year were generous. The amount received by the county from the various Legislative Grants were as follows:

General fixed grant of $30 to each of 41 schools in the poor townships ... ...$	1,230 00
Grant on account of salaries.....	5,014 00
Grant on account of certificates...	660 00
Special grant for accommodation and equipment	1,155 00
Special grant for assisted schools.....	1,235 00
Special grant for libraries.	290 16
Grant to continuation schools.....	574 46
Grants to Village schools.....	816 03
Total..... ....$	10,962 62

The county pays the equivalent of the grants to continuation schools and that on account of accommodation and equipment amounting to $1,727.46. This added to the above makes a total of grants to public schools in the county of $12,690.08.

A considerable sum was expended during the year on the erection of new buildings. An addition has been made to No. 8, Smith, (Young's Point,) and two teachers are now employed there. New buildings were erected in Nos. 6 and 8, Chandos, and in No. 3, Belmont. These are all good buildings, modern in design and well built. Additions each containing four rooms have been made to the buildings at Lakefield and Havelock. This makes a total of ten rooms in the former and eight in the latter. In Lakefield there will be, for the present, two rooms unoccupied, but as the cost of four rooms was only slightly more than of two, the board wisely looked to the future, and built the four. In Havelock, the space is practically all needed at present. The increased accommodation was urgently needed there and will prove a great boon to the educational interests of the village. Both places are to be congratulated on their enterprise and energy. I am informed that an excellent building has been erected in the Separate School Section No. 4, Asphodel. Including this the total expenditure in the county on new buildings will be over $17,000 for the year.

The Continuation Schools continue to make progress. There are now three Grade A. Schools, Lakefield having, since September arranged for the principal to give all his time to this work. In the three schools, Ennismore, Havelock and Lakefield, there are more than a hundred students receiving an excellent training in high school work without the expense and inconvenience of going away from home. At the Ennismore School, 8 candidates wrote on the Teachers' Examination last July. Of these five took the stand necessary for entrance to the Normal School, two of them with honours, while the other three obtained the standing necessary for admission to the District Model Schools. The probability is that in the near future, all three schools will require the services of at least two teachers.

More than ordinary difficulty has been experienced by many trustees in securing teachers for the present term. This matter, will adjust itself at midsummer. The students at present attending the Normal School will then be available for positions. There are about 160 at the Peterborough School and trustees where changes are in contemplation, would do well to move early and get into communication with these students before they have made engagements elsewhere. The day seems to have passed when it is possible to secure a "cheaper" teacher by waiting till the last minute.

It was my privilege last June to pay a brief visit to the City of Winnipeg and some parts of the Province of Saskatchewan. Though my time was limited, yet I found it possible to visit a few of the schools in both places. In Saskatchewan the rural schools are mostly small, but the buildings are neat and so far as my observation went, fairly well equipped. The work being done is very similar to that in our own rural schools. The most marked difference I found was in the salaries of the teachers, which are on the average, about double those paid here.

A great deal can be gained by an inspector in having the privilege of observing what is being done by others. I would recommend that your inspectors be given, during the present year, a month's leave of absence for the purpose of observing the work in other inspectorates or outside the province if thought desirable, and that a fair allowance be made to cover the cost of such a visit. I am convinced that it would be money well spent in the interests of education in the county.

I have the honour to be, gentlemen, your most obedient servant,

RICHARD LEES
Public School Insp.

Peterborough, Jan. 26th, 1909.

Mr. Brown's report was as follows:

To the Warden and Members of the Council of the County of Peterborough.

Gentlemen,—I have the honour to present to you the following report for the year 1908:

In the county there are three schools in the incorporated villages of Havelock, Lakefield and Norwood. Of rural schools there are ninety-nine: in Asphodel 7, in Belmont and Methuen 14, in Burleigh and Anstruther 6, in Chandos 8, in Dourb 10, in Dummer 8, in Ennismore 4, in Galway and Cavendish 5, in Harvey 8, in North Monaghan 3, in Otonabee 14 and in Smith 12. During the year an application was made for the formation of another school section in Douro. The arbitrators who dealt with the matter made an award adverse to the application. An appeal was made, and the second Arbitrating Board formed a new section. It is now the subject of litigation. What the result may be I am unable to state. I may be allowed to make the general statement that in the front parts of the country, and in parts of the rear, there are too many sections, more than can support effective schools.

The past year presents some aspects of progress. The school buildings in the villages of Havelock and Lakefield were in each case enlarged by four additional class rooms. These were much needed. The number of pupils exceeded the accommodation. Both of the villages named had considerable continuation classes, and a prospect of these classes being largely increased in the near future. Another room was added to the school building at Young's Point. The number of pupils attending the school in this section was greater than could be properly managed by one teacher. The trustees and ratepayers wisely determined on and carried out the enlargement. A new school house was built in school section No. 3, Belmont, the old building becoming unsafe. The site was also changed so as to bring it nearer the centre of the section. Another new house was built on a changed site in school section No. 8, Chandos. No. 8, Chandos, up to last year was without a school site or building of its own. The school was held in an old unused dwelling. During the year a site was chosen and a school house built.

Many of the schools are fairly well provided with furniture and equipment, library included. The improvement made in these regards during the last two years must be very gratifying to all who have the educational advancement of the country at heart. In the course of a short time little more will be required in most of the schools than to make trifling additions, and keep up the necessary repairs.

Of the 123 teachers employed, there were 5 holders of first class certificates, 42 second class, 41 third class, 18 district, 4 temporary, and at the time of my visits 13 with no certificates at all. Some of these 13 got temporary certificates afterwards. At present the teachers constitute one of the great weaknesses of our educational system. Of the 123 employed in the county last year, only 47 were in possession of permanent certificates; that is there were only 47 who had a thorough theoretic training for the work in which they were engaged. At present it is impossible to get anything like fairly qualified teachers for many of the positions in the county. The scarcity is partially owing to the low salaries paid to teachers in former years. Young men and women were on this account deterred from preparing themselves for teachers. The scarcity is also in some measure due to the change in the professional training of teachers recently introduced. In June next a large number of qualified teachers will issue from the Provincial Normal Schools. This will relieve the situation, and, in all probability, it will not be so acute in the future. Good buildings, good furniture, good equipment are all desirable, but these are of little value without good teachers. It is to be hoped that many trustees will avail themselves of the opportunity of securing such teachers at the approaching end of the Normal School term.

Perhaps the feature of our educational system that demands the greatest attention at present is the attendance. The attendance is not what it should be. Many parents appear indifferent as to whether their children go to school regularly or not. The children are often kept at home for trifling reasons. There is a compulsory law, but the machinery for carrying it out is defective. A parent who neglects to send his child to school regularly may be summoned before a magistrate and punished, but a trustee or a neighbour is adverse to making the necessary complaint. In every section there should be a truant officer, whose duty it should be to find out from the teacher or otherwise the names of the pupils who are not attending school regularly. The officer should warn the parents. If the warning is not sufficient, the legal punishment should follow. The province, the municipality and the section are compelled to pay for the support of the school. Parents should if necessary, be compelled to send their children to take advantage of it. Education costs. In no other way, however, can parents make so much provision for the future welfare of their children at so little outlay.

I am, gentlemen,
Your obedient servant,
J. COYLE BROWN.

"Are You Nervous?"

The results of modern civilization are evidenced in an increase of nervous disorders. It could not be otherwise with the way we eat, drink, lose sleep, and keep up a continual round of excitement. The work, the worry, the excitement, all tell upon the nerves till they cry out in revolt, and will not be pacified till a remedy such as come along with their nerve-strengthening and energizing properties, and restore them to their normal condition.

Mrs. Wm. Levi, Markdale, Ont., writes: "I had for several years been troubled with nervousness, and, like many others, spent lots of money on medicine that did me no good. I was so bad that the least noise would make me jump and my heart would thump so you could hear it plainly and I could not lie on my left side at night. I saw a few testimonials of others and decided to try Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, and to my great joy and surprise they completely cured me and it only took six boxes to do it. I have a neighbor, Mrs. Rickett, and I induced her to try them and they effected a cure. I can endorse their use for anyone afflicted as I was."

Undigested Food

When any portion of food remains in the stomach and refuses to digest, it causes the torments of indigestion. The undigested food rapidly ferments, irritating the sensitive coating of the stomach, while other parts of the body, particularly the head, suffer in consequence.

So long as this undigested food remains in the stomach, the discomfort continues. A few doses of stop all fermentation, sweeten the contents of the stomach and give natural assistance that relieves the stomach of its burden. The use of Beecham's Pills gradually strengthens the stomach nerves and soon restores them to a normal, healthy condition.

Beecham's Pills positively cure all stomach troubles, while their beneficial effects on the liver and kidneys greatly improve the general health.

Beecham's Pills have been used and recommended by the general public for over fifty years.

TEACHERS WERE NOT AT LECTURE

A Gentle Reproof From Member of Board of Education for Not Hearing Discourse on "Volcanoes."

The school teachers of the city were reproved in an indirect manner several nights ago, when the Board of Education was in session. It had been decided that the Y. W. C. A. could use the assembly hall for their closing exercises and the Historical Society were given permission to hold their lectures there. Mr. Dumble and Mr. Hill had stated that they thought both these events were educational in their nature and should be allowed to use the hall. Mr. Dumble, referring to the lecture on "Volcanoes," a week ago, stated that among the audience he had noticed very few teachers. The number was very small, far too small for a city with as many teachers as Peterborough.

Mr Fair laughingly remarked that the Crystal was open that night and the pedagogues may have been there.

The citizens of Peterborough who desire to signally further education and build up the Collegiate Institute are being given the opportunity to provide books for the library that is being put together. There may be some people who would like to help the students by presenting a set of the works of some good author. It is desired that they be complete and in good condition and new if possible. Trash is distinctly refused. Anyone desiring to make an offer should, if they are in doubt as to what steps to take, either see him personally or write him. A card will appear shortly in the daily papers which will serve as a guide.

Question Of Enlarging The Murray Street Baptist Church Is Now Under Consideration

The question of providing greater accommodation for its congregation is now before the officials of the Murray street Baptist church. Practically every church in the city has grown extensively during the last few years and not a few of them have had to be enlarged or a new edifice has had to be constructed. In this respect the Board of the Murray street Baptist church has been recently contemplating making some provision for their increased membership. The feeling has been more evident of late, and for the purpose of considering the question a meeting was held on Monday night when the following committee was drafted to come to some decision in the matter: Messrs. T. F. Matthews, Vincent Eastwood, Dr. Scott, James Montgomery, Thos. Wilson and William Aldridge. Prominent officials of the church refuse to state their opinions of what the outcome may be.

Officer Of Children's Aid Society Spoke At Schools

Mr. S. M. Thomson, of Brantford, engaged in Children's Aid Society work under Mr. J. J. Kelso, was in the city on Wednesday and with Mr. Geo. Cochrane made a partial tour of the city. They visited in the afternoon the Central School and the South Ward School, Mr. Thomson giving a short talk at both institutions. His remarks were chiefly relative to the work the Society is doing in caring for children who are left homeless, or in charge of parents who are not giving them a proper training. He referred as an example to some cases where such young people had grown to maturity and were now married and had good homes of their own.

In the evening Mr. Thomson attended the regular mid-weekly meetings at St. Paul's and at the George street Methodist church where he also spoke briefly about the Society's work. Mr. Thomson's visit was mainly in the interests of wards of the Society, to see that they were receiving the care and attention which is expected from their foster parents. His fifteen years' experience in the work has made him thoroughly conversant with all its aspects and the encouragement given by the public has been a great benefit.

Man With Lost Identity In Hospital Seems Marathon Mad

PASSAIC, N. J., February 4. — Confusing his identity in turn with those of Ulysses, Leonidas and the orginal Marathon runner, a man supposed to be a merchant of Hinton, Va., is a patient in the general hospital, and the subject of much interest among medical men.

His is a clear case of lost identity. It is plain that he has no idea of his real name nor of the place whence he came. He gives as address, Sparta, Greece, and most of the time asserts he is Leonidas. Yet it is evident that all he has learned in the course of a classical education is sadly mixed, for he imagines himself not the hero of Thermopylae, but the strategist of Troy. He insists Leonidas commanded the Greeks who, in the wooden horse, gained entrance to the beleaguered city. At other times he thinks he is fighting Ulysses, then he is Ulysses in combat, the next that he is the fleet-footed youth who carried the news of the great victory of Miltiades from the field of Marathon, and fell dead as he cried Victory."

The stranger is about 30 years old and of athletic build. Again and again he mentions obscure towns known only to scholars. As a rule he has his incidents right, but he attributes them to the wrong men.

A card found in his pocket bears the name and address, "Tyler Jubal Daglen, Hinton, W. Va., which leads the authorities to think he is a business man of that town. He was found near the railroad station by a policeman, surrounded by a crowd that was listening with interest to his description of the first great Marathon.

MR. BENNETT MAKES REFERENCE TO BURNS

Interesting Letter on the Great Scotch Poet Received.

To the Editor of the Examiner,—

Dear Sir,—I desire to thank you for your able and very beautifully written article on the Scottish Poet Burns, on the occasion of his one hundred and fiftieth anniversary, in the daily Examiner—issue of January 25th.

The 25th of January, as everybody knows, is Burns' day. Burns' day is a world wide institution held right round the world wherever members of the Scottish race are to be found.

It is a time for enthusiasm over one who has shed undying glory on the Scottish race and on common people generally, for Burns, be it ever told, belonged, to the humble and poor. He was never anything but poor all his life, and in spite of the glory into which he emerged, he remained on familiar and kindly terms with the humble and obscure.

It is well that our interest and enthusiasm should be excited on behalf of one who has so splendidly spoken for the great inarticulate mass of our fellow men.

Here let me tell the story which is supposed to have suggested to Burns his "Tam O'Shanter and the Deil."

One day a bullock strayed into the church yard and the church door being open, went into the sacred edifice. Once in it got entangled in the seats and could not get out again. A woman passing heard the animal bellowing, looked in at a window, saw the shaggy head and fearsome horns, and rushed off, crying that the Deil was in the kirk. Hence "There sat auld Nick in shape o' beast." When the animal was being taken out one of its horns was knocked off.

"The wind blew as 'twad blawwn its last,
The rattling show'rs rose on the blast,
The speedy gleams the darkness swallow'd,
Loud deep and lang the thunder bellow'd.
That night a child might understand,
The Deil had busines on his hand."

J. M BENNETT,
Canadian Cordage Co.

THRONGED WITH HER ADMIRERS

The Toronto Globe in a recent issue says: "Fashionable Toronto turned out in goodly numbers to welcome Miss Hope Morgan on the occasion of her first appearance since her return from England, when the capacity of the Conservatory Music Hall was taxed to the utmost. Miss Morgan has won many triumphs abroad, when the largest halls in England and Europe have been crowded with her admirers, but it is doubtful if any of her audiences were more spontaneously appreciative than were those who gathered to welcome her in the lyric dramatic hymnal presented.

QUEEN VICTORIA'S HAIR.

Its Great Profusion Was Always a Cause of Wonder.

Even at the age of 80 years, Queen Victoria's hair was a marvel of luxuriance. The court physician following Prof. Unna's discovery undoubtedly treated her Majesty's scalp with a germ destroying preparation that was not made public. It is now known however, that the remedy for dandruff, the germ destroying element, is embodied in Newbro Herpicide, the only hair preparation on the market that does destroy the dandruff germ. Without dandruff, Hair will grow profusely, and falling hair will be stopped. Destroy the cause, you remove the effect." Sold by leading druggists. K.O.C. AT HOME TO THEIR FRIENDS

Enjoyable Evening Was Spent Last Night with Knights of Columbus.

The Knights of Columbus gave a very enjoyable "at home" last night in the Foresters' Hall, Simcoe street. The evening was delightfully spent and the large number of members and their friends combined for a most pleasant time. The committee, who had charge of the arrangements deserve every credit for the success their efforts entailed.

SOMETHING WRONG IN HASTINGS AFFAIRS?

The "Star" Wants to Know Who Authorized Advertisement for General Public Helper.

The advertisement for a Johannes factotum for the village of Hastings seems to have raised a small storm as the following in the Hastings Star would indicate:

We notice an advertisement in a Peterborough paper, calling for tenders for the Consolidated Offices in the Village of Hastings.

What does this mean? We were under the impression that a man was hired at the last meeting of the council. Has he refused to make good his offer, or did he never make an offer at all that would bind him? Are all the men competent of filling the job gone from Hastings or are they just distasteful to certain members of the council? Who authorized anyone to go to Peterborough for a man? The clerk did not send any advertisement to any paper as is usually done in such cases, and no one was authorized at any meeting of the council to do so. Two members of the council were not consulted and know nothing about it.

How about it?

HASTINGS FAMILY SEEMS UNFORTUNATE

Several of its Members Have Met With Accidents.

Last Wednesday evening Mr. John Coughlan received word that his daughter, Loretta, who is attending the Normal School at Peterborough, had fallen and broken her ankle. It seems that Miss Coughlin fell on the waxed hardwood floor in one of the halls in the school causing the painful accident. She will be laid up for some time. Mr. Coughlan's family have been very unfortunate during the past year. Tim broke his leg playing ball in the summer, and Miss Winnie received a bad sprain while sleigh riding a few weeks ago from which she is not yet recovered. Hastings Star.

CANADA LIFE ANNOUNCEMENT.

An important change made during the past month in the Canada Life office was the promotion of Mr. C. E. Barnett, who has been for some time cashier of the Detroit office, and latterly Inspector of Agencies for that district, to the position of District Agent for Central Ontario District, with headquarters at Peterborough. This opening has occurred through the removal of Mr. S. E. Sills from Peterborough to Toronto. Mr. Barnett received his early training in the Toronto office, and the tribute of his former manager is that he is one of the most progressive young men in the company's employ. He has gained considerable reputation as a producer of business, and his training particularly fits him for his new position, where he will have in his charge an important district, comprising the Counties of Peterborough, Northumberland, Hastings, Lennox and Addington, with the responsibility for several capable representatives of the company, who have been devoting some time to its business, and who will in future, under the new arrangements, pay particular attention to the field which Mr. Barnett has under his management.

The Davis-Thompson Co., Limited, have assumed the Peterborough Agency, and necessary alterations are being made in their office at No. 433 George street, to accommodate the business. A very vigorous campaign is being planned to keep the Canada Life before the insuring public, and the district agent, as well as the local agents, will give the best attention and most courteous consideration to all interested in the Canada Life or wishing to do business with the company.

The purity, flavour and strength of "Salada" Tea make it incomparably the best value on the market. It is infinitely more delicious and decidedly more economical than other teas. 93

WILL SAFEGUARD GREAT RESOURCES

House Passes Resolution Favoring Fisheries Committee.

CROSSING BILL POSTPONED

Mr. Sinclair of Guysboro Moves For Select Standing Committee to Deal With Marine and Fisheries Questions.— Mr. Graham Wants to Confer With Railway Commission Over Crossings Measure.

Ottawa, Feb. 4.—A comprehensive and effective policy of conserving and developing the natural resources was brought a step nearer realization by the unanimous adoption by the House of Commons yesterday afternoon, moved by Mr. Sinclair of Guysboro', calling for the appointment of a select standing committee to deal with the questions relating to marine and fisheries. In the discussion on Mr. Borden's motion the other day the Prime Minister suggested that marine and fisheries should be dealt with apart from other resources, and accepted, on behalf of the Government, the resolution submitted by the member for Guysboro yesterday afternoon.

W. F. Maclean (South York) observed that there were a good many committees now and they had a good deal to do, and he thought the time was opportune to consider if some of the work could not be put on the Senate. He believed the Senate ought to be reorganize to take up such matters as the fisheries, and the conservation of natural resources.

J. B. Crosby (Halifax) endorsed the idea and was followed by A. K. McLean (Lunenburg), who stated that such questions as the modus vivendi giving United States fishermen privileges in Canadian waters, the coasting trade privileges granted to Norwegian vessels and the decline of the shipping industry might properly be referred to the new committee.

Mr. Brodeur announced that the Government accepted with pleasure the suggestion contained in the resolution and it was adopted by the House.

Though the House of Commons accepted unanimously the Lancaster level crossing bill when it was brought up on Monday last, the member for Lincoln encountered an unexpected difficulty yesterday afternoon when the third reading, which was expected to be a mere formality, was delayed at the request of Hon. Mr. Graham, who said he desired to get the opinion of the chairman of the Railway Commission, who was at present in Winnipeg.

Mr. Lancaster made a strong plea. If it was delayed in getting to the Senate and then sent back for amendment it might not be reached again by the Commons, as was the case last year. The bill represented the combined intelligence of this House for three sessions, and surely the chairman, who is an administrator, had nothing to do with making the law. This was the business of Parliament.

Mr. Graham said his object was to get rid of dangerous crossings. He thought the man who had to administer the law could give some practical hints as to the way it should be drawn.

R. L. Borden observed that the Minister had a year to get the opinion of the chairman and it was late to ask for postponement. Any modifications could be presented to the Senate.

Dr. Edwards (Frontenac) declared that in view of the activity of the G.T.R. in the recent election there must be another reason why the Minister asked delay. Haughton Lennox also protested against delay.

Mr. Graham said it was not a question of putting the jurisdiction of the commission against that of Parliament, but he had asked the chairman to put his views in the form of a bill.

Mr. Lancaster said if something was not done to protect level crossings, trains would be derailed. The people would not stand for this nonsense.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier handled Mr. Lancaster diplomatically. What has occurred recently at level crossings was appalling, but would it not be better for Mr. Lancaster to follow the course suggested? The legislation proposed had been passed by the House twice, but had failed in the Senate because of its drastic character. There would be no delay by waiting till the chairman had given his opinion, as the Senate would not meet till the 25th, and the bill would remain the first order. And Mr. Lancaster accepted Sir Wilfrid's undertaking.

W. B. Northrup introduced a bill to empower the Railway Commission to compel a railway company which absorbs another to carry out its contracts with municipalities.

In the question hour Mr. Lancaster ascertained from Mr. Graham that the number of men employed on the Welland Canal was swelled to 416 in September and 611 in October. The men were taken out on the recommendation of the engineer in charge of the work.

Mr. Jamieson (Digby) enquired if it was the intention of the Government to spend the money voted last session for wharves in his constituency. Digby has since gone Conservative. Mr. Pugsley answered that it is not the intention to proceed with the wharves.

Mr. Graham informed Mr. Lennox that negotiations are in progress with the Vancouver Drydock and Shipbuilding Co. for the construction of a dry dock under the act of last session.

Dr. Sproule directed Mr. Graham's attention to the alleged fact that in a recent railway wreck on the Pennsylvania road where both engines and wooden cars were crushed into a mass of ruins, a steel Pullman car immediately behind the engine escaped without a scratch. What did the Minister propose to do towards introducing steel cars on the I.C.R.?

Mr. Graham pointed out that the cost of changing from wooden to steel cars would preclude the reform for some years to come.

"I can truthfully say that I believe that, but for the use of your Emulsion I would long since have been in my grave. I was past work—could not walk up-hill without coughing very hard."

THIS, and much more was written by Mr. G. W. Howerton, Clark's Gap, W. Va. We would like to send you a full copy of his letter, or you might write him direct. His case was really marvelous, but is only one of the many proofs that

VANSICKLE FIRE AN ACCIDE

Jury in Vansickle Case Finds No Trace of Foul Play.

MANY STILL DISSATISFIED

Neighbors and Some Jurors Feel That There Is Something Bearing on the Case Which Was Not Brought Out at Inquest—Ill-Feeling Between Martin and Harry Vansickle, Says George W. Meisner.

Jerseyville, Feb. 4.—"We find that the fire which destroyed the residence of Philip Vansickle was purely accidental, and that Philip Vansickle, Martin, his son, Melita, his daughter, and Harry, his son-in-law, came to their deaths by suffocation, and that there is no suspicion of foul play."

This was the verdict of Coroner Farmer's jury, which yesterday closed the inquest into the fourfold tragedy at Saturday morning last.

Despite this verdict, there still remains a doubt in the minds of jurors and of the neighborhood. The whole inquest seems, in the minds of many of the jurors and of the inhabitants to have been held more for the purpose of dispelling the particular suspicion so broadly hinted at by old Wesley Vansickle, father of Henry, than for real discovery.

Every witness was questioned as to whether there was any ill-feeling among those living in the house, or between any of them and the close relatives living near by. None knew of any save one, George W. Meisner, who said that Harry had complained of Martin, who worked the farm with him on an equal basis of remuneration, saying that it was not fair that he should do three-quarters of the work and Martin be equally rewarded.

Albert Vansickle, uncle of Martin and Seth, spoke of the much discussed will of Peter, of which he was a witness. This was the will made in the winter of 1908. He believed there was no dissatisfaction with the will.

Policeman Saves a Life.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Feb. 4.—Alexander Ray of this city had a narrow escape from suffocation by gas fumes on Tuesday night.

Ray is caretaker for Mr. Rowland, and police had been instructed to keep a watch on the house. Officer Dart on his round was trying the doors and looking through the window saw Ray leaning over a stove, which had the lid off. Dart broke into the house and found the man unconscious from the combined effects of whisky and gas fumes.

Pointed Gun a Firemen.

Toronto, Feb. 4—Crazed with liquor, Samuel Moore threw a lighted lamp at his wife at 9.30 last night, setting fire to his house, 57 Allan avenue, and when the Bolton avenue firemen arrived Moore tried to drive them off with a cylinderless revolver.

He was arrested by P. C. Sockett and locked up in No. 8 police station. The blaze did but trifling damage to the house.

TO LESSEN COST OF LITIGATION

Hon. J. J. Foy Says Reforms Must Be Instituted.

LAWYERS ENTER PROTEST

Deputation That Goes to Local Cabinet to Advise Against Alteration of Procedure is Told That Cost Must Be Decreased and Delays Lessened — One Delegate Agrees With the Attorney-General.

Toronto, Feb. 4.—"There are undoubtedly some evils to be remedied," said Hon. J. J. Foy, the Attorney-General, replying to the large deputation of legal men who waited upon the Government yesterday afternoon in reference to the proposed measure of law reform. "There is something faulty in the matter of appeals. We expect to place a bill before the House and some little time will be allowed for its consideration, both in the House and throughout the country. We are anxious to secure the views, not only of the judges and lawyers, but of the laymen—the litigants—as well. Their views will be well considered and digested.

"The measure will aim at curing some of the evils that we believe exist. The cost of litigation should be lessened; delays—many of them unnecessary and vexatious—should be made less frequent and less possible, and the public generally should have greater satisfaction with the final judgment given.

"I do not think a commission is necessary to deal with this matter. There are voluntary and self-constituted commissions sitting upon it all the time. We shall be glad to consider all suggestions, but, in my opinion, the time is ripe for the measure, and it will be duly introduced."

"This is not a hysterical or periodical change process," added Sir James Whitney. "There has been a growing conviction in favor of the one appeal, and around that idea have clustered subordinate views."

The suggestions submitted by the deputation were diverse and discursive. Their general trend was toward conservatism touching legal procedure. A commission of judges was recommended to consider the whole question before it was tackled by the Legislature. The deputation declared themselves unanimous as to the retention of the present Court of Appeal, the right of higher appeal and the establishment of a permanent divisional court. One speaker declared the law reform movement to be largely the result of newspaper agitation based upon appeals taken from jury verdicts in negligence cases, and urged the abolition of juries in damage suits of this character. The "block" system for the payment of lawyers by their clients was also advocated, another speaker declaring it was "infra dig for lawyers to itemize every fifty cents in their accounts."

Mr. D. B. Maclennan, K.C., of Cornwall, who spoke at the Premier's suggestion, rounded upon his legal brethren with a pronounced advocacy of "nil the Attorney-General has outlined." "There are now sixteen proceedings to an act, while six is all we require," he said. "We should cut out the other ten."

Storm Ties Up Manitoba.

Winnipeg, Feb. 4.—The first through train since Saturday to arrive over the main line from Edmonton will reach the city to-day. Since Saturday a local has been running daily from Humboldt to Winnipeg. The track will be in first-class condition to-day.

WAS IN BED FOR THREE MONTHS.

PEOPLE SAID SHE HAD CONSUMPTION.

Read how Mrs. T. G. Buck, Bracebridge, Ont., was cured (and also her little boy) by the use of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup.

She writes: "I thought I would write and let you know the benefit I have received through the use of your Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. A few years ago I was so badly troubled with my lungs people said I had Consumption and that I would not live through the Fall. I had two doctors attending me and they were very much alarmed about me. I was in bed three months and when I got up I could not walk, so had to go on my hands and knees for three weeks, and my limbs seemed of no use to me. I gave up all hopes of ever getting better when I happened to see in B.B.B. Almanac that Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup was good for weak lungs. I thought I would try a bottle and by the time I had used it I was a lot better, so got more and it made a complete cure. My little boy was also troubled with weak lungs and it cured him. I keep it in the house all the time and would not be without it for anything."

Price 25 cents at all dealers. Beware of imitations of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. Ask for it and insist on getting the original. Put up in a yellow wrapper and three pine trees the trade mark.

Miss Slater's Husband Put Up a Hard Fight.

Montreal, Feb. 4.—Miss Mabel A. Slater, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Slater of Montreal, was married to Charles W. Moffitt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. H. Moffit of New York, in the Catholic Church in Plattsburg, N.Y.

The groom is Protestant and unable to secure a dispensation for the marriage in Canada, Mr. Moffitt being a Protestant, the wedding party journeyed by special train to Plattsburg, returning afterwards to Montreal, where a dinner reception and dance for 300 guests were held at the Windsor.

The young people met while en route to the Mediterranean, but their parents decided that both should return to school. Mr. Moffitt, however, was not to be frustrated in this way and proposed to his father that he be permitted to work up in his office. This was agreed to, and the young man after applying himself assiduously, displayed such business aptitude that promotion rapidly followed.

Mr. Slater is the wealthy shoe manufacturer, and the elder Mr. Moffit is a real estate operator of New York City.

School Panic at Buffalo.

Buffalo, N.Y., Feb. 4.—Fearful that an earthquake was about to occur 600 Italian children at Our Lady of Mount Carmel school were thrown into a state of great excitement at 10 o'clock yesterday, but through the strict observance of the fire drill no one was injured. The skies darkened with the fall of snow, a little girl shrieked, and a panic almost resulted.

The report was circulated that the school was on fire, and hundreds of frantic fathers and mothers rushed to the school to get their little ones.

RUNNING ATHLETICS HOCKEY

TO-NIGHT'S CITY LEAGUE FINAL WILL BE COMMENCED AT 8 O'CLOCK SHARP BOTH TEAMS HAVE STRONG SEVENS

The final chapter in theCity Hockey League race will be revealed to-night when the Strathconas and Lakefield cross sticks at 8 o'clock sharp in the decisive battle. Neither team has lost a game and the championship of the League depends upon the result. What is more the fate of the Stratton Trophy hinges upon the game as if the Straths win the contest the Trophy becomes their property as it will be the third time in succession for the High Commissioners. In that case the League will be without a Trophy next year.

Many people however think that the Straths are due for a trimming and that Leo Quinn's speedy bunch will about turn the trick Both teams are at their best on hard ice and the going to-night should suit everyone, as a splendid sheet o' ice is available.

Both teams will have the same line ups as wore their colours last week and it should be a battle royal with fast clean hockey from start to finish.

Many local people are pulling for Lakefield to win as their determination in sending a team down year after year on cup hunting expeditions has won the admiration of the fans, and the Cementville team will not lack for supporters to-night A big crowd is coming down from Lakefield for the battle and it looks as if the visitors will be the favourites with the audience.

The big game will commence at 8 o'clock sharp, not 9 o'clock as the schedule calls for. The change has been made in the interests of the public and will no doubt be appreciated.

The Straths will be without the services of Charlie Ray, and the teams will line up as follows—

Strathconas		Lakefield
	Goal
Wilson		Crawford
	Point
Smith		Sabatino
	Cover Point
Dusty		Quinn
	Rover
Dobson		Simpson
	Centre
Long		T Sabatino
	Right Wing
Seymour		Morin
	Left Wing
McMillan		Quigley

The Chieftains and George street will play a Junior City League contest before the big game, commencing at 6.45 o'clock, while the Belmont-West End game will bring the League season to a close

ANNUAL MEETING OF PETERBOROUGH CRICKET CLUB WAS ENTHUSIASTIC

Large Attendance of Those Interested—Officers for the Year Elected and Other Business Transacted.

THE HIGHEST AVERAGE.

The annual meeting of the Peterborough Cricket Club was held last evening in the Y.M.C.A. Parlours, when the officers for the coming season were elected and prospects discussed. There was a good attendance and much enthusiasm was displayed, auguring well for the success of the Club. Last year the club had an enjoyable and successful season, and there is every reason to expect that the coming season will be one of the best in the history of the grand old game in Peterborough.

At last night's meeting reports were read and adopted from the various committees, and the financial statement was read, showing a small balance to the credit of the club. The property committee's report showed the material on hand is in good condition.

An interesting feature last night was the presentation of the medal donated by Messrs. F. Clarke & Son for the highest batting average for the season, to Mr. George Marshall, one of the club's best players, who last season, averaged twenty runs per innings.

The following officers were then elected:—

Hon. President — Dr. Burnham.
Hon. Vice-President — Mr. Matthews.
President — Mr. C. Hill.
Vice-President — Mr. Dela Fosse.
Sec.-Treasurer — Mr. C. Poussette.
Patrons and Patronesses — Hon. J. R. Stratton, M.P., and Mrs. Stratton; Mr. A. P. Poussette and Mrs. Poussette; R. R. Hall and Mrs. Hall; Mr. T. F. Matthews and Mrs. Matthews; Mr. M. A. Montizambert and Mrs. Montizambert; Dr. Young and Mrs. Young; and T. E. Bradburn, M.P.P.

Another meeting will be held in about six weeks, when the players will begin to get into shape for the season's fun, and will elect their executive committee and captain.

JIM HARRISON CHALLENGES W. B. SPENCELEY TO NINE-HOUR RACE

To The Sporting Editor

Dear Sir—Kindly allow me space in your valuable paper, regarding Mr. W. B. Spenceley's claim to be the champion walker of Peterborough, which he says he won by right last summer at Brock Street Rink. So he did in a One Hour Walk and he made the remarkably fast time of 6 1-4 miles, which I can name three boys of Peterborough the oldest of them being under 15 years of age who can cover for one hour equal or better than that and he says I refused to take part in the same race. Perfectly right, as I had no ambition to be Peterborough's One Hour Champion. But he did not say that the three men he beat in the match I raced in a relay race, they doing four miles each and myself 12 miles, beating them easy, on the same night.

But if Mr. Spenceley is eager for a race I will concede him the same distance that Mr. Hoagland conceded me, viz 1 mile start in a nine hour walk, at any time or place he likes to name for a good substantial side bet. Thanking you for your space, I remain yours truly,

JIM HARRISON,
Champion Long Distance Walker of Canada.

P. S.—Not Peterborough, but Canada.

LEAGUE HAS APPOINTED BILL ROSE REFEREE FOR TO-NIGHT'S BIG GAME

That both Strathconas and Lakefield are anticipating a hard battle in to-night's City League championship game at Brock street rink is shown by the difficulty that occurred in deciding upon a referee to handle the battle. It has generally been the case that the two teams agreed upon an official but in this case the contesting sevens could come to no agreement and as a result the president of the League Mr. C. G. Graham, had to appoint an arbitrator. The managements of the two clubs were in telephone communication with each other several times yesterday but could not agree upon any one man. Geo. Lynch, Wallie Parnell, Harry Morgan, Ernie Wasson and Walter Miller were suggested but one team or the other objected to all five and there was nothing doing. Bill Stroud and Rollie Glover were nominated but both declined and then the teams informed the League officials that they could not come to an agreement. President Graham this morning appointed Bill Rose of the Peterboroughs. He has been handling the Junior City League games and giving every satisfaction and should be able to look after to-night's big battle all right.

SHRUBB IS IN GOOD SHAPE FOR TO-MORROW'S RACE WITH LONGBOAT

New York, Feb. 3—Tom Longboat except on of the finishing touches, is all ready for his engagement with Alfred Shrubb on Friday, with the latter's training quarters in Montclair are the most favourable.

The little Englishman has entirely recovered from the injury to his toe, and is reeling off 10 and 15 mile workouts at his usual speedy pace. As far as the race itself is concerned, the question between the two men still remains, one of speed vs. endurance. Longboat says, however, that he will beat the Englishman at his own game. He intends to take right on to the Britisher's pace, and hold it from flag fall to finish.

Perhaps not Hayes

Johnny Hayes may not run in the big Marathon scheduled for St. Patrick's night in Madison Square Garden. Johnny claims Dorando and Longboat are under the same management, and that if they compete in a four-cornered race with Shrubb, Longboat, Dorando and himself as entries, Longboat and Dorando will run as a team, one going in just to pace the other. Hayes says this would not be fair to himself and Shrubb.

Dorando says he won't compete against Hayes. The Italian claims he has fully demonstrated his superiority over Johnny Hayes. However, it looks now as if there would be an additional entry in the St. Patrick's night race in Mat Maloney, who may turn "pro."

THE LINE-UP FOR TO-MORROW'S GAME WITH LINDSAY IS CHOSEN TEAM IN GOOD SHAPE FOR BATTLE

The long looked for game between Lindsay and Peterborough will be played at Brock street Rink to-morrow night, and promises to be the most exciting and hardest fought battle seen in Brock street Rink for several seasons. Word comes from Lindsay that the Midgets are in the pink of condition and supremely confident and will come down here to-morrow night with a big bunch of rooters, expecting to trim the Petes on their own ice. Whether they will do so is another matter, and the Peterborough enthusiasts are equally certain that the Midgets will find themselves, to use the classical words of the poet, "up against it."

The Petes have rounded into shape and in their game with Cobourg and their practice last night, showed great form. Charlie Ray will be back in the game, and should be going great guns after his rest, and the team, on paper, looks the strongest of the year. Lindsay will have the same line-up as defeated Peterborough in Lindsay two weeks ago, and they expect to repeat with them.

The reserved seat plan opened at the rink to-day, and judging by the way in which the reserved seats are going there will be a record crowd present. The fans have been looking forward to the contest ever since the game in Lindsay, and will turn out en masse to-morrow night to cheer on the Peterborough team. Excitement reigns supreme in Peterborough over the contest and the same state of affairs prevails in Lindsay. There is so much at stake in the game that nothing else is being discussed in sporting circles in either place, the Longboat - Shrubb contest paling into insignificance before the importance of the battle with Lindsay.

The Scugog Club is running a special train, leaving Lindsay at 7 o'clock, and a big crowd of fans will accompany the visiting seven.

The Petes had a great practice last night, after which the team committee selected the following line-up for to-morrow's game:—

W. S. Hancock, of Toronto, is expected to referee the battle.

BANKERS DROP IN LEAGUE RACE WHILE THE BELMONTS GO UP ONE

The Belmonts greatly strengthened their position in the Ten Pin League race Tuesday by taking three straight games from the Lockworks, while the Bankers improved their standing by capturing two from the Examiner B team. The Bankers had a decidedly off day and were lucky to win the second game, only a seven pin margin being shown at the finish. The newspaper men also appeared like winners in the last game, but unfortunately they went to pieces in the last couple of frames, while the Bankers improved and finished strong.

The Belmonts easily took the series from the Lock Works, though they had a narrow squeak in the first game. After that, however, Waram's great bowling spoiled any chance the Belmont's opponents had of winning. Bill's second game was one of the best rolled in the league since the season opened and his total for the three games is only eleven pins behind the fine record established by George Cairns some weeks ago.

Yesterday afternoon the Midgets and the Iroquois met, while last night the Hams and Belmonts came together. The scores follow:—

HAMS STOPPED THE BELMONTS BY TAKING TWO OUT OF THREE GAMES

The unexpected happened in the Peterborough Bowling League last night, when the Hams stopped the victorious career of the Belmonts with a sudden jar by taking two out of three from Captain Waram's bunch. Bruce Hickey has been signed by the Hams and did good work for them last night, while Gene Hurtubise and Joe Hay were also in good form. Bill Waram fell down in his second game, rolling only 135 and then followed up by piling up the magnificent score of 241 in his last game, which kept his average up. The Iroquois rallied from their losing streak and rolled like champions, taking two out of three from the Midgets, although in both games the losing team had the greater pinnage.

The scores were as follows:—

IROQUOIS—
Anderson	187	155	153—	495
Stroud	157	189	159—	505
Martin	133	151	122—	406

Over the Foul Line,

The Hams desire to hereby publicly express thanks to their many friends for the presentation of the handsome silver cup which they were made the recipients of this morning in recognition of their achievement last night, when they took two games from the Belmonts The presentation was made by Herb. Martin and the cup is now on view at the P. B. C.

Cyril Giroux established a new record for five pins at the P.B.C. yesterday, piling up the remarkable score of 210. The former record was held by Mr. Adams, whose mark of 197 has stood the test for several months.

A party of fifteen will accompany the local bowlers to Toronto on Saturday night, when they go up to play the two Queen City teams on the Toronto Bowling Club alleys.

WHITBY DEFEATED PORT HOPE SEVEN

Fast Game in Former Town Last Night.

Whitby, Feb. 3.—Whitby Rink was positively crowded as never before to-night to witness the Port Hope vs. Whitby game. As an exhibition of clean, swift hockey, the game has never been surpassed here. Whitby won because on their own ice they are invincible. The visiting team were splendid fellows, and played a beautiful game. At half time the score was 6 to 4 in Whitby's favour, and at the close 10 to 8 in favour of the home team. The Whitby team never played better and the game was brilliant and terrifically fast. Referee Hancock had to penalize at times, but kept the play strictly to rule. He gave the best satisfaction of any referee here this season. Two hundred Port Hope supporters, with two bands, came by special train.

The Lindsay Midgets on Friday evening next will meet the Peterborough fast seven in Peterborough for the district championship and for the large crowds which will follow the team, the managers have arranged with the Grand Trunk Railway to pull out a special from the local depot, leaving at 7 p.m. sharp, fare $1.00 return. The special will again leave Peterborough after the game at 11 o'clock sharp. A large crowd should be in attendance at the game to assist the blue and white socks of the old Lindsay burg to put the finishing touches on the blue and white of Peterborough.

The game above all doubts will be fast and exciting and will be clean hockey if the Midgets know what they are doing.

If the Peterborough seven play hockey, and not shinny, the locals will give them a chase even on their own ice.

The Midgets have had successful practices, and all that is needed now, is a sure "com" which counts in clean play.

The team will be composed of the old line-up: Goal, Newton; point, Koyl; cover-point, Sullivan; centre, Taylor; rover, Stoddard; left wing, Cole; right wing, Randall.—Lindsay Free Press.

BOBCAYGEON MAN HURT IN A RACE

D. D. Cain, general merchant, of Bobcaygeon, was injured at the horse races held on Pigeon Lake on Tuesday, by being thrown from his position behind his racer. His head struck the ice with considerable violence, and he was unconscious for some time.

The accident was due to a collision with Walter G., while the horses were scoring for the free-for-all. Cain's horse "Why Not, has a reputation as a bad acter, and was giving a little performance in the stretch when Walter G. came alongside with Charlie O'Neil up. A collision followed up and both drivers were hurled from their seats. Cain's sulky was upset and he landed heavily. Assistance was speedily rendered when it was found he was unconscious. He recovered shortly after and no serious results are anticipated. Charlie O'Neil was bruised a little, but drove the remainder of the race.

THE BUSINESS BOYS HAD SLEIGH DRIVE

The sleigh ride under the auspices of the Business Boys' Class of the Y. M. C. A. last night was a very enjoyable event, and the boys thoroughly appreciated the outing. They drove around town for several hours, and then returned to the Association building where they sat down to supper.

After the needs of the inner man had been carefully attended to, the evening was most pleasantly spent in speech-making and story telling.

Mr. Wasse favored the boys with a number of comic recitations, which were greatly appreciated. Several of the boys gave stump speeches. Mr. George Hogan favoured the boys with a stump speech. Mr. Hogan said the boys must have known his sentiments when they asked him to speak on this subject.

Mr. Evans gave a very thrilling story of camp life. Dr. Middleton was overflowing with wit and humour.

The party broke up after singing the Association hymn, Blest be the tie that Binds, and God Save the King.

KEENE'S ACCOUNT OF NORWOOD GAME

Keene, Feb. 2.—Keene hockey boys played their return game with Norwood, in Norwood, last Saturday evening, resulting in a victory for Norwood by 10—5.

Norwood boys were out to win by fair means or foul, and not being able to do it fairly they chose the latter way.

Keene fought hard against the odds, but were unable to hold out, as they are "hockey players," and not "club swingers." The conduct of the spectators was disgusting, using a mild term, it being more like what you would expect at a bull fight or in the prize ring.

The Keene boys entered a protest and by the kind of hockey and conduct that was dished up to them should have no difficulty in maintaining their standing in the league.

Somehow all slugging and slashing escaped the eagle eye of the referee, but this can hardly be wondered at as it was next to impossible to distinguish the players in the hazy light, only at such times as the moon came from behind a cloud and threw her silvery rays on the scene.

Keene's line-up was as follows:
Goal—T. M. Dean.
Point—J. Dickson.
Cover point—"Haddie Dinsdale."
Centre—R. Weir.
Rover—"Kinger" McCarthy.
Forwards—S. Dinsdale and Leo Walsh.

'ROUND THE STORES.

Housekeepers will hail with delight the announcement made by one of our leading grocers of a large purchase of granulated sugar at a price which ensures his patrons against any increase for some time to come.

Fifteen tons of new spring wall papers across a big shipment for one local firm to receive at one time for the spring trade. This represents 50,000 rolls and is the contents of a full car load, Messrs. A. H. Stratton & Company are the consignees.

What is likely to prove a very attractive shopping event for the ladies is the Blue Ribbon Whitewear event, which opened this morning. No finer fabrics or lingerie has been shown this season, and the variety fills the tables and counters to overflowing. Dainty undergarments, linens, domestics, laces, embroideries, are all in the white sale.

The mid-winter shoe sales advertised are being well patronized. The marked down prices are attracting all classes. Like sensible merchants, the dealers do not hesitate to cut deep on felt goods and all winter lines. Our advertising columns will furnish a safe guide to buyers.

ANOTHER FAST SCHOOL GAME

Best Yet in Collegiate Series—Conroy's Team Lose Again.

In a fast game last night Anderson's team defeated Conroy's 4—1 was the best game played in the league and was in doubt until the finish. Anderson's team had a little better of the play, having good combination, while Conroy's team depended solely upon individual effort.

Conroy was the mainstay of his team and Halpany and Dennison starred for the winners.

The goals were scored by Halpany 2; Dean 1; and Dennison 1. Just as the whistle blew Dennison scored again but it was not counted. For the losers Clegg scored one and Corkery one.

The teams lined up as follows:

	Anderson
	Armstrong
	Dennison
	Halpany
Rankin	Dean	Brooks
Clegg	Hamstone	Corkery
	Conroy
	Kerns
	Ackerman
	Hooper

"Punch" Meldrum was referee.

The three teams in the Collegiate League have been reorganized, as previously Anderson's and Conroy's teams were no match for Geales. The teams are now more evenly matched and some hard fought contests are looked for next week. Geale's team plays Anderson's on Monday between 5 and 6 o'clock and Conroy's on Wednesday at the same hour.

FRESH AIR CLUB BEAT ALL SAINTS

One of the best games seen on Knox rink this season was played last night between All Saints' and the Fresh Air Club. The score at half time stood 2—1 against the All Saints' aggregation, and in the last half neither team found the nets. The game never lagged a minute, and the rooters present thoroughly enjoyed it. Both forward lines worked hard and got away with some fine rushes, but the defence men were always there when wanted, and prevented much shooting. Killingbeck, the Fresh Air goal tender, was undoubtedly the star of the game, and turned aside many good shots from the All Saints' forwards. Moore, in the nets for the Saints, also got in the way of some likely looking ones. The teams were:

	ALL SAINTS'
	Moore
	Price
	Allan
	Layfield
Lebar	Gilbert	Armstrong
Barrie	Tisdall	Chambers
	Godfrey
	Hopkins
	Killingbeck
	FRESH AIR CLUB
